respondents and the other similar legal issues are concerned that need not be addressed by us at this stage, for the reason that these questions will be decided first by the revisional authority, if the revisional authority - the State - is approached by the petitioner and the jurisdiction so vested in the State Government cannot be usurped merely on the asking of the petitioner association at this stage. However, we are quite surprised that the advocate commissioner's report, without any rhyme or reason, has described besides open landscape area (facing Sun tower) sanctioned to be built for Saya Gold (Type-C and E) and according to the revised layout plan dated 31.07.2013, that area is indicated to be a 'park' area (dotted box) now towards the rear side. We are unable to to find any specified piece of land in block Type-C to have been described as park area and shown in the map of 31.07.2013 on the parcel of land where Saya Gold building is being raised.

132. Even the petitioner could not show us anything while we discussed about the two maps / layout plans one dated 06.01.2005 and the subsequently revised layout plan dated 31.07.2013. The layout plan 2005 though mentions open area and 'car park' places at a number of places in Type-C area, whereas, at one place it refers to green area vis-a-vis open area opposite to each other. There is no mention of any park in the plan 2005 for blocks Type-C and Type-E where Saya Gold is raising construction subsequently to the revised plan dated 31.07.2013. The reference of park area shown by green dots as referred by the advocate commissioner report is thus illusory thinking and not the real one. Therefore, fact finding search made by the advocate commissioner is accepted to the extent that some construction work has been done in respect of block Type-C with surrounded concrete boundary wall. Similarly, both Type-D and Type-C blocks lie opposite to each other with 18 meter wide road in between the Sun tower (Type-D) with iron like fencing, (which too is a type of boundary wall surrounding the block), because it tends to fulfill work of a wall in the sense that it prevents free approach to the land of block Type-D from outside road directly. Rest of the aspects narrated in the commissioner reports being matter of merit of the case and would be subject to our appreciation, therefore, that need not be elaborated in consideration of these reports of the advocate as well as the architect commissioners at this stage. We will take into account meritorial aspect of this case in its contextual reference when appropriate.

133. Subject to the aforesaid observation, the above two commissioner reports one by two the advocates and another by the architect and the objection thereto as preferred by both the sides, are disposed of.

134. Again we revert back to the question of park. The definition of park as entailed under Section 2 (b) of the U.P. Parks, Playgrounds and Open Spaces (Preservation and Regulation) Act, 1975, [U.P. Act No. 55 of 1975], stipulates that it is a piece of land where there are no building or of which not more than one-twentieth part is covered with buildings and the whole or remainder of which is laid out as a garden with trees, plants or flower-beds or as a lawn or as a meadow and the same is maintained as the resort of the public for recreation, air or light. Now in absence of any measurement or specification of park in the layout plan 2005 poses question - whether the area shown as open area / green area in the layout plan dated 06.01.2005 would be a park?

135. We upon statistical analysis of the aforesaid plan 2005 gather come across fact that there exists 18 meter wide road between the two blocks - block D and block C to the southern side of it lies block Type-C and to the northern side lies block Type-D. In Type-C the open area and the areas meant for car parking have been described at specific places in front of block Type C. It starts with the area shown for car parking then green area and adjacent to green area is open area and after this area again area for car parking. The aggregate area mentioned is 1166.643 square meters, opposite to the place is a piece of land described as open area ad-measuring 919.97 square meters. Then two more places for car parking have been shown and in between the two open areas and car parking there is little space shown and marked as open area ad-measuring 266.31 square meters.

136. The petitioner's claim that description of area in block Type C as 'green area' in front of it is park and in support of the claim, specific argument is extended that the green area in the layout plan 06.01.2005 is de-facto park area for all practical purposes. Now the fire N.O.C. obtained for block Type-C has been castigated that as per annexure no.1 to the supplementary rejoinder affidavit (whereby claim of the petitioner is) to the purport that placement of cars over the landscape / green area near Type C on the uncontroverted fire map of 06.01.2005 after fire N.O.C. was obtained showing the area as landscape green area is illegal and the car parking area in the map (06.01.2005) in place of green area cannot be considered in this case to reduce the green area in the plan 2005. The petitioner has not pleaded in its petition any word on point of fire map, it is barred from raising argument in that regard. Further the petitioner claims that word 'park' is used conceptually and contextually in the U.P. Development Act 1973 and the U.P. Park Act, 1975 defining the word 'park'. Learned counsel for the petitioner added that law makers have treated the park and open space in the same yardstick and have disallowed any encroachment and construction over it.

137. In that regard, at the cost of repetition, we may observe that burden to prove the construction on plot Type-C (G+34 floors) to be on the piece of land that was meant and earmarked to be used as 'park' in the undisputed sanctioned layout plan / map dated 06.01.2005 is on the petitioner. The petitioner has relied on the fire layout plan dated 06.01.2005 wherein certain areas earmarked for block Type C (G+13) and E (G+17) marked as landscape green and green area and based on that claim is raised to the point that after revision of the sanctioned map on 31.07.2013 the same has been taken away, does not carry force. The layout plan dated 06.01.2005 (which is inclusive of the fire layout plan dated 06.01.2005) is not conclusive to any area earmarked there, except to indicate fire path of the plot intended to earmark path for fire tender movement. It is indicative of fire path and does not deal with the green area. It does not mention any legend or elaborate marking or measurement of even ground coverage of the plot. The town and country planner of respondent no.1 had personally appeared before this Court and produced its record and explained the facts that upon written recommendations of the fire department, the respondent no.1 sanctioned the fire plan with the said objective. It is no denying fact that the fire layout plan is not part of the pleading as it has been filed by the petitioner through its supplementary rejoinder affidavit to counter affidavit filed by the respondent no.1. Moreover, the reliance of the petitioner on fire layout plan dated 06.01.2005 is in contravention of its own stand taken in the writ petition, where it relied without any protest on the layout plan dated 06.01.2005 and it never challenged its sanctity. The plan dated 06.01.2005 is admitted paper of the petitioner and by way of argument, now the petitioner is craving for inherent defect on strength of the fire map to put in doubt the very authenticity of the admitted layout plan. Fire map is unchallenged in the petition. A fact not pleaded cannot be argued. The petitioner should know that he cannot travel beyond periphery of his pleading in the writ petition.

138. The writ petition does not specify any location or area as "park" which park is, as per petitioner, allegedly being encroached upon but nothing assertive brought on record to establish existence of park - apart from a bald averment in the writ petition. The petitioner has not specified as to how and in what manner, the layout plan sanctioned on 31.07.2013 has reduced or diminished the alleged "park area" when compared to the layout plan dated 06.01.2005. The word park has not been used in the layout plan 2005 and it does not mark any specific portion as park that would come up in the Type-C and Type-E block. The plan dated 06.01.2005 only mentions open area / green area or areas described as landscape green.

139. A park, as commonly understood, is very different from an area described as open area or landscape green. A park is supposed to have predominant spread of grass / shrubs / trees, while open area / landscape green may comprise covered flooring with intermittent greenery as defined under U.P. Parks, Playgrounds and Open Spaces (Preservation and Regulation) Act 1975. As seen in the layout plan dated 06.01.2005, cars are parked almost all over the area claimed to be park by the petitioner. As we have discussed above, an area with a splattering of cars parked everywhere cannot be commonly understood as a park. Merely because some trees or other greenery could be planted / provided over the area would not mean that the open green area as shown in the layout plan dated 06.01.2005 can be treated to be a park.

140. It can be asserted here that all open area can not be considered to be park. Upon statistical analysis of the measurement of the areas shown in the map as green area / open space, we gather that space of green / open space have been increased with every revision of the map. Statistic is apparent as under.

(i) On 06.01.2005, total plot area was 243242.63 square meters (including plot area of pocket i.e. 20036.00 square meters) and total green area / open space on the entire plot was 64599.84 square meters that amounts to 26.56% of the plot area (including green area / open area scattered in four patches in pocket C i.e. 2950.333 square meters amounting to 14.73 % of C pocket area);

(ii) On 31.07.2013, total plot area was 243242.63 square meters (including plot area of pocket i.e. 20036.00 square meters) and total green area / open area on the entire plot was 67493.81 square meters amounting to 27.75% of the plot area (including green area scattered in three patches in pocket 'C' i.e. 3279.56 square meters amounting to 16.37% of 'C' pocket area); and

(iii) On 25.04.2015 revision of plan made only in respect of pocket 'C' and total green area / open area of this pocket 'C' stood increased to 8130.91 square meters amounting to 40.58% of the total 'C' pocket area.

141. Above analysis brings out fact that the total park and open area in the layout plan of 2013 went up about 4500 square meters when compared to the originally sanctioned plan of 06.01.2005. We have also taken note of the revised map in respect of pocket C dated 25.04.2015 and we discover that total green area / green landscape area of Type C building depicted is 8130.91 square meters. Thus, availability of open area / park area has undergone an enhancement with every revision to the layout plan (06.01.2005) in 2013 and 2015, therefore, claim of the petitioner cannot be sustained that the green area shown in pocket C was a park. We have every reason to hold that the petitioner has failed to prove either the existence of park in the layout plan sanctioned on 06.01.2005 (the then block Type-C (G+13) as indicated in the layout plan) or that it has been encroached upon while revising the layout plan in 2013 and raising the present constructions. Consequently, claim of the petitioner on point of existence of park becomes an issue highly contentious and cannot be decided in the writ petition.

142. The Hon'ble Apex Court while considering civil appeal no.3602 of 2017 arising out of SLP (C) 26475-2016 Sun Tower Residents Welfare Association Vs. Ghaziabad Development Authority and others passed order on 03.03.2017 whereby it mandated that:-

"all the issues are kept open. In case the High Court finds it is not possible to determine that it was a park, obviously the question of maintainability of the writ application can be considered".

Since existence of park and the claimed encroachment on it has neither been proved nor is it so inferred, under prevailing facts and circumstances of this case, therefore, the question of maintainability of this writ petition in its present form opens up for consideration.

On maintainability of the writ petition

143. Once it is obvious that contentious claim of existence of park can not be decided, the petitioner need seek other efficacious remedy for vindicating its claim. On point of maintainability, certain aspects of this case need be scrutinized and it would be relevant to record finding also on issue no.5 on point of concealment of material fact as that is relevant for our discussion of point of maintainability of this writ petition.

Issue no.5

144. This issue relates to fact whether there is material concealment in writ petition no.59863 of 2015 and vital facts suppressed on account of which the petition deserves to be dismissed.

145. In that regard, contention of the respondent nos.1, 2 and 3 is to the ambit that the petitioner has suppressed material facts and is adopting contradictory stand before this Court. In that regard, it is apparent that the petitioner initially filed writ petition no.15782 of 2010 on 22.03.2010, this writ petition was part of bunch writ petition, the leading one being writ petition Writ-C No.33826 of 2012 M/s Designarch Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. V.C. Ghaziabad Development Authority and others, it was disposed of by coordinate Bench of this Court on 14.11.2013, revision in the map 2005 was, inter-alia, challenged by the petitioner on various counts. This Court asked the petitioner to file its representation before the Ghaziabad Development Authority (now to be referred as G.D.A.). Consequent thereupon, representation dated 07.09.2014 was moved. But it was kept pending. Hence another writ petition no.53524 of 2014 was filed wherein order was passed on 07.10.2014 directing the G.D.A. to take action within three months. The representation was decided on 17.02.2015, copy whereof is annexure CA-7 to counter affidavit of respondent no.2. It is noteworthy that Laxmi Chand, who has sworn the affidavit on behalf of the petitioner in the present writ petition, was specifically heard by the G.D.A. during the proceeding culminating into passing of the order dated 17.02.2015, but the petitioner claims that the petitioner was not aware of this order.

146. In the representation (07.09.2014), the point of consent to be obtained from the petitioner prior to approval of revised plan 2013 and the issue of F.A.R. was raised inter-alia but the same was rejected vide aforesaid order dated 17.02.2015. However, the respondent no.2 - developer was directed to file deed of declaration at the earliest. While deciding the representation, it was held that " The map for the plot no.10 Vaibhav Khand, comprising of its sub parts 10/1, 10/2 and 10/3 has been sanctioned before 18.03.2010 with approved multi storey buildings and on 30.04.2008, part of the land (10/1) has separately been transferred to Rose Berry and on the same part revised map of 2013 is sanctioned, which is within the basic F.A.R, hence the common area facilities have not been compromised and consent of the R.W.A. is not required".

147. Thus, the competent authority under the U.P. Apartment Act, 2010 passed the said order on 17.02.2015 in a quasi judicial proceeding after giving opportunity of filing their respective claim and hearing all the concerned parties including the petitioner and found that the revision of the layout plan was within the basic F.A.R. admissible on the plot and the consent of the petitioner R.W.A. was not needed. The petitioner as applicant as well as being participant in the said proceeding was fully aware of the order passed by the G.D.A., the copy of the said order was also marked and sent to the petitioner as well, even then the petitioner did not challenge the finding made in the said order dated 17.02.2015 and contrary to that the petitioner actively suppressed the order dated 17.02.2015, while filing the present petition, filed after eight months of the aforesaid order (17.02.2015) on 14th October, 2015 before this Court. We also scanned carefully entire pleadings made by the petitioner in its petition but could not come across a single averment about order dated 17.02.2015 in the present writ petition when, as recorded by us earlier, the deponent of the affidavit in support of the present writ petition was specifically heard by the G.D.A. during the proceedings and would definitely be aware of the same.

148. We are constrained to observe that the said order dated 17.02.2015 was concealed for two long years after filing of this writ petition and another writ petition no.11072 of 2017 (which is connected writ petition with this petition), was filed in which it was claimed, inter-alia, that the order dated 17.02.2015 passed by the G.D.A. be enforced.

149. Moreso, in case the instant writ petition preferred by the petitioner is allowed without setting aside the finding recorded by the G.D.A. in its order dated 17.02.2015, that would be adverse to an order passed by a competent authority which is binding inter-se between the parties in view of fact that the order passed by the G.D.A. dated 17.02.2015 is not under challenge before this Court. A finding, even an order wrongly passed by any authority is binding inter-parties as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Gorie Gouri Naidu (Minor) and another Thandrothu Bodemma and others, (1997) 2 SCC 552 paragraph 4; Shri Narayana Dharmasanghom Trust Vs. Swami Prakasananda and others (1997) 6 SCC 78 paragraph 6; K.A. Abdul Jaleel Vs. T.A. Shahida (2003) 4 SCC 166 paragraph 17; and Mehar Singh Saini, Chairman Haryana Public Service Commission and others, In re (2010) 13 Scc 586 paragraph 131, unless set-aside in appropriate proceedings by a competent authority / court.

150. It is beyond our comprehension as to how the petitioner having failed to challenge the order dated 17.02.2015 passed by the G.D.A., can use this writ petition as an indirect mechanism to set it at naught. Far from being challenged, its very existence was not disclosed by the petitioner in the present writ petition - (59863 of 2015) and there is no whisper regarding this order in the present writ petition. The behaviour of the petitioner is not fair and the petitioner has not approached with clean hands, instead, it has suppressed material facts / order passed by the G.D.A. in the year 2015 and indirectly sought to get over the inconvenient parts of it through the present writ petition while seeking enforcement of the portions favourable to it through another writ petition (writ petition no.11072 of 2017). On the point of maintainability - as held by the order dated 17.02.2015 - the interest of the petitioner association is not affected and on that count, the locus standi to maintain the present writ petition, when interest of the petitioner remains unaffected as categorically held in the order dated 17.02.2015, does not exist.

151. The order dated 17.02.2015 was only brought on record of the present writ petition by the counter affidavit filed by the respondent no.2 as annexure no.CA-7. Now that being so, the petitioner is guilty of 'suppressio veri and sugestio falsi', on that count we are inclined not to entertain the present writ petition. The petitioner has certainly not come with clean hands. One who seeks equity must come with clean hands.

152. Therefore, we can sum up that on ground of suppression of material fact, we decline to exercise our discretion to entertain the writ petition and hold that the writ petition is not maintainable.

153. This relates to fact regarding consent of the petitioner association being obtained by the developers and the G.D.A. as prerequisite prior to the approval of the revised layout plan dated 31.07.2013. In view the above discussion, it is obvious that the point of consent has already been decided by the competent authority i.e. the G.D.A. vide its order dated 17.02.2015, which has not been challenged by the petitioner. Therefore, the point of consent being quasi-judicial order as such binding between the parties carries its force. For the sake of argument, if the order pertaining to consent to be obtained is claimed (by the petitioner) to be erroneous even then the finding holds good for all purposes. As stated above, finding, howsoever, erroneous it may be, is always binding on the parties inter-se unless otherwise set aside by any competent authority or the order of the Court of law, as the case may be. Therefore, on this issue, there is no need of detailed discussion because it may pre-empt and pre-judge things which are yet to be shaped, decided.

154. There are certain compelling reasons for not entering into question of merit or demerit of F.A.R.(1.5) or additional F.A.R. (2.5) and its utilization, besides the point of consent being obtained for revision of the plan dated 06.01.2005 because on plot no.10 Vaibhav Khand Indirapuram Ghaiziabad, the another association of residents known as Windsor and Nova Apartment Association (for block Type A and B) preferred writ petition before this Court numbered 39147 of 2015 Windsor and Nova Apartment Association Vs. Ghaziabad Development Authority whereby the deed of declaration dated 24.03.2015 (prepared by respondent no.2) was asked to be made as per plan dated 30.10.2002 and proper deed of declaration was sought to be prepared as per U.P. Apartment Rules 2011 and the deed of declaration dated 24.03.2015 was desired to be set aside, besides claiming that unless deed of declaration is accepted the building plan dated 31.07.2013 should not be accepted / approved. However, while deciding aforesaid writ petition, direction was issued for moving fresh representation before the G.D.A. and it was directed to test the deed of declaration and its applicability as per the provisions of the U.P. Apartment Act, 2010 and the U.P. Apartment Rules, 2011. The Vice Chairman, Ghaziabad Development Authority vide order dated 24.09.2015 decided the representation and asked the respondent no.2 to file a revised deed of declaration. Now in compliance of the aforesaid order dated 24.09.2015, a revised deed of declaration was filed on 09.10.2015. This revised deed of declaration was challenged in writ petition no.26598 of 2016 by the Windsor and Nova Apartment Association (for block A and B apartments), in the matter of the Windsor and Nova Apartment Association Vs. Ghaziabad Development Authority and two others, this writ petition was dismissed on 30.05.2016 by observing that the petitioner failed to establish as to how the deed of declaration does not satisfy the direction issued by Vice Chairman, G.D.A. vide order dated 24.09.2016, however, liberty was given to the Windsor and Nova to approach the authority concerned whereupon the Windsor and Nova Association moved a representation dated 06.06.2016 before the Vice Chairman, Ghaziabad Development Authority which after considering the matter, rejected the representation vide its order dated 24.09.2015. Against this rejection order, the Windsor and Nova again moved before this Court by filing writ petition no.61615 of 2016 which was disposed of on 03.01.2017 whereby the coordinate division Bench of this Court directed the petitioner to avail alternative remedy and to move application / revision under Section 27(3) before the State of Uttar Pradesh. However, the coordinate division Bench of this Court did not set aside order dated 24.09.2016 passed by the Chairman, Ghaziabad Development Authority. Similarly, no stay order was passed against aforesaid order dated 24.09.2016.

155. In view of above development in the matter of deed of declaration, which originated from the date of the order dated 17.02.2015 touched its peak on 03.01.2017 while the coordinate division Bench of this Court specifically asked the identically and similarly placed apartment association (Windsor and Nova) for block Type A and B on plot no.10 to seek the remedy before the Government of Uttar Pradesh by appropriate application / revision. Now in such peculiar circumstances, obviously the claim of the petitioner association in this petition being identical and similar to that of the Windsor and Nova Apartment Association, in this backdrop, the thrust of the petitioner's case is that the entire plot no.10 is to be taken as a single unit and he has an unaffected right of access to the so-called 'park' area in front of Type C and E building shown in plan dated 06.01.2005. The petitioner association is claiming rights to F.A.R. on that very basis, and claims that the respondents cannot utilize F.A.R. of entire plot no.10 only over Type C and E buildings. This was the exact plea taken by Windsor and Nova Association while challenging the deed of declaration (which matter is now pending before the State Government in a revision as directed by a coordinate Bench of this Court on 03.01.2017), which claimed that the respondent no.2 had illegally bifurcated plot no.10 and wrongly reduced the land area mentioned in their deed of declaration only to cover land of Type A and B apartments and not entire plot no.10, thereby depriving them of their rights. The only difference is that the Windsor and Nova Association looks after affairs of apartment owners of block A and block B, whereas, the petitioner association is concerned with the affairs of block D, however, this difference in the name of block does not separate the very cause based on the deed of declaration which is common cause applicable to both the above associations.

156. In case the matter is entertained by this Court on points of deed of declaration, the requisite consent of the petitioner to be obtained for the layout plan dated 31.07.2013 and utilization of F.A.R. or additional F.A.R. then that would be in the teeth of the order of the coordinate division Bench of this Court which has considered that aspect and passed order in the matter on 03.01.2017 and in the light of that order, the petitioner claims, by way of filing supplementary rejoinder affidavit, that a revision has been filed against the order dated 24.09.2016 (annexure SRA-3) in the year 2017. This averment in the supplementary rejoinder affidavit by the petitioner is direct admission of appropriate course of action adopted in the matter by filing revision against the order of G.D.A. dated 24.09.2016 before the State of Uttar Pradesh by its sister association Windsor and Nova. Because of the aforesaid specific reasons, now it would be adverse to the judicial propriety, norms and interest to discuss the merit of the aforementioned points of controversy raised in this petition regarding the deed of declaration as similar deed of declaration is under adjudication before the State of U.P. in a revision (SRA-3) and any finding by this Court on the deed of declaration as urged by the petitioner would have a direct impact on the pending revision. Similarly the question of F.A.R. / additional F.A.R. and consent of the petitioner society, as settled vide order dated 17.02.2015 is also linked to the issues concerning the correctness of the deed of declaration, therefore, these issues may more appropriately be raised before the State Government by filing a revision.

157. Now it is up to the petitioner to move in revision against the order dated 17.02.2015, insofar as it adversely affects the petitioner, before the State of Uttar Pradesh as that is the appropriate remedy. At this juncture, appropriate to observe that in the connected writ petition no.11072 of 2017, the petitioner has primarily sought implementation of the order dated 17.02.2015, while doing so, it did not question, even in the least, those points / findings of the order dated (17.02.2015) which are adverse to it. The petitioner appears to have no grievance against the finding adverse to it. This, omission, without reserving the right to challenge adverse findings of the order dated 17.02.2015, tantamounts to waiver of the right to challenge that part of the order dated 17.02.2015 which are adverse (to it).

158. The point of consent having been decided by the G.D.A. as above vide its order dated 17.02.2015 (while considering representation of the petitioner dated 07.09.2014), would prevail upon the petitioner and the petitioner now cannot be allowed to undo the outcome of its own efforts (when moved above representation) whereby specific questions / objections have been raised before the competent authority which pronounced its verdict on it which needs to be challenged before the revisional authority i.e. - the State of Uttar Pradesh, if otherwise permissible in law keeping in mind the conduct of the petitioner.

Issue nos. 2 and 4

159. Issue no.2 relates to fact whether additional F.A.R. was utilized towards construction in respect of building on block Type-C as per revised plan dated 31.07.2013 without obtaining consent of the petitioner association under proviso to Sub-section 4 read with Section 12 and Rule 3 and Rule 4 of the U.P. Apartment Rules, 2011 and the allotted 2.5 F.A.R. is in violation of the G.D.A. Building bye-laws 2000 and 2008 and the G.O. dated 17.08.2009 and 04.08.2011? whereas, issue no.4 relates to fact whether undivided interest of the members of the petitioner's association has been violated as envisaged in Section 5 of U.P. Flat Act, 1975 and the F.A.R. (1.5) initially allotted and block - Type-C being treated as an independent area is justified when this aspect was alien to U.P. Flat Act 1975?

160. Much has been argued before us on the point of floor area ratio (F.A.R.) and its applicability in relation to its utilization in respect of construction in block Type-C. However, as discussed in the matter of finding recorded in respect of issue no.3 herein above, the same discussion would be applicable here also in consideration of both the issues, for the same reasons but for fact that the matter of F.A.R. and its utilization for Type-C block has also been considered and decided by the competent authority - G.D.A. - vide its order dated 17.02.2015 against the petitioner that part / adverse finding of the above order remained unchallenged by the petitioner, therefore, the proper remedy for the same is to file application / revision before the State of Uttar Pradesh, if otherwise permissible in law keeping in mind the petitioner's conduct of seeking enforcement of the order dated 17.02.2015 in the writ petition no.11072 of 2017. Now it is up to the petitioner to choose the proper course of action because if any touch is given at this stage to the context of use and applicability of the F.A.R. and its utilization for construction of building in block Type-C that would inalienably tend to pre-judge aspect of applicability and utilization of F.A.R. which now lies in the exclusive domain of the competent authority - that is to say - the State Government which is vested with the power to consider and dispose of revision against order dated 17.02.2015 passed by the G.D.A., if it is found to be legally maintainable.

161. Perusal of the revised plan dated 31.07.2013 apparently connotes to the point that the revised map / plan (dated 31.07.2013) is with regard to a particular parcel of plot no.10 and it is not with regard to the entire plot no.10 and in this case the claim raised regarding the existence of park/central park in block Type-C has not been established by the petitioner, this aspect stares and questions the point of 'locus' to file the writ petition. The point of locus becomes relevant for the reason that the center theme of this petition (59863 of 2015) is, after all, found to be contentious and raises complicated and disputed question which on the face ask simple question whether the writ petition is maintainable which on the face raises disputed and contentious matter which cannot be determined accurately and precisely in exercise of power under writ jurisdiction.

162. Perusal of the pleading made in the writ petition brings it to the fore that the petitioner moved representation dated 19.05.2015 before the Vice Chairman, G.D.A. / competent authority G.D.A., whereby the deed of declaration (dated 24.03.2015) filed by respondent no.2 - Shipra Estate Pvt. Ltd. - for Sun Tower (block Type D) Plot No.10 Vaibhav Khand Indirapuram Ghaziabad, was objected and it (deed of declaration) was stated to be incorrect and not prepared as per the U.P. Apartment Rules 2011. During course of the argument, it was stated by the petitioner that the above representation has not been decided as yet, a copy of the representation is annexure no.5 to the writ petition. However, it can be pointed out that the deed of declaration has not been challenged by the petitioner in this writ petition, and the competent authority has already taken into consideration the deed of declaration dated 24.03.2015 and in the same matter another apartment association (Windsor and Nova for Type A and Type B block) has taken the proceeding to the level of State of Uttar Pradesh while it is claimed that a revision has been filed against order of the competent authority G.D.A. dated 24.09.2016 which order, inter-alia, includes consideration regarding deed of declaration. The petitioner may follow the same course of action, if it so chooses and is otherwise permissible in view of its conduct.

163. In view of the above, writ petition no.59863 of 2015 lacks merit and is dismissed. The interim order dated 14.05.2019 stands discharged.

Re: WRIT PETITION NO.11072 OF 2017

164. In this writ petition, prayer has been made primarily for implementing order passed by the O.S.D. - Ghaziabad - dated 17.02.2015 against respondent no.3 - Shipra Estate Ltd as well as suitable direction to respondent no.1 to ensure completion of the building named 'Sun Towers' either through its own department or engage a reputed developer etc. and direction to respondent no.3 to take necessary steps to complete the two staircases and other deficiencies in fire safety etc. The prayer has also been made for issuing direction for respondent nos.1 and 3 to initiate departmental proceeding against their own officer for awarding completion certificate etc.

165. In respect of aforesaid specific prayer, contention is more or less based on the pleading made in the writ petition and the order dated 17.02.2015 and exterior of the building, staircases, common club, amenities over head tank of C-1 and C-2 building and entrance lobby area of Sun Tower building (Tower-D) being incomplete within full knowledge of the Vice Chairman, Ghaziabad Development Authority and the Chief Fire Officer Ghaziabad, yet no action has been taken in spite of coming to know about the admitted cost of completion rupees one crore seventy lakhs as per letter and list dated 14.08.2016 provided by the respondent no.3. The G.D.A. being co-developer has colluded with private partner in the project developed by respondent no.3, full consideration has been received and sub-lease executed before completing the buildings strictly as per NBC 2005 and GDA sanctioned plan in violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India and public policies like U.P. Apartment and U.P. Fire Prevention and Safety Act, 2005. Due to aforesaid illegal activities of the respondents, the order dated 17.02.2015 remains in moribund state and property of the members of the association is in danger of being damaged permanently.

166. We have also taken note of aforesaid submissions as well.

167. So far as the background of the order dated 17.02.2015 is concerned, comprehensive detail of the same have been given in this judgment (as above), however, only this much can be stated for recap that as per the order of a coordinate division Bench of this Court, the direction was passed on 14.11.2013 which asked the petitioner to move suitable representation regarding various grievances / issues that had been raised by the petitioner (by way of writ petition no.15782 of 2010) pursuant thereto, representation dated 07.09.2014 was moved by the petitioner that was decided by the competent authority G.D.A. on 17.02.2015. Vide this order, the builder was directed to file deed of declaration at the earliest, the deed of declaration was filed on 24.03.2015. Insofar as point of obtaining consent from the petitioner association, as approval for raising construction, and the issue of F.A.R. raised by the petitioner are concerned, the authority (G.D.A.) held that U.P. Apartment Act, 2010 was made applicable since 18.03.2010 and prior to that there was no provision for obtaining consent from the apartment owners as such. The O.S.D. - Ghaziabad Development Authority - order (17.02.2015) also reflects that vide lease deed pertaining to land existing was demarcated as 10/1, 10/2 and 10/3 and lease of the same created on 30.04.2008, in relation to multi storey building and map was sanctioned for it.

168. Now insofar as the order dated 17.02.2015 is concerned, it is admitted to the petitioner, although as held above in relation to finding recorded by us on issue no.5 (above) regarding concealment of material fact, that the two points pertaining to obtaining consent of the petitioner, and the F.A.R. adversely decided against the petitioner have not been detailed in this petition (11072 of 2017), only the portion of the order which was favourable to the petitioner has been desired to be implemented. However, the prayer clause seeks to implement (order dated 17.02.2015) against the respondent as a whole which means the petitioner admits the order dated 17.02.2015 and it has no objection to it, whatsoever. This act directly and indirectly amounts to waiver of right to challenge to those part of the order (dated 17.02.2015) which adversely affect interest of the petitioner. In the absence of integral challenge to the order dated 17.02.2015, on the point of consent, use of F.A.R., the consequent preparation of deed of declaration becomes admitted to it. The petitioner has not made any rider in its prayer clause that the order dated 17.02.2015 is conditionally accepted (upto a particular extent) to them though it specifically seeks completion of incomplete construction in block Type-D.

169. While considering aspect of incomplete construction, we may direct respondent no.3 - Shipra Estate Pvt. Ltd. that insofar as construction claimed to be remaining incomplete in regard to block Type-D is concerned, it is the bounden duty of the respondent no.3 to complete the same and the petitioner association has every right to seek completion of the incomplete project as per terms and conditions of the agreement and the brochure issued by the respondent no.3 for the buildings. However, insofar as controversial point (complete / partial construction) with differing views from both the sides are concerned, we gather from the record vide report of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Ghaziabad, dated 19.09.2020, (the same runs into four sheets) and the order sheet of this Court dated 18.08.2020 that an order was passed on 18.08.2020 in this writ petition whereby direction was given to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad to conduct on the spot inspection after deputing any Magistrate to inspect the building in question being Sun Tower, Shipra Sun City, Indirapuram Ghaziabad, particularly with regard to the pending work as stated in the order dated 17.02.2015 passed by the respondent no.1. Consequently, an exhaustive report has been filed in the matter, in compliance of aforesaid order dated 18.08.2020 passed by this Court, by the aforesaid A.C.J.M. Ghaziabad and a number of shortcomings have been found in the constructions which have been specified in the report itself. In some matter, respondent no.3 raised objection that some items of the list were not conveyed to it in writing and it has got no concern with those items. The report submitted by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad, dated 19.09.2020 is consistent, exhaustive and elaborative on the point and gives fact finding report complete in all respects.

170. Further bare perusal of the report of A.C.J.M. Ghaziabad is reflective of facts that there were differences between respondent no.3 - developer and the petitioner in their rival claim regarding the work done and the work remaining incomplete. However, as per the mandate of the order dated 17.02.2015, a direction was given to the respondent no.3 in regard to the issue no.5 of the representation dated 07.09.2014 (moved by the petitioner) and it was observed that completion certificate has been obtained which is dated 29.01.2010 and the residents welfare association (petitioner) has given a list of 25 items stated to be incomplete, therefore, the mandate of the order dated 17.02.2015 was specific when the builder - respondent no.3 - was directed to complete the incomplete work in accordance with the sanctioned layout plan within a period of three months. It was observed that in this case, the builder has already obtained the completion certificate, therefore, the differences between the petitioner and the builder so based on brochure and term of agreement between the two may be redressed by approaching the competent court of law, if the petitioner association finds that the terms and conditions of agreement have been violated by the respondent no.3.

171. We upon careful perusal of the aforesaid specific order/direction passed (vide order dated 17.02.2015) by the O.S.D. - Ghaziabad Development Authority, discover that the direction issued to respondent no.3 is specific and the respondent no.3 is duty bound to act in compliance of the direction and to complete the incomplete work in Type-D in letter and spirit, however, the direction regarding approaching the competent court of law in case of difference between the petitioner and the builder based on brochure and agreement entered into between the parties, is equally effective and binding on both the sides - that is to say - the petitioner and the respondent no.3. Prior to exhausting above remedy (by approaching competent court of law), it would not be feasible to pre-empt the situation at this stage.

172. Let respondent no.3 ensure completion of incomplete buildings which are admitted to it to be incomplete as per list of 25 items given by the petitioner and insofar as it (respondent no.3) contests claim of the petitioner in respect of any building remaining incomplete then in regard to that, proper course of action shall be followed by the petitioner, as has been directed by the order dated 17.02.2015 passed by O.S.D. Ghaziabad Development Authority.

173. In view of above, we direct the respondent no.3 - Shipra Estate Pvt. Ltd. - to ensure compliance of the order dated 17.02.2015 passed by the O.S.D., Ghaziabad Development Authority for which fresh period of three months is allowed to it. The period of three months will be counted as commencing from 01.01.2022 and shall automatically come to an end three months next after 01.01.2022 as above, that is on 31.03.2022.

174. With these observations, writ petition no.11072 of 2017 is disposed of.

175. No orders as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Santosh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. The present writ petition has been filed by petitioner under Article 226 of the Constitution of India with the following prayers:

"(i) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 11.1.2013 passed by the respondent no.2 (Annexure no.1 to this writ petition) and order dated 5.9.2013 passed by the respondent no.3 (Annexure no.2 to this writ petition).

(ii) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to return / issue the arm licence no.A.B. 13832017 of the petitioner.

(iii) issue a writ order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

(iv) Award the cost to the petitioner."

3. Brief facts of the case as stated in the writ petition are that petitioner was granted an arms licence for rifle bearing no. A-B 13832017 after due enquiry. A criminal case bearing Case No.1189 of 2010, under Sections 452, 323 504, 506 and 427 I.P.C. was lodged against the petitioner by his brother which was pending at that time. The above mentioned rifle was robbed from the petitioner by the elder brother- Munish Chandra Gupta hence F.I.R. was also lodged by petitioner on 21.02.2012, under Section 395, 397 I.P.C. Petitioner was issued show cause notice as to why his licence be not cancelled under Section 17 (3) (b) of the Arms Act, petitioner replied the notice but respondent no.2- District Magistrate, Moradabad cancelled the petitioner's firearm licence by order dated 11.01.2013 in view of pendency of criminal case against the petitioner as well as on the ground that petitioner can misuse his firearm in future.

4. Aggrieved from the order dated 11.01.2013 petitioner filed an appeal under Section 18 of the Arms Act before respondent no.3- Commissioner Moradabad, District- Moradabad, which was registered as Appeal No. 25 of 2012-13 (Umesh Chandra Gupta Vs. State of U.P.), the appeal filed by petitioner was also dismissed by cryptic order dated 05.09.2013 hence this writ petition.

5. During pendency of the writ petition before this Hon'ble Court petitioner was acquitted by judgment dated 04.04.2015 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad in Case Crime No. 1189 of 2010, under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506 & 427 I.P.C., P.S. Civil Lines, District- Moradabad. The copy of the judgment has been annexed as Annexure No. RA-1 to the rejoinder affidavit filed by petitioner on 01.05.2019.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that petitioner was implicated in a false criminal case in which he was acquitted by judgment dated 04.04.2015 and from the judgment, it reveals that firearm of the petitioner has not been used at all. He further submits that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public safety, as such, firearm licence of the petitioner could not be cancelled. He further submits that at the time of cancellation of firearm licence of the petitioner i.e. 11.01.2013, criminal case was pending but during pendency of the writ petition before this Hon'ble Court, petitioner was acquitted in the criminal case. Learned counsel for the petitioner finally submits that ground for issue of show cause notice, suspension and ultimately cancellation of the petitioner's firearm licence is that one and precisely one criminal case which was registered against the petitioner and in view of the provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act, petitioner's firearm licence cannot be cancelled. Learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the five judgments of this Hon'ble Court in which it has been held that firearm licence cannot be cancelled on the ground of mere involvement in criminal case, Honb'le Court has also noticed that the licensee have been subsequently acquitted in the criminal case lodged against him. The reference of above judgements are given hereunder:

(I) 2020 (113) ACC 1 (Suneel Vs. State of U.P. and Others).

(ii) 2020 (113) ACC 571 (Ram Prasad Vs. Commissioner & Others).

(iii) 1972 AIR (Allahabad) 510 (Masiuddin Naimuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad and Others).

(iv) 2002 (44) ALL Cri Cases 783 (Habib Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh).

(v) 1978 AWC 122 (Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. District Magistrate, Basti and Others).

7. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel has supported the impugned orders and submitted that even after acquittal petitioner can misuse his firearm if the firearm licence of the petitioner is restored, so impugned orders deserve to be maintained.

8. I have considered the submissions made by the parties and perused the record.

9. Section 17 of the Act empowers the licensing Authority to vary, suspend or revoke any firearm licence. Section 17 is reproduced as under:

"17. Variation, suspension and revocation of licences.—

(1) The licensing authority may vary the conditions subject to which a licence has been granted except such of them as have been prescribed and may for that purpose require the licence-holder by notice in writing to deliver-up the licence to it within such time as may specified in the notice.

(2) The licensing authority may, on the application of the holder of a licence, also vary the conditions of the licence except such of them as have been prescribed.

(3) The licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as it thinks fit or revoke a licence,—

(a) if the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder of the licence is prohibited by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, from acquiring, having in his possession or carrying any arms or ammunition, or is of unsound mind, or is for any reason unfit for a licence under this Act; or

(b) if the licensing authority deems it necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence; or

(c) if the licence was obtained by the suppression of material information or on the basis of wrong information provided by the holder of the licence or any other person on his behalf at the time of applying for it; or

(d) if any of the conditions of the licence has been contravened; or

(e) if the holder of the licence has failed to comply with a notice under sub-section (1) requiring him to deliver-up the licence.

(4) The licensing authority may also revoke a licence on the application of the holder thereof.

(5) Where the licensing authority makes an order varying a licence under sub-section (1) or an order suspending or revoking a licence under sub-section (3), it shall record in writing the reasons therefor and furnish to the holder of the licence on demand a brief statement of the same unless in any case the licensing authority is of the opinion that it will not be in the public interest to furnish such statement.

(6) The authority to whom the licensing authority is subordinate may by order in writing suspend or revoke a licence on any ground on which it may be suspended or revoked by the licensing authority; and the foregoing provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to the suspension or revocation of a licence by such authority.

(7) A court convicting the holder of a licence of any offence under this Act or the rules made thereunder may also suspend or revoke the licence: Provided that if the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the suspension or revocation shall become void.

(8) An order of suspension or revocation under sub-section (7) may also be made by an appellate court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

(9) The Central Government may, by order in the Official Gazette, suspend or revoke or direct any licensing authority to suspend or revoke all or any licences granted under this Act throughout India or any part thereof.

(10) On the suspension or revocation of a licence under this section the holder thereof shall without delay surrender the licence to the authority by whom it has been suspended or revoked or to such other authority as may be specified in this behalf in the order of suspension or revocation."

10. A perusal of sub-section (3) of Section 17 of the Act would show that firearm could be suspended or revoked by the licencing authority on the ground that it was necessary for public peace or for the public safety and if any of the condition of the licence has been contravened.

11. Now it will be appropriate to refer to the law bearing on the matter.

12. In Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Vs. State of Bihar AIR 1966 SC 740, it was observed that the contravention of law always affects order but before it could be said to affect "public order" it must affect the community or the public at large. One has to imagine three concentric circles, the largest representing "law and order", the next representing "public orders" and the smallest representing "security of state". An act may affect "law and order" but not "public order", just as an act may affect "public order" but not "security of state".

13. In Sheo Prasad Mishra Vs. District Magistrate, Basti & Others reported in 1978 AWC 122, a Division Bench of this Hon'ble Court relaying upon the earlier decision in Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner Allahabad reported in 1972 AIR Allahabad 510 held that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and hence an order cancelling or revoking a firearm licence only on the ground of licensee's involvement in a criminal case cannot be sustained.

14. In the matter of Harprasad Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2005 (52) ACC 226 (Alld) this Court after considering the law already pronounced on this point has finally allowed the petition and quashed the impugned order passed by the appellate Authority. Relevant paragraph of this judgment are being quoted here:-

"In full Bench decision of this Court rendered in Channga Prasad Sahu Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh 1984 (10) AIR 223 and Kailash Nath and Others Vs. Sate of U.P. and Others 1985 (22) ACC 353 and in the case of Rana Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P. 1985 (Supp) ACC 235, it has been held that mere pendency of the Criminal case(s) is no ground for cancellation of arms licence. The full Bench decision of Channga Prasad Sahu was also considered in Sadri Ram Vs. District Magistrate Azamgarh and Others 1998 (37) ACC 830".

15. In Vishal Varshney Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2009 (75) ALR 593, this Court held that cancellation of the firearm licence only on the ground of apprehension or likelihood of misuse of firearm by the licence is illegal.

16. In a recent decision which was cited by counsel for the petitioner in the case of Suneel

Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2020 (113) ACC 1 and Ram Prasad Vs. Commissioner and Others reported in 2020 (113) 571, this Court held that mere involvement in criminal case is no ground for cancellation of licensee's firearm as well as apprehension of abuse of arms is not a sufficient ground for passing of an order of cancellation of licence under Section 17 of the Act. It has also been held that in a pending criminal case against the licence if acquittal has been ordered by criminal Court then the very basis of the cancellation of arm licence will vanish.

17. In Ashiq Hussain Vs. Commissioner, Moradabad & Others reported in 2009 (10) ADJ 635, this Court has held as under:

"6. The mere involvement in a solitary criminal case cannot be a ground for cancellation of a firearm license as held by this Court in case of Mohd. Haroon Vs. The District Magistrate, Siddharth Nagar reported in 2003 (1) ACJ 124, unless and until it is shown on the basis of material on record that there was grave danger to public law and order. In the instant case it is only a solitary incident, which was not arising out of any disturbance of law and order, that has been made the basis for ordering cancellation."

18. This Court after considering the contention raised by learned counsel for the parties, perusal of record and considering the case laws mentioned above observed here that in the present case, petitioner was involved in sole criminal case and has been acquitted also by criminal Court by judgment dated 04.04.2015, a perusal of acquittal order does not show the use of firearm. The reason for cancellation of the petitioner's firearm licence mentioned in the order dated 11.01.2013 has been wiped out. Respondent no.2 and 3 have failed to consider the provisions of Section 17 of the Act regarding revocation of the licence, accordingly, impugned orders passed by respondent nos.2 and 3 cannot be sustained.

19. In view of the settled legal position mentioned above, the writ petition is allowed. The order dated 11.01.2013 passed by respondent no. 2- District Magistrate-Moradabad and appellate order dated 05.09.2013 passed by respondent no.3- Commissioner Moradabad, District- Moradabad, are hereby set aside. The matter is remitted back before respondent no.2 to pass a reasoned and speaking order afresh for restoring the arms licence of the petitioner after calling a fresh report in accordance with law preferably within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order before him.

20. Writ petition is allowed. No orders as to costs.

Randheer Singh Vs The St. of U.P. & ors. CRLA No. 932 of 2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. This petition has been filed praying for quashing of the summoning order dated 23.09.2019 passed by the opposite party no.2 as well as the order issuing non-bailable warrant against the petitioner dated 03.12.2021.

2. It is the case of the petitioner that her husband Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri transferred a commercial property/shop, which formed part of house no. 439/167/05, Khasra No. 215 at Mohalla Tahseenganj, District Lucknow, measuring area about 9.293 square meters in the name of the petitioner, it being his ancestral abadi property in his ownership and physical possession. A registered sale deed was executed on 02.03.2016 for a consideration of Rs.5,00,000/-. The receipts/bills issued by the Jalkal Vibhag, Nagar Nigam, Lucknow and the electricity bill in respect of the property all showed the name of Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri, the husband of the petitioner. The petitioner is in physical possession of the said property now after its transfer from her husband. The opposite party no.4 is a hardened criminal and at least five FIRs have been registered against him as he was indulging in extortion of several persons. The applicant and her husband were also made victims of such extortion. The husband of the petitioner refused to pay, therefore, the opposite party no.4 filed a false complaint case before the opposite party no.2 bearing complaint no. 2283/2018, through an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. in which he recorded a false statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. Summoning order was, thereafter, issued by the learned trial court on 23.09.2019 and the order of non-bailable warrant was also issued on 03.12.2021 against the applicant and three others. On the basis of such orders passed by the learned trial court the police are harassing the petitioner and her husband.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the opposite party no.4 has not filed any civil suit for cancellation of sale deed of the applicant in any competent court, but has adopted the criminal proceedings through filing an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. only to overcome limitation prescribed under the Limitation Act. He has referred to Article 59 of the Scheduled attached to the Limitation Act given period of limitation for cancellation or setting aside of an instrument or decree or a contract being three years from the date when the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument or the decree canceled or set aside or first become known to him.

4. It has been submitted that the sale deed was executed in the year 2016 and become known to the opposite party no.3 much before he filed the application before the learned trial court under Section 156 Cr.P.C. The subject matter in question is purely civil in nature. Learned trial court without application of judicial mind has entertained the application and treated it as a complaint case and issued summoning orders and also non-bailable warrant thus threatening the liberty of the applicant.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No. 932 of 2021, 'Randheer Singh vs. The State of U.P. & Others decided on 02.09.2021 to say that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly deprecated the practice of initiating criminal proceedings where the dispute was purely civil in nature.

6. This Court has perused a copy of the application filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. by the opposite party no. 4 which is 'Waqf Sajjadia Kadeem va Jadeed, situated at Sajjadia Nagar Colony, Alam Nagar va Tahsinganj, District Lucknow, Registration No. 941-42, "arrayed through" its Daroga/Care Taker, one Mohammad Askari Ali S/o Late Mirza Mohammad Taki, resident of 439/41, Tehseenganj, P.S. Thakurganj, Hardoi Road, Lucknow. In the said application the opposite party no.4 i.e. Waqf Sajjadia Kadeem vs Jadeed through its Daroga/Care Taker had arrayed husband of the petitioner as respondent no.1, the petitioner as respondent no.2 and two other persons the alleged witnesses of the sale deed as respondent no.3 and respondent no.4, respectively. In the said case explanation was given of the locus of the complainant, Waqf Sajjadia Kadeem vs Jadeed registered at 941 and 942 of the registration of Waqf and also the fact that it was the owner and the landlord of the house no. 439/167/05, and Landlord of shop Gulshan Motors, Tehseenganj where the respondent no.1, Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri, the husband of the petitioner no.1 herein, was a tenant since long. The receipt of rent being paid by Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri were also filed with the application. It was stated in the complaint that Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri all of a sudden stopped paying rent to the complainant. On due enquiry from neighbors as also from the office of the Sub-Registrar, it came out that Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri has sold the shop in question to his wife on 02.03.2016. The respondent no.3, namely, Anish Hakim Rizvi and respondent no.4, namely, Sayed Mohd. Naki Ali, had put there signatures as witnesees on the sale deed although they knew since long that Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri was a tenant of the shop in question, which belonged to the Waqf Sajjadia Kadeem vs Jadeed as aforesaid. The opposite party no.4 had sent applications/representations to the Chairman of the Uttar Pradesh Shia Central Waqf Board on 17.06.2016, and the Waqf Board had directed him to initiate proceedings against Mohd. Gulshan Kashmiri by filing FIR also. Thereafter, requisition was sent to the District Magistrate and the Senior Superintendent of Police, Lucknow on 24.10.2016, on which no heed was paid. Reminders were sent in September, 2017 also, but no head was paid. On 18.06.2018 the complainant/its Care Taker saw the respondents making construction on the property in question, he tried to stop them from raising such construction as the property belongs to the Waqf but they did not listen and therefore, the complaint was being filed before the learned Magistrate.

7. The date of institution of the complainant case is 23.07.2018, the documentary evidence i.e. rent receipts dated 23.03.2016, 22.05.2016 and 21.10.2016 were attachted alongwith such complaint relate to letters sent by the Care Taker on 24.10.2016 and 04.09.2017 to the Uttar Pradesh Shia Central Waqf Board and to Senior Superintendent of Police to take action and letter sent by the Uttar Pradesh Shia Central Waqf Board to the District Magistrate dated 04.10.2016 and the reminders sent thereafter. A copy of the sale deed was also filed alongwith said application duly supported by the affidavit. The Rent Receipts have also been made annexures to the complaint.

8. Learned trial court on the basis of statements taken under Sections 200 and 202 of the Cr.P.C. issued the summoning order on 23.09.2019, expressing a prima facie satisfaction that a case under Section 420 IPC has been made out by the complainant.

9. It appears that after summons were issued, the petitioner and her husband did not appear, and therefore, the learned trial court was forced to issue process in the form of non-bailable warrant on 03.12.2021.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Randheer Singh (Supra). This Court has carefully perused the judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court wherein the High Court had dismissed the application of the appellant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in which he had prayed for quashing of the proceedings in Case Crime No. 5973 of 2020, "State Vs. Rajan Kumar' under Section 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, and the charge sheet and the summoning order. The facts of the case as mentioned in the judgement are that one Arjun Dev and his wife, namely, Bela Rani were recorded tenure holders of certain plots of land and they executed a registered Power of Attorney in favour of the applicant no.1, Rajan Kumar (who had since died). Rajan Kumar executed sale deed in favour of the the appellants, Randheer Singh and his family members on various dates in between July or August, 2014. The name of the appellant and others were mutated in the revenue records. Smt. Beena Srivastava had filed objections before the Naib Tehsildar which were rejected. Smt. Beena Srivatava also filed Original Suit No. 971 of 2014 for cancellation of the Power of Attorney and sale deed executed by Rajan Kumar. The suit was dismissed under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure by learned trial court which order was challenged in the First Appeal which was partly allowed and the matter remanded to the learned trial court with a direction that it should be returned to the plaintiff for presentation before the appropriate court. Aggrieved by such order of the High Court Smt. Beena Srivastava had approached the Hon'ble Supreme Court also which Special Leave Petition was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 08.09.2016. In the application under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. filed by the appellant before the High Court, it has also been submitted that Smt. Beena Srivastava and her husband had also filed a Contempt Application, which was also dismissed by the High Court in February, 2016.

When Smt. Beena Srivastava could not get any relief from the trial court right up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court, she filed Writ Petition No. 12275 of 2016, which was dismissed on 28.03.2016. Smt. Beena Srivastava's son, Dr. Virat Swaroop Saxena also filed a Contempt Application which had been dismissed in July, 2006.

Pursuant to the order of the High Court dated 28.03.2016 passed in Writ Petition No. 12275 of 2016, The appellant, Randheer Singh instituted an Original Suit No. 608 of 2016 praying for permanent injunction in respect of the plot in question, and a temporary injunction was also granted by the learned trial court on 12.04.2016.

Having failed to get relief from various courts, Smt. Beena Srivastava brought in other persons into the picture to harass the appellant, thereafter. The Power of Attorney holder of Bela Rani, namely, Rajan Kumar (since deceased) had executed as sale deed in June, 2017 in favour of the appellant after receiving the sale consideration. A supplementary sale deed was also executed thereafter on 16.09.2017 and the appellant's name was mutated in the revenue record. The respondent No.2 filed an FIR wherein he stated that the applicant had purchased one house alongwith courtyard in which shops were also present from certain persons by way of registered sale deed and after such sale deed was executed he came to know that in the meantime another person, namely, Rajan Kumar (since deceased) on the basis of a false Power of Attorney of Bela Rani executed a sale deed to Randheer Singh(the appellant), whereas Bela Rani had no right to sell the said house which belonged to Afroz Athar and on the basis of the same false sale deed, Randheer Singh and Rajan Kumar were attempting to trespass the house of the applicant and had broken open the lock, of which knowledge was drived by the applicant/informant on the following morning and therefore, the FIR was lodged. Such FIR was lodged on 16.09.2017.

The Hon'ble Supreme Court after considering the arguments raised by the counsel for the appellant and counsel for the respondent with regard to the scope of interference under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. by the High Court, observed that the underlying civil dispute between the parties was subject matters of diverse civil proceedings which were pending between the appellant and the private respondent in the concerned civil court and the same shall obviously be decided on their own merits. The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the question "whether any criminal offence was disclosed in the FIR so far as the appellant was concerned'; it observed that Rajan Kumar (since deceased) the Power of Attorney holder was also an appellant before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, but he had since died and therefore proceedings had abated against him. The only allegation against the appellant was that he had purchased the property on the basis of a false Power of Attorney executed by the alleged owner of the property also in question.

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, considered the entire history of the civil litigations that were carried up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court also by Smt. Beena Srivastava and her husband on the allegation that Bela Rani had no title, and that the Power of Attorney in itself was a false document. The Hon'ble Supreme Court thereafter referred to several judgements in paragaraph 26 of its order, where the Court had considered the meaning of Section 420 of the Cr.P.C. as also Sections 417, 418, 419 and the meaning of fraud, deliberate deception, "dishonestly" and it came to the conclusion on the basis thereof, as also judgements rendered on the scope of interference under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by the High Court, that Section 482 Cr.P.C. is designed to achieve the purpose of ensuring that criminal proceedings are not permitted to generate into a weapon of harassment. It came to the conclusion, on the facts of the case pleaded before it that the FIR had not disclosed any offence insofar as appellant was concerned there was no whisper of how and in what manner the appellant was involved in any criminal offence. The charge sheet was basically vague. It observed that the High Court should have considered whether the complaint disclosed a criminal offence insofar as a nature of the allegation made against the appellant was concerned, and whether essential ingredients of the criminal offence were actually made out? Then, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed in the said case before it that the dispute was purely of civil nature, which was given the colour of criminal offence.

12. However, it clarified in pargraph 34 that in a given set of facts a civil or as well as the criminal offence can be made out simultaneously and, only because a civil remedy is available may not be a ground to quash criminal proceedings.

13. It is clear from the consideration of facts in the case of Randheer Singh vs. State of U.P. (Supra) that the Supreme Court has clarified that only because Civil proceedings or remedy are available against the particular transaction, it cannot be said that Criminal proceedings cannot be initiated if the essential ingredients and dishonesty are made out under Section 420 of the Cr.P.C.

14. Insofar as the learned counsel for the petitioners arguments regarding civil proceedings being barred by limitation having been expired and therefore, the FIR was lodged is concerned, this Court has gone through the Schedule and Article 59 of the Scheduled attached to Limitation Act relied upon, which is mentioned under part IV "Suits relating to Decree or an instrument" and it finds that the limitation of three years is only from the date of knowledge. In this case knowledge was drived by the opposite party no.4, Waqf Sajjadia Kadeem va Jadeed sometime in 2016, and the application under Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C. was lodged on 23.07.2018 after the U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board sent letter to the Senior Superintendent of Police and the District Magistrate on 24.10.2016 for taking appropriate action for protecting the property of the Waqf Board.

15. No case has been made by the learned counsel for petitioner to show interference in the summoning order or the bailable warrant issued against her.

16. Accordingly, this petition stands rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

(1) Heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

(2) This petition has been filed for the following main prayer:-

" Wherefore, It is most respectfully prayed that Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to:

(a) To quash the charge sheet filed by I. O. against the petitioner in case Case Crime No. 551 of 2019, Under Sections 420, 272, 273 I.P.C. Police Station : Maharajganj, District: Raibareily, Which is annexed as Annexure No. 7."

(3) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner had earlier filed a Petition No. 415 (M/B) of 2020 challenging the FIR which has been dismissed as infructuous by this Court on 07.12.2021 as

Charge sheet has been filed against the petitioner by the opposite party no.2 i.e. Station House Officer, Police Station Maharajganj, District Rae Bareli. In the FIR it was alleged that the Station House Officer has apprehended several persons involved in adulteration of cumin seeds (Jeera) on the basis of information received from informer in Maharajganj Qasba. Several persons including the petitioner was made accused as in the Godown several bags of broom seeds (Phool Jhadoo) were found to have been mixed with cumin seeds.

(4) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the Investigating Officer did not conduct a proper investigation and submitted Charge-sheet. The learned Trial Court without application of judicial mind has taken cognizance and issued summoning order. It has been submitted that the FIR has been filed under Sections 272, 273 of the IPC whereas the cases of adulteration are now governed by Special Act that is the Food Safety Act. The Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the Incharge Chief Food Safety Officer, Rae Bareli, and his subordinates who were working as Food Safety Officer that they had accompanied the police personnel on the raid conducted on the Godown where 150 bags of broom seeds (Fake cumin seeds) approximately 75 quintals of Jeera mixed with Phool Jhadoo seeds were found. The Phool Jhadoo seeds/Jhadoo seeds were found noxious for human consumption as per the report of the Public Analyst Laboratory, U.P., Lucknow under Sections 3.1 (ZZ) (xi) of Food Safety and Standard Act, 2006. The Charge sheet having been submitted wrongly under various sections of the IPC. The cognizance was initiated and the summoning order issued without application of mind.

(5) Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Writ Petition No.8254 (M/B) of 2010 [M/s Pepsico India Holdings (Pvt) Limited and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Others] and connected matters all filed by Pepsico India Holdings, the petitioner therein had questioned the validity of the Government Order dated 11.05.2010 directing the Police to register cases or initiate action under Sections 272/273 IPC and one of the grounds taken was that after coming into force of the Food Safety and Standard Act, 2009 action could be taken only under the Special Act, in case of any offence relating to adulteration /mis-branding of food articles. The Division Bench has considered Section 89 of the Food Safety and Standard Act which gave overriding effect to the Act over other food related laws, and Section 97 of the Act which sought to repeal other food laws in case of the offences specified in the Second schedule of the Act immediately with effect from the date of which the Act came into force. Sub Section (4) thereof stated that notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no Court shall take cognizance of an offence under the repealed Act or orders after the expiry of a period of three years from the date of the commencement of this Act.

(6) This Court has carefully perused the judgment cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner. It was argued before the Division Bench that after the aforesaid Act came into force the Food Safety Standards Act is the only law relating to and dealing with the offences regarding adulteration of food. The Government Order directing the Divisional Commissioners, District Magistrates, Deputy Inspector Generals of Police, Senior Superintendent of Police and Superintendent of Police to lodge FIR under Sections 272/273 IPC in case of adulteration of any article of food or drink was therefore issued without jurisdiction, and in violation of the provisions of Food Safety and Standards Act. It was argued before the Court that Section 272 is attracted if any person adulterates an article of food with the intention to sell such an article or knowing that it is likely that the article will be sold as food or drink. However, there was no allegation in the FIR that the petitioner-company or its employees or agents had kept its products with the intention to sell the same, or knowing that the products are likely to be sold as food or drink or that the said products were exposed or offered for sale. The definite stand of the company was the articles seized were kept in the godown where even a board "not for sale" was hanging at the time when the search was conducted.

(7) The Court observed that the IPC is a general Penal Code for India. Section 2 IPC deals with the punishment of offences committed within India and provides that every person shall be liable to punishment under this Code and not otherwise for every act or omission contrary to the provisions thereof, of which he shall be guilty within India. Section 5 thereof specifically excludes its application in a case where there is a Special Act. Since the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, the pre-cursor of the Food Safety & Standards Act was a Special Act it overrides Sections 272 & 273 IPC. The Division Bench referred to a judgment of the Guwahati High Court also relating to Food Adulteration matters and also to a judgment of the Supreme Court in Jeewan Kumar Raut and Another Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation reported in [2009 (7) UJ SC 3135], where the Supreme was considering the provisions of Transplantation of Human Organs Act, 1994, and held that if a Special statute lays down procedures, the ones laid down under the general statutes shall not be followed.

(8) The Division Bench came to the conclusion that after coming into force of the provision of the Food Safety and Standards Act by a Notification dated 29.07.2010 the Authorities can take action only in the Food Safety and Standard Act, as it has over riding effect over all other laws relating to food and its sale, therefore, if an article is seized it has to be treated as per the procedure to be followed for drawing a sample as given in the said Act, and it is necessary for the Authorities to follow mandatory requirements as provided under Section 41-42 of the said Act, and police have no Authority to investigate the matter.

Under Section 42 of the Food Safety and Standards Act, The Food Safety Officer shall be responsible for inspection of food business, drawing samples and sending them to Food Analyst for analysis. The Designated Officer after scrutiny of the report of Food Analyst shall decide as to whether the contravention is punishable with imprisonment or fine only, and in the case of contravention punishable with imprisonment, he shall send his recommendations within fourteen days to the Commissioner of Food Safety for sanctioning prosecution. The Court therefore, held that invoking Sections 272-273 IPC in matters relating to adulteration of food pursuant to the impugned Government Order was wholly and justified and by issuing such order, the State Government had transgressed its jurisdiction. It therefore, set aside the impugned Government order dated 11.05.2010 and consequently, the FIR registered in the case in pursuance of such Government Order and the criminal proceedings initiated against the Company.

(9) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the law settled by the Division Bench, clearly applies in his case as the investigation, drawing of samples, sending them for Analyst etc. was not done as per the procedure prescribed under the Food Safety and Standards Act.

(10) Shri S.P. Tiwari, learned A.G.A. on the other hand, has pointed out that the statement taken by the Investigating Officer clearly reveals that the Food Safety Officers had accompanied the Inspection Team, and therefore the procedure that was followed for inspection of the godown of the petitioner was under the Food Safety and Standards Act. The sample was sent to the Government Public Analyst Laboratory, Lucknow and Dr. Rajesh Kumar duly appointed as Food Analyst under the provisions of Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006 for U.P. received the samples from the Food Safety Officer Laboratory. The condition of the seal on the samples and outer covering of such sample was found intact and unbroken. Dr. Rajesh Kumar, the Analyst found the sample of Phool Jhadoo seeds unfit for human consumption under Regulations 2.9.8 (1) of the Food Safety and Standards (Food Products and Food) Regulation 2011. The method of testing of the sample was as per the prescribed standards in the Regulations of 2011 and it was an analyzed as per the Food Safety and Standards Manual of 2016. It was found on the basis of test performed as per the Manual, that the extraneous material exceeds the prescribed limit 3.0 in the sample and the sample was found as sub standard by the Food Analyst and noxious for human consumption. The opinion given was that the sample of Phul Jhadoo seeds was not a food item, and it was noxious for human consumption, and the sample was declared 'noxious' as per the Section 3.1 (zz) 11 of the Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006.

(11) It has been submitted by the learned A.G.A. that only because the Food Safety and Standards Act would apply in such matter, the offence of cheating as described under Section 420 of the I.P.C. cannot be said to have become rebundant. It was open for the Authorities to take action only under the Food Safety and Standards Act or take action also under the IPC as Section 272 and 273 relates to addictions of noxious substance in a food item Phul Jhadoo seeds were found to be noxious enough for human consumption and therefore action could have been taken under Sections 272-273 also.

(12) After considering the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned A.G.A. and going through the judgment of the Division Bench in Pepsico (Supra), this Court is of the opinion that it is still open for the Investigating Officer to file supplementary charge sheet under various provisions of Food Safety and Standards Act. The Charge sheet may have been submitted under the provisions of IPC and cognizance may have been taken but that does not exclude the application of the Food Safety and Standards Act in the case of the petitioner.

(13) This Court is not convinced with the arguments made by the learned counsel or the petitioner that only because the Food Safety and Standard Act, 2006 was applicable and wrong section has been applied in the Charge sheet upon the petitioner, the offence committed by the accused would not stand washed away.

(14) There being no good ground to show interference at this stage in the Charge-sheet or the summoning order because the ends of justice would not be served in case this Court shows interference in such a gross misconduct of the accused, this petition stands dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. This petition has been filed with the following main prayer:-

"Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to set aside the impugned judgement and order dated 17.12.2020 passed by the Uppr Collector/Upper District Magistrate, Hardoi in Case No. 01087/2020 (Computerized Case No. D202010330001087 (State vs. Anuj Jaiswal @ Lachchhu) U/s 72 of the U.P. Excise Act in the respect of the petitioner in the interest of jusice.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to direct the respondents to release the Vehicle No. U.P. 32/HH-5155 in favour of the Petitioner without imposing any fine which has been illegally seized by the Police Authority of District Hardoi in Case Crime No. 398/2020 Under Section 60/63 of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 & under Sections 419/420/467/468/471 IPC Police Station, Beniganj, District Hardoi, in the interest of justice."

2. It has been submitted that a Criminal Case had been registered against the five persons including the petitioner by the police as Case Crime No. 398 of 2020 under Section 60/63 of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 & under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC Police Station Beniganj, District Hardoi. It was alleged by the police that on the basis of information given by the informer, a white coloured car (Swift) was seized with illicit liquor. Two persons were arrested from the car and they informed of the name of the petitioner as owner of the car. The petitioner was arrested, thereafter.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner is the registered owner of Vehicle No. UP 32 HH 5155 (Swift Desire) and his vehicle was not used. A false FIR was registered against him.

4. The petitioner was issued a show cause notice to which the petitioner replied that his car was not involved and has been seized improperly by the police. The petitioner appeared before the District Magistrate/Additional Collector, Hardoi in pursuance of the show cause notice and the reply submitted by him on 16.10.2020, praying for release of his vehicle under Section 72(2) of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910. The learned Additional District Magistrate asked for comments from the police and has accepted the application for release with the condition that the petitioner may deposit 30% of the value of the vehicle and also given an undertaking that he shall not sell of the vehicle or change its condition in any manner and would produce the same before the learned trial court as and when it is so summoned. The copy of the order was directed to be sent by the police to the Assistant Regional Transport Officer, Hardoi.

5. It is the case of the petitioner that the Additional District Magistrate exceeded his jurisdiction when he passed an order of depositing of 30% percent of the value of the car. It has been submitted that in view of the law settled by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Criminal Revision No. 2177 of 2018, 'Devendra Gupta vs. State of U.P. and others decided on 31.08.2018, and in Criminal Revision No. 1568 of 2018, 'Rajiv Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others decided on 23.11.2016. The District Magistrate should have directed the release of the vehicle by taking Bank Gurantee instead of asking for 30% of the value of the vehicle.

6. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that he had earlier approached this Court by filing a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, namely, Writ Petition No. 23997 (MB) of 2021, 'Manoj Kumar Jaiswal vs. State of U.P. and Anothers'. This Court had directed the petitioner to avail the remedy as available to him under law and dismissed the writ petition as withdrawn.

7. Sri S. P. Tiwari, learned AGA for the State has raised a preliminary objection regarding the maintainability of this petition under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. by referring to Section 72 (2) of the U.P. Excise Act, and thereafter, Sub-Section (7) of the same Section 72 where it has been provided that any person aggrieved by an order of confiscation under Section 72 (2) to (6) may within one month from the date of the order file an appeal to the judicial authority nominated by the State Government in this behalf.

8. It has been submitted that the order having been passed by the Additional District Magistrate/Collector remedy lies in filing an appeal Section 72 (2) before the District Judge on the civil side under the Excise Act.

9. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that since there is an abuse of process of Court by the Collector, therefore, a petition under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. will be maintainable before this Court. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for petitioner on the basis of orders passed in the aforementioned two judgements that the Collector was bound to release the vehicle during pendency of the proceedings for confiscation and he could not have passed the order directing the petitioner to deposit 30% of the value of the car/seized vehicle.

10. This Court has carefully perused the judgement in the case of Virendra Gupta vs. State of U.P. (Supra) and finds that it has been passed in a Criminal Revision against the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mau rejecting the application for release of a vehicle seized under Section 451 (1) of the Cr.P.C., in connection with Case Crime No. 50 of 2018, under Sections 60, 63, 72 of the U.P. Excise Act, and Sections 272, 273, 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC. The vehicle was found transporting country-made adulterated liquor. The revisionist application had been rejected on the ground that since confiscation proceedings in relation to the vehicle were in progress, it would not be appropriate in the interest of justice to release the vehicle in favour of the revisionist.

11. This Court in Virendera Gupta (Supra) has placed reliance upon the observations made by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of "Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai vs. State of Gujarat, 2002 (10) SCC 283, to say that a vehicle seized in a crime and parked at police station should be immediately released by taking appropriate Bond and Guarantee as well as the Security for return of the said vehicle, if required at any point of time. This can be done pending hearing of applications for return of such vehicle. The Co-ordinate Bench has also placed reliance upon the judgement rendered in case of Nand vs. State of U.P. 1997 (1) AWC 41 where the jurisdiction of the Magistrate under Section 451 Cr.P.C. to release the seized vehicle pending investigation or trial notwithstanding the pending of the confiscation proceedings before the Collector was dealt with by this Court. The Court had observed in Nand (Supra) that since the ownership of the seized vehicle was not disputed the revisionist could give a bank guarantee of Rs. 2,00,000/- before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat and file a bond that he shall be producing the truck as and when needed by the criminal courts or the District Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat, and he shall not make any variation in the truck.

12. The Court relied upon the observations made in another judgement in the case of Rajiv Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others, 2017 (5) ADJ, 351, where the Court observed that the vehicle from which country-made liquor had been recovered and was seized could be released under Section 72 of the Excise Act, if the revisionist therein was ready to furnish the sureties before the Court concerned. The Court dealt with Section 451 to 457 of the Cr.P.C. and the general principles governing release pending investigation or trial, and had observed that vehicle seized in connection with a crime should not be left to deteriorate at the police station. The Court observed that the U.P. Excise Act is related to seizure and confiscation of vehicles, but still the power under Section 451 or 457 of the Cr.P.C. would be available to the Magistrate pending confiscation proceedings under the special or the local law. The judgement rendered in the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai(supra) was distinguished by this Court and the law laid down by this Court in Ved Prakash vs. State of U.P., 1982 AWC 167 Allahabad was followed where it was observed that the apprehension of vehicle carrying liquor in contravention of the law be dealt with in proceedings under Section 457 of the Cr.P.C.

13. This Court has carefully considered the judgement rendered in the case of Virendra Gupta (Supra) that it was rendered in Criminal Revision arising out of an order of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mau dated 13.06.2018 rejecting an application for release under Section 451 of the Cr.P.C., on the ground that confiscation proceedings under Section 72 of the Excise Act were pending before the Collector. The Court had referred the matter in its order dated 31.08.2018 to the Hon'ble Chief Justice for constitution of a larger Bench to decide the question:-

"Whether pending confiscation proceedings under Section 72 of the U.P. Excise Act before the Collector, the Magistrate/Court has jurisdiction to release any property subject matter of confiscation proceedings, in the exercise of powers under Sections 451, 452 or 457 of the Code of Criminal Procedure?"

14. The judgement cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner does not help him insofar as no definite opinion had been expressed with regard to applicability of the Section 72 of the U.P. Excise Act or that of Section 451 or 457 of the Cr.P.C. The other judgement cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner in Rajiv Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. & Another also was a judgement rendered in a Criminal Revision where the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate had rejected the application of the revisionist for release of vehicle under Section 60 of the Excise Act on the ground that confiscation proceedings under Section 72 of the U.P. Excise Act, were pending before the Collector, and it would complicate the matter.

15. In this case, the petitioners application under Section 72 Sub-Section 2 has been allowed by the Collector subject to the condition of payment of 30% of the market value of the vehicle which has been seized carrying illicit liquor. The very language of Section 72 of the Excise Act, and its Proviso, gives power to the Collector to release the vehicle to the owner thereof by giving a bond to pay in lieu of its confiscation such fine at the Collector thinks appropriate but not exceeding on the date of its seizure.

16. It is apparent from the language of the Act that the Collector can impose a fine up to the extent of entire market value of the seized vehicle. In the instant case obviously thirty percent of the value of the seized car have been directed to be paid.

17. Under Sub-Section (7) of Section 72, the petitioner could have appealed against such an order as it has a statutory remedy provided under the Act, which could not be bye passed.

18. There is no abuse of process of Court as alleged by the counsel for the petitioner for this Court to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.

18. Accordingly, the petition stands rejected.

19. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Whether summons issued on cyclostyled and printed proforma, qualifies the litmus test of being the real intent of the word "cognizance" is a question which falls for determination before this Court in the present proceeding.

2. Heard Sri Anil Kumar Bind, learned counsel for the applicants and Sri K.K. Rajbhar, who appears for opposite party nos. 1 and 2.

3. In view of the order which is being proposed to be passed today, there is no need to issue notice to the opposite party no. 2 as the learned counsel for the applicants as well as the learned A.G.A. have consented for disposal of the present application at the admission stage, particularly in view of the peculiar facts of the case, wherein only the order summoning applicants dated 06.11.2020 is subject matter of scrutiny on a technical issue as demonstrated in the latter part of the judgment.

4. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing of the charge sheet no. 03/2019 dated 05.01.2019 and cognizance order dated 06.11.2020 as well as entire criminal proceeding of Case No. 3649 of 2020 (State Vs. Nanne and others) pending before Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Shahjahanpur arising out of Case Crime No. 247 of 2018, u/s 325, 120-B IPC, P.S. Allahganj, District Shahjahanpur.

5. Factual matrix of the case as worded in the present application are that a FIR was lodged by the opposite party no. 2 against one Laxman S/o Shankar, Prithiviraj S/o Lalla Singh and Kallu S/o Chakrapal before P.S. Allahganj, District Shahjahanpur on 27.06.2018, u/s 307, 504, 506 IPC with an allegation that the opposite party no. 2 as aged about 50 years, belonging to Kushwaha community R/o Village Chauki, Azampur P.S. Allahganj, Shahjahanpur and a litigation was going on between the opposite party no. 2 and Laxman S/o Shankar and later on having been lost the said litigation, Laxman came to the house of opposite party no. 2 on 26.06.2018 at about 11 p.m. armed with a pistol 312 bore along with Prithiviraj S/o Lalla Singh and Kallu S/o Chakrapal and at that point of time the brother of the opposite party no. 2 being Gangaram was sleeping on the cot out side the house and the aforesaid accused pounced upon him and hurled abuses and threatening them to withdraw the case and when the brother of opposite party no. 2 started shouting seeking help then the villagers who were present within the close vicinity came and then the accused took out their pistol shot and also threatened the brother as well as the opposite party no. 2 and brother of the opposite party no. 2 sustained injuries. A copy of the injury report of the brother of the opposite party no. 2 on record. The statement of the brother of the opposite party no. 2 was also obtained consequently, after investigation the Investigating Officer submitted a charge sheet on 05.01.2019 against the applicants alleging that the FIR so lodged against Laxman S/o Shankar, Prithiviraj S/o Lalla Singh and Kallu S/o Chakrapal was false and no case u/s 307, 504, 506 IPC were made out against them and on the contrary cases u/s325 and 120-B IPC are made against the applicants.

6. Accordingly on the 06.11.2020 the court of Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Shahjahanpur in the proceedings in case no. 3649 of 2020 (State Vs. Nanhe and others) in case crime no. Case Crime No. 247 of 2018 have issued summons against the applicants u/s 325, 120-B IPC. Challenging the charge sheet dated 05.01.2019 emanating from the criminal proceedings of case crime no. 3649 of 2020 (State Vs. Nanhe and others) in case crime no. Case Crime No. 247 of 2018, u/s 325, 120-B IPC, P.S. Allahganj, District Shahjahanpur as well as the cognizance order dated 06.11.2020 summoning the applicants pending before the Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Shahjahanpur, the present application has been preferred.

7. The word 'Cognizance' roots from an old French word "Conoisance" based on Latin word "Cognoscere" the word cognizance has not been deciphered and defined in procedural law being the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973.

8. The learned counsel for the applicants has sought to argue that the present application is being confined to the challenge so made to the order dated 06.11.2020 summoning the applicants u/s 325, 120-B IPC as the applicants have been summoned on total non-application of mind on a cyclostyled format. In nutshell the argument of the learned counsel for the applicants is to the extent that summoning is a serious matter and the same cannot be restored without application of mind particularly when the order in question is cyclostyled wherein the blanks have been filled.

9. Countering the said submission the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 1 has argued that though the order under challenge being a summoning order is cyclostyled but it cannot said to be passed by total non application of mind as the order though it does not contain any discussion but it is a case wherein the court below has applied his mind.

10. I have gone through the argument so raised by the learned counsel for the applicants as well as learned A.G.A. who appear for opposite party no. 1 and perused the record.

11. Before adverting to the factual as well as legal position this Court finds necessary to extract the relevant statutory provisions which are germane to the issue in question.

Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 (Old Code)

"190. Cognizance of offence by Magistrate. - (1) Except as hereinafter provided, any Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any other Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf, may take cognizance of any offence -

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence :

(b) upon a report in writing of such facts made by any police-officer;]

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police-officer, or upon his own knowledge or suspicion, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The [State Government], or the District Magistrate subject to the general or special orders of the [State Government], may empower any Magistrate to take cognizance under sub-section (1), clause (a) or clause (b), of offences for which he may try or commit for trial.

(3) The [State Government] may empower any Magistrate of the first or second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1), clause (c), of offences for which he may try or commit for trial."

Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 (New Code)

Section 2 (c) " cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and" cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer may, in accordance with the First Schedule or under any other law for the time being in force, arrest without warrant;

(l) " non- cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and" non- cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer has no authority to arrest without warrant;"

190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try.

12. It is noteworthy to mention here that the word cognizance has not been employed either in the Old Code or the New Code but in the new code the word "cognizable offence" and "non cognizable offence" are defined. In nutshell, taking cognizane means cognizance of an offence and not of offender. Once, the Magistrate takes the cognizance of an offence then it is the duty to find who is the real offender. The aforesaid process itself personifies taking cognizance is a serious matter which presupposes a condition whereby wherein the Magistrate has to apply its mind. Parliament has deliberately engrafted Section 190 under Chapter (XIV) containing the heading "Condition Requisite For Initiation Of Proceedings", providing that subject to the provisions of Chapter (XIV) any Magistrate of the first class, any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in that behalf under sub-section (2) may take cognizance of an offence upon receiving the complaint of facts which constitute the offence, upon a police report of said facts, upon information received from any person other than the police officer or upon his own knowledge that said offence has been committed. Sub-Section (2) itself authorises Chief Judicial Magistrate to empower any Magistrate of second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of said offence as are within its competence to enquire into or trial. The procedure contemplated under section 190 of the New Code is an act to be committed judicially. The discretion has been casted upon the Magistrate concerned to act judicially keeping in account the facts of a particular case as well as law on the said subject. Section 190 of the New Code of Cr.P.C. itself is a starting point for taking appropriate judicial action as the Magistrate under the said sections has to apply its mind on the motion so set up in sub-clause (a)(b)(c) of Sub-Section (1) of Section 190 of the New Code.

13. To simplify the same it can be safely said that the Magistrate has to apply his independent mind so as to find out whether the material collected by Investigating Officer is sufficient to proceed further and whether the same constitutes violation of law so as to call a person to appear before criminal court to face trial. Logically the word cognizable and non-cognizable offence have been employed in the New Code so as to suggest that it is the Magistrate who exercises its powers u/s 190 to proceed against a person while summoning him for the purpose of investigation into two categories being cognizable and non-cognizable. The New Code no where contemplates the situation whereby wherein under the Magistrate concerned is to act as a post office. Whenever, any information of a cognizable offence is received or the same is suspected, the police authority so available with the police officer authorizes him to enter into the investigation of the same but wherein the information relates to non cognizable offence he has no power to investigate it without the order of the competent Magistrate. The said provision itself finds place in Section 155 of the New Code.

14. The word cognizance has also been defined in well known dictionaries which are often referred in legal fraternity being...

The Black's Law Dictionary Seventh Edition has defined the word which is as under:-

Cognizance (Kog-ni-zens), n. 1. The right and power to try and determine cases; JURISDICTION. 2. The taking of judicial or authoritative notice. 3. Acknowledgement or admission of an alleged fact; esp. (hist), acknowledgement of a fine. See FINE (1); FINE SUR COGNIZANCE DE DROIT. 4. Common-law pleading. In a replevin action, a plea by the defendant that the goods are held in bailment for another. Cf. AVOWRY.

Similarly, the P RAMANATHA AIYAR Law Lexicon Dictionary 1997 Edition has defined cognizance as under:-

Cognizance. Judicial notice or knowledge; the judicial recognition or hearing of a cause; jurisdiction, or right to try and determine causes. It is a word of the largest omport : embracing all power, authority and jurisdiction. The word "Cognizance" is used in the sense of "the right to take notice of and determine a cause." Taking cognizance does not involve any formal action, or indeed action of any kind, but occurs as soon as a Magistrate, as such, applies his mind of the suspected commission of an offence. (37 Cal 412=14 CWN 512-6 IC 8=11 Cr LJ 217.)

15. The word cognizance has defined in the dictionaries as referred to above does not involve any formal action but the same embraces to which the application of mind while proceeding judicially.

16. The word "taking cognizance" has being often matter of judicial interpretation and it has been held to be a positive act of application of mind.

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R.R. Chari V. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in AIR 1951 SC 207 has held as under:-

"taking cognizance does not involve any formal action or indeed action of any kind but occurs as soon as a. magistrate as such applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence"

18. Following the judgment in the case of R.R. Chari (Supra) the Hon'ble Apex court in the case of Ajit Kumat Palit Vs. State of West Bengal and Others AIR 1963 SC 765 has held as under:-

19. The provisions of s. 190 (1) being obviously, and on its own terms, inapplicable, the next question to be. considered is whether it is the requirement of any principle of general jurisprudence that there should be some additional material to entitle the Court to take cognizance of the offence. The word " cognizance" has no esoteric or mystic significance in criminal law or procedure. It merely means become aware of and when used with reference to a Court or judge, to take notice of judicially. It was stated in Gopal Marwari v. Emperor A.I.R. (1943) Pat. 245 by the learned judges of the Patna High Court in a passage quoted with approval by this Court in R. R. Chari v. State of Uttar Pradesh [1951] S.C.R. 312, 320 that the word, "cognizance' was used in the Code to indicate the point when the Magistrate or judge takes judicial notice of an offence and that it was a word of indefinite import, and is not perhaps always used in exactly the same sense. As observed in Emperor v. Sourindra Mohan Chuckerbutty I.L.R. 37 Cal. 412, 416 "taking cognizance does not involve any formal action ; or indeed action of any kind, but occurs as soon as a Magistrate, as such, applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence." Where the statute prescribes the materials on which alone the judicial mind shall operate before any step is taken, obviously the statutory requirement must be fulfilled. Thus, a sessions judge cannot exercise that original jurisdiction which magistrates specified in s. 190(1) can, but the material on which alone he can apply his judicial mind and proceed under the Code is an order of commitment. But statutory provision apart, there is no set material which must exist before the judicial mind can operate. It appears to us therefore that as soon as a special judge receives the orders of allotment of the case passed by the State Government it becomes vested with jurisdiction to try the case and when it receives the record from the Government it can apply its mind and issue notice to the accused and thus start the trial of the proceedings assigned to it by the State Government.

19. In the case of Tularam And Others Vs. Kishore Singh 1977 4 SCC 459 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

7. The question as to what is meant by taking cognizance is no longer res integra as it has been decided by several decisions of this Court. As far back as 1951 this Court in the case of R. R. Chari v. State of Uttar Pradesh [1951] S.C.R. 312 observed as follows -

"Taking cognizance does not involve any formal action or indeed action of any kind but occurs as soon as a Magistrate as such applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence".

While considering the question in greater detail this Court endorsed the observations of Justice Das Gupta in the case of Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal v. Abani Kumar Banerjee A.I.R. 1950 Cal. 347 which was to the following effect (1) [1951] S.C.R. 312. (2) A.I.R. 1950 Cal. 347.

"It seems to me clear however that before it can be said that any Magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under section 190(1)

(a), Criminal Procedure Code, he must not only have applied Ms mind to the contents of the petition but he must have done so far the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chapter-proceeding under section 200 and thereafter sending it for inquiry 'and report under section 202. When the Magistrate applies his mind not for the purpose of proceeding under the subsequent sections of this Chapter, but for taking action of some other kind, e.g. ordering investigation under section 156(3), or issuing a search warrant for the purpose of the investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of the offence".

8. Section 190 of the Code runs thus "190.(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under subsection (2) may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

It seems to us that there is no special charm or any magical formula in the expression "taking cognizance" which merely means judicial application of the mind of the Magistrate to the facts mentioned in the complaint with a view to, taking further action. Thus what section 190 contemplates is that the Magistrate takes cognizance once he makes himself fully conscious and aware of the allegations made. in the complaint and decides to examine or test the validity of the said allegations The Court prescribes several modes in which a complaint can be disposed of after taking cognizance. In the first place. cognizance can be taken on the basis of three circumstances : (a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence; (b) upon a police report of such facts; and (c) upon information received from any person other than the police officer or upon his own knowledge, that an offence has been committed. These are the three grounds on the basis of which a Magistrate can take cognizance and decide to. act accordingly. It would further appear that this Court in the case of Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. The State of West Bengal(1) observed the mode in which a Magistrate could take cognizance of an offence and observed as follows:-

(a), Criminal Procedure Code, he, (1) [1960] 1 S.C.R. 93,106.

3-951SCI/77 must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition but must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chapter-proceeding under- section 200 and thereafter sending it for inquiry and report under section 202".

20. In the case of Hareram Satpathy Vs. Tikaram Agarwala And Others 1978 4 SCC 58 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

6.To the same effect is the decision of this court in Chandra Deo Singh v. Prokar Chandra Bose(3) where after a full discussion of the matter it was held that at the time of taking a decision whether a process should issue against the accused or not what the Magistrate has to see is whether there is evidence in support of the allegations of the complainant so as to justify the issue of process and commencement of proceedings against the accused, and not whether the evidence is sufficient to warrant his conviction.

7. From the foregoing it is crystal clear that under section 190 of the Code of Criminal Procedure the Magistrate takes cognizance of an offence made out in the police report or in the complaint and there is nothing like taking cognizance of the offenders at that stage. As to who actually the offenders involved in the case might have been has to be decided by the Magistrate after taking cognizance of the offence.

8. In the instant case the Sub-Divisional Magistrate took cognizance of the offence on the police report, after taking cognizance of the offence and perusal of the record he appears to have satisfied himself that there were prima facie grounds for issuing process against the respondents. In so doing the Magistrate did not ill our Judgment exceed the power vested in him under law.

10. This second point does not present any difficulty. lt is well settled that once the Magistrate has after satisfying himself prima facie that there is sufficient material for proceeding against the accused issued process against him, the High Court cannot go into the matter in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction which is very limited. The following observations made in Smt. Nagwwa v. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalai & ors (supra) are apposite in this connection:

"It is true that in coming to a decision as to whether a process would be issued the Magistrate can tale into consideration inherent improbabilities appearing on the face of the complaint or in the evidence led by the complainant in support of the allegations but there appears to be a very thin line of demarcation between a probability of conviction of the accused and establishment of a prima facie case against him. The Magistrate has been given an undoubted discretion in the matter and the discretion has to be judicially exercised by him. Once the Magistrate has exercised his discretion it is not for the High Court or even this Court to substitute its own discretion for that of the Magistrate or to examine the case on merits with-a view to find out whether or not the allegations in the complaint, if proved, would ultimately end in conviction o the accused. These considerations, in our opinion. are totally foreign to the scope and ambit of an inquiry under s. 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure."

21. In the case of S.K. Sinha Chief Informant Vs. Videocon International Ltd. In Appeal (Criminal) 175 of 2007 decided on 25.01.2008 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

18. R.R. Chari v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1951 SCR 312 was probably the first leading decision of this Court on the point. There, the police, having suspected the appellant-accused to be guilty of offences punishable under Section 161 and 165 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) as also under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947, applied to the District Magistrate, Kanpur to issue warrant of arrest on October 22, 1947. Warrant was issued on the next day and the accused was arrested on October 27, 1947. On March 25, 1949, the accused was produced before the Magistrate to answer the charge-sheet submitted by the prosecution. According to the accused, on October 22, 1947, when warrant for his arrest was issued by the Magistrate, the Magistrate was said to have taken cognizance of offence and since no sanction of the Government had been obtained before that date, initiation of proceedings against him was unlawful. The question before the Court was as to when cognizance of the offence could be said to have been taken by the Magistrate under Section 190 of the Code. Considering the circumstances under which cognizance of offence under sub-section (1) of Section 190 of the Code can be taken by a Magistrate and referring to Abani Kumar Banerjee, the Court, speaking through Kania, C.J. stated:

It is clear from the wording of the section that the initiation of the proceedings against a person commences on the cognizance of the offence by the Magistrate under one of the three contingencies mentioned in the section. The first contingency evidently is in respect of non-cognizable offences as defined in the Criminal Procedure Code on the complaint of an aggrieved person. The second is on a police report, which evidently is the case of a cognizable offence when the police have completed their investigation and come to the Magistrate for the issue of a process. The third is when the Magistrate himself takes notice of an offence and issues the process. It is important to remember that in respect of any cognizable offence, the police, at the initial stage when they are investigating the matter, can arrest a person without obtaining an order from the Magistrate. Under section 167(b) of the Criminal Procedure Code the police have of course to put up the person so arrested before a Magistrate within 24 hours and obtain an order of remand to police custody for the purpose of further investigation, if they so desire. But they have the power to arrest a person for the purpose of investigation without approaching the Magistrate first. Therefore in cases of cognizable offence before proceedings are initiated and while the matter is under investigation by the police the suspected person is liable to be arrested by the police without an order by the Magistrate.

19. Approving the observations of Das Gupta, J. in Abani Kumar Banerjee, this Court held that it was on March 25, 1949 when the Magistrate issued a notice under Section 190 of the Code against the accused that he took cognizance of the offence. Since before that day, sanction had been granted by the Government, the proceedings could not be said to have been initiated without authority of law.

20. Again in Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. State of West Bengal, (1960) 1 SCR 93, this Court observed that when cognizance is taken of an offence depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it is impossible to attempt to define what is meant by taking cognizance. Issuance of a search warrant for the purpose of an investigation or a warrant of arrest of accused cannot by itself be regarded as an act of taking cognizance of an offence. It is only when a Magistrate applies his mind for proceeding under Section 200 and subsequent sections of Chapter XV or under Section 204 of Chapter XVI of the Code that it can be positively stated that he had applied his mind and thereby had taken cognizance of an offence [see also Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of W.B. & Anr., (1963) Supp (1) SCR 953; Hareram Satpathy v. Tikaram Agarwala & Anr., (1978) 4 SCC 58].

21. In Gopal Das Sindhi & Ors. v. State of Assam & Anr., AIR 1961 SC 986, referring to earlier judgments, this Court said: We cannot read the provisions of Section 190 to mean that once a complaint is filed, a Magistrate is bound to take cognizance if the facts stated in the complaint disclose the commission of any offence. We are unable to construe the word may in Section 190 to mean must. The reason is obvious. A complaint disclosing cognizable offences may well justify a Magistrate in sending the complaint under Section 156(3) to the police for investigation. There is no reason why the time of the Magistrate should be wasted when primarily the duty to investigate in cases involving cognizable offences is with the police. On the other hand, there may be occasions when the Magistrate may exercise his discretion and take cognizance of a cognizable offence. If he does so then he would have to proceed in the manner provided by Chapter XVI of the Code.

23. In Darshan Singh Ram Kishan v. State of Maharashtra, (1972) 1 SCR 571, speaking for the Court, Shelat, J. stated that under Section 190 of the Code, a Magistrate may take cognizance of an offence either (a) upon receiving a complaint, or (b) upon a police report, or (c) upon information received from a person other than a police officer or even upon his own information or suspicion that such an offence has been committed. As has often been said, taking cognizance does not involve any formal action or indeed action of any kind. It occurs as soon as a Magistrate applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Cognizance, thus, takes place at a point when a Magistrate first takes judicial notice of an offence.

24. In Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy & Ors. v. V. Narayana Reddy & Ors., (1976) 3 SCC 252, this Court said:

It is well settled that when a Magistrate receives a complaint, he is not bound to take cognizance if the facts alleged in the complaint, disclose the commission of an offence. This is clear from the use of the words "may take cognizance" which in the context in which they occur cannot be equated with must take cognizance". The word "may" gives a discretion to the Magistrate in the matter. If on a reading of the complaint he finds that the allegations therein disclose a cognizable offence and the forwarding of the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) will be conducive to justice and save the valuable time of the Magistrate from, being wasted in enquiring into a matter which was primarily the duty of the police to investigate, he will be justified in adopting that course as an alternative to taking cognizance of the offence, himself.

This raises the incidental question : What is meant by "taking cognizance of an offence" by a Magistrate within the contemplation of Section 190?. This expression has not been defined in the Code. But from the scheme of the Code, the content and marginal heading of Section 190 and the caption of Chapter XIV under which Sections 190 to 199 occur, it is clear that a case can be said to be instituted in a Court only when the Court takes cognizance of the offence alleged therein. The ways in which such cognizance can be taken are set out in Clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 190(1). Whether the Magistrate has or has not taken cognizance of the offence will depend on the circumstances of the particular case including the mode in which the case is sought to be instituted and the nature of the preliminary action, if any, taken by the Magistrate. Broadly speaking, when on receiving a complaint, the Magistrate applies his mind for the purposes of proceeding under Section 200 and the succeeding sections in Chapter XV of the Code of 1973, he is said to have taken cognizance of the offence within the meaning of Section 190(1)(a). If, instead of proceeding under Chapter XV, he has in the judicial exercise of his discretion, taken action of some other kind, such as issuing a search warrant for the purpose of investigation, or ordering investigation by the police under Section 156(3), he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of any offence. [see also M.L. Sethi v. R.P. Kapur & Anr., (1967) 1 SCR 520].

25. In the case on hand, it is amply clear that cognizance of the offence was taken by the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Mumbai on May 24, 2002, i.e., the day on which the complaint was filed, the Magistrate, after hearing the counsel for the department, took cognizance of the offence and passed the following order: Mr. S.A.A. Naqvi, counsel for the department is present. Complainant is public servant. Cognizance is taken. Issue summons to accused under Section 18(2)(3) of FERA, 73 read with Central Notification and r/w Section 68(1) of the said Act and r/w 56 (1)(i) and r/w Section 49(3) (4) of FEMA, 1999. Summons returnable on 7.2.2003 at 3 p.m. (emphasis supplied)

26. Undoubtedly, the process was issued on February 3, 2003. In our judgment, however, it was in pursuance of the cognizance taken by the Court on May 24, 2002 that a subsequent action was taken under Section 204 under Chapter XVI. Taking cognizance of offence was entirely different from initiating proceedings; rather it was the condition precedent to the initiation of the proceedings. Order of issuance of process on February 3, 2003 by the Court was in pursuance of and consequent to taking cognizance of an offence on May 24, 2002. The High Court, in our view, therefore, was not right in equating taking cognizance with issuance of process and in holding that the complaint was barred by law and criminal proceedings were liable to be quashed. The order passed by the High Court, thus, deserves to be quashed and set aside.

27. It was also contended by the learned counsel for the appellant that the relevant date for considering the question of limitation is the date of filing of complaint and not taking cognizance or issuance of process by a Court of law. In this connection, our attention was invited by the counsel to Bharat Damodar Kale & Anr. v. State of A.P., (2003) 8 SCC 559 and a recent decision of this Court in Japani Sahoo v. Chandra Sekhar Mohanty, (2007) 7 SCC

394. In Japani Sahoo, one of us (C.K. Thakker, J.), after considering decisions of various High Courts as also Bharat Damodar Kale, stated:

52. The matter can be looked at from different angle also. Once it is accepted (and there is no dispute about it) that it is not within the domain of the complainant or prosecuting agency to take cognizance of an offence or to issue process and the only thing the former can do is to file a complaint or initiate proceedings in accordance with law. If that action of initiation of proceedings has been taken within the period of limitation, the complainant is not responsible for any delay on the part of the Court or Magistrate in issuing process or taking cognizance of an offence. Now, if he is sought to be penalized because of the omission, default or inaction on the part of the Court or Magistrate, the provision of law may have to be tested on the touchstone of Article 14 of the Constitution. It can possibly be urged that such a provision is totally arbitrary, irrational and unreasonable. It is settled law that a Court of Law would interpret a provision which would help sustaining the validity of law by applying the doctrine of reasonable construction rather than making it vulnerable and unconstitutional by adopting rule of litera legis. Connecting the provision of limitation in Section 468 of the Code with issuing of process or taking of cognizance by the Court may make it unsustainable and ultra vires Article 14 of the Constitution.

22. In the case of Sunil Bharti Mittal Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation AIR 2015 SC 1923 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"46. A wide discretion has been given as to grant or refusal of process and it must be judicially exercised. A person ought not to be dragged into Court merely because a complaint has been filed. If a prima facie case has been made out, the Magistrate ought to issue process and it cannot be refused merely because he thinks that it is unlikely to result in a conviction.

47. However, the words "sufficient grounds for proceeding" appearing in the Section are of immense importance. It is these words which amply suggest that an opinion is to be formed only after due application of mind that there is sufficient basis for proceeding against the said accused and formation of such an opinion is to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reason is given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is prima facie case against accused, though the order need not contain detailed reasons. A fortiori, the order would be bad in law if the reason given turns out to be ex facie incorrect.

48. However, there has to be a proper satisfaction in this behalf which should be duly recorded by the Special Judge on the basis of material on record. No such exercise is done. In this scenario, having regard to the aforesaid aspects coupled with the legal position explained above, it is difficult to sustain the impugned order dated 19.03.2013 in its present form insofar as it relates to implicating the appellants and summoning them as accused persons. The appeals arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 2961 of 2013 and SLP (Crl.) No. 3161 of 2013 filed by Mr. Sunil Bharti Mittal and Ravi Ruia respectively are, accordingly, allowed and order summoning these appellants is set aside. The appeals arising out of SLP (Crl.) Nos. 3326-3327 of 2013 filed by Telecom Watchdog are dismissed. "

23. Recently, in the case of Sunil Todi And Others Vs. State of Gujrat and Another in Criminal Appeal No. 1446 of 2021 decided on 03.12.2021 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"33. The provisions of Section 202 which mandate the Magistrate, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area of its jurisdiction, to postpone the issuance of process so as to enquire into the case himself or direct an investigation by police officer or by another person were introduced by Act 25 of 2005 with effect from 23 June 2006. The rationale for the amendment is based on the recognition by Parliament that false complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places as an instrument of harassment. In Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj20, this Court dwelt on the purpose of the amendment to Section 202, observing:

"11. Section 202 of the Code, inter alia, contemplates postponement of the issue of the process "in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction' and thereafter to either inquire into the case by himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. In the face of it, what needs our determination is as to whether in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, inquiry is mandatory or not.

12. The words "and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction' were inserted by Section 19 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act (Central Act 25 of 2005) w.e.f. 23-6-2006. The aforesaid amendment, in the opinion of the legislature, was essential as false complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places in order to harass them. The note for the amendment reads as follows:

"False complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places simply to harass them. In order to see that innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.'

The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate."

34. This Court has held that the Magistrate is duty bound to apply his mind to the allegations in the complaint together with the statements which are recorded in the enquiry while determining whether there is a prima facie sufficient ground for proceeding. In Mehmood UI Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda21, this Court followed the dictum in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate, and observed that setting the criminal law in motion against a person is a serious matter. Hence, there must be an application of mind by the Magistrate to whether the allegations in the complaint together with the statements recorded or the enquiry conducted constitute a violation of law. The Court observed:

"20. The extensive reference to the case law would clearly show that cognizance of an offence on complaint is taken for the purpose of issuing process to the accused. Since it is a process of taking judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the inquiry conducted thereon, would constitute violation of law so as to call a person to appear before the criminal court. It is not a mechanical process or matter of course. As held by this Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Judicial Magistrate [Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1400] to set in motion the process of criminal law against a person is a serious matter."

"22. The steps taken by the Magistrate under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC followed by Section 204 CrPC should reflect that the Magistrate has applied his mind to the facts and the statements and he is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding further in the matter by asking the person against whom the violation of law is alleged, to appear before the court. The satisfaction on the ground for proceeding would mean that the facts alleged in the complaint would constitute an offence, and when considered along with the statements recorded, would, prima facie, make the accused answerable before the court. No doubt, no formal order or a speaking order is required to be passed at that stage. The Code of Criminal Procedure requires speaking order to be passed under Section 203 CrPC when the complaint is dismissed and that too the reasons need to be stated only briefly. In other words, the Magistrate is not to act as a post office in taking cognizance of each and every complaint filed before him and issue process as a matter of course. There must be sufficient indication in the order passed by the Magistrate that he is satisfied that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered along with the statements recorded and the result of inquiry or report of investigation under Section 202 CrPC, if any, the accused is answerable before the criminal court, there is ground for proceeding against the accused under Section 204 CrPC, by issuing process for appearance. The application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. If there is no such indication in a case where the Magistrate proceeds under Sections 190/204 CrPC, the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is bound to invoke its inherent power in order to prevent abuse of the power of the criminal court. To be called to appear before the criminal court as an accused is serious matter affecting one's dignity, self-respect and image in society. Hence, the process of criminal court shall not be made a weapon of harassment."

These decisions were cited with approval in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar23. After referring to the purpose underlying the amendment of Section 202, the Court observed:

"25. ... the amended provision casts an obligation on the Magistrate to apply his mind carefully and satisfy himself that the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the enquiry conducted thereon, would prima facie constitute the offence for which the complaint is filed. This requirement is emphasised by this Court in a recent judgment Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda [Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124]..."

35. While noting that the requirement of conducting an enquiry or directing an investigation before issuing process is not an empty formality, the Court relied on the decision in Vijay Dhanuka which had held that the exercise by the Magistrate for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused is nothing but an enquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code.

36. In Birla Corporation Ltd. v. Adventz Investments and Holdings24, the earlier decisions which have been referred to above were cited in the course of the judgment. The Court noted:

"26. The scope of enquiry under this section is extremely restricted only to finding out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process should be issued or not under Section 204 CrPC or whether the complaint should be dismissed by resorting to Section 203 CrPC on the footing that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding on the basis of the statements of the complainant and of his witnesses, if any. At the stage of enquiry under Section 202 CrPC, the Magistrate is only concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence in support of the averments in the complaint to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

Hence, the Court held:

"33. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The application of mind has to be indicated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. Considering the duties on the part of the Magistrate for issuance of summons to the accused in a complaint case and that there must be sufficient indication as to the application of mind and observing that the Magistrate is not to act as a post office in taking cognizance of the complaint, in Mehmood Ul Rehman [Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124]..."

The above principles have been reiterated in the judgment in Krishna Lal Chawla v. State of U.P."

24. However, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Bhushan Kumar And Another vs. State (Nct Of Delhi) And Another reported in 2012 5 SCC 424 has observed as under;-

"12. A summon is a process issued by a Court calling upon a person to appear before a Magistrate. It is used for the purpose of notifying an individual of his legal obligation to appear before the Magistrate as a response to violation of law. In other words, the summons will announce to the person to whom it is directed that a legal proceeding has been started against that person and the date and time on which the person must appear in Court. A person who is summoned is legally bound to appear before the Court on the given date and time. Willful disobedience is liable to be punished under Section 174 IPC. It is a ground for contempt of court.

13. Section 204 of the Code does not mandate the Magistrate to explicitly state the reasons for issuance of summons. It clearly states that if in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, then the summons may be issued. This section mandates the Magistrate to form an opinion as to whether there exists a sufficient ground for summons to be issued but it is nowhere mentioned in the section that the explicit narration of the same is mandatory, meaning thereby that it is not a pre-requisite for deciding the validity of the summons issued.

14. Time and again it has been stated by this Court that the summoning order under Section 204 of the Code requires no explicit reasons to be stated because it is imperative that the Magistrate must have taken notice of the accusations and applied his mind to the allegations made in the police report and the materials filed therewith.

19. This being the settled legal position, the order passed by the Magistrate could not be faulted with only on the ground that the summoning order was not a reasoned order."

25. Though in the case of Bhushan Kumar (Supra) it has been held that it is not mandate that Magistrate is to explicitly state reasons for issuances of summons but the said judgment cannot be said to have endorsed the principles of law that there should not be any independent application of mind while issuing summons.

26. Coming back to the case at hand it will clearly reveal that the order under challenge summoning the applicants is nothing but on a printed proforma wherein the blanks have been filled by the pen. The said procedure so adopted by the court below is no where either provided under or contemplated in New Code. Nonetheless, in case such type of order are allowed to be made a part of the process of criminal jurisprudence it will tantamount to be a situation whereby wherein under the order of summoning the accused would be said to be final as no superior court of law can find out as to what contemplated in the mind of the Magistrate who passed the order.

27. Even otherwise, the complete set of procedure has been earmarked in the New Code for the cases arising out of the FIR as well as complaint cases. The only safeguard which is available in criminal jurisprudence at the stage of ordering for investigation is to find out as to whether offence either cognizable or non-cognizable are made out or not. The Magistrate have been empowered under law to pass orders which are not only the legal but also must contain any of the material so as to show that there has been application of mind by the Magistrate. Particularly, when the orders for summoning the individuals is a serious matter which is prone to challenge in appropriate court of law.

28. This Hon'ble Court has eventually not subscribed to the practice of summoning the accused in printed proforma in cyclostyled manner wherein the blanks are to be filled by pen in the following decisions:-

(a). In the case of Ankit Vs. State of U.P. And Another passed in Application U/S 482 No.19647 of 2009 decided on 15.10.2009, this Court has observed as under:-

"7.Paper No. 31 is the certified copy of the impugned order, which has been initialed by Sri Talevar Singh, the then judicial magistrate-III, Saharanpur. This order has been prepared by filling up the blank on the printed proforma. The blanks in the printed proforma appear to have been filled up by some employee of the court and the learned magistrate has only put his short signature (initial) above the seal of the court containing his name. All the details of the case including the name, section, P.S., district, case number and address of the applicant have been filled up by some employee of the court on the printed proforma. Therefore, this type of the order shows non- application of judicial mind on the part of the learned magistrate passing the same. After mentioning the name, parentage, address, case number, section and name of P.S. by filling up the blanks on the printed proforma, the following matter is also printed :-

"मैने आरोप पत्र, केस डायरी व अन्य प्रपत्रों का परिशीलन किया। अभियुक्त के विरूद्घ उक्त धाराओं के अपराध के विचारण का पर्याप्त प्रथम दृष्टया साक्ष्य है। अभियुक्त के विरूद्घ उक्त धाराओं के अपराध का प्रसंज्ञान लिया जाता है। आदेश हुआ कि आरोप पत्र दर्ज रजिष्टर होवे तथा अभियुक्त को द्वारा सम्मन दिनांक .....के लिए तलब किया जावे।"

8. In the beginning, the name of the court, case number, state vs. ..... under section ..... P.S. ..... District ..... case crime No. ..... /2009 also have been printed and blanks have been filled up by mentioning the case number, name of the accused, section, P.S. District etc. by some employee. Below afore cited printed matter, the following sentence has been mentioned in handwriting "अभियुक्त अंकित की गिरफ्तारी मा0 उच्च न्यायायल द्वारा Crl. Writ No. 19559/08 अंकित बनाम राज्य में पारित आदेश दिनांक 5.11.08 द्वारा आरोप पत्र प्राप्त होने तक स्थगित थी।"

Below aforesaid sentence, the seal of the court containing name of Sri Talevar Singh, the then Judicial Magistrate-III, has been affixed and the learned magistrate has put his short signature (initial) over his name. The manner in which the impugned order has been prepared shows that the learned magistrate did not at all apply his judicial mind at the time of passing this order and after the blanks were filled up by some employee of the court, he has put his initial on the seal of the court. This method of passing judicial order is wholly illegal. If for the shake of argument, it is assumed that the blanks on the printed proforma were filled up in the handwriting of learned magistrate, even then the impugned order would be illegal and invalid, because order of taking cognizance of any other judicial order cannot be passed by filling up blanks on the printed proforma. Although as held by this Court in the case of Megh Nath Guptas & Anr V State of U.P. And Anr, 2008 (62) ACC 826, in which reference has been made to the cases of Deputy Chief Controller Import and Export Vs Roshan Lal Agarwal, 2003 (4) ACC 686 (SC), UP Pollution Control Board Vs Mohan Meakins, 2000 (2) JIC 159 (SC): AIR 2000 SC 1456 and Kanti Bhadra Vs

State of West Bengal, 2000 (1) JIC 751 (SC): 2000 (40) ACC 441 (SC), the Magistrate is not required to pass detailed reasoned order at the time of taking cognizance on the charge sheet, but it does not mean that order of taking cognizance can be passed by filling up the blanks on printed proforma. At the time of passing any judicial order including the order taking cognizance on the charge sheet, the Court is required to apply judicial mind and even the order of taking cognizance cannot be passed in mechanical manner. Therefore, the impugned order is liable to be quashed and the matter has to be sent back to the Court below for passing fresh order on the charge sheet after applying judicial mind."

(b). In the case of Abdul Rasheed and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another passed in Application U/S 482 No. 7279 of 2006 decided on 06.09.2010 this Court has observed as under:-

"6. Whenever any police report or complaint is filed before the Magistrate, he has to apply his mind to the facts stated in the report or complaint before taking cognizance. If after applying his mind to the facts of the case, the Magistrate comes to the conclusion that there is sufficient material to proceed with the matter, he may take cognizance. In the present case, the summoning order has been passed by affixing a ready made seal of the summoning order on a plain paper and the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate had merely entered the next date fixed in the case in the blank portion of the ready made order. Apparently the learned Magistrate had not applied his mind to the facts of the case before passing the order dated 20.12.2018, therefore, the impugned order cannot be upheld.

7. Judicial orders cannot be allowed to be passed in a mechanical manner either by filling in blank on a printed proforma or by affixing a ready made seal etc. of the order on a plain paper. Such tendency must be deprecated and cannot be allowed to perpetuate. This reflects not only lack of application of mind to the facts of the case but is also against the settled judicial norms. Therefore, this practice must be stopped forthwith."

(c). In the case of Qavi Ahmad Vs. State of U.P. and Another passed in Criminal Revision No. 3209 of 2010 decided on 14.10.2011 this Court has observed as under:-

"Learned counsel for the revisionist has inter alia contended that the order taking cognizance and issuing process has been passed by the learned Magistrate on a printed proforma, which establishes that he has not applied his mind to the evidence on record in order to take cognizance of the offence concerned. He has relied on case laws like Harishchandra Prasad Mani and others Vs. State of Jharkhand and another (2007) 15 Supreme Court Cases 494, Fakhruddin Ahmad vs. State of Uttaranchal and another (2008) 17 Supreme Court Cases 157 and Ankit Vs. State of U.P. and others U.P. Criminal Report 2009 (3) 427.

Per contra, learned A.G.A. has argued that there are sufficient materials collected by the Investigating Officer making out a prima facie case against the accused and, therefore, the order impugned is neither incorrect nor illegal nor improper and revision lacks merit, but he has not challenged the fact that the order impugned is on printed proforma.

I have applied my judicial mind to the facts, circumstances and the order impugned.

In the case of Fakhruddin Ahmad (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that being an expression of indefinite import, it is neither practicable nor desirable to precisely define as to what is meant by "taking cognizance". Nevertheless, it is well settled that before a Magistrate can be said to have taken cognizance of an offence, it is imperative that he must have taken notice of the accusations and applied his mind to the allegations made in the complaint or in the police report or the information received from a source other than a police report, as the case may be, and the material filed therewith. It needs title emphasis that it is only when the Magistrate applies his mind and is satisfied that the allegations, if proved, would constitute an offence and decides to initiate proceedings against the alleged offender, that it can be positively stated that he has taken cognizance of the offence. Cognizance is in regard to the offence and not the offender.

In the case of Harishchandra Prasad Mani and others (supra), it was held in para 12 that it is well settled by a series of decisions of this Court that cognizance cannot be taken unless there is at least some material indicating the guilt of the accused vide R.P. Kapur v. State of Punjab AIR 1960 SC 866: (1960) 3 SCR 388: 1960 Cri LJ 1239, State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335: 1992 SCC (Cri) 426, Janata Dal v. H.S. Chowdhary (1992) 4 SCC 305: 1993 SCC (Cri) 36, Raghubir Saran (Dr.) v. State of Bihar AIR 1964 SC 1:(1964) 2 SCR 336:(1964) 1 CRi LJ 1, State of Karnataka v. M Devendrappa (2002) 3 SCC 89: 2002 SCC (Cri) 539 and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque (2005) 1 SCC 122: 2005 SCC (Cri) 283.

The bare perusal of the order impugned depicts that learned Magistrate does not appear to have applied his judicial mind towards the material collected by the Investigating Officer against the revisionist in this case.

On similar ground, this Court has already held that the impugned order being prepared and passed by filling up the blanks on the printed proforma is wholly illegal and invalid.

The result is that order impugned dated 17.7.2010, which has been prepared and passed by filling the blanks on the printed proforma, is illegal, incorrect and improper."

(d). In the case of Vineet Agarwal And 2 Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another passed in Application U/S 482 No. 15450 of 2020 decided on 11.11.2020 this Court has observed as under:-

"5. It has been further submitted that the impugned summonig order dated 11.09.2019 is not a judicial order as it has been passed on a printed proforma without recording any reasons in support of satisfaction for taking cognizance against the applicants and merely the case, Section, date of the order and date of the summon have been filled.

17. In the case of Harishchandra Prasad Mani and others (supra), it was held in para 12 that it is well settled by a series of decisions of this Court that cognizance cannot be taken unless there is at least some material indicating the guilt of the accused vide R.P. Kapur v. State of Punjab AIR 1960 SC 866: (1960) 3 SCR 388: 1960 Cri LJ 1239, State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335: 1992 SCC (Cri) 426, Janata Dal v. H.S. Chowdhary (1992) 4 SCC 305: 1993 SCC (Cri) 36, Raghubir Saran (Dr.) v. State of Bihar AIR 1964 SC 1:(1964) 2 SCR 336:(1964) 1 CRi LJ 1, State of Karnataka v. M Devendrappa (2002) 3 SCC 89: 2002 SCC (Cri) 539 and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque (2005) 1 SCC 122: 2005 SCC (Cri) 283.

18. This type of order has already been held unsustainable by this Court in the case of Ankit (supra) relying on in a number of decisions of the Apex Court. The relevant portion of the said decision, is extracted below:

"Although as held by this Court in the case of Megh Nath Guptas & Anr V State of U.P. And Anr, 2008 (62) ACC 826, in which reference has been made to the cases of Deputy Chief Controller Import and Export Vs Roshan Lal Agarwal, 2003 (4^) ACC 686 (SC), UP Pollution Control Board Vs Mohan Meakins, 2000 (2) JIC 159 (SC): AIR 2000 SC 1456 and Kanti Bhadra Vs State of West Bengal, 2000 (1) JIC 751 (SC): 2000 (40) ACC 441 (SC), the Magistrate is not required to pass detailed reasoned order at the time of taking cognizance on the charge sheet, but it does not mean that order of taking cognizance can be passed by filling up the blanks on printed proforma. At the time of passing any judicial order including the order taking cognizance on the charge sheet, the Court is required to apply judicial mind and even the order of taking cognizance cannot be passed in mechanical manner. Therefore, the impugned order is liable to be quashed and the matter has to be sent back to the Court below for passing fresh order on the charge sheet after applying judicial mind."(Emphasis supplied)

19. In view of the above, the conduct of the judicial officers concerned in passing orders on printed proforma by filling up the blanks without application of judicial mind is objectionable and deserves to be deprecated. The summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter and the order must reflect that Magistrate had applied his mind to the facts as well as law applicable thereto.

20. In light of the judgments referred to above, it is explicitly clear that the order dated 11.09.2019 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chhibramau, Kannauj is cryptic and does not stand the test of the law laid down by the Apex Court. Consequently, the order dated 11.09.2019 cannot be legally sustained, as the Magistrate failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in him/her resulting in miscarriage of justice."

(e). In the case of Ved Krishna Vs. State of U.P. and Another passed in Application U/S 482 No. 683 of 2021 decided on 11.02.2021 this Court has observed as under:-

"The learned counsel for the petitioner has given much emphasis that if the cognizance has been taken on the printed proforma, the same is not sustainable in the eye of law. In this regard, he has placed reliance on the following decisions of this Court.

Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that such a proforma order could not have been passed as the same has to necessary involve application of mind by the Magistrate concerned.

Learned AGA did not dispute the correctness of the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner.

Taking into consideration the aforesaid, this petition is allowed and the impugned summoning order dated 24.6.2019 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate,Faizabad in Criminal Case No. 6951 of 2019, State Vs. Ved Krishna and another, arising out of case crime no. 639 of 2018, under sections 494,498A,323,504 and 506 IPC, Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya, District Faizabad is set aside. The learned Magistrate concerned is directed to pass a fresh order in accordance with law within a period of one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before him."

(f). In the case of Deepak Yadav @ Lalla And Another Vs. State of U.P. and Another passed in Application U/S 482 No.

6932 of 2021 decided on 14.06.2012 this Court has observed as under:-

"Learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that in the instant case the order taking cognizance has been passed in a printed proforma by filling in the blanks and as such, the same cannot be sustained in the eyes of law being based on non application of mind and passed in a routine manner.

Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that necessary sections and the name of the applicants has been mentioned by filling in the blanks.

Considering the submissions of counsel for the parties and perusing the order, it is evident that the impugned order has been passed by filling in the blanks, which is not sustainable in the eyes of law and, therefore, the impugned order dated 5.12.2019 is liable to be set aside.

In view of the above, the impugned order dated 5.12.2019, which has been passed on a printed proforma, is set aside with a direction to the court below to pass fresh speaking and reasoned order in accordance with law preferably within two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order."

(g). In the case of Smt Rubina Khan Vs. State of U.P. and Another passed in Application U/S 482 No. 7854 of 2021 decided on 10.08.2021 this Court has observed as under:-

"It is vehemently urged by learned counsel for the applicant that the impugned summoning order dated 08.11.2019 is not sustainable in the eye of law, as the same has been passed in mechanical manner without applying the judicial mind, because on the face of record itself it is apparent that impugned summoning order dated 08.11.2019 has been passed by the Magistrate concerned on printed proforma by filling up the gaps, therefore the same is liable to be quashed by this Court.

In view of the above, the conduct of the judicial officers concerned in passing orders on printed proforma by filling up the blanks without application of judicial mind is objectionable and deserves to be deprecated. The summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter and the order must reflect that Magistrate had applied his mind to the facts as well as law applicable thereto, whereas the impugned summoning order was passed in mechanical manner without application of judicial mind.

In light of the judgments referred to above, it is explicitly clear that the order dated 5.5.2019 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Rampur is cryptic and does not stand the test of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court. Consequently, the cognizance order dated 08.11.2019 cannot be legally sustained, as the Magistrate failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in him resulting in miscarriage of justice."

29. In the light of the judgment so referred to above inescapable conclusion is drawn that the order dated 06.11.2020 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Shahjahanpur, does not stand the test of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court as referrd to above. Consequently, the cognizance order dated 06.11.2020 cannot be legally sustained and the same is liable to be set aside.

30. Accordingly, the present Criminal Misc. Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C is allowed. The impugned cognizance order dated 06.11.2020 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Shahjahanpur in Case No. 3649 of 2020, Case Crime No. 247 of 2018, under section 325, 120B I.P.C. registered at Police Station Allahganj, District Shahjahanpur is, hereby, quashed and the matter is remanded back to Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Shahjahanpur with a direction to decide afresh the issue for taking cognizance and summoning the applicants and pass appropriate orders in accordance with law keeping in view the observations made by this Court as well as the direction contained in the judgments referred to above within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified/computer generated copy of this order.

1. Heard Sri M.P. Singh Yadav, holding brief of Sri Mohammad Waseem, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Vinod Kant, learned Additional Advocate General along with Sri Arvind Kumar, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-opposite party.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking to quash the order dated 12.08.2021 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act) Court No.1, District Bareilly in Special Case No. 10 of 2020, arising out of Case Crime No. 154 of 2018 (State vs. Jeeshan) under Sections 363, 366, 376 (2) N IPC and Section 3/4 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 20121, Police Station Hafizganj, District Bareilly on the application filed by the applicant under Section 311 Cr.P.C. dated 10.08.2021 and also to direct the court below to re-consider the application filed by the applicant under Section 311 Cr.P.C. dated 10.08.2021.

3. The order dated 12.08.2021 dismissing the application filed by the applicant herein under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has taken notice of the fact that the examination-in-chief of PW-2 (victim) was recorded on 21.01.2021 and on the same date the counsel for the accused-applicant had cross-examined her. The court has also recorded that the accused-applicant has sought recall of the witness who has been already examined on the earlier date as PW-2. It has also been taken note that the cross-examination of the other witnesses is continuing and information regarding the questions which are sought to be put to PW-2, can be elicited from the other witnesses. Considering that the matter is pending since the year 2018 an inference has been drawn that the application filed under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is only to delay the proceedings. The court below further taking note that the trial is under POCSO Act which contains a provision for concluding the proceedings expeditiously, has concluded that there was no reason to allow the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. seeking recall of the witness and accordingly the same has been rejected.

4. Learned Additional Advocate General supporting the order passed by the court below has pointed out that the testimony of the PW-2 having already been recorded long back and no plausible ground having been made out by the accused-applicant for recall of the witness, the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has rightly been turned down. Learned Additional Advocate General also points out that the POCSO Act is a special Act which contains a specific provision for expeditious disposal of trial.

5. On the scope of powers to be exercised under Section 311 Cr.P.C., reliance has been placed on the decision of this Court in Ajmer vs. State of U.P.2, and also a recent decision dated 22.11.2021 in Manish vs. State of U.P. and another3.

6. The facts as noticed by the court below in the order dated 12.08.2021 whereunder the application under Section 311 has been rejected, indicate that the examination-in-chief of the victim PW-2 was recorded on 29.01.2021 and her cross-examination was also completed by the counsel for the accused-applicant on the same date. The court below has also noticed that the questions which are proposed to put to the aforesaid witness, as stated in the application under Section 311, have already been put to the witness earlier on behalf of the defence counsel. Further, the fact that the cross-examination of the other witnesses was still continuing and that the information with regard to the age of the brothers and sisters and other family members of the victim could be elicited from them, has also been taken into consideration to draw a conclusion that the application under Section 311 had been filed only with a view to delay the proceedings.

7. Another fact which has been taken note of is that the matter is pending since the year 2018 and the proceedings being under the POCSO Act, the same were required to be concluded expeditiously.

8. In this regard, it would be relevant to take notice of the fact that the POCSO Act has been enacted as a self contained comprehensive legislation interalia to provide for protection of children from the offences of sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography with due regard for safeguarding the interest and well being of the child at every stage of the judicial process, incorporating child-friendly procedures for reporting, recording of evidence, investigation and trial of offences and provision for establishment of Special Court for speedy trial of such offences.

9. The relevant provisions of the POCSO Act, which shall shortly be referred to, are being extracted below:-

"28. Designation of Special Courts.- (1) For the purposes of providing a speedy trial, the State Government shall in consultation with the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, designate for each district, a Court of Session to be a Special Court to try the offences under the Act:

Provided that if a Court of Session is notified as a children's court under the Commissions for Protection of Child Rights Act, 2005 or a Special Court designated for similar purposes under any other law for the time being in force, then, such court shall be deemed to be a Special Court under this section.

(2) While trying an offence under this Act, a Special Court shall also try an offence other than the offence referred to in sub-section (1)], with which the accused may, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, be charged at the same trial.

(3) The Special Court constituted under this Act, notwithstanding anything in the Information Technology Act, 2000 (21 of 2000), shall have jurisdiction to try offences under section 67-B of that Act in so far as it relates to publication or transmission of sexually explicit material depicting children in any act, or conduct or manner or facilitates abuse of children online.

33. Procedure and powers of Special Court.- (1) A Special Court may take cognizance of any offence, without the accused being committed to it for trial, upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence, or upon a police report of such facts.

(2) The Special Public Prosecutor, or as the case may be, the counsel appearing for the accused shall, while recording the examination-in-chief, cross-examination or re-examination of the child, communicate the questions to be put to the child to the Special Court which shall in turn put those questions to the child.

(3) The Special Court may, if it considers necessary, permit frequent breaks for the child during the trial.

(4) The Special Court shall create a child-friendly atmosphere by allowing a family member, a guardian, a friend or a relative, in whom the child has trust or confidence, to be present in the court.

(5) The Special Court shall ensure that the child is not called repeatedly to testify in the court.

(6) The Special Court shall not permit aggressive questioning or character assassination of the child and ensure that dignity of the child is maintained at all times during the trial.

(7) The Special Court shall ensure that the identity of the child is not disclosed at any time during the course of investigation or trial:

Provided that for reasons to be recorded in writing, the Special Court may permit such disclosure, if in its opinion such disclosure is in the interest of the child.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this sub-section, the identity of the child shall include the identity of the child's family, school, relatives, neighbourhood or any other information by which the identity of the child may be revealed.

(8) In appropriate cases, the Special Court may, in addition to the punishment, direct payment of such compensation as may be prescribed to the child for any physical or mental trauma caused to him or for immediate rehabilitation of such child.

(9) Subject to the provisions of this Act, a Special Court shall, for the purpose of the trial of any offence under this Act, have all the powers of a Court of Session and shall try such offence as if it were a Court of Session, and as far as may be, in accordance with the procedure specified in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973(2 of 1974) for trial before a Court of Session.

35. Period for recording of evidence of child and disposal of case.- (1) The evidence of the child shall be recorded within a period of thirty days of the Special Court taking cognizance of the offence and reasons for delay, if any, shall be recorded by the Special Court.

(2) The Special Court shall complete the trial, as far as possible, within a period of one year from the date of taking cognizance of the offence." (emphasis supplied)

10. The POCSO Act, which is a special enactment, contains provisions for designation of Special Courts under Chapter VII, and sub-section (1) of Section 28 provides for designation of a Court of Session to be a Special Court for each district to try the offences under the Act, for the purposes of providing a speedy trial.

11. The procedure and powers of Special Courts and recording of evidence is contained under Chapter VIII of the POCSO Act. Section 33 (1) empowers the Special Court to take cognizance of any offence, without the accused being committed to it for trial, upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence, or upon a police report of such facts.

12. Section 35 is with regard to the period for recording of evidence of child and disposal of case, and sub-section (1) thereof mandates that the evidence of the child shall be recorded within a period of thirty days of the Special Court taking cognizance of the offence and reasons for delay, if any, shall be recorded by the Special Court. Sub-section (2) of Section 35 provides that the Special Court shall complete the trial, as far as possible, within a period of one year from the date of taking cognizance of the offence.

13. It would be seen that the POCSO Act has been enacted as a self contained comprehensive legislation to provide for protecting of children from the sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography with due regard for safeguarding the interest and well being of the child at every stage of the judicial process, incorporating child-friendly procedures for reporting, recording of evidence, investigation and trial of offences and also provision for establishment of Special Courts for speedy trial of such offences.

14. One of the principal objectives of enactment of the POCSO Act as a special Act being for providing a special procedure to ensure speedy trial so as to protect the children in respect of certain specified offences, the provisions of the enactment would have to be interpreted in a manner so as to effectuate the object of the enactment and not to frustrate the same.

15. Having regard to the aforesaid, the conclusion drawn by the court below with regard to the application under Section 311 having been filed so as to delay the proceedings, cannot be said to be without basis in view of the object of ensuring the speedy trial under the special Act.

16. As regards, the nature and scope of the power of the court to summon, examine, recall and re-examine any witness in the context of Section 311 Cr.P.C., the said provision (and also the corresponding provision as contained in Section 540 of the Old Code of 1898) was subject matter of consideration in Mohanlal Shamji Soni v Union of India and another4, and it was held that the power in this regard is in the widest terms exercisable at any stage so long as the court is in seisin of the proceeding as may be considered essential for a just decision of the case.

17. In U.T. of Dadra and Nagar Haveli v Fatehsinh Mohansinh Chauhan5, while considering the power of the court to summon material witnesses under Section 311 Cr.P.C., it was opined that the said power can be exercised only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof of facts which may lead to a just and correct decision.

18. The nature, scope and object of Section 311 Cr.P.C. came to be extensively discussed in Zahira Habibullah Sheikh (5) and another v State of Gujarat and others6, and a view was taken that the underlying object of the provision is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side.

19. A similar view was reiterated in P. Sanjeeva Rao v State of A.P.7, after referring to the earlier decisions in Hoffman Andreas v Inspector of Customs8, Mohanlal Shamji Soni v Union of India4 and Maria Margarida Sequeria Fernandes v Erasmo Jack de Sequeria9.

20. Considering the scope and object of Section 311 Cr.P.C. in Natasha Singh v CBI10, it was held that the power conferred is to be invoked by the court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection.

"14. A conspicuous reading of Section 311 CrPC would show that widest of the powers have been invested with the courts when it comes to the question of summoning a witness or to recall or re-examine any witness already examined. A reading of the provision shows that the expression "any" has been used as a prefix to "court", "inquiry", "trial", "other proceeding", "person as a witness", "person in attendance though not summoned as a witness", and "person already examined". By using the said expression "any" as a prefix to the various expressions mentioned above, it is ultimately stated that all that was required to be satisfied by the court was only in relation to such evidence that appears to the court to be essential for the just decision of the case...It is, therefore, imperative that the invocation of Section 311 CrPC and its application in a particular case can be ordered by the court, only by bearing in mind the object and purport of the said provision, namely, for achieving a just decision of the case as noted by us earlier. The power vested under the said provision is made available to any court at any stage in any inquiry or trial or other proceeding initiated under the Code for the purpose of summoning any person as a witness or for examining any person in attendance, even though not summoned as witness or to recall or re-examine any person already examined. Insofar as recalling and re-examination of any person already examined, the court must necessarily consider and ensure that such recall and re-examination of any person, appears in the view of the court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Therefore, the paramount requirement is just decision and for that purpose the essentiality of a person to be recalled and re-examined has to be ascertained. To put it differently, while such a widest power is invested with the court, it is needless to state that exercise of such power should be made judicially and also with extreme care and caution.

17. From a conspectus consideration of the above decisions, while dealing with an application under Section 311 CrPC...we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the courts:

17.1. Whether the court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the court for a just decision of a case?

17.2. The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 CrPC should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

17.3. If evidence of any witness appears to the court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

17.4. The exercise of power under Section 311 CrPC should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

17.5. The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

17.6. The wide discretionary power should be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily.

17.7. The court must satisfy itself that it was in every respect essential to examine such a witness or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

17.8. The object of Section 311 CrPC simultaneously imposes a duty on the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision.

17.9. The court arrives at the conclusion that additional evidence is necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce the judgment without it, but because there would be a failure of justice without such evidence being considered.

17.10. Exigency of the situation, fair play and good sense should be the safeguard, while exercising the discretion. The court should bear in mind that no party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors and that if proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified.

17.11. The court should be conscious of the position that after all the trial is basically for the prisoners and the court should afford an opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible. In that parity of reasoning, it would be safe to err in favour of the accused getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against possible prejudice at the cost of the accused. The court should bear in mind that improper or capricious exercise of such a discretionary power, may lead to undesirable results.

17.12. The additional evidence must not be received as a disguise or to change the nature of the case against any of the party.

17.13. The power must be exercised keeping in mind that the evidence that is likely to be tendered, would be germane to the issue involved and also ensure that an opportunity of rebuttal is given to the other party.

17.14. The power under Section 311 CrPC must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice for strong and valid reasons and the same must be exercised with care, caution and circumspection. The court should bear in mind that fair trial entails the interest of the accused, the victim and the society and, therefore, the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the persons concerned, must be ensured being a constitutional goal, as well as a human right."

22. The power to summon material witnesses under Section 311 Cr.P.C. which falls under Chapter XXIV containing the general provisions as to inquiries and trials has been held to confer a very wide power on the courts for summoning witnesses and accordingly the discretion conferred is to be exercised judiciously as wider the power the greater is the necessity for application of judicial mind.

23. The power conferred has been held to be discretionary and is to enable the court to determine the truth after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof thereof to arrive at a just decision in the case. The power conferred under Section 311 is to be invoked by the court to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons and it is to be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The determinative factor in this regard would be whether the summoning or recalling of the witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case keeping in view that fair trial - which entails the interests of the accused, the victim and of the society - is the main object of the criminal procedure and the court is to ensure that such fairness is not hampered or threatened in any manner.

24. The aforementioned legal position has been discussed in detail in a recent decision of this court in Ajmer vs. State of U.P.2 and Manish Vs. State of U.P. and another3.

25. Counsel for the applicant has not been able to dispute the aforestated legal position with regard to the scope of the powers of the court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. and has not been able to point out any material error or illegality in the exercise of the aforesaid discretion by the court below, which may warrant interference.

26. Having regard to the aforesaid, this Court is not inclined to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in the facts of the case.

27. The application stands accordingly dismissed.

7— आवेदन पत्र सं0 20723 सन 2021 में आवेदक राहुल सिंह के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री अजीत कुमार सिंह, विपक्षी सं0 2 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री ईश्वर कुमार उपाध्याय तथा विपक्षी सं0 1 उ0 प्र0 की ओर से श्री मयंक अवस्थी विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता को सुना तथा पत्रावली का परिशीलन किया।

8— वाद के तथ्य संक्षेप में इस प्रकार है कि परिवादी द्वारा मुलजिमान/आवेदकगण के विरूद्ध अवर न्यायालय में इस आशय का परिवाद दाखिल किया गया कि परिवादी का एक प्रतिष्ठान होटल बैलियंस के नाम से फेफना में स्थित है, जिसमें परिवादी ने डेफिन कम्पनी का ए0सी0 बी0आर0बी0 तकनीक लगवाया है। ए0 सी0 गारन्टी समय में खराब हो गया, जिसकी सूचना होटल बैलियंस के प्रबन्धक द्वारा डेकिन कम्पनी के यू0पी0 प्रमुख श्री मोहित श्रीवास्तव, कार्यालय शालीमार टाइटेनियम बिल्डिंग नियर इन्दिरा प्रतिष्ठाान गोमती नगर, लखनउ एवं डेकिन कम्पनी के अधिकृत सर्विस प्रोवाइडर एवं डीलर इलेक्ट्रो वर्ल्ड के श्री राहुल सिंह को दी गयी, परन्तु ए0सी0 ठीक न हो पाने के कारण व्यवसायिक क्षति होने पर पुनः संबंधित डीलर गोरखपुर एवं डेकिन यू0पी0 प्रमुख को ई—मेल आई0डी0 पर ए0सी0 ठीक करने हेतु कई बार मेल किया गया, फिर भी प्रतिष्ठान की ए0सी0 ठीक नहीं कराये। तब उन दोनों के मोबाइल पर वार्ता किया गया तो श्री राहुल सिंह ने धमकी देते हुए कहा कि ज्यादा जल्दबाजी करोगे तो ए0सी0 को ऐसा ठीक कर दूँगा कि फिर होटल चलाने लायक भी नहीं रह जाओगे। तब दोनों को पुनः बताया गया कि ए0सी0 वर्तमान समय में गारन्टी में है और उसे ठीक कराने की सम्पूर्ण जिम्मेदारी आप लोगों की है। ए0सी0 खराब होने के कारण परिवादी के होटल की क्षति हो रही है, जिसकी सूचना होटल बैलियंस के प्रबन्धक द्वारा सम्बन्धितों को ई—मेल आई0डी0 पर ए0सी0 ठीक करने हेतु कई बार मेल एवं फोन से रूष्ट होकर डेकिंग कम्पनी के यू0पी0 प्रमुख श्री मोहित श्रीवास्तव एवं राहुल सिंह जानबूझकर षडयन्त्र करके, विद्वेषपूर्ण आशय से तथा जन धन की क्षति पहुॅचाने के उद्देश्य से दि0 20—7—2019 को प्रार्थी के होटल में ए0सी0 ठीक कराने हेतु यह कहे कि अधिकृत प्रशिक्षित कर्मचारियों को भेज रहा हूँ, कुछ कर्मचारी आए और ए0सी0 ठीक करने लगे और दि0 21—7—2019 को ए0सी0 में नाईट्रोजन गैस भरने की जगह आक्सीजन गैस कम्पनी के अधिकृत कर्मचारियों द्वारा भर दिया गया, जिसके कारण करीब एक बजे दिन में होटल में बहुत तेज धमाका हुआ और आग लग गयी, किसी तरह से होटल के कर्मचारीगण एवं ग्राहक अफरा—तफरी में भागकर अपनी जान बचाये। होटल को काफी क्षति हुयी। इसके पूर्व भी डेकिन कम्पनी के यू0पी0 प्रमुख श्री मोहित श्रीवास्तव अपने अधिकृत डिस्ट्रीब्यूटर सहज प्रताप सिंह नन्दा, फर्म व देदर प्वाइन्ट दुकान सं0 1, आदि में आग लगवा चुके हैं। इससे स्पष्ट है कि डेकिंग कम्पनी के श्री मोहित श्रीवास्तव एवं राहुल सिंह ने साजिश के तहत व जनहानि के उद्देश्य से अप्रशिक्षित लोगों को भेजकर यह पूरी घटना षडयन्त्र के तहत किये व कराये हैं। आवेदकगण के इस कार्य से होटल बैलियंस का 30—35 लाख रूपये का नुकसान हुआ है।

11— आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण ने यह भी तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि प्रभारी अग्नि शमन अधिकारी, बलिया ने तथाकथित अग्नि दुर्घटना के बारे में अपने आख्या क्रम सं0 227, मासिक सं0—7, दिनांक 21—7—19 प्रस्तुत की है, जो इस प्रकार है :—

इस प्रकार प्रभारी अग्नि शमन अधिकारी बलिया की आख्या से स्पष्ट होता है कि उक्त आग बैलियन्स होटल के कमरा नं0 206 एवं 207 में ए0सी0 में लगी थी, जो किसी के द्वारा लगायी नहीं गयी, बल्कि आग ए0सी0 में स्वयं लगी थी।

12— आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण ने पूरक शपथपत्र के साथ संलग्न, साक्षी धीरेन्द्र सिंह यादव, मुख्य अग्निशमन अधिकारी, बलिया द्वारा अवर न्यायालय के समक्ष धारा 202 दं0प्र0सं0 के अन्तर्गत दिए गए बयान की ओर न्यायालय का ध्यान आकृष्ट किया, जो इस प्रकार है :—

उपस्थित ग्राहक व कर्मचारियों की जान बच गयी। आर्थिक रूप से लगभग 1,90,000/– की क्षति आंकी गयी थी। बाद आवश्यक कार्यवाही अग्नि शमन यूनिट वापस आयी तथा यही मेरा बयान है। फायर रिपोर्ट की असल की फोटो कापी दाखिल किया गया जिस पर मेरा हस्ताक्षर है जिसकी मैं पहचान करता हूँ जिस पर प्रदर्श क–1 डाला गया।

14– इस संबंध में विद्वान अधिवक्तागण ने अपने तर्क के समर्थन में धारा 68 भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम की ओर न्यायालय का ध्यान आकृष्ट किया, जो इस प्रकार है :–

"68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested. -- If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence:

[Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied.]"

15– आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण ने अपने तर्क के समर्थन में Birla Corporation Limited Vs. Adventiz Investments and Holdings Limited and Other (2019) 16 Supreme Court Cases 610 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा प्रतिपादित विधि व्यवस्था के प्रस्तर 27, 28 एवं 32 पर विश्वास व्यक्त किया। जो निम्नवत् हैः–

27. In National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz, the Supreme Court explained the scope of enquiry and held as under:-

"9. The duty of a Magistrate receiving a complaint is set out in Section 202 CrPC and there is an obligation on the Magistrate to find out if there is any matter which calls for investigation by a criminal court. The scope of enquiry under this section is restricted only to find out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process has to be issued or not. Investigation under Section 202 CrPC is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156as it is only for holding the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. The scope of enquiry under Section 202 CrPC is, therefore, limited to the ascertainment of truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint:

(i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the court;

(ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made out; and

(iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have."

28. In Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda and Others (2015) 12 SCC 420, the scope of enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and the satisfaction of the Magistrate for issuance of process has been considered and held as under:-

"2. Chapter XV Cr.P.C. deals with the further procedure for dealing with "Complaints to Magistrate". Under Section 200 Cr.P.C, the Magistrate, taking cognizance of an offence on a complaint, shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses, if any, present and the substance of such examination should be reduced to writing and the same shall be signed by the complainant, the witnesses and the Magistrate. Under Section 202 Cr.P.C, the Magistrate, if required, is empowered to either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a competent person "for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". If, after considering the statements recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C and the result of the inquiry or investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C, the Magistrate is of the opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he should dismiss the complaint, after briefly recording the reasons for doing so.

3. Chapter XVI Cr.P.C deals with "Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrate". If, in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, the Magistrate has to issue process under Section 204(1) Cr.P.C for attendance of the accused."

32. Considering the scope of amendment to Section 202 Cr.P.C., in Vijay Dhanuka and Others v. Najima Mamtaj and Others (2014) 14 SCC 638, it was held as under:-

"12. ....The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate."

Since the amendment is aimed to prevent persons residing outside the jurisdiction of the court from being harassed, it was reiterated that holding of enquiry is mandatory. The purpose or objective behind the amendment was also considered by this Court in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar and Another (2017) 3 SCC 528 and National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Another (2013) 2 SCC 488.

18– विपक्षी सं0 2 के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण ने यह भी तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि घटना के पूर्व विपक्षी सं0 2 से आवेदगण का विवाद एवं झगड़ा हुआ था जिसके द्वेषवश होटल में लगे ए0सी0 में नाइट्रोजन की जगह आक्सीजन भर दी गयी, इस कारण आग लगी। उनका यह भी तर्क है कि जैसा कि आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क प्रस्तुत किया है, इस बारे में उनका कथन है कि शार्ट सर्किट की बात सार्टीफिकेट में नहीं कही गयी, बल्कि अवर न्यायालय में धारा 202 दं0प्र0सं0 के बयान में कही गयी है, इसलिए उनका यह कथन नहीं माना जाना चाहिए।

19– मैंने उभय पक्ष के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के तर्को के परिप्रेक्ष्य में पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य एवं उनके द्वारा, माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय पारित निर्णयों एवं विधि व्यवस्थाओं का अवलोकन किया।

22– कार्यालय को निर्देश दिया जाता है कि इस आदेश की एक प्रतिलिपि संबंधित अवर न्यायालय को अविलम्ब भेजना सुनिश्चित किया जाय।

8. Before proceeding further this Court finds necessary to quote provisions contained under Section 154 and Section 156 of the Code of Criminal Procedure which reads as under:

"154. Information in cognizable cases.

(1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub- section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in subsection (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence."

"156. Police officer' s power to investigate cognizable case.

(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2)No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above- mentioned."

9 Sub-section (1) of Section 154 Cr.P.C. itself provides that every information relating to commission of cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer-in-charge of a police station shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction and to read over to the informant and every such information whether given in writing or reduced to writing shall be signed by a person giving it and the substance thereof shall be entered in the book to be kept by the officer.

10. Further Sub-section (3) of Section 154 itself mandates that any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer-in-charge of police station to record the information referred to in Sub-section (1) may send the substance of the information in writing and by post to Senior Superintendent of Police concerned, who have satisfied that such information discloses the commission of cognizable offence shall either investigate case himself and direct an investigation to be done by a police officer subordinate to it.

11. Thus two opportunities have been provided under Section 154 of the Cr.P.C. at first instance before the concerned police authorities at the concerned police station and secondly before the Senior Superintendent of Police.

12. In case the officer-in-charge of the police station and also the Senior Superintendent of Police does not register the FIR on the basis of the information of the informant regarding commission of cognizable offence then under Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C. Magistrate may direct for lodging of the FIR.

13. The issue with respect to exercise of powers under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure has also been taken note in the case of Priyanka Srivastava and Ors. vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in AIR 2015 SC 1758 wherein para 26 and 27 following has observed:-

"26. At this stage it is seemly to state that power Under Section 156(3) warrants application of judicial mind. A court of law is involved. It is not the police taking steps at the stage of Section 154 of the code. A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate. A principled and really grieved citizen with clean hands must have free access to invoke the said power. It protects the citizens but when pervert litigations takes this route to harass their fellows citizens, efforts are to be made to scuttle and curb the same.

27. In our considered opinion, a stage has come in this country where Section 156(3) Code of Criminal Procedure applications are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the applicant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. That apart, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also can verify the veracity of the allegations. This affidavit can make the applicant more responsible. We are compelled to say so as such kind of applications are being filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility whatsoever only to harass certain persons. That apart, it becomes more disturbing and alarming when one tries to pick up people who are passing orders under a statutory provision which can be challenged under the framework of said Act or Under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. But it cannot be done to take undue advantage in a criminal court as if somebody is determined to settle the scores. We have already indicated that there has to be prior applications Under Section 154(1) and 154(3) while filing a petition Under Section 156(3). Both the aspects should be clearly spelt out in the application and necessary documents to that effect shall be filed. The warrant for giving a direction that an the application Under Section 156(3) be supported by an affidavit so that the person making the application should be conscious and also endeavour to see that no false affidavit is made. It is because once an affidavit is found to be false, he will be liable for prosecution in accordance with law. This will deter him to casually invoke the authority of the Magistrate Under Section 156(3). That apart, we have already stated that the veracity of the same can also be verified by the learned Magistrate, regard being had to the nature of allegations of the case. We are compelled to say so as a number of cases pertaining to fiscal sphere, matrimonial dispute/family disputes, commercial offences, medical negligence cases, corruption cases and the cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, as are illustrated in Lalita Kumari are being filed. That apart, the learned Magistrate would also be aware of the delay in lodging of the FIR."

14. The Full Bench of this Hon'ble Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3672 of 2000 decided on 27.4.2001, Rambabu Gupta Vs. State of U.P. in para 17 observed as under:-

"17. In view of the aforesaid discussion on the legal provisions and decisions of the Supreme Court as on date, it is hereby held that on receiving a complaint, the Magistrate has to apply his mind to the allegations in the complaint upon which he may not at once proceed to take cognizance and may order it to go to the police station for being registered and investigated. The Magistrate's order must indicate application of mind. If the Magistrate takes cognizance, he proceeds to follow the procedure provided in Chapter XV of Cr P.C. The first question stands answered thus."

15. Yet a Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Application No.9297 of 2007 decided on 18.9.2007. A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Sukhbali Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in 2007 (59) ACC 739 in para 22 has observed as under:-

"22. Applications under Section 156(3) Cr. P.C. are now coming in torrents. Provisions under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. should be used sparingly. They should not be used unless there is something unusual and extra ordinary like miscarriage of justice, which warrants a direction to the Police to register a case. Such applications should not be allowed because the law provides them with an alternative remedy of filing a complaint, therefore, recourse should not normally be permitted for availing the provisions of Section 156(3) Cr.P.C."

16. A judicial notice has been taken by this Court in the case of Sukhbali (Supra) that applications under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. are now coming in torrent and thus exercise of the powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. should be used sparingly and not in routine manner.

17. Admittedly, in the present case, the applicant had preferred an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. for the purposes of issuance of a direction for lodging an FIR against opposite parties no. 2 to 4. The application so preferred by the applicant came to be rejected by virtue of order dated 7.6.2019. The applicant being aggrieved against the same, preferred a revision no. 115 of 2019 which ultimately may be with the same fate.

18. Both the courts below have recorded a categorically findings of fact that the land in question which is being sought to be allotted by the applicant to be a Pokhar and which is being used by the opposite party nos. 2 to 4 for the purposes of construction of Panchayat Bhawan is a matter within realm and purview of civil proceedings. Even in fact both the courts below have also taken notice of the provisions contained under the U.P. Land Revenue Code, 2006 (In short 'Code, 2006') which is containing the provision with respect to dealing with those contingencies whereat the public land is being sought to be encroached or misappropriated by any person.

19. The issue in the present case can also be seen from another point of angle that here the land is being used for construction of a Panchayat Bhawan over a public land. It is not a case wherein the land is being alienated or transferred in favour of any private person but it is for a public purpose.

20. Needless to point out that it is admitted case of the applicant himself that certain resolutions have been passed for the purposes of construction of Panchayat Bhawan which implies that they are the subject matter of civil proceedings which cannot be given tinch.

21. Nevertheless, it is not a case wherein the applicant is remedyless as the entire mechanism as contained under the Code, 2006 is also available to him.

22. As already observed held by the Apex Court and this Court that an order under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. for lodging an FIR cannot be granted or mere asking as in a given case whenever an application is filed for lodging an FIR under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. then the Magistrate concerned has to apply his mind and accord a prima facie satisfaction as to whether the case warrants direction that order for lodging FIR.

23. Learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon a judgment in Criminal Revision No.4787 of 2005, Rajendra Singh Gurjer & others Vs. State of U.P. & another decided on 7.12.2017 so as to contend that in the disputes of the same nature, criminal proceedings can be instituted.

24. This Court after going through the judgement in the case of Rajendra Singh Gurje (Supra) does not find that the said case is applicable in the present facts of the case. As the facts of the said case are entirely different and no proposition of law so convinced by the applicant has been laid down.

25. Lastly, learned counsel for the applicant has drawn the attention of the court towards order dated 3.8.2021 passed in Application Under Section 482 No.13414 of 2021, Srikant Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh but the said judgment emanates from the issuance of notice, under Section 107/116 Cr.P.C.

26. Looking to the facts of the circumstances of the case as pleaded and canvassed by the learned counsel for the applicant, this Court does not find any legal infirmity in the orders passed dated 7.6.2019 and 20.8.2019 under challenge and hence the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C is liable to be dismissed.

27. No other point has been raised by learned counsel for the applicant.

28. Accordingly, the application is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar, learned counsel for the applicants and Sri K.K. Rajbhar, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The applicant herein has filed the present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing of the entire criminal proceeding against the applicants arising out of Criminal Case No. 8326 of 2020, State Vs. Ravikant & Others, relating to case crime no. 1363 of 2018, u/s 147,148, 452, 427, 323, 354-Kha & 506 IPC, P.S. Kotwali Nagar, District Etah, pending in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate Etah as well as quash the charge sheet no. 345 of 2019 dated 10.06.2019 submitted by the Investigating Officer.

3. Briefly stated facts shorn off unnecessary details are that the opposite party no. 2 lodged the FIR no. 1363 of 2018 on 22.11.2018 before the Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Etah u/s 147,148, 452, 427, 323, 307, 354-Kha & 506 IPC alleging therein that the opposite party no. 2 is the legally wedded wife of the Amar Singh, R/o Uddaitpur, P.S. Kotwali Nagar, District Etah and she has her own house at Uddaitpur and the opposite party no. 2 was tying her cattle in that house but one Rajesh who happens to be the owner of the small plot just behind the plot of opposite party no. 2, attempted to illegally occupy the property of the opposite party no. 2. According to the opposite party no. 2, she had made a complaint before the police authority regarding the illegal and forcible attempts for taking possession of the land of the opposite party no. 2 in question. However, on 20.11.2018 at about 3 O' clock when the opposite party no. 2 was preparing the feed of the cattle then Rajesh along with Ravikant S/o Charan Singh, Charan Singh S/o unknown, Shushila W/o Rajesh, Ramnath S/o unknown, Pappu S/o Ramnath, Ramsewak S/o Ajvir Singh gathered on a particular point and after discussion, came before the opposite party no. 2 along with the wooden stick and pistol. It is also alleged in the FIR that Pappu was in possession of a pistol and the other accomplishes were having wooden sticks and they wanted to encroach upon the property of the opposite party no. 2 and when the opposite party no. 2 resisted the aforesaid, they started beating her with wooden stick and also humiliated her and further it has been alleged that the they had torn her clothes on account whereof she became semi naked and she started screaming then, the neighbours came in rescue of the opposite party no. 2. At the relevant point of time, Pappu started firing in the air and the aforesaid accused started beating with intention to kill the sons of opposite party no. 2 being Shivam and Veerpal and they also fired upon them and when the aforesaid accused were being resisted by the persons who are standing over there, they ran away.

4. It appears that the Investigating Officer thereafter submitted the charge sheet dated 10.06.2019 against the applicants u/s 147,148, 452, 427, 323, 354-Kha & 506 IPC and the cognizance thereof was taken on 11.09.2020.

5. Aggrieved by the same, the applicants are now before this Court and seeking to challenge the charge sheet dated 10.06.2019.

6. In order to appreciate the controversy between the parties it is apt to refer to section 482 Cr.P.C. which reads as under:-

"Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

7. A plain reading u/s 482 Cr.P.C. itself shows that the same starts with notwithstanding clause and the same confers inherent power upon the High Court to make such order as may be necessary to give effect to any order under the code or to prevent abuse of process of Court or otherwise to ensure the ends of justice.

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab reported in AIR 1960 SC 866 has the occasion to consider the parameter provisions contained under section 561-A of the Cr.P.C. 1898 viz a viz the provisions contained under section 482 of the Cr.P.C. 1973 and the Hon'ble Supreme Court has carved out the same exceptions which relating to exercise of inherent power as conferred under section 482 Cr.P.C. referable to quash all the criminal proceeding at the behest of the accused.

"(i) Where it manifestly appears that there is a legal bar against the institution or continuance of the criminal proceeding in respect of the offence alleged. Absence of the requisite sanction may, for instance, furnish cases under this category.

(ii) Where the allegations in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not constitute the offence alleged; in such cases no question of appreciating evidence arises; it is a matter merely of looking at the complaint or the first information report to decide whether the offence alleged is disclosed or not.

(iii) Where the allegations made against the accused person do constitute an offence alleged but there is either no legal evidence adduced in support of the case or the evidence adduced clearly or manifestly fails to prove the charge. In dealing with this class of cases it is important to bear in mind the distinction between a case where there is no legal evidence or where there is evidence which is manifestly and clearly inconsistent with the accusation made and cases where there is legal evidence which on its appreciation may or may not support the accusation in question. In exercising its jurisdiction under Section 561- A the High Court would not embark upon an enquiry as to whether the evidence in question is reliable or not. That is the function of the trial Magistrate, and ordinarily it would not be open to any party to invoke the High Court's inherent jurisdiction and contend that on a reasonable appreciation of the evidence the accusation made against the accused would not be sustained."

9. The following judgment in the case of R.P. Kapoor (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 held as under:-

"102.(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the Act concerned, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

10. The law laid down in the case of R.P. Kapoor (Supra) and Bhajan Lal (Supra) was also reiterated in the case of State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. Golconda Linga Swami (2004) 6 SCC 522 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"5. Exercise of power under Section 482 of the Code in a case of this nature is the exception and not the rule. The section does not confer any new powers on the High Court. It only saves the inherent power which the Court possessed before the enactment of the Code. It envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised, namely: (i) to give effect to an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. It is neither possible nor desirable to lay down any inflexible rule which would govern the exercise of inherent jurisdiction. No legislative enactment dealing with procedure can provide for all cases that may possibly arise. Courts, therefore, have inherent powers apart from express provisions of law which are necessary for proper discharge of functions and duties imposed upon them by law. That is the doctrine which finds expression in the section which merely recognises and preserves inherent powers of the High Courts. All courts, whether civil or criminal, possess in the absence of any express provision, as inherent in their constitution, all such powers as are necessary to do the right and to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice on the principle quando lex aliquid alique concedit, conceditur et id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest (when the law gives a person anything, it gives him that without which it cannot exist). While exercising powers under the section, the Court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It is to be exercised ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone courts exist. Authority of the court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse that authority so as to produce injustice, the court has power to prevent such abuse. It would be an abuse of the process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation or continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. When no offence is disclosed by the complaint, the court may examine the question of fact. When a complaint is sought to be quashed, it is permissible to look into the materials to assess what the complainant has alleged and whether any offence is made out even if the allegations are accepted in toto.

7. In dealing with the last category, it is important to bear in mind the distinction between a case where there is no legal evidence or where there is evidence which is clearly inconsistent with the accusations made, and a case where there is legal evidence which, on appreciation, may or may not support the accusations. When exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable appreciation of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge. Judicial process, no doubt should not be an instrument of oppression, or, needless harassment. Court should be circumspect and judicious in exercising discretion and should take all relevant facts and circumstances into consideration before issuing process, lest it would be an instrument in the hands of a private complainant to unleash vendetta to harass any person needlessly. At the same time the section is not an instrument handed over to an accused to short-circuit a prosecution and bring about its sudden death.....

8. As noted above, the powers possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are very wide and the very plenitude of the power requires great caution in its exercise. Court must be careful to see that its decision in exercise of this power is based on sound principles. The inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the Court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. Of course, no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage. [See Janata Dal v. H.S. Chowdhary [(1992) 4 SCC 305 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 36 : AIR 1993 SC 892] and Raghubir Saran (Dr.) v. State of Bihar [AIR 1964 SC 1 : (1964) 1 Cri LJ 1] .] It would not be proper for the High Court to analyse the case of the complainant in the light of all probabilities in order to determine whether a conviction would be sustainable and on such premises, arrive at a conclusion that the proceedings are to be quashed. It would be erroneous to assess the material before it and conclude that the complaint cannot be proceeded with. In a proceeding instituted on complaint, exercise of the inherent powers to quash the proceedings is called for only in a case where the complaint does not disclose any offence or is frivolous, vexatious or oppressive. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognisance has been taken by the Magistrate, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code. It is not, however, necessary that there should be meticulous analysis of the case before the trial to find out whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal. The complaint/FIR has to be read as a whole. If it appears that on consideration of the allegations in the light of the statement made on oath of the complainant or disclosed in the FIR that the ingredients of the offence or offences are disclosed and there is no material to show that the complaint/FIR is mala fide, frivolous or vexatious, in that event there would be no justification for interference by the High Court. When an information is lodged at the police station and an offence is registered, then the mala fides of the informant would be of secondary importance. It is the material collected during the investigation and evidence led in court which decides the fate of the accused person. The allegations of mala fides against the informant are of no consequence and cannot by themselves be the basis for quashing the proceeding."

11. Yet, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque (2005) 1 SCC 122 has observed as under:-

"11. ... the powers possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are very wide and the very plenitude of the power requires great caution in its exercise. Court must be careful to see that its decision in exercise of this power is based on sound principles. The inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. The High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. of course, no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage. It would not be proper for the High Court to analyse the case of the complainant in the light of all probabilities in order to determine whether a conviction would be sustainable and on such premise arrive at a conclusion that the proceedings are to be quashed. It would be erroneous to assess the material before it and conclude that the complaint cannot be proceeded with. In a proceeding instituted on complaint, exercise of the inherent powers to quash the proceedings is called for only in a case where the complaint does not disclose any offence or is frivolous, vexatious or oppressive. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken by the Magistrate, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code. It is the material collected during the investigation and evidence led in court which decides the fate of the accused person. The allegations of mala fides against the informant are of no consequence and cannot by themselves be the basis for quashing the proceedings."

12. Further, in the case of Sanapareday Maheedhar Seshagiri v. State of Andhra Pradesh (2007) 13 SCC 165 the Hon'ble Apex Court has in pare 31 has further observed as under:-

"31. A careful reading of the abovenoted judgments makes it clear that the High Court should be extremely cautious and slow to interfere with the investigation and/or trial of criminal cases and should not stall the investigation and/or prosecution except when it is convinced beyond any manner of doubt that FIR does not disclose commission of any offence or that the allegations contained in FIR do not constitute any cognizable offence or that the prosecution is barred by law or the High Court is convinced that it is necessary to interfere to prevent abuse of the process of the Court. In dealing with such cases, the High Court has to bear in mind that judicial intervention at the threshold of the legal process initiated against a person accused of committing offence is highly detrimental to the larger public and societal interest. The people and the society have a legitimate expectation that those committing offences either against an individual or the society are expeditiously brought to trial and, if found guilty, adequately punished. Therefore, while deciding a petition filed for quashing FIR or complaint or restraining the competent authority from investigating the allegations contained in FIR or complaint or for stalling the trial of the case, the High Court should be extremely careful and circumspect. If the allegations contained in FIR or complaint disclose commission of some crime, then the High Court must keep its hands off and allow the investigating agency to complete the investigation without any fetter and also refrain from passing order which may impede the trial. The High Court should not go into the merits and demerits of the allegations simply because the petitioner alleges malus animus against the author of FIR or the complainant. The High Court must also refrain from making imaginary journey in the realm of possible harassment which may be caused to the petitioner on account of investigation of FIR or complaint. Such a course will result in miscarriage of justice and would encourage those accused of committing crimes to repeat the same. However, if the High Court is satisfied that the complaint does not disclose commission of any offence or prosecution is barred by limitation or that the proceedings of criminal case would result in failure of justice, then it may exercise inherent power under Section 482 CrPC."

13. Further in the case of State of Telangana v. Habib Abdullah Jeelani, (2017) 2 SCC 779 the Supreme Court has held in categorically terms that the inherent powers so conferred u/s 482 Cr.P.C. can only be exercised in an appropriate case where no cognizable offence is disclosed in the FIR.

14. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated the principles of law as enumerated right from the decision in the case of R. P. Kapoor (Supra) and in the case of M/S Neeharika, Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. vs. State Of Maharashtra and others reported in AIR 2021 SC 192 and the paragraph no. 23 culled the following propositions of law which is enumerated hereinunder:-

i) Police has the statutory right and duty under the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure contained in Chapter XIV of the Code to investigate into a cognizable offence;

ii) Courts would not thwart any investigation into the cognizable offences;

iii) It is only in cases where no cognizable offence or offence of any kind is disclosed in the first information report that the Court will not permit an investigation to go on;

iv) The power of quashing should be exercised sparingly with circumspection, as it has been observed, in the "rarest of rare cases (not to be confused with the formation in the context of death penalty).

v) While examining an FIR/complaint, quashing of which is sought, the court cannot embark upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR/complaint;

vi) Criminal proceedings ought not to be scuttled at the initial stage;

vii) Quashing of a complaint/FIR should be an exception rather than an ordinary rule;

iii) Ordinarily, the courts are barred from usurping the jurisdiction of the police, since the two organs of the State operate in two specific spheres of activities and one ought not to tread over the other sphere;

ix) The functions of the judiciary and the police are complementary, not overlapping;

x) Save in exceptional cases where non-interference would result in miscarriage of justice, the Court and the judicial process should not interfere at the stage of investigation of offences;

xi) Extraordinary and inherent powers of the Court do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the Court to act according to its whims or caprice;

xii) The first information report is not an encyclopaedia which must disclose all facts and details relating to the offence reported. Therefore, when the investigation by the police is in progress, the court should not go into the merits of the allegations in the FIR. Police must be permitted to complete the investigation. It would be premature to pronounce the conclusion based on hazy facts that the complaint/FIR does not deserve to be investigated or that it amounts to abuse of process of law. After investigation, if the investigating officer finds that there is no substance in the application made by the complainant, the investigating officer may file an appropriate report/summary before the learned Magistrate which may be considered by the learned Magistrate in accordance with the known procedure; xiii) The power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is very wide, but conferment of wide power requires the court to be more cautious. It casts an onerous and more diligent duty on the court;

xiv) However, at the same time, the court, if it thinks fit, regard being had to the parameters of quashing and the self-restraint imposed by law, more particularly the parameters laid down by this Court in the cases of R.P. Kapur (supra) and Bhajan Lal (supra), has the jurisdiction to quash the FIR/complaint;

xv) When a prayer for quashing the FIR is made by the alleged accused and the court when it exercises the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C., only has to consider whether the allegations in the FIR disclose commission of a cognizable offence or not. The court is not required to consider on merits whether or not the merits of the allegations make out a cognizable offence and the court has to permit the investigating agency/police to investigate the allegations in the FIR; xvi) The aforesaid parameters would be applicable and/or the aforesaid aspects are required to be considered by the High Court while passing an interim order in a quashing petition in exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. However, an interim order of stay of investigation during the pendency of the quashing petition can be passed with circumspection. Such an interim order should not require to be passed routinely, casually and/or mechanically. Normally, when the investigation is in progress and the facts are hazy and the entire evidence/material is not before the High Court, the High Court should restrain itself from passing the interim order of not to arrest or "no coercive steps to be adopted" and the accused should be relegated to apply for anticipatory bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. before the competent court. The High Court shall not and as such is not justified in passing the order of not to arrest and/or "no coercive steps" either during the investigation or till the investigation is completed and/or till the final report/chargesheet is filed under Section 173 Cr.P.C., while dismissing/disposing of the quashing petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

xvii) Even in a case where the High Court is prima facie of the opinion that an exceptional case is made out for grant of interim stay of further investigation, after considering the broad parameters while exercising the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India referred to hereinabove, the High Court has to give brief reasons why such an interim order is warranted and/or is required to be passed so that it can demonstrate the application of mind by the Court and the higher forum can consider what was weighed with the High Court while passing such an interim order.

xviii) Whenever an interim order is passed by the High Court of "no coercive steps to be adopted" within the aforesaid parameters, the High Court must clarify what does it mean by "no coercive steps to be adopted" as the term "no coercive steps to be adopted" can be said to be too vague and/or broad which can be misunderstood and/or misapplied.

15. In nutshell, it can be safely said that while exercising the powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. the courts of law have to be cautious in exercising of power as extent and the limit of the power is nowhere codified or defined anywhere. The exercise of inherent power is to done in a manner in which there is no scope of injustice as the powers so exercised under the said provisions is to prevent injustice and to secure the ends of justice. However, the powers so conferred under section 482 Cr.P.C. as interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court while defining the scope and the ambit as well as also extent is to be in such a manner there should be prevention of judicial process being exercised by vindictive litigants.

16. Though, obviously the powers so exercised cannot be put in straitjacket formula as the same has to be exercised as per the facts and circumstances of individual cases in hand. Needless to point out that in an appropriate case and in the light of mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court as referred to above the High courts are not helpless in undoing any wrong or injustice as the only purpose for insertion of section 482 Cr.P.C. is to secure justice and eliminate the chances of any accused being allowed to walk away. Nonetheless, the inherent powers so exercised under section 482 Cr.P.C. is also engrafted just in order to wriggle out an innocent person, who has been falsely implicated in a criminal case. In other words, section 482 Cr.P.C. is a devise in eliminating injustice.

17. On the touch stone of the aforesaid proposition of law as culled out by the Hon'ble Apex court the present case is to be decided.

18. Learned counsel for the applicant has sought to argue that he has not committed any offence as alleged in the FIR culminating into submission of charge sheet. In other words the principal submission of the learned counsel for the applicant is to the extent that he is innocent and the entire allegation so sought to be levelled against him are false and mala fide act. The learned counsel for the applicant has argued on factual score.

19. The learned A.G.A. has argued that at a pre-trial stage, the factual issues cannot be gone into and no roving inquiry can be made at this stage in exercise of inherent jurisdiction contained under sectio 482 Cr.P.C. According to the learned A.G.A., the factual issues so sought to be canvassed by the applicant is to be dealt with at the stage of trial as it might be a defence of the applicant who as a named accused.

20. Having gone through the rival submission of the contesting parties, this Court finds that admittedly FIR was lodged on 22.11.2018 by the opposite party no 2 against the applicant being FIR No. 1363 of 2018 pursuant thereto the proceedings as contemplated under section Cr.P.C. 1973 was followed and charge sheet was submitted on 10.06.2019 by the Investigating Officer and on 11.09.2020 cognizance whereof was taken.

21. On a pointed repeated query being made to the counsel for the applicant as to whether there was any jurisdictional error committed by the court below while issuing summoning order dated 11.09.2020, the learned counsel for the applicant could not point out any jurisdictional error. However, the learned counsel for the applicant has sought to argue on the factual aspects of the matter so as to contend that the allegations which are false and incorrect and further an argument was also sought to be made to such an extent that no cognizable offence is being made out from the bare perusal of the FIR.

22. As noticed above, this Court under inherent power under section 482 Cr.P.C. cannot embark any roving inquiry at pre-trial stage.

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly cautioned the High Court while exercising the power under section 482 Cr.P.C. being inherent powers that it should be exercised sparingly and in circumspection in the rarest of rare case as inherent powers cannot be exercised to scuttle the investigation at pre-trial stage.

24. This Court while going through the FIR as well as charge sheet and the pleadings set forth by the learned counsel for the applicant, finds inability to accept the argument so sought to be raised by the counsel for the applicant.

25. Resultantly, in absence of any infirmity or illegality pointed out by the learned counsel for the applicant, no good ground is made to quash the charge sheet as well as the summoning order, as even otherwise, this Court find that this is not a fit case wherein inherit jurisdiction power under section 482 Cr.P.C. 1973, be invoked.

26. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present application under section 482 Cr.P.C. accordingly, it is liable to be dismissed.

27. However, needless to point out that it is always open for the applicant to prefer appropriate application before the court below seeking bail.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjay Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant and Ms. Sushma Soni, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-respondents.

2. The present application under section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking to quash the order dated 21.09.2021 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/FTC Court No.2, Mainpuri in S.T. No. 393 of 2013 (State vs. Manish and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 407 of 2012, under Sections 452, 302, 364, 201, 34 IPC, P.S. Karhal, District Mainpuri, whereby the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. moved by the applicant has been rejected.

3. While considering the application filed by the accused-applicant under Section 311 Cr.P.C. the learned trial court has taken notice of the fact that the case was at the stage of final arguments and the witness (PW-1) who was sought to be summoned in terms of the said application had already appeared and had been cross-examined at length by the counsel of the accused-applicant. The trial court on the basis of the aforestated facts has taken a view that in case the accused-applicant wished to impeach the testimony of the PW-1 it would be open for him to do so during the course of final arguments and the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. at this advanced stage of proceedings was only with a view to cause delay in disposal of the case. The application under section 311 Cr.P.C. seeking recall of the witness was accordingly rejected.

4. Learned Additional Government Advocate has submitted that the power to summon witnesses under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is purely discretionary and in the present case the trial being at the stage of final arguments, the application filed by the applicant/informant could not be said to be bona fide and the court below having exercised its discretionary jurisdiction in the matter no interference was called for.

5. The nature and scope of the power of the court to summon, examine, recall and re-examine any witness in the context of Section 311 Cr.P.C. (and also the corresponding provision as contained in Section 540 of the Old Code of 1898) was subject matter of consideration in Mohanlal Shamji Soni v Union of India and another1, and it was held that the power in this regard is in the widest terms exercisable at any stage so long as the court is in seisin of the proceeding as may be considered essential for a just decision of the case.

6. In U.T. of Dadra and Nagar Haveli v Fatehsinh Mohansinh Chauhan2, while considering the power of the court to summon material witnesses under Section 311 Cr.P.C., it was opined that the said power can be exercised only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof of facts which may lead to a just and correct decision.

7. The nature, scope and object of Section 311 Cr.P.C. came to be extensively discussed in Zahira Habibullah Sheikh (5) and another v State of Gujarat and others3, and a view was taken that the underlying object of the provision is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side.

8. A similar view was reiterated in P. Sanjeeva Rao v State of A.P.4, after referring to the earlier decisions in Hoffman Andreas v Inspector of Customs5, Mohanlal Shamji Soni v Union of India4 and Maria Margarida Sequeria Fernandes v Erasmo Jack de Sequeria6.

9. Considering the scope and object of Section 311 Cr.P.C. in Natasha Singh v CBI7, it was held that the power conferred is to be invoked by the court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection.

"14. A conspicuous reading of Section 311 CrPC would show that widest of the powers have been invested with the courts when it comes to the question of summoning a witness or to recall or re-examine any witness already examined. A reading of the provision shows that the expression "any" has been used as a prefix to "court", "inquiry", "trial", "other proceeding", "person as a witness", "person in attendance though not summoned as a witness", and "person already examined". By using the said expression "any" as a prefix to the various expressions mentioned above, it is ultimately stated that all that was required to be satisfied by the court was only in relation to such evidence that appears to the court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Section 138 of the Evidence Act, prescribed the order of examination of a witness in the court. The order of re-examination is also prescribed calling for such a witness so desired for such re-examination. Therefore, a reading of Section 311 CrPC and Section 138 Evidence Act, insofar as it comes to the question of a criminal trial, the order of re-examination at the desire of any person under Section 138, will have to necessarily be in consonance with the prescription contained in Section 311 CrPC. It is, therefore, imperative that the invocation of Section 311 CrPC and its application in a particular case can be ordered by the court, only by bearing in mind the object and purport of the said provision, namely, for achieving a just decision of the case as noted by us earlier. The power vested under the said provision is made available to any court at any stage in any inquiry or trial or other proceeding initiated under the Code for the purpose of summoning any person as a witness or for examining any person in attendance, even though not summoned as witness or to recall or re-examine any person already examined. Insofar as recalling and re-examination of any person already examined, the court must necessarily consider and ensure that such recall and re-examination of any person, appears in the view of the court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Therefore, the paramount requirement is just decision and for that purpose the essentiality of a person to be recalled and re-examined has to be ascertained. To put it differently, while such a widest power is invested with the court, it is needless to state that exercise of such power should be made judicially and also with extreme care and caution.

17. From a conspectus consideration of the above decisions, while dealing with an application under Section 311 CrPC read along with Section 138 of the Evidence Act, we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the courts:

17.1. Whether the court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the court for a just decision of a case?

17.2. The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 CrPC should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

17.3. If evidence of any witness appears to the court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

17.4. The exercise of power under Section 311 CrPC should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

17.5. The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

17.6. The wide discretionary power should be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily.

17.7. The court must satisfy itself that it was in every respect essential to examine such a witness or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

17.8. The object of Section 311 CrPC simultaneously imposes a duty on the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision.

17.9. The court arrives at the conclusion that additional evidence is necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce the judgment without it, but because there would be a failure of justice without such evidence being considered.

17.10. Exigency of the situation, fair play and good sense should be the safeguard, while exercising the discretion. The court should bear in mind that no party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors and that if proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified.

17.11. The court should be conscious of the position that after all the trial is basically for the prisoners and the court should afford an opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible. In that parity of reasoning, it would be safe to err in favour of the accused getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against possible prejudice at the cost of the accused. The court should bear in mind that improper or capricious exercise of such a discretionary power, may lead to undesirable results.

17.12. The additional evidence must not be received as a disguise or to change the nature of the case against any of the party.

17.13. The power must be exercised keeping in mind that the evidence that is likely to be tendered, would be germane to the issue involved and also ensure that an opportunity of rebuttal is given to the other party.

17.14. The power under Section 311 CrPC must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice for strong and valid reasons and the same must be exercised with care, caution and circumspection. The court should bear in mind that fair trial entails the interest of the accused, the victim and the society and, therefore, the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the persons concerned, must be ensured being a constitutional goal, as well as a human right."

11. The power to summon material witnesses under Section 311 Cr.P.C. which falls under Chapter XXIV containing the general provisions as to inquiries and trials has been held to confer a very wide power on the courts for summoning witnesses and accordingly the discretion conferred is to be exercised judiciously as wider the power the greater is the necessity for application of judicial mind.

12. The power conferred has been held to be discretionary and is to enable the court to determine the truth after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof thereof to arrive at a just decision in the case. The power conferred under Section 311 is to be invoked by the court to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons and it is to be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The determinative factor in this regard would be whether the summoning or recalling of the witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case keeping in view that fair trial - which entails the interests of the accused, the victim and of the society - is the main object of the criminal procedure and the court is to ensure that such fairness is not hampered or threatened in any manner.

13. The aforementioned legal position has been discussed in detail in a recent decision of this court in Ajmer vs. State of U.P.9.

14. Learned counsel for the applicant has not disputed the fact that the trial is at the stage of final arguments. It is also not disputed that the PW-1 had duly appeared as witness and was cross-examined by the counsel for the accused-applicant at length.

15. Counsel for the applicant has not been able to dispute the aforestated legal position with regard to the exercise of power of the court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. and has not been able to point out any material error or illegality in the exercise of the aforesaid discretion by the court below so as to warrant interference.

16. Having regard to the aforesaid, this court is not inclined to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to interfere in the matter.

17. The application stands accordingly dismissed.

3. Sanjeev Kapoor Vs Chandana Kapoor & ors., (2020) 13 SCC 172

1. This Criminal Revision has been filed under Section 19 (4) of the Family Courts Act, 1984 against the impugned Orders dated 07.10.2021 & 26.10.2021 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Court No.-10, Family Court, Lucknow in Criminal Misc. Case No. 1024 of 2006 in Re: Smt. Rajrani and 2 others vs. Om Prakash, on an application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. relating to Police Station Malihabad, District Lucknow.

2. At the outset, learned counsel for the revisionist has stated that he had earlier filed Revision No. 838 of 2021, which was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file a fresh revision by this Court vide its order dated 07.12.2021. The application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was filed by the opposite party no.2 alongwith her two children, who were minors at that time and have now become major and arrayed as opposite party no. 3 and 4. Such application was filed on 27.11.2006 stating, therein, that she was constantly being harassed with the demand of more dowry ever since the time of her marriage she was also thrown out from the matrimonial home. Later on a compromise occurred between the parties due to the intervention of family and friends. She came back to the matrimonial house where a son was born to her, later on a daughter was also born to her and at the time of making such application they were aged four years and two and a half years, respectively. After the daughter was born, the relationship between the applicant and the revisionist soured to such extent that she had to leave her matrimonial home again and is now residing in her parental house. Since September 2006 till the date of filing of application, no maintenance was given to her by her husband.

3. The applicant was uneducated and unskilled woman and it has been difficult for her to raise her two children, therefore, the maintenance application was filed. On the other hand, the revisionist owned five bighas of land, where he grew vegetables and earned round about Rs.15,000/- per month, also, he was doing wholesale business in Kanpur from which he earned around Rs.15,000/- to Rs. 20,000/- per month. The income of the revisionist being more than 30,000/- per month, a prayer was made that the applicant and her two children be granted Rs. 20,000/- per month as maintenance.

4. The revisionist after issuance of notice filed written statement objection. Thereafter documentary and oral evidence were taken. Thereafter, learned trial court passed the order impugned by which the application of the revisionist paper no. C-45 for forensic examination of the handwriting and photographs in the documentary evidence that were produced by the revisionist was prayed to be got done. The revisionist had argued that in the cross-examination of the applicant on 17.10.2019, she had admitted that the two children who were shown in the photograph were not that of the revisionist, and the handwriting and signatures on paper no. C-32/5 and C-32/6 were not her's.

5. Learned trial court placed reliance upon Section 14 of the Family Courts Act with regard to the power of the Family Court to take documentary evidence into account for a proper adjudication of the case. Even such documentary evidence could be looked into which under the Evidence Act, 1972 was otherwise not admissible. Learned trial court observed that the opposite party who was merely delaying the decision on the application under Section 125 of the Cr.P.C. by moving such an application for getting forensic examination done. In the written statement that were filed by him and the objections paper no. A-3, he had not taken any such objections that were now being raised at the time of arguments that the applicant had married some other person and that the children were not his. The application no.C-45 was rejected and a direction was issued that the matter be listed on 16.10.2021 as the High Court had already passed an order saying that the application of maintenance be decided within three months.

6. The revisionist, thereafter, filed another application C-53, supported by an affidavit praying for review and modification of the order dated 07.10.2021. It was stated that paper no. C32/5 and C-32/6 have been referred to in the order dated 07.10.2021 to be photocopies of original document, however, they were actually the original documents which had been submitted in a sealed cover and were attached alongwith the paper book in its record. This showed that the learned trial court had not even opened the sealed cover and taken a look at paper no. C-32/5 and C-32/6. It was on these papers that his whole defence regarding application for maintenance filed by the applicant were based. Such documents would show that the applicant was living outside the matrimonial home alongwith her children, out of her own sweet will.

7. It was also argued by the learned counsel for the revisionist that a reference had been made during the course of the argument to the judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil No. 2243 of 2009, Lakshmi & Another vs. Chinnammal @ Rayyammal & Ors; and another judgement rendered in Sanjeev Kapoor vs. Chandana Kapoor and Others in Criminal Appeal No. 286 of 2020, but the learned trial court failed to appreciate the law settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court correctly and rejected the application by saying that under the Criminal Procedure Code an order cannot be modified or reviewed by any trial court.

8. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionist that the perusal of the judgements rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sanjeev Kapoor vs. Chandana Kapoor and Others (2020) 13 SCC 172 in Criminal Appeal No. 286 of 2020 decided on 19.02.2020, which was cited before the trial court would show that the Court had considered the arguments regarding Section 362 Cr.P.C. and the bar mentioned therein for review/modification of order passed by the Criminal Court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court had observed that orders passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. can be modified on subsequent events taking place for example, when an application for enhancement of maintenance is filed by the applicant. The Hon'ble Supreme Court had observed in paragraph 21 that the legislature was aware that there are and may be the situations where altering or reviewing of criminal court judgement is contemplated in the Code itself or any other law for the time being in force. For example Under Section 145 Cr.P.C. the rigours of Section 362 Cr.P.C. were relaxed. Similarly, Section 125 Cr.P.C. alongwith its Sub-Sections 125 as well as Section 127 of the Cr.P.C. were considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and it also considered the trial court's jurisdiction to alter the maintenance on proof of change in circumstances of any person receiving such maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C., or where it appeared to the Magistrate that in consequence of any decision of the competent civil court any order made under Section 125 Cr.P.C. should be cancelled or varied, or where any order has been made under Section 125 Cr.P.C. in favour of a woman who has been divorced or has obtained a divorce from her husband, and that after divorce she has re-married or that she has received permanent alimony.

Several such instances were referred to by the Hon'ble Supreme Court where the order passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was capable of alteration in terms of the language of different Sections of the Cr.P.C. itself.

9. In paragraph 27 of the report, it referred to Section 362 of the Cr.P.C. and then observed that such embargo is expressly relaxed in a proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C., and therefore, the Family Court was entitled to cancel its earlier order and pass a different order in the facts and circumstances of the case before it.

10. This Court having considered the judgement rendered in Sanjeev Kapoor vs. Chandana Kapoor and Others and also the orders dated 26.10.2021 and 07.10.2021 finds that the learned trial court has rejected the modification application paper no. C-53 as also the application paper no. C-45 of the revisionist without looking into the law settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sanjeev Kapoor(Supra) although the same was cited before it.

11. Accordingly, this revision is disposed of and the orders dated 07.10.2021 and 26.10.2021 are set aside with a direction to the learned trial court to consider both the applications afresh in the light of the judgements rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sanjeev Kapoor(Supra) and pass appropriate orders thereafter within a period of six weeks. from the date of the copy of this order be produced before it.

A. Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – Section 13(1) – Family dispute – Divorce – Cruelty – Proof – Criminal complaint by the wife against husband – Relevancy – Held, mere fact that the wife had lodged the criminal complaint on the allegations of atrocities committed by the husband after a compromise had been arrived between the parties would not be a reason to hold that the complaint was false and the wife had committed cruelty by lodging the said report – The ground for seeking the decree of divorce, i.e cruelty, taken by the husband in the plaint could not be proved by bringing any cogent material on record – The bald assertion of the husband in his statement recorded before the Family Court is not sufficient to prove cruelty on the part of the wife – High Court found the findings returned by the trial court for granting the divorce on the ground of cruelty not sustainable. (Para 13 and 15)

B. Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – Section 13(1) – Divorce – Irretrievable Breakdown of Marriage – Relevancy – Held, the `irretrievable breakdown of marriage' not being a ground of divorce under Section 13(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, the decree of divorce cannot be granted on the said ground while deciding the appeal arising out of the proceeding under Section 13(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act. (Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sunita Agarwal, J.
Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. No one has put in appearance on behalf of the appellant-wife.

2. A perusal of the order dated 04.10.2021 passed by this Court indicates that the parties had appeared in the Court personally but they have not been able to reconcile. The appeal, thus, has been posted for final disposal.

3. Heard learned counsel for the respondent and perused the record.

4. This is wife's appeal against the judgment and order dated 17.05.2006 whereby divorce decree had been passed in favour of the husband.

5. A perusal of the impugned order of the Family Court indicates that the decree of divorce had been granted on the premise that the wife had lodged a false complaint namely Case Crime No.6 of 2003 against the husband which had resulted in incarceration of the husband for 4 days and as such the wife had caused mental cruelty upon the husband. On account of the trauma, the mother of the respondent-husband had died. It was further noted that initially on the similar complaint sought to be filed by the wife, a compromise had been arrived between the parties in the police station and both the parties had reconciled with the intervention of the Station House Officer which made it evident that there was no serious dispute. However, the wife had turned around and contacted the Senior Superintendent of Police again to lodge the report on the allegations of demand of dowry. The Family Court has, thus, opined that the wife had exaggerated the whole matter and lodged a false complaint against the husband for demand of dowry. In such a situation, the marital relationship between the parties had been completely broken and the decree of divorce was liable to be granted.

6. Learned counsel for the respondent-husband, has, defended the decree on the premise that there was no reasonable excuse with the wife to leave her matrimonial home after the compromise had been arrived between the parties with the intervention of wise persons and lastly the police. The wife was guilty of not honouring the terms of the compromise and leaving her matrimonial home without any reason.

7. It is further submitted that the appellant-wife was harassing the respondent and pressurising him to leave his mother alone and move to her paternal home. When the respondent-husband did not accede to the said request she had threatened him to lodge a false complaint and with dire consequences. On 21.11.2002, when the respondent-husband was at home, she had left the house with all jewellery, clothes and Rs.5,000/- without any information. In the proceeding under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, however, a compromise had been arrived between them on 09.02.2003 and thereafter, the wife had returned to her matrimonial home. But, again on 17.03.2003, she had left with all the clothes and jewellery in the absence of her husband and despite best efforts of the husband, she did not return and lodged a criminal case on the allegations of demand of dowry. On account of the said cruelty inflicted by his wife, the widow mother of the appellant had died which had resulted in severe mental cruelty to the respondent-husband and as such he was constrained to file the divorce suit.

8. Testing these submissions of the learned counsel for the respondent, having gone through the findings returned by the Family Court as also the statements of the appellant-wife and the respondent-husband, we may note that there are allegations and counter allegations of the parties against each other. On the one hand, the respondent husband had pleaded that his wife had left her matrimonial home without any reasonable excuse and she had taken all clothes and jewellery alongwith cash of Rs.5,000/- on 21.11.2002 when he was present in his house but there is no statement of the husband that he had tried to stop his wife from leaving her matrimonial home. After compromise between the parties, on 09.02.2003 the wife had returned to her matrimonial home. As per the version of the husband, the wife had left her matrimonial home again on 17.03.2003 in his absence taking all clothes and jewellery.

9. This version of the respondent that the appellant-wife had again left her matrimonial home on 17.03.2003 with clothes and jewellery seems to be false at its face value. The reason being that as per own version of the husband, while leaving her matrimonial home on 21.11.2002 his wife had taken all her clothes and jewellery then where was the occasion for her to take the clothes and jewellery again on 17.03.2003, moreso, when the husband had not stated that his wife had brought back her jewellery on returning to her matrimonial home on 09.02.2003.

10. In the said circumstance, the allegations of husband that the wife had left her matrimonial home in his absence with all clothes and jewellery per se appears to be false. We may further note that no report had been lodged by the husband that the wife had taken jewellery on 17.03.2003 other than her stree-dhan in his absence. Further, apart from the bald assertions of the husband, there is no other evidence on record which would substantiate the allegations of the husband that his wife had refused to discharge her matrimonial obligations without any reasonable excuse.

11. On the other hand, the appellant wife in her statement recorded on 15.05.2006 had categorically stated that she was thrown out of her matrimonial home by the husband after she was assaulted physically. Her husband used to demand dowry and assault her on account of which a report was sought to be lodged by her when a compromise had been arrived on 23.01.2003 with the intervention of the police. The copy of the compromise is on record. However, her husband had again thrown her out and hence she had lodged the report. She has categorically stated that she did want divorce.

12. We may further note that in terms of the compromise dated 23.01.2003 the wife had returned to her matrimonial home on 09.02.2003, but, thereafter, in barely one month, she had to approach the Senior Superintendent of Police on 17.3.2003 to lodge the first information report regarding the demand of dowry after she was thrown out as per her version.

13. No one knows as to what had happened inside the four walls of the house. But the record indicates that the marriage was solemnised on 06.03.2002 and the dispute arose within 4-5 months of the marriage. The allegations and counter allegations are made by the couple to assert that the fault lies on the other side. In this circumstance, it is not possible for the Court to find out as to who was at fault. But that by itself cannot be a reason to grant divorce. The respondent-husband, who is the plaintiff in the divorce suit, was required to substantiate his allegations of commission of cruelty by the wife by bringing cogent evidence. Mere fact that the wife had lodged the criminal complaint on the allegations of atrocities committed by the husband after a compromise had been arrived between the parties would not be a reason to hold that the complaint was false and the wife had committed cruelty by lodging the said report. The ground for seeking the decree of divorce, i.e cruelty, taken by the husband in the plaint could not be proved by bringing any cogent material on record. The bald assertion of the husband in his statement recorded before the Family Court is not sufficient to prove cruelty on the part of the wife.

14. Considering the discussion in the judgment and order dated 17.05.2006, we find that the Family Court had been swayed away by the fact of lodging of the first information report under Section 498-A I.P.C after the wife had left her matrimonial home on 09.02.2003. In any case, the earlier compromise between the parties with the intervention of the police or the act of the wife in lodging the first information report cannot be a reason to presume that only she was at fault and there was no fault on the part of the husband, moreso, when the wife had come forward with the categorical assertion that she was thrown out of her matrimonial home by the husband after beating her.

15. The findings returned by the trial court for granting the divorce on the ground of cruelty, therefore, are not sustainable.

16. Further contention of the learned counsel for the respondent-husband is that the couple are separated for the last 18 years and there are no chances of revival of matrimonial relationship and hence the husband is entitled for the decree of divorce on the ground of 'irretrievable breakdown of marriage', in view of the decision of the Apex Court in the cases of Naveen Kohli vs. Neelu Kohli 2006 (4) SCC 558 and Prakash Chandra Kapoor vs. Smt. Ritu Kapoor 2005 (2) SCC 22.

17. Considering this contention of the learned counsel for the appellant we may note that no such ground for divorce exists in the Hindu Marriage Act. In an appropriate cases, the Apex Court has granted decree of divorce exercising its unique jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution of India, to do complete justice between the parties. Such a course had been adopted in various kinds of cases where there were inter se allegations between the parties and in order to put a quietus to the matter, where the parties withdrew those allegations and by mutual consent.

18. It has been noted by the Apex Court in Shivsankaran vs. Santhimeenal reported in 2021 (5) ALD 286 that the Law Commission in its 71st report made recommendation while departing from the fault theory of divorce to recognise situations where a marriage has completely broken and there is no possibility of reconciliation. It had recommended for incorporation of the situation where neither party need individually be at fault for a breakdown of the marriage which may be the result of prolonged separation, clash of personalities, or incompatibility of the couple. As noted in the Law Commission report, such marriages are merely a shell out of which the substance is gone. For such situations, the Law Commission recommended that the law be amended to provide for 'irretrievable breakdown of marriage' as an additional ground of divorce.

This recommendation was reiterated in its 217th report in the year, 2010 by the Commission. But, these recommendations, have not been implemented. The bill introduced by the Government in the year 2010 namely the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2010, reintroduced as the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2013, was never passed.

19. It is observed therein that under the Hindu Law, the institution of marriage is sacramental in character and is supposed to be an eternal union of two people. The society at large does not accept divorce, given the heightened importance of marriage as a social institution in India. It is more difficult for women to retain social acceptance after a decree of divorce. This, coupled with the law's failure to guarantee economic and financial security to women in the event of a breakdown of marriage; is stated to be the reason for the legislature's reluctance to introduce irretrievable breakdown as a ground for divorce-even though, there may have been a change in social norms over a period of time. Not all persons come from the same social background, and having a uniform legislative enactment is thus, stated to be difficult. It is in these circumstances that the Apex Court has been exercising its jurisdiction, despite such reservations, under Article 142 of the Constitution of India.

20. As regards the proceedings before us, the present appeal under Section 19 of the Family Courts Act is nothing but an extension of the proceedings of the trial court. While exercising the power of appellate Court, we can grant the decree of divorce in a petition under Section 13(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, only, in case, any of the grounds for seeking divorce as provided under the said Section is found to be in existence. The 'irretrievable breakdown of marriage' not being a ground of divorce under Section 13(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, the decree of divorce cannot be granted on the said ground while deciding the appeal arising out of the proceeding under Section 13(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act.

21. The contention of the learned counsel for the respondent seeking dismissal of the appeal on the ground that there are no chances of revival of matrimonial relationship and the husband is entitled for the decree of divorce on account of "irretrievable breakdown of marriage", therefore, is found devoid of merits.

22. As noted above, the respondent-husband has not been to establish the plea of cruelty by the wife i.e. the ground taken by him to seek the decree of divorce in the petition under Section 13(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act filed in the year 2003. The wife has made a categorical claim that she had been thrown out of her matrimonial home as the husband was demanding dowry. The criminal case had been lodged by the wife upon intervention of the Superintendent of Police. Nevertheless, during pendency of the present appeal, on the application filed by the appellant-wife, vide order dated 01.04.2013, monthly maintenance of Rs.10,000/- w.e.f. 01.04.2013 onwards had been awarded. The order-sheet indicates that the order of interim maintenance was not complied with. As a result of which, on 26.05.2014, direction was issued to the respondent to clear all arrears of interim maintenance till June, 2014. The arrears of maintenance had been paid only upon the intervention of the Court. Again, the order dated 06.10.2016 in the order sheet indicates that the respondent-husband did not pay the interim maintenance. It was, therefore, observed in the order dated 17.10.2016 that the appellant-wife was at liberty to recover the amount of maintenance as arrears of land revenue as was due till that date and for future.

23. Again on 21.01.2016, this Court had to issue a non-bailable warrant to ensure presence of the respondent in custody to provide interim maintenance to the appellant-wife. And only after the respondent-husband had appeared in custody before this Court on 05.12.2016, he had deposited the arrears of maintenance by way of cheque in the account of appellant-wife. Again, by the order dated 08.11.2017, with a view to end the ordeal of the wife, it was directed by this Court that the monthly maintenance of Rs.10,000/- shall be transferred directly in her bank account through RTGS by 7th of each succeeding month.

24. Further, an application No.83384 of 2017 supported by an affidavit was filed by the wife seeking for enhancement of compensation as determined vide order dated 01.04.2013 as well as to grant litigation expenses in lump sum.

25. While disposing of the said application, it has been noted in the order dated 12.12.2017 that there had been repeated defaults in payment of monthly maintenance as fixed by this Court though the respondent was earning a handsome amount on monthly basis being employed as permanent driver in Railways and after enforcement of 7th Pay Commission, there had been substantial increase in his salary. An additional income of Rs.20,000/- per month was stated to be earned by the husband in view of the lease rent of the property owned by him. The husband, however, did not respond to the application of wife and hence, having noted that the assertions of wife remained uncontroverted, monthly maintenance of Rs.30,000/- per month was fixed from December, 2017 payable by 7th of each succeeding month. In addition to the same, the appellant-wife has been held entitled to litigation expenses in lump sum for Rs.30,000/-, payable within a period of one month.

26. The recall application seeking recall of the order dated 12.12.2017 filed by the respondent-husband had been dismissed vide order dated 10.12.2018 with the observations as under:-

"2. This is an application seeking recall of this Court's order dated 12.12.2017 whereby amount of maintenance was enhanced to Rs. 30,000/- per month considering the fact that monthly salary of respondent-husband w.e.f. 01.01.2016 is more than Rs. 1 lac.

3. This factum of salary, we find is not in dispute and, therefore, looking to entire facts and circumstances, we do not find any reason to recall the order dated 12.12.2017. Application is accordingly rejected."

27. The order dated 28.09.2020 further indicates that the learned counsel for the respondent-husband was directed to prepare a draft of the entire defaulted amount outstanding against the appellant-wife and produce the same on the next date fixed. There is nothing on record to indicate whether the draft had been presented by the respondent-husband.

28. The above facts make it evident that the respondent-husband, in utter disregard of the directions of this Court, has refused to maintain his legally wedded wife since 2013. Prior to that, the wife was not getting maintenance as neither interim maintenance was awarded by the Family Court nor permanent alimony was granted while decreeing the divorce suit. Resultantly, the appellant-wife has been neglected by the respondent-husband since the year 2003 when, according to him, she had left her matrimonial home on her own. The vague assertions in the divorce petition of the wife of leaving her matrimonial home without any reasonable excuse could not be established by bringing any cogent material on record. It, thus, appears that the respondent-husband has utterly failed to discharge his matrimonial obligation. For the fact that the dependent wife has failed in matrimonial alliance, she cannot be left as a destitute. The moral and legal duty of the husband to maintain his wife is not discharged by the institution of the divorce suit.

29. It is settled that the maintenance laws have been enacted as a measure of social justice to provide recourse to dependent wife and children for their financial support; so as to prevent them from falling into destitution and vagrancy. Article 15(3) of the Constitution of India reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India envisages a positive role of the State in fostering change towards the empowerment of women and has led to the enactment of various legislations from time to time. In Romesh Chander Kaushal vs. Veena Kaushal reported in 1978 (4) SCC 70, Krishna Ayyar J., while considering the object of maintenance laws observed as under:-

"9. This provision is a measure of social justice and specially enacted to protect women and children and falls within the constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39. We have no doubt that sections of statutes calling for construction by courts are not petrified print but vibrant words with social functions to fulfill. The brooding presence of the constitutional empathy for the weaker sections like women and children must inform interpretation if it has to have social relevance. So viewed, it is possible to be selective in picking out that interpretation out of two alternatives which advances the cause- the cause of the derelicts."

30. The Apex Court in the case of Rajnesh vs. Neha & another reported in 2021 (2) SCC 324 considering the scope of the law of interim maintenance has held that the pre-requisite for grant of maintenance under Section 24 of the Hindu Marriage Act is that the applicant does not have independent income, which is sufficient for her or his support, during pendency of the lis. Section 24 of the Hindu Marriage Act provides for maintenance pendente lite, where the Court may direct to pay the expenses of the proceedings and pay such monthly amount, which is considered to be reasonable, having regard to the income of both the parties. While considering the criteria for determination of the quantum of maintenance, it is observed that there can not be any straitjacket formula and the quantum would depend upon the factual situations and the Court should mould the claim for maintenance based on various factors before it. The objective of granting interim/permanent alimony is to ensure that the dependent spouses is not reduced to destitution or vagrancy on account of the failure of the marriage.

31. In the instant case, it is admitted on record that the appellant-wife has no source of income whereas the respondent-husband is a permanent driver in Railways and is earning a handsome salary. For a long time, during the pendency of the present appeal, the respondent-husband has succeeded in flouting the orders of this Court granting interim maintenance to sustain the appellant-wife. Payments of some arrears had been made only upon intervention of the Court and at one point of time, the Court had to require the presence of the respondent-husband in custody. This situation, further leads to the belief that the fault lies on the part of the husband in not honouring his matrimonial obligations. It is settled law that a person seeking a relief in the Court of law cannot take benefit of his own wrong.

32. The appellant-wife has already suffered a lot on account of negligence of her husband. The respondent husband being a wrongdoer cannot be allowed to walk away out of the matrimonial alliances on the ground that the marriage has broken down. For this reason also, the plea for grant of decree of divorce on the ground of "irretrievable breakdown of marriage" is not acceptable.

33. Lastly, we may note that the respondent-husband has sought decree of divorce on irrelevant grounds based on reckless allegations and the wife is living separately since 2003 without any financial support. In order to prevent the appellant-wife from reaching the stage of destitution, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, we find it just and proper that monthly maintenance be awarded to the appellant-wife as has been fixed by this Court to the tune of Rs.30,000/-, which shall be payable to her regularly even after the decision of the present appeal.

34. We are conscious of the situation that we are denying the decree of divorce to the respondent-husband while allowing the present appeal and the result is that the matrimonial relationship between the parties subsist. Consequently, the husband and wife are obliged by law to live together and in such case the respondent-husband would obviously maintain his wife. However, in this case, the possibility of the parties living together seems remote. The respondent has been neglected his wife who is living separately for a long time for no reason.

35. Section 18 of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 recognises the right of a Hindu wife to seek maintenance from her husband during her life-time while living separately from her husband. Sub-Section (2) of Section 18 provides that a Hindu wife shall be entitled to live separately from her husband without forfeiting her claim to maintenance; if he is guilty of desertion, i.e. abandoning her without reasonable cause and without her consent or against her wish, or of willfully neglecting her.

36. In the instant case, it is evident from the record that the respondent-husband has abandoned his wife without any reasonable cause and filed the suit for divorce on irrelevant grounds to get rid of her. He has been willfully neglecting her during the continuation of the divorce proceedings and denied payment of interim maintenance (bare means of sustenance) fixed by this Court during the pendency of the present appeal.

37. The right to claim maintenance under Section 18 of the Act, 1956 is a substantive right. The Family Courts constituted under the Family Courts Act, 1984 have jurisdiction exercisable by a Civil Court in respect of the suits and proceedings, of the nature referred to in the explanation to Section 7(1) of the Family Courts Act, which includes a suit or proceeding for maintenance.

38. Under the scheme of the Act' 1984, the Family Courts have been given liberty to lay down their own procedure with a view to arrive at the truth of the facts alleged by one party denied by the other, i.e. for effective determination of the dispute before it under Section 10(3) of the Family Courts Act' 1984. Strict rule of evidence is not applicable in the proceedings before the Family Courts and the evidences are generally accepted on affidavits.

39. The present appeal under Section 19 of the Family Courts Act is extension of the proceedings of the Family Court. Meaning thereby, this Court can exercise the same jurisdiction as has been conferred upon the Family Court under the Family Courts Act, 1984.

40. For the claim of maintenance under Section 18 of the HAM Act, the appellant wife has to approach the Family Court. The appellant has suffered for long having been neglected by her husband who took vow to maintain her. We cannot be oblivious of the fact that in case the appellant-wife is directed to approach the Family Court, she may be dragged in a long drawn litigation to get the bare means of sustenance, i.e. maintenance from her husband. The respondent who did not obey this Court's order will not easily agree to pay the maintenance. In the said scenario, we see no reason to leave the wife abandoned and relegate her to seek maintenance by instituting fresh proceedings before the Family Court which may take years.

41. For the above reason, exercising the jurisdiction of the appellate court under Section 19 of the Family Court Act' 1984 invoking the provisions of Section 18 of the Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956, we are of the considered opinion that while the wife is forced to live separately as the respondent-husband has deserted her without any reasonable excuse, she is entitled for monthly maintenance during her life-time which is being fixed to the tune of Rs.30,000/- per month as has been determined by this Court, after consideration of the affidavits of the parties.

42. However, the appellant-wife is at liberty to seek enhancement of the maintenance amount by moving a proper application (by bringing fresh action) before the competent court in accordance with law.

43. Further, in case the husband is ready to discharge his matrimonial obligations by keeping his wife alongwith him and the appellant-wife agrees to his request, i.e. if the parties agree to live together in future, the above direction to pay interim maintenance shall stand automatically modified in terms of the agreement and the liability of the respondent-husband to maintain his wife by paying the fixed monthly maintenance, would stand exhausted.

44. However, the appellant wife is held entitled to the arrears of monthly maintenance from the date it has been fixed by this Court vide order dated 01.04.2003, and enhanced by the order dated 12.12.2017, till the date of this order. In addition to the same, the cost of the proceedings to the tune of Rs.30,000/- in lump sum, as determined by the order dated 12.12.2017, is also liable to be paid, if remained unpaid.

45. We further provide that the arrears of monthly maintenance and the litigation expenses, if not paid in full, shall be paid within a period of two months from today.

46. In case of any default on the part of the respondent-husband to pay the monthly maintenance or the arrears thereof and the litigation expenses as directed above, it would be open for the appellant-wife to seek execution by approaching the competent Court and in that case the entire outstanding amount would be liable to be recovered as arrears of land revenue. In the alternative, the appellant wife would be at liberty to approach the employer of the respondent-husband to seek deduction directly from his salary and to transmit the monthly maintenance and the outstanding arrears in her saving bank account.

47. For the above discussion, the judgment and order dated 17.05.2006 passed by the Additional Family Judge, Allahabad in Marriage Petition No. 26 of 2003 granting the decree of divorce is found suffering from serious infirmity and is hereby set aside. The Matrimonial Petition no.26 of 2003 (Lalji vs Vijay Laxmi) stands dismissed.

48. With the observations and directions made above, the appeal is allowed.

DATED: ALLAHABAD 29.10.2021

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIKAS BUDHWAR, J.

Second Appeal No. 445 of 2019

Naval Singh ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Radha Dixit ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Capt Seema Singh, Sri Vinay Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 – Section 100 – Second Appeal – Substantial question of law – Determination – Principle discussed – The proper test for determining whether a question of law raised in the case is substantial would, in our opinion, be whether it is of general public importance or whether it directly and substantially affects the rights of the parties and if so whether it is either an open question in the sense that it is not finally settled by this Court or by the Privy Council or by the Federal Court or is not free from difficulty or calls for discussion of alternative views – Sir Chunilal's case relied upon – High Court found that no substantial question of law is involved in the appeal. (Para 20 and 39)

B. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 – Section 100 – Second Appeal – Concurrent finding of fact, when can be interfered with – The general rule is, that High Court will not interfere with the concurrent findings of the Courts below. But it is not an absolute rule. Some of the well-recognised exceptions are where (i) the courts below have ignored material evidence or acted on no evidence; (ii) the courts have drawn wrong inferences from proved facts by applying the law erroneously; or (iii) the courts have wrongly cast the burden of proof – Nazir Mohamed's case relied upon. (Para 24)

C. Evidence Law - Evidence Act, 1872 – Sections 101 & 102 – Burden of proof, on whom it lie – Held, it is the plaintiff-appellant, who had to prove the existence of a fact (fraud practised to it and the burden is upon it) – Until and unless the plaintiff-appellant discharges its burden of proof, the burden cannot be shifted upon the defendant-respondent – Anil Rishi's case and Rattan Singh's case relied upon. (Para 29)

D. Evidence Law - Evidence Act, 1872 – Section 68 - Proviso – Registration Act, 1908 – S. 17 – Proof of the registered documents – Calling of the attesting witnesses, whether required or not – Held, in view of the proviso attached to Section 68 of 1872, it was not necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of an execution of a document, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of Indian Registration Act, 1908, unless its execution by a person by whom it purports to have been executed specifically denies. (Para 34)

E. Evidence Law - Evidence Act, 1872 – Registered documents – Proof – Presumption of its validity – Held, there is a presumption that a registered document is validly executed and a registered document, therefore, prima facie, would be valid in law. (Para 35)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This is a second appeal purported to be under Section 100 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 challenging the validity and the legality of the judgment, order and decree dated 17.1.2019 passed by the Court of IVth Addl. District Judge, Agra in Civil Appeal No. 47 of 2018, Naval Singh vs. Smt. Radha Dixit, as well as the judgment, order and decree dated 25.2.2017 passed by the Court of Small Causes / Civil Judge, Agra in Original Suit no. 526 of 2010, Naval Singh vs. Smt. Radha Dixit.

2. Briefly stated, facts shorn of unnecessary details are that plaintiff-appellant as per the averments contained in the plaint in Original Suit No. 526 of 2010 instituted before the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Agra being Naval Singh Vs. Smt. Radha Dixit had claimed himself to be the absolute owner and in actual physical possession of demised property being Khasra no. 688 and 672, Rakba 0.023 hect, situate at Sikri (2 hissa), Tehsil Kirawali, district Agra.

3. According to the plaintiff-appellant, the defendant respondent being Smt. Radha Dixit wife of Sri Shanti Swaroop is residing just in front of the plaintiff-appellant. As per the case set up in the plaint, the plaintiff-appellant has alleged that he was in dire need of financial assistance to the tune of Rs.20,000/- for house and family members, accordingly, the plaintiff-appellant approached the husband of defendant-respondent being Sri Shanti Swaroop and he showed his willingness to grant financial assistance to the plaintiff-appellant, provided that a security/ mortgage deed is executed by the plaintiff-appellant in favour of the defendant-respondent. It was, therefore, settled between the plaintiff-appellant on the one hand and defendant-respondent on the other hand that a mortgage/ security deed will be executed for grant of financial assistance to the tune of Rs.20,000/-, and thus, the plaintiff-appellant, defendant-respondent and her husband went to Tehsil-Kirawali on 16.8.2008 for the purposes of registration of security / mortgage instrument.

4. Plaintiff-appellant has further alleged that the defendant got prepared some document from the document-writer and the plaintiff-appellant, thereafter, on the belief that mortgage / security deed is being sought to be registered so he effected his thumb impression and accordingly, the instrument in question was registered by the Registrar, so presented therein on 16.8.2008. The plaintiff-appellant has further asserted in its plaint in Original Suit No. 526 of 2010, Sri Naval Singh Vs. Smt. Radha Dixit, which finds place as Annexure-1 at Page-64 of the stay application to the present appeal, that the registration, which was done at 16.6.2008, was a registered sale deed in place of mortgage/ security deed and then the defendant-respondent started threatening the plaintiff-appellant since 21.6.2008 for forcible and illegal dispossession, then the plaintiff was constrained to institute Original Suit no. 526 of 2010 before the Court of Civil Judge (S.D.), Agra, Naval Singh Vs. Radha Dixit, verified on 12.7.2010 seeking following reliefs: -

"A. That it be declared that sale deed dated 16.6.2008 purporting to be executed by plaintiff in favour of defendants is illegal invalid avoidable obtained by playing fraud and does not effect the right of plaintiff in disputed plot in any whatsoever and is liable to be set aside.

B. That a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction be passed in favour of plaintiffs and against defendants restraining the defendants her agent or associates from causing any sort of interference in peaceful possession over disputed plot either by forcible and illegal dispossession subsequent transfer to any other person or in any other manner whatsoever.

C. The cost of suit be awarded to the plaintiff against defendants.

D. That any other relief which the Hon'ble Court Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case be awarded to the plaintiff against the defendants."

5. On being noticed, the defendant-appellant filed its written statement verified on 2.12.2010 refuting the averments and the allegations contained in the plaint mentioning therein that on 16.6.2008, registered sale deed was executed with respect to the demised property by the plaintiff-appellant in favour of the defendant-respondent and the plaintiff-appellant himself was present before the Registrar and he had endorsed his thumb impression and he very well knew about the nature of the transaction, so sought to be entered culminating into registration of sale deed on 16.6.2008 and further the plaintiff-appellant had also received and was paid Rs.1,20,000/- in lieu of the sale consideration and thus, the suit was itself not maintainable and it was liable to be dismissed.

6. It appears that the Original Suit No. 526 of 2010, Naval Singh Vs. Smt. Radha Dixit was transferred to the Small Causes Court/ Civil Judge, Agra (hereinafter referred to as the Trial Court), wherein the following issues were framed :

"1. Whether in view of the averments in the allegations conained in the Original Suit No.526 of 2010, the sale deed dated 16.6.2008 is liable to be declared null and void?

2. Whether the plaintiff-appellant is entitled to permanent declaration as sought for?

3. Whether the suit is properly valued?

4. Whether sufficient court fees has been paid?

5. Whether any cause of action has arisen in favour of the plaintiff- appellant?

6. Whether the trial court has the jurisdiction to adjudicate the suit?

7. Whether the suit barred under Section 60 of the Registration Act?

8. Whether the suit barred under the provisions under Order VII Rule 11 CPC?

9. Other relief?"

7. The Trial Court after analysing the pleadings set-forth by the parties as well as the documents available on record proceeded to hold Issue Nos. 1, 2, 5 and 9 against the plaintiff and issue nos. 3, 4, 6, 7 and 8 in favour of the plaintiff-appellant. In nutshell, the Trial Court dismissed the suit, so instituted by the plaintiff-appellant holding that the plaintiff-appellant had failed to prove any fraud committed by the defendant-respondent in the matter of the execution of the sale deed dated 16.6.2008, in view of the fact that the plaintiff-appellant was himself present before the Registrar and he had endorsed his thumb impression and an amount of Rs.1,20,000/- was paid to him in lieu of the transaction, so conducted vide registered sale deed dated 16.6.2008.

8. Challenging the judgment, order and decree dated 25.2.2007 passed in Original Suit no. 526 of 2010 by the Trial Court, the plaintiff-appellant preferred the appeal being Civil Appeal No.47 of 2018, Naval Singh Vs. Smt. Radha Dixit before the Court of District Judge, Agra, which was later on transferred to IVth Additional District Judge, Agra (hereinafter referred to as the Lower Appellate Court).

9. The Lower Appellate Court has framed the following issues: -

"(i) Whether the finding recorded by the Trial Court holding that the plaintiff-appellant was unsuccessful in proving the fact that the registered sale deed dated 16.6.2008 was equated with fraud?

(ii) What relief the plaintiff-appellant is entitled to be granted?"

10. The Lower Appellate Court vide its judgment, order and decree dated 17.1.2009 as dismissed the appeal preferred by the plaintiff-appellant while concurring with the findings recorded by the Trial Court.

11. Further, challenging both the orders as referred to above, the plaintiff-appellant has filed the present second appeal under Section 100 of the CPC, 1908. In the memo of appeal, the plaintiff-appellant has framed the following substantial questions of law: -

"1. Whether the plaintiff suit is barred by the provisions of sec. 34 of the Specific Relief Act when he is owner and in possession of the property in suit.

2. Whether the learned trial Court erred in deciding the issue that plaintiff appellant has no locus for relief of cancellation of sale deed on the ground of averments made in suit.

3. Whether the lower appellate court erred in not appreciating the evidence educated by plaintiff-appellant.

4. Whether the judgment and decree passed by trial Court as well as appellate court is vitiated in law as being based on conjectures and surmises."

12. Before adverting to the substantial question of law, so framed by the plaintiff-appellant, this Court has to bear in its mind while deciding the present controversy, the relevant facts that there are concurrent findings of fact recorded both by the Trial Court as well as by the Appellate Court.

13. In nutshell, the plaintiff-appellant has to place its case within the parameters was envisaged under Section 100 of the CPC, 1908.

14. Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code (CPC), which provides for a Second Appeal, as amended by the Civil Procedure Code (Amendment) Act, 104 of 1976, with effect from 1.2.1977, provides as follows:-

"100. Second Appeal. - (1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from every decree passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to the High Court, if the High Court is satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law.

(2) An appeal may lie under this section from an appellate decree passed ex parte.

(3) In an appeal under this section, the memorandum of appeal shall precisely state the substantial question of law involved in the appeal.

(4) Where the High Court is satisfied that a substantial question of law is involved in any case, it shall formulate that question.

(5) The appeal shall be heard on the question so formulated and the respondent shall, at the hearing of the appeal, be allowed to argue that the case does not involve such question:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to take away or abridge the power of the Court to hear, for reasons to be recorded, the appeal on any other substantial question of law, not formulated by it, if it is satisfied that the case involves such question."

15. In the light of the aforesaid statutory provision, as contained under Section 100 CPC, the present matter is to be adjudicated.

16. Today the matter has been listed before this Court under the heading "Order 42 Rule 11 of the CPC" as the present appeal is yet to be admitted.

17. Heard Sri Vinay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellant on the issue of admission of the present appeal.

18. Learned counsel for the appellant has drawn the attention of this Court towards the judgment of the Trial Court as well as the Lower Appellate Court, so as to contend that both the courts below have committed patent error of law, apparent on the fact of the record in not decreeing the suit, so instituted by the plaintiff as fraud has been practised upon the plaintiff-appellant in view of the fact that the plaintiff-appellant had only taken financial assistance to the tune of Rs.20,000/- from the husband of the defendant-respondent being Sri Shanti Swaroop and it was mutually settled between them that a mortgage / security deed will be executed. However, while defrauding the plaintiff-appellant in place of a security / mortgage deed, a sale deed was registered on 16.6.2008, resulting to the fact that the value of the property being approximately Rs.6 lacs has been sold for Rs.20,000/- It has been further urged that the plaintiff-appellant is an illiterate person and he is entitled for a declaration that the sale deed dated 16.6.2008 is illegal and invalid and has been obtained by playing fraud and decree of permanent prohibitory injunction be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant restraining the defendant, her agent or associates from causing any sort of interference in peaceful possession over the disputed plots.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant has further invited the attention of this Court towards the substantial question of law, while referring to the first substantial question of law with respect to the fact whether the plaintiff's suit is barred by provisions of Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963, particularly when the plaintiff-appellant is the owner and is in possession of the of the suit property. A pointed query was made from the learned counsel for the appellant with regard to the fact as to how the said question of law as sought to be referred to and placed by way of an argument before this Court is attracted and relevant for the present controversy. However, the counsel for the plaintiff-appellant was not able to advance submission on the said point. Similarly, so far as the second substantial question of law, so framed by the plaintiff-appellant is concerned, the same is also totally irrelevant, as the learned Trial Court as well as the Lower Appellate Court have not non-suited the claim of the plaintiff-appellant on the ground that the plaintiff-appellant had no locus standi to institute suit for cancellation of the sale deed in question. So much so, the third and fourth framed substantial question of law are even in fact no substantial questions of law.

20. The principles determining the question of law being transformed as substantial question of law has been taken notice by a Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of Sir Chunilal Vs. Mehta & Sons v. Century Spg. & Mfg. Co. Ltd, AIR 1962 SC 1314 wherein the Hon'ble Court has observed as under: - "The proper test for determining whether a question of law raised in the case is substantial would, in our opinion, be whether it is of general public importance or whether it directly and substantially affects the rights of the parties and if so whether it is either an open question in the sense that it is not finally settled by this Court or by the Privy Council or by the Federal Court or is not free from difficulty or calls for discussion of alternative views. If the question is settled by the highest court or the general principles to be applied in determining the question are well settled and there is a mere question of applying those principles or that the plea raised is palpably absurd the question would not be a substantial question of law."

21. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Panchagopal Barua Vs. Vinesh Chandra

Goswami, AIR 1997 SC 1047, has observed as under: -

"Where no such question of law, nor even a mixed question of law and fact was urged before the Trial Court or the First Appellate Court, as in this case, a second appeal cannot be entertained".

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Santosh Hajari Vs. Purushottam Tiwari, 4(2001) 3 SCC 179, has observed as under: -

"Whether a question of law is a substantial one and whether such question is involved in the case or not, would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The paramount overall consideration is the need for striking a judicious balance between the indispensable obligation to do justice at all stages and the impelling necessity of avoiding prolongation in the life of any lis."

23. Following the judgment in the case of Chunni Lal (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hero Vinoth v. Seshammal, (2006) 5 SCC 545, in paragraph-21 has observed as under: -

"21. The phrase "substantial question of law", as occurring in the amended Section 100 CPC is not defined in the Code. The word substantial, as qualifying "question of law", means of having substance, essential, real, of sound worth, important or considerable. It is to be understood as something in contradistinction with- technical, of no substance or consequence, or academic merely. However, it is clear that the legislature has chosen not to qualify the scope of "substantial question of law" by suffixing the words "of general importance" as has been done in many other provisions such as Section 109 of the Code or Article 133(1)(a) of the Constitution. The substantial question of law on which a second appeal 2(2006) 5 SCC 545 shall be heard need not necessarily be a substantial question of law of general importance. In Guran Ditta v. Ram Ditta AIR 1928 PC 172 the phrase substantial question of law as it was employed in the last clause of the then existing Section 100 CPC (since omitted by the Amendment Act, 1973) came up for consideration and their Lordships held that it did not mean a substantial question of general importance but a substantial question of law which was involved in the case. In Sir Chunilal case [1962 Supp (3) SCR 549 : AIR 1962 SC 1314] the Constitution Bench expressed agreement with the following view taken by a Full Bench of the Madras High Court in Rimmalapudi Subba Rao v. Noony Veeraju [AIR 1951 Mad 969 : (1951) 2 MLJ 222 (FB)] : (Sir Chunilal case [1962 Supp (3) SCR 549 : AIR 1962 SC 1314] , SCR p. 557) "When a question of law is fairly arguable, where there is room for difference of opinion on it or where the Court thought it necessary to deal with that question at some length and discuss alternative views, then the question would be a substantial question of law. On the other hand if the question was practically covered by the decision of the highest court or if the general principles to be applied in determining the question are well settled and the only question was of applying those principles to the particular fact of the case it would not be a substantial question of law."

24. The Apex Court in Civil Appeal No. 2843-2844/2010 decided on 1.11.2021 in the Nazir Mohamed Vs. J. Kamala and others, has observed as unde:

"25. A second appeal, or for that matter, any appeal is not a matter of right. The right of appeal is conferred by statute. A second appeal only lies on a substantial question of law. If statute confers a limited right of appeal, the Court cannot expand the scope of the appeal. It was not open to the Respondent-Plaintiff to re-agitate facts or to call upon the High Court to reanalyze or re-appreciate evidence in a Second Appeal.

26. Section 100 of the CPC, as amended, restricts the right of second appeal, to only those cases, where a substantial question of law is involved. The existence of a "substantial question of law" is the sine qua non for the exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 of the CPC."

27. ...

28. ...

29. ...

30. ...

31. ...

32. To be "substantial", a question of law must be debatable, not previously settled by the law of the land or any binding precedent, and must have a material bearing on the decision of the case and/or the rights of the parties before it, if answered either way.

33. To be a question of law "involved in the case", there must be first, a foundation for it laid in the pleadings, and the question should emerge from the sustainable findings of fact, arrived at by Courts of facts, and it must be necessary to decide that question of law for a just and proper decision of the case.

35. ...

36. ...

37. The principles relating to Section 100 CPC relevant for this case may be summarised thus :

(i) An inference of fact from the recitals or contents of a document is a question of fact, but the legal effect of the terms of a document is a question of law. Construction of a document, involving the application of any principle of law, is also a question of law. Therefore, when there is misconstruction of a document or wrong application of a principle of law in construing a document, it gives rise to a question of law.

(ii) The High Court should be satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law, and not a mere question of law. A question of law having a material bearing on the decision of the case (that is, a question, answer to which affects the rights of parties to the suit) will be a substantial question of law, if it is not covered by any specific provisions of law or settled legal principle emerging from binding precedents, and, involves a debatable legal issue.

(iii) A substantial question of law will also arise in a contrary situation, where the legal position is clear, either on account of express provisions of law or binding precedents, but the Court below has decided the matter, either ignoring or acting contrary to such legal principle. In the second type of cases, the substantial question of law arises not because the law is still debatable, but because the decision rendered 5 AIR 1963 SC 302 on a material question, violates the settled position of law.

(iv) The general rule is, that High Court will not interfere with the concurrent findings of the Courts below. But it is not an absolute rule. Some of the well-recognised exceptions are where (i) the courts below have ignored material evidence or acted on no evidence;

(ii) the courts have drawn wrong inferences from proved facts by applying the law erroneously; or (iii) the courts have wrongly cast the burden of proof. A decision based on no evidence, does not refer only to cases where there is a total dearth of evidence, but also refers to case, where the evidence, taken as a whole, is not reasonably capable of supporting the finding."

25. Now, coming to the facts of the present case, it is not under dispute that a registered sale deed was executed on 16.6.2008 between the plaintiff-appellant on one hand and the defendant on the other hand, whereby the land in question was transferred in favour of the defendant by the plaintiff-appellant. It is also not disputed by the plaintiff-appellant that he himself was present before the Registrar for the registration of the said instrument dated 16.6.2008 and he had endorsed his thumb impression.

26. Now, a question arises as upon whom, the burden of proof lies that the sale deed so executed on 16.6.2008 is fraudulent and under which provision of law. Sections 101 and 102 of the Evidence Act, 1872 gives a complete answer to the same. The same for ready reference is being quoted hereinunder: -

"Section 101 of Evidence Act "Burden of proof"

Whoever desires any Court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts, must prove that those facts exist.

When a person is bound to prove the existence of any fact, it is said that he burden of proof lies on that person.

Section 102 of Evidence Act "On whom burden of proof lies"

The burden of proof in a suit or proceeding lies on that person who would fail if no evidence at all were given on either side."

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Anil Rishi Vs. Gurbuksh Singh reported in (2006) 5 SCC 558 in paragraph- 8 to 16 has clearly observed as under: -

"8. The initial burden of proof would be on the plaintiff in view of Section 101 of the Evidence Act, which reads as under:-

"Sec. 101. Burden of proof. Whoever desires any Court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts, must prove that those facts exist.

When a person is bound to prove the existence of any fact, it is said that the burden of proof lies on that person."

9. In terms of the said provision, the burden of proving the fact rests on the party who substantially asserts the affirmative issues and not the party who denies it. The said rule may not be universal in its application and there may be exception thereto. The learned trial Court and the High Court proceeded on the basis that the defendant was in a dominating position and there had been a fiduciary relationship between the parties. The appellant in his written statement denied and disputed the said averments made in the plaint.

10. Pleading is not evidence, far less proof. Issues are raised on the basis of the pleadings. The defendant-appellant having not admitted or acknowledged the fiduciary relationship between the parties, indisputably, the relationship between the parties itself would be an issue. The suit will fail if both the parties do not adduce any evidence, in view of Section 102 of the Evidence Act. Thus, ordinarily, the burden of proof would be on the party who asserts the affirmative of the issue and it rests, after evidence is gone into, upon the party against whom, at the time the question arises, judgment would be given, if no further evidence were to be adduced by either side.

11. The fact that the defendant was in a dominant position must, thus, be proved by the plaintiff at the first instance.

*12. Strong reliance has been placed by the High Court in the decision of this Court in Krishna Mohan Kul @ Nani Charan Kul & Anr. v. Pratima Maity & Ors., [AIR 2003 SC 4351]. In that case, the question of burden of proof was gone into after the parties had adduced evidence. It was brought on record that the witnesses whose names appeared in the impugned deed and which was said to have been created to grab the property of the plaintiffs were not in existence. The question as regards oblique motive in execution of the deed of settlement was gone into by the Court. The executant was more than 100 years of age at the time of alleged registration of the deed in question. He was paralytic and furthermore his mental and physical condition was not in order. He was also completely bed-ridden and though his left thumb impression was taken, there was no witness who could substantiate that he had put hi*s thumb impression. It was on the aforementioned facts, this Court opined:-

"12The onus to prove the validity of the deed of settlement was on the defendant No. 1. When fraud, misrepresentation or undue influence is alleged by a party in a suit, normally, the burden is on him to prove such fraud, undue influence or misrepresentation. But, when a person is in a fiduciary relationship with another and the latter is in a position of active confidence the burden of proving the absence of fraud, misrepresentation or undue influence is upon the person, in the dominating position, he has to prove that there was fair play in the transaction and that the apparent is the real, in other words, that the transaction is genuine and bona fide. In such a case the burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is thrown upon the dominant party, that is to say, the party who is in a position of active confidence. A person standing in a fiduciary relation to another has a duty to protect the interest given to his care and the Court watches with jealously all transactions between such persons so that the protector may not use his influence or the confidence to his advantage. When the party complaining shows such relation, the law presumes everything against the transaction and the onus is cast upon the person holding the position of confidence or trust to show that the transaction is perfectly fair and reasonable, that no advantage has been taken of his position"

13. This Court in arriving at the aforementioned findings referred to Section 111 of the Indian Evidence Act which is in the following terms:-

"111. Proof of good faith in transactions where one party is in relation of active confidence. Where there is a question as to the good faith of a transaction between parties, one of whom stands to the other in a position of active confidence, the burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is on the party who is in a position of active confidence."

14. But before such a finding is arrived at, the averments as regard alleged fiduciary relationship must be established before a presumption of undue influence against a person in position of active confidence is drawn. The factum of active confidence should also be established.

15. Section 111 of the Evidence Act will apply when the bona fides of a transaction is in question but not when the real nature thereof is in question. The words `active confidence' indicate that the relationship between the parties must be such that one is bound to protect the interests of the other.

16. Thus, point for determination of binding interests or which are the cases which come within the rule of active confidence would vary from case to case. If the plaintiff fails to prove the existence of the fiduciary relationship or the position of active confidence held by the defendant- appellant, the burden would lie on him as he had alleged fraud. The trial Court and the High Court, therefore, in our opinion, cannot be said to be correct in holding that without anything further, the burden of proof would be on the defendant."

28. The judgment in the case of Anil Rishi (supra) was followed in a recent judgment in the case of Rattan Singh Vs. Nirmal Gill reported in AIR 2021 SC 899, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court held as under: -

"40. The trial Court had justly placed the initial burden of proof upon the plaintiff as it was her case that the subject documents were forged or product of fraud and moreso because the documents bore her signature. The first appellate Court did not elaborate on that aspect. Even assuming that the burden had shifted upon the defendants, the witness identifying signatures of the dead attesting witness was examined by the defendants. Therefore, the documents stood proved and the burden was duly discharged by the defendants."

"The requirement regarding shifting of burden onto the defendants had been succinctly discussed in Anil Rishi v. Gurbaksh Singh (supra), wherein this Court had held that for shifting the burden of proof, it would require more than merely pleading that the relationship is a fiduciary one and it must be proved by producing tangible evidence."

29. The plaintiff-appellant has neither laid down factual foundation of fraud played upon it in the plaint nor had adduced any evidence in support thereof. Even, in fact, the plaintiff-appellant had not discharged its onus to prove that the fraud had been practised upon it and rather to the contrary the plaintiff-appellant had shifted the burden upon the defendant-respondent without any basis. As per the provisions contained under Section 101 read with Section 102 of the Evidence Act, 1872, it is the plaintiff-appellant, who had to prove the existence of a fact (fraud practised to it and the burden is upon it). Until and unless the plaintiff-appellant discharges its burden of proof, the burden cannot be shifted upon the defendant-respondent as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Anil Rishi (supra) and Rattan Singh (supra). Paragraphs-18 and 19 of the judgment of Anil Rishi (supra) further read as under:-

"18. Difficulties which may be faced by a party to the lis can never be determinative of the question as to upon whom the burden of proof would lie. The learned Trial Judge, therefore, posed unto himself a wrong question and arrived at a wrong answer. The High Court also, in our considered view, committed a serious error of law in misreading and misinterpreting Section 101 of the Indian Evidence Act. With a view to prove forgery or fabrication in a document, possession of the original sale deed by the defendant, would not change the legal position. A party in possession of a document can always be directed to produce the same. The plaintiff could file an application calling for the said document from the defendant and the defendant could have been directed by the learned Trial Judge to produce the same.

19. There is another aspect of the matter which should be borne in mind. A distinction exists between a burden of proof and onus of proof. The right to begin follows onus probandi. It assumes importance in the early stage of a case. The question of onus of proof has greater force, where the question is which party is to begin. Burden of proof is used in three ways : (i) to indicate the duty of bringing forward evidence in support of a proposition at the beginning or later; (ii) to make that of establishing a proposition as against all counter evidence; and (iii) an indiscriminate use in which it may mean either or both of the others. The elementary rule is Section 101 is inflexible. In terms of Section 102 the initial onus is always on the plaintiff and if he discharges that onus and makes out a case which entitles him to a relief, the onus shifts to the defendant to prove those circumstances, if any, which would disentitle the plaintiff to the same."

30. There is another point of angle, which needs to be addressed also, i.e, with regard to the provisions contained under Section 17 of the Registration Act, 1908.

31. Section 17 of the Registration Act, 1908, for the ready reference, is being quoted hereunder: -

"17. Documents of which registration is compulsory.--(l) The following documents shall be registered, if the property to which they relate is situate in a district in which, and if they have been executed on or after the date on which, Act No. XVI of 1864, or the Indian Registration Act, 1866, or the Indian Registration Act, 1871, or the Indian Registration Act, 1877, or this Act came or comes into force, namely:--

(a) instruments of gift of immovable property;

(b) other non-testamentary instruments which purport or operate to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, to or in immovable property;

(c) non-testamentary instruments which acknowledge the receipt or payment of any consideration on account of the creation, declaration, assignment, limitation or extinction of any such right, title or interest; and

(d) leases of immovable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent;

(e) non-testamentary instruments transferring or assigning any decree or order of a Court or any award when such decree or order or award purports or operates to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, to or in immovable property:

Provided that the [State Government] may, by order published in the [Official Gazette], exempt from the operation of this sub-section any lease executed in any district, or part of a district, the terms granted by which do not exceed five years and the annual rents reserved by which do not exceed fifty rupees.

[(1A) The documents containing contracts to transfer for consideration, any immovable property for the purpose of section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882) shall be registered if they have been executed on or after the commencement of the Registration and Other Related laws (Amendment) Act, 2001 and if such documents are not registered on or after such commencement, then, they shall have no effect for the purposes of the said section 53A.]

(2) Nothing in clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (l) applies to--

(i) any composition deed; or

(ii) any instrument relating to shares in a joint stock Company, notwithstanding that the assets of such Company consist in whole or in part of immovable property; or

(iii) any debenture issued by any such Company and not creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest, to or in immovable property except in so far as it entitles the holder to the security afforded by a registered instrument whereby the Company has mortgaged, conveyed or otherwise transferred the whole or part of its immovable property or any interest therein to trustees upon trust for the benefit of the holders of such debentures; or

(iv) any endorsement upon or transfer of any debenture issued by any such Company; or

(v) [any document other than the documents specified in sub-section (1A)] not itself creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards to or in immovable property, but merely creating a right to obtain another document which will, when executed, create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any such right, title or interest; or

(vi) any decree or order of a Court 29 [except a decree or order expressed to be made on a compromise and comprising immovable property other than that which is the subject-matter of the suit or proceeding]; or

(vii) any grant of immovable property by 30 [Government]; or

(viii) any instrument of partition made by a Revenue-Officer; or

(ix) any order granting a loan or instrument of collateral security granted under the Land Improvement Act, 1871, or the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883; or

(x) any order granting a loan under the Agriculturists, Loans Act, 1884, or instrument for securing the repayment of a loan made under that Act; or

[(xa) any order made under the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, (6 of 1890) vesting any property in a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments or divesting any such Treasurer of any property; or]

(xi) any endorsement on a mortgage-deed acknowledging the payment of the whole or any part of the mortgage-money, and any other receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage; or

(xii) any certificate of sale granted to the purchaser of any property sold by public auction by a Civil or Revenue-Officer.

[Explanation.--A document purporting or operating to effect a contract for the sale of immovable property shall not be deemed to require or ever to have required registration by reason only of the fact that such document contains a recital of the payment of any earnest money or of the whole or any part of the purchase money.]

(3) Authorities to adopt a son, executed after the 1st day of January, 1872, and not conferred by a will, shall also be registered.

Uttar Pradesh: In section 17,--*

(a) in sub-section (1)--

(i) in clauses (b) and (e) omit the words "of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards",

(ii) after clause (e), insert as under-- "(f) any other instrument required by any law for the time being in force, to be registered",

(iii) Omit proviso.

(b) in sub-section (2)--

(i) in clause (v), after the words "any document" occurring in the beginning, insert the words "other than contract for sale", and omit the words "of the value of the one hundred rupees and upwards",

(ii) omit Explanation.

(c) in sub-section (3), after the words "by a will", insert the words "and an instrument recording adoption of a child executed after the first day of January, 1977". [Vide Uttar Pradesh Act 57 of 1976, sec. 32 (w.e.f. 1-1-1977)]."

32. Further, Section 68 of the Evidence Act reads as under: -

"68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.--If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence: 1[Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a Will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied."*

33. Section 68 of the Evidence Act, 1872 deals with the subject regarding the proof of execution of a document required by law to be attested.

34. It is the admitted case of the parties that the sale deed dated 16.6.2008 was a registered sale deed dated 16.6.2008 was a registered document and thus in view of the proviso attached to Section 68 of 1872, it was not necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of an execution of a document, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of Indian Registration Act, 1908, unless its execution by a person by whom it purports to have been executed specifically denies. There is a fine distinction in the present case, inasmuch as, the plaintiff-appellant has not disputed the factum of execution of the deed dated 16.6.2008, as according to the plaintiff-appellant, the same was shown to be a mortgage/security deed, but in its place, registered sale deed was executed. Even otherwise, it is/was the onus of the plaintiff-appellant to have discharged its burden, while proving the fact that the registered sale deed dated 16.6.2008 was a fraudulent transaction. However, as noted earlier, the same has not been discharged.

35. The law in this regard is well settled that there is a presumption that a registered document is validly executed and a registered document, therefore, prima facie, would be valid in law. In the case of Prem Singh and others Vs. Birbal and others, reported in (2006)5 SCC 353, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph-27 has held as under:-

registered document, therefore, prima facie would be valid in law. The onus of proof, thus, would be on a person who leads evidence to rebut the presumption. In the instant case, Respondent 1 has not been able to rebut the said presumption."

36. The judgment in the case of Prem Singh (supra) has been followed in the recent judgment in the case of Rattan Singh (supra), which reads as under:-

"32. To appreciate the findings arrived at by the Courts below, we must first see on whom the onus of proof lies. The record reveals that the disputed documents are registered. We are, therefore, guided by the settled legal principle that a document is presumed to be genuine if the same is registered, as held by this Court in Prem Singh and Ors. v. Birbal and Ors."

37. Though this Court is not required to go into the factual issues, but this Court while deciding the present appeal, has carefully gone through the pleadings as well as the judgment of the Trial Court as well as that of the Appellate Court. The plaintiff-appellant has alleged that he is an illiterate person and he is not in a position to make his signatures. The Trial Court as well as the lower appellate court have dealt with the said issue and in paragraph-12 of the judgment and decree of the lower Appellate Court, the following has been observed:

"वादी/अपीलार्थी द्वारा अपनी प्रतिपरीक्षा में यह स्वीकार किया है कि उसने तहसील में जाकर बैनामा की लिखा पढ़ी करवाई थी तथा कागजों पर अपना अँगूठा लगाया था। केदार सिंह एडवोकेट ने तहसील किरावली ने बैनामा लिखा था। वादी द्वारा यह भी स्वीकार किया गया है कि उसने रजिस्ट्रार के यहाँ भी अँगूठा लगाया था तथा अँगूठा लगाया था। वादी द्वारा यह भी स्वीकार किया गया है कि बैनामें वाले दिन वह अपनी मर्जी से तहसील अकेला गया था तथा कोई नशा नहीं करता है। तहसील में वह पूर्ण होश हवाश में था।"

38. So far as, the issue in relation to the payment of Rs.1,20,000/- is concerned, the lower Appellate Court in its judgment and decree dated 25.2.2017 has recorded a clear cut finding as under: -

"प्रतिवादिनी के पति ने वादी के साथ काई धोखाधड़ी नहीं की। वादी ने बैनामा से पहले घर पर कुल रकम बैनामा समक्ष गवाहान हासिया गवाह चन्द्रभान उर्फ सोलुआ के हाथ से 1,20,000/रूपये शान्ती स्वरूप पुत्र श्री बाबू लाल यादराम अध्यापक के सामने प्राप्त किये थे। वादी के कहने पर ही बैनामा के कागज तैयार किये गये और वादी ने समक्ष गवाहान बैनामा के कागजात पर अपने अँगूठा निशानी किये थे। सब रजिस्ट्रार किरावली द्वारा वादी के कागजात पर अपने अँगूठा निशानी किये थे। सब रजिस्ट्रार किरावली द्वारा वादी को बैनामा पढ़कर सुनाया था और प्रतिफल प्राप्त करने की बावत् पूछा था तब वादी ने विक्रीत रकम 1,20,000/– रूपये प्राप्त होने की स्वीकारोक्ति की, उसके बाद सब रजिस्ट्रार महोदय किरावली द्वारा बैनामा पंजीकृत किया गया।"

39. After going through the pleadings set forth in the present appeal, as well as the arguments so advanced by the learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant, this Court finds that no substantial question of law is involved in the present appeal purported to be under Section 100 of CPC, 1908 and thus, the present appeal is liable to be dismissed at the stage of admission under Order 41 Rule 11 of CPC, 1908.

40. Accordingly, the present second appeal under Order 41 Rule 11 of CPC is dismissed at the admission stage.

41. Cost made easy.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. This second appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 9.1.2001 passed by 17th Additional District Judge, Kanpur in Civil Appeal No. 376 of 1998 Gaffar Vs. Kanpur Development Authority and another. By the impugned judgment the first appellate court has allowed the appeal and set-aside the judgment and decree of trial court in O.S. No. 1552 of 1989 Gaffar Vs. Kanpur Development Authority and has decreed the original suit and restrained the respondents (defendants) from interfering in the peaceful possession of the appellant-plaintiff on the disputed property.

2. The brief facts are that respondent filed Original Suit No. 1552 of 1989 Gaffar Vs. Chairman, Kanpur Develpment Authority and another for permanent injunction. In the plaint it was alleged that plaintiff is absolute owner and landlord of field no. 797 ad-measuring 6 bigha 13 biswa situated in village Chandari, Kanpur Nagar, in pursuance of a will deed duly registered and the name of the plaintiff has been duly mutated in the revenue records of Khatauni for 1391 Fasli to 1396 Fasli as per order of Tehsildar dated 14.9.1987. The plaintiff is in peaceful possession upon the said land and has got his Pakka house therein which is in-existence for last more than forty years besides well, tomb and garden. The defendant no. 2 being a Cooperative Housing Society is not at all the owner and landlord of the disputed land. The defendant no. 2 by executing a fictitious sale deed is now approaching the field owned and possessed by the plaintiff to deliver the possession of the land of the plaintiff forcibly and illegally and for that purpose defendant no. 2 is making survey of the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff. Defendant no. 1 through his employees is also making survey. The defendants have no right, title or interest upon the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff and plaintiff is in lawful possession since long back and prior to that the predecessors in interest of the plaintiff were in peaceful possession without interruption.

The defendant no. 1 filed written statements in which it denied the plaint allegations and further pleaded that Arazi No. 797 ad-measuring 17 bigha and 9 biswa situated in Chandari area was acquired vide award no. 38 of 25-3-1963 and possession of the acquired land was obtained on 20.8.1963. The defendant has a plan/scheme over the disputed land for Basic Primary School. The plaintiff has trespassed over the disputed land and constructed a Pakka house and a kitchen with boundary wall without any authority/permission, right, title or interest. The said construction is without any approved map and no duly sanctioned plan has been obtained by the plaintiff for construction from the map section. The construction erected on the plot can be demolished as unauthorized construction and is liable to be demolished under the Provisions of Nagar Mahapalika Act, 1959. The acquired land has already been developed and an impediment is caused due to unauthorized construction. The trial court framed following 8 issues:

1. Whether suit is under valued and court fees paid is insufficient ?

2. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of Khasra No. 797 area 6 bigha 13 biswa village Chandari, Tehsil and District Kanpur and in possession and his forty years old construction are situated on it ?

3. Whether defendant no. 2 has any right to transfer the disputed property ?

4. Whether the disputed property has been validly acquired by the defendant no. 1 ? If yes, then how in which manner.

5. Whether any valid notice under section 4 of Land Acquisition Act has been issued under Land Acquisition Act ? If yes, then its effect.

6. Whether Nagar Mahapalika has given any notice in relation to construction ? If yes, then its effect.

7. Whether construction of plaintiff is illegal ?

8. Whether plaintiff is entitled to any relief ?

After taking evidence the learned trial court decided issue nos. 2, 3 and 4 against the plaintiff and on that basis dismissed the suit vide judgment and decree dated 6.11.1998. Aggrieved by it the plaintiff preferred Civil Appeal No. 376 of 1989. The first appellate court by the impugned judgement and decree dated 9.1.2001 allowed the appeal, set-aside the judgment and decree of trial court and decreed the original suit of appellant-plaintiff and passed an injunction decree in favour of plaintiff restraining the defendants not to interfere in the possession of the plaintiff upon disputed property.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant raised a preliminary argument that the judgment of appellate court is not consistent with the Provision of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. No point for determination has been framed, hence, judgment is not valid judgment under the Provision of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. Learned counsel on the aforesaid point cited Bhagirath Vs. Ram Chandra and others Second Appeal No. 43 of 1996 decided on 11.4.2019, and prayed that on the aforesaid ground the judgment and decree passed by the appellate court be set-aside and the matter be remanded back to the first appellate court for a fresh decision.

In para 3 of the aforesaid judgment this Court has observed that :

"How the regular first appeal is to be disposed of by the appellate Court/High Court has been considered by this Court in various decisions. Order 41 C.P.C. deals with appeals from original decrees. Among the various rules, Rule 31 mandates that the judgment of the appellate Court shall state:

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled."

In the aforesaid judgment itself in para no. 32 this Court has relied on the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of H. Siddiqui V. A. Ramalingam 2011 (4) SCC 240 and has quoted para 21 of the aforesaid judgment which is as follows:

"The said provisions provide guidelines for the appellate Court as to how the Court has to proceed and decide the case. The provisions should be read in such a way as to require that the various particulars mentioned therein should be taken into consideration. Thus, it must be evident from the judgment of the appellate Court that the Court has properly appreciated the facts/evidence, applied its mind and decided the case considering the material on record. It would amount to substantial compliance of the said provisions if the appellate Court's judgment is based on the independent assessment of the relevant evidence on all important aspect of the matter and the findings of the appellate Court are well founded and quite convincing. It is mandatory for the appellate Court to independently assess the evidence of the parties and consider the relevant points which arise for adjudication and the bearing of the evidence on those points."

From the perusal of the judgment of the appellate Court it is clear that the appellate Court has appreciated and discussed all the evidence on record and has considered the relevant points which arose for adjudication. Although, no specific point has been framed by the appellate Court but there is substantial compliance of the Provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. and there is no necessity or sufficient ground to remand the matter.

4. Following are substantial questions of law for disposal of this second appeal:

(i) Whether the first appellate court misinterpreted and misconstrued the evidence led by the parties and has relied on any inadmissible evidence and has ignored any admissible evidence ?

(ii) Whether the findings recorded by the first appellate court are perverse and based on conjuncture and surmises ?

5. Learned counsel for the appellant firstly contended that respondent/plaintiff has filed the original suit on the basis of will deed but the said document in original was never produced and duly proved before the trial court. The trial court has given the finding in this respect against the plaintiff but the first appellate court without any good reason has set-aside the aforesaid finding. Learned counsel also contended that there is no documentary evidence on record about the title of the plaintiff. The title of plaintiff was not proved with any cogent evidence but the learned appellate court has given the finding that plaintiff is owner in possession of the disputed property. The finding of the appellate court is perverse and illegal.

6. Learned counsel for the respondents on the other hand contended that will in favour of plaintiff is a registered document which was filed in other case. Plaintiff has filed its certified copy. Learned counsel also contended that plaintiff is recorded tenure holder of disputed Khasra no. 797 area 6 bigha 13 biswa and has filed Khatauni which is the document of title, so the title of the plaintiff is duly proved.

7. From the material on record it appears that disputed plot was an agricultural plot and recorded in the name of legal representative of its previous owner Suleman. On the basis of registered will plaintiff got his name mutated in the revenue records and plaintiff has filed the extract of the Khatauni in which the order of mutation is recorded in his favour. Plaintiff has also filed the copy of the order of Naib Tehsildar passed in mutation proceeding on the basis of which his name has been mutated in the revenue records. The validity of this document (Khatauni) has not been challenged at any stage by the defendants or any other person. So from the evidence on record it is clear that plaintiff is recorded tenure holder and his name is duly recorded in the revenue record (Khatauni) which is a document of title. It is also well settled that civil court can not decide the question of title regarding agricultural plot and that is sole jurisdiction of revenue courts. There was no necessity to file original will deed or got it proved before the trial court. The said proceeding has been duly conducted before the competent court of Naib Tehsildar and on its basis the name of plaintiff is entered in the revenue records. It appears that learned trial court has lost the aforesaid legal aspect and has observed that plaintiff has not filed the original will and has not got it proved before the trial court and on this basis has rejected his claim of ownership. The aforesaid finding of the trial court was illegal. The learned appellate court has rightly held that plaintiff is owner of the disputed property as he is recorded tenure holder and there is no illegality or perversity in the aforesaid finding. The learned trial court has also held that plaintiff is not in possession of disputed property observing that he has not disclosed the duration of his construction on the disputed property. The learned trial court has also disbelieved the other evidence produced by the plaintiff regarding possession. This finding of the learned trial court is also bad in law. The defendant no. 1 in his written statement has admitted the constructions of the plaintiff. So from the admission of the defendant no. 1 the possession of the plaintiff on the disputed property stands proved and no other evidence at all was required. The finding in this regard recorded by the appellate court thus is according to material on record and proper and legal.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant further contended that Kanpur Development Authority has acquired the disputed Khasra No. 797 in the year 1967. The defendant has filed the relevant document in this regard. The learned trial court on the basis of evidence produced by the defendants has given the finding that the disputed land was acquired by the Kanpur Development Authority in the year 1967, so plaintiff has no right, title or interest in the disputed property but the first appellate court has reversed the finding of the learned trial court without any sound reasoning. The finding recorded by the first appellate court in this regard is also perverse and illegal.

9. Learned counsel for the respondent submitted that from the document produced by the defendants it is proved that Kanpur Development Authority has acquired only 12 bigha 9 biswa area of Khasra no. 797 and remaining 6 bigha and 13 biswa area was not acquired. There is no evidence on record to show that appellant-defendant has acquired the entire area of Khasri No. 797. Learned counsel also contended that in possession certificate and other documents related to acquisition proceedings the area acquired of Khasra No. 797 is mentioned as 11 bigha and 9 biswa only. The plaintiff has also filed a certificate issued by the officer of appellant/defendant in which it is specifically mentioned that 6 bigha and 13 biswa area of Khasra No. 797 has not been acquired by Kanpur Development Authority. The finding recorded by the learned trial court in this regard was against the evidence on record and has rightly been reversed by the first appellate court.

10. The defendant no. 1 in his written statement has pleaded that Arazi no. 797 ad-measuring 17 bigha and 9 biswa situated in Chandari area was acquired vide award no. 38 of 25.3.1963. The possession of the acquired land was obtained on 20.8.1963. The aforesaid pleading of defendant no. 1 is not proved by the documents filed by the defendant no. 1 because in the possession certificate the acquired area of Khasra No. 797 Minjumla is recorded as 11 bigha and 9 biswa only. There is no evidence on record to prove that 17 bigha and 9 biswa area of Arazi No. 797 was acquired by the Kanpur Development Authority as pleaded in the written statement of defendant no. 1. Contrary to it there is letter no. D/12/AA IPL/87 dated 27.7.1987 issued under the signature of Executive Engineer (Planning) Kanpur Development Authority, Kanpur addressed to plaintiff Gaffar in which it is mentioned that, "you are hereby informed that Arazi No. 797 village Chandari area 6 bigha and 13 biswa has not been acquired by the Kanpur Development Authority." The learned trial court has misread the documentary evidence in this regard. The observation of the learned trial court that plaintiff himself has admitted the acquisition of land is also misconstrued because the plaintiff has stated that Kanpur Development Authority has acquired only 11 bigha and 9 biswa of Arazi No. 797. There is no admission of plaintiff that 17 bigha and 9 biswa area of Arazi No. 797 was acquired by Kanpur Development Authority or the disputed property was acquired by Kanpur Development Authority. The finding of learned trial court due to above reason was incorrect and illegal. The learned appellate court has rightly appreciated the evidence on this point also and finding recorded by the learned appellate court that Kanpur Development Authority has acquired only 11 bigha and 9 biswa of Arazi No. 797 is just and proper. There is no illegality or perversity in the aforesaid finding of the learned first appellate court.

11. From the evidence on record it is proved that respondent-plaintiff is recorded tenure holder in possession of the disputed property. The appellant/defendant has failed to prove that disputed land was acquired by him. The appellant-defendant has further admitted the possession of the respondent-plaintiff on the disputed property. The learned trial court has failed to properly appreciate the evidence on record and the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court was erroneous. The findings recorded by the learned appellate court on the aforesaid issues are according to evidence and just and proper.

12. The learned appellate court has neither misinterpreted nor misconstrued the evidence led by the parties and has also not relied on any inadmissible evidence and has not ignored any admissible evidence. There is no perversity or illegality in the findings recorded by the learned appellate court. Hence, both the question of law framed are decided against the appellant. This second appeal has no merit and is liable to be dismissed.

Accordingly, the second appeal is dismissed.

Parties shall bear their own cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.

Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

(Oral Judgment by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 378 (3) of Criminal Procedure Code (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 17.3.2017, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court, Hapur, in Session Trial No.245 of 2015 arising out of Case Crime No.154 of 2014 under Sections 376, 366, 506 and 120-B of Indian Penal Code (in short 'IPC'), Police Station-Garh Mukteshwar, District-Hapur, whereby the learned trial-court acquitted the accused-respondents.

2. The brief facts of this case are that on 3.3.2014 at about 7:00 pm, Dharmendra s/o Dharmpal, brother-in-law of elder sister-Archana of complainant, sister-in-law Anita, Nand Kumar (nandoi) and Surendri w/o Nand Kumar came to her house. At that time, the complainant was alone in her house. They all said that her elder sister, namely, Archana was seriously ill and admitted in the hospital so they had come to take her to the hospital. Subsequently, they forcibly put her in a car and took her to dance-club at Ganga Nagar. There, they prepared some documents misguiding her for marriage and since then Dharmendra continuously kept her in dance-club and committed rape. On 23.3.2014 at about 5:00 pm, they left her at Garh-crossing and threatened her not to lodge any report.

3. On the basis of this report, Case Crime bearing No.154 of 2014 was registered against all the accused-respondents under Sections 366, 376/120-B IPC against Anita, Nand Kumar, Smt.Surendri and Dharmendra.

4. Investigation started by SI-Brijendra Singh, who recorded statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C., visited the spot, prepared site-plan and after completing the investigation, another I.O., namely, B.P.Singh submitted charge-sheet against all the respondents. The case being exclusively triable by court of session was committed for trial to the court of session by competent Magistrate.

5. Learned trial-court framed charges under Sections 366, 376 and 506 IPC against the accused Dharmendra and under Sections 366, 376/120-B IPC against Anita, Nand Kumar and Smt.Surendri. Accused persons denied charges and claimed to be tried.

6. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced following witnesses, namely:

1.	Prosecutrix	PW1
2.	Nanak Singh	PW2
3.	Smt.Shakuntala	PW3
4.	Dr.Mamta Sodhi	PW4
5.	HCP Jugal Kishore	PW5
6.	Jai Pal	PW6
7.	SI-Bijendra Singh	PW7
8.	Inspector B.P. Singh	PW8

7. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	Written Report	Ex.ka1
2.	Statement u/S 164 Cr.P.C.	Ex.ka2
3.	Medical Report	Ex.ka3
4.	FIR	Ex.ka4
5.	Copy of GD	Ex.ka5
6.	Site-plan	Ex.ka6
7.	Supurdginama	Ex.ka7
8.	Charge-sheet	Ex.ka8

8. We have heard Shri N.K.Srivastava, learned AGA for the State-appellant, Shri Nigamendra Shukla and Shri Syed Shahnawaz Shah, learned counsel for the accused-respondents and perused the record.

9. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

10. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Narayana Menon @ Mani vs. State of Kerala and another, (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

11. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

12. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

13. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

14. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

15. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

17. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

18. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

19. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

20. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

21. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

22. The prosecutrix has levelled allegations against the respondents that they forcibly took her from her house to dance-club at Ganga Nagar where she was kept for a long time and respondent-Dharmendra committed rape with her several times. She is star witness of the prosecution. In her testimony before learned trial-court, she supported the prosecution version only in examination-in-chief, but in her cross-examination, she altogether resiled from her testimony. She has stated in cross-examination that her father wanted to marry her with Dharmendra without her will, but it was further stated by her that she has solemnized marriage with Dharmendra in Arya Samaj Mandir.

23. Prosecutrix (PW1) has deposed that she was kept forcibly by Dharmendra for 20 days, but she never raised alarm during this period. It is also stated that she went with Dharmendra to solemnize marriage and put her signature, which was crowded area, but even then she did not raise any alarm. She has further stated that she filed complaint against the respondents by misguiding her brother and father. When she was being taken away forcibly, she did not think proper to apprise her neighbors. In the latter part of the statement, the prosecutrix has clearly and specifically stated that she had filed this complaint at the behest of her relatives and Dharmendra did not commit rape with her. She has also stated that at the time of said occurrence, she was major and the accused-Nand Kumar, Anita and Surendri did not force her to marry and they did not co-operate Dharmendra. As far as statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is concerned, the prosecutrix has stated that this statement was made by her under duress of police and her family members. In this way, the star witness of prosecution did not support prosecution case in her cross-examination in entirety. Her testimony does not inspire even a bit of confidence.

24. Nanak Chand (PW2) is father of the prosecutrix and Smt.Shakuntala (PW3) is mother of the prosecutrix. Testimony of these two witnesses is based on hearsay. They have deposed before the trial-court on the basis of information they gathered from others.

25. It is also very pertinent to mention that when the prosecutrix was taken to hospital for medical examination, she refused her internal medical examination. This fact also goes against the prosecution and shatters the prosecution case. In toto, it has come on record that the prosecutrix wanted to marry Dharmendra while her father wanted his elder widowed daughter-Archana to marry with Dharmendra and due to this reason only, this false complaint was lodged against the accused-respondents. Learned trial-court rightly appreciated the evidence on record. The evidence produced by prosecution does not inspire confidence at all as held by learned trial Judge.

26. In view of above, we are of the considered opinion that no two views are possible and we cannot take different view from that taken by the learned trial-court. We also do not find any infirmity in the impugned judgment and order, therefore, we have no other option, but to concur with the findings recorded by the learned trial Judge.

27. The appeal lacks merit and is dismissed, accordingly.

28. The record and proceedings be sent back to the court-below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.

1. Heard learned Government Pleader for the appellant.

2. This appeal under Section 378(3) of CrPC challenges the acquittal of the accused, who was charged with commission of offence under Sections 363 and 366 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC).

3. The prosecution was moved into motion by a written report dated 18.6.1996 at P.S. Dannahar, District Mainpuri and it was alleged that the sister of the complainant, who was 14 years of age, when they went to ease in the field, accused Kashmir Singh, Pappu and Girish Chandra enticed away the prosecutrix, namely, the sister of the complainant. The complainant's mother started searching the prosecutrix, but the prosecutrix end the accused absconded and the complainant did not lodge the complaint because of the fear of being defamed. It was then disclosed that the accused had kidnapped the minor and therefore, the case being Crime no. 117 of 1996 under Sections 363, 366 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) was lodged. The police investigated the matter and the victim/ prosecutrix was recovered on 27.9.1996 from a village known as Bhanupura. She got her statement recorded under Section 164 of Criminal Procedure Code before the Magistrate. On investigation being over, charge sheet was laid before the Magisterial Court. The Magistrate being satisfied that the case was triable by the Court of Sessions, as Section 376 IPC was subsequently added from the medical test of the prosecutrix, charge sheet was submitted. As the case being triable by the Court of Sessions, the accused were summoned and they denied the charges. On denying the charges, they were set up for trial.

4. The prosecution examined about 5 witnesses of fact and the prosecutrix herself, which are follows:-

1.	Dhani Ram	P.W.-1
2.	Smt. Baikunthi Devi	P.W.-2
3.	Dr. Sunita Bahodha	P.W.-3
4.	Keshav Dev	P.W.-4
5.	Shiv Autar Pandey	P.W.-5
6.	victim Km. Urmila	P.W.-6

5. Document was filed, which was sought to be proved by leading evidence.

6. The learned counsel for the State has relied on the judgment of Guru Dutt Pathak vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, Laws (SC) 2021 55 and the case of The State of Gujarat vs. B.L. Dave [(2021) 2 SCC 735] and has contended that this is a clear case, where despite the contour of acquittal, it is very clear that the prosecutrix, who was admittedly minor in age, her consent even if cannot be considered as consent and a heinous crime against the society has been committed by the accused. The child was recovered after three months and she had a featus of 5/ 8 months old, which shows the heinousness committed by the respondents and the case is similar to that of case of Guru Dutt Pathak (supra). It is further submitted that acquittal is perverse. The victim namely the prosecutrix was offered made to undergo the agony. It is proved beyond reasonable doubt from the evidence recorded that the accused were the persons, who had enticed the girl, namely the prosecutrix from the custody of the parents. The evidence is not properly weighed by the learned Judge, while acquitting the accused.

7. Despite summons being served, none has appeared for the accused, hence we have heard this appeal and perused the record.

8. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

9. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

10. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

11. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

12. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

13. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

14. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mookkiah and another vs. State Representatives by the Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu, reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

15. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

16. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

17. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

18. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

19. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

20. In the case in hand, evidence was recorded after six years of the incident. The accused before us were alleged to have accompanied Pappu, the main accused, who had unfortunately passed away during the trial. The allegations against the present accused are that they had positively made the prosecutrix sit on the motorcycle and taken her to the village. She stayed with Pappu for about five months. There is no role of the present accused for enticing away to the prosecutrix or took her on the motorcycle forcibly.

21. Unfortunately, the medical evidence does not categorically show the age of the prosecutrix. As far as the medical evidence of Dr. Sunita is concerned, she has examined her, but she has mentioned that she could not make out what was the age of the prosecutrix.

22. Learned trial Judge has rightly appreciated the evidence on record. We are convinced that learned court-below has given cogent reason in the judgment impugned and we have no reason to differ with the view taken by the learned trial Judge. All these facts are sufficient for us to concur with the learned trial-court.

23. The appeal sans merits and is dismissed. The record of proceedings be sent back to the court below.

24. We are thankful to Sri Goswami, learned A.G.A. for ably assisting the Court for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal, under Section 378 (3) Cr.P.C. at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 18.2.1986, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge-V, Shahjahanpur, in Session Trial No.300 of 1985 (State vs. Khushi Ram & another) arising out of Case Crime No.172 of 1985 under Sections 376, 380 and 376/114 IPC, Police Station-Sehramau (South), District-Shahjahanpur, whereby learned trial Judge acquitted both the accused persons of all the charges.

2. Brief facts of this case are that an FIR was lodged by the complainant stating that on 20.3.1985 at about noon, accused persons Khushi Ram and Satish entered the house of prosecutrix, who is a married lady, where she was alone. Her father and sister were also away from the home. Accused persons shut the main door of the house and accused-Khushi Ram committed the rape upon the prosecutrix forcibly. Accused-Satish caught hold the prosecutrix during the course of commission of the crime. Satish also took jewelry and cash of the prosecutrix at the time of running from the home. Investigation was taken up by SI-Bhagat Singh, who visited the spot and prepared the site-plan. Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. During the course of investigation, medical examination of the prosecutrix was conducted and medical report as well as supplementary report were prepared. After completing the evidence, charge-sheet was submitted against both the accused persons. The case being exclusively triable by court of session was committed to the court of session for trial by competent Magistrate. Learned trial-court framed charges against the accused-Khushi Ram under Sections 376 and 380 IPC and against the accused-Satish under Section 376 read with Sections 114 and 380 IPC.

3. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced the following witnesses, namely:-

1.	Prosecutrix	PW1
2.	Ram Swaroop	PW2
3.	S.I.Bhagat Singh	PW3

4. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documentary evidence was produced and contents were proved by leading the evidence :-

1.	FIR	Ex.ka1
2.	Recovery Memo	Ex.ka7
3.	Medical Examination Report	Ex.ka3
4.	Supplementary Report	Ex.ka4
5.	Pathology Report	Ex.ka5
6.	Report of FSL	Ex.ka10
7.	Site-plan	Ex.ka6

Genuineness of the medical examination report, supplementary report and pathology report was admitted by the defence, therefore, no oral testimony of the doctor was led by the prosecution.

5. After completion of prosecution evidence, statements of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they denied the evidence and said that they were falsely implicated due to enmity. No witness was examined in defence.

6. We have heard Shri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA for the State of UP as well as Shri Suresh Dhar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the accused-respondents and perused the record.

7. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

8. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Narayana Menon @ Mani vs. State of Kerala and another, (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

9. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

10. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

11. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

12. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP*, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589.* Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

13. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

14. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mookkiah and another vs. State Representatives by the Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu, reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

15. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

16. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

17. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

18. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

19. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

20. Learned AGA submitted that prosecutrix has supported the prosecution version in her statement as PW1. She has narrated the story, which took place with her by the accused persons in detail, but the learned trial court did not rightly appreciate her evidence. It is also submitted that Ram Swaroop (PW2) had seen the accused persons while running from the house of prosecutrix at the given date and time, but this evidence was also not considered by trial court in right perspective.

21. We had perused the evidence on record. Prosecutrix has stated that rape was committed upon her by the accused-Khushi Ram, but the medical evidence suggests that no rape was committed upon her. Medical Report (Ex.ka3) says that at the time of internal medical examination, hymen was found old torn and well-healed up. No fresh-injury detected. Therefore, as per medical-report, there was no external or internal injury on the person of the prosecutrix rather it was concluded by the doctor that she has used to sexual intercourse. In ossification-test, her age was found above 19 years and the doctor had opined that 'no opinion about rape can be given'. In pathology-report, it is mentioned that 'no spermatozoa was seen'. It is also pertinent to mention as far as the offence of theft under Section 380 IPC is concerned, no recovery is made from any of the accused persons.

22. We have considered the evidence on record meticulously and we are of the considered opinion that learned trial Judge had rightly appreciated the evidence on record and it was correctly opined by the learned trial Judge that offence of rape or theft was not proved by the prosecution case.

23. In view of above, we cannot take a different view from that of taken by the learned trial-court. We also do not find any infirmity in the impugned judgment and order dated 18.2.1986, therefore, we have no other option, but to concur with the findings recorded by the learned trial court and appeal is liable to be dismissed.

24. Hence, appeal sans merit and is dismissed.

25. We are thankful to Shri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA for the State of UP and Shri Suresh Dhar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the accused-respondents for ably assisting the Court.

Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 18.10.2005, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C., Maharajganj, acquitting accused-respondent, who has been tried for commission of offence under Sections 376 and 511 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as, "I.P.C').

3. The State of Uttar Pradesh has felt aggrieved while convicting the accused. The learned trial Judge has convicted under Section 354 of the Indian Penal Code as the learned Judge has considered the case under Section 354 as though the charge against the accused was for commission of offence under Section 376 of IPC and 511 IPC. The said offences were held to be not proved. The accused had entered the house of his uncle and aunt and tried to ravish her. The learned Judge has considered the judgment in Shiv Shankar v. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in 2002 Crl. Law Journal 2673 and come to the conclusion that he held lost the right of being in the house of the uncle and, therefore, he has been considered to be an accused and is punished for committing offence under Section 457 IPC also read with 354 IPC.

4. Learned Judge while sentencing has considered the fact that this is first offence and he was under mental shock as he had lost his elder brother and wife of his younger brother. The accused tried to molest his aunt and, therefore, the court ordered his incarceration for 2 years under Section 354 of IPC and one year under Section 457 of the IPC but looking to his state of mind did not order recovery of fine or default sentence.

5. After recording the evidence of the witnesses and perusing the material on record, the trial Court passed the impugned order. Hence, the present appeal contending that offence committed was under Section 376 IPC.

6. We are not aware whether the accused has challenged the sentence or not, but the State has challenged. The order sheet does not reveal that since 2006 whether the accused ever was issued with summons, though the record has been summoned and it is with this court since August, 2021.

7. The term shall also be liable to fine in section 457 and, therefore, we are of the opinion that while hearing the appeal, we find that error has occurred by not imposing fine for conviction under Section 457 IPC. The view taken by learned Judge is against the mandate of the Statute and no reasons are assigned by the learned Judge, as to why he has not inflicted punishment of fine though the sentencing as per Section 457 of Indian Penal Code uses the word 'and fine'.

8. As far as the facts are concerned, the accused was charged with commission of offence under Section 376 read with Section 511 of the IPC that he had committed rape of his aunt on 2.2.1995 by entering into his house, he had tried to commit rape and he was also liable for tress pass.

9. Learned AGA for the appellant-State, vehemently submitted that the trial Court committed a grave error in passing the impugned judgment and order, inasmuch as it failed to appreciate the material on record in its proper perspective. It is submitted that taking into consideration the oral evidence of the witnesses examined by the prosecution as well as the documentary evidences produced by it, the trial Court ought to have held the accused guilty of the charges leveled against them. It is, therefore, prayed that the appeal be allowed.

10. The principles which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court, against an order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of "M.S. NARAYANA MENON @ MANI VS. STATE OF KERALA & ANR", (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

11. Further, in the case of "CHANDRAPPA Vs. STATE OF KARNATAKA", reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

12. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

13. Even in the case of "STATE OF GOA Vs. SANJAY THAKRAN & ANR.", reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

14. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of "STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH VS. RAM VEER SINGH & ORS.", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in "GIRJA PRASAD (DEAD) BY L.R.s VS. STATE OF MP", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

15. In the case of "LUNA RAM VS. BHUPAT SINGH AND ORS.", reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

16. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of "MOOKKIAH AND ANR. VS. STATE, REP. BY THE INSPECTOR OF POLICE, TAMIL NADU", reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

17. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of "STATE OF KARNATAKA VS. HEMAREDDY", AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

"...This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

18. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in "SHIVASHARANAPPA & ORS. VS. STATE OF KARNATAKA", JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

19. Further, in the case of "STATE OF PUNJAB VS. MADAN MOHAN LAL VERMA", (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

20. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10.It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

21. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

22. The factual scenario of the case to show that on the fateful date, the accused who was the nephew of the prosecutrix tried to commit tress pass entered the house tried to molested her, but in the process when she tried to catch him, he ran away. The prosecutrix was moved into motion and the charge sheet was laid. The learned judge has given judgment which cannot be said to be in so perverse, that conviction under Section 354 IPC is bad, it cannot be said that the findings of facts are perverse but there is irregularity in not passing order of fine and default sentence.

23. In view of the above judgments and facts as discussed above, it would not permit us to take a different view then that taken by the learned Judge who has convicted the accused. The evidence on record also will not permit us to take a different view as far as punishment under Section 354 and not 376 IPC is considered. Thus, the above-mentioned decisions will not permit this Court to take a different view except infliction of fine. In this case it is not proved beyond doubt that the original accused respondent, herein, indulged into commission of rape of his own aunt.

24. While going through the record and the impugned judgment, the principle enunciated by the Apex Court for entertaining appeal against partial conviction which are reproduced herein above, will permit this Court to pass order which will meet ends of justice.

25. The Court on careful reading came to the conclusion that the provisions of Section offence under Sections, 375 and 376 IPC are not made out. The testimony of the witnesses do not permit us to take a different view that rape was not committed. The reason being there was no penetration in the vagina of the prosecutrix before he could do anything. She sounded the alarm by shouling and accused fled away. The provision of Section 511 IPC with which he was charged is also not be attracted. There was no charge under Section 457 of IPC, but the learned Judge has also convicted under Section 457 of IPC read with 354 IPC.

26. In the result, this appeal fails but to meet ends of justice as the judgment and order of the trial Court, Dated : 18.10.2005, stands modified. Bail bonds of the accused, if any, on bail, stands cancelled.

27. Lower Court Record be sent back to the concerned trial Court, forthwith.

28. As far as under Section 457 IPC is concerned, as there is mandate to impose fine as it is mandatory, we direct the learned trial Judge to summon the accused herein and pass order of fine and default sentence. The accused if he has not undergone, the punishment will surrender to the Jail authorities concerned, if he has not preferred any appeal or no orders are passed.

A. Interpretation of Statute - U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947: Section 2(q)(ii), 27 - U.P. Panchayat Raj (Amendment) Rules, 1969 - By way of Amendment in Chapter XIII heading "SURCHARGE" was inserted in the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947. The Court interpreted that the District Magistrate is the "Prescribed Authority" for imposing surcharge on Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and the Members under Section 27(2) and the District Panchayat Raj Officer is the Prescribed Authority for imposing surcharge upon the Officers or servants of the Gaon Sabha. (Para 20)

List of Cases cited:

1. Uday Pratap Singh @ Harikesh Vs St. of U.P. & ors. Writ C No. 24902 of 2019

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.)

1. The matter has been placed before this Court for consideration of the following questions of law, on account of doubt expressed by learned Single Judge on the view expressed earlier by a Single Judge of this Court in Writ-C No. 24902 of 2019 (Uday Pratap Singh @ Harikesh Vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 30.09.2019:

"(1) Whether in view of the U.P. Panchayat Raj (Amendment) Rules, 1969 by which Chapter- XIII with the heading "SURCHARGE' was inserted in the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947 in exercise of powers under Section 110 by the State Government, which have been notified in the Gazette on 31.05.1969, the District Magistrate is the "Prescribed Authority' for imposing surcharge on Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Members under Section 27 (2) in terms of Section 2(q)(ii) of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 or not ?, and whether the District Pachayat Raj Officer is the Prescribed Authority for imposing surcharge upon the Officers or servants of the Gaon Sabha or not ?

(2) Whether the decision rendered by a Single Judge Bench in Writ- C No. 24902 of 2019; Uday Pratap Singh @ Harikesh Vs. State of U.P. and others and connected petitions on 30.09.2019 lays down the law correctly with regard to Question No. 1 framed above ?"

2. As only legal issues have been referred to be considered by Larger Bench, we do not go much in the facts of the case as for that purpose the matter will go back before the learned Single Judge.

3. The argument raised by learned counsel for the petitioners is that the Prescribed Authority having not been notified in terms of the provisions of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), the District Magistrate cannot exercise the power. A plain reading of Section 27 of the Act shows that the Prescribed Authority is to fix the amount of surcharge and certify the same to the Collector for recovery of the same as arrears of land revenue. It would clearly mean that two persons have to be different authorities. The Prescribed Authority cannot be the Collector (District Magistrate).

4. On the other hand, learned counsel for the State submitted that Section 2(q) of the Act defines "Prescribed Authority". Clause (ii) thereof provides that the Prescribed Authority shall be the authority notified as such by the Government, whether generally or for any particular purpose. Chapter-XIII was added in the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as the "the Rules") vide Notification dated May 22, 1969 published in Gazette on May 31, 1969. It clearly provides the procedure and the authority competent to take action in terms of Section 27 of the Act. This is in compliance to the requirements of Section 27 read with Section 2(q) of the Act.

5. From a plain reading of the Rules contained in Chapter XIII of the Act, it is evident that hierarchy of officers has been provided even for hearing the appeals against the orders passed by the authorities concerned. No separate notification, as such, is required to be issued as the Rules framed in exercise of powers conferred under Section 110 of the Act provides for the same. It is not a matter of dispute that the Rules were notified in the Gazette. He further submitted that merely because in Section 27(2) it is mentioned that the Prescribed Authority shall fix the amount of surcharge and certify this amount to the Collector for recovery as arrears of land revenue, it will not mean that both the authorities have to be different. If seen in the light of the definition of "Collector", as provided in Section 2(e) of the Act, there are many officers who fall within the definition of Collector. Even otherwise, the same officer can exercise two powers. Recovery of an amount as arrears of land revenue is nothing but execution of the order passed by Prescribed Authority for recovering the amount as per procedure prescribed.

6. The matter came to be referred for decision by this Bench on account of opinion expressed by a Single Judge of this Court in Uday Pratap Singh's case (supra) holding as under:

"A. The expression "Prescribed Authority" referred to in Section 27(2) of the Act means an authority duly designated for that purpose in accordance with the provisions made in Section 2(q)(ii);

B. The State has failed to establish that the District Magistrate was duly notified as the Prescribed Authority in accordance with the mandate of Section 2(q)(ii). In the absence of a notification designating the District Magistrate as the competent authority for the purposes of Section 27(2), the orders of surcharge impugned cannot be sustained;

C. The prescription of a procedure for assessment and recovery of surcharge in Chapter XIII of the Rules and the assignment of a role to the District Magistrate or the District Panchayat Raj Officer thereunder cannot be held to be a compliance of the requirement of Section 27(2);

D. Rules 256-259 as contained in Chapter XIII of the Rules are only an extension of the requirement placed by Section 27(2) to lay in place a structure to "fix the amount of the surcharge according to the procedure that may be prescribed";

E. Section 27(2) neither sanctions nor envisages the designation of a Prescribed Authority by way of a rule or other subordinate legislation;".

7. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

8. The relevant provisions of the Act are extracted below:

(3) On the written request of the Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant from whom an explanation has been called for, the Gram Panchayat shall give him necessary facilities for inspection of the records connected with the requisition for surcharge. The Chief Audit Officer may, on application from the person surcharged, allow a reasonable extension of time for submission of his explanation if he is satisfied that the person charged has been unable, for reasons beyond his control, to consult the record for the purpose of furnishing his explanation.

257. (1). After the expiry of the period prescribed in sub-rule (1) or (3) of Rule 256, as the case may be, and after examining the explanation, if any, received within time, the Chief Audit Officer shall submit the papers along with his recommendations to the District Magistrate of the district in which the Gram Sabha is situated in case of Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Members and to the District Panchayat Raj Officer of the district in which the Gram Sabha is situated in case of Officers and servants.

(2) The District Magistrate or the District Panchayat Raj Officer, as the case may be, after examining and after considering the explanation, if any, shall require the Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant of the Gram Panchayat to pay the whole or part of the sum to which such Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant is found liable:

Provided, firstly, that no Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant of the Gram Panchayat would be required to make good the loss, if from the explanation of the Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant concerned or otherwise the District Magistrate or the District Panchayat Raj Officer, as the case may be, is satisfied that the loss was caused by an act of the Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant in the bona fide discharge of his duties:

Provided secondly, that in the case of loss, waste or misuse occurring as a result of a resolution of the Gram Panchayat or any of its committees the amount of loss to be recovered shall be divided equally among all the members including Pradhan and Up-Pradhan, who are reported in the minutes of the Gram Panchayat or any of its committee as having voted for or who remained neutral in respect of such resolution:

Provided thirdly, that no Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant shall be liable for any loss, waste or misuse after the expiry of four years from the occurrence of such loss, waste or misuse or after the expiry of three years from the date of his ceasing to be Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant of the Gram Panchayat, whichever is later.

258. (1) Any Pradhan, Up-Pradhan or Member of a Gram Panchayat aggrieved with an order of surcharge passed by the District Magistrate under Rule 256 may appeal to the Commissioner of the Division within thirty days from the date on which such order is communicated to him and the Commissioner of the Division may confirm, rescind or vary the order passed by the District Magistrate or may pass such orders as he thinks fit.

(2) Any Officer or servant of a Gram Panchayat aggrieved with an order of surcharge passed by the District Panchayat Raj Officer may appeal to the District Magistrate within thirty days from the date on which such order is communicated to him and the District Magistrate may confirm, rescind or vary the order passed by the District Panchayat Raj Officer or may pass such orders as he thinks fit.

259. (1) A Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant of a Gram Panchayat who has been surcharged, shall pay the amount of surcharge within three months from the date of communication to him of the order of surcharge passed by the District Magistrate or the District Panchayat Raj Officer, as the case may be:

Provided that when an appeal has been preferred under Rule 258 against the order of surcharge passed by the District Magistrate or the District Panchayat Raj Officer, all proceedings for recovery of the surcharge from the persons who have preferred the appeal shall be stayed until the appeal has been finally decided.

(2) If the amount of surcharge is not paid within the period specified in sub-rule (1) it shall be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

260. Where a suit is instituted in a Court to question an order of surcharge and the District Magistrate, District Panchayat Raj Officer or the Commissioner of the Division is a defendant in such a suit, all costs incurred in defending such a suit shall be paid by the Gaon Panchayat and it shall be the duty of the Gaon Panchayat to make such payment without undue delay."

10. Section 27 of the Act provides that every Pradhan of a Gram Panchayat and every member of a Gram Panchayat or of a Joint Committee or any other committee constituted under this Act shall be liable to surcharge for the loss, waste or misapplication of money or property belonging to the Gram Panchayat, if such loss, waste or misapplication is direct consequence of his neglect or misconduct in discharge of his duties. The Prescribed Authority has been given power to fix the amount of surcharge according to the procedure as may be prescribed. The amount has to be certified to the Collector for realization as arrears of land revenue. Sub-section (3) thereof provides that any person aggrieved by an order of Prescribed Authority fixing the amount of surcharge may file an appeal against such order to the State Government or such other appellate authority, as may be prescribed.

11. Section 2(q)(ii) defines "Prescribed Authority" as an authority notified as such by State Government, whether generally or for any particular purpose. It would mean that the Prescribed Authority is to be notified conferring power under this Act. Section 110 of the Act provides that the State Government may, by notification in the Gazette, make Rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

12. It cannot be disputed that the purpose of notifying Prescribed Authority is to carry out the purposes of this Act. It is not only the Prescribed Authority but in terms of Section 27(3) even an appellate authority is also to be prescribed.

13. Chapter-XIII was added in the Rules vide Notification dated May 22, 1969 published in Gazette on May 31, 1969. Rule 256 of the Rules provides different authorities for taking action in terms of Section 27 of the Act. A perusal of Rules 256 to 260 of Chapter XIII of the Rules show that complete procedure has been provided for fixation of the surcharge to be recovered from different officers in Gram Panchayat on account of loss, waste or misuse of any money/property belonging to the Gaon Sabha which is on account of a direct consequence of negligence or misconduct of the person concerned. Chief Audit Officer, Cooperative Society and Panchayats is to consider the same and after examination of the explanation, if any, received from persons concerned, submit the papers along with recommendation to the District Magistrate of the District in which the Gaon Sabha is situated, in case of Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Member. The report along with recommendation has to be sent by Chief Audit Officer to the District Panchayat Raj Officer of the District in which Gaon Sabha is situated, in case of Officers and servants. The District Magistrate or the the District Panchayat Raj Officer, as the case may be, is to finally fix the amount, which is recoverable from the person concerned.

14. Rule 258 provides the appellate authority, in terms of Section 27 (3) of the Act. An order passed by the District Magistrate is appealable to the Commissioner of the Division, whereas an order passed by District Panchayat Raj Officer is appealable to the District Magistrate.

15. The argument raised by learned counsel for the petitioners that separate notification had to be issued for specifying Prescribed Authority for taking action for assessment of surcharge is misconceived and deserves to be rejected. A perusal of various provisions of the Act, as have been referred above, only shows that a notification has to be issued. That would not mean that a separate notification is to be issued only for notifying the Prescribed Authority. Once the complete procedure for fixation of surcharge and authority concerned for the purpose has been prescribed in the Rules framed under the Act, which have been duly notified, in our opinion the mandate of the law stands satisfied.

16. The District Magistrate is the competent authority for fixation of amount of surcharge recoverable from Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Member and the District Panchayat Raj Officer is competent authority for fixing the amount of surcharge in case of officers and servants.

17. The argument that the Prescribed Authority as well as Collector have to be separate persons is merely to be noticed and rejected as the same authority can be conferred with two different powers. In any case, recovery of an amount due from any person is merely a process of execution and power can be exercised even by the same authority, or any other authority prescribed under the Act.

18. It may also be seen in the light of the fact that in the definition of "Collector", it is not only "District Magistrate", rather Sub-divisional Magistrate, Additional Collector, Additional District Magistrate and Additional Sub Divisional Magistrate are also included therein.

19. The opinion expressed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Uday Pratap Singh's case (supra) is not in correct perspective of the provisions of the Act and the Rules, hence may not be treated as precedent to be followed, as it is does not lay down the law correctly.

20. For the reason mentioned above, the question no. 1, as referred to be considered by Division Bench, is answered in positive. In view of the U.P. Panchayat Raj (Amendment) Rules, 1969, by which Chapter- XIII with the heading "SURCHARGE' was inserted in the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947 in exercise of powers under Section 110 by the State Government, as notified in the Official Gazette on May 31, 1969, the District Magistrate is the "Prescribed Authority' for imposing surcharge on Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Members under Section 27(2) and the District Pachayat Raj Officer is the Prescribed Authority for imposing surcharge upon the Officers or servants of the Gaon Sabha.

21. As far as the question no. 2 is concerned, the answer thereof is in negative. The decision rendered by learned Single Judge of this Court in Uday Pratap Singh's case (supra) whereby a bunch of petitions were decided, does not lay down the law correctly.

22. The reference is, accordingly, answered.

23. The matters shall now be placed before learned Single Judge on January 17, 2021, for further consideration.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Nadeem Murtaza and Mr. Prashant Puri, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Amarjeet Singh Rakhra, learned counsel for the respondent No.4 and Mr. S.P. Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India (in short Constitution) has been filed by the petitioners to quash the First Information Report (in short F.I.R.) registered at Case Crime No.0531 of 2020, under Sections 471, 468, 467, 420 and 406 of Indian Penal Code (in short I.P.C.) at Police Station Sarojani Nagar, District Lucknow and not to proceed, prosecute or arrest the petitioners on the basis of the aforesaid F.I.R.

3. Previously, after going through the record and having heard the learned counsel for the petitioners as well as learned A.G.A. and the counsel for the private respondent No.4, this Court gathered that prima-facie the case relates to business/corporate transactions and the F.I.R. has been lodged due to some personal feud between two real brothers. This Court deemed it proper to persuade the parties to settle the dispute amicably. 'Abraham Lincoln' has said "discourage litigation persuade your neighbours to compromise whenever you can. Point out to them how the nominal winner is often a real loser in fees, expenses and waste of time." Hence the Court with the consent of petitioners and respondent No.4 gave them chance to settle their dispute amicably through the process of Mediation/Conciliation. Accordingly, the matter was so referred.

4. Today the counsel for the petitioners as well as private respondent No.4 appeared and submitted that they have settled their dispute amicably with the help of Mediator and blessings of the mother of petitioner No.1 and respondent No.4. So F.I.R. may be quashed, as there is no dispute or bickerings left between the petitioners and respondent No.4. The counsel for the petitioners as well as private respondent relied upon the following case laws:-

1. B.S. Joshi and others Vs. State of Haryana and another (2003) 4 SCC 675.

2. Gian Singh Vs. State of Punjab and another (2012) 10 SCC 303.

3. Narinder Singh and anothers Vs. State of Punjab (2014) Criminal Law Journal 2436.

4. Parbatbhai Aahir Alias Parbatbhai Bhimsinghbhai Karmur and others Vs. State of Gujarat and another (2017) 9 SCC 641.

5. Social Action Forum for Manav Adhikar and another Vs. Union of India, Ministry of Law and Justice and others (2018) 10 SCC 443.

5. This Court is empowered under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (in short Cr.P.C.) and under Article 226 of the Constitution to quash the F.I.R. in certain circumstances and relating to certain offences. In the case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal 1992 Supplementary (1) SCC 335, Hon'ble the Apex Court has considered in detail the scope of the power of the High Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution to quash the F.I.R.

6. In B.S. Joshi and others Vs. State of Haryana and another (Supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court again explained the ambit of the inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. read with Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution to quash the criminal proceedings.

7. In Nikhil Merchant Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and Another (2008) 9 SCC 677, where the dispute was settled between the parties on the basis of compromise the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

" 30. In the instant case, the disputes between the Company and the Bank have been set at rest on the basis of the compromise arrived at by them whereunder the dues of the Bank have been cleared and the Bank does not appear to have any further claim against the Company. What, however, remains is the fact that certain documents were alleged to have been created by the appellant herein in order to avail of credit facilities beyond the limit to which the Company was entitled. The dispute involved herein has overtones of a civil dispute with certain criminal facets. The question which is required to be answered in this case is whether the power which independently lies with this Court to quash the criminal proceedings pursuant to the compromise arrived at, should at all be exercised?

31. On an overall view of the facts as indicated hereinabove and keeping in mind the decision of this Court in B.S. Joshi's case and the compromise arrived at between the Company and the Bank as also clause 11 of the consent terms filed in the suit filed by the Bank, we are satisfied that this is a fit case where technicality should not be allowed to stand in the way in the quashing of the criminal proceedings, since, in our view, the continuance of the same after the compromise arrived at between the parties would be a futile exercise."

8. Again the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manoj Sharma Vs. State of others (2008) 16 SCC 1 has held as under:-

" 27. There can be no doubt that a case under Section 302 IPC or other serious offences like those under Sections 395, 307 or 304B cannot be compounded and hence proceedings in those provisions cannot be quashed by the High Court in exercise of its power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or in writ jurisdiction on the basis of compromise. However, in some other cases, (like those akin to a civil nature) the proceedings can be quashed by the High Court if the parties have come to an amicable settlement even though the provisions are not compoundable. Where a line is to be drawn will have to be decided in some later decisions of this Court, preferably by a larger bench (so as to make it more authoritative).

Some guidelines will have to be evolved in this connection and the matter cannot be left at the sole unguided discretion of Judges, otherwise there may be conflicting decisions and judicial anarchy. A judicial discretion has to be exercised on some objective guiding principles and criteria, and not on the whims and fancies of individual Judges. Discretion, after all, cannot be the Chancellor's foot."

9. In Parbatbhai Aahir Alias Parbatbhai Bhimsinghbhai Karmur and others Vs. State of Gujarat and another (2017) 9 SCC 641 the three judges Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court has summarized the broad principles in this regard as under:-

"16. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject, may be summarised in the following propositions:

16.1 Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognises and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court.

16.2 The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

16.3 In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power.

16.4 While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court.

16.5. The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated.

16.6. In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences.

16.7 As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned.

16.8. Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute.

16.9. In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and 16.10. There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (16.8) and (16.9) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

10. In Anita Maria Dias Vs. State of Maharashtra (2018) 3 SCC 290 the Hon'ble Apex Court re-hashed the principles and guidelines about the quashing of the F.I.R on the basis of mutual settlement, this was a case where an F.I.R. was lodged under Sections 406, 420, 467 and 471 read with section 34 of Indian Penal Code and under the provisions of Negotiable Instrument Act. The parties settled their dispute through mutual compromise. The Apex Court while passing the order to quash the F.I.R. observed as under:-

7. In a case like this, where the proceedings are still at initial and nascent stage, the High Court should have exercised its discretion in quashing the proceedings. Law in this behalf is well settled by catena of judgments of this Court including Parbatbhai Aahir & Ors. v. State of Gujarat and Gian Singh v. State of Punjab.

11. From the perusal of the judgment in Social Action Forum For Manav Adhikar and another Vs. Union of India, Ministry of Law and Justice and others(supra) it is apparent that similar line of ratio was propounded/summarised by the Hon'ble Apex Court.

12. In Kapil Agarwal and others Vs. Sanjay Sharma and others (2021) 5 SCC 524 the Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:-

18.2 As held by this Court in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir v. State of Gujarat Section 482 Cr.P.C. is prefaced with an overriding provision. The statute saves the inherent power of the High Court, as a superior court, to make such orders as are necessary (i) to prevent an abuse of the process of any Court; or (ii) otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Same are the powers with the High Court, when it exercises the powers under Article 226 of the Constitution.

13. The law laid down by the Apex Court in the above referred case laws makes it clear that an F.I.R. can be quashed on the basis of mutual compromise arrived at between the parties, even if an offence is not compoundable under Section 320 of Cr.P.C. relating to certain offences considering the facts and circumstances of the case. In the present matter the dispute between petitioners and private respondent (respondent No.4) relates to business/corporate transactions. The petitioner No.1 and respondent No.4 are real brothers and petitioner No.2 is wife of the petitioner No.1. They on the initiative of this Court, with blessings of their mother and sincere efforts of mediators and their counsel have settled their dispute amicably. The terms and conditions of settlement has been written down in the settlement deed dated 08.10.2021. Thus it appears just to quash the impugned F.I.R. registered at Case Crime No.0531 of 2020, under Sections 471, 468, 467, 420 and 406 of I.P.C. at Police Station Sarojani Nagar, District Lucknow.

14. Accordingly, this writ petition is allowed. The impugned F.I.R. is quashed on the basis of compromise between the petitioners and respondent No.4. The settlement deed dated 08.10.2021 shall remain integral part of this order.

15. The counsel for the petitioners is directed to upload the settlement deed dated 08.10.2021.

16. Office is directed to issue the certified copy of this order alongwith the copy of settlement deed dated 08.10.2021.

17. Mr. Nadeem Murtaza, learned counsel for the petitioners and Mr. Amarjeet Singh Rakhra, learned counsel for the respondent No.4 deserve appreciation of this Court for putting their efforts to get the dispute settled between the parties amicably. Their efforts are commendable.

4. Mr. Ajit Srivastava appearing on behalf of the respondent nos. 1, 2 and 10 and Mr. Vivek Kumar Mishra appearing on behalf of the respondent nos. 11, 12 and 13, are not present when the case is called on.

5. None of the respondents have filed any counter affidavit.

7. Heard forthwith.

8. The Additional Sub-Divisional Officer, Sadar, Sultanpur had before him Suit No. D201604680006159 under Section 229B of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land ReformsAct, 1950, instituted by the petitioners and their predecessors. The suit appears to have been dismissed in default and restored to file on more than one occasion. The last successful restoration was on 12.07.2007. Thereafter, the suit was again dismissed in default on 29.01.2015. The application that was brought to set aside the order dated 29.01.2015 was to undo an episode of default.

9. The Additional Sub-Divisional Officer, Sadar, Sultanpur looked into the past conduct of the plaintiff-petitioners and came to the conclusion that they were not serious about prosecuting the suit. Accordingly, the Additional Sub-Divisional Officer, dismissed their restoration application vide order dated 11.08.2018. The plaintiff-petitioners assailed the order of the Additional Sub-Divisional Officer, Sadar, Sultanpur in revision before the Commissioner, Ayodhya Division, Ayodhya.

10 . The revision, being Case No. 02478 of 2018, came up for determination before the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Ayodhya Division, Ayodhya on 22.07.2021. Unfortunately, for the plaintiff-petitioners, the Additional Commissioner (Judicial) also looked at the issue in the same perspective, as the Trial Court. He reached the same conclusion as the Trial Court and dismissed the petitioner's revision. This is what has led the petitioner to institute the present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the approach of both the courts below is not only flawed and manifestly illegal, but also works serious injustice and prejudice to the plaintiff-petitioners. He submits that the approach of the two courts below is manifestly illegal, because it is not permissible for a Court, seized of a restoration application, to look at the past conduct of parties. All that has to be seen is the emergent sufficiency of cause on the date of default.

12. Mr. Mohan Singh, on the other hand, submits that past conduction of the respondent is also relevant, particularly, before this Court, where he is invoking our extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution.

13. This Court has considered the rival submission and perused the record. It is no doubt true that in the past, the plaintiff has defaulted on a total of four occasions and applied for restoration of this suit, where he was successful in three instances. The last default has put him in trouble, with the Courts below holding that the plaintiff is not interested in pursuing this cause.

14. A perusal of the records shows that the suit was dismissed in default on 29.01.2015, in absence of the plaintiff, but in the defendant's presence. The dismissal of the suit in default is, therefore, one governed by Order IX Rule 8 CPC. The right to restoration of the suit would be governed by Rule 9 of Order IX CPC. Rule 9 of Order IX reads:

"(1) Where a suit is wholly or partly dismissed under rule 8, the plaintiff shall be precluded from bringing a fresh suit in respect of the same cause of action. But he may apply for an order to set the dismissal aside, and if he satisfies the Court that there was sufficient cause for his non-appearance when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall make an order setting aside the dismissal upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

(2) No order shall be made under this rule unless notice of the application has been served on the opposite party."

(Emphasis by Court)

15. Now, a perusal of sub-rule (1) of Rule 9 of Order IX shows that a dismissal in default under Rule 8 of Order IX may be set-aside by the Court if the plaintiff, on an application to set-aside that order, satisfies the Court that "there was sufficient cause for his non-appearance when the suit was called on for hearing", to borrow the phraseology of the Statute. What is, therefore, relevant is the sufficiency of cause for non-appearance on the date when the suit is dismissed in default. The rule makes it pellucid that what is relevant is the sufficiency of cause on the date of default and not the past conduct of parties, or for that matter, the plaintiff's.

16. In this regard, reference may be made to the decision of this Court in Ram Raj and Others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and Others, 1988 RD 139, wherein it has been held:

"..... These facts were not controverted by the opposite party No. 3. The Deputy Director of Consolidation appears to have rejected them to be habitual defaulters. There appears to be no justification for such observation. However, be as it may, I am of the opinion that if there is valid excuse for the petitioners' absence on the date when the restoration application was dismissed for default, the previous negligence or want of diligence on their part to prosecute their case could not be made a ground dis-entitling the petitioners for restoration of the case."

17. Again in Phool Chand vs. Vth Additional District Judge and Others, Aligarh; 1983 ARC 637, it has been held:

".....The Prescribed Authority when recording the finding that petitioner deliberately absented has drawn heavily on the cirucmstances that even earlier the suit had been decided ex parte. This was wholly immaterial to decide if petitioner was prevented from sufficient cause in not appearing on the date fixed. Nor was he justified in drawing adverse inference against petitioner for absence on assumption that he was deliberately delaying the proceedings because despite notice in 1972 he did not comply with it and six years were wasted in guardianship proceedings. The revising authority fell in same error. "

18. There is yet another aspect of the matter. It is a salutary principle of law that in judging the sufficiency of cause in matters of default, the Court should lean in favour of hearing rather than what has been described as shutting out the doors of hearing. In this connection, reference may be made to the decisions of the Supreme Court in Sangram

Singh vs. Election Tribunal, Kotah and Others, AIR 1955 SC 425, Ramji Das and Another vs. Mohan Singh, 1978 ARC 496 (SC) and the Collector, Land Acquisition, Anantnag and Another vs. Mst. Katiji and Others, (1987) 2 SCC 107.

19. In this case also, what was before the Court is a declaratory suit, where title to property is at stake. There is ex-facie no reason why the plaintiff, who has moved the Court, asking for declaration of his right, would not be interested in the trial of his cause and judgment on merits. The fact that an accident has happened more than once, does not make it any less an accident. At the same time, the plaintiff ought to be careful in future and should compensate the defendants in costs, subject to which alone, he would be entitled to restoration.

20. In the circumstances, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned orders dated 22.07.2021, passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Ayodhya Division, Ayodhya and the order dated 11.10.2018, passed by the Additional Sub-Divisional Officer, Sadar, Sultanpur, are hereby set-aside and reversed. The petitioner's restoration application dated 27.02.2015 stands allowed, subject to payment of Rs. 5,000/- in costs to the defendants. These costs shall be deposited within a month of date with the Trial Court, which shall be paid to the defendants. The suit shall stand restored to file of the Additional Sub-Divisional Officer, Sadar, Sultanpur, who shall proceed in accordance with law.

A. Interpretation of Statute - "Recognition" and "affiliation" - National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993: Section 14 - U.P. St.Universities Act, 1973: Section 37(11) - The first step for an Institution is to procure recognition and after that it is required to obtain affiliation. The affiliating body has a limited field upon which it can act and after being satisfied it can grant or refuse the affiliation. The affiliating body does not have the powers to re-enter into the considerations regarding primary infrastructural facilities which have already been examined by the N.C.T.E., while granting the recognition. If the examining body or the St.Authorities find deficiency in the infrastructure then it can always recommend the cancellation of the recognition to the Regional Committee of the N.C.T.E. (Para 50)

The Court find that the grounds based on which affiliation for the year 2021-22 has been refused to the petitioner does not based on sound reasoning and being arbitrary is hit by the Article 14 of the Constitution of India. (Para 79)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. The petitioner No.1 is the Committee of Management Jai Maa Gange Manav Kalyan Sansthan, Derwa Bazar, District Pratapgarh a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860.

2. The Society as mentioned aforesaid runs a college in the name of Pt. Shiv Sharan College of Education, Derwa Bazar, District Pratapgarh (hereinafter referred to as "the college"), who is the petitioner No.3 and the petitioner No.2 is the Manager of the aforesaid college.

3. In the year 2017, the college was duly recognized by the National Council of Teacher Education (hereinafter referred to as "N.C.T.E." for short) for the course of Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) and got approval of one unit (50) students annually.

4. After grant of recognition by the N.C.T.E., the college applied for the affiliation from the respondent No.3 University. The University after making due inspection and finding that the college complied with the requisite norms granted the affiliation on 20.05.2018 for the course of Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) under the faculty of education for a period of two academic years (2018-2019 and 2019-2020).

5. Since, the petitioners were granted the affiliation for two academic sessions which was drawing to an end in the academic session 2019-20, hence, the petitioners again applied for the affiliation for the academic session 2020-21. The University did not conduct any physical inspection and extended the affiliation for another year vide order dated 18.02.2021 for the academic session 2020-2021.

6. Since, COVID-19 Pandemic was raging in the country, accordingly, the petitioners on 15.03.2021 sent a detailed representation to the respondent No.3 University received by them on 26.03.2021 and requested for further extension of the affiliation for the academic session 2021-2022.

7. It is the case of the petitioners that the respondent No.3-University did not respond to the representation of the petitioners dated 26.03.2021, despite passage of four months. It is only on 24.07.2021, the University uploaded a letter on the login-I.D. of the petitioner-College stating that an inspection team has been constituted by the University, of which the petitioner is aware, and the petitioner has to get an inspection conducted in order to get the affiliation extended.

8. It is further stated that the petitioners contacted the University but as per the petitioner, no inspection team had been constituted and for the aforesaid reason it could not even deposit the fee for the inspection. Not receiving any categoric reply from the University, the petitioner once again on 28.07.2021 submitted a representation along with an affidavit indicating that the inspection of the college was already made in the year 2019 and every requisite norm was fulfilled. However, certain minor shortcomings such as lack of doors, windows and skylights were noticed, which could not be completed on account of suspension of classes on account of COVID-19 Pandemic. However, the petitioner was ready to get the same affixed within shortest possible time and in contemplation thereof it requested that the affiliation be extended for the academic session 2021-2022.

9. Despite the aforesaid representation dated 28.07.2021, no response was forthcoming from the University. In the meantime, on 28.08.2021, a letter was issued by the respondent No.3 University requiring the college to submit their profile in the prescribed format for the purposes of preparing the counseling schedule which was scheduled to be held by the Lucknow University.

10. In furtherance of the letter dated 28.08.2021, the petitioner submitted all the relevant documents seeking participation in the counseling for the Session 2021-2022 and the hard copies of the said documents were also submitted with the respondent No.3-University on 29.08.2021.

11. It is a specific case of the petitioner that between 24.07.2021 to 29.08.2021, 26 notices/letters raising various concerns were uploaded on the College I.D. by the University. However, the impugned letter/order dated 31.07.2021 is alleged to be uploaded antedated inasmuch as the same was uploaded on the College I.D. after 28.08.2021, wherein it expressed its inability to grant the affiliation, since, the inspection had not been conducted in furtherance of the letter dated 24.07.2021.

12. Petitioners were not aware of the said letter dated 31.07.2021 prior to 29.08.2021. The petitioner being aggrieved and also noticing that the career of the students was at stake, preferred a Writ Petition No.19490 of 2021 (M/S), wherein the petitioner claimed the following main reliefs, which are reproduced hereinafter:-

"(a) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing impugned order dated 31.07.2021 issued by Opp-Party no.2, so served upon the petitioner on 29.08.2021, so far as it relates to the petitioner, the true copy of which is contained as Annexure-1 to the writ petition.

(b) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding Opp.-party no.2 to grant affiliation for the course of B.Ed. in the light of permanent recognition granted by the N.C.T.E. to the College.

*(c) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Opp-Parties namely Opp-Party No.5 to allow the petitioners to participate in the counseling for new admissions for the session 2021-2022 which is going to commence from 06.09.2021, notwithstanding w*ith the impugned order dated 31.07.2021 so served upon the petitioner on 29.08.2021."

13. A Coordinate Bench of this Court by means of the order dated 03.09.2021 passed in Writ Petition No.19490 of 2021 (M/S) noticing the respective submissions passed an order and the relevant portion thereof is being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

"13. This Court is prima facie satisfied about the bonafide of the Institution in telling the University fairly that it could not remove the shortcomings through its letter dated 28.07.2021. As an interim measure, it is therefore directed that the petitioner shall deposit the fee for inspection within three days from today in the University and also ensure completion of all work/ removal of shortcomings as pointed out in the report dated 18.05.2018. The inspection team shall be sent by the University to the College concerned on 07.09.2021 and if a positive report is submitted in favour of the Institution, the respondent nos.2 and 3 shall pass appropriate orders regarding grant of affiliation."

14. In furtherance of the order dated 03.09.2021, the petitioner deposited the requisite fee and on 07.09.2021, the inspection of the Collage was done by an Inspecting Team comprising of two members (who have been impleaded as respondent No.5 herein). Despite the inspection having been done on 07.09.2021, the report was not known nor the outcome was informed to the petitioner while the counseling was to commence on 17.09.2021. The dilemma of the petitioner was made known to the Court seized with Writ Petition No.19490 of 2021 (M/S) and a Coordinate Bench of this Court by means of the order dated 15.09.2021 directed the respondent-University to file its counter affidavit within two days bringing on record the decision taken in respect of the affiliation of the petitioner-College.

15. Again on 21.09.2021, the matter was directed to be placed on 23.09.2021 permitting the University to bring on record the decision taken on the affiliation. It is thereafter that the decision taken by the respondent-University refusing the affiliation to the petitioner-College dated 22.09.2021 was brought on record.

16 . In view of the decision, not recommending the grant of affiliation to the petitioner taken by the University dated 22.09.2021 gave a fresh cause of action to the petitioners, hence, the petitioners challenged the same in the instant writ petition No.22635 of 2021 (M/S) and it is in the aforesaid backdrop that the two writ petitions have been heard together and are being decided by this common judgment.

SUBMISSIONS OF THE PETITIONERS:

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner has primarily raised threefold submissions: First, it is a case of the petitioner that it is the duty of the N.C.T.E. to make an inspection and after noticing the fact that the college concerned fulfills the requisite norms and infrastructural facilities only then it grants the recognition. Once, the recognition is granted by the N.C.T.E., the University is required to grant the affiliation and while doing so, it may ensure that the college complies with the necessary norms but it does not have the powers to look into those matters which have been considered and noticed by the N.C.T.E.

18. It is also urged that once the college was granted the recognition as well as the affiliation for the academic session 2018-2019, 2019-2020 and also extended for the academic session 2020-2021, there was no reason for the respondent-University to have denied the affiliation to the petitioner for the academic session 2021-2022.

19. The second limb of submission is that the grounds upon which the affiliation has been denied is actually not within the domain of the University to examine. It is also vehemently stated that the report furnished by the Inspecting Committee is arbitrary inasmuch as it has shown deficiencies. If the said deficiencies would have been existing in fact then the N.C.T.E., would not have granted recognition to the college, in the first place.

20. It is also urged that the manner in which the report has been prepared shows a complete non-application of mind with a deliberate intent to refuse the recognition to harm the petitioner and the career of various students studying in the petitioner-College.

21. It is also urged that the arbitrariness is writ large on the report since double standards have been adopted by the Inspecting Committee as well as the University inasmuch as for the same deficiencies which were minor in nature and it did not in any manner affect or hamper the educational or infrastructural requirements and for the same deficiencies large number of colleges have been granted the affiliation, but step-motherly treatment has been meted out with the petitioners and affiliation has been denied to them.

22. The third limb of the submission is that the petitioner had applied for the affiliation in the current academic session 2021-2022 within the prescribed time-lines. The respondent-University did not inform the petitioner regarding any discrepancies nor gave any information for getting the college inspected. The petitioner had already submitted its subsequent representation in July, 2021 and also submitted its hard copies with the University and after almost a month, the impugned letter dated 31.07.2021 was uploaded antedated. The manner in which the respondent has proceeded with the application moved by the petitioner smacks of malafides, as result, the petitioners have been deprived of their rights in participating in the counseling. Number of students, who are already undertaking their education, their future and careers have been put at stake solely on the ground of high handedness, callousness and arbitrariness of the respondents.

23. It is urged, that from the perusal of the report submitted by the Inspection Committee, it would indicate that all the requisites were fulfilled by the petitioners in the year 2019 when the college was inspected. The only deficiency was non-availability of certain doors, windows and skylights, which as already urged were on account of COVID-19 Pandemic. This aspect of the matter was also noticed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in its order dated 03.09.2021, however, ignoring the aforesaid, the report dated 07.09.2021 has been submitted which states that deficiency relating to doors, skylights and windows had been cured but it has now taken other grounds which were neither assessed properly, nor it was in their domain and artificial grounds have been raised, thus, rendering the report per se illegal, arbitrary and contrary to the records.

24. It is, thus, submitted that for all the reasons, the impugned order dated 31.07.2021 and order dated 22.09.2021 refusing affiliation are liable to be quashed and a direction be issued to the respondents to consider and grant the affiliation to the petitioner institution for the academic year 2021-2022.

25. Learned counsel for the petitioners in support of his submissions has relied upon the following judgments:-

(a) Maa Vaishno Devi Mahila Mahavidyalaya v. State of U.P. & Ors., (2013) 2 SCC 617;

(b) Managing Board of the Milli Talimi Mission, Bihar, Ranchi & Ors. v. State of Bihar & Ors., (1984) 4 SCC 500;

(c) Mata Gujri Memorial Medical College v. State of Bihar & Ors., (2009) 16 SCC 309;

(d) Mahatma Gandi University & Anr. v. Manager, ST. Alberts College & Ors., (2012) 13 SCC 442;

(e) Institute of Technical Education & Research Centre v. State of U.P. & 2 Ors., 2018 SCC OnLine All 841;

(f) Committee of Managment Dr. M.C. Saxena College of Education & Anr. v. State of U.P. & Ors., Writ Petition No.4125 (M/S) of 2013, decided on 02.07.2013;

(g) Central Women College v. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR OnLine 2019 Alld 2233.

SUBMISSIONS OF COUNSEL FOR THE RESPONDENT NO.3-UNIVERSITY

26. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent No.3 University opposing the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioners, has submitted that the grant of affiliation by the University is a process which has been bound in a time-line as directed by the Apex Court in the case of Maa Vaishno Devi Mahila Mahavidyalaya v. State of U.P. & Ors., (2013) 2 SCC 617.

27. It is urged that in furtherance of the direction given by the Apex Court in the aforesaid decision, the State of Uttar Pradesh has issued a Government Order dated 10.06.2015 and the affiliations and time-lines are subject to the same. It is submitted that the petitioner has been at fault inasmuch as it did not comply with all the requisite norms. The report of the Inspection Committee is a factual report which has noticed as many as sixteen discrepancies. The University has taken a decision solely on the basis of the said report. Once, the Inspecting Team, who visited the college found such large number of discrepancies persisting, a conscious decision was taken that it was not conducive to grant the affiliation as it would jeopardize the careers of various students, who may obtain admission in the petitioners' college.

28. It is further urged that the University has no animosity with the petitioners and in case if they comply with all the requisite norms and fulfill the same, they always have an opportunity of applying for the affiliation for the next academic session and as such it cannot be said that either the report is arbitrary or that there is any malafides harboured by the respondents against the petitioner.

29. It is further urged that it is for the petitioners to establish that they had made a requisite application within the time for seeking the affiliation for the academic session 2021-22. Since, the time-lines, which have been framed by the Apex Court and has been recognized in terms of the Government Order, it is not open for the University to grant the affiliation after the expiry of the time-line inasmuch as the Apex Court in the case of Maa Vaishno Devi Mahila Mahavidyalaya (supra) has made several observations including that any breach of the time-lines would amount to contempt and for the said reason, the respondents cannot be urged to do an act which would be in the teeth of the order passed by the Apex Court subjecting the respondents being charged with the contempt of Court.

30. The other submission of the learned counsel for the respondent No.3 is that the instant writ petition is not maintainable inasmuch as the petitioner has an adequate remedy of preferring an appeal under the State Universities Act, 1973 before the State Government.

31. It is urged that sub-section (11) of Section 37 of the U.P. State Universities Act, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1973") categorically provides that any institution whose application is rejected by the University may prefer an appeal to the State Government within 30 days from the receipt of the order of the rejection which may either allow the appeal or reject. The State Government shall also have powers to review the matter on an application of a college in cases where the complaint received by it with respect to the irregularities committed by the college.

32. It is, thus, urged that the issue at hand is primarily whether the petitioners' college complies with the necessary norms and regarding the existence of the deficiencies as noticed by the Inspecting Team, these are pure questions of fact which may not be entertained or taken note of by this Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Thus, the appropriate remedy for the petitioners would be to invoke the appellate powers of the State Government, hence, for the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition being devoid of merits is liable to be dismissed.

33. In support of his submission, learned counsel for respondent No.3 has relied upon the decision of Committee of Management, Anuragi Devi Degree College & Anr. v. State of U.P. & Anr., (2016) 12 SCC 517.

DISCUSSIONS AND ANALYSIS

34. Heard Shri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi alongwith Shri Shivanshu Goswami, leaned counsel for the respondent No.3 University and Shri Savitra Vardhan Singh, learned counsel for the respondent No.4.

35. This Court vide its order dated 25.10.2021 had also required the University to produce the record which was made available and was retained by the Court for perusal as well as to facilitate the dictation of the judgment.

36. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, the Court has given anxious consideration to the rival submissions and also perused the record.

37. The two issues involved in the instant petition can be succinctly noted as under:-

(i) Whether in the given facts and circumstances, the respondent No.3 University was justified in refusing the affiliation to the petitioners;

(ii) Whether the petitioners should be relegated to the forum of appeal in terms of Section 37(11) of the Act of 1973.

38. In order to answer the first question, it will be relevant to notice the powers exercised by the N.C.T.E., and the State University respectively relating to the grant of recognition and affiliation to a college.

39. At the very outset, it will be relevant to notice that the Central Government promulgated the National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993. The preamble indicates that the said Act was to provide for establishment of a National Council for the Teacher Education with a view to achieve planned and co-ordinated development of teacher education system throughout the country. The regulation and proper maintenance of norms and standards in the teacher education system including qualification of school teachers and for matters connected therewith were within the framework of the Act of 1993. The Act envisages the establishment of a council tasked with a duty to take all measures for ensuring planned and coordinated development of teacher education and for determination and maintenance of standards for teacher education and purpose for performing its function under the Act.

40. Section 12 of the Act of 1993 lays down the various functions which are required to be done by the council. Chapter-IV and more particularly Section 14 of the Act of 1993 relates to recognition of institutions offering course or training in teacher education.

41. Section 14 of the Act of 1993 is being reproduced for ease of reference:-

"14. Recognition of institutions offering course or training in teacher education.--(1) Every institution offering or intending to offer a course or training in teacher education on or after the appointed day, may, for grant of recognition under this Act, make an application to the Regional Committee concerned in such form and in such manner as may be determined by regulations:

Provided that an institution offering a course or training in teacher education immediately before the appointed day, shall be entitled to continue such course or training for a period of six months, if it has made an application for recognition within the said period and until the disposal of the application by the Regional Committee.

[Provided further that such institutions, as may be specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette, which--

(i) are funded by the Central Government or the State Government or the Union territory Administration;

(ii) have offered a course or training in teacher education on or after the appointed day till the academic year 2017-2018; and

(iii) fulfil the conditions specified under clause (a) of sub-section (3), shall be deemed to have been recognised by the Regional Committee.]

(2) The fee to be paid along with the application under sub-section (1) shall be such as may be prescribed.

(3) On receipt of an application by the Regional Committee from any institution under sub-section (1), and after obtaining from the institution concerned such other particulars as it may consider necessary, it shall,--

(a) if it is satisfied that such institution has adequate financial resources, accommodation, library, qualified staff, laboratory and that it fulfils such other conditions required for proper functioning of the institution for a course or training in teacher education, as may be determined by regulations, pass an order granting recognition to such institution, subject to such conditions as may be determined by regulations; or

(b) if it is of the opinion that such institution does not fulfil the requirements laid down in sub-clause (a), pass an order refusing recognition to such institution for reasons to be recorded in writing:

Provided that before passing an order under sub-clause (b), the Regional Committee shall provide a reasonable opportunity to the concerned institution for making a written representation.

(4) Every order granting or refusing recognition to an institution for a course or training in teacher education under sub-section (3) shall be published in the Official Gazette and communicated in writing for appropriate action to such institution and to the concerned examining body, the local authority or the State Government and the Central Government.

(5) Every institution, in respect of which recognition has been refused shall discontinue the course or training in teacher education from the end of the academic session next following the date of receipt of the order refusing recognition passed under clause (b) of sub-section (3).

(6) Every examining body shall, on receipt of the order under sub-section (4),--

(a) grant affiliation to the institution, where recognition has been granted; or

(b) cancel the affiliation of the institution, where recognition has been refused."

42. Section 15 of the Act of 1993 relates to the permission for a new course or training by recognized institutions. Sub-section (3) of Section 15 provides that on receipt of an application from an institution under sub-section (1), and after obtaining from the recognized institution such other particulars as may be considered necessary, the Regional Committee shall record its satisfaction that such a recognized institution has adequate financial resources, accommodation, library, qualified staff, laboratory, and that if fulfills such other conditions required for proper conduct of the new course or training in teacher education, as may be determined by regulations, pass an order granting permission, subject to such conditions as may be determined by regulations. In case, if the Regional Committee is of the opinion that such institution does not fulfill the requirements laid down in sub-clause (a), pass an order refusing permission to such institution for reasons to be recorded subject to condition that before passing an order refusing permission, the Regional Committee shall provide a reasonable opportunity to the institution concerned for making a written representation.

43. Section 16 of the Act of 1993 further mandates that no examining body shall, on or after the appointed day, grant affiliation, whether provisional or otherwise, to any institution; or hold examination, whether provisional or otherwise, for a course or training conducted by a recognized institution, unless the institution concerned has obtained recognition from the Regional Committee concerned, under Section 14 or permission for a course or training under Section 15. Thus, it would been seen that for any institution to commence a course, it is sine qua non for the institution to first acquire the recognition from the N.C.T.E. It is thereafter that the institution is required to seek affiliation from the examining body under the State Universities Act.

44. The issue regarding the purpose of 'recognition' and 'affiliation' and the powers of the authorities under the N.C.E.T. and State Act came for consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Chairman, Bhartia Education Society & Anr. v. State of Himachal Pradesh & Ors., (2011) 4 SCC 527. The case arose under the N.C.E.T. Act and after noticing the Scheme, the Apex Court in Paragraph-19 to 24 of the said report has held as under:-

"19. The purpose of "recognition" and "affiliation" is different. In the context of the N.C.T.E. Act, "affiliation" enables and permits an institution to send its students to participate in the public examinations conducted by the examining body and secure the qualification in the nature of degrees, diplomas, certificates. On the other hand, "recognition" is the licence to the institution to offer a course or training in teacher education. Prior to the N.C.T.E. Act, in the absence of an apex body to plan and coordinate development of teacher education system, respective regulation and proper maintenance of the norms and standards in the teacher education system, including grant of "recognition" were largely exercised by the State Government and universities/boards. After the enactment of the N.C.T.E. Act, the functions of N.C.T.E. as "recognising authority" and the examining bodies as "affiliating authorities" became crystallised, though their functions overlap on several issues. The N.C.T.E. Act recognises the role of examining bodies in their sphere of activity.

20. Section 14 of the NCTE Act requires recognition of the institution by NCTE, before the institute could offer any course or training in teacher education. Sub-section (4) of Section 14 provides that:

"14. (4) Every order granting or refusing recognition to an institution for a course or training in teacher education under sub-section (3) shall be published in the Official Gazette and communicated in writing for appropriate action to such institution and to the examining body concerned, the local authority or the State Government and the Central Government."

Sub-section (6) of Section 14 requires every examining body on receipt of the order under sub-section (4): cancel the affiliation of the institution, where recognition has been refused."

21. Section 16 of the NCTE Act provides that notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no examining body shall grant affiliation whether provisional or otherwise, to any institution, or hold examination for a course or training conducted by a recognised institution, unless the institution concerned has obtained recognition from the Regional Committee of NCTE under Section 14 or permission for a course or training under Section 15 of the Act.

22. Sub-section (6) of Section 14 no doubt mandates every examining body to grant affiliation to the institution on receipt of the order of NCTE granting recognition to such institution. This only means that recognition is a condition precedent for affiliation and that the examining body does not have any discretion to refuse affiliation with reference to any of the factors which have been considered by NCTE while granting recognition. For example, NCTE is required to satisfy itself about the adequate financial resources, accommodation, library, qualified staff, and laboratory required for proper functioning of an institution for a course or training in teacher education. Therefore, when recognition is granted by NCTE, it is implied that NCTE has satisfied itself on those aspects. Consequently, the examining body may not refuse affiliation on the ground that the institution does not have adequate financial resources, accommodation, library, qualified staff, or laboratory required for proper functioning of the institution. But this does not mean that the examining body cannot require compliance with its own requirements in regard to eligibility of candidates for admissions to courses or manner of admission of students or other areas falling within the sphere of the State Government and/or the examining body. Even the order of recognition dated 17-7-2000 issued by NCTE specifically contemplates the need for the institution to comply with and fulfil the requirement of the affiliating body and the State Government, in addition to the conditions of NCTE.

23. We extract below Conditions 4, 5 and 6 of the order of recognition issued by NCTE in this behalf:

"4. The admission to the approved course shall be given only to those candidates who are eligible as per the regulations governing the course and in the manner laid down by the affiliating university/State Government.

5. Tuition fee and other fees will be charged from the students as per the norms of the affiliating university/State Government till such time NCTE regulations in respect of fee structure come into force.

6. Curriculum transaction, including practical work/activities, should be organised as per the NCTE norms and standards for the course and the requirements of the affiliating university/examining body."

24. The examining body can therefore impose its own requirements in regard to eligibility of students for admission to a course in addition to those prescribed by NCTE. The State Government and the examining body may also regulate the manner of admissions. As a consequence, if there is any irregularity in admissions or violation of the eligibility criteria prescribed by the examining body or any irregularity with reference to any of the matters regulated and governed by the examining body, the examining body may cancel the affiliation irrespective of the fact that the institution continues to enjoy the recognition of NCTE. Sub-section (6) of Section 14 cannot be interpreted in a manner so as to make the process of affiliation, an automatic rubber-stamping consequent upon recognition, without any kind of discretion in the examining body to examine whether the institution deserves affiliation or not, independent of the recognition. An institution requires the recognition of NCTE as well as affiliation with the examining body, before it can offer a course or training in teacher education or admit students to such course or training. Be that as it may."

45. The issue once again engaged the attention of the Apex Court in the case of Maa Vaishno Devi Mahila Mahavidyalaya (supra), wherein the Apex Court in Paragraphs 66 to 68 noticed the issue and conflict arising from the Central Act i.e. N.C.T.E. Act and the State Universities Act, which is the law enacted by the State. For ready reference, paragraphs 67 and 68 of the said report are being reproduced hereinafter:-

"67. In the present case, we are concerned with the provisions of the N.C.T.E. Act which is a Central legislation referable to Schedule VII List I Entry 66. Thus, no law enacted by the State, which is in conflict with the Central law, can be permitted to be operative.

68. Now, let us examine the conflict that arises in the present cases. In terms of the provisions of the Act, the Regional Committee is required to entertain the application, consider State opinion, cause inspection to be conducted by an expert team and then to grant or refuse recognition in terms of the provisions of the Act. Once a recognition is granted and before an institution can be permitted to commence the course, it is required to take affiliation from the affiliating body, which is the university."

Thereafter, the Apex Court noticing various decisions of the Apex Court in Paragraph 69 to 71 of the said report has held as under:-

"69. Thus, grant of recognition or affiliation to an institute is a condition precedent to running of the courses by the institute. If either of them is not granted to the institute, it would not be in a position to commence the relevant academic courses. There is a possibility of some conflict between a University Act or Ordinance relating to affiliation with the provisions of the Central Act. In such cases, the matter is squarely answered in Sant Dnyaneshwar Shikshan Shastra Mahavidyalaya [(2006) 9 SCC 1] where the Court stated that after coming into operation of the Central Act, the operation of the University Act would be deemed to have become unenforceable in case of technical colleges. It also observed that provision of the Universities Act regarding affiliation of technical colleges and conditions for grant of continuation of such affiliation by the university would remain operative but the conditions that are prescribed by the university for grant and continuation of affiliation must be in conformity with the norms and guidelines prescribed by N.C.T.E..

70. Under Section 14 and particularly in terms of Section 14(3)(a) of the Act, N.C.T.E. is required to grant or refuse recognition to an institute. It has been empowered to impose such conditions as it may consider fit and proper keeping in view the legislative intent and object in mind. In terms of Section 14(6) of the Act, the examining body shall grant affiliation to the institute where recognition has been granted. In other words, granting recognition is the basic requirement for grant of affiliation. It cannot be said that affiliation is insignificant or a mere formality on the part of the examining body. It is the requirement of law that affiliation should be granted by the affiliating body in accordance with the prescribed procedure and upon proper application of mind. Recognition and affiliation are expressions of distinct meaning and consequences. In Bhartia Education Society v. State of H.P. [(2011) 4 SCC 527] this Court held that: (SCC p. 534, para 19)

"19. The purpose of "recognition' and "affiliation' is different. In the context of the N.C.T.E. Act, "affiliation' enables and permits an institution to send its students to participate in public examinations conducted by the examining body and secure the qualification in the nature of degrees, diplomas and certificates. On the other hand, "recognition' is the licence to the institution to offer a course or training in teaching education."

The Court also emphasised that the affiliating body/examining body does not have any discretion to refuse affiliation with reference to any of the factors which have been considered by N.C.T.E. while granting recognition.

71. The examining body can impose conditions in relation to its own requirements. These aspects are:

(a) eligibility of students for admission;

(b) conduct of examinations;

(c) the manner in which the prescribed courses should be completed; and

(d) to see that the conditions imposed by N.C.T.E. are complied with.

Despite the fact that recognition itself covers the larger precepts of affiliation, still the affiliating body is not to grant affiliation automatically but must exercise its discretion fairly and transparently while ensuring that conditions of the law of the university and the functions of the affiliating body should be complementary to the recognition of N.C.T.E. and ought not to be in derogation thereto."

46. Dealing with the Chapter-VII of the Universities Act particularly Section 37, the Apex Court held that the fields which are sought to be covered under Section 37 of the Universities Act and the statutes of various universities in regard to affiliation insofar as they are covered by the Act of 1993 must give way to the operation of the provisions of the

"77. The fields which are sought to be covered under the provisions of Section 37 of the Universities Act and the statutes of various universities are clearly common to the aspects which are squarely covered by the specific language under the Act. That being so, all State laws in regard to affiliation insofar as they are covered by the Act must give way to the operation of the provisions of the Act. To put it simply, the requirements which have been examined and the conditions which have been imposed by N.C.T.E. shall prevail and cannot be altered, re-examined or infringed under the garb of the State law. The affiliating/examining body and the State Government must abide by the proficiency and command of N.C.T.E.'s directions. To give an example, existence of building, library, qualified staff, financial stability of the institution, accommodation, etc. are the subjects which are specifically covered under Section 14(3)(b) of the Act. Thus, they would not be open to re-examination by the State and the university. If the recognition itself was conditional and those conditions have not been satisfied, in such circumstances, within the ambit and scope of Sections 46 and 16 of the Act, the affiliating body may not give affiliation and inform N.C.T.E. forthwith of the shortcomings and non-compliance with the conditions. In such situation, both the Central and the State body should act in tandem and, with due coordination, come to a final conclusion as to the steps which are required to be taken in regard to both recognition and affiliation. But certainly, the State Government and the university cannot act in derogation to N.C.T.E.."

47. Thus, it will be seen that it is the provisions of the Central Act, which have to be adhered to and the affiliating/examining body is required to abide by the N.T.C.E. directions as illustratively stated in the said report that existence of building, library, qualified staff, financial stability of the institution, accommodation, etc. are subjects specifically covered under Section 14(3)(b) of the Act of 1993. Hence, they would not be open to re-examination by the State University. The Apex Court also noted that both the N.C.T.E. and the State body should Act in synchronization and coordination but not required to act in derogation to the N.C.T.E.

48. Insofar as the examining body is concerned, it can impose its requirements in respect to eligibility of students to a course in addition to those prescribed by the N.C.T.E. The State and the examining body may also regulate the manner of admission. In case, if it finds that there is irregularity in admission or conditions of affiliation as prescribed by the examining body or any irregularity with reference to any of the matters recorded and governed by the examining body, the examining body may cancel the affiliation irrespective of the fact that the institution continues to enjoys the recognition of the N.C.T.E.

49. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Central Women's College of Education (supra) has also considered the issue in detail and held that the refusal to grant affiliation in respect of concerns which are the subject matter of satisfaction of the N.C.T.E. cannot be accepted. The relevant paragraphs 47 to 51 of the aforesaid report is reproduced hereinafter:-

"(47) In the case, in hand, the N.C.T.E. and RCI have granted recognition/ approval to the institution of the petitioners after satisfying the requirement of adequate financial resources accommodation, library, qualified staff, or laboratory. Thereafter, the examining body i.e.

the University was entrusted no power to examine the correctness in regard to above-referred ingredients required for grant of recognition. The examining body, after inspection of the institution of the petitioners, has proceeded to refuse to grant affiliation on the short-comings of infrastructure i.e. sufficient adequate financial resources accommodation, library, qualified staff, or laboratory.

(48) In the opinion of this Court, the examining body, if comes to the conclusion that there is short-coming in the institution in regard to infrastructure required while taking into consideration the grant of recognition, then it should have been informed to the N.C.T.E. and RCI for taking necessary action against the Institution. The University was empowered to examine that whether the students who have applied for grant of admission in B.Ed. and B.Ed. Special (H.I.) course are eligible and are having requisite qualification for grant of admission and if not would have refused the affiliation to the institution.

(49) Here, in the present case, the refusal of affiliation is not on the ground that the students who have applied for grant of admission, are having no requisite qualification for grant of admission. The refusal to grant affiliation is that the institution of the petitioner does not have sufficient adequate financial resources accommodation, library, qualified staff, or laboratory and is running different other courses on the same land. In case the University found certain inefficiency in regard to non-fulfillment of required land or staffs, then it should have been informed to the N.C.T.E. and RCI for taking necessary action for withdrawal of the recognition granted by the University.

(50) The N.C.T.E. is the apex body and Parliament has enacted an act in regard to grant of recognition to the training institute of teachers for appointment in the institution. The power given by the Parliament to the regional committee of N.C.T.E. cannot be usurped by the examining body while granting affiliation to the institution.

(51) The institution in question has been accorded recognition by the N.C.T.E. and RCI, after examining the infrastructure required for grant of affiliation. Therefore, the respondent-University, taking shelter of non-fulfillment of requirement of requisite requirement for grant of recognition, cannot refuse to grant affiliation to the institution of the petitioners. The affiliating University can examine only to the extent that whether the students who have opted for grant of admission in the recognized course, are eligible for grant of admission or not. Whether there are some malpractices on the part of the institute in grant of admission or not. It is not amenable to the examining body to reopen the recourse which was fulfilled by the institute at the time of recognition by the N.C.T.E. and RCI."

50. In the backdrop of the aforesaid decisions, it is now not open to two views, that insofar as recognition is concerned, it is the first step required by the Institution to procure the recognition and once having received it then it is required to obtain the affiliation as a second step. The affiliating body has a limited field upon which it can act and after being satisfied it can grant or refuse the affiliation. As noticed above, the affiliating body does not have the powers to re-enter into the considerations regarding primary infrastructural facilities which have already been examined by the N.C.T.E., while granting the recognition. In terms of the Scheme, in case, if the examining body or the State Authorities come to the conclusion that the college/the Institution concerned is severely deficient of requisite norms including infrastructural facilities it always has the powers to recommend the cancellation of the recognition to the Regional Committee of the N.C.T.E.

51. Once having noticed the manner in which the recognition and the affiliation is to be treated by the respective authorities, if this Court considers the impugned order dated 22.09.2021 refusing the affiliation, it would indicate that upon the recommendation of the Inspecting Team which noticed 16 deficiencies during inspection, it did not find favour in granting affiliation to the petitioners.

52. Briefly, the crux of the deficiencies so noticed is being mentioned hereinafter:-

"(i) The name of the Manager in the Khatauni relating to the land of the college is shown as Rajeev Lochan Shukla whereas the documents indicate that the documents have been attested and certified by Shri Shravan Rajan. It is not clear as to who is the Manager of the Institution;

(ii) There does not appear to be any validly elected committee of Management inasmuch as by letter dated 20.01.2020, an observer was nominated, however, despite passage of more than 1.5 years, there is nothing on record to indicate that the elections have taken place and a validly elected committee has taken charge. In absence thereof, there is no responsible body to take charge of the Institution as well as to take care of the rights of the students;

(iii) The college is running from 2018 onwards, however, the receipts of the books and necessary equipments procured relates to the year 2020-2021;

(iv) There appears to be deficiencies in the signatures of Shri Shravan Rajan on the contract signed with the teachers. Insofar as the land of the Institution is concerned, the name of Shri Rajeev Lochan Shukla has been mentioned as a Manager;

(v) There is no certificate to indicate regarding the security deposit of Rs.2.50 lacs in favour of the University;

(vi) The certificate of national building code appears to be suspicious;

(vii) The entrance of the college indicates that it does not have a paved way;

(viii) The building of the college is still under construction;

(ix) The seating benches and the blackboards are ill-maintained;

(x) The chairs in the seminar hall and multi-hall appears to be procured recently as they are covered with polythene and tags are still intact;

(xi) There was lack of hygienic condition near the place provided for drinking water and there was nothing to indicate that there was separate toilet for boys and girls;

(xii) The appointment letters of the teachers were not made available;

(xiii) as per the bank statement and the balance-sheet, the salary paid to the teachers were inadequate;

(xiv) The bank statement indicating the payment to the teachers was only of six months whereas it ought to be for one year duly certified by the bank manager;

(xv) There was inadequate information regarding certification of the teachers' residence and at one given address number of teachers were shown to be residing which appears to be suspicious; and

(xvi) The compact disc which was provided regarding video-graphy of the entire inspection was not found operational".

53. Thus, on the basis of the aforesaid deficiencies, which were placed before the University by the two members Inspection Committee, the affiliation was refused to the petitioner-Institution.

54. If the contentions of the learned counsel for the parties are noticed in light of the deficiencies noticed by the Inspecting Team and pleadings of the parties more specifically as mentioned in paragraph 41 of the writ petition, coupled with the response given by the University, both in its short counter affidavit dated 07.10.2021 and the detailed counter affidavit dated 16.10.2021, it would indicate that the said 16 deficiencies can be categorized under the following types:-

(i) deficiencies, which relate to existence of infrastructural facilities;

(ii) deficiencies, which may relate to the management of the institution;

(iii) deficiencies, which can be said to be recurring in nature on account of usage and passage of time.

55. The Court has also examined the record submitted by the University for perusal. The record made available to the Court would indicate that the petitioner-institution while applying for the affiliation for the current academic year 2021-2022 had furnished a letter dated 15.03.2021 which has been received by the University on 26.03.2021 as there is a receiving endorsement thereon to indicate the date and the serial no. 141.

56. The said letter is accompanied by an affidavit of Sri Shrawan Rajan, the Manager and along with the said affidavit there are a number of enclosures. (The said letter, affidavit and the enclosures are marked as Pages 1 to 67 in the record submitted by the University to the Court.)

57. Amongst the enclosures so furnished are the recognition order, the statement of account of the teachers, the erstwhile application seeking affiliation, the copy of the erstwhile inspection report dated 18.05.2018, the certificate regarding the declaration of results for the Academic Year 2019-20 for B.Ed First Semester and II Semester. The certificate issued by the University that the college in question was not found involved in any copying during examination. It also contains requisites regarding the fixed deposits receipts, the societies registration certificate, copy of the title deed and the corresponding revenue entries in the Khatauni, auditors reports amongst others.

58. The record indicates that in so far as the petitioner is concerned, it had within the requisite time applied for extension of the affiliation for the Academic Year 2020-21. This extension of affiliation was communicated to the petitioner on 18.02.2021, a copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 11 to the writ petition.

59. The petitioner applied for the affiliation for the current Academic Year 2021-2022 vide letter dated 15.03.2021, a copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 12 and is also corroborated by the record submitted by the University concerned.

60. It is only as late as on 24.07.2021 that the University informed the petitioner that a Committee has been constituted for inspection and that the College may get the inspection done by 28.07.2021. This letter was replied to by the College on 28.07.2021 indicating the extension may be granted to the petitioner for affiliation as certain discrepancies were found at the time when the inspection was made in the year 2019 but on account of Covid-19 pandemic, the same could not be removed, hence, an extension may be provided for a year i.e. for the academic year 2021-22 within which the deficiencies shall be removed.

61. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, though, the report of the Inspection Committee is factual in nature but the manner in which the report has been presented and the objections have been made, raises certain issues which cannot be said to be free from arbitrariness.

62. In inspection report it has been found that there is no clear averment regarding the land of the institution and the name of the Manager. It has been explained by the petitioners that prior to the year 2016, Sri Rajeev Lochan Shukla was the Manager of the Committee of Management of the Institution. After the year 2017, it is the petitioner no. 2 who is the manager. At the time, when the instrument regarding transfer of title of the land to the institution was executed, the then prevailing Manager signed the documents. It is also urged that the same documents existed at the time when the inspection was made by the N.C.T.E. and so also in the year 2019 when the Affiliating Body had inspected the institution.

63. It has also been urged that from the perusal of the sale deed, it would indicate that the name of Shri Rajeev Lochan Shukla has been shown as the Manager of the Institution and even in the revenue records, the property stands recorded in the name of the institution represented through its Manager Shri Rajeev Lochan Shukla. Apparently, once the aforesaid documents are already available and from the perusal thereof it could clearly be seen that the property even in the revenue records as well as in the title deed stands recorded in the name of the petitioner-institution and the Institution is represented by its alter ego which may change from time to time. Thus, this could not be a ground to refuse or find any deficiency where the land in the name of the college stood verified and was also considered by the N.C.T.E., while granting the recognition.

64 . Moreover, in light of the law as traced above, the Affiliating Body could not have re-examined this issue as it related to a matter covered for the satisfaction of the Regional Committee while granting recognition order and even if at all on account of certain changed circumstances, if the Affiliating Body found some major discrepancies which could not be reconciled or on account of glaring fraud recognition has been obtained and it comes to the knowledge of the affiliating body then as an exception it could take action and further it can recommend to the N.C.T.E. for cancellation of the recognition. In absence of such circumstances and without cogent reasons on its own it could not have refused the affiliation.

65. Even otherwise, in the instant case, once the aforesaid documents were available with the Affiliating Body and if at any point of time, the Affiliating Body had any doubt it could have called upon the petitioner-institution to explain, before taking a decision to refuse extension of affiliation, if it proposed refusal on such grounds which otherwise were verified and within the domain of the N.C.T.E.

66. As far as the second shortcoming/ deficiency is concerned, the record would indicate that the petitioner no. 2 had required an Observer to be appointed for the elections which was so done vide letter dated 20.01.2020, a copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 39 to the writ petition. The said Observer had agreed to get the elections held on 26.09.2021 as indicated from the letter dated 24.08. 2021, a copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 40. Thereafter the elections have been held and the newly constituted Committee and the relevant documents thereof have also been brought on record as Annexure No. 41.

67. Though, it is true that the said elections took place after the inspection but the fact remains that the entire Country was reeling under the effect of Covid-19 Pandemic. In March, 2021, the second wave of the pandemic had hit the country severely. Almost all the spheres of life were severely affected. In the aforesaid circumstances where the University had granted time to various other institutions to get their Committee of Managements updated and regularized by holding the elections. Similarly, time also could have been granted to the petitioner. Moreover, since the Observer was appointed by the University at least before taking a decision, it could have also sought an explanation from the observer as to why the elections were not held and that since the Observer had already given its consent to hold the elections then it could not be said that the petitioner was squarely at fault. These issues relating to the management can re-occur and it will be necessary for any body before taking any decision to at least update itself by clarifying from the institution concerned and with the prevailing cause and effect of any change in the management.

68. In the instant case at hand, a striking feature is that there has been no complaint or any claim raised by rival party management. Apparently, there has been no dispute from any rival Committee of Management nor any such dispute was made known or in the knowledge of the University, thus, in absence of these accentuating circumstances, merely to come to a conclusion that in absence of any elections, there was no responsible body to take charge of the institution and the interest of the students was not quite justifiable.

69. Similarly, in so far as the issue regarding library and books are concerned, once the library was found existing when the inspection was made by the N.C.T.E. as well as the Affiliating Body, it could not be said that the library does not exist. Merely because some books and other equipments may have been purchased in the year 2020-21 would not mean that there is no infrastructural facilities available or that it is being created for the first time in 2020-21. The manner in which the report has been drawn indicates that the inspecting team has not applied its mind. It is not their contention to state that all the books in the library were of the year 2020-21.

70. In case if the present report is found to to be correct then it would have to be assumed that perhaps the earlier inspection made by the Inspection Committee was not correct. Since at the time when the earlier inspection was made, it was found that the institution was duly equipped with the full functional library.

71. At this stage, it will be relevant to notice that in the earlier inspection report made in the year 2019, the College was found fully compliant except for certain deficiencies which were noted relating to absence of certain doors, windows and sky lights. In the present inspection report dated 07.09.2021, other discrepancies have been noticed and it finds that those windows and skylights have been fixed.

72. It is also common knowledge that the Covid-19 had affected all walks of life including the education system. The issue regarding the non-availability of adequate teachers as already noticed above is the subject matter to be considered by the N.C.T.E. Even if at all the Affiliating Body found some discrepancies, it could have recommended the N.C.T.E. to cancel the recognition. At the cost of repetition, it may be stated that the reasons as indicated in the inspection report finding that there were no adequate number of teachers, this requires a little bit of more explanation and documents to enable the petitioner to have clarified the doubt but without calling upon or waiting for the reply, the Inspecting Team has concluded and given its recommendations.

73. Similar discrepancies of minor nature such as the National Building Code Certificate being suspicious which was already available on record, though, there is nothing to indicate how the said certificate is found suspicious when earlier the certificate was found acceptable. The documents regarding requisite securities in favour of the University were already available and submitted earlier and there is nothing on record why the same could not be found verified. Moreover, such are issues which could easily be verified, however, the documents which have been brought on record by the petitioner established that apparently the petitioner complied with the aforesaid formalities and requisites.

74. As far as the ill-maintenance of the black boards, benches, un-hygenic conditions near the area earmarked for drinking water etc. are concerned. It is also to be noted that the College is in a rural area and the inspection was done during the Monsoons. The colleges had been closed and not functional on account of Covid-19 pandemic since over a year and half and on-line classes are being held. In such circumstances, if there are certain issues regarding ill-maintenance and hygiene it does not give an impression that the facilities do not exist rather that they are merely to be spruced up. For the aforesaid, unless the instiutiton is a chronic defaulter, some time could have been given to the petitioner to rectify and upgrade rather than to make it a ground to refuse the affiliation which is a harsh remedy and handicaps the institution for conducting the examination programme and also jeopardizes the future and career of many students. Apart from the fact that it deprives the institution from taking fresh admissions for new academic year.

75. Education is an important facet and vital for development of the society and it has been exhaulted to a fundamental right incorporated in Part III of the Constitution of India under Article 21-A. Higher education has its own paramount presence and in order to evenly regulate and provide such higher education, various legislations, rules, regulations have been formulated. It involves various stake holders, including State and non-State colleges, Universities, regulatory bodies, councils, students, teachers amongst others. The statutory bodies, colleges and stake holders are expected to work complimenting each other and not in derogation, hence, the action of one must not be arbitrary.

76. Arbitrariness is an anathema to a society governed by the rule of law. The Apex Court in the case of Ramana Dayaram Shetty v. International Airport Authority of India & Ors., (1979) 3 SCC 489.

"27. Now this rule, flowing as it does from Article 14, applies to every State action and since "State" is defined in Article 12 to include not only the Government of India and the Government of each of the States, but also "all local or other authorities within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India", it must apply to action of "other authorities" and they must be held subject to the same constitutional limitation as the Government. But the question arises, what are the "other authorities" contemplated by Article 12 which fall within the definition of "State"? On this question considerable light is thrown by the decision of this Court in Rajasthan Electricity Board v. Mohan Lal [AIR 1967 SC 1857 : (1967) 3 SCR 377 : (1968) 1 LLJ 257] . That was a case in which this Court was called upon to consider whether the Rajasthan Electricity Board was an "authority" within the meaning of expression "other authorities" in Article 12. Bhargava, J., delivering the judgment of the majority pointed out that the expression "other authorities" in Article 12 would include all constitutional and statutory authorities on whom powers are conferred by law. The learned Judge also said that if any body of persons has authority to issue directions the disobedience of which would be punishable as a criminal offence, that would be an indication that that authority is "State". Shah, J., who delivered a separate judgment, agreeing with the conclusion reached by the majority, preferred to give a slightly different meaning to the expression "other authorities". He said that authorities, constitutional or statutory, would fall within the expression "other authorities" only if they are invested with the sovereign power of the State, namely, the power to make rules and regulations which have the force of law. The ratio of this decision may thus be stated to be that a constitutional or statutory authority would be within the meaning of the expression "other authorities", if it has been invested with statutory power to issue binding directions to third parties, the disobedience of which would entail penal consequence or it has the sovereign power to make rules and regulations having the force of law. This test was followed by Ray, C.J., in Sukhdev v. Bhagatram. Mathew, J., however, in the same case, propounded a broader test, namely, whether the statutory corporation or other body or authority, claimed to fall within the definition of "State", is an instrumentality or agency of Government: if it is, it would fall within the meaning of the expression "other authorities' and would be "State". Whilst accepting the test laid down inRajasthan Electricity Board v. Mohan Lal, and followed by Ray, C.J., in Sukhdev v.Bhagatram, we would, for reasons already discussed, prefer to adopt the test of Governmental instrumentality or agency as one more test and perhaps a more satisfactory one for determining whether a statutory corporation, body or other authority falls within the definition of "State". If a statutory corporation, body or other authority is an instrumentality or agency of the Government, it would be an "authority" and therefore "State" within the meaning of that expression in Article 12."

77. Similarly, the Apex Court in Ajay Hasia & Ors. v. Khalid Mujib Sehravardi & Ors., (1981) 1 SCC 722 has held as under:-

"16. If the Society is an "authority" and therefore "State" within the meaning of Article 12, it must follow that it is subject to the constitutional obligation under Article 14. The true scope and ambit of Article 14 has been the subject-matter of numerous decisions and it is not necessary to make any detailed reference to them. It is sufficient to state that the content and reach of Article 14 must not be confused with the doctrine of classification. Unfortunately, in the early stages of the evolution of our constitutional law, Article 14 came to be identified with the doctrine of classification because the view taken was that that article forbids discrimination and there would be no discrimination where the classification making the differentia fulfils two conditions, namely, (i) that the classification is founded on an intelligible differentia which distinguishes persons or things that are grouped together from others left out of the group; and (ii) that that differentia has a rational relation to the object sought to be achieved by the impugned legislative or executive action. It was for the first time in E.P. Royappa v. State of Tamil Nadu [(1974) 4 SCC 3, 38 : 1974 SCC (L&S) 165, 200 : (1974) 2 SCR 348] that this Court laid bare a new dimension of Article 14 and pointed out that that article has highly activist magnitude and it embodies a guarantee against arbitrariness. This Court speaking through one of us (Bhagwati, J.) said: SCC p. 38: SCC (L&S) p. 200, para 85]

"The basic principle which, therefore, informs both Articles 14 and 16 is equality and inhibition against discrimination. Now, what is the content and reach of this great equalising principle? It is a founding faith, to use the words of Bose, J., "a way of life', and it must not be subjected to a narrow pedantic or lexicographic approach. We cannot countenance any attempt to truncate its all-embracing scope and meaning, for to do so would be to violate its activist magnitude. Equality is a dynamic concept with many aspects and dimensions and it cannot be "cribbed, cabined and confined" within traditional and doctrinaire limits. From a positivistic point of view, equality is antithetic to arbitrariness. In fact, equality and arbitrariness are sworn enemies; one belongs to the rule of law in a republic while the other, to the whim and caprice of an absolute monarch. Where an act is arbitrary it is implicit in it that it is unequal both according to political logic and constitutional law and is therefore violative of Article 14, and if it affects any matter relating to public employment, it is also violative of Article 16. Articles 14 and 16 strike at arbitrariness in State action and ensure fairness and equality of treatment."

This vital and dynamic aspect which was till then lying latent and submerged in the few simple but pregnant words of Article 14 was explored and brought to light in Royappa case [(1974) 4 SCC 3, 38 : 1974 SCC (L&S) 165, 200 : (1974) 2 SCR 348] and it was reaffirmed and elaborated by this Court in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India [Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248 : (1978) 2 SCR 621] where this Court again speaking through one of us (Bhagwati, J.) observed: (SCC pp. 283-84, para 7)

"Now the question immediately arises as to what is the requirement of Article 14: What is the content and reach of the great equalising principle enunciated in this Article? There can be no doubt that it is a founding faith of the Constitution. It is indeed the pillar on which rests securely the foundation of our democratic republic. And, therefore, it must not be subjected to a narrow, pedantic or lexicographic approach. No attempt should be made to truncate its all-embracing scope and meaning, for to do so would be to violate its activist magnitude. Equality is a dynamic concept with many aspects and dimensions and it cannot be imprisoned within traditional and doctrinaire limits.... Article 14 strikes at arbitrariness in State action and ensures fairness and equality of treatment. The principle of reasonableness, which legally as well as philosophically, is an essential element of equality or non-arbitrariness pervades Article 14 like a brooding omnipresence."

This was again reiterated by this Court in International Airport Authority case[(1979) 3 SCC 489] at p. 1042 (SCC p. 511) of the Report. It must therefore now be taken to be well settled that what Article 14 strikes at is arbitrariness because any [Under Article 32 of the Constitution] action that is arbitrary, must necessarily involve negation of equality. The doctrine of classification which is evolved by the courts is not paraphrase of Article 14 nor is it the objective and end of that article. It is merely a judicial formula for determining whether the legislative or executive action in question is arbitrary and therefore constituting denial of equality. If the classification is not reasonable and does not satisfy the two conditions referred to above, the impugned legislative or executive action would plainly be arbitrary and the guarantee of equality under Article 14 would be breached. Wherever therefore there is arbitrariness in State action whether it be of the legislature or of the executive or of an "authority" under Article 12, Article 14 immediately springs into action and strikes down such State action. In fact, the concept of reasonableness and non-arbitrariness pervades the entire constitutional scheme and is a golden thread which runs through the whole of the fabric of the Constitution."

78. Again in State of Jharkhand & Ors. v. Brahmputra Metallics Ltd., Ranchi & Anr., 2020 SCC OnLine SC 968 in para 48 and 49, it has held as under:

"48. As regards the relationship between Article 14 and the doctrine of legitimate expectation, a three judge Bench in Food Corporation of India v. Kamdhenu Cattle Feed Industries (1993) 1 SCC 71, s*peaking through Justice J.S. Verma, held thus:*

"7. In contractual sphere as in all other State actions, the State and all its instrumentalities have to conform to Article 14 of the Constitution of which non-arbitrariness is a significant facet. There is no unfettered discretion in public law : A public authority possesses powers only to use them for public good. This imposes the duty to act fairly and to adopt a procedure which is "fairplay in action'. Due observance of this obligation as a part of good administration raises a reasonable or legitimate expectation in every citizen to be treated fairly in his interaction with the State and its instrumentalities, with this element forming a necessary component of the decision-making process in all State actions. To satisfy this requirement of non-arbitrariness in a State action, it is, therefore, necessary to consider and give due weight to the reasonable or legitimate expectations of the persons likely to be affected by the decision or else that unfairness in the exercise of the power may amount to an abuse or excess of power apart from affecting the bona fides of the decision in a given case. The decision so made would be exposed to challenge on the ground of arbitrariness. Rule of law does not completely eliminate discretion in the exercise of power, as it is unrealistic, but provides for control of its exercise by judicial review.

8. The mere reasonable or legitimate expectation of a citizen, in such a situation, may not by itself be a distinct enforceable right, but failure to consider and give due weight to it may render the decision arbitrary, and this is how the requirement of due consideration of a legitimate expectation forms part of the principle of non-arbitrariness, a necessary concomitant of the rule of law. Every legitimate expectation is a relevant factor requiring due consideration in a fair decision-making process. Whether the expectation of the claimant is reasonable or legitimate in the context is a question of fact in each case. Whenever the question arises, it is to be determined not according to the claimant's perception but in larger public interest wherein other more important considerations may outweigh what would otherwise have been the legitimate expectation of the claimant. A bona fide decision of the public authority reached in this manner would satisfy the requirement of non-arbitrariness and withstand judicial scrutiny. The doctrine of legitimate expectation gets assimilated in the rule of law and operates in our legal system in this manner and to this extent." (emphasis supplied)

49. More recently, in NOIDA Entrepreneurs Assn. v. NOIDA, (2011) 6 SCC 508, a two-judge bench of this Court, speaking through Justice B.S. Chauhan, elaborated on this relationship in the following terms:

"39. State actions are required to be non-arbitrary and justified on the touchstone of Article 14 of the Constitution. Action of the State or its instrumentality must be in conformity with some principle which meets the test of reason and relevance. Functioning of a "democratic form of Government demands equality and absence of arbitrariness and discrimination". The rule of law prohibits arbitrary action and commands the authority concerned to act in accordance with law. Every action of the State or its instrumentalities should neither be suggestive of discrimination, nor even apparently give an impression of bias, favouritism and nepotism. If a decision is taken without any principle or without any rule, it is unpredictable and such a decision is antithesis to the decision taken in accordance with the rule of law.

41. Power vested by the State in a public authority should be viewed as a trust coupled with duty to be exercised in larger public and social interest. Power is to be exercised strictly adhering to the statutory provisions and fact situation of a case. "Public authorities cannot play fast and loose with the powers vested in them." A decision taken in an arbitrary manner contradicts the principle of legitimate expectation. An authority is under a legal obligation to exercise the power reasonably and in good faith to effectuate the purpose for which power stood conferred. In this context, "in good faith" means "for legitimate reasons". It must be exercised bona fide for the purpose and for none other...]"

79. In light of the aforesaid discussions and decisions of the Apex Court, if the grounds upon which the affiliation has been rejected, is tested, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the affiliation has been refused on the grounds which are not based on sound reasoning applicable on the factual matrix and the respondent no. 3, the University has not given due thought to the issue at hand and its decision making process is vitiated while recommending the refusal of affiliation for the year 2021-22 to the petitioner and being arbitrary is hit by the Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

80. The learned counsel for the respondent No.3 University has though relied upon the decision of the Committee of Management, Anuragi Devi Degree College & Anr. (supra) to urge that this Court may not issue a mandamus to grant the affiliation after the time-lines as specified by the Apex Court in the case of Maa Vaishno Devi Mahila Mahavidyalaya (supra) have lapsed. However, from the perusal of the aforesaid decision specifically Para-16 of Anuragi Devi (supra), it cannot be said that such direction cannot be issued for the reason that in the instant case, the petitioner had applied for the affiliation within the time-lines as provided by the Apex Court. Any decision taken by the University during pendency of the writ petition and found to be erroneous if set aside, cannot prevent the Court from doing substantial justice between the parties and for the said reason, the aforesaid decision cannot be pressed into service, as the Apex Court on different set of facts had made the said observations in Para-20 in the case of Anuragi Devi (supra) which is not applicable to the present case.

81. The learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 even while filing the counter affidavit could not dispute the fact that the petitioner had applied for the affiliation for the current year 2021-22 on 15.03.2021, though, the said letter was received by the University on 26.03.2021. Once the said application was received by the respondent-University within the timeline, it was necessary for the University to have responded. The University in its counter affidavit could not give a convincing answer regarding the fact that the letter dated 24.07.2021 was uploaded on the Log-in ID of the petitioner-college with delay so also the order dated 30.07.2021. Since the petitioner had applied for the affiliation in the time so specified and the Coordinate Bench of this Court by means of order dated 03.09.2021 passed in the connected petition bearing No.19490 (MS) of 2021 had directed the inspection to be conducted and in case if everything was found in order then appropriate order regarding the grant of affiliation were to be passed. Hence, this Court is not in agreement with the learned counsel for the respondent No.3

University that in all cases after the lapse of time-lines, the Court cannot direct the University to grant an affiliation even if facts and circumstances demand.

82. In so far as the submission of the learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 regarding availability of alternate remedy is concerned, it is to be noted that the alternate remedy is not an absolute bar. In the instant case, a coordinate Bench of this Court had already taken note of the grievance of the petitioner while entertaining Writ Petition No.19490 (M/S) of 2021. Any order or action having passed during the pendency of the writ petition, in such circumstances, it may not be appropriate where time is also an essence, to relegate the petitioner to the alternate forum of appeal before the State.

83. Thus, for the aforesaid reasons, so also that the inspection report is vitiated hence in the facts and circumstances of this case, this Court does not find much substance to the submission of availability of alternate remedy raised by the learned counsel for the respondent no. 3.

84. This Court is fortified in its view in light of the decision of the Apex Court in the case of M/s Radha Krishan Industries v. State of Himachal Pradesh and Others, 2021 SCC OnLine SCC 334 as well as in the case of Assistant Commissioner of Sales Tax v. Commercial Steel Limited, 2021 SCC OnLine 884, M/s Magadh Sugar & Energy Ltd. v. State of Bihar & Ors., 2021 SCC OnLine 801.

85. After the aforesaid detailed discussions, this Court arrives at a conclusion that the inspection report and the reasons recorded therein are not appropriate and deserves to be ignored. Hence, in the aforesaid circumstances, this Court provides that the respondent no.3 shall constitute a fresh team (of new members not part of earlier inspection) to inspect the college after putting the college to notice within a period of 10 days from the date of this order. Thereafter, in light of a fresh report (and also providing an opportunity to the petitioner to clarify any point in case if the Inspecting Team so constituted has any doubt) and keeping in mind the decision of the Apex Court as discussed above in this judgment, shall pass a fresh order regarding grant of affiliation within ten days thereafter so that the entire exercise is completed within 20 days from the date of this order.

86. In view of the aforesaid detailed discussion, the present Writ Petition No.22635 (M/S) of 2021 is allowed. A writ in the nature of certiorari is issued and the impugned order dated 22.09.2021 contained in Annexure No.1 to the present writ petition No. 22635 (M/S) of 2021 shall stand quashed. The University concerned shall after getting the fresh inspection done within the time period as mentioned in paragraph 85 of this judgment shall pass a fresh order regarding grant of affiliation taking note of the fresh inspection report and in light of the observations made in this judgment. The original record as submitted by the learned counsel for the respondent No.3 has been handed over to Sri Shivanshu Goswami, learned counsel for the respondent No.3. In light of this judgment, the Writ Petition No.19490 (M/S) of 2021 shall accordingly stand disposed of.

87. In the facts and circumstances, there shall be no order as to costs.

A. Civil Law - Res sub-judice - Civil Procedure Code, 1908: Section 10, 11: The Court observed that the requirement of necessary condition for application of Section 10 of C.P.C. is not present as the Misc. Case No. 422 of 2016 filed by the petitioner was not pending as the same was dismissed for want of prosecution and was not restored at the time of passing the final order dated 09.10.2018 in M.N.R. No. 82 of 2014, filed by the mother of the deceased. (Para 31)

Writ Petition Rejected. (E-10)

List of Cases cited:

1. Pawan kumar Gupta Vs Ruchi Ramnag Dey 1999 (4) SCC 243

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Mohd. Ali, learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.3 and Sri Saurabh Tripathi, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.4.

2. By means of present petition, a challenge has been made to the judgment and order dated 24.08.2021 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Faizabad in Misc. Civil Appeal No. 56 of 2018 (Smt. Vandana Singh & Others Vs. Smt. Kokila Singh & Others) which was filed against the judgment and order dated 09.10.2018 passed by the Additional Civil Judge, (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Faizabad in M.N.R. No.82 of 2014 (Smt. Kokila vs. State of U.P.). A challenge has also been made to the order dated 09.10.2018 which was assailed in the Appeal No. 56 of 2018.

3. The prayer No. (ii) is consequential to main prayer sought in the petition, which on reproduction, reads as under:-

"to issue an order or direction for setting aside the judgment and order dated 24.08.2021, passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Faizabad, in Misc. Civil Appeal No. 56 of 2018; Smt. Vandna Singh and others Vs. Smt. Kokila Singh, together with the order dated 09.10.2018, passed by the Additional Civil Judge, (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Faizabad, in M.N.R. No. 82 of 2014; Smt. Kokila Vs. State and others, to the extent so far as it relates to grant of 1/5th share and issuance of Succession Certificate to that effect in favour of Smt.Kokila Singh, the opposite party No. 4, pertaining to Bank deposit amount of the deceased Ashwani Kumar Singh, as contained in Annexure Nos.1 and 2 to this petition."

4. Assailing the orders, above mentioned, learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that Ashwani Kumar Singh, husband of petitioner No. 1 and father of petitioner Nos. 2 to 4 was maintaining his two accounts i.e. (i) Bank Account No. 200156 (Old) [New Account No. 56640100000520] of Faizabad Kshetriya Gramin Bank, Branch Zila Panchayat, Faizabad and (ii) Bank Account No. 01090051775 (Old) [New Account No. 10961469703] of State Bank of India, Faizabad. On 25.10.2006, the Ashwani Kumar Singh was murdered. Thereafter, a Misc. Case No. 422 of 2006 (Vandna Singh Vs. State), under Section 372 of Indian Succession Act, 1925 (in short "Act of 1925") was instituted by the petitioner(s). In this case, opposite No. 4 appeared and filed an objection. Subsequently, opposite party No.4-Smt. Kokila, mother of the deceased-Ashwani Kumar Singh, filed another case under Section 372 of Act of 1925 registered as M.N.R. No. 82 of 2014 (Smt. Kokila Vs. State and others) with regard to same Bank Accounts.

5. It is submitted that the case of the petitioners was dismissed for want of prosecution vide order dated 16.07.2015 and on coming to know about the said order, an application for restoration was preferred by the petitioners on 29.07.2015. On query being put, learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that the case has not yet been restored to its original number and the next date fixed is 21.01.2022.

6. He submitted that during pendency of the application for restoration, Trial Court proceeded with the case i.e. M.N.R. Case No. 82 of 2014 and taking note of the fact that application for restoration of Misc. Case No. 422 of 2006 is pending, petitioners preferred an application under Section 10 of C.P.C. for staying the proceedings of the suit. However, the Trial Court without taking note of the facts pleaded in the application preferred by the petitioners under Section 10 C.P.C. as also the law on the issue proceeded with the matter and passed final order dated 09.10.2018.

7. He submitted that the Trial Court was under obligation to stay the proceedings of the case as the findings recorded by it would apply as res judicata in subsequent suits including the case filed by the petitioners, under Section 372 of the Act of 1925, in which restoration application is pending and the next date fixed therein is 21.01.2022.

8. In addition, it is stated that the findings recorded by the Trial Court vide order dated 09.10.2018 would also affect the decision of the suit filed by the father of the deceased in Regular Suit No. 193 of 2007 (Narendra Bahadur Singh & Others Vs. Executive Engineer, Provincial, Division-2, P.W.D. Faizabad and Others).

9. He submitted that after the order dated 09.10.2018, petitioner(s) preferred an appeal i.e. Misc. Civil Appeal No. 56 of 2018. However, the Appellate Court, without taking note of spirit of Section 10 of C.P.C., dismissed the appeal vide judgment and order dated 24.08.2021, whereby confirmed the order dated 09.10.2018 of Trial Court.

10. As such, the judgment and order dated 09.10.2018 of the Trial Court as also the judgment and order of Appellate Court dated 24.08.2021 are liable to be interfered with.

11. He, in support of his case placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in the case of Pawan Kumar Gupta vs. Ruchi Ramnag Dey, reported in 1999 (4) SCC 243, relevant paragraph on reproduction reads as under:-

"16. The rule of res judicata incorporated in Section 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure (CPC) prohibits the court from trying an issue which "has been directly and substantially in issue in a former suit between the same parties", and has been heard and finally decided by that court. It is the decision on an issue, and not a mere finding on any incidental question to reach such decision, which operates as res judicata. It is not correct to say that the party has no right of appeal against such a decision on an issue though the suit was ultimately recorded as dismissed. The decree was not in fact against the plaintiff in that first suit, but was in his favour as shown above. There was no hurdle in law for the defendant to file an appeal against the judgment and decree in that first suit as he still disputed those decisions on such contested issues."

12. Considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner as also learned Additional C.S.C., appearing for opposite party No. 3 and Sri Saurabh Tripathi, learned counsel for the opposite party No.4.

13. From the aforesaid, it is apparent that present petition relates to the succession of properties of the deceased particularly movable properties.

14. Admittedly, the deceased was Male and was Hindu, as such, undisputedly, Hindu Succession Act, 1956 (in short "Act of 1956") would apply. It has not been stated in this petition that the deceased prior to his death had executed the will deed. Meaning thereby the case of the petitioners is not based on will. Thus, admittedly, deceased expired intestate. As such, property of the deceased in this case would be devolved in the manner prescribed under Section 8 of the Act of 1956, which provides General Rules of Succession in the case of males, read with the Scheduled appended to the Act of 1956. Relevant provisions are quoted below for ready reference:-

"8. General rules of succession in the case of males.--The property of a male Hindu dying intestate shall devolve according to the provisions of this Chapter--

(a) firstly, upon the heirs, being the relatives specified in Class I of the Schedule;

(b) secondly, if there is no heir of Class I, then upon the heirs, being the relatives specified in Class II of the Schedule;

(c) thirdly, if there is no heir of any of the two classes, then upon the agnates of the deceased; and

(d) lastly, if there is no agnate, then upon the cognates of the deceased.

THE SCHEDULE
[Section 8]
HEIRS IN CLASS I AND CLASS II
CLASS I

Son; daughter; widow; mother; son of a pre-deceased son; daughter of a pre-deceased son; son of a predeceased daughter; daughter of a pre-deceased daughter; widow of a pre-deceased son; son of a predeceased son of a pre-deceased son; daughter of a pre-deceased son of a pre-deceased son; widow of a pre-deceased son of a pre-deceased son.

CLASS II

I. Father.

II. (1) Son's daughter's son, (2) son's daughter's daughter, (3) brother, (4) sister.

III. (1) Daughter's son's son, (2) daughter's son's daughter, (3) daughter's daughter's son, (4) daughter's daughter's daughter.

IV. (1) Brother's son, (2) sister's son, (3) brother's daughter, (4) sister's daughter.

V. Father's father; father's mother.

VI.. Father's widow; brother's widow.

VII. Father's brother; father's sister.

VIII. Mother's father; mother's mother.

IX. Mother's brother; mother's sister.

Explanation : In this Schedule, references to a brother or sister do not include references to a brother or sister by uterine blood."

15. In the instant case, admittedly, the deceased-Ashwani Kumar Singh expired intestate on 25.10.2006 leaving behind his Wife-Vandana Singh, minor daughters-Km. Anchal Singh and Km. Khushi, minor son-Abhay Singh, mother-Smt. Kokila and father-Sri Narendra Bahadur Singh.

16. As per the provisions of Act of 1956, indicated herein above, the wife, daught16. er(s), son, and mother, named above, of the deceased-Ashwani Kumar Singh being legal heirs specified under Class-I of Schedule, are entitled to share in the property of the deceased.

17. In the instant case, for the reasons aforesaid, each legal heir, specified under Class-I of Schedule read with Section 8 of the Act of 1956, is entitled to 1/5th share in the property of the deceased-Ashwani Kumar Singh. Needless to say that father of the deceased being legal heir specified under Class-II, as per Act of 1956, would not inherit the property of the deceased.

18. The trial Court in the judgment and order dated 09.10.2018 has recorded a finding that the mother of the deceased is entitled only upto 1/5th share and thereafter passed the order accordingly for grant of Succession Certificate. Moreover, as per this order, each petitioner is also entitled to 1/5 share in property of the deceased.

19. On the issue of share, when a query has been put to the learned counsel for the petitioners, he could not place any law before this Court in which petitioners would be entitled for more than the share what has been expressed by the Trial Court in the judgment and order dated 09.10.2018.

20. Thus, in view of aforesaid, this Court feels that no prejudice would be caused to the petitioner on the basis of findings given by the Trial Court and affirmed by the Appellate Court.

21. Needless to say that the preliminary source of legal provisions of Section(s) 10 and 11 of C.P.C. is based on the concepts of Res-Subjudice and Res-Judicata.

22. 'Res' means every object of right that proves the subject matter in a particular case. In Latin, the expression 'Sub-Judice' means "Under a judge" or in other words, a matter "under consideration". It means a cause that is under trial or pending before a Court or Judge.

23. The doctrine of Res-Judicata prohibits the second trial of the same dispute between the same parties. This doctrine prevents the trial of a suit or issue if by a decision in earlier suit between the same parties or their successors, the issue(s) are settled.

24. This case relates to Section 10 of C.P.C. as such principles of Res Sub-judice would apply. The expression 'Res Sub-Judice' is Latin maxim which means "under judgment". The rule of the Sub-Judice is based on the public policy which prohibits the plaintiff to file two parallel cases on the same subject matter and restricts the chances of having two contradictory judgments by the two courts. The purpose of the doctrine of Res Sub-Judice is to prevent a multiplicity of the proceedings and to refrain two conflicting decisions. The doctrine bars the parallel trial of the suit where the matter is pending to adjudicate in the former suit but it does not restrict in filing the subsequent suit. The primary aim of this doctrine is to prohibit the courts of concurrent jurisdiction from simultaneously entertaining two parallel litigations. In case of two or more cases, pending between the same parties in the same subject matter, the competent court has power to stay the proceedings.

25. Considering the issue involved in this petition, it would be appropriate to refer Section 10 of C.P.C., the same reads as under:-

"10. Stay of suit.--No Court shall proceed with the trial of any suit in which the matter in issue is also directly and substantially in issue in a previously instituted suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim litigating under the same title where such suit is pending in the same or any other Court in India have jurisdiction to grant the relief claimed, or in any Court beyond the limits of India established or continued by the Central Government and having like jurisdiction, or before the Supreme Court.

Explanation.--The pendency of a suit in a foreign Court does not preclude the Courts in India from trying a suit founded on the same cause of action."

26. Section 10 of C.P.C. states that no court will initiate the trial of any suit if the issues are directly or substantially related to the previously instituted suit between the same parties or parties litigating on behalf of them under the same title and the matter is pending before the court having the competent jurisdiction in the territory of India or any court beyond the limits of India established by central governments having the same jurisdiction or before supreme court. If parallel suits come before the competent court, section 10 gives the power to put a stay on the proceedings in another court. Section 10 prohibits the trial of parallel litigation where the same cause of action arises between the same parties on the same subject matter. Section 10 bars the two parallel litigation between the same parties on the same cause of action. The basic reasoning behind this provision is to prevent wastage of courts resource, protect the right of the litigant, reduce the burden on courts and avoid two contradictory decision. This provision was inserted in C.P.C. to meet the end of the justice and prevent abuse of the court.

27. It appears from the aforesaid that for application of Section 10 of C.P.C. the following are necessary condition:-

(a) There should be two suits.

(b) The suits must be between the same parties or their successors.

(c) The matter in the issue in the later suit must be directly and substantially the same as in the previous suits.

(d) Both the suits should be pending before the court of law.

(e) The parties must be litigating under the same title in both the suits.

28. From the aforesaid, the objective behind Section 10 in C.P.C. can be deduced as under:-

(i) To prevent parallel litigation between the same parties on the same issue/subject matter.

(ii) To reduce the burden on the courts as also to prevent wastage of time of the Courts.

(iii) To avoid contradictory decisions on the same issue/subject matter.

(iv) To protect the rights of other party.

29. In earlier part of this judgment, this Court has already held that the findings, regarding share in the property of the deceased, recorded by the Trial Court are just and proper and being so no prejudice would be caused to the petitioners. As such, to the view of this Court, the decision in the case filed by the petitioners under Section 372 of the Act of 1925, which was not pending on 09.10.2018 (the date on which the case filed by mother of the deceased under Section 372 of the Act of 1925 was allowed) as the same was dismissed for want of prosecution on 16.07.2015 and has yet not been restored to its original number, would not be contradictory.

30. After considering the principle of Res Sub-judice and Section 10 of C.P.C., this Court, in earlier part of this judgment, has observed regarding requirement of necessary condition for application of Section 10 of C.P.C. as also its objective.

31. In this case, admittedly, the Misc. Case No. 422 of 2016 filed by the petitioners was not pending as the same was dismissed for want of prosecution on 16.07.2015 and was not restored at the time of passing the final order dated 09.10.2018 in M.N.R. No. 82 of 2014, filed by the mother of the deceased.

32. From the aforesaid, it is crystal clear that one essential/ necessary requirement for applying Section 10 of C.P.C. was not present at the time of passing the impugned order dated 09.10.2018 which is to the effect that "Both the suits should be pending before the Court of Law". As such, this Court is of the view that the Trial Court rightly decided the subsequent case.

33. Upon due consideration of aforesaid particularly the findings recorded by this Court on the issue of contradictory decision and missing of one essential condition for applying the provisions of Section 10 of C.P.C., this Court is of the view that no interference in impugned orders is required in exercise of powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

34. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed. No order as to costs.

On perusal it is ascertained that the power of adjudication is conferred upon to the 'State Government' is by the statute, the 'State Government' is under obligation to act judicially and is also required to follow principle of natural justice, the 'State Government' in this aforesaid sub-section decides the lis between the parties and decision of the 'State Government' under this sub-section is binding and final. Thus, having satisfied all the parameters/tests, the Court concluded that the 'State Government' under 41(3) of the Act of 1973 is a 'Tribunal'. (Para 20)

1. Heard Sri Apoorva Tewari, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Sri Devendra Mohan Shukla, learned Standing Counsel for opposite party no. 1 and Sri Waseeq Uddin Ahmed, learned Counsel for opposite party no. 2.

2. The petitioner by means of present petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India has sought the following main reliefs:-

"a) To issue an appropriate order or direction commanding the respondent no. 1 to decide the revision of the petitioner preferred under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 read with Section 12 of the U.P. Industrial Area Development Act, 1976 expeditiously within a fixed reasonable period of time:

b) To issue an appropriate order or direction commanding the respondent no. 2 not to take any coercive measures against the petitioner pursuant to recovery certificate dated 12.09.2019 during the pendency of revision before the respondent no. 1:"

3. At the very outset, on pointing out regarding the defect as pointed out by the Registry of this Court, which is to the effect that the present petition for relief(s) sought is cognizable by the Division Bench of this Court under Article 226 of Constitution of India, the learned Counsel for the petitioner Sri Apoorva Tewari, submitted that present petition for the main relief(s) quoted above, is maintainable before this Court under Article 227 of Constitution of India. Elaborating his argument he submitted that being aggrieved by the order of New Okhla Industrial Development Authority dated 06.03.2018 and recovery certificate dated 12.09.2019, the revision petition was filed under Section 41(3) of U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 {in short "Act of 1973"} read with Section 12 of U.P. Industrial Development Area Act, 1976 {in short "Act of 1976"}.

4. He further submitted that it appears from the language of Section 41(3) of the Act of 1973 that the State functions as Quasi Judiciary Authority and being so is covered under expression "Tribunal". In support of his submission he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Associated Cement Companies Ltd. Versus P.N.Sharma and Another reported in AIR 1965 SC 1595. Paragraphs on which reliance has been placed are quoted hereinunder:-

"9. Tribunals which fall within the purview of Article 136(1) occupy a special position of their own under the scheme of our Constitution. Special matters and questions are entrusted to them for their decision and in that sense, they share with the courts one common characteristic; both the courts and the tribunals are "constituted by the State and are invested with judicial as distinguished from purely administrative or executive functions", (vide Durga Shankar Mehta v. Thakur Raghuraj Singh [(1955) 1 SCR 267 at p. 272]). They are both adjudicating bodies and they deal with and finally determine disputes between parties which are entrusted to their jurisdiction. The procedure followed by the courts is regularly prescribed and in discharging their functions and exercising their powers, the courts have to conform to that procedure. The procedure which the tribunals have to follow may not always be so strictly prescribed, but the approach adopted by both the courts and the tribunals is substantially the same, and there is no essential difference between the functions that they discharge. As in the case of courts, so in the case of tribunals, it is the State's inherent judicial power which has been transferred and by virtue of the said power, it is the State's inherent judicial function which they discharge. Judicial functions and judicial powers are one of the essential attributes of a sovereign State, and on considerations of policy, the State transfers its judicial functions and powers mainly to the courts established by the Constitution; but that does not affect the competence of the State, by appropriate measures, to transfer a part of its judicial powers and functions to tribunals by entrusting to them the task of adjudicating upon special matters and disputes between parties. It is really not possible or even expedient to attempt to describe exhaustively the features which are common to the tribunals and the courts, and features which are distinct and separate. The basic and the fundamental feature which is common to both the courts and the tribunals is that they discharge judicial functions and exercise judicial powers which inherently vest in a sovereign State.

25. It would thus be seen that in dealing with the question as to whether Respondent 2, while it exercises its appellate power under Rule 6(6), is a tribunal under Article 136(1), we must enquire whether Respondent 2 has been clothed with the State's inherent judicial power to deal with disputes between parties and determine them on the merits fairly and objectively. That is the test which has been consistently applied by this Court in considering the question about the status of any body or authority as a tribunal under Article 136(1). Before we proceed to apply this test to Respondent 2's status under Rule 6(6), we think it is necessary to advert to one aspect of the matter which sometimes creates some confusion.

26. We have referred to the three essential attributes of a sovereign State and indicated that one of these attributes is the legislative power and legislative function of the State, and we have also seen that in determining the status of an authority dealing with disputes, we have to enquire whether the power conferred on the said authority or body can be said to be judicial power conferred on it by the State by means of a statute or statutory rule. The use of the expression "judicial power" in this context proceeds on the well-recognised concept of political science that along with legislative and executive powers, judicial power vests in a sovereign State. In countries where rigid separation of powers has been effected by written Constitutions, the position is very different. Take, for instance, the Australian Constitution. Section 71 of the Commonwealth of Australia Constitution Act (63 & 64 Vict. Chapter 12) provides that the judicial power of the Commonwealth shall be vested in a Federal Supreme Court, to be called the High Court of Australia, and in such other federal courts as Parliament creates, and in such other courts as it invests with federal jurisdiction. The High Court shall consist of a Chief Justice, and so many other Justices, not less than two, as Parliament prescribes. It is clear that the scheme of Sections 71 to 80 which form part of Chapter III of the said Constitution, is that the judicial power of the State can be conferred only on courts recognised by the provisions of the said Chapter. In other words, it is not competent to the legislature in Australia to confer judicial power properly so-called on any body or authority other than or apart from the courts recognised by Chapter III and so, the use of the expression "judicial power" or its conferment in regard to tribunals which are not courts properly so-called, would under the Australian Constitution be wholly inappropriate. If any tribunals other than courts are established and power is given to them to deal with and decide special disputes between the parties, the power which such tribunals would exercise cannot be described as judicial power, but would have to be called quasi-judicial power.

27. This technical aspect of the matter which is present under the Constitutions based on rigid separation of powers, should not be ignored when we are dealing with the question posed under Article 136(1) of our Constitution under our Constitution, there is no rigid separation of powers as under the Australian Constitution; and so, it would not be constitutionally inappropriate or improper to say that judicial power of the State can be conferred on the hierarchy of courts established under the Constitution as well as on tribunals which are not courts strictly so-called. Indeed, the fact that Article 136(1) refers to courts and tribunals and makes the determination, sentence or order passed by them subject to appeal to this Court by special leave, shows that our Constitution assumes that judicial power of the State can be vested in and exercised by both courts and tribunals alike. We have already seen that the function discharged by courts and tribunals mentioned in Article 136(1) is essentially the same, though the nature of the questions entrusted to their jurisdiction, the procedure required to be followed by them, and the extent and character of their powers may be different.

28. As a result of the rigid separation of powers on which the Australian Constitution is based, questions which arise for decision of courts in Australia take a very different form. Let us refer to the decision of the Privy Council in Shell Company of Australia, Ltd. v. Federal Commissioner of Taxation [1931 AC 275] by way of illustration. In that case, the Privy Council had to consider whether the Board of Review created by Section 41 of the Federal Income Tax Assessment Act, 1922-1925, to review the decisions of the Commissioner of Taxation, and whose members are to hold office for seven years, is a court exercising the judicial power of the Commonwealth within the meaning of Section 71 of the Constitution of Australia. If the answer had been in the affirmative, the amending section by which the Board of Review was constituted, would have been invalid because of the provisions of Section 71 of the Australian Constitution. The Privy Council however, examined the functions of the Board and its powers and considered the scheme of the relevant provisions of the Taxation Act and came to the conclusion that the Board of Review was not a court and stood in the same position as the Commissioner. It was observed that the orders of the Board of Review were not made conclusive for any purpose whatsoever, and that the decisions of the Board were made the equivalent of the decision of the Commissioner. In dealing with the status of the Board in the context of the requirements of Section 71 of the Australian Constitution, Lord Sankey L.C. observed that "the authorities are clear to show that there are tribunals with many of the trappings of a court which, nevertheless, are not courts in the strict sense of exercising judicial power" (p. 296). It is in this connection that Lord Sankey referred to certain attributes of courts which he characterised as trappings. The negative propositions which he enunciated by reference to these trappings, indicate that the presence of the trappings would not make the Board a court and would not lead to the inference that the judicatory power exercised by tribunals was judicial power which courts alone can exercise. It would thus be noticed that the reference to the trappings was intended to show that the presence of the trappings does not alter the character of the tribunal, the decisive test being that judicial power under the Australian Constitution can be conferred only on courts and not on tribunals. When we refer to tribunals in dealing with the problem posed by Article 136(1), it is necessary to bear in mind the context in which Lord Sankey referred to these trappings.

30. We have referred to these two decisions only for the purpose of emphasising the fact that the technical considerations which flow from the strict and rigid separation of powers, would not be applicable in dealing with the question about the status of Respondent 2 by reference to Article 136(1) of our Constitution. The use of the expression "judicial power" in the context, cannot be characterised as constitutionally impermissible or inappropriate, because our Constitution does not provide, as does Chapter III of the Australian Constitution, that judicial power can be conferred only on courts properly so-called. If such a consideration was relevant and material, then it would no doubt, be inappropriate to say that certain authorities or bodies which are given the power to deal with disputes between parties and finally determine them, are tribunals because the judicial power of the State has been statutorily transferred to them. In that case, the more appropriate expression to use would be that the powers which they exercise are quasi-judicial in character, and tribunals appointed under such a scheme of rigid separation of powers cannot be held to discharge the same judicial function as the courts. However, these considerations are, strictly speaking, in-applicable to the Indian Constitution, because though it is based on a broad separation of powers, there is no rigidity or exclusiveness involved in it as under Section 71 as well as other provisions of Chapter III of the Australian Constitution; and so, it would not be inappropriate to say that the main test in determining the status of any authority in the context of Article 136(1) is whether or not inherent judicial power of the State has been transferred to it.

34. In this connection, we may usefully recall the observation made by Lord Haldane in Local Government Board v. Arlidge [(1915) AC 120, 120] . Said Lord Haldane: "My Lords, when the duty of deciding an appeal is imposed, those whose duty it is to decide it must act judicially. They must deal with the question referred to them without bias, and they must give to each of the parties the opportunity of adequately presenting the case made. The decision must be come to in the spirit and with the sense of responsibility of a tribunal whose duty it is to mete out justice. But it does not follow that the procedure of every such tribunal must be the same". Having regard to the nature of the power conferred on the State Government, it seems to us clear that for reaching a fair and objective decision in the dispute brought before it in its appellate jurisdiction, the State Government has the power to devise its own procedure and to exercise such other incidental and subsidiary powers as may be necessary to deal effectively with the dispute. We are, therefore, satisfied that the State Government which exercises its appellate jurisdiction under Rule 6(5) and Rule 6(6) of the Rules is a tribunal within the meaning of Article 136(1); and so, the present appeal brought before this Court against the impugned appellate order passed by Respondent 2, is competent. In the result, the preliminary objection raised by Mr Goyal fails and must be rejected.

44. An authority other than a court may be vested by statute with judicial power in widely different circumstances, which it would be impossible and indeed inadvisable to attempt to define exhaustively. The proper thing is to examine each case as it arises, and to ascertain whether the powers vested in the authority can be truly described as judicial functions or judicial powers of the State. For the purpose of this case, it is sufficient to say that any outside authority empowered by the State to determine conclusively the rights of two or more contending parties with regard to any matter in controversy between them satisfies the test of an authority vested with the judicial powers of the State and may be regarded as a tribunal within the meaning of Article 136. Such a power of adjudication implies that the authority must act judicially and must determine the dispute by ascertainment of the relevant facts on the materials before it and by application of the relevant law to those facts. This test of a tribunal is not meant to be exhaustive, and it may be that other bodies not satisfying this test are also tribunals. In order to be a tribunal, it is essential that the power of adjudication must be derived from a statute or a statutory rule. An authority or body deriving its power of adjudication from an agreement of the parties, such as a private arbitrator or a tribunal acting under Section 10-A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, does not satisfy the test of a tribunal within Article 136. It matters little that such a body or authority is vested with the trappings of a court. The Arbitration Act, 1940 vests an arbitrator with some of the trappings of a court, so also the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 vests an authority acting under Section 10-A of the Act with many of such trappings, and yet, such bodies and authorities are not tribunals.

45. The word "tribunal" finds place in Article 227 of the Constitution also, and I think that there also the word has the same meaning as in Article 136.

46. Now, the question is whether the State Government deciding an appeal under Rule 6(6) of the Punjab Welfare Officers Recruitment and Conditions of Service Rules, 1952 (hereafter referred to as the Service Rules) is a tribunal within the meaning of Article 136 of the Constitution. The State Government made the Service Rules in exercise of its rule-making power under Section 112 read with Section 49(2) of the Factories Act, 1947. The Service Rules relate to the qualifications and conditions of service of a Welfare Officer in a factory and are well within the rule-making power. Rule 6 of the Service Rules prescribes the conditions of service of a Welfare Officer. Sub-rule (1) and (2) of Rule 6 provide that the Welfare Officer must have the appropriate status corresponding to the status of other executive heads of the factory, and his conditions of service shall be the same as of other members of the staff of corresponding status in the factory. Sub-rule (3) empowers the management to impose on the Welfare Officer one or more of the following punishments viz. (i) Censure; (ii) Withholding of increments including stoppage at an efficiency bar; (iii) reduction to a lower stage in a time scale; (iv) suspension; and (v) dismissal or termination of service in any other manner. The first proviso to sub-rule (3) provides that no order of punishment shall be passed against the Welfare Officer unless he has been informed of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action and given a reasonable opportunity of defending himself against the action proposed to be taken in regard to him. The second proviso to sub-rule (3) imposes the further safeguard that the management cannot impose any punishment on him other than censure except with the previous concurrence of the Labour Commissioner, Punjab. Sub-rule (4-) provides that before passing orders on a reference under the last proviso, the Labour Commissioner shall give the Welfare Officer an opportunity of showing cause against the proposed action, and, if necessary, may hear the parties in person. Sub-rule (5) provides that if the Labour Commissioner refuses to give his concurrence, the management may appeal to the State Government within thirty days from the date of the receipt of such refusal. Sub-rule (6) provides that the Welfare Officer upon whom the punishment of dismissal or termination of service is imposed may appeal to the State Government against the order of punishment within thirty days from the date of the receipt of the order by him. The decision of the State Government under both sub-rules (5) and (6) is made final and binding. Sub-rule (7) empowers the State Government to pass such interim orders as may be necessary pending the decision of the appeal filed under sub-rule (5) or sub-rule (6). If the management imposes a punishment without making a reference to the Labour Commissioner and without obtaining his concurrence, the order of the management is a nullity and is liable to be set aside on this ground alone on an appeal by the Welfare Officer under sub-rule (6). On the other hand, if the action of the management does not amount to a punishment, an appeal under sub-rule (6) is incompetent and is liable to be dismissed on that ground.

47. On an appeal under sub-rule (6), the dispute is whether the action of the management amounts to a punishment and if so, whether the punishment should be imposed. The dispute concerns the civil rights of the management and the Welfare Officer. The State Government is empowered to decide this dispute between the two contending parties. Since the State Government is empowered to give a decision, it may either confirm the punishment or set it aside and pass consequential orders such as an order of reinstatement. As a matter of fact, in the instant case the State Government passed an order of reinstatement. By the express words of sub-rule (6) of Rule 6, the decision of the State Government is made final and binding. The appellate decision conclusively determines the rights of the contending parties with regard to the matter in controversy between them. The appellate function and the power of conclusive determination of the civil rights of the parties with regard to matters in controversy between them indicate that the State Government is under a duty to act judicially and to decide the dispute solely by ascertaining the facts on the materials before it and by the application of the relevant law on the point. As the rule does not prescribe any procedure for the hearing of the appeal, the State Government may devise its own procedure consistently with its judicial duty. Normally, the State Government has the advantage of enquiries with regard to the subject-matter of the dispute at two previous stages viz. once by the management under sub-rule (3) and again by the Labour Commissioner under sub-rule (4). The State Government may also call upon the parties to make their representations in writing, at the appellate stage. As a matter of fact, in this case the parties were asked to make representations, and they did so. On ascertaining the relevant facts, the State Government may decide whether having regard to the relevant law viz. the ordinary law of master and servant as modified by the industrial law, the action of the management amounts to a punishment, and if so, whether such punishment should be imposed. A consideration of all these matters shows that the State Government deciding an appeal under Rule 6(6) of the Service Rules is vested with the judicial powers of the State, and satisfies the test of a tribunal as contemplated by Article 136 of the Constitution. It follows that the preliminary objection that the appeal under Article 136 does not lie, must be rejected."

5. He has also placed reliance upon paragraph(s) 67 to 73 of the judgment passed by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Haji Manzoor Ahmed and another Versus State reported in AIR 1970 Allahabad page 467, the same are as under:-

"67. The respondents say that the aforesaid pronouncements of the Supreme Court must be confined to authorities which are tribunals within the meaning of Art. 136 of the Constitution, inasmuch as the requirement that the reasons should be stated proceeds upon the consideration that the impugned order is open to appeal to the Supreme Court and that the omission to state the reasons precludes the Supreme Court from effectively exercising its jurisdiction. The contention, in my opinion, is not well founded. From M.P. Industries Ltd. [A.I.R. 1966 S.C. 671.]

onward, the Supreme Court, it seems to me, placed the necessity for giving reasons on two broad grounds. The first arose out of the need to exclude or minimize arbitrariness on the part of the authority making the order, and the second arose upon the need to make the order amenable to effective judicial scrutiny by the Supreme Court. It does appear that in some of its decisions, especially Bhagat Raja [A.I.R. 1967 S.C. 1606.] , the Supreme Court laid emphasis almost entirely on the second of the two grounds. The two grounds may also be said to be inter-related, in the sense that the second is intended to achieve the object underlying the first. But I am inclined to the view that even if the order is not open to appeal to the Supreme Court it is necessary that it should state its reasons. It may be that the authority is not a tribunal within the meaning of Art. 136(1) of the Constitution. That I believe, makes little difference. What is relevant, I think, is that the order is made in the exercise of a quasi judicial jurisdiction. As regards such an order, the party against whom it is made is entitled to know the reasons upon which it has been made. And that is apart from the consideration that it enables him to challenge the order in appeal before the Supreme Court. The need for disclosing reasons in quasi judicial orders arises from the ancient maxim integrated into our judicial system, that justice must not only be done but must also appear to be done. It is a principle arising out of the recognition that judicial tribunals must inspire public confidence and safeguard against the suspicion of arbitrariness and partiality. That is an objective which, speaking for myself, I consider to be an essential condition to the functioning of all courts and tribunals, judicial or quasi judicial. It is the glory of the rule of law that it is founded upon reasons. And reasons as opposed to arbitrary when distinguishes the rule of law from the rule of men.

68. But even if, as the respondents contend, the pronouncements of the Supreme Court mentioned above must be confined to tribunals within the meaning of Art. 136(1) of the Constitution I have no hesitation in holding that the State Government exercising jurisdiction under Sec. 7-F of the Act is such a tribunal.

69. It was at one time recognised as settled law that a tribunal falls within the ambit of Art. 136(1) if it derives authority from the sovereign power of the State and if it is invested with any part of the judicial functions of the State as distinct from purely administrative or executive functions if it further enjoys the "trappings of a court." That was the view expressed in Bharat Bank Ltd. v. Employees of Bharat Bank Ltd. [A.I.R. 1950 S.C. 188.] and later in Durga Shankar Mehta v. Raghuraj Singh [A.I.R. 1954 S.C. 241.] . It was reiterated in Jaswant Sugar Mills v. Lakshmi Chand [A.I.R. 1963 S.C. 677.] .

70. In Jaswant Sugar Mills [A.I.R. 1963 S.C. 677.] the Supreme Court examined the question whether a Conciliation Officer, who was empowered under clause 29 of a Government Order under the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act to grant permission to an employer to alter the conditions of service to the prejudice of the workmen during a pending dispute or to discharge or punish them during such dispute, was a tribunal for the purposes of Art. 136(1). The Supreme Court referred to the absence of "the trappings of a court" in the Consiliation Officer. It pointed out that he was not required to sit in public, no formal pleadings were contemplated before him, and he was not expowered to compel the attendance of witnesses nor restricted in making an enquiry to evidence which the parties brought before him. He was not capable of delivering an effective judgment or an award effecting the rights of the parties. He was not invested with powers similar to those of the civil courts under the Code of Civil Procedure for enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath, compelling production of documents, issuing commissions for the examination of the witnesses and other matters. These considerations prevailed with the Supreme Court in holding that the Conciliation Officer was not a tribunal. But since then the law declared by the Supreme Court has taken a wider sweep. In Associated Cement Companies Ltd. [A.I.R. 1965 S.C. 1595 at p. 1606 (paragraph 33).] the Supreme Court explained that the presence of all or some of the trappings of a court is really not a decisive consideration, that the main and the basic test was

"Whether the adjudicating power, which a particular authority is empowered to exercise, has been conferred upon it by a statute and can be described as a part of the State's inherent power exercised in dis-charging its judicial function." It held that applying this test, the State Government, deciding an appeal under sub-rules (5) and (6) of Rule 6 of the Punjab Welfare Officers Recruitment and Conditions of Service Rules (1952) was a tribunal. It pointed out that the judicial power of the State

"... has been conferred on the State Government by a statutory Rule and it can be exercised in respect of disputes between the management and its Welfare Officers. Where is, in that sense, a lis there is affirmation by one party and denial by another, and the dispute necessarily involves the rights and obligations of the parties to it. The order which the State Government ultimately passes is described as its decision and it is made final and binding. Besides, it is an order passed on appeal."

71. Now, an order made by the State Government under Sec. 7-F of the Act has been held by the Supreme Court in Lala Shri Bhagwan [1965 A.L.J. 353.] to effect the rights of the landlord and the tenant. Sec. 3(1) confers upon the tenant a statutory immunity against eviction in the absence of the grounds specified in the sub-section and of permission from the District Magistrate to sue for ejectment. The right of the tenant to that statutory immunity is the subject of proceedings before the District Magistrate and the Commissioner under Sec. 3 of the Act and before the State Government under Sec. 7-F of the Act. The jurisdiction exercised by each of these authorities partakes of the same nature. It was pointed out in Lala Shri Bhagwan [1965 A.L.J. 353.] that there was a lis between the landlord and the tenant in those proceedings, and there can be little doubt that the order of the State Government under Sec. 7-F is binding between the parties and finally adjudicates upon the right of the tenant to statutory immunity against eviction. Moreover, the jurisdiction of the State Government is of a revisional character. It may be mentioned that when considering the relevant provisions of Sec. 3 and Sec. 7-F of the Act in Lala Shri Bhagwan [1965 A.L.J. 353.] the Supreme Court expressly referred to its decision in the Associated Cement Companies [A.I.R. 1965 S.C. 1595 at p. 1606 (paragraph 33).] . I am of opinion that the test laid down in the latter case for determining whether a body is a tribunal within the meaning of Art. 136(1) of the Constitution is fully satisfied by the State Government acting under Sec. 7-F of the Act.

72. At this stage, I may refer to the decisions of the Supreme Court in Nandram Hanatram, Calcutta v. Union of India [A.I.R. 1966 S.C. 1922.] where the argument was rejected that the impugned order was bad because no reasons were stated. That decision was explained later by the Supreme Court in Bhagat Raja v. Union of India [A.I.R. 1967 S.C. 1606.] in the following terms:

"..... it was plain as a pike-staff that the State Government had no alternative but to cancel the lease; the absence of any reasons in the order on review could not possibly leave anybody in doubt as to whether (what the?)

reasons were. As a matter of fact in the setting of facts, the reasons were so obvious that it was not necessary to set them out. There is nothing in this decision which is contrary to 1966-1 S.C.R. 466: (A.I.R. 1966 S.C. 671) (supra). What the decision says is that the reasons for the action of the state were so obvious that it was not necessary, on the facts of the case, to repeat them in the order of the Central Government.

73. The question converged to a sharp focus before the Supreme Court in M.P. Industries Ltd. v. Union of Indian [A.I.R. 1966 S.C. 671.] , Subba Rao, J. explained the necessity for disclosing reasons in a quasi judicial order. In the case before it the Central Government had rejected a revision application under Rule 55 of the Mineral Concession Rules 1955. He observed:

".... Our Constitution posits a welfare State ..... In the context of a welfare State; administrative tribunals have come to stay. Indeed, they are the necessary concomitants of a welfare State. But arbitrariness in their functioning destroys the concept of a welfare State itself. Self-discipline and supervision exclude or at any rate minimize arbitrariness. The least a tribunal can do is to disclose its mind. The compulsion of disclosure guarantees consideration. The condition to give reasons introduces clarity and excludes or at any rate minimizes arbitrariness; It gives satisfaction to the party against whom the order is made; and it also enables an appellate or supervisory Court to keep the tribunals within bounds. A reasoned order is a desirable condition of judicial disposal.

The conception of exercise of revisional jurisdiction and the manner of disposal provided in R. 55 of the Rules, are indicative of the scope and nature of the Government's jurisdiction. If Tribunals can make order without giving reasons, the said power in the hands of unscrupulous or dishonest officers may turn out to be a potent weapon for abuse of power. But, if reasons for an order are to be given, it will be an effective restraint on such abuse, as the order, if it discloses extraneous or irrelevant considerations, will be subject to judicial scrutiny and correction. A speaking order will at its best be a reasonable and its worst be at least a plausible one. The public should not be deprived of this only safeguard.

6. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of All Party Hill Leaders Conference Vs. Captain W.A. Sangma reported in (1977) 4 SCC 161. Paragraphs referred are as under:-

23. The earliest decision of this Court as to the ambit of Article 136(1) with reference to the order of a tribunal came up for consideration in Bharat Bank Ltd., Delhi v. Employees of the Bharat Bank Ltd. [AIR 1950 SC 188 : (1950) 1 SCR 459 : 950 Lab LJ 21] . The question whether an Industrial Tribunal constituted under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, was a tribunal within the scope of Article 136 was raised in that case. By majority the Constitution Bench of this Court held that the Industrial Tribunal was a tribunal for the purpose of Article 136. Having regard to the scheme of Article 136, this Court was not prepared to place a narrow interpretation on the amplitude of Article 136. This Court observed at p. 476/478 of the Report as follows:

"As pointed out in picturesque language by Lord Sankey, L.C. in Shell Co. of Australia v. Federal Commissioner of Taxation [1931 AC 275] , there are tribunals with many of the trappings of a Court which, nevertheless, are not Courts in the strict sense of exercising judicial power. It seems to me that such tribunals though they are not full-fledged Courts, yet exercise quasi-judicial functions and are within the ambit of the word "tribunal' in Article 136 of the Constitution.

Tribunals which do not derive authority from the sovereign power cannot fall within the ambit of Article 136. The condition precedent for bringing a tribunal within the ambit of Article 136 is that it should be constituted by the State. Again a tribunal would be outside the ambit of Article 136 if it is not invested with any part of the judicial functions of the State but discharges purely administrative or executive duties. Tribunals, however, which are found invested with certain functions of a Court of justice and have some of its trappings also would fall within the ambit of Article 136 ....

Then after four years, B.K. Mukerjea, J. (as he then was) who was one of the dissenting Judges in Bharat Bank, true to judicial discipline, spoke for the unanimous Court in the Constitution Bench in Durga Shankar Mehta v. Thakur Raghuraj Singh [AIR 1954 SC 520 : (1955) 1 SCR 267] in the following words:

24. The basic principle laid down in the Bharat Bank has not been departed from by this Court and has been reiterated in several later decisions (see J.K. Iron and Steel Co. Ltd., Kanpur v. Iron and Steel Mazdoor Union, Kanpur [AIR 1956 SC 231 : (1955) 2 SCR 1315 : (1956) 1 Lab LJ 227] ; Harinagar Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shyam Sundar Jhunjhunwala [AIR 1961 SC 1669 : (1962) 2 SCR 339 : (1961) 31 Com Cas 387] ; Jaswant Sugar Mills Ltd., Meerut v. Lakshmichand [AIR 1963 SC 677 : 1963 Supp 1 SCR 242 : 1963 Lab LJ 524] ; Engineering Mazdoor Sabha v. Hind Cycles Ltd., Bombay [AIR 1963 SC 874 : 1963 Supp 1 SCR 625 : (1962) 2 Lab LJ 760] ; and Associated Cement Companies Ltd. v.P.N. Sharma [AIR 1965 SC 1595 : (1965) 2 SCR 366 : (1965) 1 Lab LJ 433]).

25. From a conspectus of the above decisions it will be seen that several tests have been laid down by this Court to determine whether a particular body or authority is a tribunal within the ambit of Article 136. The tests are not exhaustive in all cases. It is also well-settled that all the tests laid down may not be present in a given case. While some tests may be present others may be lacking. It is, however, absolutely necessary that the authority in order to come within the ambit of Article 136(1) as tribunal must be constituted by the State and invested with some function of judicial power of the State. This particular test is an unfailing one while some of the other tests may or may not be present at the same time.

26. It will be profitable to refer to an illuminating decision of the Constitution Bench in Associated Cement Companies Ltd. The question that was raised for decision in that case was as to whether the State Government of Punjab exercising its appellate jurisdiction under Rule 6 of the Punjab Welfare Officers Recruitment and Conditions of Service Rules, 1952, was a tribunal within the meaning of Article 136(1) of the Constitution. Section 49(2) of the Factories Act, 1948, provides that the State Government may prescribe the duties, qualifications and conditions of service of Welfare Officers employed in a factory. The State Government framed the Rules under Section 49(2) of the Factories Act and Rule 6(6) provides that a Welfare Officer upon whom a punishment is imposed may appeal to the State Government against the order of punishment and the decision of the State Government shall be final and binding. It is against a certain order passed by the State Government under Rule 6(6) that the company came to this Court by special leave and an objection was raised that the State Government exercising power under Rule 6(6) was not a tribunal within the meaning of Article 136(1). The objection was repelled in the following words:

"Tribunals which fall within the purview of Article 136(1) occupy a special position of their own under the scheme of our Constitution. Special matters and questions are entrusted to them for their decision and in that sense, they share with the courts one common characteristic; both the courts and the tribunals are "constituted by the State and are invested with judicial as distinguished from purely administrative or executive functions'. [Vide Durga Shanker Mehta v. Thakur Raghuraj Singh]. They are both adjudicating bodies and they deal with and finally determine disputes between parties which are entrusted to their jurisdiction. The procedure followed by the courts is regularly prescribed and in discharging their functions and exercising their powers, the courts have to conform to that procedure. The procedure which the tribunals have to follow may not always be so strictly prescribed, but the approach adopted by both the courts and the tribunals is substantially the same, and there is no essential difference between the functions that they discharge. As in the case of courts, so in the case of tribunals, it is the State's inherent judicial power which has been transferred and by virtue of the said power, it is the State's inherent judicial function which they discharge. Judicial functions and judicial powers are one of the essential attributes of a sovereign State, and on considerations of policy, the State transfers its judicial functions and powers mainly to the courts established by the Constitution; but that does not affect the competence of the State, by appropriate measures, to transfer a part of its judicial powers and functions to tribunals by entrusting to them the task of adjudicating upon special matters and disputes between parties. It is really not possible or even expedient to attempt to describe exhaustively the features which are common to the tribunals and the courts, and features which are distinct and separate. The basic and the fundamental feature which is common to both the courts and the tribunals is that they discharge judicial functions and exercise judicial powers which inherently vest in a sovereign Stated.

But as we already stated, the consideration about the presence of all or some of the trappings of a court is really not decisive. The presence of some of the trappings may assist the determination of the question as to whether the power exercised by the authority which possesses the said trappings, is the judicial power of the State or not. The main and the basic test however, is whether the adjudicating power which a particular authority is empowered to exercise, has been conferred on it by a statute and can be described as a part of the State's inherent power exercised in discharging its judicial function. Applying this test, there can be no doubt that the power which the State Government exercises under Rule 6(5) and Rule 6(6) is a part of the State's judicial power. It has been conferred on the State Government by a statutory Rule and it can be exercised in respect of disputes between the management and its Welfare Officers. There is, in that sense, a lis; there is affirmation by one party and denial by another, and the dispute necessarily involves the rights and obligations of the parties to it. The order which the State Government ultimately passes is described as its decision and it is made final and binding. Besides, it is an order passed on appeal. Having regard to these distinctive features of the power conferred on the State Government by Rule 6(5) and Rule 6(6). we feel no hesitation in holding that it is a Tribunal within the meaning of Article 136(1).

36. The question which we are required to resolve is as to the character of the Commission in adjudicating this dispute with regard to recognition of APHLC as a continuing recognised political party in the State of Meghalaya. It appears that out of 121 members of the Conference 81 had decided by majority that APHLC stood dissolved and these members joined the INC. Forty members had opposed the move to dissolve the party and actually stayed away from the Conference when the resolution to dissolve the party was passed. That has led to the dispute as to whether, notwithstanding the majority resolution in the Conference, the APHLC could still continue as a recognised political party in the State of Meghalaya for the purpose of allotment of the reserved symbol.

37. There is thus a lis between two groups of the Conference. The Commission is undoubtedly the specified and exclusive adjudicating authority of this lis. The Commission is created by the Constitution and the power to adjudicate the dispute flows from Article 324 as well as from Rule 5 and is thus conferred under the law as a fraction of judicial power of the State. The Commission has prescribed its own procedure in the Symbols Order, namely, to give a hearing to the parties when there is a dispute with regard to recognition or regarding choice of symbols. Para 15 of the Symbols Order makes specific reference to the procedure to be adopted by the Commission in hearing like disputes and it is required to take into account all the available facts and circumstances of the case and to hear such representatives of the sections or the groups and other persons as desire to be heard. The decision of the Commission under para 15 shall be binding on all rival sections or groups in the party. The Commission has followed, and if we may say so, rightly, this very procedure laid down in para 15 in adjudicating the present dispute although the same may not be a dispute contemplated under this paragraph. The dispute with which the Commission was concerned in the present case was a dispute of more serious nature than that which may be envisaged between two rival sections of a political party or between two splinter groups of the same party claiming to be the party, since the respondents' claim, here, was to annihilate the party beyond recognition and for good. When, therefore, the Commission has laid down a reasonable procedure in the Symbols Order in dealing with such a dispute, it was incumbent upon the Commission to choose the same procedure, as, indeed, it actually did, in adjudicating the present dispute. If the Commission were not specially required under the law to resolve this dispute within the framework of the scheme contemplated under Article 324 read with the Rules supplemented by the Symbols Order, the parties would have been required to approach the ordinary courts of law for determination of their legal rights with regard to their recognition or de-recognition. Since, however, a special machinery has been set up under the law relating to this matter and the same has to be decided with promptitude, the State's power of adjudicating such a dispute has been conferred upon the Election Commission in this behalf. It is true that the Election Commission has various administrative functions but that does not mean that while adjudicating a dispute of this special nature it does not exercise the judicial power conferred on it by the State.

38. To repeat, the power to decide this particular dispute is a part of the State's judicial power and that power is conferred on the Election Commission by Article 324 of the Constitution as also by Rule 5 of the Rules. The principal and non-failing test which must be present in order to determine whether a body or authority is a tribunal within the ambit of Article 136(1), is fulfilled in this case when the Election Commission is required to adjudicate a dispute between two parties, one group asserting to be the recognised political party of the State and the other group controverting the proposition before it, but at the same time not laying any claim to be that party. The fact that the decision is not relevant immediately for the purpose of a notified election and that disputes regarding property rights belonging to the party may be canvassed in civil courts or in other appropriate proceedings, is not of consequence in determination of the present question.

39. It is true that Rule 5(2) and sub-rules (4), (5) and (6) of Rule 10 relate to an election which has been notified under Rule 3 of the Rules. That, however, does not detract from the position that under Rule 5(1), the Election Commission is empowered to specify symbols in general terms and also the restrictions to which the choice of symbols will be subjected. As stated earlier, Rule 5 is in Part II of the Rules under the title "General Provisions". The conferment of judicial power of the State on the Commission in the matter of adjudication of the dispute of the nature with which we are concerned clearly flows from Rule 5(1) read with Article 324 of the Constitution.

42. Thus the position that emerges from the above discussion is that the Commission is created under the Constitution and is invested under the law with not only administrative powers but also with certain judicial power of the State, however fractional it may be. The Commission exclusively resolves disputes, inter alia, between rival parties with regard to claims for being a recognised political party for the purpose of the electoral symbol.

43. We are, therefore, clearly of opinion that the Commission fulfils the essential tests of a tribunal and falls squarely within the ambit of Article 136(1) of the Constitution. The preliminary objection is, therefore, overruled.

7. Further, reliance has been placed upon the judgment passed by the State of Gujarat v. Gujarat Revenue Tribunal Bar Assn., (2012) 10 SCC 353 : (2012) 4 SCC (Civ) 1229 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 35 : (2013) 1 SCC (L&S) 56 : 2012 SCC OnLine SC 874 at page 365. Paragraphs referred are as under:-

18. Tribunals have primarily been constituted to deal with cases under special laws and to hence provide for specialised adjudication alongside the courts. Therefore, a particular Act/set of rules will determine whether the functions of a particular tribunal are akin to those of the courts, which provide for the basic administration of justice. Where there is a lis between two contesting parties and a statutory authority is required to decide such dispute between them, such an authority may be called as a quasi-judicial authority i.e. a situation where, (a) a statutory authority is empowered under a statute to do any act; (b) the order of such authority would adversely affect the subject; and (c) although there is no lis or two contending parties, and the contest is between the authority and the subject; and (d) the statutory authority is required to act judicially under the statute, the decision of the said authority is a quasi-judicial decision. An authority may be described as a quasi-judicial authority when it possesses certain attributes or trappings of a "court", but not all. In case certain powers under CPC or CrPC have been conferred upon an authority, but it has not been entrusted with the judicial powers of State, it cannot be held to be a court. (See Bharat Bank Ltd. v. Employees [AIR 1950 SC 188] , Virindar Kumar Satyawadi v. State of Punjab [AIR 1956 SC 153 : 1956 Cri LJ 326] , Engg. Mazdoor Sabha v. Hind Cycles Ltd. [AIR 1963 SC 874] , Associated Cement Companies Ltd. v. P.N. Sharma [AIR 1965 SC 1595] , Rama Rao v. Narayan [(1969) 1 SCC 167 : AIR 1969 SC 724] , State of H.P. v. Institute of Social Welfare [(2002) 5 SCC 685 : AIR 2002 SC 2158] , K. Shamrao v. Asstt. Charity Commr. [(2003) 3 SCC 563] , Trans Mediterranean Airways v. 19. In Harinagar Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shyam Sunder Jhunjhunwala [AIR 1961 SC 1669] Hidayatullah, J. (as His Lordship then was) made a distinction between a "court" and a "tribunal" as is explained hereunder: (AIR p. 1680, para 32)

"32. ... These tribunals have the authority of law to pronounce upon valuable rights; they act in a judicial manner and even on evidence on oath, but they are not part of the ordinary courts of civil judicature. They share the exercise of the judicial power of the State, but they are brought into existence to implement some administrative policy or to determine controversies arising out of some administrative law. They are very similar to courts, but are not courts. When the Constitution speaks of "courts' in Article 136, 227 or 228 or in Articles 233 to 237 or in the Lists, it contemplates courts of civil judicature but not tribunals other than such courts. This is the reason for using both the expressions in Articles 136 and 227.

By "courts' is meant courts of civil judicature and by "tribunals', those bodies of men who are appointed to decide controversies arising under certain special laws. Among the powers of the State is included the power to decide such controversies. This is undoubtedly one of the attributes of the State, and is aptly called the judicial power of the State. In the exercise of this power, a clear division is thus noticeable. Broadly speaking, certain special matters go before tribunals, and the residue goes before the ordinary courts of civil judicature."

20. To explain the distinction between a court and tribunal, His Lordship further relied upon the judgment in Shell Co. of Australia Ltd. v. Federal Commr. of Taxation [1931 AC 275 : 1930 All ER Rep 671 (PC)] wherein it has been observed as under: (AC p. 297)

"In that connection it may be useful to enumerate some negative propositions on this subject: (1) A tribunal is not necessarily a court in this strict sense because it gives a final decision. (2) Nor because it hears witnesses on oath. (3) Nor because two or more contending parties appear before it between whom it has to decide. (4) Nor because it gives decisions which affect the rights of subjects. (5) Nor because there is an appeal to a court. (6) Nor because it is a body to which a matter is referred by another body."

21. The present case is also required to be examined in the context of Article 227 of the Constitution of India, with specific reference to the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976, where the expression "court" stood by itself, and not in juxtaposition with the other expression used therein, namely, "tribunal". The power of the High Court of judicial superintendence over the tribunals, under the amended Article 227 stood obliterated. By way of the amendment in clause (1), the words "and tribunals" stood deleted and the words "subject to its appellate jurisdiction" have been substituted after the words "all courts". In other words, this amendment purports to take away the High Court's power of superintendence over tribunals. Moreover, the High Court's power has been restricted to have judicial superintendence only over judgments of inferior courts i.e. judgments in cases where against the same appeal or revision lies with the High Court. A question does arise as regards whether the expression "courts" as it appears in the amended Article 227, is confined only to the regular civil or criminal courts that have been constituted under the hierarchy of courts and whether all tribunals have in fact been excluded from the purview of the High Court's superintendence. Undoubtedly, all courts are tribunals but all tribunals are not courts.

22.The High Court's power of judicial superintendence, even under the amended provisions of Article 227 is applicable, provided that two conditions are fulfilled; firstly, such tribunal, body or authority must perform judicial functions of rendering definitive judgments having finality, which bind the parties in respect of their rights, in the exercise of the sovereign judicial power transferred to it by the State, and secondly, such tribunal, body or authority should be the subject to the High Court's appellate or revisional jurisdiction.

8. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgment passed in the case of Aidal Singh Vs. Karan Singh reported in AIR 1957 All 414 (FB). Paragraphs referred are as under:-

74. In this connection reference might be made to the case of Hari Vishnu Kamath v. Ahmad Ishaque [A.I.R. 1955 S.C. 233] in which their Lord ships of the Supreme Court held that the court issuing a writ of certiorari acts in exercise of a supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction. It is significant to note that their Lordships of the Supreme Court characterised the power under Article 226 merely as a supervisory power and not a power of superintendence. The word "Superintendence" in Lyer's Law Lexicon means "the act of superintending, care and oversight, for the purpose of direction, and with authority to direct." In Murray's New English Dictionary, Vol. IX (1919 Edition) meaning No. I of the word "superintend' is given as follows:--

"1. Trans, to have or exercise the charge or direction of (operations or affairs); to look after, oversee, supervise the working or management of (an institution, etc.)

78. The most marked difference between Article 226 and Article 227 consists in the method of approach that the Court would adopt in the two cases. Thus, the court V would not act under Article 226 unless there is a breach of some fundamental or other legal right of the party concerned. As observed by his Lordship Kania, C.J. in a decision of the Supreme Court reported in The State of Orissa v. Gopal Rungta [A.I.R. 1952 S.C. 12 (O)] " .... the existence of the right is the foundation of the exercise of jurisdiction of the Court under this Article". Charanjit Lal Chowdhary v. The Union of India [A.I.R. 1951 S.C. 41] also contains observation to the same effect. Both under Art. 226 as well as under Art. 32 which are the two Articles relating to writ powers, the Court acts for the endorcement of legal rights. The only difference is that whereas under Art. 32 the endorsement of rights is confined to fundamental rights enumerated in Part III of the Constitution, the enforcement of rights under Article 226 is not confined to fundamental rights only, but extends to other legal rights as well. On the other hand, while acting under Article 227, the court is not so much concerned with the enforcement of the legal rights of the parties as with the discharge of its own obligation irrespective of the rights of the parties. As observed in Jodhey v. Stated in reference to clause (1) of Article 227.

"There are no limits, fetters or restrictions placed on this power of superintendence in this clause and the purpose of this Article seems to be to make the High Court the custodian of all justice within the territorial limits of its jurisdiction and to arm it with a weapon that could be wielded for the purpose of seeing that justice is meted out fairly and properly by the bodies mentioned there."

101. Even prior to the Constitution, the English theory of inherent power was held to be not applicable to India. In Pashupati Bharti v. Secretary of State [1938 (A.I.R.) Federal Court 1] their Lordships of the Federal Court while discussing the nature of the power of superintendence possessed by the Indian High Court made the following significant observations:--

"Nor is any support for the theory of an inherent power to be found in the analogy of the revisional and supervisory jurisdiction of the High Courts in British India. That jurisdiction is entirely a creature of statute, e.g. S. 224 of the Act of 1935 and Sec. 115, Civil P.C. Outside the statutory provisions no High Court has any inherent powers of revision over the Subordinate Courts within its jurisdiction, such for example as the court of King's Bench in England has for centuries exercised over courts inferior to itself."

9. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgment passed in the case of Kihoto Hollohan v. Zachillhu reported in 1992 Supp (2) SCC

98. But then is the Speaker or the Chairman acting under Paragraph 6(1) a Tribunal? "All tribunals are not courts, though all courts are tribunals". The word "courts" is used to designate those tribunals which are set up in an organised State for the Administration of Justice. By Administration of Justice is meant the exercise of judicial power of the State to maintain and uphold rights and to punish "wrongs". Whenever there is an infringement of a right or an injury, the courts are there to restore the vinculum juris, which is disturbed. (See Harinagar Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shyam Sundar Jhunjhunwala [(1962) 2 SCR 339 : AIR 1961 SC 1669 : (1961) 31 Comp Cas 387]). In that case Hidayatullah, J. said: (SCR p. 362)

99. Where there is a lis -- an affirmation by one party and denial by another -- and the dispute necessarily involves a decision on the rights and obligations of the parties to it and the authority is called upon to decide it, there is an exercise of judicial power. That authority is called a Tribunal, if it does not have all the trappings of a Court. In Associated Cement Companies Ltd. v. P.N. Sharma [(1965) 2 SCR 366 : AIR 1965 SC 1595 : (1965) 1 LLJ 433] this Court said: (SCR pp. 386-87)

"... The main and the basic test however, is whether the adjudicating power which a particular authority is empowered to exercise, has been conferred on it by a statute and can be described as a part of the State's inherent power exercised in discharging its judicial function. Applying this test, there can be no doubt that the power which the State Government exercises under Rule 6(5) and Rule 6(6) is a part of the State's judicial power.... There is, in that sense, a lis; there is affirmation by one party and denial by another, and the dispute necessarily involves the rights and obligations of the parties to it. The order which the State Government ultimately passes is described as its decision and it is made final and binding."

100. By these well known and accepted tests of what constitute a Tribunal, the Speaker or the Chairman, acting under Paragraph 6(1) of the Tenth Schedule is a Tribunal.

10. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgment passed in the case of Umaji Keshao Meshram Vs. Radhikabai reported in 1986 (Supp) SCC 401. Paragraphs referred are as under:-

108. For the reasons aforesaid it must be held that the Full Bench case of Shanker Naroba Salunke v. Gyanchand Lobhachand Kothari [Letters Patent Appeals Nos. 3, 10, 11 and 17 of 1979 of 1979 of 1980, decided on September 3, 1980] was wrongly decided except for the conclusion reached by the Full Bench that no appeal lies under clause 15 of the Letters Patent of the Bombay High Court against the judgment of a Single Judge of that High Court in a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution but not the reasons given by the Full Bench for reaching this particular conclusion. Accordingly, the said Full Bench decision is hereby overruled to the extent mentioned above and the view taken by the Special Bench in State of Maharashtra v. Kusum [(1981) 83 Bom LR 75 : 1981 Mah LJ 93] is approved.

11. Before coming to conclusion on the issue of maintainability of the present petition, it would be appropriate to consider Section 41 of the Act of 1973, which reads as under:-

"41. Control by State Government.-

(1) The [Authority),the Chairman or the (Vice-Chairman] shall carry out such directions as may be issued to it from time to time by the State Government for the efficient administration of this Act.

(2) If in, or in connection with, the exercise of its powers and discharge of its functions by the [Authority, the Chairman or the Vice-Chairman) under this Act any dispute arises between the authority, the Chairman or the Vice-Chairman) and the State Government the decision of the State Government on such dispute shall be final.

(3) The State Government may, at any time, either on its own motion or on application made to it in this behalf, call for the records of any case disposed of or order passed by the [Authority or the Chairman) for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legalitv or propriety of any order passed or direction issued and may pass such order or issue such direction in relation thereto as it may think fit:

Provided that the State Government shall not pass an order prejudicial to any person without affording such person a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

(4) Every order of the State Government made in exercise of the powers conferred by this Act shall be final and shall not be called in question in any court."

12. Section 12 of U.P. Industrial Development Area Act, being referred is also to be taken note, which reads as under:-

12. Applications of certain provisions of President's Act XI of 1973. - The provisions of Chapter VII and Sections 30, 32, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 49, 50, 51, 53 and 58 of the Uttar Pradesh Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, as re-enacted and modified by the Uttar Pradesh President's Act (Re-enactment with Modifications) Act, 1974, shall mutatis mutandis, apply to the Authority with adaptation that-

(a) any reference to the aforesaid Act shall be deemed to be a reference to this Act;

(b) any reference to the Authority constituted under the aforesaid Act shall be deemed to be a reference to the Authority constituted under this Act; and

(c) any reference to the Vice-Chairman of the Authority shall be deemed to be a reference to the Chief Executive Officer of the Authority.

13. In Section 12 of Act of 1976, certain provisions including Section 41 of Act of 1973, have been referred and about the provisions of Act of 1973 mentioned, this Section says that the same shall mutatis mutandis, apply to the authority with adaption as mentioned in Section 12 of the Act of 1976 itself. Thus, undisputedly any decision/order of the 'Authority' or "Chief Executive Officer" under the Act of 1976 can be assailed before the State Government under Section 41 of the Act of 1973.

14. Now coming to Section 41 of the Act of 1973, particularly Sub Section 3 of Section 41. The language used in the Sub Section 3 is similar to the language used in Section 397 of Cr.P.C. and Section 115 of CPC, as applicable in State of U.P., which confers revisional power upon the Sessions/District court and High Court. A plain reading of the provisions show that the State Government has the power to call for the records of any case disposed of or order passed by 'Authority' or 'the Chairman' either on its own motion or on an application made to it in this behalf for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed or direction issued and may pass such order or issue such direction in relation thereto as it may think fit. Therefore, the State Government can exercise the power under Sub Section 3 of Section 41 in relation to (i) any case disposed of by the Authority or Chairman, (ii) Order passed by authority and (iii) order passed by the Chairman.

15. Further, it reflects from the proviso to Sub Section 3 of Section 41 that it is mandatory for State Government to provide a reasonable opportunity of hearing to the person concerned before passing an adverse order, in exercise of power conferred of Section 41 of the Act of 1973, against such person.

16. It would be relevant to observe that the 'Forum' under Sub Section 3 of Section 41 of the Act of 1973, has been created by the State for speedy redressal of grievance(s) of person aggrieved.

17. In the judgment passed in the case of T.C.Basappa Vs. T.Nagappa and another reported in AIR 1954 SC 440. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"7. One of the fundamental principles in regard to the issuing of a writ of certiorari, is, that the writ can be availed of only to remove or adjudicate on the validity of judicial acts. The expression "judicial acts" includes the exercise of quasi-judicial functions by administrative bodies or other authorities or persons obliged to exercise such functions and is used in contrast with what are purely ministerial acts. Atkin, L.J. thus summed up the law on this point in Rex v. Electricity Commissioners [(1924) 1 KB 171 at 205] :

"Whenever anybody or persons having legal authority to determine questions affecting the rights of subjects and having the duty to act judicially act in excess of their legal authority, they are subject to the controlling jurisdiction of the King's Bench Division exercised in these writs."

18. Thus, considering the aforesaid, this Court holds that the State Government while exercising power under Section 41(3) of the Act of 1973, does not perform purely ministerial acts and it has to exercise the power conferred upon it under this Section, judicially.

19. Considering the aforesaid including the judgments referred hereinabove, this Court is of the view that in this case for determining that as to whether an "Authority" i.e. "State Government" is a "Tribunal" or not, as in this case the power of State Government under Section 41(3) of the Act of 1973 is in issue, which is as per above observations of this Court is revisional power, the basic test(s)/parameter(s) can be summarized as under:

(a) That the power of adjudication should be conferred on the concerned 'Authority' by a statute.

(b) That such adjudicating power is the part of State's inherent power exercised in discharging its judicial function.

(c) That the 'Authority' concerned is under obligation to act judicially.

(d) That the decision of the 'Authority' on the 'lis' before it is binding between the parties and final.

20. In this case, the power of adjudication is conferred upon 'State Government' by the statute, the 'State Government' is under obligation to act judicially and is also required to follow principle of natural justice, as appears from the proviso to Sub Section 3 of Section 41 of the Act of 1973, the State Government in this Sub Section decides the lis between the parties and decision of 'State Government', as per Sub Section 4 of Section 41 is binding and final. Thus, all test(s)/ parameter(s), aforesaid, are satisfied and being so it is held that the 'State Government' under Section 41 Sub Clause 3 of the Act of 1973, is a 'Tribunal'.

21. It would be appropriate to refer Article 227 of Constitution of India, which reads as under:-

"227. [(1) Every High Court shall have superintendence over all courts and tribunals throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction.]

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, the High Court may--

(a) call for returns from such courts;

(b) make and issue general rules and prescribe forms for regulating the practice and proceedings of such courts; and

(c) prescribe forms in which books, entries and accounts shall be kept by the officers of any such courts.

(3) The High Court may also settle tables of fees to be allowed to the sheriff and all clerks and officers of such courts and to attorneys, advocates and pleaders practising therein: Provided that any rules made, forms prescribed or tables settled under clause (2) or clause (3) shall not be inconsistent with the provision of any law for the time being in force, and shall require the previous approval of the Governor.

(4) Nothing in this article shall be deemed to confer on a High Court powers of superintendence over any court or tribunal constituted by or under any law relating to the Armed Forces. Power of superintendence over all courts by the High Court.

22. In the case of Manmohan Singh Jaitla v. Commr., Union Territory of Chandigarh, reported in 1984 Supp SCC 540 : 1985 SCC (L&S) 269 at page 545 . The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"7. The High Court declined to grant any relief on the ground that an aided school is not "other authority" under Article 12 of the Constitution and is therefore not amenable to the writ jurisdiction of the High Court. The High Court clearly overlooked the point that Deputy Commissioner and Commissioner are statutory authorities operating under the 1969 Act. They are quasi-judicial authorities and that was not disputed. Therefore, they will be comprehended in the expression "Tribunal' as used in Article 227 of the Constitution which confers power of superintendence over all courts and tribunals by the High Court throughout the territory in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction. Obviously, therefore, the decision of the statutory quasi-judicial authorities which can be appropriately described as tribunal will be subject to judicial review namely a writ of certiorari by the High Court under Article 227 of the Constitution. The decision questioned before the High Court was of the Deputy Commissioner and the Commissioner exercising powers under Section 3 of the 1969 Act. And these statutory authorities are certainly amenable to the writ jurisdiction of the High Court."

23. From the Article 227 of Constitution of India as also the judgments referred in this judgment it is apparent that "Tribunal" is under supervisory jurisdiction of this Court, which should be exercised within the restriction and limitations explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in various pronouncements. In brief, the power should be exercised to correct the errors of jurisdiction and not to upset pure prior findings of facts, as the High Court exercising the power/jurisdiction under Article 227 of Constitution of India, is not an appellate authority.

24. Thus, for all the reasons recorded hereinbefore, this Court is of the view that present petition under Article 227 of Constitution of India, is maintainable before this Court. As such the objection pointed out by the Registry of this Court that "Proper group is Miscellaneous Bench U/A 226 as revision petition mentioned in prayer is pending before administrative Body", is thus overruled.

25. After holding aforesaid, the court feels it appropriate to refer certain pronouncements, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has explained the jurisdiction and power of this Court while considering a petition under Article 227 of Constitution of India.

26. In Waryam Singh v. Amarnath, AIR 1954 SC 215, a Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, after examining the scope of Article 227 of the Constitution, observed as under:--

"This power of superintendence conferred by Article 227 is, as pointed out by Harries, C.J. in Dalmia Jain Airways Ltd. v. Sukumar Mukherjee, 1951 AIR (Cal) 193 to be exercised most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the Subordinate Courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors."

27. In Hari Vishnu Kamath v. Ahmad Ishaque, AIR 1955 SC 233, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the context of the scope, power and jurisdiction exercised by the High Court, under Articles 226 & 227 of the Constitution of India, observed as under:

"20. We are also of opinion that the Election Tribunals are subject to the superintendence of the High Courts under Article 227 of the Constitution, and that that superintendence is both judicial and administrative. That was held by this Court in "Waryam Singh v. Amarnath', AIR 1954 SC 215 (K) , where it was observed that in this respect Article 227 went further than section 224 of the Government of India Act, 1935, under which the superintendence was purely administrative, and that it restored the position under section 107 of the Government of India Act, 1915. It may also be noted that while in a "certiorari' under Article 226 the High Court can only annul the decision of the Tribunal, it can, under Article 227, do that, and also issue further directions in the matter. We must accordingly hold that the application of the appellant for a writ of "certiorari' and for other reliefs was maintainable under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution.

21. Then the question is whether there are proper grounds for the issue of "certiorari' in the present case. There was considerable argument before us as to the character and scope of the writ of "certiorari' and the conditions under which it could be issued. The question has been considered by this Court in "Parry and Co. v.Commercial Employees' Association, Madras', AIR 1952 SC 179 (L):- "Veerappa Pillai v. Raman and Raman Ltd.'

AIR 1952 SC 192 (M); - "Ebrahim Aboobaker v. Custodian General of Evacuee Property New Delhi' AIR 1952 SC 319 (N), and quite recently in AIR 1954 SC 440 (C). On these authorities, the following propositions may be taken as established: (1) "Certiorari' will be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction, as when an inferior Court or Tribunal acts without jurisdiction or in excess of it, or fails to exercise it. (2) "Certiorari' will also be issued when the Court or Tribunal acts illegally in the exercise of its undoubted jurisdiction, as when it decides without giving an opportunity to the parties to be heard, or violates the principles of natural justice. (3) The Court issuing a writ of "certiorari' acts in exercise of a supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction. One consequence of this is that the Court will not review findings or fact reached by the inferior Court or Tribunal, even if they be erroneous. This is on the principle that a Court which has jurisdiction over a subject-matter has jurisdiction to decide wrong as well as right, and when the Legislature does not choose to confer a right of appeal against that decision, it would be defeating its purpose and policy if a superior Court were to re-hear the case on the evidence, and substitute its own findings in "certiorari." These propositions are well settled and are not in dispute."

28. In the case of M.L.Sethi Vs. R.P. Kapur, reported in (1972) 2 SCC 427. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"12. ..... The word "jurisdiction" is a verbal cast of many colours. Jurisdiction originally seems to have had the meaning which Lord Baid ascribed to it in Anisminic Ltd. v. Foreign Compensation Commission, (1969) 2 AC 147, namely, the entitlement "to enter upon the enquiry in question". If there was an entitlement to enter upon an inquiry into the question, then any subsequent error could only be regarded as an error within the jurisdiction. The best known formulation of this theory is that made byLord Denman in R. v. Bolton, (1841) 1 QB 66. He said that the question of jurisdiction is determinable at the commencement, not at the conclusion of the enquiry. In Anisminde Ltd., (1969) 2 AC 147 Lord Reid said:

"But there are many cases where, although the tribunal had jurisdiction to enter on the enquiry, it has done or failed to do something in the course of the enquiry which is of such a nature that its decision is a nullity. It may have given its decision in bad faith. It may have made a decision which it had no power to make. It may have failed in the course of the enquiry to comply with the requirements of natural justice. It may in perfect good faith have misconstrued the provisions giving it power to act so that it failed to deal with the question remitted to it and decided some question which was not remitted to it. It may have refused to take into account something which it was required to take into account. Or it may have based its decision on some matter which, under the provisions setting it up, it had no right to take into account. I do not intend this list to be exhaustive".

In the same case, Lord Pearce said:

"Lack of jurisdiction may arise in various ways. There may be an absence of those formalities or things which are conditions precedent to the tribunal having any jurisdiction to embark on an enquiry. Or the tribunal may at the end make an order that it has no jurisdiction to make. Or in the intervening stage while engaged on a proper enquiry, the tribunal may depart from the rules of natural justice; or it may ask itself the wrong questions; or it may take into account matters which it was not directed to take into account. Thereby it would step outside its jurisdiction. It would turn its inquiry into something not directed by Parliament and fall to make the inquiry which the Parliament did direct. Any of these things would cause its purported decision to be a nullity."

The dicta of the majority of the House of Lords, in the above case would show the extent to which "lack' and "excess' of jurisdiction have been assimilated or, in other words, the extent to which we have moved away from the traditional concept of "jurisdiction". The effect of the dicta in that case is to reduce the difference between jurisdictional error and error of law within jurisdiction almost to vanishing point. The practical effect of the decision is that any error of law can be reckoned as jurisdictional. They comes perilously close to saying that there is a jurisdiction if the decision is right in law but none if it is wrong. Almost any misconstruction of a statute can be represented as "basing their decision on a matter with which they have no right to deal", "imposing an unwarranted condition" or "addressing themselves to a wrong question". The majority opinion in the case leaves a Court or Tribunal with virtually no margin of legal error. Whether there is excess of jurisdiction or merely error within jurisdiction can be determined only construing the empowering statute which will give little guidance. It is really a question of how much latitude the Court is prepared to allow in the end it can only be a value judgment (See H.W.R. Wade, "Constitutional and Administrative Aspects of the Anismenic case", Law Quarterly Review, Vol. 85, 1969, P. 198). Why is it that a wrong decision on a question of limitation or res judicata was treated as a jurisdictional error an liable to be interfered with in revision? It is a bit difficult to understand how an erroneous decision on a question of limitation or res judicata would oust the jurisdiction of the Court in the primitive sense of the term and render the decision or a decree embodying the decision a nullity liable to collateral attack. The reason can only be that the error of law was considered as vital by the Court. And there is no yardstick to determine the magnitude of the error other than the opinion of the Court."

29. In the case of Chandrasekhar Singh Vs. Siya Ram Singh, reported in (1979) 3 SCC 118. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"11. The only other question that remains to be considered is whether an order under Section 146(1B) can be interfered with by the High Court in the exercise of its powers under Article 227 of the Constitution. It is admitted that the powers conferred on the High Court under Art. 227 of the Constitution cannot in any way be curtailed by the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code. Therefore, the powers of the High Court under Art. 227 of the Constitution can be invoked in spite of the restrictions placed under Section 146(1D) of the Criminal Procedure Code. But the scope of interference by the High Court under Art. 227 is restricted. This Court has repeatedly held that "the power of superintendence conferred by Article 227 is to be exercised most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors vide 1954 S.C.R. 565 (Waryam Singh v. Amar Nath). In a later decision, (Nagendra Nath Bora v. The Commissioner of Hills Division, and Appeals, Assam, the view was reiterated and it was held that the power of judicial interference under Article 227 of the Constitution are not greater than the power under Article 226 of the Constitution, and that under Art. 227 of the Constitution, the power of interference is limited to seeing that the tribunal functions within the limits of its authority. In a recent decision, (Babhutmal Raichand Oswal v. Laxmibai R. Tarts (2) this Court reiterated the view stated in the earlier decisions referred to and held that the power of superintendence under Article 227 of the Constitution cannot be invoked to correct an error of fact which only a superior court can do in exercise of its statutory power as the Court of appeal and that the High Court cannot in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 227 convert itself into a court of appeal."

30. In Mohd. Yunus v. Mohd. Mustaquim, (1983) 4 SCC 566, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that High Court has very limited scope under Article 227 of the Constitution and even errors of law cannot be corrected in exercise of power of judicial review while exercising such power. The powers can be used sparingly only when High Court comes to the conclusion that the Authority/Tribunal has exceeded its jurisdiction or proceeded under erroneous presumption of jurisdiction. It further held that the High Court cannot assume unlimited prerogative to correct all species of hardship or wrong decision. For interference, there must be a case of flagrant abuse of fundamental principles of law or where order of Tribunal etc. has resulted in grave injustice.

31. In Rena Drego v. Lalchand Soni, (1998) 3 SCC 341, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has categorically held that the power under Article 227 of the Constitution is of the judicial superintendence which cannot be used to up-set the conclusions of facts, howsoever erroneous those may be, unless such conclusions are so perverse or so unreasonable that no Court could have ever.

32. In Baby v. Travancore Devaswom Board, (1998) 8 SCC 310, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that even if revisional jurisdiction was not available to the High Court, it still have powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India to set aside the orders so passed by the Tribunal if the finding of fact arrived at was perverse.

33. In Ajaib Singh v. Sirhind Co-operative Marketing cum Processing Service Society Ltd.,(1999) 6 SCC 82, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that High Court is not to substitute its view for the opinion of Authorities/Courts below as the same is not permissible in proceedings under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shalini Shyam Shetty v.Rajendra Shankar Patil, (2010) 8 SCC 329, culled out the following principles:

"(a) A petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is different from a petition under Article 227. The mode of exercise of power by High Court under these two Articles is also different.

(b) In any event, a petition under Article 227 cannot be called a writ petition. The history of the conferment of writ jurisdiction on High Courts is substantially different from the history of conferment of the power of Superintendence on the High Courts under Article 227 and have been discussed above.

(c) High Courts cannot, on the drop of a hat, in exercise of its power of superintendence under Article 227 of the Constitution, interfere with the orders of tribunals or Courts inferior to it. Nor can it, in exercise of this power, act as a Court of appeal over the orders of Court or tribunal subordinate to it. In cases where an alternative statutory mode of redressal has been provided, that would also operate as a restrain on the exercise of this power by the High Court.

(d) The parameters of interference by High Courts in exercise of its power of superintendence have been repeatedly laid down by this Court. In this regard the High Court must be guided by the principles laid down by the Constitution Bench of this Court in Waryam Singh (supra) and the principles in Waryam Singh (supra) have been repeatedly followed by subsequent Constitution Benches and various other decisions of this Court.

(e) According to the ratio in Waryam Singh (supra), followed in subsequent cases, theHigh Court in exercise of its jurisdiction of superintendence can interfere in order only to keep the tribunals and Courts subordinate to it, ''within the bounds of their authority'.

(f) In order to ensure that law is followed by such tribunals and Courts by exercising jurisdiction which is vested in them and by not declining to exercise the jurisdiction which is vested in them.

(g) Apart from the situations pointed in (e) and (f), High Court can interfere in exercise of its power of superintendence when there has been a patent perversity in the orders of tribunals and Courts subordinate to it or where there has been a gross and manifest failure of justice or the basic principles of natural justice have been flouted.

(h) In exercise of its power of superintendence High Court cannot interfere to correct mere errors of law or fact or just because another view than the one taken by the tribunals or Courts subordinate to it, is a possible view. In other words the jurisdiction has to be very sparingly exercised.

(i) High Court's power of superintendence under Article 227 cannot be curtailed by any statute. It has been declared a part of the basic structure of the Constitution by the Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar v. Union of India, (1997) 3 SCC 261 and therefore abridgement by a Constitutional amendment is also very doubtful.

(j) It may be true that a statutory amendment of a rather cognate provision, like Section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code by the Civil Procedure Code (Amendment) Act, 1999 does not and cannot cut down the ambit of High Court's power under Article 227. At the same time, it must be remembered that such statutory amendment does notcorrespondingly expand the High Court's jurisdiction of superintendence under Article 227.

(k) The power is discretionary and has to be exercised on equitable principle. In an appropriate case, the power can be exercised suo motu.

(l) On a proper appreciation of the wide and unfettered power of the High Court under Article 227, it transpires that the main object of this Article is to keep strict administrative and judicial control by the High Court on the administration of justice within its territory.

(m) The object of superintendence, both administrative and judicial, is to maintain efficiency, smooth and orderly functioning of the entire machinery of justice in such a way as it does not bring it into any disrepute. The power of interference under this Article is to be kept to the minimum to ensure that the wheel of justice does not come to a halt and the fountain of justice remains pure and unpolluted in order to maintain public confidence in the functioning of the tribunals and Courts subordinate to High Court.

(n) This reserve and exceptional power of judicial intervention is not to be exercised just for grant of relief in individual cases but should be directed for promotion of public confidence in the administration of justice in the larger public interest whereas Article 226 is meant for protection of individual grievance. Therefore, the power under Article 227 may be unfettered but its exercise is subject to high degree of judicial discipline pointed out above.

(o) An improper and a frequent exercise of this power will be counter-productive and will divest this extraordinary power of its strength and vitality."

35. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Madras Bar Association v. Union of India, (2014) 10 SCC 1, while dealing with the constitutional validity of the National Tax Tribunal Act, 2005, held Judicial Review, under Articles 226 & 227 of the Constitution of India, to be part of the Basic Structure of the Constitution. Even earlier, in Kartar Singh v. State of Punjab, (1994) 3 SCC 569, the Court had observed as such.

36. In Radhey Shyam v. Chhabi Nath, (2015) 5 SCC 423 while holding that orders of Civil Courts are not amenable to writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, it further held that jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India was distinct from the jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. To this extent, it also overruled its contrary view in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675. In para 28 of the judgment in Radhey Shyam's case, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that:

"28. We may also deal with the submission made on behalf of the respondent that the view in Surya Dev Rai stands approved by larger Benches in Shail, Mahendra Saree Emporium and Salem Advocate Bar Assn and on that ground correctness of the said view cannot be gone into by this Bench. In Shail, though reference has been made to Surya Dev Rai, the same is only for the purpose of scope of power under Article 227 as is clear from para 3 of the said judgment. There is no discussion on the issue of maintainability of a petition under Article 226. In Mahendra Saree Emporium, reference to Surya Dev Rai is made in para 9 of the judgment only for the proposition that no subordinate legislation can whittle down the jurisdiction conferred by the Constitution. Similarly, in Salem Bar Assn. in para 40, reference to Surya Dev Rai is for the same purpose. We are, thus, unable to accept the submission of learned counsel for the respondent."

37. The aforesaid principles stand reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Kishan Fauji v.State of Haryana, (2017) 5 SCC 533.

38. Now, adverting to merits of the case. For the reliefs sought in this petition, learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that petitioner is invoking the supervisory jurisdiction of this Hon'ble Court under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, being aggrieved by the inaction on the part of the respondent no. 1 in hearing and deciding statutory revision preferred by the petitioner under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 read with Section 12 of U.P. Industrial Area Development Act, 1976. The petitioner in his statutory revision has challenged the order dated 06.03.2018 whereby the respondent no. 2 raised demand for time extension charges and denied the benefit of zero period from 28.10.2013 to 15.08.2015. The petitioner is constrained to approach this Hon'ble Court as the respondent no. 1 has not fixed any date for hearing of the statutory revision till date and the respondent no. 2 is threatening to take coercive measures including a levy of penalty and revocation of the lease related to the plot, which was executed on 12.10.2009 by respondent no. 2 in favour of the petitioner. The total cost of the plot in issue at the time of execution of lease deed was Rs. 1500627787/- out of which 10% had been paid by the petitioner.

39. He also stated that after completion of certain formalities the construction was started over the plot leased out by the respondent no. 2 in favour of the petitioner. However, during the course of raising construction and carrying out the development work over the plot in question, some petitions were filed before Hon'ble

National Green Tribunal, Principal Bench, New Delhi (hereinafter referred to as 'NGT') seeking directions to stop construction works undertaken by developers within 10 km. radius of Okhla Bird Sanctuary and on account of certain order passed by NGT, the development work over the plot in question could not be carried out.

40. It is also stated that considering the fact that on account of orders passed by NGT construction work could not be carried out by the developers, the respondent no. 2 framed a policy for declaration of a particular period as 'zero period'.

41. Thereafter, based upon the policy/guidelines for declaring 'zero period', the petitioner made a representation before respondent no. 2, which was rejected in an arbitrary manner vide order dated 06.03.2018 and also issued recovery certificate dated 12.09.2019.

42. He further submitted that in the writ petition 940 of 2017 (Bikram Chatterji and other vs Union of India and others) and others the Hon'ble Supreme Court after considering the plight of home buyers, state of the real estate and exorbitant rate of interest being imposed by the authorities passed order(s) dated 10.06.2020,10.07.2020 and 19.08.2020 and considering the order(s) passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court the petitioner approached the respondent no. 2 for recalculation of dues in the light of the observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. When no decision was taken, the petitioner approached the State Government under Section 41(3) of the Act of 1973, by means of filing of revision on 18.10.2021. The order dated 06.03.2018 and recovery certificate 12.09.2021 are in issue before the State Government in pending revision. Other prayer based upon the orders of the Hon'ble Supreme Court have also been sought in the revision. He also stated that revision before the State Government was filed alongwith the applicants for interim relief. However, till date, neither the revision nor the interim relief application has been desposed of by the State Government.

43. Further, submitted that despite of having knowledge of pendency of revision in issue, the authority concerned is adamant to recover the amount as also proceedings for cancellation of lease executed in favour of the petitioner on 12.10.2009 and if the authority concerned succeeds then in that event the revision petition would be rendered infructuous. He submitted that if the revision or application for interim relief is not decided within stipulated time then the petitioner would suffer irreparable loss and injury.

44. In these circumstances, the indulgence of this court is required.

45. Learned Counsel for the side opposite could not, on the basis of record, could not dispute the aforesaid factual aspect of the case.

46. Considering the entirety of the case and without entering into the merits of the case, opposite party no.1 i.e. Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Infrastructure and Industrial Development, Civil Secretariat, Lucknow, is directed to decide the interim relief application of the petitioner, after providing proper opportunity of hearing to the parties with expedition, say within a period of three months, from the date of receipt of the certified copy of this order, if possible and if there is no other legal impediment. It is also open for opposite party no. 1 to decide the revision petition of the petitioner in the aforesaid period.

47. At this stage, learned Counsel for the petitioner stated that till decision of application for interim relief pending before opposite party no. 1, some protection be provided, as the authority concerned is adamant to take coercive action against the petitioner and in similar circumstances this Court has provided the interim protection, as appears from annexure Nos. 2 to 5, which are the order(s) dated 13.09.2021, 11.02.2019 and 20.09.2021 passed in Matters Under Article 227 No. 4322 of 2021, Writ C No. 4220 of 2019, Writ C No. 23624 of 2019 and Writ C No. 19588 of 2021, respectively.

48. Considering the aforesaid, this Court provides that for a period of three months from today or till the passing of order on interim relief application, which ever is earlier, no coercive action shall be taken against the petitioner.

49. The present petition is disposed of finally in the above terms.

A. Civil Law - Will - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973: Section 145, 146 - The Court observed that where the respondents were in settled possession since the life time of the recorded tenure holder and by virtue of her will they continued with their possession over the land, having been duly mutated after the death of recorded tenure holder as testamentary successors. The use and enjoyment of the property possessed by them could not be disturbed in exercise of power under Section 145/146 of Cr.P.C. by the Sub- Divisional Magistrate. The Executive Magistrate cannot unnecessarily exercise the power and put a clog upon the righteous use and enjoyment of an immovable property, unless a competent court of civil jurisdiction has ordered adversely to his right, title and possession and/or there is and emergent position of dispute between the rival claimant with regard to land's title and possession causing serious breach of peace. List of Cases cited:

1. Sharvan kumar Kaushal Vs Sub Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Utraula, Balarampur & ors. 2021 SCC Online All 782

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Kunvar Srivastav, J.)

1. Heard learned counsels for appellant, Sri Rakesh Kumar and respondent, Sri U.S. Sahai, Advocates.

2. The instant petition in hand is filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India invoking the supervisory jurisdiction of this court over the order dated 30.7.2020 of learned Session Judge of District 'Barabanki' passed in exercise of his revisional power over the order dated 22.10.2020 of S.D.M., Nawabganj under Section 145/146 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973.

3. Briefly stating, the matter is with regard to dispute as to the harvesting of paddy crop in Plot no.950 situated in village Rustampurwa, Khaspariya, District Barabanki between two brothers, natural heirs of recorded owner Late Krishna Kumari wife of Late Sri Shivpal Singh her sons, namely the petitioner Virendra Singh and opposite party no.6, Brijendra Singh with opposite party no.2 to 5, her grand sons, the sons of opposite party no.6. Late Krishan Kumari who died on 14.8.2020 had executed a registered will on 4.7.2013 in her life time bequeathing all her properties movable and immovable to the grand sons opposite parties no.2 to 5. Since, Late Krishna Kumari was residing with her son Brijendra Singh (opposite party no.6) therefore, after the death the grandsons by virtue of the registered will dated 4.7.2013 came into possession of above said plot no.950 as rightful title holder and their name is also mutated in the revenue records in place of recorded tenure holder Late Krishna Kumari on the basis of her will.

4. Petitioner aggrieved from the 'will' dated 4.7.2013 filed a suit for cancellation of the same and for injunction bearing original suit no.1032 of 2020 on 1.10.2020 in the court of Civil Judge Junior Division which is pending for decision. Since he, was allegedly causing interference in use and enjoyment of property to the opposite parties therefore, they approached to the superintendent of Police, 'Barabanki' on 7.10.2020 who referred the matter to the local Police Chowki of Mohammadpur, P.S. Kotwali Nagar. A report was submitted by the Inspector in-charge of the said police post before Sub Divisional Magistrate that a dispute is running between the parties with regard to harvesting of paddy crops and they are made bound of order under Section 107/116 Cr.P.C. The Sub Divisional Magistrate passed order under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. and subsequently under Section 146 Cr.P.C. on 22.10.2020.

5. The order dated 22.10.2020 aforesaid was challenged by the opposite parties no.2 to 6 in revision before the court of District and Sessions Judge, whose decision allowing the revision is under challenge before this Court quoting Section 146 of the Cr.P.C. the learned Sessions Judge has observed:-

"Learned SDM has to record his satisfaction regarding emergency of situation and dilemma to the actual possessor over the disputed property. Learned SDM may exercise the power under Section 146(1) Cr.P.C. only after satisfaction to the emergent situation and unable to satisfy himself regarding the actual possessor of the disputed property. The power under Section 146(1) CrPC may not be exercised without satisfaction of an emergency.

Learned SDM has no jurisdiction to decide the right and title of parties. Any dispute in regard to right and title of the parties may only be decided by the Civil Court. In case of pendency of Civil Suit regarding right and title of parties in spite of issuance of injunction order by the Civil Court, the collateral proceeding under Sections 145, 146 CrPC is not proper.

Learned SDM has passed the order of attachment under section 146(1) CrPC merely on the ground of apprehension to breach of peace. Learned SDM has not recorded any finding or observation in regard to emergent situation. Learned SDM has not exercised jurisdiction properly while passing the impugned order. Mere apprehension of breach of peace is not sufficient for attachment proceeding under Section 146(1) CrPC."

6. To see whether the impugned order passed by the learned Sessions Judge in revision application is illegal or beyond the precedence of law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court and our High Court on the subject two issues required to be carved out in the context of present case.

(i) whether the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate was right in passing order under Section 145(1) and subsequent order under Section 146 of the Cr.P.C.

(2) who just prior to the passing of the order by Sub Divisional Magistrate under Section 145 Cr.P.C. was in possession.

7. The two relevant Section viz. Section 145 and Section 146 of Cr.P.C. are quoted herebelow for the purpose of easy reference in discussion

"145. Procedure where dispute concerning land or water is likely to cause breach of peace.

(1) Whenever an Executive Magistrate is satisfied from a report of a police officer or upon other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within his local jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, on a specified date and time, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

146. Power to attach subject of dispute and to appoint receiver.

(1) If the Magistrate at any time after making the order under sub- section (1) of section 145 considers the case to be one of emergency, or if he decides that none of the parties was then in such possession as is referred to in section 145, or if he is unable to satisfy himself as to which of them was then in such possession of the subject of dispute, he may attach the subject of dispute until a competent Court has determined the rights of the parties thereto with regard to the person entitled to the possession thereof: Provided that such Magistrate may withdraw the attachment at any time if he is satisfied that there is no longer any likelihood of breach of the peace with regard to the subject of dispute.

(2) When the Magistrate attaches the subject of dispute, he may, if no receiver in relation to such subject of dispute has been appointed by any Civil Court, make such arrangements as he considers proper for looking after the property or if he thinks fit, appoint a receiver thereof, who shall have, subject to the control of the Magistrate, all the powers of a receiver appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908);

Provided that in the event of a receiver being subsequently appointed in relation to the subject of dispute by any Civil Court, the Magistrate-

(a) shall order the receiver appointed by him to hand over the possession of the subject of dispute to the receiver appointed by the Civil Court and shall thereafter discharge the receiver appointed by him;

(b) may make such other incidental or consequential orders as may be just."

8. Before discussing the issue no.1, it would be relevant to state about the report of Inspector In-charge of Police Post Mohammadpur, District Barabanki. He reported to the Sub Divisional Magistrate, "the title and possession of Plot No.947 belongs to the petitioner Virendra Singh, plot No.947 to Brijendra Singh and Plot No.950 to Late Krishna Kumari, their mother. The mother Krishna Kumari used to reside with Brijendra Singh. The dispute between the two sons of Late Krishna Kumari is with regard to the harvesting of riped paddy crops from the field of mother, late Krishna Kumari bearing Plot No.950. The paddy is sown by Brijendra Singh in the field of mother. Action under Section 107/116 and 116(3) has been against two rival brothers. Looking into the apprehension of breach of peace in future, he recommended action under Section 145/146 Cr.P.C. also." (Translated from Hindi version)

9. The Sub Divisional Magistrate sitting in judicial side to take decision for action under Section 145 Cr.P.C. has to apply it's mind and to see preliminarily as to which one of the two contesting parties was in actual and factual possession of the subject of dispute prior to the dispute/eviction.

10. Even the report of the local police itself shown the crops in dispute of harvesting were sown by the opposite party no.6 in the field of mother Late Krishna Kumari bearing plot no.950 in dispute. It is also shown in the said report that mother Late Krishna Kumari used to reside with her son Brijendra Singh. So far as apprehension of breach of peace is concerned, the report has also shown that parties to the dispute had been already bound down under Section 107/116 and Section 116 (3) for keeping peace. As such there was no occasion to pass order under Section 145(1) with regard to plot No.950, especially when the civil suit titled by the petitioner for the relief of cancellation of will and permanent prohibitory injunctions was pending for decision. Likewise, there was no occasion to pass order under Section 146(1) Cr.P.C.

11. Possession of the field (Araji Kashtkari) is implicit in the present matter by mutation in Khatauni and in the record of possession the Khasra in place of earlier recorded tenure holder not by natural succession but otherwise by a legal means of transfer by way of the will.

12. Possession of a field (Araji Kashtkari) is also factual and actual by means of peacefully sowing it. Harvesting is later and consequent part of sowing the paddies in the disputed plot no.950 by opposite party no.6 Brijendra Singh, as reported by the local police. If one applies mind over the above said facts which are admitted state of things, there would have no doubt as to the fact who was in actual possession of Arazi No.950 and the subject of dispute at that time of harvesting of crops.

13. The pendency of original suit no.1032/21 in the civil court also does not change the status of possession holder over the land, plot no.950 bequeathed by the recorded tenure holder in favour of her grandsons opposite parties no.2 to 5 and their father, Brijendra Singh (opposite parties no.2). The will was executed and registered far back on 4.7.1973 by the testator Smt. Krishna Kumari who was jointly living with the family of his son Brijendra Singh. The opposite parties no.2 to 6. The will for the purpose of title only has come into effect after the death of testator on 14.8.2020, otherwise factual possession of the plot no.950 of Late Krishna Kumari since her life time by reason of her residing jointly with them. It would be relevant to keep into mind the nature of posthumous transfer by will.

14. Will is a document spells out who should get one's assets after his/her death. It comes into effect and operation after it's maker posthumously and excludes all other natural heirs except the beneficiary under the testament. A will made by a Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jain is governed by the provisions of Indian Succession Act, 1925. It's Section 2 (h) runs as under:-

"Section 2(h) "Will" means the legal declaration of the intention of a testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death."

15. A will is, thus a legal declaration of the intention of a person with respect to his property, which he deserves to take effect after his death. Will has been defined as corpus juris secundum A "Will" is the legal declaration of a person's intention, which he wills to be performed after his death, or an instrument by which a person makes a disposition of his property to take effect after his death. A signed and duly witnessed will whether registered or unregistered will have effect and legal force for implementation of testator's intention after death. There is strong presumption in favour of genuineness of the will. If a party blames the will to be in-genuine by any reason viz. Fraud, forgery, coercion, incapacity or lack of competence or otherwise the initial burden of proof of such disqualification and suspicious circumstance lies on that person in accordance with Section 101 of the Evidence Act, which runs as under.

16. Section 101 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 runs as under:-

"101. Burden of proof.--Whoever desires any Court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts, must prove that those facts exist. When a person is bound to prove the existence of any fact, it is said that the burden of proof lies on that person."

17. Unless will is declared by a competent civil court to be null and void by any reason of suspicion as to it's genuineness, it passes of title and rightful possession to the beneficiary over the property bequeathed to him. The "Civil Court' is the competent court to decide such issues.

18. Summing up the decisions on the two issues carved down hereinabove, the opposite parties no.2 to 5 were in rightful possession of the property plot no.950 aforesaid and there was no occasion for the Sub Divisional Magistrate either for passing preliminary order under Section 145(1) Cr.P.C. or subsequent order under Section 146(1) Cr.P.C.

19. This Court earlier in Sharvan Kumar Kaushal Vs. Sub Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Utraula, Balrampur & Ors. (Misc. Single Writ No.24785 of 2021 decided on October 27, 2021) 2021 SCC Online All 782 has held as under:-

"19. Civil Court, is the only Court to decide the right, title and interest of the parties to have rightful possession over the property so far as Sub Divisional Magistrate's Court (Criminal Court) working under Section 145 Cr.P.C. is concerned, it can only decide possession of the party on the date of dispute. During the pendency of the civil suit with regard to the right, title and interest and right to possession over the property is pending, Criminal proceeding neither can be initiated nor decided prior to the decision of the Civil Court.

20. In Ram Sumer Puri Mahant Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in (1985) 1 SCC 427, it is held:-

"When a civil litigation is pending for the same property wherein the question of possession is involved and the parties are in a position to approach the civil court for interim orders such as injunction or appointment of receiver for adequate protection of the property during pendency of the dispute, there is no justification for initiating a parallel criminal proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. Multiplicity of litigation is not in the interest of the parties nor should pubic time be allowed to be wasted over meaningless litigation. Therefore, the parallel proceeding should not continue and the order of the Magistrate directing initiation of such a proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. must be quashed."

20. The Executive Magistrate cannot exercise the power conferred under Section 145 and 146 Cr.P.C. so as to put a clog upon the righteous use and enjoyment of an immovable property of which the holder is in peaceful and settled possession, unless a competent court of civil jurisdiction has ordered adversely to his right, title and possession and/or there is an emergent position of dispute between the rival claimants with regard to land's title and possession causing serious breach of peace.

21. In the present case where the respondents were in settled possession since the life time of the recorded tenure holder and by virtue of her will they continued with their possession over the land, having been duly mutated after the death of recorded tenure holder as testamentary successors. Thus use and enjoyment of the property possessed by them could not be disturbed in exercise of power under Section 145/146 of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 by the S.D.M.

22. On the discussions made hereinabove, the judgment delivered by learned Sessions Judge in Criminal Revision No.54/2020, (Brijendra Singh Vs. Virendra Singh) does not suffer with error of law and the petition under Article 227 is devoid of legal grounds attracting interference of the Court in the revisional judgment, therefore, the petition deserves to be dismissed.

23. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is dismissed.

3. Ravi Yashwant Bhoir Vs Collector (2012) 4 SCC 407

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava, J.
Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nirmal Singh Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying inter alia the following relief:-

i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to consider the representation of the petitioner and lodge the criminal case against the opposite party no. 5-Pradhan after investigate the matter and seize the powers of the opposite party no. 5 on the basis of submitting false and forged paper and concealment of fact by him in election process.

3. Kishan Pal, respondent no. 5 herein, is the Pradhan of Village Bachgawan, P.O. Bankagaon, Block and P.S. Pasgaon, Tehsil Mohamdi, District Lakhimpur Kheri. The petitioner, it is alleged, is simple, gentle and law abiding person and voter of the said Gram Panchayat. On 20.10.2021 the petitioner lodged a complaint before the State Election Commission, UP, Lucknow to the effect that the respondent no. 5 is not the resident of the village and as such his election to the post of Gram

Pradhan was illegal. It was prayed that action be taken against him.

4. The question is as to whether the petitioner has the locus to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in this case.

5. It is well settled that in order to have the locus standi to invoke certiorari jurisdiction, the petitioner should be an "aggrieved person". If the petitioner does not fall in this category, and is a "stranger", the Court will deny him this extraordinary remedy, save in very special circumstances wherein it may exercise its discretion in favour of the petitioner.

6. In Jasbhai Motibhai Desai v. Roshan Kumar, Haji Bashir Ahmed, (1976) 1 SCC 671, the Apex Court considered the question as to who can be considered as a "person aggrieved" in order to have the locus to invoke certiorari jurisdiction of a writ court and held as under:

"37. It will be seen that in the context of locus standi to apply for a writ of certiorari, an applicant may ordinarily fall in any of these categories: (i) "person aggrieved"; (ii) "stranger"; (iii) busybody or meddlesome interloper. Persons in the last category are easily distinguishable from those coming under the first two categories. Such persons interfere in things which do not concern them. They masquerade as crusaders for justice. They pretend to act in the name of pro bono publico, though they have no interest of the public or even of their own to protect. They indulge in the pastime of meddling with the judicial process either by force of habit or from improper motives. Often, they are actuated by a desire to win notoriety or cheap popularity; while the ulterior intent of some applicants in this category, may be no more than spoking the wheels of administration. The High Court should do well to reject the applications of such busybodies at the threshold.

38. The distinction between the first and second categories of applicants, though real, is not always well-demarcated. The first category has, as it were, two concentric zones; a solid central zone of certainty, and a grey outer circle of lessening certainty in a sliding centrifugal scale, with an outermost nebulous fringe of uncertainty. Applicants falling within the central zone are those whose legal rights have been infringed. Such applicants undoubtedly stand in the category of "persons aggrieved". In the grey outer circle the bounds which separate the first category from the second, intermix, interfuse and overlap increasingly in a centrifugal direction. All persons in this outer zone may not be "persons aggrieved".

39. To distinguish such applicants from "strangers", among them, some broad tests may be deduced from the conspectus made above. These tests are not absolute and ultimate. Their efficacy varies according to the circumstances of the case, including the statutory context in which the matter falls to be considered. These are: Whether the applicant is a person whose legal right has been infringed? Has he suffered a legal wrong or injury, in the sense, that his interest, recognised by law, has been prejudicially and directly affected by the act or omission of the authority, complained of? Is he a person who has suffered a legal grievance, a person "against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully refused him something, or wrongfully affected his title to something?"

Has he a special and substantial grievance of his own beyond some grievance or inconvenience suffered by him in common with the rest of the public? Was he entitled to object and be heard by the authority before it took the impugned action? If so, was he prejudicially affected in the exercise of that right by the act of usurpation of jurisdiction on the part of the authority? Is the statute, in the context of which the scope of the words "person aggrieved" is being considered, a social welfare measure designed to lay down ethical or professional standards of conduct for the community? Or is it a statute dealing with private rights of particular individuals?

49. It is true that in the ultimate analysis, the jurisdiction under Article 226 in general, and certiorari in particular is discretionary. But in a country like India where writ petitions are instituted in the High Courts by the thousand, many of them frivolous, a strict ascertainment, at the outset, of the standing of the petitioner to invoke this extraordinary jurisdiction, must be insisted upon. The broad guidelines indicated by us, coupled with other well-established self-devised rules of practice, such as the availability of an alternative remedy, the conduct of the petitioner etc. can go a long way to help the courts in weeding out a large number of writ petitions at the initial stage with consequent saving of public time and money."

7. In paragraph 5 of the present writ petition, the petitioner has stated his cause of action as follows:

"5. That the petitioner is running pillar to post for his grievance which are also in the large interest of Gram Panchayat as the public fund is utilizing by the wrong person who is not residing in the village Gram Panchayat Bachgawan, Pasgaon Kheri and he is residing at Maholi-Mathura District since last 20-25 years even then the opposite parties are not considering the complaints of the petitioner which is wrong, arbitrary and illegal."

8. As is evident from the facts narrated above, no legal right of the petitioner has been infringed. He is at the most a complainant.

9. In Ravi Yashwant Bhoir v. Collector, (2012) 4 SCC 407, the Apex Court has held that a complainant cannot claim the status of an adversarial litigant and become a party to the lis in the following words:

"58. Shri Chintaman Raghunath Gharat, ex-President was the complainant, thus, at the most, he could lead evidence as a witness. He could not claim the status of an adversarial litigant. The complainant cannot be the party to the lis. A legal right is an averment of entitlement arising out of law. In fact, it is a benefit conferred upon a person by the rule of law. Thus, a person who suffers from legal injury can only challenge the act or omission. There may be some harm or loss that may not be wrongful in the eye of the law because it may not result in injury to a legal right or legally protected interest of the complainant but juridically harm of this description is called damnum sine injuria.

59. The complainant has to establish that he has been deprived of or denied of a legal right and he has sustained injury to any legally protected interest. In case he has no legal peg for a justiciable claim to hang on, he cannot be heard as a party in a lis. A fanciful or sentimental grievance may not be sufficient to confer a locus standi to sue upon the individual. There must be injuria or a legal grievance which can be appreciated and not a stat pro ratione voluntas reasons i.e. a claim devoid of reasons.

60. Under the garb of being a necessary party, a person cannot be permitted to make a case as that of general public interest. A person having a remote interest cannot be permitted to become a party in the lis, as the person who wants to become a party in a case, has to establish that he has a proprietary right which has been or is threatened to be violated, for the reason that a legal injury creates a remedial right in the injured person. A person cannot be heard as a party unless he answers the description of aggrieved party."

10. In Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan v. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 4 SCC 465, the Apex Court has enumerated some of the exceptional circumstances wherein a third person, having no concern with the case, can be heard. Paragraph 23 of the said report being relevant is extracted below:

"23. Thus, from the above it is evident that under ordinary circumstances, a third person, having no concern with the case at hand, cannot claim to have any locus standi to raise any grievance whatsoever. However, in exceptional circumstances as referred to above, if the actual persons aggrieved, because of ignorance, illiteracy, inarticulation or poverty, are unable to approach the court, and a person, who has no personal agenda, or object, in relation to which, he can grind his own axe, approaches the court, then the court may examine the issue and in exceptional circumstances, even if his bona fides are doubted, but the issue raised by him, in the opinion of the court, requires consideration, the court may proceed suo motu, in such respect."

11. The petitioner is admittedly espousing the cause of Gaon Sabha. By no stretch of imagination, can it be said that the Gaon Sabha is unable to approach this Court because of the exceptional circumstances mentioned in the case of Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan (supra).

12. For the foregoing reasons, the petitioner has no locus to invoke the extraordinary writ jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. Accordingly, without entering into the merits of the case, this writ petition is dismissed. No order as to cost.

A. Interpretation of Statute - Limitation - U.P. V.A.T. Act, 2008: Section 29(6), 32 - If second or any subsequent ex-parte assessment order was set aside (under section 32 of the Act), on or before 30th September of an Assessment Year, the limitation to pass a fresh assessment order thereafter, would exist up to 31st March of that Assessment Year. However, if the order to set aside the second or the subsequent ex-parte assessment order was passed on or after 1st October of an Assessment Year, the limitation to pass fresh assessment order would stand extended upto 30th September of the next Assessment Year. (Para 37)

The limitation to pass the fresh/second assessment order/s existed up to the end of the Assessment Year in which such (first) ex-parte assessment order was set aside. Since the first ex-parte assessment order was set aside on 11.01.2013, such limitation existed up to 31.03.2013. However, by virtue of the first proviso to Section 29(6), that limitation stood extended upto 31.09.2013. (Para 35)

1. Heard Sri Nishant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Manu Ghildayal, learned counsel for the Revenue.

2. Originally, the present petition was filed to challenge the notice dated 29.05.2017 issued to the petitioner by its assessing authority, under Section 31 of the U.P.V.A.T. Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act") for the A.Y. 2008-09, seeking to rectify the order dated 22.02.2014 passed by the then assessing authority of the petitioner, under Section 32 of the Act. During pendency of this petition, proceedings pursuant to that notice concluded. Thus, the order dated 21.06.2017 came into existence. Thereby, the assessing authority of the petitioner concluded, the order dated 22.02.2014 and consequentially, the orders dated 18.07.2014 and 3.10.2015 [for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax)] suffered from a mistake apparent on the face of record. The order dated 21.06.2017 has been challenged through amendment made to this writ petition. It may be noted, by composite order dated 18.07.2014 the third ex-parte assessment order had been framed against the petitioner. That ex-parte order had been recalled by the order dated 03.10.2015. Thus, at present, the second composite ex-parte assessment order dated 18.09.2013, framed in the case of the petitioner for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax), has been revived.

3. Briefly, the petitioner is a duly incorporated company. It is a registered dealer engaged in executing works contracts, mainly for the Indian Railways. For the A.Y. 2008-09, it was first subjected to ex-parte assessment orders, all dated 30.6.2012, framed under the Act, the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as the "Central Act") and the Uttar Pradesh Tax on Entry of Goods Act, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as the "Entry Tax Act"). The petitioner filed applications under Section 32 of the Act, to set aside the aforesaid first ex- parte assessment orders dated 30.06.2012. Those applications were allowed by orders dated 11.01.2013. The ex-parte assessment orders dated 30.06.2012 were set aside. Thereafter, on 18.09.2013, the second - composite ex-parte assessment order was framed against the petitioner, for the A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax Act). Thereby, tax was assessed - under the Act, Rs. 18,20,000/-; under the Central Act, Rs. 1,08,40,000/- and under the Entry Tax Act, Rs. 52,01,708/-. Against that order, the petitioner filed (within time), another application under Section 32 of the Act. It was allowed on 22.02.2014 and the aforesaid second-composite ex parte order dated 18.09.2013 was set aside. Consequently, the third - composite ex-parte assessment order came to be framed against the petitioner for the A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax), on 18.07.2014. Upon further application filed by the petitioner under Section 32 of the Act, that ex-parte assessment order was also set aside by order dated 03.10.2015. Apparently, no further assessment order/s was/were framed in the case of the petitioner for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax) up to 30.09.2016. Thereafter, those assessment proceedings became time barred.

4. In these facts, on 19.12.2017, the petitioner was served with an ex-parte order dated 16.08.2016 passed under Section 31 of the Act referable to the power of the assessing authority to rectify mistakes apparent on the face of the record - in the order dated 22.02.2014 i.e., the order passed under Section 32 of the Act, to recall the second - composite ex-parte assessment order for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax). Therein, the petitioner's assessing authority took a view that the order dated 22.02.2014 had been passed outside the prescribed period of limitation to frame a fresh/second assessment order. It was therefore, time barred. Consequently, the assessing authority also passed order under Section 32 of the Act (referable to the power of the assessing authority to recall an ex-parte order), and dismissed the further applications filed by the petitioner to recall the order dated 18.09.2013. If sustained, those orders would attach finality to the second - composite ex-parte assessment order dated 18.09.2013.

5. That order dated 16.08.2016, was challenged by the petitioner in Writ Tax No.97 of 2017 (M/S Ansaldo STS Transports System India Pvt. Ltd. Noida Vs. State of U.P. And 3 Others). It was allowed vide order dated 21.2.2017. For ready reference that order is quoted below:

"We have heard Sri Nishant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri C.B. Tripathi, the special counsel for the State.

An ex parte assessment order was passed on 18.09.2013 for the year 200809. The said ex parte assessment order was set aside by the order dated 22.02.2014, on the ground that it was an ex parte order and no notice was given to the petitioner.

Subsequently, assessment order of 18.07.2014 the petitioner again moved recall application which was allowed and the ex parte assessment order dated 18.07.2014 was set aside by an order dated 03.10.2015. Subsequently, the Assessing Authority passed ex parte two orders dated 16.08.2016. One of them is purported to an order under Section 31 of the U.P Vat Act, 2008 modifying the earlier order.

In paragraph 41 of the writ petition, it has been stated that the impugned orders passed under Section 31 & 32 are ex parte orders without issuing any notice to the petitioner and without giving any opportunity of hearing.

Sri C.B. Tripathi, learned counsel for the State upon instructions received to him and upon a perusal of the impugned order fairly concedes that the impugned orders have been passed ex parte without giving opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

It is settled law that when an order has been passed and if the same requires modification, it is necessary for the Assessing Authority to issue a notice and give an opportunity of hearing before recalling the order or modifying the said order. Since the same was not given the impugned orders are clearly in violation of the principles of natural justice as embodied under Article 143 of the Constitution of India.

Consequently, without going into any other grounds, we allow the writ petition at the admission stage itself.

We quash the impugned orders at the admission stage itself without calling for a counter affidavit.

The writ petition is allowed.

It would be open to the Assessing Authority to pass fresh order after giving due notice and opportunity of hearing to the petitioner."

6. Thereafter, the petitioner's assessing authority issued fresh/impugned notice to the petitioner, on 29.05.2017, under Section 31 of the Act, again seeking to rectify the order dated 22.02.2014. No other order was sought to be set-aside or rectified. By the impugned order dated 21.06.2017, the assessing authority has reasoned, since the limitation to frame the second assessment order for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax), expired on 30.09.2013, the order dated 22.02.2014 passed thereafter, was beyond the time limitation prescribed under Section 29(6) of the Act. Hence, the further assessment proceedings (reopened in the case of the petitioner) for the A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax) were void-ab-initio. Consequently, he has cancelled the subsequent orders dated 18.07.2014 & 03.10.2015. Thus, the second - composite ex-parte assessment order dated 18.09.2013, for A.Y. 2007-08 (U.P., Central, and, Entry Tax) has been revived and rendered final.

7. Relying on the provisions of Section 31, 32 & 29(6) of the Act, learned counsel for the petitioner first submitted, the order dated 21.06.2017 was passed well beyond the statutory period of three years prescribed under Section 31(1) of the Act. It is time barred. Then, it is his submission, while allowing the earlier writ petition vide order dated 21.02.2017, this Court did not grant or create any fresh period of limitation as may have allowed the assessing authority to pass any order under Section 31 of the Act, beyond the original period of limitation that expired on 22.02.2017. In the context of suo moto exercise of power, the limitation of three years must be computed from the date 22.02.2014 when the order sought to be rectified was passed. In absence of consent or waiver by the petitioner, such limitation did not exist/survive. Therefore, the order dated 21.06.2017 is wholly time barred, for reason of it being passed after the date 22.02.2017.

8. Reliance has been placed on a division bench decision of this Court in the case of CST Vs. Sukhlal Ice & Cold Storage Co., 2008 NTN (Vol. 36) 30, wherein, a co-ordinate bench had, in the context of pari materia provisions of Section 22 of the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948, held - power to rectify any order could be exercised suo-motu, by the competent authority/Court within a period of three years from the date of such order being passed.

9. Next, reliance has also been placed on a five-Judge Constitution bench decision of the Supreme Court in Padma Sundara Rao (Dead) & Ors. Vs. State of T.N. & Ors., (2002) 3 SCC

533 to submit, a Writ Court could not, and, in the present facts, it did not create any fresh period of limitation, while allowing the petitioner's earlier writ petition on 21.2.2017.

10. Then, reliance has been placed on another five-Judge Constitution bench decision of the Supreme Court in Supdt. Of Taxes, Dhubri & Ors. Vs. Onkarmal Nathmal Trust, (1976) 1 SCC 766 to submit, jurisdiction could neither be waived nor created and that, issue of notice under the provisions of an Act relates to exercise of jurisdiction. In the present facts, the limitation expired on 22.02.2017. The notice dated 29.05.2017, issued thereafter was wholly without jurisdiction.

11. Also, reliance has been placed on another decision of the Supreme Court in Baswaraj & Anr. Vs. Special Land Acquisition Officer, (2013)14 SCC81 to submit, the Courts cannot extend the period of limitation that had otherwise expired.

12. Next, reliance has been placed on a seven-Judge Constitution bench decision of the Supreme Court in P. Ramachandra Rao Vs. State of Karnataka, (2002) 4 SCC 578, to submit, the Court cannot legislate - specifically, to provide for the period of limitation, that may otherwise not exist.

13. In view of the above law, a distinction has been claimed to the ratio in Director of Inspection of Income Tax (Investigation), New Delhi and Another Vs. Pooran Mal & Sons and Another, (1975) 4 SCC 568. Therein, the bar of limitation was found to have been specifically waived by the assessee. It has been thus submitted, in absence of any consent or waiver granted by the present petitioner, the bar of limitation exists in the undisputed facts of the present case.

14. With reference to the decision in the case of the Supreme Court in Grindlays Bank Limited Vs. Income Tax Officer, Calcutta & Ors., (1980) 2 SCC 191, it has been submitted, the said decision may not come to the aid of the revenue in face of the clear position of law arising from the larger/Constitution bench decision of the Supreme Court.

15. Then, with respect to the decision of another coordinate bench of this Court, in the case of S.K. Traders Vs. Additional Commissioner 2007 NTN (Vol. 34) 345, it has been similarly submitted, that decision is also distinguishable. According to learned counsel for the petitioner, the correct position of law was laid down in another division bench decision of this Court in Ram Nivas Vs. State of U.P. and Others (2019) SCC OnLine All 3537. Therein, after taking note of the entire gamut of law, the division bench applied the law laid down by the Constitution bench of the Supreme Court, in Padma Sundara Rao (supra) and distinguished the ratio arising from the decision of the Supreme Court in Director of Inspection of Income Tax Vs. Pooran Mal (supra) and the division bench decision of this Court in S.K. Traders (supra).

16. Further, it has been submitted, even otherwise, the order dated 22.02.2014 did not suffer from any mistake apparent from the face of record. Reliance has been placed on a decision of the Supreme Court in Deva Metal Powders (P) Ltd. Vs. CTT (2008) 2 SCC 439 to submit, a debatable question cannot be subjected to proceedings to rectify a mistake apparent from the face of record.

17. Last, it has been submitted, the limitation to frame the third and all subsequent assessment order/s in consequence of order/s passed under Section 32 of the Act, would be the same as prescribed to frame the second assessment order, under Section 29(6) of the Act read with the first and the second provisos thereto. The order to set-aside the first ex-parte orders (dated 30.06.2012) was passed on 11.01.2013. Therefore, the limitation to frame the fresh/second assessment order existed up to 30th September 2013. The second - composite ex-parte assessment order was framed on 18.09.2013. Upon the application to set aside that assessment order/s filed within time, the assessing authority did not commit any jurisdictional error in setting aside that order on 22.02.2014. Occasioned by that order, the limitation to pass the fresh/third assessment order/s for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and Entry Tax), existed up to 30.09.2014. The third composite assessment order was framed on 18.07.2014. Similarly, upon a further application filed by the petitioner (within time), under section 32 of the Act, the assessing authority did not commit any mistake in setting aside that order on 03.10.2015.

18. Opposing the writ petition, learned standing counsel for the revenue has strongly urged - in the present case, the order dated 28.07.2017 did not suffer from any lack of limitation. This Court had clearly permitted the assessing authority to pass a fresh order in accordance with law. That direction had been issued by this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Therefore, indisputably, the consequential notice was issued within reasonable time therefrom i.e., almost within three months. Hence, the bar of limitation claimed by the petitioner, did not exist, or arise. He would also submit, by virtue of the second proviso to section 29 (6) of the Act, the limitation to frame the third assessment order (after the second - composite ex-parte assessment order had been set aside), would stand curtailed to the balance period of limitation that survived on the date of the second ex-parte assessment order being framed i.e., up to 30.09.2013, only. Therefore, the application to set aside the second - composite ex-parte assessment order dated 18.09.2013 could not be allowed after the date 30.09.2013.

19. In short, it has been submitted, in absence of surviving period of limitation to frame a fresh assessment order, the order seeking to recall the second - composite ex-parte assessment order could not be passed, beyond the date 30.09.2013. Consequentially, the order dated 22.02.2014 setting aside the second - composite ex-parte assessment order dated 18.09.2013 was wholly time barred and therefore lacking in jurisdiction. Hence, the assessing authority has not committed any error in setting aside such order. That mistake was clearly a mistake apparent on the face of record.

20. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, as to the first limb of submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, it is true, there was no express consent given or waiver granted by the petitioner and no such consent or waiver may be inferred from a plain reading of the order dated 21.02.2017 passed in Writ Tax No. 97 of 2017. Therefore, that part of the ratio of the decision of the Supreme Court in Director of Inspection of Income Tax Vs. Pooran Mal & Sons (supra) is inapplicable to the facts of the present case. However, this reasoning was taken note of in Grindlays Bank Limited Vs. ITO (supra). It may be discussed a little later.

21. At the same time, the five-Judge Constitution bench decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Padma Sundara Rao (Dead) Vs. State of Tamil Nadu and Ors. (supra) had arisen on different facts and law. There, an issue had arisen, whether upon the High Court having set aside the earlier declaration made under Section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act 1894, any fresh or further period of limitation existed or could be claimed under Clause (ii) of the first proviso to Section 6 (1) of that Act. For ready reference, provisions of Section 6 of that Act are quoted below:

"6. Declaration that land is required for a public purpose.

(1) Subject to the provisions of Part VII of this Act, when the appropriate Government is satisfied, after considering the report, if any, made under section 5A, subsection (2), that any particular land is needed for a public purpose, or for a Company, a declaration shall be made to that effect under the signature of a Secretary to such Government or of some officer duly authorized to certify its orders and different declarations may be made from time to time in respect of different parcels of any land covered by the same notification under section 4 subsection (1), irrespective of whether one report or different reports has or have been made (wherever required) under section 5A subsection (2)

Provided that no declaration in respect of any particular land covered by a notification under section 4 subsection (1) -

(i) published after the commencement of the Land Acquisition (Amendment and Validation) Ordinance, 1967 but before the commencement of the Land Acquisition (Amendment) Act, 1984, shall be made after the expiry of three years from the date of the publication of the notification; or

(ii) published after the commencement of the Land Acquisition (Amendment) Act, 1984, shall be made after the expiry of one year from the date of the publication of the notification:

Provided further that no such declaration shall be made unless the compensation to be awarded for such property is to be paid by a Company, or wholly or partly out of public revenues or some fund controlled or managed by a local authority.

Explanation. - In computing any of the periods referred to in the first proviso, the period during which any action or proceeding to be taken in pursuance of the notification issued under section 4 subsection (1), is stayed by an order of a Court shall be excluded."

22. Considering that language of the proviso to Section 6 of the Land Acquisition (Amendment) Act, 1894 and the complete absence of any statutory remedy of appeal etc. provided against a declaration made under Section 6 of the Act, the Supreme Court reasoned - it was a distinctive feature viz-a-viz Section 132(5) read with Section 132 (11) of the Income Tax Act, 1961. It was held, under the Income Tax Act, a power existed to remit a case to the original authority or, for a fresh order to be passed. Thus, besides the distinction arising on account of lack of consent or waiver granted by the petitioner (in that case), it was recognized, even otherwise, the period of limitation may survive in the context of a proceeding under Section 132 (5) of the Income Tax Act. Thus, it was observed as under:

"Learned counsel for the respondents referred to some observations in Pooran Mal case [(1975) 4 SCC 568 : 1975 SCC (Tax) 346 : (1975) 2 SCR 104] which form the foundation for decisions relied upon by him. It has to be noted that Pooran Mal case [(1975) 4 SCC 568 : 1975 SCC (Tax) 346 : (1975) 2 SCR 104] was decided on entirely different factual and legal backgrounds. The Court noticed that the assessee who wanted the Court to strike down the action of the Revenue Authorities on the ground of limitation had himself conceded to the passing of an order by the Authorities. The Court, therefore, held that the assessee cannot take undue advantage of his own action. Additionally, it was noticed that the time-limit was to be reckoned with reference to the period prescribed in respect of Section 132(5) of the IT Act. It was noticed that once the order has been made under Section 132(5) within ninety days, the aggrieved person has got the right to approach the notified authority under Section 132(11) within thirty days and that authority can direct the Income Tax Officer to pass a fresh order. That is the distinctive feature vis-à-vis Section 6 of the Act. The Court applied the principle of waiver and inter alia held that the period of limitation prescribed therein was one intended for the benefit of the person whose property has been seized and it was open to that person to waive that benefit. It was further observed that if the specified period is held to be mandatory, it would cause more injury to the citizens than to the Revenue. A distinction was made with statutes providing periods of limitation for assessment. It was noticed that Section 132 does not deal with taxation of income. Considered in that background, ratio of the decision in Pooran Mal case[(1975) 4 SCC 568 : 1975 SCC (Tax) 346 : (1975) 2 SCR 104] has no application to the case at hand."

23. That view had been taken by the Supreme Court in its earlier decision in Grindlays Bank Limited Vs. ITO (supra) in the context of a proceeding under the Income Tax Act, 1961. Therein, after taking note of its earlier decision in Director of Inspection of Income Tax (Investigation), New Delhi and Another Vs. Pooran Mal & Sons (supra), with reference to an assessment order passed consequent to an earlier direction issued by the High Court, in writ jurisdiction, the Supreme Court reasoned as under:

"7. .....Ordinarily, the High Court does not substitute its own order for the order quashed by it. It is, of course, a different case where the adjudication by the High Court establishes a complete want of jurisdiction in the inferior court or tribunal to entertain or to take the proceeding at all. In that event on the quashing of the proceeding by the High Court there is no revival at all. But although in the former kind of case the High Court, after quashing the offending order, does not substitute its own order it has power nonetheless to pass such further orders as the justice of the case requires. When passing such orders the High court draws on its inherent power to make all such orders as are necessary for doing complete justice between the parties. The interests of justice require that any undeserved or unfair advantage gained by a party invoking the jurisdiction of the court, by the mere circumstance that it has initiated a proceeding in the court, must be neutralised. The simple fact of the institution of litigation by itself should not be permitted to confer an advantage on the party responsible for it. The present case goes further. The appellant would not have enjoyed the advantage of the bar of limitation if, notwithstanding his immediate grievance against the notice under s. 142(1) of the Income Tax Act, he had permitted the assessment proceeding to go on after registering his protest before the Income Tax Officer, and allowed an assessment order to be made in the normal course. In an application under section 146 against the assessment order, it would have been open to him to urge that the notice was unreasonable and invalid and he was prevented by sufficient cause from complying with it and therefore the assessment order should be cancelled. In that event, the fresh assessment made under section 146 would not be fettered by the bar of limitation. Section 153(3)(i) removes the bar. But the appellant preferred the constitutional jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226. If no order was made by the High Court directing a fresh assessment, he could contend as is the contention now before us, that a fresh assessment proceeding is barred by limitation. That is an advantage which the appellant seeks to derive by the mere circumstance of his filing a writ petition. It will be noted that the defect complained of by the appellant in the notice was a procedural lapse at best and one that could be readily corrected by serving an appropriate notice. It was not a defect effecting the fundamental jurisdiction of the Income tax Officer to make the assessment. In our opinion, the High Court was plainly right in making the direction which it did. The observations of this court in Director of Inspection of Income Tax (Investigation), New Delhi vs. Pooran Mall & Sons are relevant. It said:

"The court in exercising its powers under Article 226 has to mould the remedy to suit the facts of a case. If in a particular case a court takes the view that the Income Tax Officer, while passing an order under section 132(5), did not give an adequate opportunity to the party concerned it should not be left with the only option of quashing it and putting the party at an advantage even though it may be satisfied that on the material before him the conclusion arrived at by the Income Tax Officer was correct or dismissing the petition because otherwise the party would get an unfair advantage. The power to quash an order under Article 226 can be exercised not merely when the order sought to be quashed is one made without jurisdiction in which case there can be no room for the same authority to be directed to deal with it. But, in the circumstances of a case, the court might take the view that another authority has the jurisdiction to deal with the matter and may direct that authority to deal with it or where the order of the authority which has the jurisdiction is vitiated by circumstances like failure to observe the principles of natural justice, the court may quash the order and direct the authority to dispose of the matter afresh after giving the aggrieved party a reasonable opportunity of putting forward its case. Otherwise, it would mean that where a court quashes an order because the principles of natural justice have not been complied with, it should not while passing that order permit the tribunal or the authority to deal with it again irrespective of the merits of the case."

The point was considered by the Calcutta High Court in Cachar plywood Ltd. v. Income Tax Officer and the High court, after considering the provisions of section 153 of the Income Tax Act, considered it appropriate, while deposing of the writ petition, to issue a direction to the Income Tax Officer to complete the assessment which, but for the direction of the High court, would have been barred by limitation." (emphasis supplied)

24. the Supreme Court in Padma Sundar Rao (Dead) Vs St. of Tamil Nadu (supra) is material and pertinent to the facts of the present case, as well. In the context of an order passed under Section 32 of the Act, there clearly existed a remedy of appeal under Section 55 of that Act. In such appeal (where preferred), by virtue of Section 55 (5)(b)(ii) of the Act, the appellate authority would be vested with jurisdiction and power to set aside the order impugned before it and to direct the assessing authority to pass a fresh order, after conducting such inquiry as may be specified by the appeal authority. For ready reference, provisions of Section 55 of the Act may be noticed as under:

Section 55. Appeal

(1) Any dealer or other person aggrieved by an order made by the assessing authority, other than an order mentioned in subsection (7) of section 48 may, within thirty days from the date of service of the copy of the order, after serving a copy of appeal memo on the assessing authority or the Commissioner, appeal to such authority (hereinafter referred to as appellate authority), as may be prescribed:

Provided that where due to any reason, any appellant fails to serve a copy of appeal memo on the assessing authority before filing appeal, he may serve copy of such appeal memo within a time of one week from the date on which appeal has been filed or within such further time as the appellate authority may permit.

(2) Where an appeal has been filed against an order referred to in subsection (1), the Commissioner may apply to the appellate authority to examine the legality and propriety of such order on such point as may be mentioned in the application. A copy of such application shall be served on the appellant and shall be decided along with the appeal filed by the appellant:

Provided that no application for examination of legality and propriety shall be entertained after the disposal of appeal:

Provided further that where the Commissioner has filed an application, the appellant shall not be entitled to withdraw appeal filed by him.

Explanation For the purposes of this section Commissioner includes an officer authorised to file appeal on behalf of the Commissioner before the Tribunal under section 57.

(3) No appeal against an assessment order under this Act shall be entertained unless the appellant has furnished satisfactory proof of the payment of the amount of tax or fee due under this Act on the turnover of sale or purchase, or both, as the case may be, admitted by the appellant in the tax returns filed by him or at any stage in any proceedings under this Act, whichever is greater.

(4)The appeal shall be in the prescribed form and shall be verified in the prescribed manner.

(5)The appellate authority may, after calling for and examining the relevant records and after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the appellant and the Commissioner

(a) in the case of an order of assessment and penalty.

(i) confirm or annul such order ; or

(ii)vary such order by reducing or enhancing the amount of assessment or penalty, as the case may be, whether such reduction or enhancement arises from a point raised in the grounds of appeal or otherwise ; or

(iv) direct the assessing authority to make such inquiry and to submit its report within such time as may be specified in the direction or within such extended time as it may allow from time to time, and on the expiration of such time the appellate authority may, whether the report has been submitted or not decide the appeal in accordance with the provisions of the preceding sub-clauses; or

(b) in the case of any other order

(i) confirm, cancel or vary such order; or

(ii) set aside the order and direct the assessing authority to pass a fresh order after such inquiry as may be specified:

Provided that nothing in this subsection shall preclude the appellate authority from dismissing the appeal at any stage with such observations as it deems fit where the appellant applies for withdrawal of the same and no request for examination of legality or propriety of order under appeal has been made by the Commissioner.

(6) The appellate authority, may, on the application of the appellant and after giving the Commissioner a reasonable opportunity of being heard stay, except the operation of order appealed against, the realisation of the disputed amount of tax, fee or penalty payable by the appellant till the disposal of the appeal :

Provided that -

(i) where an order under appeal involves dispute about tax, fee or penalty, no stay order shall remain in force after thirty days from the date on which the same has been granted, if the appellant does not furnish security to the satisfaction of the assessing authority for payment of the amount, the realisation whereof has been stayed within the aforesaid period of thirty days;

(ii) no such application shall be entertained unless it is filed along with the memorandum of appeal under subsection (1);

(7) Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963, shall apply to appeals or other applications under this section.

(8)The appellate authority shall be under the superintendence and control of the Commissioner:

Provided that in the exercise of such superintendence and control, no order, instructions or directions shall be given by the Commissioner so as to interfere with the discretion of the Appellate Authority in the exercise of its appellate functions.

(9) For the purposes of this section service of an order passed by appellate authority under this section and service of memo of appeal on the State Representative, as defined in the rules framed under this Act, shall be deemed to be service on the Commissioner.

(10) All appeals arising out of the same cause of action in respect of an assessment year, as far as possible, shall be heard and decided together."

25. Thus, it cannot be disputed, the petitioner had a remedy of appeal against the orders dated 16.08.2016. Therefore, it also cannot be further disputed, if those appeals had been filed, the appellate authority would have been within its jurisdiction to set aside the orders dated 16.08.2016 on a reasoning similar to that adopted by this Court, in its order dated 21.02.2017. The consequence of such a finding would naturally be - the matter would have been remitted to the assessing authority to pass a fresh order. Merely because the petitioner chose to approach this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India against the order dated 16.08.2016, it can never be said, the petitioner was entitled to any better or other relief or rights.

26. It would have been one thing if while quashing the order dated 16.08.2016, this Court had found, the said order suffered from an inherent lack of jurisdiction. In that case, there would be no question or occasion for any further proceedings to arise. That is not the case here. On the contrary, the order dated 21.02.2017 passed by this Court distinctly records - the order dated 16.08.2016 was laconic on account of non-compliance of the rules of natural justice. Logically therefore, that order was found competent in jurisdiction, but defective on procedural aspects.

27. Looked in that light, the further direction issued by the Court requiring the assessing authority to conduct fresh proceeding in accordance with law clearly is an order that drew on the inherent powers of this Court, consistent to the statutory scheme arising from the plain language of Section 55 (5)(b)(ii) of the Act. Therefore, that further direction would inhere in and it would automatically attach to the order passed by the Writ Court. The rule of expiry of limitation to pass the impugned order dated 21.06.2017 (invoked by the petitioner), has no applicability to the present facts.

28. Next, the ratio of the five-Judge Constitution bench of the Supreme Court in Supdt. Of Taxes, Dhubri & Ors. Vs. Onkarmal Nathmal Trust (supra) is also inapplicable and distinguishable to the facts of the present case. There an issue arose, if assessment notices could be first issued beyond the statutory period prescribed. The State contended, the stay/injunction against the assessment proceedings protected the statutory period of limitation. Rejecting that objection, the Supreme Court reasoned, an injunction order did not amount to waiver of the statutory provisions. Further, issuance of notice to assess was held to be related to exercise of jurisdiction. Only the conduct or continuance of the assessment proceedings was stayed/injuncted but not the exercise of jurisdiction to undertake that journey. That not done during the available limitation, the assessment notices subsequently issued were found not protected on principle of waiver or consent. Illustratively, it was held in paragraph 28 to 30 of that decision, as below:-

"28. In the present case, the respondent cannot be said to have waived the provisions of the statute. There cannot be any waiver of a statutory requirement or provision which goes to the jurisdiction of assessment. The origin of the assessment is either an assessee filing a return as contemplated in the Act or an assessee being called upon to file a return as contemplated in the Act. The respondents challenged the Act. The order of injunction does not amount to a waiver of the statutory provisions. The issue of a notice under the provisions of the Act relates to the exercise of jurisdiction under the Act in all cases. Revenue statutes are based on public policy. Revenue statutes protect the public on the one hand and confer power on the State on the other.

29. The decision in William Shepard v. O.E.D. Barron on which the Solicitor general relied for the proposition that the constitutionality of a rule of assessment can be waived does not have any application in the present case. In the American decision (supra) an objection against the frontage rule of assessment for a public improvement, prescribed by the State laws, was not allowed to be urged to defeat the collection of the assessments. The reason was that the abutting owners who petitioned for the improvement under the Act, actively participated in carrying out the work, recognized the justice of the assessments from time to time during its progress, and signed a statement for the purpose of inducing the issuance and purchase of country improvement bonds to the effect that the work had been properly done. In the American decision the work was done at the instance and request of the owners. The Court found an implied contract arising from facts that the party at whose request and for whose benefit the work had been done would pay for it in the manner provided for by the Act under which the work was done.

30. It is against principle to suggest that the appellants did anything wrong or, they are taking advantage of anything wrong Jessel, M.R. In Re. Hallett's Estate Knatchbull v. Hallett said:

Now, first upon principle, nothing can be better settled, either in our own law, or, I suppose, the law of all civilised countries, than this, that where a man does an act which may be rightfully performed, he cannot say that act was intentionally and in fact done wrongly.

The respondents were entitled to impeach the statue under which they were made liable. The respondents have done no wrong. The respondents are not taking any advantage of any act of theirs. The State was entitled to resist the respondents. The State did so by contending that the Act was valid, but the State took no steps during the pendency of the litigation to take directions from the Court to serve notices of demand upon the appellants to keep alive the right of the respondents." (emphasis supplied)

29. In the present case, undisputedly, the prior notices leading to the orders dated 16.08.2016 were issued well within time. Those were not quashed by this Court in Writ Tax No. 97 of 2017. Such notices were therefore valid. Thus, the jurisdiction had been exercised within time prescribed by law. Upon the resulting orders dated 16.08.2016 being set aside by this Court on 21.02.2017 and, the matter being remitted to the assessing authority, strictly, there did not arise an issue or question of jurisdiction being exercised outside limitation. Therefore, the ratio in Supdt. Of Taxes, Dhubri & Ors. Vs. Onkarmal Nathmal Trust (supra) is wholly inapposite.

30. As already discussed above, owing to completely dissimilar legislative scheme under the Act and the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, the reasoning obtaining with respect to limitation to conduct proceedings in remand under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 is wholly inapplicable to the facts of the present case. Thus, the ratio obtaining in Baswaraj & Anr. Vs. SLAO (supra) as also the division bench decision of the Court in Ram Nivas Vs. State of U.P. and Others (supra), are wholly distinguishable and inapplicable to the present case.

31. Consequently, the ratio in the seven-Judge Constitution Bench decision of the Supreme Court in P. Ramachandra Rao Vs. State of Karnataka (supra) relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner to submit - limitation cannot be created and the Court cannot legislate to fill up casus omissus is found to be distinguishable in the context of the clear and undisputed facts of the present case discussed above and the clear language of the provisions of Section 32 read with Section 29(6) of the Act.

32. For the above reasons, we do not find the proceedings instituted by notice dated 29.05.2017 or the consequent order dated 28.07.2017 to be lacking in inherent jurisdiction, on account of the bar of limitation.

33. As to the next submission of learned counsel for the petitioner, there can be no two opinions on the issue. A disputed or debatable question cannot be gone into in a proceeding seeking to rectify a mistake apparent on the face of record. Such a mistake or error must be glaring or self-apparent and not one that may be established upon elaborate argument or debate. This principle was recognized and applied in the context of taxation laws in Thungabhadra Industries Ltd. Vs. The Government of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1964 SC 1372. It has been consistently followed and applied in T.S. Balram Vs. Volkart Bros. (1971) 2 SCC 526 (SC) and CIT Vs. Hero Cycles Pvt. Ltd. (1997) 8 SCC 502, amongst others. Applying that rule, we now consider the reasoning adopted by the assessing authority - the limitation to pass the order to recall the second composite ex-parte order would be the balance period of limitation that survived upon the second-composite ex-parte assessment order being passed on 18.09.2013 i.e., up to 30.09.2013 only. Here, it would be apposite to take note of the language of Section 29(6) and Section 32(1) of the Act. For ready reference, Section 32(1) of the Act reads as under:

*"Section 32. Power to set aside ex-parte order of assessment or penalty

(1) In any case in which an order of assessment or reassessment or rejection of application for registration or order of penalty is passed ex-parte, the dealer may apply to the assessing authority within thirty days of the service of the order to set aside such order and reopen the case; and if such authority is satisfied that the applicant did not receive notice or was prevented by sufficient cause from appearing on the date fixed, it may set aside the order and reopen the case for hearing:

Provided that no such application for setting aside an ex-parte assessment order shall be entertained unless it is accompanied by satisfactory proof of the payment of the amount of tax to be due under this Act on the turnover of sales or purchases, or both, as the case may be, admitted by the dealer in the returns filed by him or at any stage in any proceeding under this Act, whichever is greater".

34. Then, Section 29(6) of the Act reads as under:

"29. Assessment of tax of turnover escaped from assessment. (6). Where an order of assessment or re-assessment has been set aside by the assessing authority himself under section 32, a fresh order of assessment or re-assessment may be made before expiry of the assessment year in which such order of assessment or reassessment has been set aside:

Provided that if an order of assessment or re-assessment made ex parte is set aside on or after first day of October in any assessment year, fresh order of assessment or re-assessment may be made on or before thirtieth day of September of the assessment year succeeding the assessment year in which such ex parte order of assessment or re-assessment was set aside.

ssessment is made ex parte and where such second or subsequent ex parte order of assessment or reassessment is to be set aside and a fresh order of assessment or reassessment may be made within the time aforementioned when the first ex parte order is set aside."

35. Thus, in the first place, under the Section 29(6) of the Act, the limitation to pass the fresh/second assessment order/s existed up to the end of the Assessment Year in which such (first) ex-parte assessment order was set aside. Since the first ex-parte assessment order was set aside on 11.01.2013, such limitation existed up to 31.03.2013. However, by virtue of the first proviso to Section 29(6), that limitation stood extended up to 30.09.2013. It was so because of the language of the first proviso to Section 29(6) of the Act and the fact the order dated 11.01.2013 was passed after the cut-off date 1st October day of the A.Y. 2013-14, prescribed under Sub-Section (6) of Section 29 of the Act.

36. The second proviso to Section 29(6) of the Act is only clarificatory. It enforces that rule of limitation as exists under Section 29(6) of the Act read with the first proviso thereto, to all the subsequent assessment orders that may be passed, upon further orders to set aside any/all subsequent or successive ex-parte assessment order/s. Thus, the limitation to pass the fresh assessment order/s after setting aside the second, third, fourth or any other subsequent ex-parte assessment order would be determined applying the rule contained in Section 29(6) of the Act read with the first proviso thereto. The second proviso to Section 29(6) of the Act does not prescribe a new or different period of limitation.

37. Thus, as explained above, if the second or any subsequent ex-parte assessment order was set aside (under Section 32 of the Act), on or before 30th September of an Assessment Year, the limitation to pass a fresh assessment order thereafter, would exist up to 31st March of that Assessment Year. If, however, the order to set aside the second or the subsequent ex-parte assessment order was passed on or after 1st October of an Assessment Year, the limitation to pass the fresh assessment order would stand extended up to 30th September of the next Assessment Year.

38. Clearly, the above rule is a rule of prudence and procedure to ensure compliance of rules of natural justice and to ensure a minimum time of six months to the concerned assessing authority, to conclude an assessment proceeding/s, reopened upon an earlier ex-parte assessment order being set aside under Section 32 of the Act. Unless that reasonable time is allowed, the power/authority of such an assessing authority to pass a third or other subsequent assessment order would be defeated. Also, an undue benefit would arise to the concerned assessee, unintendedly as no assessment order may come to be framed in his case, owing to absence of time.

39. At the same time, the exercise of power to set aside an ex parte assessment order, is statutorily governed by provisions of Section 32(1) of the Act. It has been quoted above. Plainly, that provision does not provide for any period of limitation to pass the order on an application filed to recall an ex parte assessment order. It only prescribes for a fixed limitation of thirty (30) days (computed from the date of service), to file an application to recall an ex-parte assessment order.

40. That provision does not restrict the right of an assessee to seek recall of an ex parte assessment order, only once or twice, with respect to an Assessment Year. In fact, the statute contemplates or allows the assessee to seek recall of each and every ex parte assessment order, every time such an order comes into existence, irrespective of and, unaffected by the fact that the assessee may have suffered such an ex parte assessment order, for that Assessment Year, many times earlier. Thus, every time an ex parte assessment order was framed against the petitioner, for the A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax), a right accrued to the petitioner to seek its recall, subject to the condition that such application seeking recall be filed within thirty (30) days of service of such an ex parte order.

41. There is nothing in the language of Section 32 and/or Section 29(6) of the of the Act as may be read to introduce a time limit on the power of the assessing authority to deal with and/or allow an otherwise validly filed application. In the instant case, it is not even alleged by the revenue that the application filed by the petitioner to recall the ex parte order dated 18.09.2013 was filed beyond thirty (30) days of that order being served. Therefore, it may be safely assumed that that application was filed in time. Consequently, it had to be dealt with and decided on its own merits, unaffected by any other or further consideration of limitation to frame a fresh assessment order. That stage had not yet arrived. That limitation would arise under Section 29(6) of the Act, only in the event and at the stage of the application filed under Section 32 being allowed. It would be governed by Section 29(6) (read with the first proviso thereto), of the Act.

42. Thus, both for reason of grammar as also to keep the provision workable, the interpretation made by the assessing authority and as canvassed by the learned Standing Counsel cannot be accepted. An interpretation that makes the provision unworkable or leads to absurd results must always be rejected. In view of the above, we find that the assessing authority had not committed any mistake less so a mistake apparent on the face of record in passing the order dated 22.02.2014.

43. The last date to pass the second-composite ex-parte assessment order was 30.09.2013. That order was passed within time, on 18.09.2013. At the same time, those dates and facts did not limit the exercise of power of the assessing authority to set-aside that second-composite ex-parte order, on or before the date

30.09.2013. There being no allegation of the application dated 21.02.2014 filed beyond the period of thirty days from the date of service of the order dated 18.09.2013, the order dated 22.02.2014 was wholly within time.

44. As noted above, no limitation was prescribed under Section 32 of the Act - to pass an order on an application filed within time, under that Section, to recall the second-composite ex parte assessment order dated 18.09.2013, for the A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and Entry Tax). Therefore, the order dated 22.02.2014 was not time barred, on any count.

45. The time limitation to pass the subsequent/third set of assessment order/s arose under Section 29(6) of the Act only upon the order dated 22.02.2014 being passed. That limitation arose with reference to that date, under Section 29(6) read with the first and the second provisos thereto. As discussed above it existed up to 30.09.2014. Hence, the surviving period of limitation to pass the second set of assessment orders was wholly extraneous to the issue involved in this case.

46. Consequently, the ratio in CST Vs Sukhlal Ice & Cold Storage Co. (supra), is also irrelevant to the issue before us. Therefore, the reasoning offered by the assessing authority purportedly to rectify the order dated 22.02.2014 is wholly unacceptable and contrary to law. Consequently, that order has not been shown to suffer from any mistake apparent from the face of record. No other reason has been stated in the order dated 28.07.2017 or canvassed in the Counter Affidavit, to justify the recall of the orders dated 22.02.2014, 18.07.2014 and 03.10.2015.

47. The fact that in the instant case the assessment proceedings for A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax) became time barred on 30.09.2016 or that no assessment order came to be passed in the case of the petitioner and therefore taxable transactions performed by the petitioner may have remained from being assessed, is of no concern to this Court, in the facts of the present case. In a proverbial cat-and-mouse game enacted by the revenue and the taxpayer, the Writ Court sits an umpire. It may be guided strictly by the law alone. Equity has less or no role to play. Therefore, it is not for us to judge if the "mouse' deserved to be caught by the "cat'. If the "cat' has been lazy or mistaken, so be it. The "mouse' lives. We may only ensure strict adherence to the rule of law. That done, the fact that revenue has suffered a loss due to an error on its part, falls outside the domain of this Court, in these proceedings. Remedial action lies elsewhere.

48. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 21.06.2017 passed under Section 31 of the Act, for the A.Y. 2008-09 (U.P., Central and, Entry Tax), is hereby quashed. The writ petition succeeds and is accordingly allowed. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Naveen Srivastava, J.)

1. The present criminal appeal under Section 374 (2) of Cr.P.C. has been filed against the judgement and order dated 04.05.2016 passed by Special Judge (POCSO)/Additional Sessions Judge, Etawah in Sessions Trial/Special Case No. 26 of 2014 (State Vs. Sheetal) convicting the appellant Sheetal to ten year rigorous imprisonment under Section 376 (2) (Jha) I.P.C. with fine of Rs. 10,000/- Further, accused-appellant Sheetal has been convicted under Section 506 I.P.C and sentenced to two years imprisonment. Accused-appellant also convicted under Section 4 POCSO Act and sentenced to seven years imprisonment with fine of Rs. 5,000/-.

2. In brief the prosecution case is as follows:-

On 25.06.2021, the victim/prosecutrix aged about 5 years, was playing outside of her house, at about 09:30 am accused induced her and committed rape on her in the field of Kushal Pal. The victim has reported the incident to one Man Singh. Man Singh and Robbin brought the victim to her house, where she narrated everything to her parents. Blood was also found on the underwear of the victim.

3. The matter was reported to the police and on the basis of written complaint of the informant Baburam (PW2), F.I.R. on 25.06.2014 at about 10:30 am was registered.

4. PW5 Chandraprakash Bhatt, Investigating officer took up the investigation, victim was sent for medical examination. On conclusion of the investigation, Police submitted the charge sheet against the accused under Sections 376 (2) (Jha), 506 I.P.C. and under Section 4 POCSO Act.

5. After framing of charge against accused under Sections 376 (2) (Jha), 506 I.P.C. & Section 4 POCSO Act, he was put for trial. Trial was concluded after recording the statements as many as seven witnesses.

6. PW1 is the victim herself.

7. PW2 is the informant and grand-father of the victim.

8. PW3 is the doctor who medically examined the victim on 25.06.2014 and furnished a report Ex. Ka2 and Ka3. PW4 is the Investigating Officer who submitted the charge sheet in this case, PW6 is the uncle of the victim and PW7 is the constable Moharrir who reduced the contents of the F.I.R. in G.D.

9. Accused-appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. denied the occurrence and alleged false implication and in support thereof produced DW1 and DW2. They also denied the occurrence having been taken place.

10. Trial court after evaluating the evidence on record, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as above.

11. Heard Sri Vishwanath Vishwakarma, learned counsel for the appellant and Dr. S. B. Maurya assisted by Sri Ansuman Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant in support of appeal contended that there are contradictions in the statements of the victim, her grand-father (PW2) and PW6. It is also submitted that medical evidence on record does not corroborate the charges against the accused-appellant. He also contended that hymen of the prosecutrix was found to be intact and no live spermatozoa was found on the person of the victim, so it cannot be said that offence of rape was committed on her.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant canvassed that prosecution have failed to establish the necessary ingredients for the offence under the POCSO Act. The Special Court could not have relied on any presumption available under the provisions of POCSO Act especially ignoring the defence that accused-appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case because of certain property dispute.

14. Learned A.G.A. in support of the impugned judgement contends that it is settled law that in a case of rape/penetrative sexual assault, the consistent testimony of prosecutrix would be sufficient to bring in the guilt of the accused and courts except in rarest of rare cases should not seek corroboration of the prosecutrix testimony. He also argued that it is also settled that primacy must be given to the prosecutrix testimony over the medical evidence in the event they are at variance with each other.

15. He further submitted that in the present case the victim has made allegations against accused-appellant for committing penetrative assault on her and her clear and cogent evidence would suffice to establish the ingredients both under Sections 376 (2) (Jha) of I.P.C. and Section 4 of POCSO Act, therefore, the impugned judgement of Special Court is neither perverse nor contrary to law.

16. In light of rival submissions made on behalf of learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A., the question which arises for consideration is (Whether Special Court finds that prosecution has established the accused-appellant culpability for punishment under the provisions of Sections 376 (2) (Jha) I.P.C. and Section 4 of the POCSO Act is either perverse or otherwise contrary to law).

17. In view of the grounds urged above, it would be helpful to refer the law elucidated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as regards the appreciation of evidence of the victim as well as minor victim, in cases where the accused is charged with the offence of rape/penetrative sexual assault.

Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Sanjay Kumar @ Sunny (2017) 2 SCC 1: (AIR 2017 SC 463) has held that:-

"It is well settled that the testimony of a victim in cases of sexual offences is vital and unless there are compelling reasons which necessitate looking for corroboration of a statement, the courts should find no difficulty to act on the testimony of the victim of a sexual assault alone to convict the accused. No doubt, her testimony has to inspire confidence. Seeking corroboration to a statement before relying upon the same as a rule, in such cases, would literally amount to adding insult to injury. The deposition of the prosecutrix has, thus, to be taken as a whole. Needless to reiterate that the victim of rape is not an accomplice and her evidence can be acted upon without corroboration. She stands at a higher pedestal than an injured witness does. If the court finds it difficult to accept her version, it may seek corroboration from some evidence which lends assurance to her version. To insist on corroboration, except in the rarest of rare cases, is to equate one who is a victim of the lust of another with an accomplice to a crime and thereby insult womanhood.

As regards the appreciation of a minor victim's testimony, it has been held thus:-

"By no means, it is suggested that whenever such charge of rape is made, where the victim is a child, it has to be treated as a gospel truth and the accused person has to be convicted. We have already discussed above the manner in which testimony of the prosecutrix is to be examined and analysed in order to find out the truth therein and to ensure that deposition of the victim is trustworthy. At the same time, after taking all due precautions which are necessary, when it is found that the prosecution version is worth believing, the case is to be dealt with all sensitivity that is needed in such cases. In such a situation one has to take stock of the realities of life as well."

The evidence on record will have to be appreciated in light of the above settled legal propositions.

18. The incident has occurred on 25.06.2014 in the morning at about 09:30 am, the victim narrates the incident to her grand-father, when she came to her house. The F.I.R. was lodged at around 10:30 a.m. on the same day and the victim was sent for her medical examination. These circumstances, indicate that victim parent despite being grief-stricken have acted with alacrity. In fact the PW2 the informant has stated in his statement that victim related the incident on enquiry.

19. After ascertaining that victim was aged about 6 years and competent to give her statement before the Court below, the trial court recorded her statement in which she explained how the accused-appellant taken her to the field and removed her under garments and penetrate on her, she felt pain and cried. She also stated that bleeding started but accused-appellant tried to rape her closing her mouth with her under garments. She further stated that she was also bitten by the accused-appellant.

The victim PW1 who was about five years of age at the time of incident, could not know the significance or the implication of the expressions such as a sexual intercourse or rape or such other expressions has described, what happened to her.

20. It is seen that F.I.R. had been lodged with the jurisdictional police station in the most natural circumstances and victim has been consistent in her statement right from the time she related the incident to informant PW2, she not only consistent in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. before the Investigating Officer but deposed in similar lines before the court below, thus her statement about the incident is consistent and cogent and cannot be termed unbelievable.

21. PW3 Dr. Jaya Srivastava, who examined the victim has stated that hymen was ruptured and fresh bleeding was present. As per pathological report the dead or alive sperm was not found but examination of the internal part of the victim shows some sexual act has been done. According to PW3 at the time of internal examination of the victim, fresh bleeding @ clots present.

22. I have carefully examined the report of the F.S.L. where the vaginal Swab of the victim and accused were scientifically examined. As per F.S.L. report the blood stains were found on the wearing apparels of the victim and underwear of the accused spermatozoa and semen was found present. Ex. Ka2 F.S.L. report suggest that seminal stains were found on the underwear.

23. PW4 Dr. Rajeev Kumar Gupta who medically examined the victim has stated before the Court that at the time of her medical examination-

(I) An abrasion 1.0 cm. X 1.5 cm. present on base of tongue and floor of mouth red.

(II) No other visible mark of injury (external) is present.

(III) Profuse bleeding per vaginum present.

The medical report which was furnished by the Dr. PW3 suggest that child has undergone some sexual assault.

24. No suggestion was put to the victim at the time of her cross-examination that immediately before the incident, she had occasioned to play and and sustained injury by falling down in course of her play in agriculture field without which such vaginal injury could not be sustained by the victim because it was the definite statement of the victim that she forcefully sexually assaulted by the accused-appellant.

25. It is grossly contended by learned counsel for the appellant that since hymen of the prosecutrix was found to be intact and no spermatozoa was found on her private part, no offence of rape is made out.

26. It would be relevant here to refer the explanation, for our present purpose, appended to Section 375 I.P.C. The explanation reads as follows:-

"Explanation-Penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape."

The consistent view of the Apex Court in this regard is that even the slightest penetration is sufficient to make out an offence of rape and depth of penetration would be inconsequential.

27. In the present case the victim has given the statement that accused-appellant dis-robed her waist below and tried to penetrate which she described as (Ganda Kam), causing her pain and she started bleeding from her private part.

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Parminder @ Ladka Pola Vs. State of Delhi (2014) 2 Supreme Court Cases 592 in a case arising from a similar incident in the year 2001, referring to its earlier decision in Wahid Khan Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2010) 2 SCC 9 has referred to an extract from Modi on Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology (Twenty First Edition) and held as follows:-

"Thus, to constitute the offence of rape it is not necessary that there should be complete penetration of penis with emission of semen and rupture of hymen. Partial penetration of the penis within the Labia majora or the vulva or pudenda with or without emission of semen or even an attempt at penetration is quite sufficient for the purpose of the law. It is, therefore, quite possible to commit legally the offence of rape without producing any injury to the genital or leaving any seminal stains." Section 375, IPC, defines the offence of "rape' and the Explanation to Section 375, IPC, states that penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape. This Court has accordingly held in Wahid Khan v. State of Madhya Pradesh [(2010) 2 SCC 9] that even the slightest penetration is sufficient to make out an offence of rape and depth of penetration is immaterial. In the aforesaid case, this Court has relied on the very same passage from Modi in Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology.

This enunciation as regards what amounts to penetration to constitute an offence of Rape would continue to apply even after the Amendment Act of 2013 by which the provisions of Section 375 of I.P.C. are substituted. The provisions of Section 375 of I.P.C. are substituted. The provisions of section 375 of I.P.C., prior to amendment stipulated that a person is said to have committed Rape, subject to exceptions provided therein, when such person has intercourse with a woman under the circumstances described therein. The 1 Explanation to this unamended Section 375 of I.P.C. stipulated that penetration, without defining the expression penetration, would be sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary for an offence of Rape. After amendment by the Amendment Act of 2013, section 375 of I.P.C. stipulates that a man is said to commit Rape under four circumstances mentioned in sub-clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d) thereof, and sub-clause (a) reads, "penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a woman or makes are to do so with him or any other person. The expression penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina ..... ., in the light of the victim's consistent and cogent evidence that the appellant-accused inserted his male organ in the victim's pudendum and pushed himself to penetrate would constitute Rape as contemplated under Section 375 of I.P.C. as well as Penetrative Sexual Assault as contemplated under Section 3 of the provisions of the POCSO Act."

29. PW2 the informant who is grand-father of the victim in his statement stated that victim reported the incident and the F.I.R. was lodged on the very same day after a written report Ex. Ka1 was escribed by Rajeev Yadav. During his entire cross-examination, PW2 could not be dented as regards the incident.

I do not find any material contradiction as regards the sequence of the occurrence as also the identity of accused-appellant.

30. The settled proposition of law is that even statement of victim in a case of rape has to be critically appreciated with utmost sensitivity keeping in view the broader probability of the incident. It is understood when a self respected woman like the victim would come forward in a Court to make a humiliating statement against her honour such as is involved in the commission of rape on her it is beyond of imagination that parents of the victim would manufacture a false case at the cast of assassinating the character of their own daughter though victim was a minor girl but in any rate she is woman with all attributes showing modest to her.

31. So far as the plea of alibi is concerned, it is argued on behalf of appellant that on the date of occurrence he was on duty in another village and in support of his contention DW1 and DW2 have also been examined as defence witness, they deposed that accused-appellant was present at that time in Village Pathakpura.

32. The plea of alibi reflected under Section 11 of the Evidence Act. It has been held in number of citations such as Narendra Singh Vs. State of M.P. (2004) 10 SCC 699 that- "Strict proof is required to prove the alibi and burden is upon the accused." It has further been held that- "accused must provide the strict proof of impossibility of the presence of the accused at the place of occurrence at the time of incident."

In Doodh Nath Pandey Vs. State of U.P., AIR 1981, SC 911, the Apex Court has laid-down-

"The plea of alibi succeeded only if it is shown that the accused was so far away at the relevant time that he could not be present at the place where the crime was committed. Distance thus would be material factor in the matter of acceptability of plea of alibi."

33. In the present case the accused-appellant was present in the adjoining village and it was not such a great distance that it would be impossible for the accused-appellant to be absent at the place of occurrence when the incident took place. In these circumstances, the testimonies of DW1 and DW2 do not inspire confidence as the testimony of PW1 the victim has undoubtedly established the incident which also finds corroboration from the medical evidence as well as testimony of PW2.

In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, accused-appellant had taken plea that to grab his land, one Rajeev Yadav, Corporator in collusion with the informant has falsely implicated him in the present case but the details of such property had not been given by the accused-appellant. So in the absence of any proof of hostility between the parties, it would be very difficult to believe that accused-appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case.

34. In view of the above discussions, I am impressed to hold that victim was violated by the accused-appellant in the field which she not only narrated to her parents but also disclosed the same before the Court below. The evidence tendered by the victim that she was sexually assaulted by the accused has been corroborated by the evidence tendered by the doctor. I have, therefore, no doubt that the prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubts. The trial Court has considered all the probable aspects of the case after critically evaluating the evidence adduced in this case. I find sufficient reason to uphold the conviction of the appellant.

35. The appeal lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

36. The impugned judgement/order dated 04.05.2016 of the trial court is hereby confirmed.

37. Let a certified copy of the judgement/ order along with lower court record be sent to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal has been preferred against the impugned judgment and order dated 3.7.2018, passed by Special Judge, Anti-Corruption/Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut, in Criminal Case No.08 of 2013 (State vs. Sunil Chaudhary) arising out of Case Crime No.1146 of 2013, under Section 7, 13(1)(d) read with Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (herein after referred to as 'the Act, 1988'), Police Station-Loni, District-Ghaziabad, by which the appellant was convicted and sentenced for a period of four years and fine of Rs.15,000/- under Section 7 of the Act, 1988 and for a period of five years and Rs.15,000/- fine under Section 13(2) of the Act, 1988 with imprisonment in default of fine. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. Brief facts of this case are that on 6.6.2013, a case was registered against the appellant-Sunil Chaudhary on the basis of first information report (Ex.ka10), according to which, the appellant was lekhpal and posted in Tehsil-Loni, District-Ghaziabad as a public servant. One Sonepal had applied through an application for measurement of his land and the said application was given to concerned Sub Divisional Magistrate. On 4.6.2013, complainant-Pramod Sharma submitted an application in the office of Anti-corruption, Meerut, stating that his cousin-Sonepal had moved an application to SDM for measuring his land. That application was sent to lekhpal-Sunil Chaudhary. On 3.5.2013, he met with lekhpal, but he demanded Rs.50,000/- as bribe for measurement of the land. Again on 1.6.2013, he met with lekhpal, but he told that he will not make the measurement unless he has given Rs.50,000/-. After bargaining, lekhpal was ready to take Rs.30,000/- as bribe and said that he should talk to him on 6.6.2013. It is said in first information report that complainant did not want to give the bribe, but wanted that lekhpal should be caught red-handed. After recording the statement of complainant, Inspector G.S.Chauhan was directed to conduct pre-trap exercise. Shri Chauhan submitted report that general reputation of lekhpal is of a corrupt public servant. Team for trap was organized and District Magistrate, Ghaziabad, was contacted to make two independent witnesses available. District Magistrate nominated Shri Raj Singh Yadav, DIOS Ghaziabad, and directed that he should take one of his subordinates with him as witness. Shri Raj Singh Yadav took Shri Tasleen with him from the office of DIOS. Trap-team led by Deputy S.P.-Ravindra Pal Singh Tomar, went to the place of occurrence where complainant met with the team. Complainant handed over Rs.30,000/-, consisting of 60 notes of Rs.500/- to D.S.P., who noted the numbers of currency notes. Constable Anand Swaroop applied chemical powder on the notes. After that above notes were handed over to the complainant with the direction that these notes will be given to the lekhpal on his demand. Hands of constable Anand Swaroop and the complainant were made to wash separately in the liquid of sodium-carbonate and the colour of water turned pink, which was filled in separate bottles and sealed.

3. It was told by the complainant that lekhpal has called him at about 01:00 p.m. in front of Abhinandan Vatika, trap-teem took the position near Abhinandan Vatika. At about 1:15 p.m., he came there in Swift Car bearing No.UP14BR1105. Complainant reached to the lekhpal and asked him to conduct the measurement of his land. Lekhpal demanded Rs.30,000/- as bribe as decided earlier. Complainant handed over the notes, which were treated with the chemical. Trap-team surrounded lekhpal at once. Lekhpal tried to flee away, but he was caught 15 steps away from the car at about 1:30 p.m. and treated 60 notes of Rs.500/- were recovered from his right hand. On the basis of above report, Case Crime No.1146 of 2013 was registered against the appellant.

4. Report was received from Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra, according to which in the sample liquid contained in bottles, sent for chemical examination, sodium-carbonate and phenolphthalein was found. This report is Ex.ka16 on record. After investigation, Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet against the appellant-lekhpal under Section 7/13 (1) d and 13 (2) Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988.

5. Learned trial court framed charges against the appellant under Section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Section 13(1) d and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. Learned trial court, after conclusion of trial, convicted the appellant for the aforesaid charges and sentenced as stated earlier. Hence, this appeal.

6. Heard Shri Aishwarya Pratap Singh, learned Advocate, assisted by Shri Munna Pandey, learned counsel for the appellant, Shri S.S.Sachan, learned AGA appearing on behalf of State and perused the record.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that appellant has been falsely implicated in this case by the complainant due to annoyance. The work of measuring the land was not in the work-domain of the appellant. He has revealed this fact in writing to his superior officers. He further argued that the work of measurement of land was to be conducted by a three-member committee and not by lekhpal alone. Therefore, when the work of measurement was not in work-domain of the appellant, there was no question for demanding any bribe. He further submitted that prosecution has failed to prove that any demand of bribe was made by the appellant. It is also submitted that prosecution witnesses have given contradictory statements regarding the dates of demand. It is next argued by counsel for the appellant that story of trapping was narrated by prosecution witnesses, but it is also contrary to the statements of each other. Manner of arrest on the spot is also told differently by prosecution witnesses. Learned counsel contended that in fact, appellant refused for measurement of land because it was not within his work-domain and due to that reason, complainant misunderstood that appellant is in connivance with the other party. Hence, complainant falsely implicated the appellant.

8. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that all the witnesses of fact have supported the prosecution case. Minor discrepancies in the statements of witnesses are bound to occur when statements were recorded after a lapse of time, but overall story is the same. It is also submitted that recovery of Rs.30,000/- treated notes was made from the possession of the appellant, which is not a small amount. It is next submitted that Mahaveer Prasad (PW6), Revenue Inspector at the time of occurrence, has proved that the application of complainant's brother, namely, Sonepal was sent to appellant-lekhpal in writing. Therefore, it is proved that work had to be conducted by the appellant only. Therefore, there was no question of false implication. Moreover, laboratory report has also supported the prosecution case. As far as demand is concerned, it is a matter between two persons. Learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant. Hence, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

9. First of all, learned counsel for the appellant has raised the argument with regard to the demand of bribe. It is stated by learned counsel for the appellant that it was a matter of measurement of land of complainant's brother, but this work was not in the domain of appellant. A three-members committee does this work and complainant's land was also measured by forming a three-members committee. PW1 has categorically stated that SDM formed the committee consisting of Ayub Khan (Lekhpal), Rakesh Sharma (Lekhpal) and Mahaveer (Kanoongo), which recorded their statements also. Therefore, it is very much natural when the work of measurement was not to be conducted by the appellant, there was no question of demand of bribe.

10. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that prosecution witnesses have failed to establish the date of aforesaid demand. In this regard, PW1-complainant Pramod Sharma has stated in his statement that he met with appellant in connection with measurement of land for the very first time in May, 2013, but he could not tell that before or after how many days of date 15th of the month, he met with the appellant. In his examination-in-chief, the complainant-Pramod Sharma (PW1) has said that he met with appellant on 1.6.2013 while in cross-examination, he said that he met with him in the month of May, 2013. Learned counsel also submitted that complainant has also said in his statement that he did not meet with any person of anti-corruption department between 1.6.2013 and 6.6.2013 while Ravindra Pal Singh Tomar (PW2), the then Deputy S.P. of Anti-Corruption Department has said that complainant met him on 4.6.2013. In this way, prosecution has measurably failed to establish and prove the factum of demand of bribe by the appellant and when demand is not there, prosecution case does not stand anywhere.

11. Learned counsel submitted a legal argument that demand is sine qua non to constitute the offence under the provisions of Prevention of Corruption Act. Learned counsel referred the case law of B.Jayaraj vs. State of A.P. [2014 SC (supp.) 1837] and submitted that it is held by Hon'ble Apex Court that insofar as the offence under Section 7 is concerned, it is settled position of law that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non to constitute the said offence and mere recovery of currency notes cannot constitute the offence under Section 7 of the Act unless it is proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused voluntarily accepted the money knowing it to be a bribe.

12. Learned counsel argued that since demand is sine qua non to constitute the offence, in the absence of demand, no case is made out against the appellant and learned trial court convicted and sentenced the appellant without sufficient evidence and without the ingredients of the offence.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that from the prosecution evidence at the worst case, it can be said that currency-notes were recovered from the appellant, but this alone does not constitute the offence. To bring home the charges levelled against the appellant, the prosecution is required to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused/appellant had demanded the illegal gratification and accepted the same voluntarily. This argument of learned counsel for the appellant is legally correct. Kerala High Court in C.M.Girish Babu vs. CBI Cochin, 2009 (3) SCC 779 has also upheld this view. In Surajmal vs. State (Delhi Administration) 1979 (4) SCC 725, Hon'ble Apex Court held that mere recovery of tainted money divorced from the circumstances under which it is paid not sufficient to convict the accused when the substantive evidence in the case is not reliable. The mere recovery by itself cannot prove the charge of the prosecution against the accused, in the absence of any evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the accused voluntarily accepted the money knowing it to be bribe.

14. In this regard, the statement of PW6 is very important. PW6 was posted as Revenue Inspector, Tehsil-Loni, District-Ghaziabad, in the month of May, 2013, who has stated in his statement that the Paper No.8ka/2, the application of Sonepal, which was received by him from Hanuman Prasad Maurya (Tehsildar) in connection with measurement of the land. He has also stated that he had sent this application to the appellant-Sunil Chaudhary on 8.5.2013 through dak-bahi and lekhpal-Sunil Chaudhari put his signature by receiving this application in dak-bahi at serial No.486. Although, it is in the evidence of SDM (PW8) that he formed a committee of three-members subsequently for measurement of the land yet the statement of PW6 cannot be overlooked for the purpose of application moved for measurement was handed over to appellant to get the work done, therefore, occasion arose for appellant to raise the demand of greasing the palm. Thus, the contention of counsel for the appellant that particular work for which the bribe was demanded, was not in work-domain of the appellant does not exist. As far as, the argument regarding the discrepancies in the dates of demand is concerned, these minor discrepancies do not make the issue of demanding the bribe unbelievable because it is a general phenomenon of human memory that one cannot repeat the things in mechanical manner. It does not make any difference if the PW1 could not ascertain the exact date of demand of bribe whether it was in the month of May, 2013 or on the date of 1st June, 2013 because the crux of the matter is that complainant (PW1) categorically stated that demand was raised by the appellant and in his cross-examination also nothing is extracted which proves fatal regarding the issue of demand. Evidence of a witness should be seen and considered in its entirety and not in piecemeal. In my considered opinion, the evidence of PW6 corroborates the evidence of complainant-PW1, who is public servant and it is established that appellant had reason to make the demand, which is positively stated by PW1 that it was raised.

15. It is also argued by counsel for the appellant that application moved for measurement of land was given by Sonepal, who is cousin of complainant, but entire exercise of trapping was carried out at the behest of complainant and Sonepal was not even produced in evidence while he was the prime witness. In this regard, it is in the evidence of PW1 that he had purchased some land from Sonepal so he had interest in measurment of the land because the erstwhile purchaser of the portion of land from Sonepal had encroached the land due to which application for measurement was given to the concerned SDM.

16. It is next argued on behalf of appellant that prosecution witnesses have failed to corroborate each-other's statement regarding the scene of crime and arrest of the appellant. In this regard, it is submitted that PW1 does not say in his statement that he sat inside the car of the appellant at the time of transaction of money, but PW2 says that the complainant sat inside the car. Moreover, PW1 has categorically stated that at that time A.C. of the car was on, but PW2 has said that at that time, glasses (windows) of car were open. If it was so then this statement of PW1 falsifies that A.C. of the car was on. These contradictory statements show that nothing had happened there. There are two versions of the same story. It is also submitted that Raj Singh Yadav (PW4), who is said to be an independent witness, has specifically stated in his statement that he could not hear the conversation between the complainant and the appellant. Hence, it is clear from the aforesaid statement of PW4 that no person was in a position to hear the conversation between them and in this situation, it cannot be said by prosecution that the appellant made any demand from the complainant and complainant gave any money to the appellant.

17. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that as per site-plan and even on the basis of statements of witnesses, place of occurrence is almost in front of Police Station-Loni. Hence, it is not possible for any person to fix the place for taking the bribe in front of any police station. Moreover, the place of occurrence is not established by prosecution because if it was in front of police station then no police personnel came on the spot and no police personnel of that police station was produced in evidence as it is not in evidence that any police personnel came out from police station when such type of trapping was led by the team. If it was the place of occurrence, it is very busy place, but no public witness is there.

18. These arguments regarding place of occurrence do not convince this Court as it is in evidence of witnesses that police station was 150-200 steps away from the place of occurrence and moreover, when trap-team set the trap, it was not necessary for police personnel to come on the spot because it is not the prosecution case that team contacted or informed the said police station prior to setting the trap.

19. Now, it comes the question of voluntary acceptance of bribe by the appellant. In this regard, perusal of first information report (Ex.ka10) itself shows that it is mentioned in this report that when trap-team caught the appellant then treated 60 notes of Rs.500/- were recovered from his right-hand. Ravindra Pal Singh Tomar (PW2), the then DSP, has also stated in his statement that from his right-hand, Rs.30,000/- were recovered and these were the same notes, which were treated before laying the trap. Hence, when treated-notes were recovered from the hand of the appellant and that too 15-20 steps away from his car then it is itself proved that he accepted the money voluntarily.

20. Recovery of Rs.30,000/- from the possession of appellant at the place of occurrence is not at all doubted. There is ample evidence on record that at the time of apprehending the appellant, the amount of Rs.30,000/- was recovered from his right-hand and these were the same currency-notes, which were treated before giving to him as a bribe. Report received from Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra (Ex.ka.16) states that in the sample of liquid sent for chemical examination, sodium-carbonate was found. This liquid was result of washing the hands of appellant and due to application of powder on currency-notes, which were to be given as bribe. Demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non to constitute the offence under the Act. Mere recovery of currency-notes also itself does not constitute the offence under the Act, 1988, unless it is proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused-appellant voluntarily accepted the money, knowing it to be bribe. But, in the facts of the present case, I am of the opinion that both the above ingredients of offence under Sections 7 and 13 (1) (d) (ii) of the Act, 1988, are completely satisfied and proved as discussed above.

21. With the above discussion, this Court comes to the conclusion that in this case demand of illegal gratification on the part of the appellant is proved and it is also proved that he accepted it, voluntarily. It is also proved that at the time of apprehending him, the same treated-notes worth Rs.30,000/- were recovered from his right hand.

22. Hence, the learned trial court has rightly appreciated the evidence on record. There is no infirmity or illegality in the impugned judgment. The appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

23. The appeal is dismissed, accordingly.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 13.4.2016 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Kannauj in Sessions Trial No.144 of 2009 convicting accused-appellant under Sections 498 & 302 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.25,000/- under Section 302 of I.P.C. and under Section 498A, sentenced him to undergo 2 years and 6 months rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in case of default of payment of fine, further to undergo six months imprisonment.

2. Factual scenario as culled out from the record and the judgment of the Court below is that the complainant lodged a complaint that his daughter was married with accused-appellant namely Sunil Kumar Diwaker on 28.4.2008. After she went to matrimonial home, she was being harassed for dowry. On the fateful day, she was sent back to matrimonial home on 28.10.2008, again accused demanded money and gold chain. She was set ablaze by pouring kerosene on her despite the fact that she was pregnant. She was subjected to all kinds of mental harassment. The child in the womb was also declared dead and, therefore, the parents of the deceased decided to see that the accused are brought to trial. The complainant lodged the complaint.

3. Investigation was moved into motion. After recording statements of various persons, the investigating officer submitted the charge-sheet against accused under 498A & 304 B of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (in short 'D.P. Act'). The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate before whom charge sheet was laid put the same before the learned Sessions Judge. The learned Sessions Judge, on hearing the learned Government Advocate and learned counsel for the accused, framed charges under Section 498A, 304B, 302/34 of I.P.C. & Section 4 of D.P. Act.

4. On being summoned, the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined 9 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Ramsaran	PW1
2	Rajrani	PW2
3	Jitendra	PW3
4	Surendra Kumar Sharma	PW4
5	Dr. Anil Nigam	PW5
6	Sameer Verma	PW6
7	Dr. G.N. Dwivedi	PW7
8	Indrajeet Singh	PW8
9	Ram Swaroop	PW9

5. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.8
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka.2
4	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.6
5	Site-plan	Ex.Ka.10
6	Charge-sheet	Ex.Ka.11

6. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellants as mentioned aforesaid.

7. Heard Sri Amar Singh Kashyap and Sri Ashwani Prakash Tripathi, learned counsel for accused-appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

8. It is submitted by learned counsel for accused-appellant that the accused is in jail since 2008, more particularly from 19.12.2008. The deceased was the wife of the accused-appellant. It is submitted that the deceased caught fire while burning the fire crackers and in saving her, the accused also sustained burn injuries in his hand; that both the deceased and accused sustained burn injuries and admitted to Hallet Hospital Kanpur where after giving her statement before the Magistrate, the Smt. Renu died.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that dying declaration is not worth believing and it is an admitted position of fact that she died out of septicemia.

10. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that most of the witnesses have turned hostile despite that, learned Sessions Judge has convicted him under Section 302 of I.P.C. As far as conviction under Section 498A of IPC is concerned, he has completed the period of incarceration. It is submitted that there is no evidence of demand of dowry in the dying declaration which was the sole base of the case and that neither any specific charge was framed against the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. nor any evidence was led to that effect by any of the witnesses and, therefore, conviction under Section 302, could not have been recorded.

11. In support of the his submission, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on Khokan@ Khokhan Vishwas v. State of Chattisgarh, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 80, Banarsi

Dass and Others v. State of Haryana, Bhadragiri Venkata Ravi v. Public Prosecutor High Court of A.P., Hyderabad, (2013) 0 Supreme (SC) 511, Surinder Kumar v. State of Haryana, 2011 LawSuit (SC) 1149, Arvind Singh v. State of Bihar, 2001 (3) Supreme 570, Kashmira Devi v. State of Uttarakhand and others, (2020) 11 SCC 343, Smt. Rama Devi v. State of U.P., (2018) 102 ACrC 105, Misri Lal v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2017) 7 ADJ 14, Sanjay and others v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2016) 3 SCC 62, Manoj Kumar v. State of U.P., (2019) 1 ADJ 221. In alternative, it is submitted that at the most punishment can be under Section 304 II or Section 304 I of I.P.C. If the Court feels, as the accused have been in jail for more than 17 years without remission, they may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration.

12. Learned A.G.A. for the state has vehemently submitted that facts of this case will not permit the Court to convert the sentence to that under Section 304 Part I of I.P.C. as none of the judgments relied by the accused-appellant will apply to the facts of this case.

13. Learned Judge has categorically relied on the testimony of Dr. Anil Nigam and has opined that she died out of septicemia. There were formation of pus pocket on her body. She died on 3.11.2008. The postmortem was conducted on 4.11.2008. She was a young lady of 22 years. P.W.1 has testified against all the accused. The accused used to beat the deceased after consuming alcohol and all the accused persons used to take part in the same. There was dying declaration of the deceased where also she had categorically mentioned that the accused had tried to set her ablaze. The genesis of setting her ablaze was non fulfillment of dowry. The learned Sessions Judge has relied on the testimony of P.W.1 & P.W.2 and, therefore, we have also no doubt in our mind that offence under Section 498A & 304B of IPC has been committed for which the punishment cannot be said to be exaggerated. For section 498A of IPC, the learned Sessions Judge has sentenced the accused to undergo two & half years of incarceration with fine of Rs.5000/- & under Section 302, the accused has been sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs. 25,000/-. As far as offence under Section 304 B is concerned, learned Sessions Judge has coupled it with Section 302 of I.P.C. The death was not due to demand of dowry but it was due to the accused-husband having bad eye on other girls for which the deceased-wife has cautioned him. We are unable to fathom on why the learned Sessions Judge then had convicted the accused under Section 498A. But, as the period of incarceration Section 498A of I.P.C. is over, we are not delving into the same. As far as Section 302 of IPC is concerned, as per the finding of the learned Sessions Judge, incident happened out of quarrel and death has happened due to septicemia on which heavy reliance has been placed by learned Sessions Judge.

14. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellants.

15. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

16. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder is the act by which the death is caused is done.
	INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

17. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC.

18. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

19. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

15.1 Similarly, in the case of Maniben (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. The appellants - original accused are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/- each in default rigorous imprisonment for six months under section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code instead of life imprisonment and sentence in default of fine as awarded by the trial court under section 302 IPC. The sentence imposed in default of fine under section 452 IPC is also reduced to two months. Accordingly, the appellants are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for six months for offence punishable under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under section 452 of Indian Penal Code. Both sentences shall run concurrently. The judgement and order dated 19.12.2007 is modified accordingly. The period of sentence already undergone shall be considered for remission of sentence qua appellants - original accused. R & P to be sent back to the trial court forthwith."

20. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan (Supra) where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

21. All others judgments which were pressed into service by the learned counsel for the appellant are not discussed as that would be repetition of what we have decided.

22. We come to the definite conclusion that the death was due to septicemia. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide and, therefore, sentence of the accused appellant is reduced to the period he has already undergone. The fine is reduced to Rs.10,000/- to be paid to the original complainant.

23. Appeal is partly allowed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith. If the accused-appellant fails to pay the fine, the default sentence will start after 13 years of incarceration.

24. This Court is thankful to learned Advocates for ably assisting the Court.

Criminal Law –Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section313 - Appellant is a citizen of Bangladesh-all papers signed by h im in Bengali-examination of Appellant u/s 313 Cr.P.C. was not in respect of the circumstances against him in prosecution evidence-he was merely apprised as to who have testified against him and documents produced-and not as to what has been testified or what the documents contained-circumstances not put to the accused in the manner required by law-improper examination of accused u/s 313 Cr.P.C. – serious prejudice to accused-miscarriage of justice.

Held, *in the prosecution evidence had been put to the accused in a manner he could have understood, he might have given an explanation that seeing his wife sleeping next to the deceased, he lost his bearings and self control and, in a fit of sudden rage, committed the act. Such an explanation perhaps could have fit in with the prosecution evidence and absolved him of the charge of an offence punishable under section 302 IPC and might have served as a mitigating factor to convert the charge of murder to one of an offence punishable under section 304 IPC. Likewise, he could have offered explanation as to why he was seen running, may be by telling that because he was terrified seeing his wife, or somebody else, commit the murder. Importantly, the appellant was not seen by PW1 running with a knife though, according to PW2 he ran away with the knife whereas, the knife was recovered, found hidden, wrapped in a cloth, beneath a stack of bricks, from a Kothri near the scene of crime. Had all these circumstances been put in the form required by law and in the language understood by the accused, result might have been different.(para 31)

1. This appeal is against a composite judgment and order dated 12.06.1996 passed by Ninth Additional District & Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in two connected Sessions Trial Nos. 147 of 1991 and 149 of 1991 whereby, the appellant - Ishaque has been convicted under Sections 302 I.P.C. and section 4/25 Arms Act, respectively; and has been punished as follows: (i) under Section 302 I.P.C., life imprisonment with fine of Rs. 2,000/- and a default sentence of six months R.I. and (ii) under Section 25/4 Arms Act, two years R.I. with fine of Rs. 500/- and a default sentence of one month R.I. Both sentences to run concurrently.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

2. (i) At 6.10 hours on 29.01.1991, Rajendra Kumar (PW-2) gave a written report (Ex. Ka-1), which was lodged as first information report (FIR) (Ex. Ka-4) at P.S. Shahibabad, District Ghaziabad, alleging therein that two days before, in the evening, at about 7.00 pm, Arun Jeev @ Bhaloo Sham (the deceased), a rickshaw puller, on his rickshaw, came with a lady, a man and a child. Claiming that the lady is his sister (Ayesha), the man is his brother-in-law (Ishaque Matwar - the appellant), Arun Jeev asked for a room from the informant (PW-2) to stay for two days on the pretext that their own abode (hutment) at Nai Seemapuri would be ready in two days. It is alleged that on that request, PW2 gave them a room to stay. It is alleged in the FIR that in the morning of 29.01.1991, at about 5 am, PW2 and his wife Ruparani (not examined) heard noise. When they came out of their room, they saw the rickshaw puller (Arun Jeev) lying dead in a pool of blood, with his throat/neck slit, and his brother-in-law (Ishaque - appellant) having a big blood-stained knife in his hand. Soon thereafter, the appellant ran away with the knife, leaving his wife Ayesha behind.

(ii) Inquest was conducted at about 8 am at the place of the incident. Inquest report (Ex. Ka-8) was witnessed by Sameeruddin (PW-3); Ali Hasan; Afsar Ali (PW-5); Jameel Ahmad; and Raj Kumar.

(iii) S.I. Govind Krishna Dwivedi (PW-8) reached the spot, prepared site plan (Ex. Ka-7), collected blood in a small tobacco box and blood-stained piece of carpet. Recovery memo (Ex. Ka-2) was witnessed by Sameerudin (PW-3) and Afsar Ali (PW-5). Autopsy was conducted on the same day at about 5 pm. The autopsy report (Ex. Ka-3) prepared by PW-6 noticed: an incised wound 12 cm x 5.0 cm x bone deep on the front of neck 4.0 cm below to chin; 6.0 cm above Supra Sternal notch; 5.0 cm below to right ear; and 6.0 cm below to left ear, margin clear cut; larynx, trachea and oesophagus cut, through and through; and heart empty. Semi-digested food was found in the stomach. Small intestine and large intestine were half filled. Opinion was that death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injury. Estimated time of death was three-fourth of a day before.

(iv) On 30.01.1991, at about 1.20 pm, in the presence of witness Raj Kumar and Ibrahim (PW-4), on the pointing out of the accused, allegedly, a blood-stained knife, wrapped in a cloth, was recovered from a stack of bricks near the wall of premises No. 161 A, Shalimar Park, Pradeep Trading Comp. A memo (Ex. Ka-3) of that recovery and site plan (Ex. Ka-15) of that recovery was prepared by PW-8.

(v) Investigation was completed by Jitendra Pal Singh (not examined as a witness because he had died in an encounter) and a charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-6) was submitted, which was proved by H.C. Brijlal Singh (PW-7).

(vi) S.S. Guha (PW-9) recorded the statement of Ayesha under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short Cr.P.C. or the Code). P.W.9 stated that Ayesha could only speak in Bangla language therefore, her statement was recorded with the help of a translator/ interpreter. On PW-9's statement, statement of Ayesha was marked Ex Ka-7.

(vii) On recovery of the knife, a separate case under Section 25 Arms Act was registered. Investigation of which was assigned to S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (not examined). After investigation, charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-16) was submitted, which was proved by PW-8. On the two charge-sheets, cognizance was taken and cases were committed to the Court of Session giving rise to two sessions trial, namely, S.T. No. 147 of 1991, under Section 302 I.P.C.; and S.T. No. 149 of 1991, under Section 25/4 Arms Act. Both the trials were connected with each other and a single set of evidence was led.

- the doctor who conducted the post-mortem - proved the post-mortem report; .PW-7 Brij Pal Singh - Head Moharir at the police station Shahibabad - proved the registration of the FIR on 29.01.1991 at 6.10 am and handing over copy /chik FIR to Sri G.K. Dwivedi (P.W.8) for investigation.

(iii) PW-8, S.I. Govind Krishna Dwivedi, is the investigating officer. He stated that on registration of the FIR, he reached the spot and on the directions of the informant prepared site plan, lifted blood and blood soaked carpet. He stated that a day after registration of the FIR, the investigation was transferred to Prabhari Nirikshak - Jitendra Pal Singh, who, later, died in an encounter in the district of Pilibhit. He stated that Jitendra Pal Singh had arrested the accused and effected recovery of the knife on the pointing out of the accused. He proved the signature of Jitendra Pal Singh on the recovery memo as also on the charge-sheet prepared by Jitendra Pal Singh. He also stated that he got the statement of Ayesha recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. He stated that investigation of the offence under Section 25 Arms Act was assigned to S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi who submitted charge-sheet. He recognised the signature of Mahendra Singh Tyagi on the charge-sheet.

In his cross-examination, PW-8 stated that the FIR was not written in his presence; that he reached the spot after about one hour i.e. on or about 7 am; that he does not remember that there was light at the scene of the crime; that he does not remember as to how many doors were there in the room where the body was found though he can tell the same after looking at the site plan; that the house where the crime occurred had boundary wall about chest high; that the house had a common gate; and that adjoining the house there was a Kothari and inside the room, where the body was found, there was a cot. The body was 2-3 paces away from the cot, lying in a supine position with left hand on stomach and right hand on the floor. He saw accused's wife on spot. He had taken her statement but her clothes were not collected as she had no other clothes to wear. He also took photographs of the body. He, thereafter, got the body sealed after carrying out inquest. He stated that he had searched for the accused that day though he could not remember where he had searched for him. He also stated that he met Alam -the Chowkidar (PW1) - on that day. P.W.1 was Chowkidar of a different block. He stated that P.W.1 had not disclosed that Ishaque (appellant) had a knife in his hand. PW1 also did not disclose whether Ishaque's (appellant's) clothes were blood-stained.

(iv) PW-9, A.C.J.M., Sri S.S. Gupta. He proved the recording of statement of Ayesha under Section 164 Cr.P.C. with the help of a translator.

In his cross-examination, he stated that he used the service of a translator to translate Bangla into Hindi. He stated that he did not himself understand Bangla and that he did not understand what Ayesha stated in Bengali but he wrote whatever the translator told him. He disclosed the name of translator as Sikandar (not examined).

(v) PW-4-Ibrahim is the witness of recovery of knife. He stated that about two years ago while he was returning after collecting fodder for his buffalo, he saw 5-6 police personnel and one Master Raj Kumar (not examined) sitting and enquiring from accused Ishaque (appellant). Ishaque told them that he could recover the weapon of assault. Ishaque moved ahead near the Kothi where the murder took place and just behind that, from a dilapidated kothari and stack of bricks, he took out a knife wrapped in a cloth, which was taken by the police. He stated that the police thereafter prepared a memo and got his signatures. He proved his signature on the memo.

In his cross-examination, he stated that the place from where the recovery was made is half a kilometer away from his house; that Ishaque had stated that he had killed Arun Jeev as he was seen lying close to his wife; he stated that there were 60-70 people standing there at that time; that at the time when the memo was prepared there were only 5-6 police personnel and Raj Kumar; he denied the suggestion that he is telling lie under pressure of police; he also stated that at the time when the confessional statement was made, the accused was in the custody of the police.

(vi) PW-2 is the informant. He proved the lodging of the FIR. In his statement- in-chief he reiterated what was narrated by him in the FIR. He identified the deceased from his photographs as Arun Jeev @ Bhalu Sham, the rickshaw puller.

In his cross-examination, he stated that he has a house at Shalimar Garden which has four rooms and a kitchen. Out of those four rooms, he uses two rooms for himself and two rooms lie vacant. All four rooms are in front of each other. The deceased Arun Jeev used to take his children to the school on a rickshaw therefore, he knew him from before. He saw Ishaque (the appellant) for the first time and came to know about him through the deceased. He denied the suggestion that he lodged the FIR on the information provided by Ayesha. He stated that the police neither arrested the accused nor recovered anything from him in his presence. In paragraph 10 of his cross-examination though he denied the suggestion that he lodged a false FIR on the statement of Ayesha but stated that Ayesha had told him that her husband ran away after killing the deceased and on her statement, he lodged the report. He stated that he did not have a fondness for the rickshaw puller (the deceased) but as he used to take his children to school, he was allowed a room to sleep.

(vii) PW-1 Alam Chowkidar. He stated that about a year and 9 -10 months before, between quarter past 5 and 5.30 am, while he was performing his duties as a Chowkidar at D Block at New Seemapuri Colony, he saw the accused (present in Court) running; thinking him to be a thief, he caught hold of him. On being caught, he told him that he is not a thief and that he has to go to his maternal uncle Jabbar. He, thereafter, took him to his uncle Jabbar. When Jabbar told him that the accused is his nephew, he released him. At that point of time he was not aware that the accused was running after committing murder.

In his cross-examination, he admitted that from the statement of the lawyers present in Court he could guess that the accused before him is Ishaque. He stated that New Seemapuri and Old Seemapuri colonies are at a distance of half a kilometer and at the time when he saw the accused running he saw him running from half a mile away. At that time, the accused was wearing just a Tehmat (Lungi) with no upper garment on his body.

4. After the prosecution evidence was closed, the statement of the appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The record of the statement of the appellant including the questions put to him, under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is extracted below:-

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

5. The trial court by placing reliance on the evidence led, held that the following circumstances were proved: (a) that PW2 gave a room to the deceased, the appellant, his wife and child to sleep; that, in the morning, PW2 heard shrieks; upon coming to the spot, he saw the appellant with a blood soaked knife in his hand and the deceased lying dead in a pool of blood; that, soon thereafter, the appellant escaped; that, the wife of the appellant in her statement under section 164 CrPC disclosed that the appellant committed murder because he discovered the deceased lying next to her in the night; and that, the knife (weapon of assault) was recovered at the pointing out of the appellant. Upon finding the chain of circumstances complete to prove the guilt of the appellant and rule out all other hypothesis inconsistent with it, found the charge of murder proved and punished the appellant accordingly.

6. We have heard Sri Mandeep Singh, holding brief of Sri Pushpendra Singh, for the appellant; Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A. for the State; and have perused the record.

SUBMISSIONS

7. The contentions of the learned counsel for the appellant are as follows:-

(a) The incriminating circumstances emanating from the prosecution evidence were not put to the accused-appellant as is required by law for recording statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. which vitiates the trial and the order of conviction. It was urged that, admittedly, the appellant is a citizen of Bangladesh, he signed all papers in Bangla therefore, even if the evidence was recorded in his presence, unless the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence were put and explained to him, he could not have offered a plausible explanation. This caused serious prejudice to appellant's defence thereby vitiating the trial and the order of conviction.

(b) The key eye-witness of the incident, Ayesha, though listed as a witness in the charge sheet, was not examined. The prosecution is therefore guilty of withholding their best evidence. Otherwise, her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is not admissible. The statement of P.W.9 as to what Ayesha said is not admissible, being hearsay. In addition to that, Ayesha, admittedly, was not conversant with Hindi language and, therefore, her statement recorded with the help of a translator, cannot be narrated by PW-9 as PW9 admitted that he could not understand what Ayesha stated in Bangla. Thus, the testimony of PW 9 as to what Ayesha told him is irrelevant and cannot be read in evidence.

(c) In so far as the statement of PW-2 is concerned, from his statement during cross-examination, it appears that he lodged the first information report on the basis of information received from Ayesha and not on his own personal knowledge. PW2's statement in cross-examination that he lodged the FIR on the basis of information provided by Ayesha that her husband has killed the deceased and has run away with the knife reflects that he arrived at the spot after the accused had left therefore, his rendition of the incident that he saw the deceased standing with a knife appears doubtful. Further, PW-1, the Chowkidar, who claims to have caught hold the appellant between 5.15 and 5.30 am, on the date of the incident, as he was seen running from quite a distance, did not state that the appellant was having a knife in his hand. Thus, PW2's statement that the accused-appellant ran away with the knife is extremely doubtful because, in that scenario he would have no time to hide the weapon beneath a stack of bricks, as alleged by the prosecution, and that too, in close proximity to the scene of crime.

(d) The evidence of recovery of knife at the pointing out of the appellant is completely cooked up because hiding the knife in close proximity to the scene of crime does not seem to fit in with the prosecution evidence inasmuch as according to PW2 the appellant ran away with the knife whereas, from the statement of PW4, recovery of the knife, wrapped in a cloth, was made from beneath a stack of bricks near the scene of crime. Even otherwise, the Investigating Officer, who effected recovery, was not examined as he is stated to have died in an encounter.

(e) In the alternative, it was contended that from the prosecution case it appears to be a case where the deceased was seen lying near appellant's wife therefore, in a fit of rage, the incident occurred. Thus, conviction could be under Section 304 I.P.C. and not Section 302 I.P.C. Under the circumstances, as up to 03.06.2021, the appellant has already suffered incarceration of 30 years 04 months and 03 days, and with remission 38 years, 8 months, he is liable to be released on sentence undergone.

8. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. submitted that this is a case where there is a prompt first information report; that the witnesses are not inimical; that the accused was seen with a blood-stained knife at a place where the body was lying in a pool of blood and that the injury on the body was referable to that knife therefore, in absence of any explanation on the part of the accused, the prosecution by proving the chain of incriminating circumstances was successful in proving the guilt. On the question of sentence, the learned A.G.A. submitted that since the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is not a substantive piece of evidence, as Ayesha was not examined in court, and no explanation came from the accused to demonstrate existence of mitigating circumstances, the conviction of the appellant for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. is justified and therefore no case for interference is made out. In respect of the contention that the incriminating circumstances appearing in the evidence were not put to the accused, the learned A.G.A. submitted that even if all the incriminating circumstances have not been put to the accused while recording the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., but, as the entire evidence was laid by the prosecution in the presence of the accused, unless prejudice is shown, the accused gets no benefit. In support of the above submission, the learned A.G.A. cited Apex Court's decision in Nar Singh v. State of Haryana : (2015) 1 SCC 496.

ANALYSIS

9. Having noticed the rival submissions and the entire prosecution evidence, before we proceed to weigh the respective submissions, it would be apposite to observe that from the record it is established that the appellant is a citizen of Bangladesh and all papers including charge memorandum and statement under section 313 CrPC has been signed by him in Bengali. Further, from the own case of the prosecution, as would be apparent from the statement of PW9, the wife of the appellant did not understand Hindi and therefore, her statement was recorded with the help of a translator. No doubt, it has not come on record that any application was moved by the appellant that he needed the help of a translator or that he was not conversant with Hindi language but what cannot be ignored is that here was a trial of a citizen of Bangladesh who was signing in Bangla and his wife's statement was recorded with the help of a translator as she did not know Hindi. In these circumstances, what were the precautions that the trial judge was required to take, and whether by not taking those precautions, the trial and the order of conviction stood vitiated needs to be examined. In that context we shall also examine whether there was due compliance of the provisions of section 313 CrPC, if not, whether it caused serious prejudice to the appellant thereby vitiating the order of conviction.

10. To address the issues culled out above, a brief glimpse at the relevant statutory provisions in the Code would be useful. Under section 272 CrPC the language of each court within the State other than the High Court is as may be determined by the State Government for the purposes of the Code. Subject to its proviso, section 273 CrPC provides that evidence taken in the course of the trial shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his personal presence is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader. Section 277 CrPC provides for the language of record of evidence. Section 279 CrPC provides as follows:

"279. Interpretation of evidence to accused or his pleader.- (1) Whenever any evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused, and he is present in Court in person, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him.

(2) If he appears by pleader and the evidence is given in a language other than the language of the Court, and not understood by the pleader, it shall be interpreted to such pleader in that language.

(3) When documents are put for the purpose of formal proof, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to interpret as much thereof as necessary."

11. Section 281 CrPC provides for the record of examination of accused. Sub-section (3) of section 281 provides that the record shall, if practicable, be in the language in which the accused is examined or, if that is not practicable, in the language of the Court. Sub section (4) of section 281 further provides that the record shall be shown or read to the accused, or, if he does not understand the language in which it is written, shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to his answers.

12. Section 313 Cr.P.C. reads as under:

"313. Power to examine the accused.- (1) In every inquiry or trial, for the purpose of enabling the accused personally to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, the Court-

(a) may at any stage, without previously warning the accused put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary;

(b) shall, after the witnesses for the prosecution have been examined and before he is called on for his defence, question him generally on the case:

Provided that in a summons-case, where the Court has dispensed with the personal attendance of the accused, it may also dispense with his examination under clause (b).

(2). No oath shall be administered to the accused when he is examined under sub-section (1).

(3). The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them.

(4). The answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial, and put in evidence for or against him in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answers may tend to show he has committed.

(5). The Court may take help of Prosecutor and Defence Counsel in preparing relevant questions which are to be put to the accused and the Court may permit filing of written statement by the accused as sufficient compliance of this section."

13. There is nothing in the Code which may indicate that the provisions of sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 281 of the Code would not apply when there is an examination of the accused under section 313 of the Code. In fact, a combined reading of these provisions would indicate that they have been crafted in the Code to ensure a fair trial so that the accused is in know of the circumstances appearing against him in the evidence and is able to set up his explanation or defence accordingly.

14. The importance of the provisions of section 342 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, which is pari materia with section 313 of the Code, 1973, was highlighted in a Constitution Bench decision of the Apex Court in Tara Singh v. State : AIR 1951 SC 441. In paragraph 32, His Lordship Vivian Bose, J. observed as follows:

"32. I cannot stress too strongly the importance of observing faithfully and fairly the provisions of section 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code. It is not a proper compliance to read out a long string of questions and answers made in the committal court and ask whether the statement is correct. A question of that kind is misleading. It may mean either that the questioner wants to know whether the recording is correct, or whether the answers given are true, or whether there is some mistake or misunderstanding despite the accurate recording. In the next place, it is not sufficient compliance to string together a long series of facts and ask the accused what he has to say about them. He must be questioned separately about each material circumstance which is intended to be used against him. The whole object of the section is to afford the accused a fair and proper opportunity of explaining circumstances which appear against him. The questioning must therefore be fair and must be couched in a form which an ignorant or illiterate person will be able to appreciate and understand. Even when an accused person is not illiterate, his mind is apt to be perturbed when he is facing a charge of murder. He is therefore in no fit position to understand the significance of a complex question. Fairness therefore requires that each material circumstance should be put simply and separately in a way that an illiterate mind, or one which is perturbed or confused, can readily appreciate and understand. I do not suggest that every error or omission in this behalf would necessarily vitiate a trial because I am of opinion that errors of this type fall within the category of curable irregularities. Therefore, the question in each case depends upon the degree of the error and upon whether prejudice has been occasioned or is likely to have been occasioned. In my opinion, the disregard of the provisions of section 342, Criminal Procedure Code, is so gross in this case that I feel there is grave likelihood of prejudice."

15. Developing the law further, in Ajay Singh v. State of Maharastra : 2007 (12) SCC 341, interpreting the word 'generally' appearing in sub-section 1(b) of section 313 of the Code, it was observed by the Apex Court as follows:-

"14. The word 'generally' in sub-section (1)(b) does not limit the nature of the questioning to one or more questions of a general nature relating to the case, but it means that the question should relate to the whole case generally and should also be limited to any particular part or parts of it. The question must be framed in such a way as to enable the accused to know what he is to explain, what are the circumstances which are against him and for which an explanation is needed. The whole object of the section is to afford the accused a fair and proper opportunity of explaining circumstances which appear against him and that the questions must be fair and must be couched in a form which an ignorant or illiterate person will be able to appreciate and understand. A conviction based on the accused's failure to explain what he was never asked to explain is bad in law. The whole object of enacting Section 313 of the Code was that the attention of the accused should be drawn to the specific points in the charge and in the evidence on which the prosecution claims that the case is made out against the accused so that he may be able to give such explanation as he desires to give."

16. In Naval Kishore v. State of Bihar : (2004) 7 SCC 502, it was observed by the Apex Court as under:-

"5. .....Under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused should have been given opportunity to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. At least, the various items of evidence, which had been produced by the prosecution, should have been put to the accused in the form of question and he should have been given opportunity to give his explanation. No such opportunity was given to the accused in the instant case. We deprecate the practice of putting the entire evidence against the accused put together in a single question and giving an opportunity to explain the same, as the accused may not be in a position to give a rational and intelligent explanation. The trial judge should have kept in mind the importance of giving an opportunity to the accused to explain the adverse circumstances in the evidence and the Section 313 examination shall not be carried out as an empty formality. It is only after the entire evidence is unfurled the accused would be in a position to articulate his defence and to give explanation to the circumstances appearing in evidence against him. Such an opportunity being given to the accused is part of a fair trial and if it is done in slipshop manner, it may result in imperfect appreciation of evidence."

17. In Nar Singh v. State of Haryana : (2015) 1 SCC 496 with regard to the object of section 313(1)(b) Cr.P.C. it was observed by the Apex Court as follows:-

"11. The object of Section 313 (1)(b) Cr.P.C. is to bring the substance of accusation to the accused to enable the accused to explain each and every circumstance appearing in the evidence against him. The provisions of this section are mandatory and cast a duty on the court to afford an opportunity to the accused to explain each and every circumstance and incriminating evidence against him. The examination of accused under Section 313 (1)(b) Cr.P.C. is not a mere formality. Section 313 Cr.P.C. prescribes a procedural safeguard for an accused, giving him an opportunity to explain the facts and circumstances appearing against him in the evidence and this opportunity is valuable from the standpoint of the accused. The real importance of Section 313 Cr.P.C. lies in that, it imposes a duty on the Court to question the accused properly and fairly so as to bring home to him the exact case he will have to meet and thereby, an opportunity is given to him to explain any such point." (Emphasis Supplied)

18. The above observations have been cited in a recent three-judge Bench decision of the Apex Court in Maheshwar Tigga v. State of Jharkhand : (2020) 10 SCC 108, wherein, in paragraph 8, it was observed as follows:-

"8. It stands well settled that circumstances not put to an accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. cannot be used against him, and must be excluded from consideration. In a criminal trial, the importance of the questions put to an accused are basic to the principles of natural justice as it provides him the opportunity not only to furnish his defence, but also to explain the incriminating circumstances against him. A probable defence raised by an accused is sufficient to rebut the accusation without the requirement of proof beyond reasonable doubt."

(Emphasis Supplied)

19. Having examined the relevant provisions of the Code and the decisions noticed above, the legal principle deducible is that the circumstances appearing against the accused in the evidence led during the course of trial must be put to the accused in a form that the accused could understand as to what circumstances appearing against him in the evidence, he has to explain. The language and the manner in which those circumstances are put to the accused assumes importance as that enables a person to have a clear picture of the circumstances which he has to explain. An incriminating circumstance appearing in the evidence not put to the accused to have his explanation is ordinarily to be eschewed from consideration.

20. Now, we shall examine as to what is the test to determine whether the accused has been fairly examined and whether a lapse in putting the incriminating circumstance to the accused in the manner required by law, vitiates the trial. And if there is any such lapse by

21. In Jai Dev and others v. State of Punjab : AIR 1963 SC 612, a three- judge Bench of the Apex Court, with reference to section 342 of 1898 Code (pari materia with section 313 of the 1973 Code), in paragraph 21 of its judgment, observed as follows:-

"21. .....The examination of the accused person under a. 342 is undoubtedly intended to give him an opportunity to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. In exercising its powers under Section 342, the Court must take care to put all relevant circumstances appearing in the evidence to the accused person. It would not be enough to put a few general and broad questions to the accused, for by adopting such a course the accused may not get opportunity of explaining all the relevant circumstances. On the other hand, it would not be fair or right that the Court should put to the accused person detailed questions which may amount to his cross examination. The ultimate test in determining whether or not the accused has been fairly examined under s. 342 would be to enquire whether, having regard to all the questions put to him, he did get an opportunity to say what he wanted to say in respect of prosecution case against him. If it appears that the examination of the accused person was defective and thereby a prejudice has been caused to him, that would no doubt be a serious infirmity. It is obvious that no general rule can be laid down in regard to the manner in which the accused person should be examined under Section 342. Broadly stated. however, the true position appears to be that passion for brevity which may be content ' with asking a few omnibus general questions is as much inconsistent with the requirements of Section 342 as anxiety for thoroughness which may dictate an unduly detailed and large number of questions which may amount to the cross-examination of the accused person....."

22. Further, in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade and another : State of Maharastra : (1973) 2

SCC 793, a three-judge Bench of the Apex Court, in paragraph 16 of its judgment, observed as follows:-

".....It is trite law, nevertheless fundamental, that the prisoner's attention should be drawn to every inculpatory material so as to enable him to explain it. This is the basic fairness of a criminal trial and failures in this area may gravely imperil the validity of the trial itself, if consequential miscarriage of justice has flowed. However, where such an omission has occurred it does not ipso facto vitiate the proceedings and prejudice occasioned by such defect must be established by the accused. In the event of evidentiary material not being put to the accused, the court must ordinarily eschew such material from consideration. It is also open to the appellate court to call upon the counsel for the accused to show what explanation the accused has as regards the circumstances established against him but not put to him and if the accused is unable to offer the appellate court any plausible or reasonable explanation of such circumstances, the court may assume that no acceptable answer exists and that even if the accused had been questioned at the proper time in the trial court he would not have been able to furnish any good ground to get out of the circumstances on which the trial court had relied for its conviction."

23. In Asraf Ali v. State of Assam : (2008) 16 SCC 328, in paragraph 21, 22 and 24 of the judgment, the Apex Court had observed as under:-

"21. Section 313 of the Code casts a duty on the Court to put in an enquiry or trial questions to the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. It follows as necessary corollary therefrom that each material circumstance appearing in the evidence against the accused is required to be put to him specifically, distinctly and separately and failure to do so amounts to a serious irregularity vitiating trial, if it is shown that the accused was prejudiced.

22. The object of Section 313 of the Code is to establish a direct dialogue between the Court and the accused. If a point in the evidence is important against the accused, and the conviction is intended to be based upon it, it is right and proper that the accused should be questioned about the matter and be given an opportunity of explaining it. Where no specific question has been put by the trial Court on an inculpatory material in the prosecution evidence, it would vitiate the trial. Of course, all these are subject to rider whether they have caused miscarriage of justice or prejudice. This Court also expressed similar view in S. Harnam Singh v. The State, while dealing with Section 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 (corresponding to Section 313 of the Code). Non- indication of inculpatory material in its relevant facets by the trial Court to the accused adds to vulnerability of the prosecution case. Recording of a statement of the accused under Section 313 is not a purposeless exercise.

24. In certain cases when there is perfunctory examination under Section 313 of the Code, the matter is remanded to the trial Court, with a direction to re-try from the stage at which the prosecution was closed."

(Emphasis Supplied)

24. Upon a conspectus of its earlier decisions, in Alister Anthony Pareira v. State of Maharastra : (2012) 2 SCC 648, the Apex Court, in paragraph 61 of its judgment, observed as follows:-

"From the above, the legal position appears to be this: the accused must be apprised of incriminating evidence and materials brought in by the prosecution against him to enable him to explain and respond to such evidence and material. Failure in not drawing the attention of the accused to the incriminating evidence and inculpatory materials brought in by prosecution specifically, distinctly and separately may not by itself render the trial against the accused void and bad in law; firstly, if having regard to all the questions put to him, he was afforded an opportunity to explain what he wanted to say in respect of prosecution case against him and secondly, such omission has not caused prejudice to him resulting in failure of justice. The burden is on the accused to establish that by not apprising him of the incriminating evidence and the inculpatory materials that had come in the prosecution evidence against him, a prejudice has been caused resulting in miscarriage of justice."

25. In Nar Singh v. State of Haryana (supra), after considering various earlier decisions, the Apex Court, in paragraph 30 of the judgment, held as under:-

"30.1.Whenever a plea of non-compliance with Section 313 Cr.P.C. is raised, it is within the powers of the appellate court to examine and further examine the convict or the counsel appearing for the accused and the said answers shall be taken into consideration for deciding the matter. If the accused is unable to offer the appellate court any reasonable explanation of such circumstance, the court may assume that the accused has no acceptable explanation to offer.

30.2. In the facts and circumstances of the case, if the appellate court comes to the conclusion that no prejudice was caused or no failure of justice was occasioned, the appellate court will hear and decide the matter upon merits.

30.3. If the appellate court is of the opinion that non-compliance with the provisions of Section 313 Cr.P.C. has occasioned or is likely to have occasioned prejudice to the accused, the appellate court may direct retrial from the stage of recording the statements of the accused from the point where the irregularity occurred, that is, from the stage of questioning the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and the trial Judge may be directed to examine the accused afresh and defence witness, if any, and dispose of the matter afresh.

30.4. The appellate court may decline to remit the matter to the trial court for retrial on account of long time already spent in the trial of the case and the period of sentence already undergone by the convict and in the facts and circumstances of the case, may decide the appeal on its own merits, keeping in view the prejudice caused to the accused."

26. Having noticed the various decisions, in our view, the legal principles deducible therefrom, with regard to - (a) the test whether the accused has been fairly examined under section 313 of the Code; (b) whether the lapse, if any, in putting the incriminating circumstance to the accused has vitiated the trial; and (c) the courses available to the appellate court, if there is a lapse on the part of the trial court while examining the accused under section 313 CrPC, are summarised below:-

(a) All incriminating circumstances must be put to an accused as to enable him to explain those circumstances. But there is no prescribed form in which those circumstances are to be put to the accused. Ordinarily, the incriminating circumstances must be specifically and distinctly put. The practice of putting all the incriminating circumstances in one large question has been deprecated as it is likely to confuse the accused and may thereby hamper an articulate and a proper explanation. But that would not mean that the questions are put on every minute details or be so thorough that the examination becomes a cross-examination of the accused. In fact, the questions are to be framed in a way as to enable the accused to know what are the circumstances against him that he has to explain, and for which an explanation is needed. The whole object of the section (i.e. S. 313 CrPC) is to afford the accused a fair and proper opportunity of explaining circumstances which appear against him therefore, the questions must be couched in a form which even an ignorant or illiterate person will be able to appreciate and understand. The ultimate test therefore, in determining whether or not the accused has been fairly examined under section 313 CrPC, would be to enquire whether, having regard to all the questions put to him, did the accused get an opportunity to say what he wanted to say in respect of prosecution case against him.

(b) An omission on the part of the Court to question the accused on any incriminating circumstance would not ipso facto vitiate the trial, unless it is shown that some prejudice is caused to the accused resulting in miscarriage of justice.

(c) Ordinarily, where any incriminating circumstance has not been put to the accused, the Court must eschew such circumstance appearing in the evidence from consideration and decide the matter on the basis of the remaining evidence.

(d) If the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence are not put to the accused by the trial court and the accused demonstrates before the appellate court, or it is apparent from the record, that prejudice has been caused to him, following courses are available to the appellate court:-

(i) The appellate court may examine or further examine the convict (appellant) or the counsel appearing for him and take into consideration the answers for deciding the matter;

(ii) The appellate court may direct re-trial from the stage of recording the statements of the accused from the point where the irregularity occurred, that is, from the stage of questioning the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and the trial Judge may be directed to examine the accused afresh and defence witness, if any, and dispose of the matter afresh;

(iii) The appellate court may decline to remit the matter to the trial court for re-trial on account of long time already spent in the trial of the case and the period of sentence already undergone by the convict and in the facts and circumstances of the case, may decide the appeal on its own merits, keeping in view the prejudice caused to the accused.

27. Having noticed the legal principles above, now, we shall proceed to examine whether in the instant case the examination of the accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was in the manner mandated by law. If not, whether any prejudice was caused to him. If so, its legal consequence.

28. In the instant case, the incriminating circumstances appearing in the evidence against the appellant were as follows:-

(i) The deceased, the appellant, appellant's wife Ayesha and their child, were provided a room by the informant (PW-2) two days before the date of the incident to stay as their hutment at Nai Seemapuri was being redone;

(ii) In the morning of 29.01.1991, at about 5 am, on hearing noise, PW-2 arrived at the spot (i.e. the room provided above) to notice the deceased lying in a pool of blood, with his throat slit, and the appellant holding a blood stained knife in his hand;

(iii) Seeing P.W.2, the appellant ran away with the knife and while he was running away, at some distance from the spot, he was apprehended by PW-1 but, upon intervention of appellant's Mama (Jabbar) was let off;

(iv) Later, when the appellant was arrested, at his pointing out, on 30.01.1991, knife, wrapped in a cloth, was recovered from a stack of bricks lying in a kothari.

29. The circumstances that have been culled out above have not been put to the accused while recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The questions put to the appellant to evoke his explanation are detailed below:

(i) The first is with regard to the allegation made in the FIR (Ex. Ka1). This question is couched in a form as to what the appellant has to say in respect of the accusation made in the FIR (Ex. Ka1) that he had killed the deceased by slitting his throat with a knife in the morning of 29.01.1991 at about 5.00 am.

The first question narrates the charge of murder but not the circumstances appearing in the evidence against the appellant. The circumstances, as we have noticed, were that the informant gave a room to the deceased, appellant, his wife and child to stay; and that, in the morning of 29.1.1991, the deceased was lying dead with his throat slit and the appellant was seen standing there, with a knife in his hand, and, upon seeing the informant, he ran away with the knife. Importantly, in the prosecution evidence, no witness stated that the appellant killed the deceased by slitting his throat at 5.00 am on 29.01.1991. Such an allegation appeared only in the statement of Ayesha, under section 164 CrPC, which is not admissible in evidence as she was not examined in the trial. The charge of murder was based on circumstantial evidence but, unfortunately, the circumstances that appeared in the prosecution evidence were not put to the accused.

(ii) The second question too, does not at all narrate the incriminating circumstances that appeared in the deposition of the witnesses. Rather, the question just enumerates the witnesses who had deposed against the appellant. As to what they deposed is not put to the appellant.

(iii) The third question recites the documents exhibited without disclosing their contents and as to what they relate to.

(iv) The fourth question is general as to what the accused has to say.

(v) The fifth question does not seek explanation but seeks answer from the accused as to why he has been prosecuted.

(vi) The sixth question just asks the accused as to whether he would like to give his defence.

30. From a close examination of the questions put, as noticed above, it is clear that the examination of the appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was not in respect of the circumstances that appear against him in the prosecution evidence. Rather, the appellant was merely apprised as to who have testified against him and what documents were produced by the prosecution. As to what their testimony had been and what the documents contained and related to, were not put to the appellant. We are therefore of the considered view that the circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence against the accused-appellant were not put to the accused in the manner required by law.

31. Now, we shall examine whether by not putting those circumstances any prejudice has been caused to the appellant resulting in miscarriage of justice. Whether prejudice has been caused or not to the accused has to be seen from the stand point of the accused. At this stage, we may observe that from the order sheet of the trial court it appears that on 20.01.1993 a prayer was made on behalf of the appellant to the Court that the amicus curiae representing the appellant thus far be discharged because he has engaged a counsel. The entire order sheet of the trial court reflects that the appellant had been signing in Bangla script. These circumstances as also the fact that the appellant has suffered continuous incarceration since the year 1991 reflects that the appellant is not a person with means or support to fight for his freedom. In that back drop, in our view, the trial court ought to have put itself on guard, while examining the accused under section 313 CrPC, to ensure that the accused (i.e. appellant herein) had understood what he had to explain. The Code also, by inserting sub-sections (3) and (4) to section 281, mandates that the record of the examination of accused shall, if practicable, be in the language in which the accused is examined or, if that is not practicable, in the language of the Court; and the record shall be shown or read to the accused, or, if he does not understand the language in which it is written, shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to his answers. In the instant case, nothing of the sort appears on the record of the trial court. No doubt, where, the accused is a literate person, well versed with the nuances of law, and is represented by a battery of competent lawyers who undertake gruelling cross examination of the witnesses on behalf of the accused, in the presence of the accused, the accused may have to demonstrate that omission during examination under section 313 CrPC has caused serious prejudice to the accused and, in absence of such demonstration, failure to raise the issue during trial may prove detrimental to the plea of prejudice set up for the first time in the appellate court as was held by the Apex Court in the case of Satyavir Singh Rathi ACP V. State, (2011) 6 SCC1. But where the accused is a foreign national who signs in a language which is not the language of the court, absence of a proper examination in the true spirit of the provisions of section 313 CrPC read with sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 281 CrPC would certainly cause prejudice to him resulting in miscarriage of justice. To illustrate it further, in the context of the instant case, say the circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence had been put to the accused in a manner he could have understood, he might have given an explanation that seeing his wife sleeping next to the deceased, he lost his bearings and self control and, in a fit of sudden rage, committed the act. Such an explanation perhaps could have fit in with the prosecution evidence and absolved him of the charge of an offence punishable under section 302 IPC and might have served as a mitigating factor to convert the charge of murder to one of an offence punishable under section 304 IPC. Likewise, he could have offered explanation as to why he was seen running, may be by telling that because he was terrified seeing his wife, or somebody else, commit the murder. Importantly, the appellant was not seen by PW1 running with a knife though, according to PW2 he ran away with the knife whereas, the knife was recovered, found hidden, wrapped in a cloth, beneath a stack of bricks, from a Kothri near the scene of crime. Had all these circumstances been put in the form required by law and in the language understood by the accused, result might have been different. We are therefore of the considered view that the improper examination of the accused under section 313 CrPC has caused serious prejudice to the accused (appellant) and has resulted in miscarriage of justice.

32. At this stage, we may again put on record that in all the papers of the trial court as well as the police papers wherever the signature of the appellant appears, it is in Bangla script. Noticeably, from the statement of PW-9, who recorded the statement of appellant's wife, namely, Ayesha, under Section 164 Cr.P.C., stated that she did not understand Hindi and therefore a translator was used. We also find from the record that due to long incarceration of the appellant pending decision in this appeal, he had filed a Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 291 of 2021 in the Apex Court. The said writ petition was disposed off by order dated 26.07.2021, which is there on the record of this appeal. The said order is extracted below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the parties.

From the bare facts, it may appear that it is a hard case of unduly long incarceration of the petitioner. But, after considering the submissions of the learned counsel for the State, we find no reason to entertain the relief as claimed in the fact situation of the present case. The order sheet produced by the petitioner along with the petition, itself, makes it amply clear that the High Court was inclined to hear the criminal appeals filed by the petitioners expeditiously. However, for reasons best known to the petitioners, the conditional order lastly passed on 23.10.2019 by the High Court, had not been complied with.

Our attention is also invited to the fact that petitioner no.1 is a foreign national and as per the policy of the State Government, premature release of such convict is not permissible.

It is also pointed out that during the pendency of the proceedings in respect of which the petitioners have been convicted, the petitioner no.2 indulged in another offence under Section 307 of Indian Penal Code, which trial is still pending.

Taking overall view of the matter, therefore, we direct the State Government to file paper book in the pending criminal appeals within two weeks from today, as per the High Court Rules, if the petitioners have already not done so; so that Criminal Appeal Nos. 1944 of 2007 and 5977 of 2019 may proceed for hearing before the High Court.

Besides, the respondent-State take necessary steps to ensure that the pending trial against the petitioner No.2 is taken to its logical end expeditiously.

We request the High Court to make an endeavor to dispose of the criminal appeals within four months from the date of filing of additional paper book by the State.

The Writ Petition is disposed of accordingly.

Pending applications, if any, stand disposed of."

From the order of the Apex Court, it becomes clear that appellant is a foreign national. Further, the certificate provided by the Senior Superintendent, Central Jail, Agra also indicates that the appellant is a Bangladesh national. Therefore, if his wife, as per the statement of PW-9, did not understand Hindi language, keeping in mind that the appellant had been signing in Bangla, though we cannot say with certainty that the appellant did not know Hindi, we hold with certitude that these circumstances were sufficient to put the trial judge on guard to ensure that the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence were meticulously put and explained to the accused to evoke his explanation under Section 313 of the Code. This having not been done, we are of the firm view that it has seriously prejudiced the accused-appellant and it vitiates the order of conviction.

33. Once we come to the above conclusion, the circumstances that were not put to the accused would have to be eschewed from consideration which leaves us with virtually nothing to analyse. Hence an analysis of the evidence to find out whether it would lead to conviction of the appellant or not would be an exercise in futility. Further, at this stage, an exercise to record fresh statement of accused-appellant, or his counsel, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., or remit the matter back to the trial court, to cure the defect, would not be justified as, according to the certificate of the Senior Superintendent, Central Jail, Agra, the appellant has already served 30 years, 04 months and 03 days, up to 03.06.2021, in prison. Any fresh exercise to cure the defect, after such a long gap, would be travesty of justice.

34. In view of the foregoing discussion, once we eschew the circumstances not put to the accused in the manner required by law, nothing much remains to sustain the order of conviction rendered by the trial court. We thus have no option but to allow the appeal and set aside the conviction and sentence recorded by the court below. The appeal is accordingly allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court (i.e. court below) in both the trials is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges for which he has been tried. He shall be set at liberty forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437 A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the court below

35. Let a copy of this order along with the lower court record be transmitted to the trial court for compliance.

Pakari, District-Ballia.

By the impugned judgment and order dated 22.12.2006, the learned trial court has convicted the accused-appellants namely- Brahmdeo Chauhan, Ravindra Chauhan, Rajesh alias Babban Yadav, Arvind Gaur, Kamla Rajbhar, Guddu Rajbhar, Rambhawan Rajbhar, Gama Rajbhar, Jawahir Chauhan, Harish Chand Rajbhar, Ramashankar Rajbhar, Basudeo Rajbhar under Section 147 IPC and sentenced each of them to undergo one year rigorous imprisonment, under Section 436 IPC to undergo life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/- each, under Section 323 IPC to undergo six months rigorous imprisonment, under Section 307 IPC to undergo seven years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.2000/- each, under Section 302 IPC to undergo life imprisonment and fine of Rs.5000/- each and under Section 506 IPC to undergo five years rigorous imprisonment. In default of payment of fine, each accused will have to serve eight months imprisonment. All the sentences to run concurrently. All the four criminal appeals have been filed by the accused/ appellants against the aforesaid judgment and order of conviction and sentences.

By the impugned judgment and order the learned trial court has also acquitted accused namely Suman Rajbhar, Santosh Yadav, Hansnath Gaur, Ranjit Gaur, Sunil Rajbhar, Devendra Rajbhar, Harendra Rajbhar, Bechu Rajhbhar and Mohan Rajbhar from all the charges. Aggrieved by this complainant Rajnikant Yadav has filed the Criminal Revision against the judgment and order of acquittal.

3. During the pendency of the criminal appeal, appellant-accused Kamla Rajbhar has died, consequently, appeal stands abated for him.

4. In brief the prosecution case is that complainant- Rajnikant Yadav gave an application dated 01.01.2006 written by Uma Shankar Yadav at P.S. Pakari District Ballia. In the application, it was alleged that "Applicant-Rajnikant Yadav is original resident of Hathauj, P.S. Khejuri, District Ballia. At present his father after constructing a house in village Ussa P.S.- Pakari, District- Ballia is living there with his family since last 30 years. One Brahm Dev Chauhan resident of Ussa tries to take illegal possession of the house property alleging it the land of Gram-Sabha. Because of this enmity, previously he has made several attempts to dispossess the complainant by inciting the villagers. Due to this reason today on 01.01.2006 at about 6:30 pm, Basudeo Rajbhar, Kamla Rajbhar, Guddu Rajbhar, Panch Ratan Rajbhar, Raj Kapoor Gond, Ram Bhawan Rajbhar, Harish Chand Rajbhar, Gama Rajbhar, Kavindra Nath, Ravindra Nath, Shravan Kumar, Ajay Chauhan, Rajesh alias Babban, Santosh, Arbind Gaur, Raju, Rajesh, Jawahir Chauhan, Brahmdev Chauhan and Ramashankar Rajbhar and others of the same village, and several other persons holding lathi-danda, Ballam and bricks/ stones in their hands with common object suddenly came at my house abusing and threatening with death. Seeing them I and my uncle Rajesh Yadav ran to save our lives, then they chased and assaulted us. My father Chandra Dev Yadav and younger brothers ran inside the house, then accused-persons shut the door from outside and put straw (puwal) etc. at the door and set it on fire and sat outside holding lathi-danda and spear in their hands. But anyhow my father came outside the room, then the accused-persons chased him and assaulted him severely. He fell down and became unconscious. On our cries and seeing the flames of fire, Hansnath Yadav, Adalat Yadav, Lalbachan Yadav and other villagers/ neighbourers and passers by came there and exhorted the accused-persons then they came on the road abusing and threatening with death. With the help of those persons we pulled out both from flames and saved their lives. The condition of my father, uncle and two brothers are serious and they have been taken to the Sadar Hospital to save their lives. The accused-persons also set on fire my kutcha house situated at some distance. Meanwhile a police vehicle came there then accused pelted bricks/ stones on police vehicle."

On the aforesaid written application, case crime no.1 of 2006 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 308, 336, 342, 353, 436, 324, 323, 504 & 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act was registered on 01.01.2006 at 20:30 p.m. at P.S. Pakari. The investigation was taken over by S.O. Pakari, C.P. Yadav. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of some witnesses and also arrested some of the accused and, thereafter, visited the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan. He also collected ashes from the two burnt houses, one pucca house and one kutcha house and pieces of bricks sealed it and prepared a memo.

Injured-Chandra Dev Yadav was admitted in the hospital for treatment. He died on 08.01.2006 at 5:35 am, in S.S.L Hospital, B.H.U, Varanasi. On his death Section 302 IPC was added. On 11.01.2006, Investigating Officer took into possession the blood stained clothes of injured/ deceased Chandra Dev Yadav, sealed it and prepared a memo. He recorded the statements of other witnesses. On 20.01.2006, during police custody remand of accused Brahm Dev Chauhan at his instance recovered a blood stained lathi and a plastic container of kerosene oil from the thatched room (Madai) in front of the house of the accused, and prepared its memo. The lathi was sent for forensic examination. During investigation, on the basis of evidence the role of Jainendra Rajbhar, Hansanth Gaur, Ranjit Gaur, Sunil Rajbhar, Devendra Rajbhar, Harendra Rajbhar, Bechu Rajbhar, Mohan Rajbhar and Suman Rajbhar also came in the light and they were also roped as accused. After completion of the investigation, charge-sheet was submitted.

5. The trial court framed charges against 23 accused namely-Basdev Rajbar, Kamla Rajbhar, Guddu Rajbhar, Ram Bhawan Rajbhar, Harish Chand Rajbhar, Gama Rajbhar, Suman Rajbhar, Santosh Yadav, Jawhir Chauhan, Ramashankar Rajbhar, Ravinder Chauhan, Shrawan Kumar Chauhan, Jainendra Rajbhar, Brhamdev Chauhan, Arvind Gond, Rajesh@ Babban Yadav, Hans Nath Gond, Ranjeet Gond, Sunil Gond, Devendra Rajbhar, Harendra Rajbhar, Bechu Rajbhar and Mohan Rajbhar under Sections 147, 436, 504, 323, 342, 307, 302, 336, 506, 435 and 308 IPC.

The prosecution produced 14 witnesses who have proved 30 prosecution papers marked as Ex.Ka-1 to Ex.Ka-30. The statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they have denied the prosecution case and stated that they are innocent and have been falsely implicated. No evidence in defence was produced.

The learned trial court by the impugned judgment/ order has convicted the accused-appellants as described above while acquitted them from charges under Section 504, 342, 336, 435, 308 IPC and acquitted accused Suman Rajbhar, Hansnath Gaur, Ranjit Gaur, Mohan Rajbhar, Devendra Rajbhar, Sunil, Harendra Rajbhar, Santosh Yadav and Bechu Rajbhar from all the charges.

9. All the three eye witnesses produced by the prosecution namely Rajnikant Yadav (P.W.-1), Rajesh (P.W.-2) and P.W.-4 Hansnath Yadav have corroborated the prosecution case that Chandra Dev Yadav (deceased) original resident of village Hathauj was living in village Ussa where accused Brahmdeo Chauhan wanted to grab his land alleging it as the land of Gram Sabha. On 01.01.2006 at 6:00 pm all accused persons holding with lathi-danda, bricks/ stones, spears and kerosene container and straw in their hands with common object came at the house of Chandra Dev Yadav and started to abuse Chandradeo Yadav and his family members. They also threatened them with death. Accused Ravindra, Shrawan, Ajay, Brahmdev started to beat Rajnikant, Rajesh and Chandradeo Yadav. Chandradeo Yadav with Ashutosh and Ghanshyam ran inside the room then Brahmdeo Chauhan and Hansnath Gaur shut the door from outside and putting straw, pouring kerosene, lit the match-stick and set it on fire. When Chandradeo Yadav came outside then Ravindra, Shrawan, Ajay, Brahmdeo beat him with lathi. Hansnath pressed his chest by a wooden plank. Rajesh alias Babban Yadav beat Chandradev with lathi. Ashutosh and Ghanshyam received burn injuries. They also set on fire the other kutchha house. The police force of police station- Khejuri came there then accused pelted stones/ bricks on their vehicle and damaged it.

The aforesaid eye witneseses are also the injured. They have received injuries in the incident. Rajesh Yadav (P.W.-2) and Hansnath Yadav (P.W.-4) both have been medically examined just after the incident on 01.01.2006 at 8:40 pm and 9:30 pm respectively. According to medical evidence seven visible injuries including six lacerated wounds and one contusion were found on the body of injured-Rajesh. Five of them were on the head, one on the right thumb and one on the back. Hansnath Yadav P.W.-4 has received one injury- lacerated wound on the head. Rajnikant Yadav (P.W.-1) was medically examined in the night on 01.01.2006 at 12:25 O'Clock at the District Hospital Ballia. According to medical evidence, three visible injuries were found on his body, one lacerated wound at the face, two abrasions, one at face and other on the right shoulder. Dr. H.P. Rai and Dr. R.P. Gupta have also corroborated the prosecution case that the injuries of the injured, eye witnesses may come at the time of occurrence with lathi-danda.

Chandra Dev Yadav has also received seven visible injuries, three lacerated wound on head/ skull, two contusions on scapular region and two burn injuries on both palms/ hands. The doctor has corroborated the prosecution case that these injuries may come at the time of occurrence by hard and blunt object and fumes of fire. Chandra Dev Yadav was admitted in the district hospital from where he was referred to BHU. He was admitted there for treatment but could not survive and succumbed to his injuries during treatment on 08.01.2006 at 5:35 am. His postmortem report (Ex.ka-29) further proves that injured has died due to ante-mortem injuries. Kumari Nisha, Smt. Rajwanshi Devi, Geeta Devi, Ghanshyam, Ashutosh, Chandra Kala Devi and Adalat have also received visible injuries in this incident, their injury reports have also been duly proved by the concerned doctors who have also corroborated the prosecution case and have opined that these injuries may come at the time of occurrence with lathi-danda. Doctor has also opined that injuries of Ghanshyam and Ashutosh may come from smokes/ fumes of fire. So Ocular testimony of the witnesses stands fully corroborated with medical evidence on record.

10. During site inspection, Investigating Officer has collected burnt ashes and pieces of bricks. The witness Chedi Prasad Yadav (P.W.-6) has proved the memo and the material exhibits. This evidence also corroborates the ocular testimony. Motive of the incident as alleged in the FIR also got corroboration from the oral statement of the witnesses.

11. Rajesh Kumar Verma P.W.-14 then SO Khejuri and constable Gopal Rai have said that on 1-01-2006 they were posted at PS Khejuri. On receiving information from control room that some incident is happening in village Ussa they proceeded for village Ussa. When their jeep reached near the market of Veer Bhadur Singh 29-30 persons came in front of the jeep and stopped it. They were holding bricks/stones and danda. They attacked the vehicle and damaged its headlight; indicator and wire of wireless. SI Rajesh Kumar Verma has also named Brhamdev Chauhan, Rajesh Yadav alias Babban and Manoj Gond in his statement and has also said that he received the information at 6:30 p.m. and the incident with him has occurred at 7:20 p.m. Constable Gopal Rai PW8 has named only Brhamdev Chauhan and has also identified him in the court. Arun Prakash Chaubey assistant regional transport inspector has said that on 13-01-06 he make inspection of jeep no. UP60/9140. Its left headlight, left indicator and antennae of wireless were damaged. The witness has proved the technical examination report ext.ka 20. From statement of SI Chedi Prasad Yadav it is established that when he reached village Ussa the police force of PS Khejuri was there. So the above prosecution evidence further corroborates the allegations of the F.I.R. and oral testimony of the eye witnesses.

12. The prosecution has also produced the evidence of recovery of lathi and kerosene container used in the alleged incident at the instance of accused Brahmdev Chauhan. S.I.-Chedi Prasad Yadav (P.W.-6), the Investigating Officer has proved the recovery memo and material exhibits connected with.

13. Learned counsel for the appellants contended that the witnesses have said that Chandra Dev Yadav was beaten on legs by lathi-danda but no injury was found on his legs so oral testimony is not corroborated with medical evidence.

Learned AGA contended that the oral evidence fully corroborates the medical evidence, there is no major discrepancy or contradiction. Some minor contradiction are natural.

Considering the nature of the occurrence, it is not expected that the eye witnesses should give thread bare description of each and every happening, some minor contradiction are natural. The testimony of injured witnesses are consistent and it stands corroborated by the medical evidence. The contradiction or discrepancy pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants is not of such a nature which affects the reliability of the witnesses. Their presence on the spot is duly proved as they themselves had received injuries in the incident. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Maqsoodan vs. State of U.P., (1983) 1 SCC 218, has held that minor inconsistencies in the statement of witnesses and FIR regarding the number of blows inflicted and regarding the fact who assaulted whom, would not, by itself, make the testimony of such witnesses unreliable. On the contrary, it would show that the witnesses were not tutored.

It is established law that the testimony of an injured witness is more reliable because his presence on the place of occurrence stands established and it is proved that he suffered injuries in the course of the incident and due weightage should be given to the testimony of an injured witness because the injured witness is a person who has received injuries during the course of incident which is in-built guarantee of his presence on the spot.

In Bhagwan Jagannath Markad and State of Haryana vs. Krishnan, it has been laid down that the testimony of an injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies. The reason for attaching such reliability for evidence of an injured witness is that his presence on the scene stands established and it is proved that in the said incident he got injured.

14. The learned counsel for the appellants further contended that the motive has been attributed to Brahmdev Chauhan and it is alleged that he was trying to forcibly occupy the land of Chandradeo Yadav alleging it as Gram-Sabha land. There is no motive for remaining accused. It is further contended that the accused Brahmdeo Chauhan in defence has produced the documents related to litigation between him and the deceased. So accused Brahmdeo Chauhan was taking legal recourse and there was no occasion to indulge in the criminal act. Learned counsel also contended that informant Rajnikant (complainant) Chandra Dev Yadav (deceased) and some of his family members have previously committed maar-peet with Brahmdeo Chauhan and a criminal case was registered against them which was pending at the time of the incident. Accused-appellant Rajesh alias Babban was also an accused in that case which shows that he was on the side of informant and so it is improbable that he will involve himself with his rivals and will take the sides of Brahmdeo Chauhan. On the aforesaid grounds, the learned counsel contended that motive as alleged is not proved.

The aforesaid arguments of the learned counsel are not appealing. All the three eye witnesses have consistently said that Chandra Dev Yadav has settled in Village- Ussa after acquiring some land and making construction there. Accused-appellant Brahmdeo Chauhan who is the resident of Village-Ussa did not like this and he wanted to forcibly dispossess Chandra Dev Yadav alleging that the land belongs to Gram-Sabha. He has also instigated the other co-villagers against Chandra Dev Yadav which culminated in the present incident. The circumstances may change, so it is not improbable that accused-appellant Rajesh alias Babban who was previously with Chandra Dev Yadav has turned against him and has joined the opposite party. There is nothing improbable in it and this cannot be a ground to disbelieve either the motive alleged by the prosecution or the involvement of accused-appellant Rajesh alias Babbhan in the incident which is established from consistent evidence on record.

15. Learned counsel also contended that the incident is alleged to be of 6:30 pm on first January, in District Ballia the eastern district where in the month of January, sunset occurs at 5:00 pm and it becomes totally dark after 6:00 pm. Regarding the source of light there are different and contradictory statements. Some of the witnesses have said that lantern and torch was the source of light while the others have said that torch and head lights of vehicles was the source of light. So the source of light is also not established. Incident being of darkness, the identity of the accused could not be established.

It is undisputed that the incident is of 6:30 pm of the first of January, so it is established that at the time of occurrence, it was darkness. From the site plan it is also established that the place of occurrence is inside the village and there are other houses near the place of occurrence. The site plan also shows public way in the south. It is also proved from the evidence that two house, one pucca house and one kuttcha house of the complainant was set on fire and when police party reached at the place of occurrence, the fire was flaring up. There is specific statement of P.W.-4 Hansnath Yadav that he came at the house of Chandradeo Yadav after getting his torch repaired. The torch has been taken into possession by the Investigating Officer and has been produced in the court. So the statements of witnesses that they have seen the incident in the head light of the vehicles passing through the road and the flames of fire, torch and lantern are natural and probable. Further, in the circumstances of the present case, the source of light in insignificant. It is proved from the oral evidence that accused persons holding lathi-danda, bricks, stones came at the house of Chandra Dev Yadav, beat them with weapons in their hands, set on fire the pucca house and one kutchha house. In the incident 11 persons including three eye witnesses have received visible injureies. The incident has occurred over a considerable duration. It was not momentary. According to statement of Rajnikant Yadav (P.W.-1), the incident has occurred for nearly 45 minutes. The incident was of such a magnitude that police control room conveyed a message to nearby police stations and police team of three police stations, P.S.- Khejuri, P.S.- Pakari and P.S.-Sikandarpur reached there to restore peace and maintain order. So the manner in which the incident has occurred there was ample time and opportunity to look and identify the accused persons. There is no occasion to doubt that witnesses were not in a position to identify the culprits.

16. Learned counsel for the appellants also contended that it is a case of mob violence and all the eye witnesses in their statements have admitted that woman were also part of the mob which attacked the house of victim. They have also said that police had also resorted to lathi charge to control the situation, so there is probability that injured persons may have received injuries in the lathi-charge. It has also been contended that there is also contradiction between the statement of Rajanikant (P.W.1) and Rajesh (P.W.-2) regarding the role of women in the incident while Rajnikant has said that women were holding bricks/ stones and they pelted stones but Rajesh has said that women have not pelted stones.

These arguments also have no force. In the FIR 20 accused persons have been named and it is also alleged that some other unknown persons are also involved in the incident and during investigation some of the accused not named in the FIR were also found to have taken part in the incident and have been arrayed as an accused and charge-sheet have been submitted against them. As stated above, the incident has occurred for a long duration, so the presence of women at the place of occurrence cannot be improbable. Every person present at the place of occurrence cannot be made accused. The person who have actually participated and have prominent roles are to be implicated. Considering the nature and magnitude of the incident, the presence of public at large at place of occurrence is natural. To maintain order and restore peace, the police may have used mild force. The witnesses being rustic villagers have termed it as lathi charge. So on this ground, the prosecution version cannot be disbelieved or testimony of the witnesses cannot be discarded.

17. Learned counsel for the appellants also contended that name with parentage of accused are mentioned in the FIR but the informant Rajnikant (P.W.-1) in his statement has said that he does not know the parentage of the accused persons. It shows that the report has been written with consultation and deliberation. Learned counsel further contended that FIR is ante-timed. The Investigating Officer has not recorded the statements of injured in the night while in his statement he has said that in the night, he reached the hospital. Constable Mahaveer Prasad (P.W.-3) in his cross examination has said that he has prepared Chitthi Majroobi of informant Rajnikant and sent him for medical examination, he has also said that he has not mentioned crime number and sections in the Chitthi Majroobi while Constable Amarnath Tiwari (P.W.-5) in his cross-examination has said that he has prepared Majroobi Chitthi of informant Rajnikant Yadav and has mentioned crime number on it. It is also contended that there is over writing on the number of GD and number 2 has been made 1 by over writing. Learned counsel also contended that the witness has admitted that there was no prior entry of any other crime in the GD of concerned date. All these discrepancies reflects that FIR has been lodged later on, mentioning time of 8:30 pm.

Learned AGA on the other hand contended that the FIR has been lodged on the application of Rajnikant Yadav and from the evidence on record it is proved that after sending his father Chandra Dev Yadav and other injured to the district hospital, the informant went to the police station and on his written application the FIR was lodged. At that time the Investigating Officer was not present on the police station. He got the papers at the place of occurrence itself sent by the head Moharrir through constables. After lodging of the FIR, Rajnikant was sent to the District hospital for medical examination and he was examined in the night at 12:30 pm. So there is no circumstance which indicates that the FIR is ante timed.

From the evidence on record, it is proved that in the incident, Chandra Dev Yadav, father of the informant has received serious injuries and other members of his family were also injured. The witness has said that he sent his father and other injured in a Jeep to the district hospital and then he proceeded to police station to lodge the report. He got the report written by Uma Shankar. It is also proved from the evidence that informant Rajnikant Yadav was medically examined at district hospital at 12:25 pm in the night of the incident. The original injury report of the injured Rajnikant Yadav is not on record. The photo-copy of the report has been proved by producing medico legal register, so it cannot be judged whether crime number and sections were mentioned in it or not. It is true that there is contradiction between the statement of Constable- Mahaveer (P.W.-3) and Constable Amarnath Tiwari (P.W.-5), on the fact of preparation majroobi chitti of informant Rajnikant Yadav. They are formal witnesses and have given the statement, on the basis of their memory. It is pertinent to mention that three of the injured namely Kumari Nisha, Smt. Rajwanshi Devi and Geeta Devi have been medically examined on 04.01.2006 on a Majroobi Chitthi but the crime number and sections are missing in their chitthi majroobi also which have been prepared on 04.01.2006 after three days of lodging of the FIR, so mere omission of crime number or sections in the chitthi majroobi does not indicate that the FIR was not in existence at that time. The fact that no other crime was registered prior to this one also does not establish that the FIR is ante-timed. The witness Rajnikant (P.W.-1) has explained in his statement that he has written the parentage of the accused after enquiring from other persons. So there is no material on record on the basis of which in can be presumed that FIR is ante-timed or written information is a result of consultation or deliberation.

18. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant also contended that prosecution has failed to produce any GD entry of Investigating Officer proceeding to the hospital. It is also contended that in the entire case diary no time of commencement of the investigation, and the time of its conclusion has been mentioned. The statement of injured witnesses have been recorded with much delay after several days of the incident.

Learned AGA contended that the Investigating Officer received the papers at the place of occurrence and commenced the investigation. He recorded the statement of some of the witnesses and then ensured the arrest of some of the accused-persons. Thereafter he came back at police station and then went to the hospital from where he collected medical examination report of the injured. Considering the nature of the incident, there was a panic situation and to restore law and order, it was necessary to ensure the arrest of the accused persons, so he gave priority to it and due to this the statement of injured could not be recorded in the night. Under the circumstances of the case, the act of the I.O. cannot be said to be improper.

From the evidence on record it is clear that the Investigating Officer who was the the S.O. of Police Station- Pakari reached the village Ussa before registration of FIR, on receiving the information from the control room. The police party of the other police stations also reached there. Firstly police Jeep of Khejuri police station reached the village, the culprits pelted stones on it and did not allow it to reach near the place of occurrence and at that time the flames were flaring up. S.O. Pakari reached at place of occurrence, thereafter. The police force firstly tried to maintain order and restore peace and put off the fire with the aid of villagers. The Investigating Officer has said that he reached the place of occurrence between 7:00 to 7:15 pm, meanwhile, FIR was lodged at the police station and papers were sent to him at the place of occurrence. On receiving the papers and after maintaining peace and order he commenced the investigation. At that time the injured had gone to the district hospital, so he recorded the statements of other witnesses available on the spot and prepared the site plan and thereafter he engaged himself to ensure the arrest of the accused persons. He arrested some of the accused persons and thereafter came at the police station and then he proceeded to the hospital. It is true that statements of injured witnesses have been recorded with some delay but it is well settled principle of law that latches on part of the Investigating Officer, cannot benefit the accused. There may be some latches on part of the Investigating Officer but it does not adversely affect the prosecution.

19. Learned counsel for the appellants contended that there is no independent witness of recovery of lathi and kerosene container at the instance of Brahmdeo Yadav, the alleged recovery is planted and fabricated. Accused-Brahmdeo Chauhan was taken on police remand and he was tortured and his signature was obtained on a blank paper and he made a complaint in this regard to the concerned Magistrate who summoned the Police Officer in the court and S.I. Chedi Prasad (P.W.-6) in his cross examination has admitted these facts.

Learned AGA contended that recovery has been proved by S.I. Chedi Prasad Yadav (P.W.-6) who is also the Investigating Officer and lathi and kerosene container has been produced in the court and proved as material exhibits. The testimony of S.I. Chedi Prasad Yadav cannot be discarded merely because there is no other independent witness of alleged recovery.

From the statement of S.I. Chedi Prasad Yadav, it is proved that Investigating Officer after taking Bhramdeo Chauhan on police remand, at his instance, recovered one lathi and one plastic container of kerosene from thatched room near the house of the accused. The witness has also proved the recovery memo as Ex.Ka-8 and lathi and plastic container of kerosene oil as material exhibits Ka.1 and Ka.2. S.I.- Chedi Prasad Yadav in his cross examination has denied the suggestion of the defence that during police custody remand, accused Brahmdeo Chauhan was beaten after disrobing him and his signature was obtained on a blank paper. The witness has only admitted that accused Brahmdeo Chauhan has made a complaint in the court of CJM on which he was summoned by the court. It is true that no other witness has been produced by the prosecution to corroborate the statement of P.W.-6 of this recovery but only on this ground it will not be proper to disbelieve it. Even if this evidence is ignored, there is still sufficient evidence in form of ocular testimony which proves the prosecution version about the involvement of accused-appellants in the incident.

20. From the appreciation of evidence it is clear that the ocular testimony of injured witnesses are consistent. It also stands corroborated from medical evidence and other supporting evidence. There is no major contradiction or discrepancy which create any suspicion or doubt. The prosecution evidence is wholly reliable and there is no ground to disbelieve it. From the evidence of record it stands proved that the accused persons at the behest of Brhamdev Chauhan in a pre- planned manner and with a common object holding lathi, danda, bricks/stones and kerosene container came at the house of Chandra Dev Yadav (deceased) abused and beaten Chandra Dev Yadav and other members of his family. Chandra Dev Yadav with Ashutosh and Ghanshyam went inside the room. The accused shut the door and set it on fire. They also beat them when they came out to save their lives. Accused person also set on fire, the other kutcha house (thatched roof rooms). They attacked the police vehicle and damaged it. They also threatened with death Chandra Dev Yadav and his family members. In this incident 11 persons suffered visible injuries and Chandra Dev Yadav who was seriously injured and was admitted in the hospital, succumbed to his injuries one week after the incident.

21. Learned counsels for the appellants vehemently contended that neither any charge under Section 149 IPC has been framed against the appellants-accused nor their conviction have been recorded with the aid of Section 149 IPC. It is not proved as to which of the accused has caused the fatal injury to the deceased. So none of the appellants could be convicted for charge under Section 302 IPC. Learned counsel further contended that all of the appellants-accused also cannot be convicted for simplicitor charges under Section 307, and 436 IPC. Individual role of each accused will have to be judged. It is also contended that according to prosecution evidence Ravindra, Shrawan, Ajay, Brahmdeo Chauhan and Arvind assaulted Rajesh with lathi-danda and further Ravindra and Shrawan assaulted Chandra Dev Yadav with lathi. The role of setting on fire the room in which Chandra Dev Yadav, Ashutosh and Ghanshyam had taken refuge is assigned to Brahmdeo Chauhan and Hansnath Gaur (since acquitted). Rajesh alias Babban has been assigned the role of assaulting Chandra Dev Yadav with lathi. Chandra Dev

Yadav has suffered 13 injuries and it is not clear that which of the accused caused which of the injury. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied on following citations:

(i) Rudal Singh & ors vs. State, 2016 (3)ACR 2823

(ii) State of U.P. vs. Kallu Lal and ors, 1985 Law Suit (All) 475

(iii) Sri Kishan and ors vs. State of U.P., 1972 (2) SCC 537.

The learned AGA conceded that as trial court has not framed charge of section 149 IPC the individual role of the each accused will be scrutinised. He submitted that accused-appellants could not be convicted for charge under section302 IPC but the may be convicted for charges under section 307 and 436 IPC according to their roles explicit from the evidence.

From the perusal of the charges framed by the trial court, it is clear that unfortunately the trial court has framed charges without aid of Section 149 IPC and has framed simplicitor charges under Section 302, 307, 308 and 436 IPC. It is settled principle of law on the point that mere omission to mention Section 149 IPC may be considered an irregularity but failure to mention the nature of the offence committed by the accused-persons cannot said to be a mere irregularity. The charges framed under Section 302 & 307 IPC are without the aid of Section 149 IPC and further there are no words in these charges which give any indication of existence of the ingredients of Section 149 IPC. So the conviction of the accused-appellants for charge under Section 302 IPC will not sustain. From the evidence on record it is also clear that there is no specific evidence which implicates the accused-appellants punishable for charges under Section 307 IPC and conviction for the aforesaid charge will also not sustain.

The trial court has also framed charge under Section 436 IPC simplicitor without the aid of Section 149 IPC but the trial court has used the words "आप अभ्युक्त द्वारा एक राय होकर"which denotes the common object of the accused.

In Ram Krishna AIR 1997 SC 3997 the Honourable Apex Court has observed "where the complicity of the accused in the crime has established and no specific charge indicating the applicability of section 149 was framed but all the ingredients of section 149 were clearly indicated in the charge framed against the appellants, the court held that the omission to mention Section 149 specifically in the charge is only an irregularity and since no prejudice was shown to have been caused to the appellants by that omission it was not to effect their conviction."

Although section 149 IPC is not specifically mentioned in the charge framed under Section 436 IPC but the language of the charge clearly indicates the common object of the accused which is the essential ingredient of Section149 IPC. Applying the aforesaid principle of law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court it is clear that the accused-appellants cannot get benefit of omission of Section 149 IPC in the charge of Section 436 IPC. They could not be acquitted on this ground from the aforesaid charge as the charge indicates that the act was done in furtherance of the common object and omission of Section 149 IPC is a mere irregularity. From the evidence it is proved that accused-appellants, forming an unlawful assembly with common object, set on fire the two houses of the complainant, so their conviction under Section 436 IPC is just and legal.

22. It also stands proved from the evidence that all accused persons holding lathi-danda, bricks/stones and kerosene container forming an unlawful assembly came at the door of Chandra Dev Yadav and threatened Chandra Dev Yadav and his family members will death and beat them with lathi-danda. So charges under Section 147, 323 & 506 IPC also stand proved.

23. By the impuned judgement, the trial court has acquitted accused Suman Rajbhar, Santosh Yadav, Hansnath Gaur , Ranjit Gond, Sunil Rajbhar, Devendra Rajbhar , Harendra Rajbhar, Bechu Rajhbhar and Mohan Rajbhar from all the charges. Complainant/injured has filed criminal revision no. 188 of 2007 against the said order of acquittal. The learned counsel of revisionist contended that prosecution has produced three eye witnesses who are also injured and by there testimony prosecution case is fully established and their testimony cannot be disbelieved. From the deposition of witnesses it is established that all the accused including the acquitted accused have actively participated in the crime. The learned counsel further contended that the trial court on the same evidence has convicted some of the accused but acquitted the nine accused (opposite party) without any cogent reasoning . When the trial court has believed the testimony of eye witnesses there was no reason to disbelieve it for acquitted accused. It is further contended that leaned trial court has acquitted other accused persons without considering the totality of the circumstances and material available on record which is not sustainable in the eyes of law. On the aforesaid grounds learned counsel prayed that criminal revision filed on behalf of the informant against the acquittal of those accused persons is liable to be allowed.

The learned counsel for the accused opposite party submitted that all the nine accused acquitted by the trial court except Santosh Yadav were not named in the FIR and there names have been added during the investigation without any just cause. They have not been put to identification. The learned trial court on appreciation of the evidence found that their involvement in the incident is doubtful. The learned trial court giving benefit of doubt have acquitted them. The findings of the learned trial court do not suffer from any illegality or infirmity and there is no sufficient ground to set aside the order of acquittal .

Section 401 of CrPC deals with power of High Court in Revision. Sub -section 1 and 3 the relevant provisions are as follows:-

"1. In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by itself or Which otherwise comes to its knowledge, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of Appeal by sections 386, 389, 390 and 391 or on a Court of Session by section 307 and, when the Judges composing the Court of revision are equally divided in opinion, the case shall be disposed of in the manner provided by section 392.

3. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise a High Court to convert a finding of acquittal into one of conviction."

In a catena of decisions it has been held that the High Court cannot in revision convert finding of acquittal into one of conviction. In Bhogilal v. State of UP, 1984(3)crimes 37 this court has held even if there is an error on the point of law or in appreciation of evidence the higher court should not interfere in the finding of acquittal. The order of acquittal may be set aside if it is based on conjecture and surmises and there is mis-carriage of justice. In Yogendra Nath Jha Vs. Polai Lal, AIR 1951 SC 316 it has been held that by merely characterising the judgment of the trial court as perverse and lacking in perspective, the High Court cannot reverse pure findings of fact based on the trial courts appreciation of evidence . The power of the High Court is very limited and as a general rule the High Court will not interfere in revision against the order of acquittal unless there is a gross error of law.

In respect of the aforesaid acquitted accused the learned trial court has observed that except Santosh Yadav the seven other accused are not named in the FIR and their name have been added during investigation but it is not clear from the prosecution evidence that on what basis their names have been added. If they were not named in the FIR whether any identification parade was conducted. It has been further observed that this statement that as and when there names came into knowledge they were added. is not sufficient and satisfactory explanation. In respect of accused Hansnath Gaur it has been alleged that he pressed the chest of Chandra Dev Yadav with a wooden plank causing injury to him but omission of the name of the accused in the FIR attributed with such a prominent role and narrating it for the first time in the court creates doubt. The learned trial court on the aforesaid appreciation has held that the accused whose names have been added after the FIR, creates doubt about their participation in the incident and on the aforesaid grounds have given benefit of doubt to them. In respect of accused Santosh Yadav the learned trial court has observed that he is resident of village Sahaspura PS- Rasda while in the FIR it is alleged that all the accused are residents of village Ussa and there is no explanation about the fact that how he has been alleged to be resident of village Ussa in the FIR. The learned trial court has also observed that it has come in the evidence that many people were assembled at the place of occurrence and passers by were also there. Hence in such a circumstance, the presence of any outsider at the place of occurrence was possible and on its basis his name may have been mentioned in the FIR. On the aforesaid reasoning, the learned trial court has extended benefit of doubt to the accused Santosh Yadav, also. The findings of the learned trial court are based on appreciation of evidence and cannot be said to be perverse or purely conjecture and surmises. The view taken by the learned trial court cannot be said to be improbable also. It may be a possible view. Applying the proposition of law as discussed above it is clear that there is no sufficient ground to interfere in the aforesaid findings of the trial court and set aside the order of acquittal. The powers of revisional court being limited, the revisional court cannot re-appreciate the evidence in its own way to interfere in the finding of acquittal unless the said finding is either perverse or based on inadmissible evidence or admissible evidence has been ignored by the court. There is no such circumstance in this case. So there is no merit in the revision which is liable to be dismissed.

24. From the above discussion, it is clear that convictions of accused-appellants under Sections 302 & 307 IPC are not sustainable in the eye of law, the same is liable to be set aside and all the accused-appellants are liable to be acquitted of the charges under Sections 302 and 307 IPC.

Conviction of the accused-appellants for charges under Section 147, 323, 436 and 506 IPC are liable to be upheld. The sentences awarded by the trial court in respect of the aforesaid charges are also just and proper and need no interference.

25. All the aforesaid four criminal appeals are partly allowed and conviction and sentence of the appellants-accused under Section 302 and 307 IPC are hereby set aside. Appellants accused are acquitted of the charges under Section 302 & 307 IPC. The conviction and sentence of the appellants accused for charges under Sections 147, 323, 436 & 506 IPC are hereby upheld. Appellants- accused Ravindra Chauhan, Brahmdeo Chauhan, Arvind Gaur and Rajesh alias Babban are in jail. They will serve their remaining sentences. Remaining appellants accused Basdeo Rajbhar, Guddu Rajbhar, Ram Bhawan Rajbhar, Harish Chand Rajbhar, Gama Rajbhar, Jawahir Chauhan, Ram Shankar Rajbhar are on bail. Their bail bonds and suriety bonds are cancelled. They shall surrender before the trial court within 15 days and be taken into custody to serve their sentences, failing which the trial court shall proceed according to law.

26. Criminal Revision has no merits and is hereby dismissed.

27. Copy of this judgment along with lower court record be transmitted to the learned trial court immediately.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. This Criminal appeal has been filed by the appellants against the judgment and order dated 27.11.2009 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, FTC-Vth, court no. 14, Sultanpur in S.T. No. 332 of 2007 arising out of Crime No. 372 of 2007 under Sections 302/34, 498 A IPC and 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 registered at Police Station-Musafirkhana, District-Sultanpur convicting the appellant Brijesh Kaushal and Smt. Nirmala and sentencing them for life imprisonment along with fine of Rs. 5000/ each, in default thereof to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of three months.

2. Heard Shri Maneesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellants and Shri Umesh Verma, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State and perused the judgment and order passed by learned trial court as also the lower court record.

3. As per the prosecution case, on 22.05.2007, a First Information Report was lodged at 9.30 A.M. against four persons namely, Brijesh Kaushal (husband of the deceased), Smt. Nirmala (mother in law of the deceased), Ghanshayam Kaushal (father-in-law of the deceased) and Rajesh Kaushal (devar/brother-in-law of the deceased) under Sections 302/34, 498 A IPC and 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 stating therein that the marriage of the daughter of the complainant namely Manju (hereinafter referred to as 'the deceased') was solemnized with Hindu customs and rituals five years ago with Brjesh Kaushal (appellant no. 1). At the time of marriage, as per the capacity, the dowry was given. After the marriage, the husband and in-laws of the deceased used to harass mentally and physically both for dowry demand, and the same was told by the deceased repeatedly. On the fateful day i.e. 22.05.2007 at 08.00 A.M. some unknown persons called the complainant and informed him that his daughter was set ablaze by pouring kerosene oil and when he reached the Community Health Centre, Musafirkhana, District Sultanpur, he saw his daughter lying on the bed in the emergency ward and on asking, she told that today morning at 8.00 A.M. she was set to fire by her husband and mother in law by pouring kerosene oil for dowry demand of Rs. 20,000/-. The daughter has been referred to Medical College at Lucknow. It has also been disclosed that earlier also, case for dowry demand was filed which was subsequently compromised and his daughter returned to her matrimonial house.

4. After investigation, charge-sheet was filed against all four accused persons under Sections 302/34, 498-A IPC and under Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.

5. The trial Court framed the charges against the accused appellants under Sections 302/34, 498-A IPC and 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 and the same was denied by the accused persons and asked for trial.

6. The prosecution, in order to bring home the accusation against the appellants has produced two witnesses of fact, namely Ram Chandar (the complainant)/father of the deceased as PW-1, Kumari Sanju Kaushal (younger sister of the deceased) as PW-2. The prosecution has further produced as many as six formal witnesses viz Suresh Kumar Dubey as PW-3, Dr. Rajendra Prasad as PW-4, Nagendra Singh, the Sub-Inspector as PW-5, Sheetla Prasad Pandey as PW-6, Rajeev Kumar Shukla as PW-7 and Dr. Suresh Chandra as PW-8 and Shri Madan Mohan Verma has also produced as CW-1.

7. As documentary evidence, the prosecution has proved the Nakal Tehrir as Ext. ka-1, Chik FIR as Ext. ka 2, Kayami G.D. as Ext. ka-3, Dying Declaration as Ext. ka- 4, Chargesheet as Ext. ka-5, Site plan as Ext. ka- 6, Fard as Ext. ka- 7, Panchanama as Ext. ka- 8, C.M.O Report as Ext. ka-9, Photonash as Ext. ka- 10, Form- 13 as Ext. ka- 11, Dead Memo as Ext. ka- 12, Photo G.D. as Ext. ka- 13, Post Mortem Report as Ext. ka- 14.

8. On the other hand, the appellants in their defence examined Shiv Shankar Agrahari as DW-1, Ram Nath alias Natthu as DW-2, Surendra Pratap Tripathi as DW-3.

9. The statement of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as, 'the Cr.P.C.'), wherein, they had denied the commission of crime stating therein that the first information report was ante timed and they took her to the hospital for treatment. The charge-sheet has wrongly been filed and the appellant no. 1 has further stated that he was at his shop, downstairs and the mother was not at home and had gone to the temple and after hearing hue and cry, he ran immediately and saw that the clothes of deceased caught fire from the stove and she was burning. After receiving the burn injuries, the deceased had never said anything.

10. The trial court has not accepted the case of the prosecution on two aspects. Firstly, the marriage was solemnized five years ago. As per the evidence before the trial court, a clear finding has been given that marriage was solemnized more than seven years ago. Hence, no offence is made out against the accused persons/appellants under Section 498-A r/w Section 304 IPC and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 and secondly, the statement that previously also, a case was filed but the same was compromised. On that the trial court had given a specific finding that it was an old matter and after the compromise the deceased was living in her matrimonial house since long. The father-in-law and the Dewar were acquitted, whereas the husband i.e. appellant no. 1 and the mother-in-law were convicted under Section 302 r/w Section 34 IPC and sentenced, as above on the basis the dying declaration of the deceased before the Naib Tehsildar, wherein she had said that her husband/appellant no. 1 put her on fire on the instigation or instructions of his mother and at the time of the incident, the husband and mother-in-law were present.

11. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the second dying declaration, which has been relied upon by the trial court without looking to the alleged first non-judicial dying declaration made by the deceased-Manju before her father/complainant (P.W.1), there is variance in the first dying declaration given by the deceased-Manju when compared to the deposition during cross-examination of her father and it contradicts with the dying declaration given to the Naib Tehsildar. In the case of non-judicial dying declaration, there should be no variance in the statements of the witness and the exact words allegedly used by the deceased. In the present case, as according to the narration in the first information report lodged by PW.1, the deceased told him that due to non-fulfillment of dowry demand of Rs. 20,000/-, my husband and mother-in-law put me on fire by pouring kerosene oil at 08.00 AM, whereas in the examination in chief, PW.1 has stated that his daughter-Manju told him that due to the demand of Rs. 20,000/-, as dowry, my husband, my mother-in-law, father-in-law and Dewar poured kerosene oil and put me on fire at around 07.30 AM. So, this variance in the statements of PW.1 with regard to the exact words allegedly used by the deceased had become suspicious. 12. In the first dying declaration, there is a mention as stated by the P.W. 1 in his statement that the deceased has told as under:-

"अस्पताल वहां पर एमरजेन्सी के बेड पर मेरी लडकी जली अवस्था में मौजूद कराह रही थी जिससे पूछने पर उसने बताया कि मुझसे दहेज के 20,000/– रुपया कम देने के कारण मेरे पति व सास ने मिटटी का तेल डालकर करीब सुबह 8 बजे जला दिया।"

13. Further, in the cross-examination, PW.1 has stated as under:-

"दिनांक 22 मई को सबेरे 8 बजे अज्ञात आदमी ने मुझे टेलीफोन किया व बताया कि मंजू के सास, ससुर व देवर व पति मंजू के ऊपर मिट्टी का तेल डालकर जला दिये। मैं मुसाफिरखाना अस्पताल आया तो देखा कि लड़की जीवित थी और कराह रही थी। मैं मंजू से पूछा कि कैसे हुआ? तो मंजू ने बताया कि 20 हजार रुपये दहेज में न देने के कारण मेरे पति, मेरी सास, ससुर व देवर ने मेरे ऊपर मिट्टी का तेल डालकर मुझे जला दिया। सुबह 7–1/2 बजे मुझे जला दिया।"

14. The Apex Court in the case of Darshana Devi vs. State of Punjab [(1996) SCC (Cri) 38], has held as under:-

"There is variance in the statements of the two witnesses with regard to the exact words allegedly used by the deceased. According to PW 2, the deceased had stated that the appellant had sprinkled kerosene on him when he was lying asleep and had burnt him, while Lachhmi Devi, PW 1 did not attribute any such statement to the deceased. PW 1 reiterated in her cross-examination "all that Madan Lal told me was that he had been burnt by Darshana Devi by sprinkling koresene" Even though an oral dying declaration can form basis of conviction in a given case, but such a dying declaration has to be trustworthy and free from every blemish and inspire confidence. The reproduction of the exact words of the oral declaration in such cases is very important. The difference in the exact words of the declaration in this case detract materially from the value of the oral dying declaration." (emphasis laid by us)"

15. As per the above law settled by the Apex Court in the case of oral dying declaration, the words should be exact, used allegedly by the deceased, but such a dying declaration must be free from every blemish and inspire confidence, whereas in the present case, due to the variance about the time, which can be ignored but involvement of accused persons is major. On the contrary, learned trial court has not made any observation in its judgment impugned in the present criminal appeal on this aspect of the matter, regarding the alleged oral dying declaration made by the deceased to her father-PW.1.

16. The deceased, in her second dying declaration before the Naib Tehsildar has stated, as under:-

"प्रश्न– कैसे आग लगी?

उत्तर– मेरे पति ने मेरे ऊपर मिटटी का तेल डालकर माचिस से आग लगा दी। मेरे पति नशा करते है मर्फिया पीते है मॉ के कहने पर जलाये। मैं दहेज एक्ट का पहले मुकदमा लड़ चुकी हूँ। मैं मुकदमे में समझौता कर ली थी, इसके बाद पति के साथ रहने लगी थी। मेरे जलने के समय मेरे पति व सास थी। एक आदमी ने मुझे बचाया मैं उसको पहचानती नहीं।"

17. In the above two dying declarations there is variance and hence are not reliable. In the first dying declaration, the cause of putting her ablaze was demand of Rs. 20,000/- as dowry and all the four persons were made accused in the dying declaration whereas in the second dying declaration before the Naib Tehsildar, there is no whisper of demand of dowry due to which she was put to fire and out of four, the names of only two accused persons were mentioned and in support of his submission, learned counsel for the appellants has relied upon various judgments.

18. The Apex Court in paragraph 14 in the case of P. Mani vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in [(2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 36], has held as under:-

"14. Indisputably conviction can be recorded on the basis of the dying declaration alone but therefor the same must be wholly reliable. In a case where suspicion can be raised as regards the correctness of the dying declaration, the court before convicting an accused on the basis thereof would look for some corroborative evidence. Suspicion, it is trite, is no substitute for proof. If evidence brought on record suggests that such dying declaration does not reveal the entire truth, it may be considered only as a piece of evidence in which event conviction may not be rested only on the basis thereof. The question as to whether a dying declaration is of impeccable character would depend upon several factors; physical and mental condition of the deceased is one of them. In this case the circumstances which have been brought on record clearly point out that what might have been stated in the dying declaration may not be correct. If the deceased had been nurturing a grudge against her husband for a long time, she while committing suicide herself may try to implicate him so as to make his life miserable. In the present case where the appellant has been charged under Section 302 of the Penal Code, the presumption in terms of Section 113-A of the Evidence Act is not available. In the absence of such a presumption, the conviction and sentence of the accused must be based on cogent and reliable evidence brought on record by the prosecution. In this case, we find that the evidences are not such which point out only to the guilt of the accused."

19. In paragraph no. 3, the Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan vs. Prithvi Raj reported in [(1995) SCC (Cri) 934], has held as under:-

"3. To satisfy ourselves we have carefully gone through the evidence and also the original records. From the above resume it can be seen that the dying declarations Ex. P-7 and Ex. P-11 recorded by the Assistant Sub-Inspector and the Magistrate are of great importance in this case. It is held in a number of cases that if there are more than one dying declarations, the court has to see whether they are consistent in material particulars. In the instant case we have to examine the contents of the dying declaration particularly in the background of the plea taken by the accused. In Ex. P-7 the deceased stated that her husband used to give her threats and that he would burn her to death and that she returned from her father's house and was sitting in the kotha when her husband asked her to go out. Thereafter her husband poured kerosene on her and went out into the aangan (courtyard). He brought a matchstick and set fire. Her in-laws were sitting near the outgate and doing stitching work. In Ex P-11 she stated that she was sitting in the aangan and not in the kotha and that her husband set fire to her clothes and on making hue and cry, people gathered and her husband and her in-laws carried her to the hospital."

20. In paragraph 7, the Apex Court in the case of Meera vs. State of Rajasthan reported in [(2004) SCC (Cri) Supp. 16], has held as under:-

"7. The second dying declaration on which the prosecution relied is said to have been made by the deceased when she was taken on a 'tonga' to her parents' house at Purada. Such a statement was allegedly made by her to her mother Chhogi (PW-10) in the presence of Sadia (PW-2) and Uma (PW-3). Chhogi (PW-10), the mother of the deceased, stated that on the date of occurrence the deceased had been brought on a 'tonga' to her village in the evening. Deva was also with her. Her daughter was brought down from the 'tonga' and at that time she was saying that her mother-in-law made her drink a rat poison and this was stated in the presence of PW-2 Sadia and PW-3 Uma. Immediately the Sarpanch was contacted who gave them a letter with which they left for the hospital at Sumerpur. At the hospital her daughter was alive for about an hour."

21. In the case of Ajay and Ors. vs. State of U.P. reported in [(2020) 2 JIC 537 (All.)], this Court in paragraph 28 has observed, as under:-

"28. In Heeralal V/S State of Madhya Pradesh, 2009 LawSuit (SC) 394, the Apex Court has held as hereunder :

"that being so, in view of the apparent discrepancies in the two dying declarations it would be unsafe to convict the appellant."

In Gopal V/S State of Madhya Pradesh, 2009 LawSuit (SC) 484, the Apex Court has held as hereunder :

"Law relating to appreciation of evidence in the form of more than one dying declaration is well settled. Accordingly, it is not the plurality of the dying declarations but the reliability thereof that adds weight to the prosecution case. If a dying declaration is found to be voluntary, reliable and made in fit mental condition, it can be relied upon without any corroboration. The statement should be consistent throughout. If the deceased had several opportunities of making such dying declarations, that is to say, if there are more than one dying declaration they should be consistent. See: Kundula Bala Subrahmanyam vs. State of A.P. 1993 2 SCC 684. However, if some inconsistencies are noticed between one dying declaration and the other, the court has to examine the nature of the inconsistencies, namely, whether they are material or not. While scrutinizing the contents of various dying declaration, in such a situation, the court has to examine the same in the light of the various surrounding facts and circumstances."

22. On the other hand, learned AGA has submitted that there is no variance in the two dying declarations of the deceased. The learned trial court, while acquitting the father-in-law and the brother-in-law and convicting only husband and mother in law brings end to the plea of variance raised by the appellant. Only those persons have been punished or convicted against whom the material was found in the dying declaration. It is further submitted that whatever the consistencies, the benefit of the same was given to the persons who were entitled for the same and in support of his statement, learned AGA has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court reported in [2021 2 SCC (Cri) 539]: [(2021) 5 SCC 222] Nagabhushan Vs. State of Karnataka.

23. The position which emerges out after hearing the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the respective parties and going through the record as also the judgment of the Apex Court, the position which emerges out in the present case is that it is an admitted settled legal proposition of law that a conviction can be awarded on the basis of dying declaration alone, therefore, the same must be wholly reliable and for determining the correctness of the dying declaration, it must be looked with some corroborative evidences. In the present case, there are two dying declaration of the deceased and the variance has already been discussed above, the said variance in the two dying declaration of the deceased.

24. From the records, it is revealed that the dying declaration recorded by the Naib Tehsildar on which the time mentioned is 9.43 A.M. whereas time of lodging of the First Information Report is 9.30 A.M. so within 13 minutes, the Naib Tehsildar was there for recording the dying declaration of the deceased, which is highly improbable. Apart from that, the learned trial court on the application of the prosecution side under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has passed an order on 21.10.2009 summoning Shri Madan Mohan Verma, Naib Tehsildar as CW-1. The Naib Tehsildar CW-1 in his statement before the Court has stated that he had received the information of recording the dying declaration at Musafir Khana at 9.30 A.M. and it took 20-30 minutes to reach the office of SDM at Musafir Khana from Jagdishpur and 15-20 minutes in obtaining the orders from the SDM and thereafter he might had taken some time to reach to the hosptial for recording the dying declaration. The time, as stated by the Naib Tehsildar makes the dying declaraion suspicious that it was recorded at 9.43 AM. It is also not disclosed by CW-1 that, who had informed him at 9.30 AM at Jagdishpur asking him to reach Musafirkhana for recording the dying declaration. There might be three sources, which are as follows:-

1. The Police, who lodged the FIR.
2. The doctor, who attended, the deceased.
3. Any higher officer to whom, the special report would have been forwarded under Section 157 of the Cr.P.C.

25. Except the above, no other source is there from which the CW-1 would have received the information at the earliest whereas the Investigating Officer and the doctor in their testimony before the Court have stated that they had not informed the Naib Tehsildar.

26. There is a procedure for submitting the dying declaration report before the Court. It must be in the sealed envelope. It could only be opened by the order of the Court whereas from the record it is revealed that in the endorsement, it has been mentioned that the dying declaration is in the envelope. There is no order on the record passed by the Court for opening the same.

27. It is the requirement of the law that before recording the dying declaration there must be a certificate by a doctor that the injured is physically and mentally stable and fit to give any statement. In the present case, the dying declaration recorded by the Naib Tehsildar and at the top of the same, the doctor, who was attending the deceased, had certified that she was mentally fit to depose statement but at the time of testimony given by the doctor-PW-4 before the court had stated that the deceased was mentally very much disturbed due to her burn injuries and she was in pain meaning hereby, her mental condition was not stable and not fit for deposing any statement on the basis of which, the appellants were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

28. In these circumstances, if seen all the things collectively, makes the dying declaration suspicious, whereas the dying declaration is to be trustworthy and free from every blemish and inspire confidence, which is failing in the present case, as discussed above and hence, the appellants cannot be convicted and sentenced solely relying upon the said dying declaration.

29. The learned trial court, while giving finding on the basis of the statement of CW.1 has mentioned time totally against the time mentioned by the CW.1, in his statement. The time mentioned by the CW.1 in his statement has already been mentioned above, whereas at the time of giving finding, the learned trial court has noted that the CW.1 has obtained the order from the SDM at 09.30 AM and in obtaining the order, it took 15-20 minutes and took 10-15 minutes to reach Musafirkhana from Jagdishpur, which is totally against the time mentioned by CW.1, in his statement, as has already been mentioned in para-12 of the judgment.

30. As the incident had occurred in the house of the appellants, then as per Section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1872'), the burden shifts on the defence to prove his innocence. It is no doubt that the initial burden is upon the prosecution, but as per Section 106 of the Act of 1872, the corresponding burden also lies upon the inmates of the house. The Cr.P.C. provides not only the procedure but also provides certain protection to the accused persons by following certain procedures i.e. after registration of the case, production of the prosecuting witnesses and evidences, the opportunity is to be given to the accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C. either to deny or to accept the charges/allegations by examining or questioning by the trial court; thereafter the second important stage available with the accused is to produce the defence witnesses and evidences, just to prove their innocence and third most important stage is opportunity to cross-examine the prosecuting witnesses, just to bring the truth of the prosecution story/allegations/charges.

31. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that the conduct is very relevant for sentencing an accused. In the present case the appellant while trying to save the life of his wife i.e. Manju also got burn injuries and thereafter they had taken her to the Community Health Centre, Musafirkhana and being then referred to the KGMU, Lucknow, brought her to the KGMU in car but before reaching the KGMU, the deceased succumbed to her injuries.

32. In support of his submissions, regarding conduct, the learned counsel for the appellants has relied upon various judgments of the Apex Court.

33. In the case of P. Mani vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in [(2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 36] , the Apex Court in paragraph 11 has held as under:-

"11. The High Court furthermore commented upon the conduct of the appellant in evading arrest from 4-10-1998 to 21-10-1998. The investigating officer did not say so. He did not place any material to show that the appellant had been absconding during the said period. He furthermore did not place any material on record that the appellant could not be arrested despite attempts having been made therefor. Why despite the fact, the appellant who had been shown to be an accused in the first information report recorded by himself was not arrested is a matter which was required to be explained by the investigating officer. He admittedly visited the place of occurrence and seized certain material objects. The investigating officer did not say that he made any attempt to arrest the appellant or for that matter he had been evading the same. He also failed and/or neglected to make any statement or bring on record any material to show as to what attempts had been made by him to arrest the appellant. No evidence furthermore has been brought by the prosecution to show as to since when the appellant made himself unavailable for arrest and/or was absconding."

34. In the case of Ram Das Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in [(1977) SCC (Cri) 254], the Apex Court in paragraphs 9 & 10, has held as under:-

"9. The next circumstance on which great reliance was placed by the High Court was the fact that the accused immediately took the deceased to the Civil Hospital which, according to the High Court, was meant merely to cloak his guilt. We are indeed surprised that the High Court should have taken such a perverse view of the matter. If the accused had himself administered the poison to Shantabai he would be the last person to take her to the hospital and thereby take the chance of the deceased being cured or of regaining consciousness, in which case the deceased would have implicated the appellant. The conduct of the accused in rushing her to the hospital is more consistent with his innocence rather than with his guilt. The High Court instead of taking the circumstance as proving the good faith and bona fides of the accused drew the opposite inference. Furthermore, assuming that the High Court was right and that the accused went to the hospital merely to cloak his guilt this may be one inference possible, but the other inference which is equally reasonable was that the accused having found that his wife had taken poison and attempted to commit suicide took her to the hospital immediately so that she could be given proper medical aid and her life may be saved. In this state of the evidence, the High Court violated the rule of appreciation of circumstantial evidence in accepting only that inference which went against the accused and not entertaining the inference which proved his innocence and which, in our opinion, was more probable than the other.

10. It was suggested by the High Court that the accused gave no information to the father of the deceased. In view of the short time at the disposal of the appellant, there was hardly any opportunity to inform the parents. Moreover, as the appellant made no secret of the fact that his wife had died and the body was in fact handed over to the doctor for post-mortem and then cremated, it cannot be said that the appellant maintained any secrecy in the matter."

"5. It is true, as contended by the learned counsel, that the manner of appreciation of the evidence in respect of the dying declaration is not altogether sound. But the High Court has rightly held that the immediate conduct of the accused and his parents in rushing the deceased to the hospital immediately by arranging a jeep is quite consistent with their being innocent. However, we find that the overall reasoning of the High Court in giving the benefit of doubt to the accused cannot be said to be wholly unsound and does not stand judicial scrutiny. This is an appeal against acquittal and that too in respect of an offence said to have been committed in the year 1978. Since this is a bride burning case and having regard to the nature of the evidence that can be available in such cases, we have gone through the entire records including the original records. However, having given a careful consideration to the whole matter we are not wholly satisfied that this is a case where interference should necessarily be called for. Accordingly the appeal is dismissed."

36. On the contrary, the conduct of the complainant/father of the deceased who after lodging the FIR, at 9.30 AM reached KGMU, Lucknow at 7.00 PM having full trust and faith that his daughter will get treatment properly under the supervision and care of her husband and in-laws.

37. On the other hand, the conduct of PW.1, since the very inception, the prosecution was trying to falsely implicate the appellants. At the time of lodging of the first information report, a false fact was disclosed that the marriage was solemnized five years ago, just to falsely implicate the whole family under Section 498-A r/w Section 304 IPC, as they knew that their daughter was not murdered or killed by the appellants and it was very difficult for the prosecution to prove the offence against the appellants under Section 302 IPC. The conduct is also very strange that even after lodging of the first information report at 09.30 AM, the father/PW.1 reached Lucknow at around 07.00 PM in the evening as admitted in the cross-examination.

38. On the other hand, learned AGA has submitted that the conduct of the appellants is suspicious and doubtful as he was sitting in his shop down stairs and the deceased was ablazed at the first floor and got 90 per cent burn injuries meaning hereby, the appellants must have awaited that she should burnt fully and in support of his submissions relied upon the judgment in the case of Nagabhushan (supra), paragraphs 9, 10,11 & 12 are quoted hereinbelow, for ready reference:-

9. Now so far as the merits of the appeal are concerned, it cannot be disputed that in the present case there are two dying declarations, (i) Ext. P-5 and (ii) Ext. D-2. The High Court in the impugned judgment and order [State of Karnataka v. Nagabhushan, 2019 SCC OnLine Kar 3093] has given cogent reasons to rely upon and believe the second dying declaration -- Ext. P-5. The High Court has also taken note of the fact that the second dying declaration is reliable and the version in the second dying declaration is supported by the circumstances, namely, the injuries sustained by the deceased; no stove was found at the place of occurrence. The High Court has also taken note of the fact that in the second dying declaration, the deceased has explained her first statement that it was a case of accident and she categorically stated in the second dying declaration that at the time when she gave first statement that it was a case of accident, she was given threats by the appellant herein -- original Accused 1 that he will kill her children also. She also stated in the second dying declaration that after her parents came, she got the courage to tell the truth. Therefore, as such, the High Court rightly believed the second dying declaration -- Ext. P-5.

10. At this stage, the decisions of this Court in Nallam Veera Stayanandam v. High Court of A.P. [Nallam Veera Stayanandam v. High Court of A.P., (2004) 10 SCC 769 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 606] , Kashmira Devi v. State of Uttarakhand [Kashmira Devi v. State of Uttarakhand, (2020) 11 SCC 343 : (2020) 4 SCC (Cri) 269] and Ashabai v. State of Maharashtra [Ashabai v. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 2 SCC 224 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 943] are required to be referred to. In the aforesaid decisions, this Court had an occasion to consider the cases where there are multiple dying declarations. In the aforesaid decisions, it is held that each dying declaration has to be considered independently on its own merit as to its evidentiary value and one cannot be rejected because of the contents of the other. It is also held that the court has to consider each of them in its correct perspective and satisfy itself which one of them reflects the true state of affairs. When there are multiple dying declarations, each dying declaration has to be separately assessed and evaluated on its own merits.

11. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decisions to the facts of the case on hand, and on evaluation of both the dying declarations independently, dying declaration recorded as Ext. P-5 reflects the true state of affairs and the contents are supported by the medical evidence and the injuries sustained by the deceased. The plea put forth by the defence that it was a case of an accident and while pouring the kerosene from kerosene can to the bottle, the same had fallen on the clothes placed on the ground and when the deceased tried to remove the clothes from that place, the candle fell on the ground, as a result, her clothes caught fire and she sustained burn injuries is disbelieved by the High Court considering the circumstances noted by the High Court that the deceased sustained injuries on the face, chest and back and to the upper limbs. The main injuries are found on the upper limbs of the body. Therefore, as rightly observed by the High Court, the aforesaid injuries can be possible when the kerosene is poured on the deceased. According to the defence and as per the evidence of DW 1/A-1, while putting the kerosene into the stove, accidentally the kerosene had fallen on the ground and also on her clothes, and thereafter when the candle fell on the ground, the same had come in contact with her clothes and kerosene. If that is the case, there would have been injuries to her feet also. However, no burn injuries are found on her feet. No stove was found at the place of occurrence. Therefore, the defence came out with a false case of accidental fire, which, as such, is not supported by any other reliable evidence. On the contrary, this evidence speaks otherwise. Therefore, when A-1 came with a false defence and the dying declaration Ext. P-5 is corroborated by other surrounding circumstances and evidence and after independent evaluation of Ext. P-5 and Ext. D-2, when the High Court has found that Ext. P-5 is reliable and inspiring confidence and thereafter when the High Court has convicted the accused, it cannot be said that the High Court has committed any error.

12. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the accused that even thereafter he tried to extinguish the fire and he also sustained injuries and therefore it cannot be said that the appellant has committed an offence punishable under Section 302 IPC is concerned, at the outset, it is required to be noted that in the present case the prosecution is successful in proving that the appellant-accused herein poured kerosene on the deceased. As per dying declaration Ext. P-5, it has been proved that the deceased was set ablaze by pouring kerosene on her. The act of the accused falls in clause fourthly of Section 300 IPC. It emerges from the evidence on record that the accused poured kerosene on the deceased and not only poured kerosene but also set her ablaze by the matchstick. Merely because thereafter A-1 might have tried to extinguish the fire, that will not

38. After hearing the learned counsel for the respective parties, going through the records and judgments of the Apex Court, the position which emerges out is that the conduct of the appellants is very relevant as they took the injured to the local hospital immediately and thereafter came to the KGMU, Lucknow as referred by the Community Health Centre, Musafirkhana to save her life and if they would have committed the offence, they would have not tried to save the life of the injured-Manju. If the offence was committed by the appellants they would have tried hard to cause her death and not taken her to the hospital or in the better hosptial referred by the Community Health Centre, Musafirkhana. The appellant no. 1 also got burn injuries which was examined after his arrest while he was being sent to the jail and as per the medical report, there burn injuries are of 5-7 days old i.e. corroborating with the date of incident, so the immediate action and conduct of the appellants has proved the innocence of the appellants.

39. The judgment relied upon by the learned AGA is not applicable in the present case for the reasons that the fact of this case are different as of the case relied upon by learned AGA. The fact of the case relied is while giving second dying declaration the deceased had categorically explained that her first statement was given under the threat given by the appellant to kill her children. Secondly, the dying declaration was corroborating with the other witnesses. The appellants did not take the injured to the hospital and there were other evidences adduced by the prosecution which proved the case against the appellants beyond reasonable doubt wheras in the present case, no such fact is in existence. It is nowhere stated by the deceased that she was threatened to depose certain statements by the appellants. Their conduct for trying to save the life and to make vulnerable themselves for false implication in the case if the injured be cured and except the dying declaration, nothing was on the record.

40. As per the settled law that if there is no break in chain in the prosecution story, then as per Section 106 of the Act, 1872, the burden shifts on the defence to prove his innocence. In case the occurrence of the incident inside the house, the initial burden is upon the prosecution but as per Section 106 of the Act, 1872, the corresponding burden also lies upon the inmates of the house.

41. The appellants in defence to prove their innocence while discharging the burden under Section 106 of the Act, 1872 produced three defence witnesses, two were those who are neighbours and had seen the appellant no. 1 trying to save the deceased by making efforts to douse the fire and the third witness, who is the Pujari of the temple had specifically made the statement that appellant no. 2 was at the temple at that time but the learned trial court had completely ignored the defence witnesses.

42. In the present case, learned trial court only referred the defence witnesses for proving the dying declaration recorded by CW.1 and precisely on the issue that the appellant no. 1, in his statement has stated that after receiving the burn injuries, the deceased had not spoken a single word till she succumbed to the injuries. The trial court has observed that DW.1 & 2, after seeing smoke coming out from the first floor of the appellant no. 1 and hearing the hue and cry, Shiv Shankar Agrahari, Ghanshyam, Hari Shankar, Ram Nath alias Natthu, Rajesh and others went inside the house by running and the appellant no. 1 also ran from his shop and when we all reached we saw the wife of appellant no. 1 is on fire and appellant no. 1 is trying to douse the fire and on asking, she said that while cooking the food, her saree caught fire. Learned trial court has taken into consideration only one line of the statements of DWs. that it was told by the deceased and held that she was talking and hence the statement recorded by the Naib Tehsildar is proved. The learned trial court cannot read the evidence/statements in parts but it has to be read in totality. The trial court by placing reliance on the testimony of defence witnesses and not disbelieving it then no offence is made out against the appellants for convicting and sentencing them, as mentioned above.

43. The learned trial court has completely failed to appreciate that the defence witnesses who were cross-examined also by the prosecution and thereafter it has come out that appellant no. 1 was on his shop and after seeing the smoke and cries of the deceased, he ran away from his shop to his house and other persons including the defence witnesses ran towards the house and what they saw is appellant no. 1 was trying to save the life of the deceased. This major statement which has come out after the cross-examination of the defence witnesses has completely been ignored, which absolve the appellants from the allegations/charges of killing his wife/her daughter-in-law and except that, the defence witnessed had neither been relied or discussed or their testimony was rejected by the learned trial court. The law is well-settled by the Apex Court in paragraph 32 in the case of Prem Pal Singh Vs. State reported in [2017 (1) JIC Reports 104 (All)], which is as under:-

"32. It is evident from the perusal of the impugned judgment of trial court that the defence evidence has not been carefully considered by it. We do not understand why the statements of the D.W.-1 A. S. Rizvi, ACO (Consolidation) and D.W.-2 Malkhan Singh, father of appellant Babu Lal have been brushed aside in the manner as done by the Trial Judge. There is no reason why their evidence should not be accepted when they have asserted before the trial court on oath that appellants Babulal was present in Sultanpur on the date of incident. The courts below have held that the two witnesses produced by the defence are unreliable. But the Trial Judge has not given any satisfactory reason for the same. It is necessary to point out that as far as courts are concerned, witnesses of both sides, prosecution and defence, sail in the same boat. Both have to appraised on the touchstone of credibility and truthfulness. Courts cannot say that she will not trust some witnesses merely because they have been produced by defence. Testimony of defence witnesses has to be evaluated in same manner as that of prosecution. Same yardstick has to be applied. Testimony of D.W.-1 A.S. Rizvi is cogent and credible. There was no reason for him to lie. D.W-2 Man Singh was his subordinate. There was no pressure upon him to favour Babu Lal. We have carefully examined the testimony of D.W.-1 A. S. Rizvi. He has established the presence of appellant Babu Lal on the date of incident in District Sultanpur, situated at long distance away. We feel that there is no reason to disbelieve his evidence especially in the light of shaky, weak and untrustworthy evidence of P.W-10 Savitri Devi who alone tried to support the prosecution story, out of seven eye witnesses produced by the prosecution."

44. From the above judgment, it is settled proposition of law that the witnesses of both the sides (prosecution and the defence) sail on the same boat both have to be given same treatment at par to appraise on the touchstone of credibility and truthfulness which has not been made in the present case. If the testimony of the defence witnesses have not been disputed meaning hereby the case of the defence is accepted and the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt as no one has seen the incident or there is no eye witness of the incident. The whole case is on the basis of the circumstantial evidence.

45. In view of above facts and circumstances of the case, the attending circumstances and a careful scrutiny of the evidence on record, both oral as well as documentary, we are not satisified that the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the appellants, beyond all reasonable doubts and hence neither the recorded conviction of the appellants nor the sentence awarded to them, can be sustained in law and are liable to be set aside.

46. In view of the aforesaid, the present criminal appeal is allowed and consequently, the judgment and order dated 27.11.2009 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, FTC-Vth, court no. 14, Sultanpur in S.T. No. 332 of 2007 arising out of Case Crime No. 372 of 2007 under Sections 302/34, 498-A IPC and 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 registered at Police Station-Musafirkhana, District-Sultanpur, is set aside.

47. The appellants, who are in jail, shall be released forthwith, if they are not wanted in any other case.

48. Let the lower court record along with a copy of this order be transmitted forthwith to the learned trial court concerned for necessary information and compliance.

Barjor and others* arising out of Case Crime No. 56 of 1983, under Section 302 read with 34 of the Indian Penal Code, Police Station Auras, District Unnao. Vide judgment and order dated 28.01.1985, the V Additional Sessions Judge, Unnao convicted the accused/ appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced them to undergo life imprisonment.

(2) Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and order dated 28.01.1985, convict/ appellant, Barjor, has preferred the instant criminal appeal under Section 374 (2) Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C."), whereas other three convict/ appellants, Satti, Nawab and Vidya, preferred Criminal Appeal No. 129 of 1985 under Section 374 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

(3) It transpires from the record that during pendency of the aforesaid criminal appeals, co-convict/appellants, Satti, Nawab and Vidya, died, hence Criminal Appeal No.129 of 1985 was dismissed as abated by Co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 6.3.2020 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 129 of 1985. In this background, this Court proceed to decide the instant appeal on behalf of present surviving appellant-Barjor.

(4) The facts as unfolded by the prosecution, in short conspectus, are as under :-

The informant/Darshan (P.W.1) son of Lalu Yadav is the resident of Village Saidapur, Police Station Auras, District Unnao. On 03.09.1983, informant/Darshan (P.W.1), his uncles, namely, Daya Shanker (deceased) and Ram Asrey (P.W.4) had gone to the market of Village Ajgaon. In the market, Radhey Shyam, who is the son of Daya Shanker (deceased), also came from Hyderabad after schooling. Subsequently, after purchasing certain items, all of them were returning to their home. On the way, Mahaveer (P.W.7) started talking with his uncle Daya Shanker (deceased) about the field which was given to him on batai and informant-Darshan (P.W.1), his uncle Ram Asrey (P.W.4) and Radhey Shyam were proceeding a little ahead. When Daya Shanker (deceased) had reached the southern passage of the field of Babu Pasi, which is situated at village Ajigaon, convict/appellant Barjor came from behind Daya Shanker (deceased) and started beating him with lathi, whereupon Daya Shanker (deceased) holds the lathi of convict/appellant Barjor. Thereafter, informant-Darshan (P.W.1), his uncle Ram Asrey (P.W.4) and Radhey Shyam, after raising alarm, ran. In the meantime, convict/appellant Nawab armed with gun, convict/appellant Satti armed with pistol and convict/appellant Vidya armed with lathi were started running from North-East and South corner, respectively, from the field of maize. Thereafter, convict/appellants Satti and Nawab fired on the deceased (Daya Shanker), who, after sustaining injuries, fell down there and on hearing the noise of fire, informant Darshan, P.W.4-Ram Asrey and Radhey Shyam stopped there due to afraid. Then, all the convict/appellants started beating the deceased with lathis. Thereafter, on seeing the crowd, which had assembled there, the convict/appellants ran away from the spot. The deceased was a Village Pradhan in Village Saidapur and convict/appellants were residents of the same village. There was prior animosity between them because the convict/appellants had illegally taken possession of Gaon Samaj land.

(5) The informant-Darshan got the FIR scribed by Ram Vilash (P.W.5), who after scribing it read it over to him. He, thereafter, affixed his thumb impression on it and, then, proceeded to Police Station Auras, which was situated at a distance of three miles from the place of occurrence and lodged it at 06:45 p.m. at the police station Auras.

(6) The evidence of Constable Om Prakash (P.W.6) shows that on 3.9.1983 (on the date of incident), he was posted at Police Station Auras. On the basis of written report (Ext. Ka. 1) submitted by Darshan (P.W.1), a chik report (Ext. Ka.2) was prepared by him and the case was registered as Case Crime No. 75 of 1983, under Section 302 I.P.C. at police station Auras, District Unnao, which was entered in G.D. Report No.24 (Ext. Ka. 3). In the cross-examination, he deposed that Darshan (P.W.1) did not stay at Police Station in the night and he had left Police Station even before departure of the Investigating Officer.

(7) The evidence of P.W.9-S.I. Raghuraj Singh shows that he was posted at Police Station Auras on 03.09.1983. The case was registered in his presence and thereafter, he investigated it. He took the statement of Informant P.W.1-Darshan at the police station itself. He reached at the place of occurrence at 09:00 p.m. by motorcycle but due to lack of light in the night, he did not prepare panchayatnama, however, he interrogated Radhey Shayam and Ram Bilas (P.W.5) in the night. On 04.09.1983, at about 06:00 a.m., he prepared pachayatnama of the deadbody of Daya Shanker in the presence of Satyakumar, Hiralal, Bachanu, Ramadhar, Ram Singh. This panchayatnama (Ext. Ka. 5) was written by S.I. Jageshwar Singh. He also prepared challan lash (Ext. Ka.6) and photo lash (Ext. Ka.7). He, thereafter, sent the corpse of the deceased Daya Shanker in a sealed cover for post-mortem through Constable Ramesh Singh and Churamani. He also recovered kurta and towel of the deceased and sealed it under recovery memo (Ext. Ka. 10). He also recovered Potato and Guava placed near the deadbody of the deceased and sealed it under recovery memo (Ext. Ka.11). He also recovered bidi, matchbox, one rupee and fifty paise from the kurta and shoes of the deceased and sealed it under recovery memo (Ext. Ka. 12). He recovered umbrella placed near the dead body of the deceased and sealed it under recovery memo (Ext. Ka. 13). From the place of incident, he seized plain and bloodstained earth in separate containers under a recovery memo (Ext. Ka. 14). He also recovered two empty cartridges and sealed it under recovery memo (Ext. Ka.15). He inspected the place of occurrence and prepared site plan (Ext. Ka. 16). He, thereafter, interrogated Mohanlal, Kunwarpal and Bhikhari and their statements were marked as Ext. Ka 17 to Ext. Ka. 19. Thereafter, he searched the accused persons but he did not find them. Subsequently, after completion of investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet (Ext. Ka. 20) against the accused persons under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code before the Court concerned.

In his cross-examination, P.W.9-S.I. Raghuraj Singh has denied the suggestion that chik report, panchayatnama and other documents were prepared on the advice of the police. He deposed that S.I. Jageshwar Singh was in his police station. He searched the accused persons and prepared the recovery memo. He recognized the written and signature of S.I. Jageshwar Singh. In column no. 3 of the challan lash (Ext. Ka. 6), "X' was appended. The distance between the place of occurrence to the place of police station in the pachayatnama was 3 kms. and in the challan lash it was written as 6 metres. He went to the place of occurrence by motorcycle and the distance of that road is 4-6 kilometers and the direct way is 3 kms. He denied the suggestion that at the time of panchayatnama, chick report was not with him.

(8) The post-mortem on the dead body of deceased Daya Shanker was conducted on 04.09.1983, at 4.15 p.m., by Dr. S.P. Rastogi (P.W.8), who found on his person ante-mortem injuries which are enumerated hereinafter :-

"(i) Lacerated wound 2" x ½" transverse in nature, bone deep present on the right side scalp front part 1 ½ right to the midline.

The cause of death spelt out in the autopsy report of the deceased person was coma as a result of head injury.

(9) It is significant to mention that in his deposition in the trial Court, Dr. S.P. Rastogi (P.W. 8) has reiterated the said cause of death and also stated therein that on internal examination of the dead body of the deceased, he found that upper portion of the right chest was punctured. He further stated that he found twenty two small pellets in the muscle of right arm and also twenty two more pellets were recovered from the body and they were sealed. He opined that the death of the deceased could be done on 3.9.1983 at 5 p.m. He prepared the post mortem report as Ext. Ka-5. This witness has also proved the post-mortem examination.

(10) The case was committed to the Court of Sessions by the Chief Judicial Magistrate on 09.09.1984 and the trial Court framed charge against convict/appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. They pleaded not guilty to the charges and claimed to be tried. Their defence was of denial.

(11) During trial, in all, the prosecution examined 09 witnesses, namely, P.W.1, informant Darshan, P.W.2-Mohan Lal, P.W.3-Kunwar Pal, P.W.4-Ram Asrey, P.W.5-Ram Vilas, P.W.6-Om Prakash, P.W.7-Mahaveer, P.W.8-Dr. S.P. Rastogi, P.W.9, Raghuraj Singh Sachan.

(12) We would first like to deal with the evidence of P.W. 1-Darshan. P.W.1, Darshan, who is informant and nephew of the deceased, while deposing before the Court, has stated that accused Barjor and Satti are the sons of Sheo Pal while accused Vidya is the son of Mahaveer (P.W.7) and Mahaveer and Sheo Pal were real brothers as well as their wives were real sisters. Therefore, the above three accused persons were related to each other and accused Nawab was their friend. He further stated that there was previous enmity between his uncle (deceased-Daya Shanker) and accused persons with regard to Gram Samaj land which was illegally occupied by accused persons and deceased wanted to get a panchayat-ghar constructed thereupon. He further stated that he was an eye-witness to the murder of his uncle by accused persons. He specifically deposed that while he was returning from the market along with Radhey Shyam, P.W.4-Ram Ashrey and deceased (Daya Shanker) they met with P.W.7-Mahaveer. While P.W.7- Mahaveer and deceased (Daya Shanker) continuously talking, he along with others went few paces ahead. On shouting of deceased (Daya Shanker), he saw the tussle between accused/appellant Barjor and Daya Shanker (deceased) and also there was snatching of lathi between them. He further deposed that when he along with Radhey Shyam and P.W.4- Ram Ashrey moved towards deceased (Daya Shanker) then from the north direction, other accused Nawab armed with country made pistol and from the south direction accused Vidya armed with lathi and accused Satti armed with pistol came running. Accused Satti and Nawab fired on deceased (Daya Shanker), thereafter, accused Barjor and Vidya hit the deceased with lathis. On hearing the gun shot, he was scared and stayed 100 paces away from the place of incident. Because of fire shot, deceased (Daya Shanker) fell on the ground and then all four accused escaped in the north direction. Thereafter, on reaching near deceased (Daya Shanker), they found him to be dead. He next deposed that there were many persons walking near the place of incident and P.W.2-Mohan and P.W.3-Kunwar Pal also witnessed the incident. Then he went to the Police Station Auras, District Unnao, on the very same day at about 6.45 p.m. and got a written report typed. He gave that written report at Police Station which was shown to him and proved as exhibit ka-1. Chik report was prepared on the basis of the aforesaid written report. In his cross-examination, he denied the suggestion that he was not an eye-witness to the incident and he had lodged a false case making his relatives as eyewitnesses to the incident.

(13) P.W.2, Mohan Lal deposed that the Daya Shanker (deceased) was not murdered in front of him. He testified that he was present at market on the day of incident and saw the tussle between Daya Shanker (deceased) and accused/appellant Barjor. He further stated that other accused Nawab armed with gun, accused Satti armed with Tamancha and accused Vidya armed with lathi had come and accused Nawab and Satti fired at Daya Shanker (deceased) and accused Barjor and Vidya were beating with lathi. He further stated that informant Darshan (P.W.1), Ram Ashrey (P.W.4) and Radhey Shyam were present at the place of occurrence.

(14) P.W.3, Kunwar Pal stated that he was not present at the place of occurrence. The Inspector came to the Village but did not question him. He further stated that when he came to market with Mohan Lal (P.W.2), accused Barjor gave his bundle. He further denied saying that accused Barjor and Vidya armed with lathi and accused Nawab and Satti armed with gun and katta had killed Daya shanker (deceased). The witness stated that he had no information as to who Sub-Inspector wrote any such thing.

(15) P.W.4, Ram Ashrey, who is real brother of deceased (Daya Shanker), deposed that incident dates back to one year, one month ago at about 5 p.m. when he alongwith Darshan (P.W.1) and Daya Shanker (deceased) returned from the market. Daya Shankar (deceased) started talking to Mahaveer (P.W.7) near the field then the rest of us were walking slowly. When he reached near Hiralal's field, accused Nawab, Barjor, Vidya and Satti started beating Daya Shanker (deceased). Accused Nawab was armed with country made pistol and Satti armed with katta and rest were armed with lathi. First the accused, who were armed with gun fired at Daya Shanker (deceased) then all of them started beating Daya Shanker (deceased) with lathis. He further deposed that seeing the fight, he was afraid and could not go near his brother. At the spot, Ram Singh, Buchai Pasi and Chhutai had come and none of them could say anything because of fear. Mohan Lal (P.W.2) and Kuwar Pal (P.W.3) had come later. When he went to the spot the accused persons had fled and Daya Shanker was dead. The Investigating Officer came to the spot around 8 o'clock in the night.

(16) P.W.5, Ram Vilas, deposed that he wrote a report on the dictation of Darshan (P.W.1). Thereafter, it was narrated to Darshan (P.W.1). The report was written and also signed by him. He further stated that when he was writing the report, the Sub-Inspector was not present there. He denied the suggestion that report was written on the dictation of any police personnel.

(17) P.W.7, Mahaveer, deposed that he knew Daya Shanker (deceased). He had taken field of deceased (Daya Shanker) on batai. He didn't see the murder of Daya Shankar (deceased). He stated that he and Daya Shanker (deceased) had a crop of maize. Daya Shankar came to his farm on his way back from the market. Daya Shanker (deceased) had told him that the maize is ready but to wait for 15 more days. Saying this, he went round the maide of his farm. He denied hearing any sound of gun shot.

(18) Heard Mr. Brijesh Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Arunendra, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State and perused the record.

(19) Learned counsel for appellant has submitted that the appellant has been falsely implicated in this case because of previous animosity between the parties. The prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. He has further submitted that evidence of the prosecution witnesses is contradictory. The two eye-witnesses P.W.1-Darshan, who is informant of the present case and nephew of the deceased and P.W.4-Ram Ashrey, who is real brother of the deceased, are highly interested and partitioned witnesses and relative of deceased, hence their evidence is unworthy and cannot be believed. He further submits that the trial court committed an error while convicting and sentencing the appellant on the basis of such a contradictory evidence. He further argued that other independent eye-witnesses P.W.2- Mohan Lal, P.W.3- Kunwar Pal and P.W.7-Mahaveer had turned hostile. He next submitted that the appellant as on date is an old man aged about 70 years and he has no criminal antecedents.

(20) Shri Arunendra, learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the State, however, supported the judgment of the trial Court and submits that there was no occasion for this Court to interfere it. He argued that the appellant and accused Vidya had assaulted the deceased with lathis, whereas two co-accused fired shot on the deceased and also assaulted the deceased with lathis. The ocular testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.4 is fully supported the postmortem report of the deceased (Daya Shanker), who have received injuries by both lathis and fire arm weapon. He further submits that the argument of learned counsel for appellant that P.W.1- Darshan and P.W.4- Ram Ashrey are highly interested and partitioned witnesses and they are relatives of the deceased, cannot be a ground to disbelieve the evidence as there was no occasion for them to falsely implicate the appellant in the present case. It is further submitted that so far as the old age of the appellant and his clean antecedents are concerned, it is also not a relevant consideration for acquitting him from all the charges as the appellant's participation in the crime is evident from the evidence of P.W.1- Darshan and P.W.4-Ram Ashrey, hence the present appeal on behalf of appellant is liable to be dismissed.

(21) The next submission of the learned A.G.A. is that both P.W.1-Darshan and P.W.4-Ram Ashrey, have explained their presence along with the deceased on the spot. P.W.7-Mahaveer has also supported the prosecution story. The trial Court, after examining the evidences of P.W.1-Darshan and P.W.7-Mahaveer and also considering the fact that the Investigating Officer had found a bag in which there were some potatoes and guavas and its memo was prepared by them, has recorded specific finding of fact that the deceased and P.W.1-Darshan and Ram Ashrey (P.W.4) were returning from the market of Ajgaon. He further submits that the testimonies of P.W.1-Darshan and Ram Ashrey (P.W.4) are trustworthy and credential because both of them have stated in their statement that the appellant had assaulted the deceased by lathi. He submits that the trial Court has rightly convicted the appellant under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced him to undergo life imprisonment.

(22) We have examined the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through record.

(23) The appellant has asserted that P.W.1-Darshan and P.W.4-Ram Ashrey are having relations with the deceased and no independent witness has been examined, therefore, the adverse inference can be drawn against the prosecution and the evidence of P.W.1 Darshan and P.W.4 Ram Ashrey is not trustworthy as they are not present at the place of occurrence.

(24) The criminal law jurisprudence makes a clear distinction between a related and interested witness. A witness cannot be said to be an "interested" witness merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. The witness may be called "interested" only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished as held by the Apex Court in Sudhakar Vs. State : (2018) 5 SCC 435.

(25) At this juncture, we deem it apt to make reference to the recent judgment of Supreme Court, dealing with the question of interested witnesses.

(26) In the case of Gumansinh and Ors. vs. The State of Gujarat: AIR 2021 SC 4174, the Apex Court in paragraph 22, 23 and 26 observed as under :-

"22. However, when the Court has to appreciate the evidence of any interested witness it has to be very cautious in weighing their evidence or in other words, the evidence of an interested witness requires a scrutiny with utmost care and caution. The Court is required to address itself whether there are any infirmities in the evidence of such a witness; whether the evidence is reliable, trust-worthy and inspires the confidence of the Court. Another important aspect to be considered while analyzing the evidence of interested witness is whether the genesis of the crime unfolded by such evidence is probable or not. If the evidence of any interested witness/relative on a careful scrutiny by the Court is found to be consistent and trust-worthy, free from infirmities or any embellishment that inspires the confidence of the Court, there is no reason not to place reliance on the same.

23. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in the case of Maranadu and Anr. v. State by Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu (2008) 16 SCC 529, while considering this issue, has observed as under:

Merely because the eyewitnesses are family members their evidence cannot per se be discarded. When there is allegation of interestedness, the same has to be established. Mere statement that being relatives of the deceased they are likely to falsely implicate the Accused cannot be a ground to discard the evidence which is otherwise cogent and credible. We shall also deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering prosecution version.

....Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

11. In Dalip Singh and Ors. v. The State of Punjab : (AIR 1953 SC 364) it has been laid down as under:

26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the Accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalization. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general Rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts.

The above decision has since been followed in Guli Chand and Ors. v. State of Rajasthan 1974 (3) SCC 698) in which Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras (AIR 1957 SC 614) was also relied upon.

13. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dalip Singh's case (supra) in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J. it was observed:

*25. We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of the High Court that the testimony of the two eyewitnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rule. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavoured to dispel in -`*Rameshwar v. State of Rajasthan' : (AIR 1952 SC 54 at p. 59). We find, however, that it unfortunately still persists, if not in the judgments of the Courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel.

14. Again in Masalti and Ors. v. State of U.P. : (AIR 1965 SC 202) this Court observed: (p. 209-210 para 14):

14. ....But it would, we think, be unreasonable to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses..... The mechanical rejection of such evidence on the sole ground that it is partisan would invariably lead to failure of justice. No hard and fast Rule can be laid down as to how much evidence should be appreciated. Judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence; but the plea that such evidence should be rejected because it is partisan cannot be accepted as correct.

15. To the same effect is the decisions in State of Punjab v. Jagir Singh (AIR 1973 SC 2407), Lehna v. State of Haryana (2002 (3) SCC 76) and Gangadhar Behera and Ors. v. State of Orissa (2002 (8) SCC 381).

(27) In the instant case, it transpires from the record that both the eye-witnesses, namely, P.W.1-Darshan and P.W.4-Ram Ashrey, have categorically stated in their depositions that they had gone to the market of Ajgaon along with the deceased and while they were returning from the market to their house along with the deceased Daya Shanker, in the way, deceased Daya Shanker started talking with Mahavir in respect of the issue of batai of the crops standing on the field of the deceased which was irrigated by Mahavir, however, they (P.W.1, P.W.4) proceeded onward. In the meantime, the deceased was grappling with appellant-Barjor for taking away lathi, which was with the accused/appellant Barjor. Thereafter, the deceased had cried for his help but in the meantime, other accused persons, namely, Satti armed with gun, Nawab armed with pistol and Vidya armed with Lathi also arrived. Thereafter, accused Satti and Nabab fired on the deceased Daya Shanker, as a consequence thereof, deceased Daya Shanker had fallen on the ground. Subsequently, accused/appellant Barjor and accused Vidya had assaulted the deceased Daya Shanker with lathi. Though P.W.1-Darshan had tried to approach the deceased but when he heard the gun-shots, he and Ram Ashrey (P.W.4) were frightened and they stopped at a distance of about 100 paces. Thereafter, on seeing P.W.1-Darshan, P.W.4-Ram Ashrey and other persons came nearer to them, the accused persons ran away from the spot. Thereafter, when P.W.1-Darshan, P.W.4-Ram Ashrey and others, who were at a little distance, came, then, they found that deceased Daya Shanker was dead. The statement of P.W.4-Ram Ashrey is also in the aforesaid terms. P.W.9-S.I. Raghuraj Singh, who is the Investigating Officer of the case, has stated in his examination-in-chief that he has recovered potato and guava from the place where the deadbody of the deceased was lying under recovery memo (Ext. Ka. 11). It is not the case of the appellant that the recovered potato and guava from the place of deadbody of the deceased, was planted.

(28) Going by the corroborative statements of P.W.1-Darshan and P.W.4-Ram Asrey, it is discernible that though they are related to each other and to the deceased as well, their evidence cannot discarded by simply labelling them as "interested' or witnesses. After thoroughly scrutinizing their evidence, we do not find any direct or indirect interest of these witnesses to get the accused/appellant by falsely implicating him so as to meet out any vested interest. We are, therefore, of the considered view that the evidences of P.W.1- Darshan and P.W.4-Ram Ashrey are quite reliable and we see no reason to disbelieve them.

(29) In respect of forensic evidence, P.W.8-Dr. S.P. Rastogi, who conducted the post-mortem of the deadbody of the deceased, found six lacerated wounds, two multiple fire arm entry wounds and one multiple abraded contusion on the body of the deceased and opined that the deceased died due to coma as a result of head injury. The post-mortem report confirms the injuries occurred on the head of the deceased was by the blunt object like lathi. The ownership of the lathi has not been disputed by the appellant in his statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C.

(30) In the present case, the prosecution has been successful in proving the motive. There was a prior long-time enmity between the deceased and the accused/appellant. The accused/appellant has failed to prove any circumstances by which it can be said that he is falsely implicated in the case.

(31) In view of the aforesaid discussions, this Court is in agreement with the findings of the learned trial Court and sees no reason to interfere with the impugned judgment and order dated 28.1.1985 passed by the trial Court convicting and sentencing the accused/appellant for the offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C.

(32) The instant criminal appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. The appellant is in jail and and he shall serve out the remaining sentence as ordered by the trial Court.

(33) Let the lower court record along with certified copy of the present order be transmitted to the trial court concerned for necessary information and compliance forthwith.

Om Prakash (deceased), Abbul Hasan (convict/appellant), Mahesh and Ram Singh

As per the prosecution, convict/appellant-Abbul Hasan son of Sallu was having an evil eye on Kamla (P.W.3), who is the sister of Om Prakash (deceased) and daughter of informant-Gomti (P.W.2). On 05.04.1981, in the noon, a spat and ribaldry took place between Om Prakash (deceased) and convict/ appellant Abbul Hasan and thereafter convict/appellant Abbul Hasan, after giving threatening to Om Prakash (deceased) to look after him, went from there. On the same date i.e. on 05.04.1981, at about 07:00 p.m., son of the informant-Gomti (P.W.2), namely, Om Prakash (deceased), Mahesh Ahir (P.W.4) and Ram Singh Loniya were returning from the market to their house. The informant-Gomti (P.W.2) was also coming behind them from her field. When Om Prakash (deceased), Mahesh Ahir and Ram Singh Loniya came near the house of Dr. Ram Bilash where electric bulb was burning, all of a sudden convict/appellant Abbul Hasan armed with knife came in front of him (deceased Om Prakash) and after challenging her son (deceased Om Prakash), assaulted him with the knife, as a consequence of which, her son, Om Prakash (deceased), raised alarm, thereupon she (informant) had also raised alarm. When Mahesh (P.W.4) and Ram Singh, who were accompanied with Om Prakash, tried to save Om Prakash (deceased) and also raised alarm, convict/appellant Abbul Hasan had also assaulted them with the knife. Thereafter, on listening hue and cry, Jauhari, son of Nav Shanker and other persons came there and challenged the convict/appellant AbbulHasan, thereupon, convict/appellant, after brandishing the knife, ran from there. The son of the informant-Gomti (P.W.2) succumbed to injuries on the spot and Mahesh (P.W.4) and Ram Singh got injured.

The F.I.R. was marked as (Ext. Ka. 3).

9. A perusal of the chik FIR shows that the distance between the place of incident and Police Station Sandi was 2 furlang. It is significant to mention that a perusal of the chik FIR also shows that on its basis, a case crime no. 40 of 1981, under Section 302/307 I.P.C. was registered against appellant. After lodging of the F.I.R., injured Mahesh and Ram Singh, who also came along with the informant Gomti (P.W.2) at Police Station Sandi, were sent along with Homeguard Surendra Kumar and Bhikham to Primary Health Centre, Sandi, Hardoi for medical examination.

In the opinion of Dr. A.K. Dixit (P.W.4), all the injuries are simple and caused by some sharp pointed object and duration is fresh.

11. It is significant to mention that in his deposition in the trial Court, Dr. A.K. Dixit (P.W. 1) has reiterated the said cause of injuries and also stated therein that on 05.04.1981, he was posted as In-charge Medical Officer, Primary Health Centre, Sandi. He had examined the injuries of injured Mahesh (P.W.4) and Ram Singh. He further deposed that the injuries sustained by the injured persons could be attributable by knife (Ext. Ka.1) and these injuries could be attributable on the injured Mahesh and Ram Singh on 05.04.1981 at 07:00 p.m. He further stated that as the injury sustained by injured Mahesh was attributable by a sharp pointing weapon, therefore, while taking the injury of injured Mahesh under observation, he was sent him to District Hospital Hardoi, however, at the time of medical examination, the injury of injured Mahesh was fresh.

The chik FIR was written by Head Moharrir Chabinath Singh (P.W.10) on describing of the incident by informant Gomti and on that basis, F.I.R. was registered by Head Moharrir Chabinath Singh (P.W.10) at 07:25 p.m. on 05.04.1981. He further deposed that injured Mahesh (P.W.4) and Ram Singh were also coming at police station along with informant-Gomti (P.W.2) and they (injured Mahesh and Ram Singh) were sent for medical examination along with Homeguard Surendra Kumar and Bhikham at Primary Health Centre, Sandi. At that time, spot of blood on the shirt of injured Ram Singh was present, therefore, his shirt was taken by Head Moharrir Chabinath Singh and sealed it as (Ext. Ka 6). 16. The evidence of P.W.8 S.I. Harchandra Singh, who is Investigating Officer of the case, further shows that he inspected the place of the incident in the presence of informant P.W.2-Gomti and injured Ram Singh and prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka. 11). From the place of incident, he seized plain and blood stained earth in containers under a recovery memo. On 06.04.1981, at 08:00 a.m., he went to village Badhrai for recording the statement of Mahipal Singh and he reached Badhrai at about 08:30 a.m. and recorded the statement of Mahipal Singh. In the village Badhrai, informer had informed him that convict/appellant Abbul Hasan is present at Badhrai Bus Station. Immediately thereafter, he reached the Badhrai Bus Station from where he arrested the convict/appellant. On interrogation of convict/appellant, he informed him that he murdered the deceased Om Prakash with knife. Thereafter, on the pointing out of the convict/appellant Abbul Hasan, knife (Ext. ka. 1) was recovered from the house of the convict/appellant in the presence of witnesses Jagannath, Kuber and Ram Laraitey (P.W.7). He further deposed that in the recovered knife, blood mark was present. Thereafter, he deposited the recovered knife in the malkhana. He further stated that he had also instructed to lodge an F.I.R. against the convict/appellant under Section 4/25 of the Arms Act. On the date itself i.e. on 16.04.1981, he recorded the statement of witnesses Ram Laraitey (P.W.7), Kuber, Jagannath and others at the police station. On 22.04.1981, after completion of investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet (Ext. Ka. 15) against the convict/appellant under Sections 302, 307 and 324 I.P.C.

In the cross-examination, P.W.8-Harchandra Singh has denied the suggestion that the F.I.R. of the case was not lodged on 05.04.1981 and it has been lodged on 06.04.1981 on his instruction. He further stated that the place from where informant Gomti saw the incident is not shown in the site plan. He did not see any gourd burden (बोझा) and sickle at the place of the incident. The road where the deadbody of the deceased was lying was made of asphalt. There was a drain on the side of the road. The mud was removed from the drain and thrown on the road, which had dried up, the dead body was lying on it and the blood was also spread there. There was no blood spread on the part of the asphalt. He further denied the suggestion that neither the dead body nor the blood was found at the place where the deadbody of the deceased was lying and further Jauhari did not live in the kothari (cell) near the spot. He also denied the suggestion that witness Jauhari was an accused at Police Station Sandi. He did not find blood on the clothes worn by the informant Gomti. He had taken the statement of Dr. Ram Bilash, however, none of the residents whose houses are shown in the site plan, had given statement. He denied the suggestion that he did not record the statement of any witness on 05.04.1981. He also stated that when he was at Baghrai, then, he came to know that convict/appellant was going to surrender in Court. As the convict/appellant was trying to escape, he was arrested by police by surrounding him at Badrai Bus Station.

17. The case was committed to the Court of Session by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hardoi on 09.07.1981 and the trial Court framed charge against convict/appellant under Section 302, 307, 324 I.P.C. He pleaded not guilty to the charges and claimed to be tried and has stated that Om Prakash was under a wrong belief that he has got illicit relation with his sister, on account of which, Om Prakash along with Ram Singh and Mahesh armed with "dandas' came to his door and beat him mercilessly and thereafter, his father and uncle rushed to save him and in defending him, they cause injuries to Om Prakash, Mahesh and Ram Singh with a "dharia' (a grass cutting sharp edged weapon). The same day, he went to lodge the report. He was detained there. His report was not written and then, he was falsely challaned. The recovery of the knife at his instance has also been falsely manipulated. He had a good number of injuries on account of assault by the deceased and his companions.

18. It transpires from the record that on the recovery of the knife on the pointing out/possession of the convict/appellant Abbul Hasan after he was arrested in connection with Case Crime No. 4 of 1981, under Section 307/34 I.P.C., which was registered earlier against the convict/appellant, the learned Magistrate directed to commit the aforesaid case also for trial before the Court of Sessions and accordingly, Sessions Trial No. 575 of 1981 for the offence under Section 4/25 of the Arms Act against the convict/appellant arose.

Singh, who had made treatment of injured Mahesh on referral from Primary Health Centre, Sandi, and P.W.10-H.M. Chavinath Singh, who is the scriber of the F.I.R. and on describing the incident by the informant lodged the F.I.R. at Police Station Sandi, Hardoi.

20. The prosecution, in support of his case, has also filed before the trial Court an affidavit of Ram Kishore, Home Guard, who brought the deadbody of the deceased Om Prakash for post-mortem examination; affidavit of Constable Mohan Lal, who brought two sealed bundles on 05.04.1981; affidavit of Bhoop, who brought five bundles on 04.05.1981 to Sadar Malkhana and took the same from Sadar Malkhana to the office of Chief Medical Officer for dispatch to the Chemical Examiner; affidavit of Head Constable Jagannath, Moharrir Malkhana; report of the Chemical Examiner (Ext. Singh.

22. P.W.2 Gomti, who is the informant and mother of the deceased Om Prakash, in her examination-in-chief, has deposed that accused Abbul Hasan was having evil eye on her daughter Kamla and in this regard, on the day when her son Om Prakash was murdered, altercation took place between her son and accused Abbul Hasan in the afternoon and accused Abbul Hasan had threatened her son Om Prakash to see him. She reached in the corridor of Dr. Ramvilas's house from the North direction at seven o'clock in the evening. Her son Om Prakash, Mahesh and Ram Singh were going ahead of her in the same direction. When her son Om Prakash reached in front of Dr. Ramvilas's house, accused Abbul Hasan came with a knife from the south side and challenged her son Om Prakash and started hitting him with a knife. Accused AbbulHasan used to look at her daughter with evil eye since a month ago. The accused Abbul Hasan never molested her daughter in front of her nor in front of her son Om Prakash. When her daughter complained about accused Abbul Hasan to her, then, she told this to Om Prakash as well. Both, she and Om Prakash, felt bad on listening the aforesaid. Om Prakash got very angry, however, he did not say to her that he would see AbbulHasan when he meet him next. She further stated that no report was made against accused Abbul Hasan in the police station after her daughter told that accused Abbul Hasan molested her. Her son Om Prakash did not go in search of accused Abbul Hasan on the day when her daughter complained. On the second day i.e. on the day of the incident, her son Om Prakash came and told her that a quarrel with accused Abbul Hasan took place. Her son Om Prakash did not say that he had gone in search of Abbul Hasan. Her son Om Prakash told her that quarrel took place with accused Abbul Hasan at the flour mill of Juber. She further stated that she and her son Om Prakash did not make complain about the act of the accused Abbul Hasan to his mother or father nor her son Omprakash write any report at the police station. 25. It has also been stated by P.W.2-Gomti that her son Om Prakash, Mahesh and Ram Singh were not having any weapon. None of these three had beaten accused Abbul Hasan. No blood came out from accused Abbul Hasan. She denied the suggestion that the arm of accused Abbul Hasan was broken during the incident. She further deposed that the Inspector had come to the spot at 8-9 pm on the day of the incident. The deadbody of her son Om Prakash was sealed and left at 10 pm on the same day and when she reached at police station in the morning on the next date of the incident, the body of the deceased was present there. The Inspector was also present at the police station till noon. She denied the suggestion that her son was not murdered in front of the house of Ram Bilas. She also denied the suggestion that her son Omprakash and injured Ram Singh and Mahesh had beaten the accused Abbul Hasan with "dandas' in front of his house and on hearing the noise of accused Abbul Hasan, his family members came and in defense, they hurt Om Prakash, Ram Singh and Mahesh. She denied the suggestion that the report was written on the next day of the incident on the instruction of police.

26. P.W.3-Kamla, who is the daughter of the informant-Gomti (P.W.1) and sister of the deceased Om Prakash, has deposed that a day prior to the incident, accused AbbulHasan had behaved with her in bad manner while she was returning from the market and she had told about it to her mother (P.W.2-Gomti) and brother (deceased-Om Prakash). She has further deposed that on the day of the incident also, when her brother (deceased Om Prakash) came to the house in the noon, he had told her that he had a quarrel with accused Abbul Hasan and accused Abbul Hasan had threatened to him. She further deposed that it was in the evening that the incident resulting in the murder of her brother (Om Prakash) took place.

27. P.W.4-Mahesh, who is the injured witness, in his examination-in-chief, has deposed that it was about ten months' ago, it was 7 O'clock in the evening. He, Ram Singh and Om Prakash were going towards the house of the deceased-Om Prakash from the market and when they reached the road in front of the house of Ram Bilas, accused Abbul Hasan came from South direction with a knife and accused Abbul Hasan, all of a sudden, became angry and started stabbing Om Prakash. They raised alarm. When he and Ram Singh tried to save Om Prakash, accused AbbulHasan had also stabbed them. At that time, mother of Om Prakash (informant Gomti) came from behind and she had also raised alarm; Jauhari was also coming from his house; and other persons were also coming there. Accused Abbul Hasan, after stabbing with knife, ran towards South direction with knife. Om Prakash died on the spot. The blood from the body of Om Prakash was falling. He and Ram Singh had sustained the injuries. He, Gomti and Ram Singh had gone to police station and Gomti had lodged the report. Thereafter, he and Ram Singh were sent for medical examination at Sandi hospital, where they were medically examined. Thereafter, he was referred to Hardoi Hospital from hospital Sandi, where he was medically examined. He was admitted at Hardoi hospital for about one month.

In cross-examination, P.W.4-Mahesh has stated that he was working at the shop of Gedan Lal and at the time of the incident, he was returning from the said shop. He has also stated that his house and the house of Om Prakash were in the same passage. His house is situated in east direction of accused Abbul Hasan after 5-6 houses. He denied the suggestion that at the time of incident, they were going towards the passage of eastern direction. On that date, they were planned to see drama. Om Prakash told that firstly dinner be taken, therefore, they were going to the house of Om Prakash. He was having friendship with Om Prakash. He further deposed that at the time of incident, no lathi, danda was in the possession of him, Ram Singh and Om Prakash. None of them had beaten accused Abbul Hasan. No blood of accused Abbul Hasan was falling on the spot nor accused AbbulHasan sustained any injury. Accused Abbul Hasan was not beaten by anyone in their presence.

28. P.W.4 Mahesh has further deposed that at the time, when Om Prakash was assaulted, his mother (P.W.2-Gomti) was behind him about 4-6-10 steps. He had sustained one knife blow. He also stated that at the time of incident, Jauhari was residing at Mohalla Salamullaganj nor residing at Nababganj. Prior to one year ago, Jauhari was residing in one kothari of the Thakur Ram Bilash. He denied the suggestion that Jauhari never resided at the kothari near the place of the incident. Jauhari used to sell Kewada and Rose. Jauhari was never the servant at police station. He also denied the suggestion that on the date of the incident, at about 07:00 p.m., he, Ram Singh and Om Prakash were assaulted seriously to accused Abbul Hasan by lathi and danda in his house and also family members of AbbulHasan were coming to save him and they were beaten them. He also denied the suggestion that Gomti (P.W.2) did not lodge the report on the date of the incident.

29. P.W.4-Jauhari, in his examination-in-chief, has stated that it was about ten months ago. It was 7 O'clock in the evening. He was in the house. He listened the noises of abuses coming from the road situated in front of his house. He came out from the house. The electricity bulb was lighting in the house of Dr. Ram Bilash and nearer to it also bulb was lighting in the electricity poll. He saw that accused Abbul Hasan was stabbing Om Prakash, Mahesh and Ram Singh with knife. The mother of Om Prakash also raised alarm. Thereafter, accused Abbul Hasan, after stabbing, ran towards the South direction. Om Prakash had sustained injuries and blood was oozing and he died on the spot and Ram Singh and Mahesh had also sustained injuries. He further deposed that firstly he saw the accused stabbing and then he saw Abbul Hasan running from there. After the incident, he stayed there. Inspector came at about 08:00 p.m. The mother of Om Prakash came along with the Inspector. Mahesh, Ram Singh had gone along with the mother of Om Prakash to the police station. The inspector stayed there till 11:00 p.m. and thereafter, the inspector had gone to police station. The mother of Om Prakash had not gone to police station along with Inspector. He denied the suggestion that at the time of incident, he was residing at the house of Ram Lal and he did not see the incident. He also denied the suggestion that he has given false evidence on the pressure of the police against the accused.

30. P.W.7-Ram Laraitey is the witness for the recovery of the knife (Ext. 1) at the instance of the accused Abbul Hasan.

31. D.W.1 Dr. S.C. Rizvi, who was the Medical Officer, Police Lines, has stated that on 06.04.1981, he was posted as Medical Officer, District Jail, Hardoi and on that day, at about 05:00 p.m., after detaining the accused Abbul Hasan in jail, he conducted his medical examination. On examination of accused Abbul Hasan, twelve injuries were found on him, which are as under :-

"1. Lacerated wound 2 cm x 1 cm x scalp deep 10 cm above right ear on right side of head.

2. Traumatic contused swelling (generalized) on whole of lower 1/3 of right upper arm, Right elbow upper 1/3 of right fore arm. Local pain and tenderness present, movements painful and restricted, suspected fracture. Preserved. Advised X-ray

12. Traumatic generalized swelling on whole of the lower ½ of the left leg, local pain and tenderness present, movements of joints concerned restricted, suspected fracture present. Advised for X-ray."

32. It is significant to mention here that D.W.1 Dr. S.C. Rizvi, has deposed that Injuries no. 2, 3, 10, 11 and 12 were kept under observation and rest injuries were simple in nature. All injuries were caused by hard and blunt object. Duration was about 24 hours. He also deposed that all these injuries could have been caused on 05.04.1981 at about 7:00 p.m. and could be attributable by danda. In cross-examination, he has stated that there is lesser possibility of these injuries having been received at 12 noon on 06.04.981. He has proved injury report Ext. Kha. 1.

33. D.W.2-Sripal, who conducted x-ray of the accused/appellant Abbul Hasan, has deposed that on 10.04.1981, he was posted as x-ray technician at Sadar Hospital, Hardoi. On 10.04.1981, accused/appellant Abbul Hasan came in custody at Sadar Hospital, Hardoi for x-ray. He conducted the x-ray of the accused/appellant Abbul Hasan in the presence of Dr. A.N. Singh. He has proved the x-ray report (Ext. Kha.2). He has also filed four x-ray plates (Ext. Kha 3 to Ext. Kha 6). It is relevant to show herein that Ext. Kha 2 shows the fracture of first metacarpal bone, fracture of proximal digit of left index and middle finger. The prosecution has not cross-examined D.W.2.

34. The trial Court believed the evidence of P.W.2-Gomti, P.W.4-Mahesh, P.W.6-Jauhari, P.W.7-Ram Laratiey and found the appellant guilty for the offences punishable under Sections 302, 307, 324 I.P.C. and 4/25 of the Arms Act and, accordingly, convicted and sentenced the appellants in the manner stated in paragraph 2 and 3, by means of judgments and orders dated 07.08.1982 passed in Special Appeal Nos. 514 of 1981 and 575 of 1981, respectively.

B. APPELLANT'S CASE

35. On behalf of the convict/appellant, Mr. Dinesh Chandra Shukla, learned Counsel has made the following submissions :-

(i) The F.I.R. is too prompt to believe and ante-time. As per the prosecution, the incident occurred at 07:00 p.m., whereas F.I.R was lodged by P.W.2-Gomti, who is the mother of the deceased Om Prakash at 07:25 p.m. P.W.2-Gomti, in cross-examination, has stated that on the next date of the incident, Munshi of the police station affixed her thumb impression and at that time, she was not provided a copy of the report and further she stated that on the date of the incident when she lodged the report, at that time also no duplicate was provided to her. Therefore, his submission is that FIR has been lodged on the next date of the incident in the morning. Hence the prosecution case is improbable and doubtful.

(iii) The Investigating Officer P.W.8 Harchand Singh had stated in his examination-in-chief that he arrested the accused AbbulHasan at Bagrai Bus Station on 06.04.1981 i.e. on the next date of the alleged incident. Whereas D.W.1 Dr. S.C. Rizvi, who has medically examined the accused Abbul Hasan, had stated that the injuries sustained by the accused Abbul Hasan could be attributable to a lathi and the same could have occurred on 05.04.1981 at 07:00 p.m. and in his cross-examination, D.W.1 Dr. S.C. Rizvi has stated that there is lesser possibility to have received injuries by accused on 06.04.1981 (on the date of the incident) at about 12:00 O'clock in the day. Hence, the injuries of the convict/appellant have not been explained by the prosecution and the prosecution story is improbable and doubtful. The trial Court has erred in not considering this aspect of the matter. In support of his submission, he relied upon Manphool Singh and others Vs. State of Haryana : (2018) 18 SCC 531 and Lakshmi Singh Vs. State of Bihar : 1976 Law Suit (SC) 325.

(iii) The alleged recovery of the knife had not been proved and made in accordance with the provisions of Section 102 Cr.P.C.

(iv) The P.W.2-Gomti, P.W.4-Mahesh and P.W.6-Jauhari are the interested witnesses as P.W.2-Gomti is the mother of the deceased, P.W.4-Mahesh is the friend of the deceased and P.W.6 was not residing in the village Salamullaganj at the time of the incident as he is the resident of Kannauj.

C. RESPONDENT/STATE CASE

On behalf of the State, Mrs. Smiti Sahay, learned Additional Government Advocate has submitted that it is a case of direct evidence. P.W.1-Gomti, injured P.W.4-Mahesh and P.W.6-Jauhari on facts are the witnesses of an eye account. P.W.2-Gomti and P.W.4-Mahesh have clearly stated that at the time of the incident, deceased Om Prakash, injured Mahesh and Ram Singh were returning from the market and at the same time, P.W.2-Gomti was returning on the same way behind them and when deceased Om Prakash, injured Mahesh and Ram Singh reached near the house of Dr. Ram Bilash where the electric bulb was lighting, accused Abbul Hasan, all of a sudden, armed with knife and came in front of Om Prakash and stabbed him with knife and, thereafter, P.W.4-Mahesh and Ram Singh were also tried to save Om Prakash but they were also stabbed by accused Abbul Hasan, therefore, their presence on spot is highly probable and natural. They have given categorical and specific evidence on the point that it was present accused/appellant Abbul Hasan who had stabbed with knife at Om Prakash (deceased) with intention to commit his murder. Their deposition are consistence inter-se and are corroborated by the evidence of each other. The evidence of P.W.2-Gomti, who is the mother of deceased Om Prakash is fully corroborated by the contents of her report Ex. Ka-3 and the medical evidence fully corroborates the evidence of all the aforesaid three witnesses PW-2, PW- 4 and PW-6. They are fully reliable witnesses. Lengthy cross-examination were made but these witnesses remained intact throughout. The motive and intention to commit the murder of the deceased has been fully established and proved by the prosecution. All the aforesaid facts are fully proved by prosecution. The inquest was prepared and the dead body was subjected to post-mortem examination within 24 hours of the incident. Two incised wounds, two punctured wounds and two abrasions were found on the body of the deceased which fully proved the case of prosecution. The weapon used by the appellant in committing the crime; the nature of injury through and through; and strong motive are factors establishing the intention of the appellant to commit the murder of the deceased and, therefore, the case falls within the ambit of Section 302 I.P.C. Lastly, she submitted that the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant are imaginary which are not supported by the evidence on record. The appeal lacks merit and deserves dismissal.

(D) DISCUSSION

36. We have examined the submissions advanced by Dr. Dinesh Chandra Shukla, learned Counsel for the appellant and Ms. Smiti Sahai, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State and perused the record.

37. It transpires that the incident has taken place on 05.04.1981, at about 7.00 P.M. and the report was lodged on 05.04.1981 at 07:25 P.M. after covering a distance of two farlang (approx 404.4 metres) from the scene of incident to the police station concerned and, therefore, the F.I.R. is prompt which contains the details of the incident, the names of accused, the weapon used, the motive, mode, manner and the result of the assault, the presence and name of witnesses at spot without any ambiguity. Therefore, this prompt F.I.R. rules out any kind of concoction, fabrication, manipulation, maneuvering and after thought of the F.I.R.

38. In Jai Prakash Singh Vs. State of Bihar and another : 2012(2) Supreme Court Cases (Criminal) 468, the Apex Court has held that the F.I.R. in a criminal case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence though may not be substantive piece of evidence. The object of insisting upon prompt loding of the F.I.R. in respect of the commission of an offence is to obtain early information regarding the circumstances in which the crime was committed, the names fo the actual culprits and the part played by them as well as the names of the eye witnesses present at the scene of occurrence. If there is a delay in lodging the F.I.R., it loses the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of large numbers of consultations/ deliberations. Undoubtedly, the promptness in lodging the F.I.R. reflects the first hand account of what has actually happened, and who was responsible for the offence in question.

39. There does not appear any substance in the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant that the F.I.R. is too prompt to believe because lodging of F.I.R. within a space of twenty-five minutes after covering of distance of 2 furlang cannot be said to be too prompt F.I.R. Furthermore, P.W.2-Gomti and P.W.4-Mahesh have consistently stated in their statement that they along with Ram Singh, immediately after the incident, went to the police station for lodging the F.I.R. P.W.10-Chavinath Singh and P.W.8-Harchand Singh have also supported the aforesaid statement of P.W.2 and P.W.4 that Gomti, Mahesh and Ram Singh reached the police station on the date of the incident i.e. 05.04.1981 at 07:25 p.m. Hence, the submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant that the FIR is ante-time, has no substance.

40. As regards the submission of learned counsel for the appellant that P.W.-2 is the mother of deceased, P.W.-4 is the friend of the deceased, therefore, they are interested witnesses and for the said reason their statements ought to have been discarded, we do not agree with the said submissions.

41. In Bur Singh Vs. State of Punjab : (2008) 16 SCC 65, the Apex Court has observed in the following terms :-

"11.....Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

"12. Merely because the eye witnesses are family members their evidence cannot per se be discarded. When there is allegation of interestedness, the same has to be established. Mere statement that being relatives of the deceased they are likely to falsely implicate the accused cannot be a ground to discard the evidence which is otherwise cogent and credible. We shall also deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version."

42. In State of Punjab Vs. Karnail Singh : 2003 (3) ACR 2961 S.C. and in Ashok Kumar Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar : 2008 (2) CAR 652 S.C., the Apex Court has held that mere interestedness of a witness is not sufficient to discard his testimony. The only precaution in appraisal of evidence of such witness is required to be more cautious and the courts are required to test their evidence on the anvil of strict judicial scrutiny. Recently, in the case of Gumansinh and others Vs. The State of Gujarat : AIR 2021 SC 4174 has reiterated the aforesaid view.

43. Keeping in the mind the above dictum of the Apex Court and also when we test the evidence of P.W.2-Gomti and P.W.4-Mahesh on the aforesaid anvil, we have no hesitation to hold that these two witnesses i.e. P.W.2 and P.W.4 are wholly reliable witnesses. There is no room for doubt in their testimony. Their testimony is consistent throughout. Their presence at the spot was natural when P.W.4-Mahesh, deceased Om Prakash and injured Ram Singh were returning from the market to their home and behind them, P.W.2-Gomti was coming from the field and when P.W.4-Mahesh, injured Ram Singh and deceased Om Prakash reached in front of the house of Dr. Ram Bilash, all of a sudden, appellant armed with a knife came and challenged Om Prakash and subsequently stabbed Om Prakash with knife and when injured P.W.4-Mahesh and Ram Singh tried to save Om Prakash (deceased), they were also stabbed by the appellant with knife. On hue and cry, P.W.6-Jauhari, who was also residing in front of the house of the place of the incident, came and saw that accused/appellant Abbul Hasan was stabbing with knife to Om Prakash, Mahesh and Ram Singh. The post-mortem report of the deadbody of the deceased Om Prakash reveals that the deceased had sustained one incised wound on the left side of face below the left eye; one incised wound on left eye; one punctured wound on left side of chest; one punctured wound on left side of back of chest; one abrasion over left knee; two abrasion over the right knee joint. As per the opinion of Dr. S.K. Luthra (P.W.5), deceased Om Prakash died due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries sustained by him. It was also opined by the doctor that these injuries could be attributable by a knife.

44. The medical examination of two injured, namely, P.W.4-Mahesh and Ram Singh was conducted by P.W.9 Dr. J.V.Singh, who, after examination, has found that Mahesh sustained punctured incised stabbed wound, whereas Ram Singh sustained two incised punctured stab wounds. As per the opinion of P.W.9, all the injuries were caused by sharp pointed object. This also supports the prosecution case.

45. It transpires from the evidence on record that except Jauhari, no other independent witness has been examined by the prosecution but as per the evidence of P.W.6 Jauhari, his living in that very locality just near the place of incident has been well established. There is no evidence on record which shows that P.W.6 Jauhari was under any cloud or under the pressure of the police while he was residing at Sandi. Hence, the plea of the appellant that testimony of Jauhari cannot be believed, is not sustainable from the evidences on record.

46. The other material, which is available on record, is that deadbody of the deceased was found in front of the house of Dr. Ram Bilas and not in front of the house of accused/appellant. Thus, the plea of the appellant that the incident took place in front of his house as the deceased and his two companions Mahesh and Ram Singh came over there and assaulted the accused, cannot be believable and appears to be imaginary and accordingly, it is rejected.

47. So far as the assertion of the appellant that the prosecution has failed to explain the injuries sustained by the appellant and the medical evidence supporting the case of the accused/appellant is concerned, it would be relevant to mention that in Babu Ram and Others vs. State of Punjab : (2008) 3 SCC 709, the Apex Court has held that :-

"18.It is a well-settled law that in a murder case, the non-explanation of the injuries sustained by the accused at about the time of occurrence or in the course of altercation is a very important circumstance from which the court can draw the following inferences:

"1.that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis and the origin of the occurrence and has thus not presented the true version;

2.that the witnesses who have denied the presence of the injuries on the person of the accused are lying on a most material point and therefore their evidence is unreliable;

3.that in case there is a defence version which explains the injuries on the person of the accused it is rendered probable so as to throw doubt on the prosecution case."

19.Further, it is important to point out that the omission on the part of the prosecution to explain the injuries on the person of the accused assumes much greater importance where the evidence consists of interested or inimical witnesses or where the defence gives a version which competes in probability with that of the prosecution one."

48. In the instant case, no doubt, D.W.1-Dr. S.C. Rizvi, who medically examined the accused in jail on 06.04.1981, has given his opinion that these injuries could be received at about 07:00 p.m. on 05.04.1981 i.e. on the date of the incident but in his cross-examination, he has stated that there is lesser possibility of receiving the injuries on 06.04.1981 at 12:00 noon.

49. At this stage, it would be relevant to mention that the testimony of the Investigating Officer shows that the accused received injuries while he was arrested on 06.04.1981. The trial Court, while dealing with this issue, has recorded specific finding on the basis of material evidence on record that the injuries of the accused were found noted in the General Diary (Ext. Ka. 4) entry of 06.04.1981. As comes out from the record, the accused/appellant has gone to lodge the report at the police station on 05.04.1981 and he was detained over there but there is no such evidence on record. Furthermore, it is quite impossible that the accused with such a good number of injuries would have gone alone to lodge the report at the police station and his family members like father and uncle, who are said to have been the witnesses of assault of the acused, would not have cared to accompany him and see that the police give a fair diat to the accused. Moreso, the trial Court has recorded specific finding that this plea at the instance of the appellant has not raised when he moved application for bail. In these backdrops, submission of the appellant that these injuries have been caused to the appellant by deceased Om Prakash, Ram Singh and Mahesh with "danda' in front of his house as on hue and cry, family members had also came there and in defense, injuries ought to have been caused to Om Prakash (deceased), Mahesh and Ram Singh, is not proper and reliable evidence, hence the submission of the appellant in this regard has no force and is rejected.

50. The judgments, which have been relied upon by the learned Counsel for the appellant, are not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the case.

51. So far as the plea of the appellant with regard to recovery of knife is concerned, Ram Laraitey (P.W.7) is the witness of recovery. He, in his examination-in-chief, has stated that in his presence, the accused/appellant gave the blood stained knife, which was kept on the wall under the thatch from inside his to the police. But this witness, in his cross-examination, has stated that he had not seen the injuries on the person of the accused when he was brought to his house and gave out the knife in his present. However, this witness denied the suggestion in cross-examination that the accused did not give any knife from his house to the police. There is no evidence on record, which shows that accused/appellant has inimical relations with Ram Laraitey (P.W.7), who resides in that very locality in which the accused/appellant has been living. Thus, the plea of the appellant that recovery of knife on his pointing out is not proved, is not sustainable.

52. For the reasons aforesaid, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has proved the case beyond all reasonable doubts and the trial Court, after properly appreciating the evidence in consonance with the settled legal position applicable to the facts of the case, have recorded cogent findings of fact and have rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant by the impugned judgment and order dated 07.08.1982.

53. Accordingly, both the criminal appeals are dismissed. Appellant is in jail and he shall serve out the sentence as ordered by the trial Court.

54. Office is directed to transmit the lower court record along with a copy of this order to the court concerned forthwith for necessary information and follow up action, if any required.

1. The present Criminal Appeal is preferred under Section 374 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 16.05.2002 passed by IXth Additional District Judge and Sessions Judge, Lucknow in Crime No.225 of 1997, Sessions Trial No.586 of 1998, Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow (State Vs. Ishwar Deen and others) convicting the each appellant to rigorous imprisonment for two years under Section 498-A I.P.C. and a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo six months rigorous imprisonment and under Section 304B I.P.C., ten years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo two years rigorous imprisonment.

2. Heard learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Maneesh Kumar Singh, Advocate and learned A.G.A. for the State, Sri Anurag Singh Chauhan, Advocate.

3. In the instant Criminal Appeal against conviction, the brief story in the prosecution case is that Ram Dulari, mother of the deceased "Babita Yadav" lodged a first information report on 07.07.1997 in Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow that her daughter aforesaid Babita Yadav, who got married on 01.07.1994 with Ram Avadh Yadav, was subjected to cruelty, mental and physical torture in connection with demand of dowry since after the marriage. The aforesaid Ram Avadh Yadav, the son-in-law of the complainant with his father Ishwar Deen Yadav, mother-in-law, brother-in-law and sister-in-law forced her to bring Rs.40,000/- in cash. When the demand could not be fulfilled by the complainant, being a widow of insufficient means, they began to beat and torture her daughter. Severally they threaten in the course of beating the complainant's daughter Babita Yadav that let her ablaze into fire or to push on the railway tracks so that she would die. She further complained that in April, 1966, Ram Avadh Yadav, the son-in-law assaulted the complainant's daughter, inflicting a blow on her head from Banka. A report with regard to which was lodged in Police Station Madiyaon, District Lucknow, pursuant whereof, police recovered the complainant's daughter from the house of appellants brought her into hospital for treatment. Subsequently the in-laws of complainant's daughter, in mediation of some respectable people of the locality, asked pardon for their wrongs and requested to sent back the complainant's daughter to her in-laws house with assurance not to do any such thing any future. However, on 02.07.1997, the complainant got an information received by her in house at Satna, Madhya Pradesh that dead body of her daughter was found at Gomti Nagar Railway crossing in suspicion state. She further informed in the written complaint that her daughter was subjected to cruelty by son-in-law, Ram Avadh Yadav, his father, mother, brother and sister to such an extreme extent that she compelled to commit suicide. The Police instituted Crime No.225 of 1997, under Sections 498-A and 304-B of I.P.C., Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow on 07.07.1997 whereupon after committal from the Magistrate Court, Session Trial No.586 of 1998 was instituted for trial by the Court of Sessions.

4. In the Course of trial, one of the accused, Ram Kali, mother-in-law of the deceased "Babita Yadav" died and therefore, the case was abated to her extent by the trial judge.

5. Firstly, the charge sheet was submitted against the accused, Ram Avadh Yadav and Ishwar Deen Yadav only, whereupon Sessions Trial No.586 of 1998 was instituted. Thereafter, rest of the accused persons, namely, Ram Kali, mother-in-law, brother-in-law and sister-in-law of the deceased were arraigned in Sessions Trial No.18 of 1999, which was instituted thereupon. Both the sessions trial since pertaining to the same offence, therefore, the accused persons were trialed jointly for the purpose of consolidated hearing and judgment.

6. Firstly, the accused were charged under Section 306 and 498-A of I.P.C. but looking into the facts before the trial judge with regard to the unnatural death of the deceased "Babita Yadav" within seven years from the date of her marriage in her in-laws house, charges framed were amended and Section 498A I.P.C. read with Section 304 B of I.P.C. was imposed.

7. The prosecution produced witnesses for oral evidences, namely, complainant "Ram Dulari" as PW-1, Smt. Geeta as PW-2, Smt. Anita as PW-3, Dwarika as PW-4, Ram Ratan Yadav as PW-5, R.P. Yadav, Sub Inspector as PW-6 and Radhe Shyam as PW-7.

8. As documentary evidences, the prosecution produces before the Court, the written complaint as Ex. Ka-1, Post Mortem Report as Ex. Ka-2, Site Map as Ex. Ka-3, Chargesheet as Ex. Ka-4 and the First Information Report as Ex. Ka-5, Copy of the G.D. as Ex. Ka-6, Inquest Report as Ex. Ka-7 and other police papers prepared during the investigation as Ex. Ka-8, Ex. Ka-9 and Ex. Ka-10.

9. The accused persons were confronted with the evidence of prosecution witnesses under Section 313 Cr.P.C. though they denied from the allegations but did not adduce any written document in defence and examined witness Tulsiram as DW-1.

10. PW-1 in her examination before the Court proved written complaint made by her before the Police Station. PW-2 being elder sister of the deceased, deposed that just after the marriage, deceased "Babita Yadav" used to cohabit with her husband and another family members in her in-laws house. The behavior of in-laws with her was not good. They used to beat her in connection with demand of dowry. The mother of the witness and her sister lodged the F.I.R with this regard. She has further told that whenever the deceased "Babita Yadav" used to come in maternal house, she tells about the incidence of beating for the reason of demand of dowry. She has also stated the fact of illicit relations of the accused "Ram Avadh", with the wife of his maternal uncle and in order to continue with the illicit relation also, she used to beat severely to the deceased "Babita Yadav".

11. Another sister Anita as PW-3 has reiterated the same facts as stated by the PW-2.

12. PW-4, Dwarika, The chowkidaar deployed at railway station Malhore at Dilkusha in the year 1997. He deposed before the court that at about 2:00 P.M. in the noon of 02.07.1997, a woman was cut down on the railway track by train, the report of which, he lodged in the Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow.

13. PW-5, the brother-in-law of the deceased also stated about the illicit relations of the accused/appellant "Ram Avadh" with the wife of his maternal uncle which was also a root cause of quarrel between husband and wife and persuasive factor for committing suicide by the wife. He did not affirm allegations as to the dowry death.

14. PW-6, the Sub-Inspector R.P. Yadav who was the investigating officer in the first information report aforesaid, proved the facts came out of his investigation.

15. Postmortem report after the autopsy was done by the Dr. Radhe Shyam, which is proved by the said Doctor PW-7 in the court, on which the death by accident on railway track is found established.

16. PW-8, Smt. Sangeeta is examined as an independent witness, who stated that on 30.06.1997 when she went to bank situated in Gomti Nagar to withdraw cash and after withdrawal, since she mistakenly left the passbook there so she went back to the bank and met with Babita Yadav who told her that her husband is demanding Rs. 40,000/- for purchasing a motor vehicle i.e. tempo and for this he is forcing her. PW-8 told that the mother-in-law of the deceased "Babita Yadav" is in relation with her as wife of maternal uncle of her husband. She also stated that Babita Yadav told her about the cruelty and torture with which in-laws are subjecting to her in connection with demand of dowry.

17. After perusing all the evidences and hearing the parties, learned court below vide it's judgment convicted the accused/appellants, "Ram Avadh and Ishwar Deen" under Section 498 A and 304 B of I.P.C and sentenced them vide order dated 16.05.2002, convicting the each appellant to rigorous imprisonment for two years under Section 498-A I.P.C. and a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo six months rigorous imprisonment and under Section 304B I.P.C., ten years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo two years rigorous imprisonment.

18. I perused the judgment and examined the same in light of evidences laid before the court with regard to the charges framed under Section 304B of I.P.C. as a presumptive offence. The section 304B of I.P.C. read with section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is being quoted hereunder for the easy reference:-

" Section 304B of I.P.C.- Dowry death.--

(1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death. Explanation.--For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act, 1872-

Presumption as to dowry death.--When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death. Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in section 304B, of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860)."

19. In the case of State of A.P. Vs. Raj Gopal Asawa and another reported in (2004) 4 SCC 470, it is held as under:-

"Section 304-B I.P.C. and Section 113-B of the Evidence Act were inserted by the Dowry Prohibition (Amendment) Act 43 of 1986 with a view to combat the increasing menace of dowry deaths. Keeping in view the impediment in the pre-existing law in securing evidences to prove dowry-related deaths, the legislature thought it wise to insert a provision relating to presumption of dowry death on proof of certain essentials. It is in this background that presumptive Section 113-B in the Evidence Act has been inserted.

Presumption under Section 113-B is a presumption of law. On proof of the essentials mentioned therein, it becomes obligatory on the court to raise a presumption that the accused caused the dowry death. The essentials required to be proved for raising the said presumption are that (i) the question before the court must be whether the accused has caused the dowry death of a woman, (ii) the woman was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives, (iii) such cruelty or harassment was for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, and (iv) such cruelty or harassment was soon before her death.

Now, one of the essential ingredients, amongst others, in both the provisions i.e. Sections 304-B and 113-B is that the woman concerned must have "soon before her death" subjected to cruelty or harassment "for, or in connection with, the demand of dowry". There must be material to show that soon before her death the victim was subjected to cruelty or harassment. The prosecution has to rule out the possibility of a natural or accidental death so as to bring it within the purview of "death occurring otherwise that in normal circumstances". The expression "soon before" is very relevant where Section 113-B of the Evidence Act and Section 304-B I.P.C. are pressed into service. Evidences in that regard has to be led by the prosecution. "Soon before" is a relative term and it would depend upon the circumstances of each case and no straightjacket formula can be laid down as to what would constitute a period of soon before the occurrence. It would be hazardous to indicate any fixed period, and that brings in the importance of a proximity test both for the proof of an offence of dowry death as well as for raising a presumption under Section 113-B. The expression "soon before her death" used in the substantive Section 304-B IPC and Section 113-B of the Evidence Act is present with the idea of proximity test. No definite period has been indicated and the expression "soon before" is not defined. The determination of the period which can come within the term "soon before" is not defined. The determination of the period which can come within the term "soon before" is left to be determined by the courts, depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Suffice, however, to indicate that the expression "soon before" would normally imply that the interval should not be much between the cruelty or harassment concerned and the death in question. There must be existence of a proximate and live link between the effect of cruelty based on dowry demand and the death concerned. If alleged incident of cruelty is remote in time and has become stale enough not to disturb mental equilibrium of the woman concerned, it would be of no consequence."

20. In view of the aforesaid provisions of 304B of I.P.C. read with Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 the prosecutions if establishes by its evidences that the unnatural death of the victim of the incident occurred within seven years from the date of marriage and she was subjected to cruelty soon before her death in connection with the demand of dowry and all these conditions are shown to co-exists, it shall be presumed that the offence under Section 304B of the I.P.C. is committed by the in-laws. The presumption raised against the in-laws that the victim died of a dowry death by reason of their behavior and conduct. In the instant case, the mother herself has lodged the F.I.R. under Section 306 of I.P.C. read with Section 498A of I.P.C.. The Section 498A of I.P.C. is also quoted hereunder for the easy reference:-

" Section 498A of the I.P.C.- Husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty.--Whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine. Explanation.--For the purpose of this section, "cruelty" means--

(a) any wilful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the woman; or

(b) harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand."

21. In the case of Gurmeet Singh Vs. State of Punbjab reported in (2021) 6 SCC 108, a case before Hon'ble the Supreme Court, it is held that the offence under Section 304B of the I.P.C. and that committed under Section 498A are held to be independent and not connected with each other. The relevant portion of the said judgment is being quoted hereunder:-

"Sections 304-B and 498-A I.P.C. deal with two distinct offences. It is true that cruelty is a common essential to both the sections and that has to be proved. The Explanation to Section 498-A gives the meaning of "cruelty". In Section 304-B there is no such Explanation about the meaning of "cruelty". But having regard to the common background to these offences it has to be taken that the meaning of "cruelty" or "harassment" is the same as prescribed in the Explanation to Section 498-A under which "cruelty" by itself amounts to an offence. Under Section 304-B it is "dowry death" that is punishable and such death should have occurred within seven years of marriage. No such period is mentioned in Section 498-A. If the case is established, there can be a conviction under both the sections."

22. Section 304-B (i) of the I.P.C. defines Dowry Death of the woman. It provides that dowry death is where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband in connection with demand of dowry.

23. In the case of Satbir Singh Vs. State of Haryana reported in (2021) 6 SCC 1, it is held that it is important to appreciate and understand the necessary ingredients required to coexists for the constitution of offence under Section 304-B of I.P.C. The relevant portion of the said judgment is being quoted hereunder:-

"38.1. Section 304-B, IPC must be interpreted keeping in mind the legislative intent to curb the social evil of bride burning and dowry demand.

38.2. The prosecution must at first establish the existence of the necessary ingredients for constituting an offence under Section 304-B, IPC. Once these ingredients are satisfied, the rebuttable presumption of causality, provided under Section 113-B, Evidence Act operates against the accused.

38.3. The phrase "soon before" as appearing in Section 304-B, IPC cannot be construed to mean ''immediately before'. The prosecution must establish existence of "proximate and live link" between the dowry death and cruelty or harassment for dowry demand by the husband or his relatives.

38.4. Section 304-B, IPC does not take a pigeonhole approach in categorizing death as homicidal or suicidal or accidental. The reason for such non categorization is due to the fact that death occurring "otherwise than under normal circumstances" can, in cases, be homicidal or suicidal or accidental."

24. In the present case, the victim "Babita Yadav" is admittedly within seven years from the marriage died of unnatural death on having been cut down on the railway track by a train. The unnatural death may be homicidal, accidental or suicidal. The death by any of such means comes within the ambit of unnatural death for the purpose of constituting offence with other essential ingredients referred hereinabove for constituting offence under Section 304-B of the I.P.C.

25. In the light of the aforesaid legal position, it is necessary to see the evidences proving the demand of dowry and then cruelty in connection therewith committed with the victim.

26. The case lodged by the complainant/mother of the victim, the deceased "Babita Yadav" was duly investigated by the PW-6, R.P. Yadav, the Sub-Inspector. There is no mention of any cruelty or incident of beating to the victim after the earlier first information report lodged in the year 1996 with regard to the cruelty in connection with demand of dowry and the matter was mediated by some respectable persons. The in-laws of the deceased "Babita Yadav" make pardon and got back the deceased to her matrimonial home. No independent witness of the locality or neighbours is recorded. The mother of the victim used to reside in the State of Madhya Pradesh in Satna, there is no evidence that from where and how she got information of beating and torturing of her daughter after the said mediation and settlement between the parties. Evidence is also not on record as to when the deceased came to visit her before her death so that she knew about any recent and subsequent incident of torture at any point of time prior to her death. Moreover, the other prosecution witnesses like sister-in-law and brother-in-law of the deceased are also not stating about any such recent and subsequent act of cruelty after the mediation pursuant to the earlier first information report lodged by the mother in the year 1996.

27. One of the witnesses, Anita as PW-3 and brother-in-law as P.W.-5, Ram Ratan denying the fact of demand of dowry stated in consonance with the statement of PW-3, Anita that Babita Yadav and her husband were in quarrel and dispute with regard to the illicit relations of Ram Avadh with the wife of his maternal uncle.

28. The prosecution witnesses themselves are in difference and contradictions with regard to the demand of dowry during the period when the deceased "Babita Yadav" came back after mediation in 1996 to reside in her in-laws family. One set of witnesses stated on oath in the course of their examination in trial that demand of dowry was persistent and continuing with cruelty and torture committed on the deceased, whereas, another set of prosecution witnesses have stated on oath before the Court in the aforesaid process of trial that she was in quarrel and annoyed with her husband, the appellant "Ram Avadh" for the reason, his illicit relation with the wife of her husband's maternal uncle (mama). None of the witnesses's statement in oral evidence got corroboration from evidence of other attending facts.

29. None of the witnesses have ruled out any such allegations of illicit relations of the appellant "Ram Avadh". However, the Court has considered this aspect and ruled out the possibility of committing suicide by the deceased "Babita Yadav" by reason of the alleged illicit relations of her husband only for the reason that none of the witnesses have seen ever the appellant "Ram Avadh" and his companion of alleged illicit relations in any objectionable state of things. The eye witnesses account in evidences as to such intimacy between a male and female is generally not possible as it is not an activity done in the day light and openly. Legal or illegal whatever type of intimacy between a male or female may be, it is beyond the vision of people and done secretly, therefore, if witnesses are stating about the illicit relations that could not be disbelieved only for the reason that no one has seen the presence of complained to be in illicit relations in an objectionable state of things.

30. All the witnesses are interested witnesses as they are in relation with the victim as mother, sister and brother of the deceased. Their evidences required strict scrutiny by the Court but the same is not found done in the judgment delivered by the trial court.

31. If the prosecution has taken case of suicide by reason of demand of dowry and cruelty committed in connection therewith, the same is to be proved beyond all reasonable doubts. Prosecution is not relieved from proving it's case for the purpose of securing conviction of the accused thereupon.

32. The demand of dowry in the present case is not proved beyond all reasonable doubts and so far as the cruelty in connection therewith committed upon the victim is concerned soon before her death is also not proved beyond all reasonable doubts. So far as another aspect of the offence under Section 498-A is concerned, mere happening of incidence of victim's having been cut down on railway track is not in itself sufficient to presume that she committed suicide and to draw an inference that she could have not met an unfortunate accident. Here in the present case, right from the first information report lodged by the mother of the deceased/victim. The case of prosecution and it's witnesses, all have stated that the victim has committed suicide. No one even the keyman/chowkidar of the railway track, PW-4, has seen the victim jumping before a train on the railway track. He only saw the dead body cut down and lying on railway track.

33. In Sharad Birdhi Chand Sarda vs State of Maharashtra reported in (1984) 4 SCC 4, psychological and mental state of victim likely to commit suicide for the reason of any cruelty committed on her. The railway line, as in accordance with the evidence of prosecution witnesses is not too remote in the near vicinity of the home of the deceased where the incident happened.

34. In 1996, when the victim/deceased went to her mother and complained of the demand of dowry, the panchayat mediated the things and conceived therefrom, the victim returned to her in-laws house. No further complaint to the police is made either by the mother of the deceased or by the victim herself, as she was from the first incidence seems to have been a lady of courage and bold nature to raise voice against wrongs done with her by in-laws. Therefore, in absence of the evidence as to the psychology and personality of the deceased/victim, likely to commit suicide on having been annoyed from the alleged demand of dowry and cruelty committed with her, the prosecution case of commission of suicide by reason of cruelty committed by in-laws is not proved beyond all reasonable doubts. The cutting on the tracks may be accidental, suicidal or homicidal also but how high so ever the suspicion may be, the same could not take place of the proof either as to the accident or as to the suicide or even homicide. The prosecution in the present case failed to prove it's case of suicide by reason of cruelty in connection with demand of dowry. Therefore, learned court below committed error in passing the judgment of conviction under the aforesaid offences under Section 304B and 498A of the I.P.C. The judgment and sentence deserves to be set aside.

35. It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and pendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved.

36. In view of the aforesaid, the appeal is hereby allowed. The judgment and order dated 16.05.2002 passed by IXth Additional District Judge and Sessions Judge, Lucknow in Crime No.225 of 1997, Sessions Trial No.586 of 1998, Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow (State Vs. Ishwar Deen and others) convicting the each appellant to rigorous imprisonment for two years under Section 498-A I.P.C. and a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo six months rigorous imprisonment and under Section 304B I.P.C., ten years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo two years rigorous imprisonment is hereby set aside.

37. Appellants, namely, Ram Avadh Yadav and Ishwar Deen Yadav are acquitted of the charges levelled against them. They shall be released forthwith if not wanted in any other case.

38. Office is directed to communicate this order forthwith to the court concerned and also to send back the lower court record to ensure compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. These two criminal appeals arise out of a common judgment and order dated 14.10.1988 passed by VII Additional Sessions Judge, Sitapur in Sessions Trial No.218 of 1987 whereby the appellants Santu, Naresh, Ram Shankar, Prem Narain, Bahori, Jagannath and Bhudhar have been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years under section 148 I.P.C.. They are further convicted under Section 307 I.P.C. read with section 149 I.P.C. and each of them is sentenced to undergo Rigorous Imprisonment for ten years. Both the sentences of all the accused appellants were directed to run concurrently.

2. As per the prosecution case narrated in the written report, Ex.Ka.6, Lallu, father of the accused Santu and Naresh was murdered. In the said case, Santu had named Shiv Balak Ram, complainant of the present case and others. At the time of the present incident, the murder cases was pending before the trial court. There was enmity between the complainant and Santu and others and a case under Section 107/117 CrP.C. was also pending in the Court.

Due to the said enmity, on 23.6.1986 at about 6.00p.m. in village Shah Singhpur, P.S. Kamlapur, district Sitapur when the complainant Shiv Balak Ram was coming to his home after attending natural call, near Ahata of Ramasrey, situated towards north of the village, he saw accused Santu, Hori Lal and Jagannath, armed with guns, Naresh armed with double barrel gun, Ram Shankar and Prem Narain armed with addhi (half guns) and accused Bhudhar (since dead) was standing at a distance of 50 to 60 paces. On seeing Shiv Balak Ram, accused appellant Santu exhorted to kill and on this extortion, the accused persons started to fire on Shiv Balak Ram, causing injuries to him. In order to save her son, Smt. Shakunti, P.W.2 ran, however, she also sustained fire arm injuries. In the meantime, witnesses Ram Milan, Ramesh Chandra (P.W.1), Kanauji Lal, P.W.3, Lallu, Shamle and others reached near the place of the occurrence. On challenge being made, the accused persons ran away towards village Santraha. The complainant later on came to know that the accused persons are lying in ambush in the way towards the police station and as such, he did not proceed to police station for lodging the report in the same evening. On the next morning, he got the report of the incident ascribed by Gobardhan Lal, P.W.6 and proceeded towards police station in a bullock-cart along with his injured mother Smt. Shakunti. On reaching the police station at 8.00a.m. on 23.6.1986, he gave a written report, Ex. Ka-6 to Constable Sardar Husain, P.W.4, who prepared chick report, Ex.Ka.1 and registered a case under sections 147, 148, 149/307 I.P.C., P.S. Kamlapur, district Sitapur against all the accused persons. He also prepared Chitthi Majrubi of injured Shakunti and Shiv Balak Ram and referred them to the Medical Officer, Barai Jalalpur for medical examination.

3. The Medical Officer of Primary Health Centre, Jalalpur examined the injuries of injured Shiv Balak Ram at 12.30p.m.. He found the following injuries :

1. Fire arm wound 1.0 x 1.5 on the front of right thigh 16cm below the right anterior superior ilioc spine. Clotted blood present.

2. Fire arm wound 1.0 x 1.5c.m on the anterior aspect of right thigh 19cm above right knee joint

3. Fire arm wound .5cm x 1c.m. on the anterior aspect of right thigh 13cm above right knee joint

4. Fire arm wound 1.00cm x .5c.m. on the medical aspect of right thigh 22cm above the right popliteal fossa

5. Fire arm wound 1.0 x 1.5cm. on the anterior medical aspect of left thigh 21cm below the left anterior superiro ilioc spine. Clotted blood present.

7. Fire arm would 1.0 x 1.5cm on the posterior aspect of left thigh 13cm above left popliteal fossa.

On the same day at about 1.10p.m., injuries of Smt. Shakunti were also examined by the doctor who found following injuries :

1. Multiple fire arm wounds in an area of 16cm x 9cm on the lateral aspect of right upper arm. Size about 0.4cm x 0.2cm

2. Multiple fire arm wounds in an area of 19 x 11 cm on the anterio lateral aspect of right lower arm.

3. Multiple fire arm wounds in an area of 13cm x 9cm on the upper part of right breast

4. Multiple fire arm wounds in an area of 7cm x 8cm on the right laterial side of abdomen

5. Multiple fire arm wounds in an area of 10cm x 4cm on the posterior lateral aspect of right knee joint.

All the injuries were found to have been caused by fire arm. The injuries were kept under observation. X-ray of respective parts was advised and duration was about 18 hours.

Injury memos prepared by the doctor are Ex.Ka-4 and Ex.Ka-3 respectively.

4. After investigation, charge-sheet was filed. The Magistrate has committed the case to the Court of Sessions. Charges were framed and the accused persons have been charged under sections 148 and 307 I.P.C. read with section 149 I.P.C. They pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

5. The prosecution in support of its case. has examined Ramesh Chandra Mishra, P.W.1 , Shakunti, P.W.2, Kannauji Lal, P.W.3, HC Sardar Husain, P.W.4, the writer of chick and C.D. Dr. Pulak Raj, P.W.5 Medical Officer, Gobardhan Lal, P.W.6 the writer of report Ex.Ka-6 and Durga Prasad Singh, the investigating officer of the case.

6. In their statement under section 313 CrPC, the accused persons have stated that father of the accused Santu and Naresh was murdered in the year 1985. The complainant Shiv Balak Ram and others were named in the first information report lodged by Santu. The murder trial was pending against Shiv Balak Ram and others. They have stated that due to enmity and also because they are Khandani of the informant, they have been falsely implicated. The accused Bhudhar, Bahori Lal, Naresh and Rama Shankar being the witnesses in the murder case of Lalji have also been falsely implicated. It is stated that on the date of occurrence, a dacoity was committed in the house of complainant in the night and he along with his companions has been falsely implicated in the case in collusion with the police.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that a perusal of the injury report shows that injures were was kept under observation and none of the injuries received by the injured has been found to be serious or grievous to life. The injured Shiv Balak, informant of the case could not be examined as he had died even before his statement could be recorded. P.W. 1 Ramesh has been declared hostile. P.W.2 Shakunti, injured, though is not an eye-witness,has supported the prosecution case.

It is submitted that even if the entire prosecution story is taken to be true on its face value, the appellants can be said to have been wrongly convicted under sections 307/149 I.P.C. The case will not travel beyond Section 324 I.P.C. for the reason that none of the injuries received by the injured persons was found to be grievous or dangerous to life; the seat of injuries of both the injured, except injuries 3 and 4 of Smt. Sakunti, was also such that none could be said to have been caused on any vital part of the body. Although the accused persons were seven in number and all have allegedly fired shots from their respective fire arms. Only two shots fired on the injured and two from a distance causing no grievous injuries which prove that the intention of the accused was to cause injuries and not to commit any murder.

8. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate has opposed the appeals. He submits that a perusal of the injury report shows that the deceased Shiv Balak Ram had suffered seven fire arm injuries and the injured Shakunti has also received multiple firearm injuries on various parts of her body including right breast. Therefore, it cannot be said that there was no intention to commit murder. He also submits that gravity of the injury is irrelevant for conviction under section 307 I.P.C. What is to be seen is the actual intent of the accused persons, the nature of the weapon used, severity of the blow inflicting multiple fire arm injuries for commission of offence under Section 307 I.P.C. There was a definite attempt to commit murder of both the injured persons.

9. P.W.1 Ramesh has not supported the prosecution version. He has been declared hostile.

P.W. 2 Shakunti after hearing the sound of fire ran near the pond and saw that the accused Naresh armed with double barrel gun, Santu, Bahori and Jagannath with guns, Rama Shankar and Prem Narain armed with half guns and Bhudhar armed with Kanta were assaulting her son. When she went there, they shouted to kill the old lady also. Then, she also suffered fire arm injury and fell down.

P.W. 3 Kannauji Lal has also supported the prosecution version, however, he is not an eye-witness.

P.W.4 HC Sardar Husain has proved the chick report, Ext.Ka.1 and G.D., Ex.Ka-2.

P.W.5 Dr. Pulak Raj, Medical Officer who examined the injuries of both the injured has opined that all the injuries are caused by fire arm. He has prepared the injury memo and proved it as Ex.Ka-3 and Ex.Ka-4. The x-ray plate has been proved as Ex.Ka-5. He has stated that the injuries received by Shiv Balak Ram have been caused from 3-4' distance. He has also stated that all the fire arm wounds of Shiv Balak Ram have been caused by more than one weapon.

10. As regards injuries received by Shakunti, he has stated that these fire arm wounds have come from a distance of 16-17'. It is possible that she has received these fire arm injuries from one weapon.

11. P.W.6 Gobardhan Lal, writer of report, has proved the written report, Ex.Ka-6.

12. S.I. Durga Prasad Singh is the investigating officer. He recorded the statements of complainant Shiv Balak Ram and Smt. Shakunti. He also took into his possession the clothes of both the injured, sealed the same and prepared memo Ex.Ka.7. At the place of occurrence he recorded the statements of Ramesh, Kanauji Lal and Lalau, the witnesses of fact. He collected blood stained and plain earth and prepared site plan Ex.Ka-8. He prepared memo Ex.Ka-9. He also found 7 empty cartridges at the place of occurrence, prepared memo Ex.Ka-10. He proved Ex.Ka.11 which is the gun of accused Jagannath. He has also proved charge-sheet, Ex.Ka-12.

13. The injured Shakunti in her statement has clearly stated that the accused persons Naresh, Santu, Bahori, Jagannath, Ram Shankar and Prem were armed with fire arm and Bhudhar was armed with Kanta and when she came at the place of occurrence, the accused persons also shot her. It is the testimony of the injured witness which is on higher pedestal than eye-witness.. Therefore, there is no reason for this court to disbelieve the testimony of P.W.2.

14. P.W.3 Kannauji Lal, a witness of fact, though is not an eye-witness to the assault, however, after hearing the fire arm shot, he came out of the house and went behind his house and has seen the accused. He took the name after identifying them. Therefore, he has given the evidence against seven accused persons namely Naresh, Santu, Bahori, Jagannath, Ram Shankar, Prem and Bhudhar who were armed with weapons and were running towards west north direction of the village.

15. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that no grievous injury has been received by the injured and there is no repeated assault and therefore, the case will not travel to Section 307 I.P.C; rather it is to be converted under section 324 I.P.C.

As regards submission of learned counsel is concerned, a perusal of the injuries received by both the injured reveals that they have received multiple fire arm wounds in various areas of the body. The injured Shakunti sustained five fire arm injuries. She was seriously injured. She was a surviving witness. Shiv Balak Ram, compainant has sustained seven fire arm injuries which, according to Doctor, have been caused from more than one weapon. The trial court has held that the prosecution has been successful in proving its case. Participation of all the accused persons with a view to commit murder of the injured persons has also been proved by the statements of P.W.2 and P.W.3.

16. So far as the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants that the injuries are not grievous or life threatening, the contention of learned A.G.A. as recorded in preceding para 8 of the present judgment carries weight. The intention of the accused has to be seen from the actual injury as well as from the surrounding circumstances, the nature of the weapons used and severity of the blow inflicted. The injury reports of both the injured depict that Shiv Balak Ram has sustained seven fire arm injuries and Shakunti has received five fire arm wounds. All the injuries have been found to be caused by the accused persons. The ocular evidence is intact and corroborated by medical evidence. In reference to record, the trial court has rightly held that the accused persons had common intention of causing fatal injuries to both the injured persons.

17. Before proceeding further, it would be appropriate to extract Section 307 I.P.C. as under :

"307.Attempt to murder.--Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, the offender shall be liable either to imprisonment for life, or to such punishment as is hereinbefore mentioned.

Attempts by life convicts.--When any person offending under this section is under sentence of imprisonment for life, he may, if hurt is caused, be punished with death."

The first part of Section 307 I.P.C.refers to "an act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder". The second part of Section 307, which carries a heavier punishment, refers to "hurt caused in pursuance of such an "act.

18. In State of Maharashtra v Balram Bama Patill (1983)2 SCC 28, the Supreme Court held that it is not necessary that a bodily injury sufficient under normal circumstances to cause death should have been inflicted. Relevant portion of para 9 of Balram Bama Patill's case is reproduced as under :

"9...To justify a conviction under this section it is not essential that bodily injury capable of causing death should have been inflicted. Although the nature of injury actually caused may often give considerable assistance in coming to a finding as to the intention of the accused, such intention may also be deduced from other circumstances, and may even, in some cases, be ascertained without any reference at all to actual wounds. The section makes a distinction between an act of the accused and its result, if any. Such an act may not be attended by any result so far as the person assaulted is concerned, but still there may be cases in which the culprit would be liable under this section. It is not necessary that the injury actually caused to the victim of the assault should be sufficient under ordinary circumstances to cause the death of the person assaulted. What the Court has to see is whether the act, irrespective of its result, was done with the intention or knowledge and under circumstances mentioned in this section. An attempt in order to be criminal need not be the penultimate act. It is sufficient in law, if there is present an intent coupled with some overt act in execution thereof."

In State of M P v Saleem (2005)5 SCC 554, the Supreme Court held as under:

"13. It is sufficient to justify a conviction under Section 307 if there is present an intent coupled with some overt act in execution thereof. It is not essential that bodily injury capable of causing death should have been inflicted. The section makes a distinction between the act of the accused and its result, if any. The court has to see whether the act, irrespective of its result, was done with the intention or knowledge and under circumstances mentioned in the section. Therefore, an accused charged under Section 307IPC cannot be acquitted merely because the injuries inflicted on the victim were in the nature of a simple hurt."

In Jage Ram v State of Haryana (2015)11 SCC 366, it has been held that to establish the commission of an offence under Section 307, it is not essential that a fatal injury capable of causing death should have been inflicted. To reproduce:

"12. For the purpose of conviction under Section 307IPC, the prosecution has to establish (i) the intention to commit murder; and (ii) the act done by the accused. The burden is on the prosecution that the accused had attempted to commit the murder of the prosecution witness. Whether the accused person intended to commit murder of another person would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. To justify a conviction under Section 307 IPC, it is not essential that fatal injury capable of causing death should have been caused. Although the nature of injury actually caused may be of assistance in coming to a finding as to the intention of the accused, such intention may also be adduced from other circumstances. The intention of the accused is to be gathered from the circumstances like the nature of the weapon used, words used by the accused at the time of the incident, motive of the accused, parts of the body where the injury was caused and the nature of injury and severity of the blows given, etc."

19. From the above judgments, it is evident that proof of grievous or life-threatening hurt is not a sine qua non for the offence under Section 307I.P.C. The intention of the accused can be ascertained from the actual injury, if any, as well as from surrounding circumstances. Among other things, the nature of the weapon used and the severity of the blows inflicted can be considered to infer intent.

20. In the present case, the nature of the injuries shows that there were 12 wounds. The weapon of offence was a firearm. The circumstances of the case clearly indicate that there was an intention to murder. The presence of 12 bleeding wounds as well as the use of a fire arm leave no doubt that there was an intention to murder. Thus, the second part of Section 307 I.P.C. is attracted in the present case.

21. The contention of learned counsel for the appellants that the doctor has not opined that the injuries sustained were grievous or life threatening has no force as the Doctor, P.W.4 has also not said that these injuries received by both the injured are simple injuries. All the injuries have been found to be caused by fire arm. They were kept under observation. X-ray was advised. Multiple fire arms have been used to inflict injuries on the injured persons as per statement of the doctor, therefore, the argument that there was no repeated assault and therefore, there was no intention to commit murder does not appeal. The fact that both the accused persons have received seven and five fire arm wounds does not rule out the possibility of repeated assault, therefore, the trial court has rightly convicted the accused appellants.

22. The accused persons had also clear motive for crime having been committed which is evident from a perusal of the first information report. The complainant Shiv Balak Ram was an accused in the murder of Lalji, father of accused Santu and Naresh and therefore, there was enmity between the parties due to that case. The murder of Lalji and the pendency of the case against Shiv Balak Ram at the time and date of the incident of this case is admitted to the accused appellants. Thus, motive has also been proved beyond doubt.

23. The accused Bhudhar has been charged under section 148 I.P.C. P.W. 2 Shakunti in her statement has stated that accused Bhudhar was armed with Kanta and was assaulting her son and he also was armed with deadly weapon at the time of occurrence and all the accused persons are closely related. The accused Santu and Naresh are real brothers. The accused Rama Shankar, Prem Narain and Bahori are the sons of Rameshwar, thus, they are the real brothers. It has come in evidence that the accused Bhudhar resides in the house of Naresh and Bahori which also shows that all the accused except Jagannath reside in one and the same house and armed with deadly weapons, they formed an unlawful assembly with a common motive of committing murder of Shiv Balak Ram and Shakunti Devi, P.W.2. Nature of injuries as well as the weapons of offence clearly prove an intention to commit murder and hurt caused satisfies the ingredients of Section 307 I.P.C. Charges against the accused persons have rightly been proved under section 307 I.P.C., read with section 149 I.P.C and they have been rightly found guilty under section 148 I.P.C., and section 307 read with section 149 I.P.C.

24. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the conviction awarded by the trial court is upheld.

25. The Superintendent, District Jail, Sitapur has sent a report dated 3.8.2021 wherein it has been stated that the accused appellants Santu, Naresh, Ram Shankar, Prem Narain and Bahori have already been released from jail way back in the year between 1991 and 1994 after giving them benefit of Remission Rules and they have been released from jail. Bhudhar has already died.

26. As regards accused appellant Jagannath of Criminal Appeal No.702 of 1988, he was released on bail by this court vide order dated 24.11.1994. In the said order, it has been observed that he has remained in jail for six years on the date of passing of the order.

27. In the case of Neelam Bahal and another Vs. State of Uttarakhand, reported in (2010) 2 SCC, 229; accused was convicted under Section 307 I.P.C. and was sentenced to undergo seven years' rigorous imprisonment. The Supreme Court has convicted accused under Section 326 I.P.C. and reduced the sentence to period already undergone on the ground that the incident happened in the year 1987 when the accused was of young age of 25 years.

28. Considering the fact that the incident is of 1986, except the appellant Jagannath, who has already undergone a substantial period of six years in jail in the year 1994 at the time of grant of bail to him, all the other accused persons, namely Santu, Naresh, Ram Shankar, Prem Narain and Bahori have already been released from jail way back after giving them the benefit of Remission Rules by the government after serving more than six years of sentence and keeping in view the time lag, their sentence is reduced to the period already undergone.

29. The appellant Jagannath has already served a substantive period of six years in jail, the ends of justice would be served if he is sentenced with the period of imprisonment already undergone and it would be proper to reduce the sentence to the period of imprisonment already undergone by him.

Ordered accordingly.

30. Both the appeals are disposed of, as above.

The Registry is directed to send back the record of the trial court immediately along with a copy of the present order.

7. The matter is heard on merit on the basis of materials available on the record of appeal.

8. The instant appeal in hand is moved under Section 14(A) of The Schedule Castes and Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 against the impugned order dated 24.03.2021 passed by the Learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act/Additional District & Sessions Judge, in Case No.111 of 2021, (Hari Prakash Rawat Vs. Raj Kumar Verma) under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C., Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow, whereby the learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. had rejected the application of the present appellant under Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C.

9. To appreciate the matter involved in the appeal, a brief account of facts complained in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. moved by the appellant is being given here under.

The appellant/applicant aforesaid belongs to schedule caste and the opposite party no.2 belongs to other caste. The private respondent no.2, Raj Kumar Verma met the appellant in Mohanlal Ganj and represented himself "Mandal Adhyaksha' of a political party namely "Bhartiya Janta Party'. The Raj Kumar Verma and other workers of the Bhartiya Janta Party induced the appellant to be a member of the party in the year 2016, pursuant to which, the appellant begin to work for the Bhartiya Janta Party as it's active member.

The Raj Kumar Verma offered to the appellant to contest elections in the election of Member of Legislative Assembly, Uttar Pradesh for the Constituency No.176, Mohanlal Ganj, which is a reserved Constituency and promised to make it possible in getting candidature of the Bhartiya Janta Party in the election. On the aforesaid representation, offer and inducement, the appellant began to work for the purpose of electioneering in the Constituency on behalf of the Bhartiya Janta Party. The aforesaid Raj Kumar Verma assured the appellant to arrange a meeting with Bhartiya Janta Party's State President, "Sri Swatantra Deo Singh' with whom the said respondent represented himself to have homely relationship and stated him to be in decisive position in the process of allotment of ticket for candidature of the party in elections.

The appellant/applicant visited Sri Swatantra Deo Singh with private respondent no.2. After the meeting, the private respondent called the appellant/applicant and represented that he has settled the things with the party's high ups for the candidature of appellant in the elections and the appellant/applicant has to deposit Rs.15,00,000/- in the party fund. Believing on the representation and promise, the appellant/applicant deposited a cheque bearing no.129729 drawn on Axis Bank worth Rs.5,00,000/- and deliver in cash Rs.10,00,000/- on 01.12.2016 in the account of private respondent, Raj Kumar Verma on his advice. The payment of the cheque was cleared in the account of respondent no.2.

In the election for Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly of year 2017, the appellant/applicant when not given ticket as candidate of Bhartiya Janta Party, he asked the private respondent no.2, Raj Kumar Verma, the receipt of the said amount of Rs.15,00,000/- paid to him but neither the receipt of payment in party fund nor the repayment of the said amount was done by the respondent no.2. He continuously deferred the delivery of receipt or repayment.

Further, after a considerable lapse of time, when the receipt was not delivered, a complaint was made in the party forum, when the opposite party no.2 knew about the complaint, he threatened the appellant/applicant of dare consequences, abused him in the name of caste in filthy languages. He also threatened that now the Government is of Bhartiya Janta Party and if the appellant/applicant continues to persuade his complaint, he will falsely implicate in criminal cases to secure his imprisonment, so that receipt of the money would not be claimed by the appellant/applicant for the whole life.

10. The complaint of the said incident was made to Police Station Gosaiganj, District

Lucknow on 25.11.2020. The police did not take any action. Thereafter, on 05.12.2020, the matter was complained to I.G.R.S. On their instruction, the Police Station Alambagh, District Lucknow started the preliminary inquiry and afterward transferred the inquiry to the Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow. The Police of Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow recorded the statement on the pretext of doing action in the said inquiry but due to political pressure they did not proceed further. The inaction on the part of the police was reported on 19.01.2021 through a complaint to the Police Commissioner, Lucknow and when no action was taken by him also, the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. was moved before the Court of Special Judge (S.C./S.T.) Act.

11. The order dated 24.03.2021 whereby the application of the applicant/appellant under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was rejected, when examined for the purpose of finding out the reasons why the said application is rejected, it is found in observation of the Court that the entire facts seems to be confusing and unbelievable for the reason when the appellant/applicant and private respondent no.2, Raj Kumar Verma met together to Sri Swatantra Deo Singh then why all the things were conversed between them again separately.

12. Learned court below, the Special Judge has also on the aforesaid "confusion' recorded that seemingly there might have been mutual transaction of money between the appellant/applicant and the private respondent no.2 which has been twisted by framing story under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. He further declined to act upon the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. for the reason that there is no mention of date in the complaint as to the appellant/applicant was given threat of life and abused with the name of caste in filthy language by the private respondent no.2.

13. It appears that in passing the order under appeal, the Special Judge wanted to go deep into the allegations searching for the evidences, while he is required under the law to gather the facts emerging from the contents of the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. so as to infer the disclosure of information as to commission of a cognizable offence, which the Officer In-charge of the Police Station had to register under Section 154(1) Cr.P.C. for instituting the criminal case against the accused. This is to be done by looking into facts prima facie constituting any cognizable offence.

"154. Information in cognizable cases.

(1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read Over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub- section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in subsection (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence."

15. The case of Ramesh Kumari Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) reported in (2006) 2 SCC 677 is cited to impress on the duty of the Officer Incharge of the Police Station under Section 154(1) of the Cr.P.C.:-

"33. It is, therefore, manifestly clear that if any information disclosing a cognizable offence is laid before an officer in charge of a police station satisfying the requirements of Section 154(1) of the Code, the said police officer has no other option except to enter the substance thereof in the prescribed form, that is to say, to register a case on the basis of such information."

16. As such, for cognizable offence a duty has been caused upon the police to mandatorily register a first information report shall given it's ordinary meaning of being "mandatory" in character as held in Lalita Kumar Vs. Government of U.P. and others reported in 2014 (2) SCC 1.

17. The appellant belongs to Schedule Caste community. This was well known to the private respondent no.2, Raj Kumar Verma. The Schedule Castes and The Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 is enacted to prevent the commission of offence of atrocities against the members of the Schedule Castes and the Schedule Tribes, to provide for (Special Courts and the Exclusive Special Courts) for the trial of such offences and for the relief and rehabilitation of the victims of such offences and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

18. The word "atrocity" in the Act is defined in Section 2 of The Schedule Castes and Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, the definition clause (1)(a) provides means an offence punishable under Section 3.

19. The appellant/applicant has specifically alleged in his application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. that when the police did not act even on the instructions issued to them by the government pursuant to the complaint dated 05.12.2020 then he moved a complaint again to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Lucknow on 19.01.2021. It is specifically alleged further that when no action was done on his complaint and information as to the commission of offence, the daring accused, respondent no.2 used to abuse the appellant/applicant with the name of his caste on telephones and threatened to cause injury to his life and property because of which the appellant/applicant apprehended to his life.

20. The paras from the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. moved before the Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act, Lucknow are reproduced hereunder for reference:-

"12- यह कि प्रार्थी अपने साथ घटित घटना व जालसाजी की सूचना थाना गोसाईगंज, लखनऊ में दिनांक 25.11.2020 को दिया जिस पर थाने की पुलिस द्वारा किसी प्रकार की कोई कार्यवाही नहीं की गयी।

21. The allegations no doubt coming under the offence as described in Section 3 of The Schedule Castes and Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 then also the police had not taken any action against the mandatory requirement of the Rules [The Schedule Castes and Schedule Tribes Act (Prevention of Atrocities) Rules, 1955]. Rule 5 is quoted hereunder:-

(2) A copy of the information as so recorded under sub-rule (1) above shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in-charge of a police station to record the information referred to in-sub-rule (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who after investigation either by himself or by a police officer not below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police, shall make an order in writing to the officer in-charge of the concerned police station to enter the substance of that information to be entered in the book to be maintained by that police station."

22. Learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act when found the occasion to apply his mind over the contents of the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. did not record in impugned order under appeal that he did not find disclosure of the commission of any cognizable offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code and in The Schedule Castes and The Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. Even, he has not discussed about the requirement of taking action by a competent police officer on information as to the offence committed by a person not belonging to schedule caste with another person knowingly belongs to schedule caste and schedule tribe.

23. The appellant having moved an application on the denial from registering the first information report by the concerned Police Officer of the Police Station Gosainganj, District Lucknow to move the same before the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow on 19.01.2021.

24. Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is being quoted hereunder for easy reference in the course of discussion in the matter:-

"156. Police officer' s power to investigate cognizable case.

(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above- mentioned."

25. The Magistrate can also issue warrant for production before taking cognizance, if after the cognizance has been taken and the Magistrate wants any investigation, it will be under Section 202 of the Cr.P.C. as it is held in the State of Assam Vs. Abdul Noor and Ors. reported in (1970) 3 SCC 10.

26. The Magistrate can under Section 190 Cr.P.C. before taking cognizance ask for investigation by the police under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Section 190 Cr.P.C. is quoted hereunder:-

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub- section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

27. In the present case, the Special Judge obviously has not exercised power vested in him rather he rejected the application obviously disbelieving the material allegations made in the aforesaid application disclosing an offence alleged to have been committed by the prospective accused by fraud upon the applicant in the name of his high approaches in a political party, inducing him to believe on the facts he represented and thereby gaining undue advantage of huge amount of Rs.15,00,000/- on the promise of securing his candidature on the party symbol in the forth coming Uttar Pradesh Assembly Elections from the reserved seat.

28. Section 415, 420 and 506 of the I.P.C. are being quoted hereunder:-

29. Section 3(1)(s), 3(2)(v) and 3(2)(v-a) of The Schedule Castes and Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities), Act, 1989 are being quoted hereunder:-

"Section 3(1)(s):- abuses any member of a Schedule Caste or a Schedule Tribe by caste name in any place within public view;

Section 3(2)(v):- commits any offence under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) punishable with imprisonment for a term of ten years or more against a person or property [knowing that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Schedule Tribe or such property belongs to such member], shall be punishable with imprisonment for life and with fine;*

30. Bare perusal of the contents in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. moved before the court of Special Judge undoubtedly discloses the information as to the offence under the aforesaid provisions of law. Learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act was to find out the disclosure of the offence, if any, from the information contained in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to direct the concerned police officer to register the first information report and investigate the matter, but he opted to go deep into the evidences of behind such information for which he was not required under law.

31. On bare perusal of the aforesaid Section in Indian Penal Code, it is sufficiently clear from the allegations made in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C that there is a complaint against the acts of private respondent no.2, namely, Ram Kumar Verma falling under the offence which is cognizable and non-bailable under the aforesaid Sections of the Indian Penal Code and the special enactment of The Schedule Castes and The Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. The information as to which was also given earlier to the Station House Officer, Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow, who has not acted even when the recourse was taken by sending the complaint to the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow on 19.01.2021 and the Police Station was instructed to inquire into and lodge first information report but same was denied by inaction on the part of Police Station. This compelled the appellant to move the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the Special Judge (S.C./S.T.) Act, Lucknow.

32. The complaint lodged in the Consolidated Complaint Redressal System of the Uttar Pradesh by the appellant "Hari Prakash Rawat" and the complaint in written sent through post on 19.01.2021 are annexed with the affidavit in appeal. The copy of the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. which was moved before the learned court below is also on record.

33. Learned Court below was not required to go deep into the evidence but to see whether the allegations made in the application/complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety prima facie disclose a cognizable offence and make out a case against the accused. He failed to do so and instead of directing the police for investigation, rejected the application on flimsy grounds.

34. In the present case where the police despite repeated efforts made by the appellant did not lodge the first information report as it is disclosed from the materials available on record and the pleadings in the memo of appeal, no first information report was lodged under Section 154 Cr.P.C. though there was sufficient material to gather information as to the commission of offence, the Special Judge (S.C./S.T.) Act, Lucknow ought either to issue direction for the registration of the first information report or to treat the application as complaint.

35. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Lalita Kumar Vs. Government of U.P. and others (Supra), has held in para 120 as under:-

"120) In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold:

i) Registration of FIR is mandatory under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence and no preliminary inquiry is permissible in such a situation.

ii) If the information received does not disclose a cognizable offence but indicates the necessity for an inquiry, a preliminary inquiry may be conducted only to ascertain whether cognizable offence is disclosed or not.

iii) If the inquiry discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, the FIR must be registered. In cases where preliminary inquiry ends in closing the complaint, a copy of the entry of such closure must be supplied to the first informant forthwith and not later than one week. It must disclose reasons in brief for closing the complaint and not proceeding further.

iv) The police officer cannot avoid his duty of registering offence if cognizable offence is disclosed. Action must be taken against erring officers who do not register the FIR if information received by him discloses a cognizable offence.

v) The scope of preliminary inquiry is not to verify the veracity or otherwise of the information received but only to ascertain whether the information reveals any cognizable offence.

vi) As to what type and in which cases preliminary inquiry is to be conducted will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are as under:

a) Matrimonial disputes/ family disputes

b) Commercial offences

c) Medical negligence cases

d) Corruption cases

e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry.

vii) While ensuring and protecting the rights of the accused and the complainant, a preliminary inquiry should be made time bound and in any case it should not exceed 7 days. The fact of such delay and the causes of it must be reflected in the General Diary entry.

viii) Since the General Diary/Station Diary/Daily Diary is the record of all information received in a police station, we direct that all information relating to cognizable offences, whether resulting in registration of FIR or leading to an inquiry, must be mandatorily and meticulously reflected in the said Diary and the decision to conduct a preliminary inquiry must also be reflected, as mentioned above."

36. The learned trial judge has erred in passing the order impugned in the appeal as neither he has held that there is no material allegation which if taken together, disclose prima facie a cognizable offence. Though the complainant himself is a material witness in the case and the documentary evidence placed by him before the Court below were also sufficient to disclose prima facie an offence believably have been committed by the private respondent no.2, Raj Kumar Verma. This also ought to have kept into mind by the court below that allegedly a huge amount of Rs.15,00,000/- was grabbed by cheating and thereby dishonestly inducing the appellant/applicant to deliver the huge sum of money i.e. Rs.15,00,000/- to him, which the private respondent no.2 got in his account and thus undue gain was earned by him on his inducement on promise to secure in lieu thereof, the candidature of the appellant/applicant in State Assembly Elections from the reserved seat of Mohanlal Ganj.

37. The offences disclosed from application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. are not only cognizable but also non-bailable. The attitude of the Special Court specially made for redressing the atrocities or wrongs committed by a person belonging to other caste with a person belonging to schedule caste or schedule tribe obviously seems to have swayed upon the magnanimity of the political party and it's leaders, rather to see the conduct of private respondent no.2, namely, Raj Kumar Verma, an office bearer as "Mandal Adhyaksh' of the Mohanlal Ganj, Lucknow. The order of the Court below therefore deserves to be set aside.

38. Accordingly, the present Criminal Appeal filed under Section 14(A) of The Schedule Castes and Schedule Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 against the impugned order dated 24.03.2021 passed by the Learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act/Additional District & Sessions Judge, in Case No.111 of 2021, (Hari Prakash Rawat Vs. Raj Kumar Verma) under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C., Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow succeeds and is allowed. The accused person, as he had no right to be heard at pre cognizance stage, was given opportunity of being herad, the efforts were taken to secure his presence at the time of hearing, as the court below has dismissed the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against him, creating a right of hearing at this stage, but he did not avail the opportunity.

39. The order dated 24.03.2021 passed by the Learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act/Additional District & Sessions Judge, in Case No.111 of 2021, (Hari Prakash Rawat Vs. Raj Kumar Verma) under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C., Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow is set aside.

40. The learned Court below i.e. Learned Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act/Additional District & Sessions Judge, Lucknow is directed to exercise it's discretionary power and decide afresh the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. moved by the appellant and to pass an appropriate order in accordance with law, keeping in view the observations made by this Court as well as the direction given by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumar Vs. Government of U.P. and others(Supra) within a period of one month from the date, certified copy of the order is produced before it.

41. Accordingly, the present criminal appeal stands disposed of.

2. The prosecution case, in nutshell, is that an FIR was lodged by informant-Nitin Jain (P.W.2), at the Police Station Aliganj, District Lucknow alleging that his father Vijay Kumar Jain, who was Chief Engineer (Electric) in B.S.N.L., was returning from his office to his residence at Sector-D, B.S.N.L., Aliganj in his official ambassador car bearing No. U.P.32 W 4341, which was driven by driver Saleem son of Mohd. Shahid. The driver was pressurizing the deceased to make him permanent in his job but the deceased showed his inability as the same could be done by the Department and in that regard there was an order for transfer of a permanent driver. The driver Saleem apprehended that he would be removed and other driver would be appointed and the said driver was to join the next day on account of which the driver Saleem after bringing the deceased back from his office to the residence of the deceased which was situated at Sector D, Aliganj stopped the car at the side of house of deceased and locked the doors of car from both sides and poured petrol on the deceased from plastic 'can' which he was carrying and set him ablaze. The driver while committing the alleged offence was shouting that he would not leave him and threatened the people present there not to come for rescue of deceased. On seeing the car set ablaze and deceased locked inside, the son (complainant), wife of deceased Smt. Mamta Rani Jain (P.W.3), Smt. Inu Parihar, Smt. Ambika Singh and with the help of other persons took out deceased in a burnt state from the car and after getting examined him in Lifeline Hospital, Aliganj got him admitted in Emergency in Medical College. The driver was caught at the spot itself by the local residents.

3. On the basis of said written complaint (Ex.Ka-1) being made by P.W.2 Amit Jain, son of deceased, at Police Station Aliganj, District Lucknow about the incident dated 12.07.2001, FIR was registered immediately after the alleged incident at 7.30 p.m. on the same day under Sections 307, 435, 427 I.P.C. Later on, when the father of the complainant succumbed to his injuries, the case was converted from Section 307 I.P.C. to Section 302 I.P.C.

4. After investigation, charge sheet was submitted against the accused Mohd. Saleem under Sections 302, 435, 427 I.P.C. before the Competent Court and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions by the learned Magistrate.

5. On 15.01.2002 the learned Sessions Judge, F.T.C.-III, Lucknow framed charges against the accused Saleem for offence under Sections 302, 435, 427 I.P.C. Accused denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

At that time, he along with his mother went towards the car and saw the accused appellant driver Mohd. Saleem picked up the 'can' which was kept near his legs and poured on his father and rushed outside litting the car with match stick, as a result of which his father along with car started to burn. The accused appellant Mohd. Saleem locked the car and shouted that he would not leave Vijay Kumar Jain and also threatened complainant not to come near the car else he would meet the same fate. P.W.1 Nitin Jain, in his deposition, further stated the reason for committing the offence by accused Saleem was that he was pressurizing his father (deceased) to make him permanent but his father showed his inability and the accused appellant apprehended that he would be removed from the service.

11. P.W.3 Smt. Mamta Rani Jain, wife of deceased, is also an eye witness of the incident. Safdarganj Hospital for conducting post mortem of the deceased was prepared by him under his signature and proved the same as Ex.Ka-12.

20. P.W.10 Suresh Pratap Singh, Sub-Inspector, Chauki Para, Police Station Talkatora, Lucknow in his deposition stated that on 12.07.2001 he was posted at Chauki Incharge, New Galla Mandi, Police Station Aliganj, Lucknow who conducted the initial investigation of the incident. He stated that he reached the place of incident and found an ambassador car bearing No. U.P.32W4341 in a burnt condition and huge crowd had gathered there and on asking he was told by people there that two police personnel, namely Surya Pal and Sudhir Pal had taken the accused appellant Saleem who was caught by the crowd. For supervision of the burnt car he left two constable at the place of incident and he himself went to bed no.1 of emergency ward, K.G.M.C. where deceased

Vijay Kumar Jain was admitted in a burn state. He further stated that Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) gained consciousness and tried narrating about the incident which was recorded by him. Deceased in his statement before this witness has specifically stated that "मै कार से घर आया था ड्राइवर सलीम ने गाडी मोड पर खडी की, मै समझा नही उसने अपने पास रखा पीपिया का पेट्रोल भीतर और उपर सीटो पर डाल दिया, माचिस से उसने आग लगा दी, मै कार मे जलने लगा, लोगो ने निकाला, सलीम मुझे मारना चाहता था, उसकी नौकरी पक्की नही"

21. He further stated that thereafter the condition of the injured started deteriorating and family members got busy in looking after Vijay Kumar Jain and due to this reason he could not record the statement of other witnesses. Thereafter he went to police station to inquire from accused Saleem where accused Saleem was present and his statement was recorded in which he confessed his guilt for recording the same under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and a report was sent to court. On 13.07.2001 he recorded the statement of scriber of the FIR Virendra Kumar and thereafter went to emergency ward KGMC and recorded the statement of complainant Nitin Jain. No further statement could be recorded as Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) was referred to New Delhi for treatment and his relatives also accompanied him to New Delhi. Then he went to the place of incident where he recorded the statement of one Inu Parihar and on her identification examined the place of incident and prepared the site plan Ex.Ka-14 and took into possession five litre plastic 'can' having some amount of petrol in the bottom without cap, ambassador car in burn condition and sealed the items in front of witnesses and prepared a report on the spot in his handwriting as Ex.Ka-7. All these recovered items were deposited in Malkhana of the police station which were entered in the G.D. Thereafter he got the information regarding the death of deceased through the wireless, entry of which has been made in the G.D., and after that the investigation was transferred to one Shri R.R. Rana.

22. P.W.11 R.R. Singh Rana, Station Officer (Investigating Officer), who did the final investigation and filed the charge sheet in the Court, in his deposition stated that on the date 12.07.2001 he was posted as Station Officer, Police Station Aliganj, Lucknow and on that day in his presence Crime No.241/2001, under Sections 307, 433, 427 I.P.C. was registered whose investigation was done by Sub Inspector S.P. Singh. The information of the death of Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) in Delhi on 13.07.2001 during the course of treatment was given to him by complainant Nitin Jain via telephone and thereafter case was converted to Sections 302 I.P.C. and the same was entered in G.D. No.34 at time 18.25. He has proved the statements of the witnesses recorded by him and items collected including burnt clothes, blanket etc. during course of investigation and thereafter filed the charge sheet Ex.Ka-15. In his cross-examination he had deposed that immediately after receiving the information of the incident he reached the place and got to know that Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) was sent to Lifeline hospital in a burnt condition and from there to Medical College. He went to Medical College and had seen the injured Vijay Kumar Jain there, however, he could not say about the percentage of burn on deceased, but he clarified that Vijay Kumar Jain was almost burnt. He further deposed that he saw the face of the deceased which was burnt. However, he did not remember whether face and neck were burn or not. He was told by erstwhile Investigating Officer S.P. Singh (P.W.10) that to take the statement of injured information was conveyed, which was denied by the doctor to record the statement. He next deposed that he did not know whether any intimation to the officer to record the statement was given or not. He was also not aware about the fact whether anyone came to record statement or not. He also denied about having any knowledge if doctor has recorded any statement of deceased. During the investigation he got to know that the accused used 'can' to pour petrol on the deceased sitting in the car and also poured petrol on the car, however, nobody saw as to how accused poured petrol. He had no knowledge if the scalp hair, chest and stomach of the deceased were burn or not as the doctor did not let him see the dead body of deceased. He was not told by anyone that deceased used to smoke. He proved the recovery memo with respect to clothes Ex.K-3, burn ambassador Ex.Ka-6, however, he mentioned that he was not scriber of the aforesaid memo and he did not give any reason for the same. He next submitted that he did not know about the working time of the accused or whether the accused used to commute by cycle and parked at the house of deceased. He denied the suggestions that he did not carry out investigation properly and filed the charge sheet in a forged manner. He identified the material produced in the court in a sealed cover which included one woolen blanket, one vest, shirt, pant, underwear, socks in a burnt condition which were collected from the car of the deceased, sealed by him. On a query put to him, he states that blanket was put on the deceased to cover him after he got burn, due to which blanket was not burnt.

23. P.W.12 Kifayat Sharma, Head Constable (Driver), Security Headquarter, Lucknow, in his deposition, stated that on 13.07.2001 he was posted as H.C.M.T. at Police Lines, Lucknow. On the said date, he personally inspected the car bearing No.U.P.32W4341 which was parked at B.S.N.L. Colony. He next stated that the car was standing in burn condition, the engine, steering, brakes (foot brake and hand brake), clutch, horn, driving meter, battery, light were all destroyed as a result of burning of car, however, the tires were in good condition. He further stated that it can be said that if any person pours petrol to a person sitting inside the car and set car ablaze, then the car would be burn in such a way. The report describing the condition of the car, prepared and signed by him, was proved as Ex.Ka-16.

24. The defence in support of its case has examined D.W.1 Suresh Kumar Gupta, D.W.2 - Mohd. Safeeq, C.W.1- Dr. Amit Bhatnagar.

25. D.W.1 Suresh Kumar Gupta, in his deposition, stated that he knew accused Saleem, who was working in B.S.N.L.. He heard about the accused Saleem getting arrested from the newspaper.

26. D.W.2 Mohd. Safeeq, in his deposition, stated that he was not present at the place of incident. He also heard about the accused Saleem getting arrested in the newspaper. He further stated that accused Saleem met him at betel shop between 9.00 to 9.30 a.m. one day prior to news of incident getting published in newspaper where accused Saleem asked him to help in getting job. He further stated that he had knowledge of Saleem working in B.S.N.L. but he was unaware of whose car he was driving.

27 C.W.1 Dr. Amit Bhatnagar posted at K.G.M.C. Surgery Department, Lucknow submits that on 12.07.2001 he was posted as Junior Resident, K.G.M.C., Lucknow and on that day at about 6.45 pm V.K. Jain got admitted in K.G.M.C., Lucknow with 95% burn and he was given treatment by the team of Professor M.S.D. Jaiswal, Dr. J.D. Rawat, Dr. Vivek Kumar, Senior Resident, Dr. Arif Arya, Dr. O.P. Yadav, Amit Sharma and myself. He stated that the bed head ticket of the V.K. Jain (deceased) was prepared by him which was produced in the court in a sealed envelop. He next deposed that at the time of admission in hospital, V.K. Jain (deceased) was in his senses and was speaking and answering to the questions asked. On the day of admission, V.K. Jain told about the incident which was entered on the bed head ticket by this witness. He further stated that he was the scriber of the bed head ticket and proved the same as Ex.C1.

28. V.K. Jain (deceased) was shifted to Safdarganj Hospital on 12.07.2001 which is also mentioned on bed head ticket. In his cross-examination he stated that V.K. Jain (deceased) got 95% burn, which comes in serious category and in such type of cases chances of survival depends on the type of treatment given to the patient. V.K. Jain (deceased) was given treatment by the team of Professor M.S.D. Jaiswal and Dr. J.D. Rawat. The memo of the statement of the deceased was sent to police and Magistrate on the very same day whose carbon copy is retained in bed head ticket. On a query made to him, he failed to recall if there were blisters present on the body of deceased or not, however, he clarified that only in case of minor burn, blisters are found on skin, however, in case of serious burn, blisters are not formed. He next stated that Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) was referred to Safdarganj Hospital, New Delhi at the instance of Nitin Jain, son of deceased. Thereafter he was taken to New Delhi by air. He denied the suggestions that the statement of the deceased was prepared by him on the directions of family members of the deceased.

29. Learned trial Judge believed the evidence of eye witnesses Nitin Jain (P.W.2) and Mamta Rani Jain (P.W.3) as it is supported by the medical evidence and dying declaration of the deceased and found the appellant guilty for the offences punishable under Sections 302, 435, 417 I.P.C. and accordingly convicted and sentenced the appellant Saleem in the manner stated in paragraph 1.

30. Aggrieved by the same, the appellant has preferred the instant appeal.

31. Heard Shri G.S. Pandey assisted by Ms. Anita Singh and Shri Arunendra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

32. The learned Counsel for the appellant argued that the appellant who was the driver of the deceased has been falsely implicated in the present case though the deceased committed suicide into his car. The said defence was also taken by the appellant in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. as he was suffering from some mental disorder. He next argued that the appellant after sprinkling petrol on the deceased, who was inside his car, set ablaze him and he remained standing at the place of occurrence, which is unnatural conduct of the appellant which shows that he was falsely implicated in the present case by the family members of the deceased. He urged that if the appellant wanted to kill the deceased then he would have murdered him at a lonely place when he was being brought by him in his car as he returned from out of station.

33. He next submitted that P.W.2 Nitin Jain and P.W.3 Mamta Jain who are the eye witnesses of the occurrence, their statements are unworthy to be believed as they highly interested and partisan witnesses. He further argued that no independent witness of the incident were either produced or examined by the prosecution before the trial court in order to support the prosecution case. Further, the dying declaration, which has been recorded of the deceased, no certificate has been issued by the Doctor nor the deceased was in a fit mental state for giving the dying declaration, as he was rushed to Lifeline hospital and referred to K.G.M.C. and thereafter was taken to Safdarganj Hospital, New Delhi where he died on the same day.

34. It was further argued that the dying declaration which was written by C.W.1 Dr. Amit Bhatnagar was on the bed head ticket when the deceased was admitted in K.G.M.C. He also submitted that the Investigating Officer in his evidence before the trial court he has admitted the fact that no certificate was taken by the doctor before recording the dying declaration of the deceased, hence the dying declaration of the deceased is unworthy and not at all a relevant piece of evidence on the basis of which the conviction of the appellant could be sustained. There was no smell of kerosene or petrol found in the post mortem report which further belies the prosecution case. The spot arrest of the appellant is also a false one as the appellant did not make any effort to escape from the place of occurrence after the incident. He lastly argued that the appellant has been in jail since 13.07.2001, i.e. for the last 20 years and 5 months, therefore, the conviction and sentence of the appellant by the trial court is against the evidence on record, hence the same be set aside and the appellant be acquitted.

35. Learned A.G.A., on the other hand, has opposed the arguments of learned Counsel for the appellant and submitted that the appellant has committed brutal murder of the deceased who was the Chief Engineer, Electric in BSNL and the appellant had gone to take him from the airport as he had returned from Patna after official work place of posting and in the evening he was being brought by him to his house from office in his official vehicle no.UP-32 W4341 by the appellant who was the driver. The appellant was pressurizing the deceased to make him permanent but the deceased showed his inability as the same could be done only by the Department and in that regard there was an order for transfer of a permanent driver. The appellant apprehended that he would be removed and other driver would be appointed in his place and the said driver was to join the next day on account of which the appellant after bringing the deceased from his office to his house locked the doors of car of appellant and poured kerosene oil on his body and lit him on fire and started shouting that he would not leave him and on the alarm raised the appellant threatened saying if any person comes to save him then he would be also burnt alive. It was submitted by him that soon after the incident the appellant was arrested by the public at the place of occurrence and handed over to the police on 12.07.2001. The FIR of the incident was lodged promptly at 7.30 p.m. by P.W.2 Nitin Jain - son of the deceased. He submitted that the dying declaration of the deceased was recorded when he was rushed to Lifeline hospital to K.G.M.C. by C.W.1 Dr. Amit Bhatnagar which was found on the bed head ticket and his left thumb impression was taken on the dying declaration by C.W.1 who was examined by the trial court and he deposed about the said fact before it. The deceased died on 13.07.2001 at Safdarganj Hospital, New Delhi on the same day when he was taken from K.G.M.C. to Delhi by his son P.W.2. He argued that the incident has taken place at 6.00 p.m. in the evening in front of the house of the deceased and the same was also witnessed by his son P.W.2 and P.W.3 wife of deceased from whose evidence the prosecution case finds support. The appellant has given a false defence as the deceased has committed suicide which is not corroborated by any other evidence though he himself has burnt the deceased in his car. He further stated that the evidence of P.W.2 and P.W.3 cannot be discarded by this Court simply because the two eye witnesses happens to be the son and wife of the deceased as there was no occasion for them to falsely implicate the appellant who is the real culprit of the incident.

36. We have examined the rival contentions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties along with the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court and also perused the lower court record.

37. The Apex Court has expounded definition of the dying declaration and its condition which are required at the time of accepting it as an evidence was considered by this Court in the case of Munni Devi & Ors. vs. State of U.P.; 2020 (5) ALJ 653. Paras-33, 36 and 39 of the said judgment which are relevant to note are reproduced hereunder:-

"33. ... 22. The legal position about the admissibility of a dying declaration is settled by this Court in several judgments. This Court in Atbir v. Government of NCT of Delhi - 2010 (9) SCC 1, taking into consideration the earlier judgments of this Court in Paniben v. State of Gujarat - 1992 (2) SCC 474 and another judgment of this Court in Panneerselvam v. State of Tamilnadu - 2008 (17) SCC 190 has given certain guidelines while considering a dying declaration:

1. Dying declaration can be the sole basis of conviction if it inspires full confidence of the Court.

2. The Court should be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind at the time of making the statement and that it was not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination.

3. Where the Court is satisfied that the declaration is true and voluntary, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration.

4. It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborative. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

5. Where the dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence.

6. A dying declaration which suffers from infirmities, such as the deceased was unconscious and could never make any statement cannot form the basis of conviction.

7. Merely because a dying declaration does not contain all the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected.

8. Even if it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded.

9. When the eye-witness affirms that the deceased was not in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, medical opinion cannot prevail.

10. If after careful scrutiny the Court is satisfied that it is free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration.

36. In the aforesaid judgment of Sudhakar (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has discussed the concept of dying declaration in detail in paragraph 18 by considering the case of Laxman vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2002) 6 SCC 710 which is quoted below :-

"18. In the case of Laxman (supra), the Court while dealing with the argument that the dying declaration must be recorded by a Magistrate and the certificate of fitness was an essential feature, made the following observations. The court answered both these questions as follows:

"3. The juristic theory regarding acceptability of a dying declaration is that such declaration is made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the man is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak only the truth. Notwithstanding the same, great caution must be exercised in considering the weight to be given to this species of evidence on account of the existence of many circumstances which may affect their truth. The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, has always to be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite. In most cases, however, such statements are made orally before death ensues and is reduced to writing by someone like a Magistrate or a doctor or a police officer. When it is recorded, no oath is necessary nor is the presence of a Magistrate absolutely necessary, although to assure authenticity it is usual to call a Magistrate, if available for recording the statement of a man about to die. There is no requirement of law that a dying declaration must necessarily be made to a Magistrate and when such statement is recorded by a Magistrate there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, what evidential value or weight has to be attached to such statement necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. What is essentially required is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind. Where it is proved by the testimony of the Magistrate that the declarant was fit to make the statement even without examination by the doctor the declaration can be acted upon provided the court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and truthful. A certification by the doctor is essentially a rule of caution and therefore the voluntary and truthful nature of the declaration can be established otherwise.

39. For accepting the dying declaration, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has expounded the conditions which are necessarily to be followed. In State of Gujarat v. Jayrajbhai Punjabhai Varu reported in (2016) 14 SCC 152, the Supreme Court held in paragraph nos. 15, 17, 19 & 20 as under :

"15. The courts below have to be extremely careful when they deal with a dying declaration as the maker thereof is not available for the cross-examination which poses a great difficulty to the accused person. A mechanical approach in relying upon a dying declaration just because it is there is extremely dangerous. The court has to examine a dying declaration scrupulously with a microscopic eye to find out whether the dying declaration is voluntary, truthful, made in a conscious state of mind and without being influenced by the relatives present or by the investigating agency who may be interested in the success of investigation or which may be negligent while recording the dying declaration.

17. A number of times the relatives influence the investigating agency and bring about a dying declaration. The dying declarations recorded by the investigating agencies have to be very scrupulously examined and the court must remain alive to all the attendant circumstances at the time when the dying declaration comes into being. In case of more than one dying declaration, the intrinsic contradictions in those dying declarations are extremely important. It cannot be that a dying declaration which supports the prosecution alone can be accepted while the other innocent dying declarations have to be rejected. Such a trend will be extremely dangerous. However, the courts below are fully entitled to act on the dying declarations and make them the basis of conviction, where the dying declarations pass all the above tests.

19. ..... A dying declaration is entitled to great weight. The conviction basing reliance upon the oral dying declaration made to the father of the deceased is not reliable and such a declaration can be a result of afterthought. This is the reason the Court also insists that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the Court in its correctness. The Court has to be on guard that the statement of deceased was not as a result of tutoring, prompting or a product of imagination. The Court must be further satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind after a clear opportunity to observe and identify the assailants. Once the Court is satisfied that the declaration was true and voluntary, undoubtedly, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration. It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

20. The burden of proof in criminal law is beyond all reasonable doubt. The prosecution has to prove the guilt of the accused beyond all reasonable doubt and it is also the rule of justice in criminal law that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other towards his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted."

38. In view of the law as enunciated and discussed by the Apex Court on the reliability of the dying declaration, we proceed to examine the statement made by the deceased before P.W.10 Surendra Pratap Singh - S.I. and C.W.1 Dr. Amit Bhatnagar, who was posted at K.G.M.C. Surgery Department, Lucknow as Junior Resident.

39. From perusal of the evidence of P.W.10 Surendra Pratap Singh- Sub Inspector, Chauki Para, Police Station Talkatora, Lucknow, in his deposition, before the trial court has stated that he went to bed no.1 of emergency ward, K.G.M.C. where the deceased Vijay Kumar Jain was admitted in a burn state and in a conscious state, he narrated him about the incident and the same was recorded by him. From perusal of the same, it is evident that the deceased had categorically stated that when he returned to his house, his driver Saleem -appellant stopped the vehicle on a turning. He could not understand as to why the vehicle was stopped. Thereafter, the driver who had kept a can of petrol came near him, had poured the same inside the car and on the seat and lit a matchbox, due to which the deceased was burnt and thereafter, the people had taking him out from the car. He further stated that the appellant wanted to kill him as he could not get him permanent employee. Similarly, C.W.1 - Dr. Amit Bhatnagar, in his deposition, before the trial court, has stated that on 12.07.2001 he was posted as Junior Resident at K.G.M.C., Lucknow and on that day at about 6.45 p.m. Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) was admitted in K.G.M.C., Lucknow with 95% burn injuries and he was given treatment by a team of doctors and by him. The bed head ticket of Vijay Kumar Jain was prepared by him which was produced by him in the court in a sealed envelop. He further stated before the trial court that at the time of taken in hospital, Vijay Kumar Jain (deceased) was conscious and was speaking and was answering to the questions put to him by C.W.1. The deceased told about the incident which was entered on the bed head ticket by the said witness in which the deceased had stated as under :-

"मै विजय कुमार जैन अपने पूरे होशो हवास में यह बयान देता हूँ कि दिनांक 12.07.2001 को शाम 5. 30 चण्उण को अपने घर के बीच जब मै अपने ऑफिस से लौटा तो मैं अपनी गाडी में घर के नीचे खडा था । वो गाडी ड्राइवर चला कर लाया था और मुझे ऑफिस से घर लाया था। तभी वो उतरा और गाडी पर पेट्रोल डालकर गाडी में आग लगा दी और दरवाजे बंद कर दिये जिससे मैं जल गया।"

40. Below the aforesaid statement, the impression of left and right toe of the deceased had been affixed, which also bears the attestation of this witness, i.e. C.W.1 Doctor Amit Bhatnagar.

41. Thus, it is clear from the two statements made by the deceased which can be termed as a dying declaration that it was the appellant who had burnt the deceased in his car as the deceased refused to get his job permanent in the department.

42. The argument of learned Counsel for the appellant that the said dying declaration which has been made the basis of conviction of the appellant by the trial court is not a reliable piece of evidence as the same has not been taken in the presence of doctor nor any fitness certificate has been given, has no substance as the deceased had received 95% burn injuries on his person and at the conscious state of mind he made statement before P.W.10 - Sub Inspector and C.W.1 Dr. Amit Bhatnagar when deceased was admitted in K.G.M.C. There appears to be no flaw on the part of the trial court in recording the finding of conviction of the appellant on the basis of dying declaration. The statement made by the deceased before P.W.10 and C.W.1 can be very much accepted on relevant piece of evidence in view of the proposition of law as has been discussed by the trial court in the above referred judgment.

43. Besides the above statement made by the deceased, there appears to be two eye-witnesses of the incident, namely, P.W.2 Nitin Jain and P.W.3 Mamta Rani Jain, who are the son and wife of the deceased respectively. They are the witness of incident which had taken place near the house of the deceased where he arrived in his official vehicle which was driven by the appellant and two witnesses were strolling near the house and saw the appellant pouring petrol inside the car in which the deceased was locked by him and the car was set ablaze. They broke open the glass of ambassador car, took out the deceased with the help of the public and immediately after the incident lodged the FIR and rushed to the Lifeline Hospital and to K.G.M.C. thereafter. The deceased was taken to Safdarganj Hospital, New Delhi by air. The two witnesses have categorically stated before the trial court regarding the manner in which the incident has taken place and the appellant being responsible for the same. There appears to be nothing in the evidence which may compel this Court to disbelieve their testimonies simply because they are the family members of the deceased, their evidence cannot be discarded on the ground that they are highly interested and partisan witnesses.

44. At this juncture, it would be apt to mention that evidence of a close relation can be relied upon, provided it is trustworthy, credible and is cogent. Regarding the reliability of oral testimony of the closely related eye-witnesses, Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Bhagaloo Lodh and another Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2011 (13) SCC 206 held as under: -

18. Evidence of a close relation can be relied upon provided it is trustworthy. Such evidence is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before resting of conclusion to convict the accused in a given case. But where the Sessions Court properly appreciated evidence and meticulously analysed the same and the High Court re-appreciated the said evidence properly to reach the same conclusion, it is difficult for the superior court to take a view contrary to the same, unless there are reasons to disbelieve such witnesses. Thus, the evidence cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are inter-related to each other or to the deceased."

45. The Apex Court further in case of Gangabhavani Vs. Rayapati Venkat Reddy

and Ors, 2013 (15) SCC 298, while considering the evidentiary value of interested witnesses held as under:-

"15. It is a settled legal proposition that the evidence of closely related witnesses is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it, regarding the convict/accused in a given case. Thus, the evidence cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. In case the evidence has a ring of truth to it, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, it can, and certainly should, be relied upon.

16. In State of Rajasthan v. Kalki, this Court held: (SCC p. 754, para 7) "7. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W. 1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased".....For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is, she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W.1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents.

17. In Sachchey Lal Tiwari v. State of U.P., while dealing with the case this Court held: (SCC pp.414-15, para 7)

"7. .....Murders are not committed with previous notice to witnesses; soliciting their presence. If murder is committed in a dwelling house, the inmates of the house are natural witnesses. If murder is committed in a street, only passers-by will be witnesses. Their evidence cannot be brushed aside or viewed with suspicion on the ground that they are mere 'chance witnesses'. The expression 'chance witness' is borrowed from countries where every man's home is considered his castle and everyone must have an explanation for his presence elsewhere or in another man's castle. It is quite unsuitable an expression in a country where people are less formal and more casual, at any rate in the matter explaining their presence."

18.In view of the above, it can safely be held that natural witnesses may not be labelled as interested witnesses. Interested witnesses are those who want to derive some benefit out of the litigation/case. In case the circumstances reveal that a witness was present on the scene of the occurrence and had witnessed the crime, his deposition cannot be discarded merely on the ground of being closely related to the victim/deceased."

46. Dealing with the reliability of related witness, the Apex Court in the case of Laltu Ghosh versus Sate of West Bengal, AIR 2019 SC 1058 held as under:-

"13. In criminal cases, it is often the case that the offence is witnessed by a close relative of the victim, whose presence on the scene of the offence would be natural. The evidence of such a witness cannot automatically be discarded by labelling the witness as interested. Indeed, one of the earliest statements with respect to interested witnesses in criminal cases was made by this Court in Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab, 1954 SCR 145, wherein this Court observed:

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person..."

14. In case of a related witness, the Court may not treat his or her testimony as inherently tainted, and needs to ensure only that the evidence is inherently reliable, probable, cogent and consistent. We may refer to the observations of this Court in Jayabalan v. Union Territory of Pondicherry, (2010) 1 SCC 199:

"23. We are of the considered view that in cases where the Court is called upon to deal with the evidence of the interested witnesses, the approach of the Court while appreciating the evidence of such witnesses must not be pedantic. The Court must be cautious in appreciating and accepting the evidence given by the interested witnesses but the Court must not be suspicious of such evidence. The primary endeavour of the Court must be to look for consistency. The evidence of a witness cannot be ignored or thrown out solely because it comes from the mouth of a person who is closely related to the victim."

47. It is requisite to quote observation made by the Apex Court in the case of Md. Rojali Ali & Ors. Versus State of Assam, AIR 2019 SC 1128 which is reproduced herein under :-

"10. As regards the contention that all the eyewitnesses are close relatives of the deceased, it is by now well settled that a related witness cannot be said to be an ''interested' witness merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. This Court has elucidated the difference between "interested' and "related' witnesses in a plethora of cases, stating that a witness may be called interested only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation, which in the context of a criminal case would mean that the witness has a direct or indirect interest in seeing the accused punished due to prior enmity or other reasons, and thus has a motive to falsely implicate the accused."

48. Thus, it is consistent view of the Apex Court that when the version of witness tallies with each other, it cannot be discarded merely on the ground that they are related witnesses.

49. It transpires from the evidence on record that the appellant was arrested on the spot by the public immediately after the incident and handed over to the police which further goes to show that after committing such brutal and gruesome murder, the appellant did not leave the place and was standing at the place of occurrence. The argument of learned Counsel for the appellant that it was a quite unnatural conduct of the appellant to remain present even after the incident, is also of hardly any substance as it depends upon the conduct of an accused as to how he behaves in the manner in a particular situation.

50. In Ganeshlal v. State of Maharashtra, (1992) 3 SCC 106 the Supreme Court held as under:

"It is settled law that the conduct of an accused in an offence previous and subsequent to the crime are relevant facts. Absence of any attempt to save the life of the deceased while she was burning and was charred to death, the conduct of the accused in not attempting to give any medical aid, the conduct of the appellant immediately after the death and falsely proclaiming that there was short circuit implying to scare away the people from attempting to save the deceased-these are most telling and relevant crucial facts apart from repulsive inhuman conduct. The false plea of suicide is yet another relevant fact. When the death had occurred in the custody of the accused the appellant is under an obligation in Section 313 Cr.P.C. statement at least to give a plausible explanation for the cause for her death. No such attempt was even made except denying the prosecution case. These facts completely are inconsistent with the innocence, but consistent with the hypothesis that the appellant is a prime accused in the commission of gruesome murder of his wife."

51. In Kundula Bala Subrahmanyam and another v. State of Andhra Pradesh , (1993) 2 SCC 684, while dealing with the aspect of conduct of the accused immediately after the incident, the Supreme Court observed as under:-

"...The normal human conduct of any person finding someone engulfed in flames would be to make all efforts to put off the flames and save the life of the person. Though, the appellants were the closest relations of the deceased, they did not do anything of the kind. Let alone making any effort to extinguish the fire, according to P.W. 2 when the father-in-law of the deceased, at her request, was giving her the bontha to extinguish the flames, appellant 2, the mother-in-law of the deceased, objected to the same. This conduct speaks volumes about the extent of hatred which the mother-in-law exhibited towards her daughter in-law. They rendered no first-aid to the deceased. Their conduct at the time of the occurrence, therefore, clearly points towards their guilt and is inconsistent with their innocence. ... ...The theory of suicide has no legs to stand upon. The conduct of the appellants who did not try to extinguish the fire or render any first-aid to her, also totally betrays the theory of suicide and we agree with the High Court that the theory as set up by the appellants is highly unbelievable or unacceptable. The prosecution has, thus, successfully established that the conduct of both the appellants both at the time of the occurrence and immediately thereafter is consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the appellants and inconsistent with their innocence."

52. In view of the foregoing discussions, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant and the finding of conviction and sentence recorded by the trial court against the accused appellant Saleem under Sections 302, 435, 427 I.P.C. does not call for any interference by this Court, hence the conviction and sentence recorded of the appellant by the trial Court is hereby upheld.

53. The appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

54. The appellant is stated to be in jail. He shall serve out the sentence as awarded by the trial Court.

55. Office is directed to transmit the lower court record along with certified copy of this order to the court concerned forthwith for necessary information and follow up action, if any required.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

The aforesaid criminal appeals arising out of the same crime were heard together and are being decided by a common judgment.

1. The two criminal appeals have been filed against the common judgment and order dated 23.04.2008 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Lucknow in Sessions Trial Nos. 140 of 2007 (State Vs. Alok Gupta), 520 of 2006 (State Vs. Smt. Kalpana) and 644 of 2005 (State Vs. Vishal Gupta) relating to Case Crime No. 129 of 2004, under Sections 302, 120 B IPC, Police Station Ashiyana (CBCID), whereby, the appellants have been convicted under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, they shall undergo rigorous imprisonment for a further period of one year, whereas, Smt. Kalpana was acquitted.

2. We have heard Shri Pradeep Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel, who appeared for the appellants. Shri Vaibhav Kaliya, learned counsel, on our request, volunteered to assist the Court and was permitted to do so on behalf of the appellants. Shri Umesh Verma, learned Additional Government Advocate appeared for the State. Learned counsel for the parties argued at length and took us through the record.

3. According to the prosecution case, on 29.08.2004 an FIR was lodged under Section 302/120- B IPC by the complainant, who was the father of the deceased/PW-1-Ashok Gupta, at about 5.25 P.M. stating therein that on 29.08.2004 at around 5.00 P.M., when the complainant along with his daughters namely, Alka, Anita, Aparajita, Anamika and son-Sachin were present at home, at that time the appellants namely, Alok Gupta and Vishal Gupta along with one unknown person knocked the door and on opening the door, they barged into the house having Tamancha in their hands. The three accused persons indiscriminately fired on his daughter namely Aparajita, wife of Ajay Gupta with the intention to kill her while she was sitting with her sisters in the second room. On shouting, they ran away. The neighbours in fear closed their windows and doors. Thereafter, the complainant took her daughter to the Awadh Hospital where the doctor declared her brought dead. Smt. Kalpana Gupta is the first wife of the Ajay Gupta, thus, the present appellants kept enmity with the deceased and her husband Ajay Gupta. After two years of marriage of Ajay Gupta with the deceased, they had kidnapped him and for that the FIR was lodged at Sitapur. The Kalpana Gupta instigated his brothers i.e. the present appellants to murder the daughter of the complainant.

4. After investigation, the charge sheet was filed under Section 302 read with Section 120-B IPC in the Court concerned against the present appellants. Thereafter, the trial court framed charges against the appellants under Section 302 read Section 120-B IPC for hatching the conspiracy along with other co-accused namely, Kalpana Gupta.

5. The prosecution in order to prove its case had produced four witnesses of fact namely Ashok Kumar Gupta (the complainant and father of the deceased) as PW-1, Sachin Gupta(the brother of the deceased) as PW 2, Sudheer Kumar Gupta as PW -3 (private servant of Ajay Gupta), Ajay Gupta (the husband of the deceased) as PW-4 and also produced four formal witnesses i.e. Dr. Harshwardhan as PW-5, HCP Raj Kumar Srivastava as PW-6, Inspector Rangeela Singh as PW-7 and Arjun Prasad Mishra as PW-8.

6. As documentary evidences, the prosecution has proved the copy of FIR as Ext. Ka-7, the Post Mortem Report as Ext-Ka-6, Forensic Report as Ext. Ka-20, Recovery memo as Ext Ka-3, Recovery memo as Ext. Ka-4, Recovery Memo as Ext. Ka-5, Chik FIR as Ext. Ka-7, Extract of chick report in GD as Ext. Ka-8, Inquest Report as Ext. Ka-2, Preparation of Inquest Report and got prepared other relevant papers as Ext. Ka-9, Photo Lass as Ext. Ka-10, Letter of the police form of sending the dead body to the headquarter as Ext. Ka-11, Sample seal as Ext. Ka 12, Spot where the site plan was prepared as Ext. Ka-13 and recovery seizure memo of one empty cartridge of .315 bore from the spot as Ext. Ka-5, blood stained bed sheet of the double bed and two pieces of these bed sheets as Ext. Ka-4, blood stained and plain earth from the spot as Ext. Ka-3, Charge sheet against Vishal Gupta, Alok Gupta and Kalpana under Section 302/120 IPC as Ext. Ka-19, Medical examination report of the maxi as Ext. Ka-20.

7. After closure of the evidence of prosecution, the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. attributable to all the three accused were recorded and all three accused denied their involvement in the incident. Kalpana Gupta has specifically told in her statement that she and Ajay were staying together till the date of the incident. The appellant namely Vishal Gupta has stated in his statement that he was not present at the place of incident when the incident occurred. He was busy in the departmental duty on the day of the incident.

8. After recording of the statement of the accused/appellants, they preferred to enter into the defense and examine as many as seven defense witnesses namely Dinesh Kumar Pandey, Assistant Registrar, Kanoongo, Tehsildar Puwayan, District Shahjahanpur as DW-1, Ram Sahayas DW-2, Jamun Prasad, Revenue Inspector as DW-3, Om Prakash Gupta, Ex-MLA as DW-4, Vinod Kumar Arora as DW-5, Tauhid Ahmad, Supervisor of Avadh Hospital as DW-6 and lastly Jaswant Singh, Income Tax Inspector examined as DW-7.

9. The trial Court on appreciation of evidence placed before it had opined that the FIR was lodged by the complainant, who is an eye witness/father of the deceased, which was duly proved by evidence of PW-1. According to the trial Court, the FIR of the case is not anti time and the Crime No./Special Report was sent to the court after ten days of the incident and further observed that Court was not convinced with the arguments of the learned defense counsel because PW-1 has clarified in his cross examination that he had written the Tehrir in Police Station by taking 10 to 15 minutes. So far as the statement of PW-1 that the inquest proceeding started at 8.00 P.M. is concerned, it will also not belie the entire prosecution case.

10. Further, the trial court did not accept the argument that the inquest on the body of the deceased was not conducted in Awadh Hospital nor the body of the Aparajita was even taken to Awadh Hospital for treatment. It has also not been accepted that no death certificate was produced by the prosecution. The mere assertion of the witness that the inquest proceedings were conducted in the house of the complainant was not enough to prove that fact. The presence of Padma Thapa is not quite seriously disgranted by the learned counsel for the defence. The trial court did not accept the evidence on record that despite indiscriminate firing by three persons on Aparajita, no pellet or any firing remains were found on the spot; any sign of the fire was not on floor or furniture; no report of the serologist was available on the record regarding the blood stain, plain earth and blood stained bed sheet; no hole with blackening were found on the Maxi worn by the deceased; that in spite of three others sisters, who were sitting close to Aparajita, none of them got fire arm injuries; that in Site Plan the Investigating Officer has not shown any Takhat on which the deceased would have been sitting. On the aforesaid facts on the record, the trial court did not find much force.

11. The evidence of the case was proved against the accused/appellants, thus the trial court convicted and sentenced them as mentioned above.

12. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the FIR is anti time for the reason that as per the prosecution case, the incident took place at around 5.00 P.M. and the FIR was lodged at 5.25 P.M. i.e. within 25 minutes of occurrence, which is highly improbable for the reason that as according to the version in the FIR, the appellants along with one unknown person reached the house of the complainant at around 5.00 P.M. and knocked the door and when door was opened by the complainant/PW-1, the appellants along with one unknown person directly entered in the second room, where the daughters of the complainant were sitting including the deceased Aparajita and all the three started indiscriminate firing and ran away. Thereafter, the injured Aparajita was taken to the Awadh Hospital, which is around 1.5 to 2 Kms away from the house of the complainant, where the doctor declared her brought dead. After the declaration by the doctor, the complainant went to the Police Station which was four Kms away from the hospital. On reaching Police Station, the complainant took ten to fifteen minutes in writing the Tahreer and thereafter it was lodged at the Police Station. All the aforesaid exercise is not possible to be made within a short span of 25 minutes especially when the complainant does not own any vehicle by which he had gone to the Hospital. Arranging a Car for taking the injured to Hospital must have taken some considerable time.

13. It is further submitted that the crime report/special report was not enclosed with the inquest report, whereas as per Section 157 Cr.P.C. after the information of the offence, the same has to be intimated to the Magistrate forthwith.

14. It is further submitted that in the enclosures with the inquest report, two pages have been shown for the FIR and one page for GD, whereas the FIR is of three pages, so neither any FIR was in existence at the time of inquest nor any special report/ crime report was there till then. The purpose of Special Report/Crime Report is to make check or supervise over the investigation by the Magistrate.

15. As per the statement of Head Moharrir, the Special Report/Crime Report might have been forwarded but the same is not on the record. Meaning thereby, the Special Report/Crime Report was never forwarded to the Magistrate in compliance with Section 157 Cr.P.C.. It is further contended that it has been mentioned in the judgment impugned that the Special Report/Crime Report was filed after ten days. The same was never proved and no opportunity was given to the defence to make any suggestion on the Special Report/Crime Report.

16. On the other hand, learned Additional Government Advocate has submitted that the purpose of the Special Report/Crime Report is to supervise the investigation by the Magistrate and filing it with delay will not vitiate the trial and benefit of it can not be given to the accused/appellants. In support thereof, he placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of State of U.P. Vs. Gokaran and others [1985 SCC (Cri) 41], Pala Singh Vs. State of Punjab [1973 SCC (Cri) 55 and Brahm Swaroop & Anothers Vs. State of U.P. [2011 CRI LJ 306] wherein, it has been held that no adverse inference can be drawn on the ground that the Special Report/Crime Report was sent with a delay to the Magistrate, if the same has been explained.

17. After hearing the learned counsel for the appellant and the learned AGA, it is found that the prosecution story regarding the time and occurrence of the incident and lodging of an FIR within twenty five minutes is highly improbable & doubtful for the reasons that it is an admitted case of the prosecution that the alleged incident took place at around 5.00 P.M..

18. After the incident, the injured was taken to the Awadh Hospital in the Maruti Car. The Awadh Hospital is 1.5 to 2 KMs from the place of incident, where the doctor declared brought her dead. Thereafter, the complainant had gone to the police station, which is 4 Kms from the hospital, where he taken 10 to 15 minutes to write down the long Tehreer and some time would have been in arranging the vehicle for taking the deceased to the hospital. All this could not been done within a short period of 25 mintues and it makes the story of the prosecution doubtful.

19. The non forwarding of the Special Report/Crime Report forthwith by the Police to the Magistrate, as mandated by Section 157 Cr.P.C. also deprives Magistrate to supervise the investigation and creates credibility about the FIR. The only inference, which can be drawn from the statement of Head Moharrir is that no Special Report/Crime Report was forwarded to the Magistrate though in the judgment, it has been recorded that it has been filed with delay of ten days but there is no finding that any reason for delay was indicated by the Investigating Officer while filing the Special Report/Crime Report nor at any point of time any opportunity was provided to the defence side to make their submissions either in support or against the Special Report/Crime Report. The same has not been proved nor made exhibit. The judgments cited by the learned AGA are not applicable in the present case for the reason that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the judgment of Gokaran (supra) has relied upon the judgment of Pala Singh (Supra). The relevant extract of Pala Singh (Supra) is being quoted hereunder for ready reference:-

"Shri Kohli strongly criticised the fact that the occurrence report contemplated by S. 157, Cr.P.C. was sent to the magistrate concerned very late. Indeed, this challenge, like the argument of interpolation and belated despatch of the inquest report, was developed for the purpose of showing that the investigation was not just, fair and forthright and, therefore, the prosecution case must be looked at with great suspicion. This argument is also unacceptable. No doubt, the report reached the magistrate at about 6 p.m. Section 157, Cr. P.C. requires such report to be sent forthwith by the police officer concerned to a magistrate empowered to take cognisance of such offence. This is really designed to keep the magistrate informed of the investigation of such cognizable offence so as to be able to control the investigation and if necessary to give appropriate direction under s. 159. But when we find in this case that the F.I.R. was actually recorded without delay and the investigation started on the basis of that F.I.R. and there is no other infirmity brought to our notice (emphasis laid by us), then, however improper or objectionable the delayed receipt of the report by the magistrate concerned it cannot by itself justify the conclusion that the investigation was tainted and the prosecution insupportable. It is not the appellants case that they have been prejudiced by this delay."

20. After going through the aforequoted judgment, the position, which emerges out is that the aforesaid judgment is not applicable in the present case, as there was no other infirmity brought to the notice of the Court whereas there are many in the present case, as already mentioned above. The another judgment relied upon by the learned AGA i.e. Brahm Swaroop (supra) is also not applicable in the present case, as in the said judgment, the Hon'ble Apex court has relied and quoted the judgment rendered in the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Teja Singh and others [2001 3 SCC 147] wherein it has been held that, if the Special Report/Crime Report has been forwarded with delay then the explanation so furnished by the prosecution must be convincing and acceptable. The para nos. 13 and 16 of the said judgment is being quoted hereunder :-

" 13. In State of Rajasthan v. Teja Singh & Ors., (2001) 3 SCC 147, this Court held that the receipt of special report by the Magistrate is a question of fact and the prosecution may explain the delay in sending the special report. However, the explanation so furnished by the prosecution must be convincing and acceptable. (emphasis laid by us) The same view has been re-iterated in Ramesh Baburao Devaskar & Ors. v. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 13 SCC 501."

"16. In State of Kerala v. Anilachandran @ Madhu & Ors., AIR 2009 SC 1866, this Court placed reliance upon its earlier judgments in Pala Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1972 SC 2679; and Sarwan Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1976 SC 2304 and held that the police should not unnecessarily delay sending the FIR to the Magistrate as the delay affords the opportunity to introduce improvement and embellishment thereby resulting in a distorted version of the occurrence (emphasis laid by us). However, in case the prosecution offers a satisfactory explanation for the delay, the court has to test it. An un-explained delay by itself may not be fatal, but it is certainly a relevant aspect which can be taken note of while considering the role of the accused persons for the offence.(emphasis laid by us)

A similar view has been re-itereated in Pandurang Chandrakant Mhatre & Ors. Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 10 SCC 773 (2010 AIR SCW 236; 2010 (2) AIR Bo R 209 (SC)"

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Brahm Swaroop (supra) has also relied upon the judgment rendered in the case of Badam Singh vs. State of Madhya Pradesh [(2003) 12 SCC 792] wherein, it has been held that if the Investigating Officer categorically states that he is not in a position to give any explanation for the delay in sending the special report, it may be fatal to the prosecution case.

22. The judgments cited hereinabove, by the learned AGA are on the point that if the special report is submitted with delay and it has properly been explained, which is convincing and without infirmity, then it could not be fatal, whereas in the present case, neither any reason for delay has been furnished nor it has been explained.

23. In view of the facts placed before us as mentioned in preceding paragraphs, it is evident that the delay without any explanation in submitting the special report makes the prosecution case doubtful, when the same is read along with other infirmities brought before the Court.

24. We have seen from the facts stated as mentioned hereinabove that all that what is said to have been done till the actual lodging of the report in no case probably could be done within 25 minutes. It leads to the inference that the report has been ante-time which fact also stands supported by not sending the Special Report/Crime Report forthwith or promptly to the Magistrate for which no explanation comes forward from prosecution side.

25. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that when the prosecution witnesses are near relative/interested witnesses, then their statement needs corroboration and close scrutiny by the Court. In the present case, it has been contended that PW. 1 & 2 are the interested witnesses, as the PW-1 is the complainant/father of the deceased/eye witness while PW 2 is the brother of the deceased. The statements of the PW-1 and 2 do not corroborate with the prosecution story. The prosecution also failed to disclose the facts that as to why the vehicle used for taking the deceased to the hospital was never taken into the custody. Further, it has also not been disclosed by the prosecution that what is the number of the vehicle and who was owner & driving it at that time.

26. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the appellant relied upon various judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Meharaj Singh vs. State of U.P. [(1994) 5 SCC 188], Bir Singh & Ors. vs. State of Uttar Pradesh [(1977) 4 SCC 420], Shaikh Nabab Shaikh Babu Musalman & Ors. vs. State of Maharashtra [(1993) Supp. (2) SCC 217].

27. It has further been submitted that no blood stained clothes of the prosecution witnesses were ever recovered, which makes the presence of the appellant at the time of incident doubtful. In support of his submission, he placed reliance on the judgments rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Meharaj Singh (supra) and State of Punjab Vs. Harbans Singh and another [(2003) 11 SCC 203]. The para no. 9 of the said judgment is being reproduced hereunder for ready reference:-

"9. It is the prosecution case itself that Darshan Singh who was one of the witnesses to the incident who also helped PWs.4 and 11 to carry the injured to the hospital and remained with them almost right through has not been examined by the prosecution. The explanation given is that he has been won over by the accused. But then it is also to be noted that there were many neighbours also who came to the place of incident but none of them have been examined as witnesses leaving only PWs 4 and 11 as the sole eye- witnesses in this case. Further it is to be noticed that these two witnesses along with Darshan Singh carried both the injured persons in the vehicle and thereafter helped in carrying the injured persons to the Primary Health Centre but no blood stained clothes were recovered from the possession of these witnesses which also throws considerable doubt about the presence of these witnesses at the time of incident (emphasis laid by us). PW-11 though says that there was a little blood stain on his cloth, he washed the same in the hospital which explanation, in our opinion, is highly artificial. "

28. It has further been submitted that no blood trail was found from the place of incident, which makes the alleged incident doubtful. In support of his submissions, he placed reliance on the judgments passed in the cases of Meharaj Singh (supra) and Bir Singh (supra) .

29. It has also been submitted that as per the prosecution witnesses, indiscriminate firing was done by the appellants but no one got injured especially when the three daughters of the deceased were sitting along with the deceased. It makes the prosecution case doubtful. In support thereto, he placed reliance in the case of Harbans Singh (supra).

30. Learned counsel for the appellants has next contended that, as per the admitted case of the prosecution that there was an indiscriminate firing but no bullet mark was found either on the furniture in the room or on the walls of the room, where the incident as alleged had occurred. It makes the place of occurrence doubtful. It is an admitted case of the prosecution witnesses that the deceased was wearing a saree at the time of incident but as per the inquest report, she was wearing maxi and there is no explanation for the same. During the cross-examination, the P.W. 2 had stated that he is not aware about the clothes of her sister. It is further submitted that there is a major contradiction in the statements of PW 1 & 2 as far as the fact that body of the deceased was taken to the Awadh Hospital and inquest was made there. The PW-1 in his examination in chief as well as in cross examination has stated that he took her daughter to the Awadh Hospital where the inquest was done, whereas, PW 2 in his cross examination has stated that the investigating officer along with constable came to the house and made the inquest at 8.00 P.M.. It belies the prosecution story. It is further submitted that there are same contradictions in the statements of Investigating Officer who had given the statement that inquest was prepared in the Hospital which started at till 5.50 P.M. and the statements of PW 2, who had given statement that police came to house and inquest was made at 8.00 P.M.

31. It is further submitted that as per the admitted case of the prosecution that when the appellants along with one unknown person were firing indiscriminately on the daughter of the complainant, she was sitting and could not get up. The said statement does not corroborate with the medical evidence, as in the post mortem report, one gun-shot injury is in upwards direction, which is highly improbable.

32. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that as per the prosecution case, the three sisters of the deceased were accompanied her in the room at the time of incident, they covered her but no one got injured. Their statements was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and their names were also in the charge-sheet but they were not produced as a prosecuting witnesses during the trial nor any application for discharge has been moved.

33. On the other hand, learned AGA has submitted that these are the minor contradictions and will not adversely affect the prosecution case. In support thereof, he placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in the case of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai vs State of Gujarat [(1983) 3 SCC 217] wherein it has been held that discrepancies, which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution, will not vitiate the trial. He further placed reliance on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Gangadhar Behra and others Vs. State of Orissa [2003 SCC (Cri) 32], Vinay Kumar Rai and anothers Vs. State of Bihar [2008 CRI. L. J. 4319]. It has been argued on behalf of the State that it is not necessary to produce all the witnesses, it is the choice of the prosecution to choose and produce the witnesses. It is the quality of the evidence which matters not the quantity. It has lastly been submitted that the defence has been failed to demolish the prosecution case that the prosecution witnesses had not seen the incident and the Court has to separate the grain from the chaff to find out the truth.

34. After hearing the learned counsel for the respective parties and going through the record available, the position which emerges out in the present case is that mere making a statement that appellants made indiscriminate firing and killed her daughter is not sufficient to prove the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt, especially, when the prosecution witnesses are close relatives of the deceased. Where the prosecution witnesses are the interested witnesses, their testimonies or statements require close scrutiny, as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Meharaj Singh (supra), Bir Singh (supra) and Shaikh Nabab Shaikh Babu Musalman (Supra). The para nos. 13 and 15 of the judgment passed in the case of Meharaj Singh (supra) is being quoted hereunder :-

"13. It appears that it was a blind murder and none of the eyewitnesses were actually present at the scene. The ante-timing of the FIR was obviously made to introduce eyewitnesses to support the prosecution case. We may demonstrate this by noticing that though PW 3 Smt Kamlesh the widow of the deceased claimed that she was present with her husband at the time of the occurrence, her conduct was so unnatural that not only she did not try to save her husband by trying to provide a cover but even after her husband fell down and was inflicted repeated injuries with the knife by the appellant Meharaj Singh, she did not even try to go anywhere near her husband and even later on hold his head in her lap and try to provide some comfort to him. This becomes obvious from the absence of any bloodstains on her clothes. She admitted that she had not even received a scratch during the occurrence. In a situation like this,(emphasis laid by us) the normal conduct of any wife would be firstly to make an effort to save her husband even by taking the blow on herself and if that is not possible then at least to go so close to his person, at least after the assailants had left that there would be no escape from the blood oozing out of the injuries of the deceased to come on to her clothes. Similar criticism is also available against Balbir PW 2, Shiv Charan PW 4 and Satkari PW 5. It is not the case of the prosecution that the clothes of any of them had got bloodstained. The very fact that none of these witnesses went to lodge a report and instead left it to the father of the deceased to lodge the FIR would also go to show that the witnesses in all probability were not present at the spot. The absence of any blood in the field of Kirpal Singh as also the absence of blood trail from the field of Kirpal Singh to the place where the dead body was found, as admitted by PW 8, also suggests that the occurrence did not take place in the manner suggested by the prosecution and that the genesis of the fight has been suppressed from the court.

.....That being the position, it is obvious that the ocular testimony does not fit in with the medical evidence and instead it contradicts it. (emphasis laid by us)"

"15. The alleged eyewitnesses are undoubtedly deeply interested in the prosecution but that by itself cannot be a ground to discard their testimony. It, however, certainly puts this Court on its guard to scrutinise their evidence more carefully and keeping in view their unnatural conduct, as noticed above, it appears to us that none of the alleged eyewitnesses had actually seen the occurrence and they were introduced as eyewitnesses after thoughtful deliberations and consultations. (emphasis laid by us) It appears, that since it was a blind murder, the appellants have been roped in on account of misguided suspicion because of the previous enmity. Our independent analysis of the evidence on the record coupled with the infirmities which we have noticed above has created an impression on our minds, that the prosecution has not been able to bring home guilt to either of the appellants beyond a reasonable doubt. The trial court was, therefore, right in acquitting them and the High Court even after noticing the infirmities, in our opinion, fell in error in convicting the appellants. The reasons given by the High Court, to set aside the order of acquittal do not commend to us. They are neither sufficient nor adequate or cogent much less compelling."

35. The para nos. 8 ,9 and 18 of the judgment passed in the case of Bir Singh (supra) are being quoted hereunder for ready reference:-

"8. P.W. Vidya Devi is the daughter of the own uncle of Surajpal Singh and deeply interested. P.W. 4 Roshan Singh is the own brother of Hira Singh who was an accused in a case under Section 307 which was started against him for shooting Sheo Shankar Singh Bhanja a nephew of Ramoo Singh. P.W. Sughar was also a co-accused along with Hira Singh the brother of this witness. It would thus appear that all the eye-witnesses are interested, inimical and belonging to the faction of the deceased and have taken sides with them and against the accused in earlier litigations. The learned Additional Sessions Judge, therefore, rightly thought that it was not safe to rely on the evidence of these witnesses unless their evidence was corroborated by independent witnesses (emphasis laid by us). In this connection it may be noted that in the F.I.R. it is clearly mentioned that while the altercation between Bans Gopal and the accused was taking place Shambhu Bhujwa and Bhikari apart from Roshan Singh had come to the scene of occurrence. Both Shambhu Bhujwa and Bhikari were independent witnesses and bore no animus against the accused. Even from the evidence it would appear that these two persons had seen the entire occurrence."

"9. P.W. 2 Sughar has clearly stated that at the time of altercation Roshan and Bhikari were present at that place. Similarly, P.W. 3 Vidya Devi has stated at page 29 of the paper book that while the altercation was going on Roshan and Bhikari came to the scene of occurrence. Similar is the evidence of P.W. 4 Roshan Singh at page 35 of the paper book where he says that when the altercation was going on Shambhu Bhujwa and Bhikari Khatic were at that time present there. It would thus appear from the evidence of eye- witness that Shambhu and Bhikari were exactly in the same position as the eye-witnesses and yet no reasonable explanation has been given by the prosecution for not examining them. It is true that it was not incumbent on the prosecution to examine each and every witness so as to multiply witnesses and burden the record. This rule however does not apply where the evidence of the eye-witnesses suffers from various infirmities and could be relied upon only if properly corroborated. In the instant case all the eye-witnesses had serious animus against the accused and they were interested in implicating the accused. The substitution of Ram Dularey Singh in the general diary was a suspicious circumstance. The fact that the police was not able to re-cover any weapon or to explain how the appellants got hold of the guns was yet another circumstance that required a reasonable explanation from the prosecution. According to the finding of the learned Sessions Judge even the F.I.R. was ante-timed and although the High Court has not accepted this finding we feel, that the High Court on this aspect has entered into the domain of speculation. In view of these special circumstances it was incumbent on the prosecution to examine the two witnesses at least to corroborate the evidence and if they were not examined the Sessions Judge was justified in drawing an adverse inference against the prosecution. At any rate it cannot be said that if under these circumstances the Sessions Judge was not prepared to accept the evidence of these witnesses his judgment was wrong or unreasonable. It may be that the High Court could have taken a different view but that by itself as held by this Court is not a sufficient ground for reversing an order of acquittal."

"18. Another important argument advanced by counsel for the appellants is that there is absolutely no evidence to show that there was any blood at the place where P.W. 2 fell down. It was contended that according to the Doctor's version having regard to the injury, blood must have been oozing out. If the blood was there then the Investigating Officer could not have failed to notice the same. The fact that blood at that place was not indicated in the sketch map clearly shows that P.W. 2 did not receive injuries at the place. This is undoubtedly an important aspect which merits serious consideration. The Sessions Judge seems to have commented on the fact that P.W. 2 did not accompany the dead body but in our opinion nothing much turns on that because P.W. 1 must have been in a hurry to rush to the Police Station and as P.W. 2 was seriously injured, he may not have thought it advisable to carry him. But the fact remains that the prosecution has not been able to show that there was any blood at the place where P.W. 2 fell down which raises a reasonable inference that P.W. 2 may have been assaulted elsewhere and once that is so then the case regarding the assault of the deceased at the place of occurrence also automatically fails because the two incidents are parts of the same transaction.

36. The para no. 6 of the judgment rendered in the case of Shaikh Nabab Shaikh Babu Musalman (supra) are being extracted hereunder :-

"6. Both of them did not attribute any other overt act to Appellants 2 to 5. Since both the witnesses are highly interested and partisan, their evidence has to be subjected to a greater scrutiny. In a case of this nature there is a likelihood of false implication and having regard to the version, we find it difficult to accept the evidence of these two witnesses as against Appellants 2 to 5, who are not attributed any overt acts without any further corroboration. It is not necessary in every case there should be such corroboration, but having regard to the part attributed to the Appellants 2 to 5, the possibility of false implication of one or more cannot be ruled out. Therefore, we think it is not safe to convict Appellants 2 to 5. So far as Appellant 1 is concerned, the version of these two witnesses is consistent, namely, that he was the person who inflicted the fatal injury. Therefore, his conviction need not be disturbed. But, however, in view of the fact that he died the appeal abates so far as he is concerned."

37. From the judgments quoted hereinabove, the situation which emerges out in the present case is that the statements of PWs are self contradicting and also do not corroborate with the prosecution story. On being scrutinized the evidences carefully, it has come out that non disclosure of the facts that whose car was used, what is the number of vehicle, who was driving it, who accompanied the injured to the hospital, absence of trail of blood, the clothes of PW 1 must were not stained with blood, ,which has also not been recovered. The prosecution has put forth a story wherein it has been depicted that there was an indiscriminate firing by three persons but except one empty shell in the room and two bullets found from the body of the deceased. Apart from that, no other pellets and mark was found on the alleged place of occurrence. Thus, while taking into consideration the aforequoted judgments and scrutinizing the evidences, it appears that none of the eye witnesses was present at the time of incident. Further, the inquest report is also doubtful, as after lodging the FIR at 05.25 P.M., the Investigating Officer left the police station at the same time and he first went to the house of the complainant, where he came to know that the complainant took her daughter to the Awadh Hospital and thereafter, he proceeded to the Awadh Hospital and started the inquest at 05.50 P.M.. This prompt action of the Investigating Officer creates doubt over the prosecution story for the reason that the time of lodging the FIR i.e. at 05.25 P.M. and leaving the police station at the same time, as per the entry in the GD, is highly improbable and also that in the FIR, it has been mentioned by the complainant that the body was in the Awadh Hospital, then there was no occasion for the Investigating Officer to go first to the house of the complainant and then come to know there only the body is in the hospital, the Investigating Officer collected the inquest witnesses. This whole exercise was done only in 25 minutes creates a shadow of doubt over the prosecution story. It is highly improbable especially when there is a statement and record produced by the defence witness-the Manager of the Hospital before the Court that the deceased was never brought to the Hospital, as it is not in there records. Further, the statement of PW-2 that the inquest was conducted at the home at 8 P.M. makes the prosecution story doubtful.

38. It is an admitted case of the prosecution and it is also to be seen as relevant circumstances that they were residing in an EWS house having two rooms and the room in which the incident alleged to be occurred was a very small room and the presence of nine people including the appellants and other unknown person and no one got injured except the daughter of the complainant makes the prosecution story doubtful. The three sisters, who had covered the deceased at the time of alleged indiscriminate firing and as per the statement of PW-1, he reached in the room thereafter, the three sisters would be more natural and competent witnesses of the first part of the story of the assault as compared to the complainant i.e. PW-1. Suppressing these witnesses in the evidences to prove the prosecution case makes the prosecution case gravely doubtful. It is a settled law that the interested witnesses must be scrutinized with more caution and care. No other evidence corroborates with the prosecution story i.e. about the place, time and occurrence of the incident and as per the settled law of the Hon'ble Supreme Court as discussed hereinabove, the benefit of doubt goes in favour of the accused persons, as the prosecution failed to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt.

39. The very foundation of implicating the present appellants, as per the prosecution case, is that the accused persons including Smt. Kalpana Gupta keeping grudge against the daughter of the complainant (deceased Aparajita) for the reason that husband of Smt Kalpana Gupta said to be married with Aparajita and having son from the said wedlock and on the instigation of Smt. Kalpana Gupta, the appellants murdered the Aparajita whereas Smt Kalpana was acquitted from the charge under Section 120 B IPC so the very foundation of the allegation against the appellants does not stand.

40. There are contradictions in the statement of PW-1 at various stages regarding the marriage of the Ajay Gupta with Aparajita. In the FIR, the Ajay Gupta has been shown as husband of the Aparajita but during the trial the PW-1 has stated that the daughter was living with Sri Ajay Gupta and marriage was not solemnized. There is a contradiction in the statements of PW-1 and 2 pertaining to the marriage as PW -2 during the trial has stated in his cross examination that he is not knowing the facts that whether the Aparajita was married to Ajay Gupta, when the marriage was solemnized and whether they had any child from the wedlock. It makes the prosecution story doubtful.

41. The medical evidence is also not in corroboration with the prosecution case the victim was sitting on the Takht when she was fired at by the accused persons after barging into the room, in so far one bullet wound is through and through was found to be in upwards direction, which would normally would not be the case while victim is fired at while sitting from a higher level. True the doctor was not asked anything about this aspect of the matter but the facts that as they cannot be ignored to be seen. As the medical evidence does not support the manner of assault on the victim. It also lends support to the defence case, such a wound could not be possible looking to the position of the victim & persons firing her. It does throw a doubt on the truthfulness of prosecution story and result in some doubt about it. The whole picture of the present case except the statement of the PWs, nothing has been corroborated with the other evidences on the record either ocular or documentary evidence and makes the place and time of the incident and presence of eye witnesses doubtful.

42. Learned AGA tried to point out on the defects in the defence taken by the appellants and tried to say that the plea of alibi is not correct but in this connection suffice it to say that the prosecution case must stand on its own legs. It cannot sustain on the weakness, if any, in the defence case. As discussed above, it is clear that the prosecution case is highly doubtful & improbable, hence, we hold that the prosecution has failed to prove its case.

(Per Hon'ble Attau Rahman Masoodi, J.)

43. The two significant features of the trial in the present criminal appeal questioning the correctness of conviction and sentence are firstly as to whether cross examination of the star witness Ashok Kumar Gupta, father of the deceased i.e. PW-1 conducted on 26 dates, by any measure, would amount to torture or oppression as argued by learned counsel for the prosecution while defending the impugned judgement; and secondly as to whether the oral testimony of such an eye witness who fails to prove the vital/major fact as a whole comprising of a chain of events would render the ocular evidence as inadmissible and the residual part would not be regarded as qualifying the benchmark of "beyond reasonable doubt'.

44. In the present case involving murder of the deceased Aparajita at about 5 pm, PW-1 is relied upon as an eye witness whose presence at the place of occurrence i.e. E-479, Sector-I, LDA Colony, Ashiyana, Lucknow, on 29th August, 2004 of which the FIR was registered at 5.25 pm is essentially the foundation of the conviction and sentence for life. The occurrence was witnessed by other three daughters of the informant (PW-1) viz. Alka Gupta, Anvita Gupta and Anamika Gupta, besides his own son (PW-2), the brother of the deceased.

45. The two accused persons named in the FIR and one unnamed having barged into the house were stated to have indiscriminately fired aiming at the deceased closely from the front who was sitting with her three sisters in the other room of the house where the occurrence took place. The father Ashok Kumar Gupta (PW-1)- the informant who while sitting in the front room had opened the door when knocked by the assailants, did not receive a scratch but was swift enough to take the injured to the nearby hospital, namely, Awadh Hospital by hiring the services of a car, where she was declared as "brought dead'. Thus, the ocular evidence of PW-1 was not only restricted to seeing the accused persons firing at the deceased but he was a concomitant witness of taking the injured to hospital single handedly where the injured was found "brought dead'. The fact that the occurrence took place at the residence after arrival of Aparajita (deceased) on Raksha Bandhan, who was injured and was taken to Awadh Hospital is a chain of events of which the prosecution owes an unimpeachable burden to prove. No other witness except PW-1 is the author of this testimony which according to the prosecution is direct, reliable and proved beyond reasonable doubt.

46. Be it noted that PW-1 was none other than the father of the deceased. The ocular testimony was not corroborated by any other witness of the charge sheet except one, namely, Sachin Gupta (PW-2) who was the son of the informant and real brother of the deceased. Insofar as the examination-in-chief of the main witness placed on record is concerned, PW-1 has deposed the same version as was narrated in the FIR but in the cross examination when his testimony was questioned on the aspect of several probabilities, namely, as to how did the deceased travel to her parental house on the occasion of Raksha Bandhan on 29.8.2004, whether any other person present alongwith the injured received any fire arm injury or whether there was any trace of the use of fire arms on the walls, floor, on the unpierced clothes of deceased or on the body of any other person present alongwith the deceased, the evidence led by the prosecution is unconvincing and dissatisfactory. Not a drop of blood much less than trail was found in between the place of occurrence upto the point connecting transport of the injured body to the Awadh Hospital. The prosecution on such a vital aspect of the matter failed to fill up the gaps through any corroborative evidence-forensic, recovery or any site plan. What is most surprising is that the witness kept the prosecution clueless about the manner in which Aparajita (deceased) had travelled to the parental house on 29.8.2004 and as to how her injured body was brought to the Awadh Hospital. The investigating officer took no pain to collect any inforation from the neighbourhood and fill up the gaps except collecting sample of the blood stained floor showing no trace of a drop of blood in the site plan at any other place in between the place of occurrence and from where the injured was transported to Awadh Hospital. The unpierced clothes recovered on the body of injured offered no support to indiscriminate firing. The ocular evidence has a primacy over the corroborative evidence. The later plays role of strengthening the weight of direct evidence, therefore, the burden to prove the direct evidence was a fundamental duty of the prosecution by establishing a clean nexus between arrival of Aparajita (deceased) at the place of occurrence on 29.8.2004 and then taking her injured body to Awadh Hospital where she was declared brought dead and lastly to the Government Hospital where post mortem was conducted.

47. The cross examination of PW-1 in the present case has certainly taken place from 16.2.2006 to 20.4.2006 almost on alternate days but the record available before this Court does not reveal that the prosecution at any point of time had objected to any question put to the witness which might have been irrelevant or oppressive. The defence through cross examination is a rule of fairness of which the boundaries will differ from case to case and the nature of evidence relied upon by the prosecution. In the present case, however, the Court is not taken through any question or suggestion during cross examination, of which the relevance was objected or the same was forbidden in the eye of law. Rule of fairness is the bedrock of faith in any judicial system and the courts of law are duty bound to associate with this process effectively.

48. This Court has carefully gone through the oral testimony of PW-1. It is more than evident that the witness in his cross examination has firstly evaded revealing full facts with respect to the arrival of Aparajita (deceased) on Raksha Bandhan i.e. 29.8.2004 when the occurrence took place; and secondly, the testimony as regards the transport of injured to Awadh Hospital is completely blank and the questions were sidetracked by the witness in oblivion. Failure of Investigating Officer to collect any information from densely populated neighborhood was a clear abuse of investigation once he acted so promptly as is evident from the record. The credibility of such a testimony by any stretch of imagination does not satisfy the standard of beyond reasonable doubt unless the material gaps were filled by the investigation. The case of the prosecution had no legs to stand irrespective of the fact how strong the corroborative evidence collected by the investigation was claimed to be. Moreover, the unnamed person in the FIR could not be traced at all.

49. The trial court while dealing with the evidence of PW-1, has drawn overreaching conclusions both on the aspect of arrival of the deceased at the place of occurrence and her transport as injured to Awadh Hospital. The conclusions drawn by the trial court on these two vital facts for want of a definite stand of the witness (PW-1) belie his residual testimony. Thus, the judgement impugned heavily relying upon the direct evidence of PW-1 is erroneous, perverse and shocking to the conscious of justice. A witness whose testimony is tainted must be visited with a consequence but the issue is left open in an appropriate case.

50. Having had the privilege of going through the judgement authored by my esteemed brother, Manish Kumar, J. I fully concur with the reasoning, position of law and the conclusions drawn. The testimony of PW-1 being the main witness was peculiar hence deemed proper to be dealt with in the light of what has been recorded above.

51. For the reasons given and discussions held in the judgment as above, we hold that the prosecution case is not proved and the conviction of the appellants and the sentence awarded by the trial court is not sustainable.

52. The appeals are thus, allowed and the judgment and order dated 23.04.2008 sentencing and convicting the appellants i.e. Vishal Gupta and Alok Gupta under Sections 302 read with Section 120-B IPC is hereby set aside. The appellants, who are in jail shall be released and set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

53. A copy of this judgment shall be kept in the record of Criminal Appeal No. 1479 of 2008 as well as in Criminal Revision No. 294 of 2008.

(10) Perusal of the record and the testimony on record further reveal that the letter dated 28.8.1995 for conducting medical examination of the injured addressed to Medical Officer Incharge Sadar Hospital, district Mirzapur was inadvertently misspelled as Exhibit Ka-11 (due to clerical error), whereas for the purpose of convenience the Exhibit number of the aforesaid letter should be anything than 11-A now for sake of convenience the same is re-numbered as Exhibit 11-A and the same shall be referred as such from hence onward as and when so required (hereinafter referred to as paper no. Exhibit no.11-A).

(11) Constable Diwakar Rai C.W.3 has proved the death of the Investigating Officer- D.N. Tiwari who conducted investigation in case crime no.254 of 1995, under Section 25 Arms Act, accordingly, he has proved the charge-sheet filed by the aforesaid Investigating Officer in the aforesaid case.

(12) Similarly, sanction for prosecution was also obtained by the Investigating Officer from the District Magistrate, Mirzapur which is dated 12th October, 1995 and the same has been proved by Constable Diwaker Rai C.W.3 as Exhibit Ka-13.

Both the cases at case crime numbers 251 of 1995 and 254 of 1995, under Sections 307, 504, 506 IPC and u/s 25 Arms Act were consolidated and tried by the Sessions Judge together.

After hearing the prosecution and the defence charges under Sections 307, 504 and 506 IPC were framed against the accused-appellants, whereas charge under Section 25 Arms Act was framed against the accused-Rambali.

(13) Noticeable that in this case simplicitor charge u/s 307 IPC has been framed against the accused- appellant Rambali, whereas charge under Section 307 IPC read with Section 34 IPC has been framed against other two co- accused Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra. To prove its case, prosecution examined as many as six witnesses. Brief sketch of the prosecution witnesses is ut-infra:-

Bihari P.W.1 is the injured himself and has proved the written report. Sarvesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 is eye-witness of the occurrence. Tikori P.W.3 and Doodh Nath P.W.4 are the witness of recovery of country-made gun, but they have not supported the prosecution case and have turned hostile.

The Investigating Officer- S.I. Ram Dhani C.W.1 has proved the investigation pertaining to case crime no.251 of 1995 as aforesaid whereas Dr. I.N. Tiwari C.W.2 has proved the medical examination report as Exhibit ka-11 and lastly, Constable Diwaker Rai C.W.3 has proved various papers pertaining to case crime number 254 of 1995, under Section 25 Arms Act.

(14) After closure of the prosecution evidence, statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein the accused-appellants denied their involvement and claimed to have been falsely implicated, whereas, Prakash Chandra Mishra has taken plea of alibi and stated that he was not present on the spot at the time of the occurrence and accused-appellant- Rambali has stated that some altercation took place on account of point of construction being raised and both the sides pelted stone upon each other and someone suddenly fired from amongst the crowd. The case has been lodged under mis- impression. Report of medical examination was availed and thereafter in collusion with the police, the entire proceeding done was ante-timed.

The accused did not lead any evidence on their part, consequently, the matter was heard by the trial Judge and after considering the merit recorded conviction and passed sentence as aforesaid.

(15) Consequently this appeal.

(16) Contention in brief is that in this case there was no occasion to commit the crime in question like the present one as alleged by the prosecution side. It so happened that out of animosity, a false case was set up for the specific reason that a number of persons had collected on the spot during the course of altercation between the appellant- Ram Bali and the injured Bihari and both the sides indulged in brick- batting and pelted stones on each other and clamorous circumstances creating confusion on the spot was developed automatically and someone mischievously fired from country-made gun which caused injury on the person of the victim- Bihari.

(17) The two sons of Ram Bali- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra- have been wrongly attributed as playing role of assault by lathi and danda by the prosecution. They were not present on the spot. They never possessed lathi nor present on the spot nor participated in the commission of the offence nor did they cause any lathi blow to the victim- Bihari.

The witnesses of fact are highly interested witnesses. One independent witness is said to be Tikori- P.W.3 but he has not supported the prosecution case and has refused to acknowledge fact that the offence was committed by the appellants. This way, things have been manipulated on account of enmity with the informant side and the accused side due to disputed piece of land.

(18) The incident is not admitted in the way and in the manner alleged by the prosecution but it is denied that it was so caused by the appellants. The police planted false recovery, which carries no weight for several reasons.

The copy of the memo of arrest and the recovery of accused Rambali were not given to the appellant- Ram Bali and there is no independent witness to the fact of recovery of country-made gun from inside the house of the appellant- Ram Bali. That being the case, it is noticeable that two supporting witnesses of fact of recovery of the country-made gun have not supported the factum of recovery being effecuated from the appellant Ram Bali. It is surprising that straight-way the inhabitants residing in the neighbourhood of the Ram Bali had also arrived on the spot but they have not been made witnesses for reasons best known to the Investigating Officer S.I. Ram Dhani. The Investigating Officer could not even spell name of a single person who arrived on the spot. Infact, the entire exercise has been done by the Investigating Officer secretly and a false recovery planted which carries no weight in the eye of law.

So far site plan is concerned, it is so vaguely prepared that it tells truth for the reason that there is no place shown from which the shot was fired and no distance shown in the map. It is not shown as to where lathi blow was caused by the other two accused the sons of Ram Bali- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra.

(19) That being so, it is obvious that the prosecution case is full of improvement and full of embellishments. Once the site plan itself creates doubt about the spot on which the fire was opened, how can it be said that appellant- Ram Bali infact opened fire which hit above the eye- brow on the forehead of victim- Bihari. Assuming it to be that any offence was so committed, then it would be a case of sudden provocation and sudden fight on account of altercation due to dispute that arose on the point of landed property.

(20) F.I.R. is ante-timed. There is no supplementary report and X-ray report prepared, which can establish and affirm claim that the case is fit one for being considered under Section 307 IPC and in the absence of any supporting material which is admitted to the doctor witness- I.N. Tiwari- C.W.2- that he did not prepare any supplementary report nor did he come across any x- ray report, then how can it be said that statement of Dr. I.N. Tiwari C.W.2

can be read as genuine one and injury no.1 caused on the fore- head of the injured- Bihari could have been serious and fatal. Thus, the basis of grievous injury is altogether missing in this case.

(21) So far as the conviction of the two accused Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra is concerned, their conviction by way of application of Section 34 IPC is not sustainable in the eye of law. There is no evidence which may indicate that the aforesaid two co- accused acted with the same and identical intention to commit the crime in question and each one of the three accused shard common intention.

(22) Further, contended that the site plan is silent about the specific position of the accused as to from which place the fire was shot and the doctor witness I.N. Tiwari C.W.2 has recorded 'blackening' found in the gunshot wound- the injury no.1,- which means the fire was opened from a short range and that cannot be a distance beyond 5-6 steps from the position of the injured and the doctor has opined that the injury in the form/shape of 'blackening' in respect of injury no.1 reveals that fire might have been opened from a distance of six feet and there is nothing of the sort which may prove that any fire was opened from a distance of six feet, whereas the statement of the injured- Bihari also reflects that the fire was opened from a distance of 8-9 feet. Then, it is apparent that the distance of fire being shot as stated by the victim is in utter contrast to the medical examination report.

(23) The other two injuries have been caused by friction and they are simple in nature. Then in the absence of any supporting medico-legal paper, how can it be said that the injury no.1 was fatal in the medical examination report. There is gross contradiction in the testimony of both the witnesses of fact in particular Bihari P.W.1 and Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2. Bihari P.W.1 says that he went to the police station on bare foot and on way to police station someone on scooter met him and he sat on the scooter and arrived at the police station, whereas Servesh Kumar Mishra says that he had gone to the police station on bicycle. Further, as per the testimony, it is obvious that the report was scribed in- side the police station- Kotwali Dehat itself, whereas Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 claims that he had scribed the report at home and went to lodge the same along with the victim to the police station.

That being so, which of the two version is the truthful version cannot be ascertained. Lastly, learned counsel contended that in this case, punishment awarded against the appellants is too harsh and is not justified under facts and circumstances of the case. The prosecution evidence is shallow and sketchy and it does not inspire confidence.

(24) Per contra, learned AGA and the learned counsel for the informant vehemently opposed the contention and have submitted that the trial court rightly evaluated and appraised the testimony on record and it properly scrutinised the same and recorded finding of conviction based on materiel on record. Some variation in the testimony of the witnesses of fact is natural and bound to occur, but minor variation in the testimony of witnesses of fact is not of a degree, which may occasion over throwing case of the prosecution. Ocular testimony of the witnesses of fact of the occurrence inspires confidence. Finding of conviction and the sentence awarded under circumstances of the case is justified. So far as the witnesses of recovery Tikori P.W.3 and Doodh Nath P.W.4 are concerned, they have been won over by the prosecution.

(25) Upon consideration of the submissions so raised and the respective claim made by both the sides, the moot point that arises for adjudication of this appeal relates to fact whether the prosecution has been successful in establishing charges beyond shadow of reasonable doubt against the appellants?

Discussion and finding-

(26) While proceeding with the case, upon careful perusal of the record of the lower court reveals that the motive behind the crime in question has been stated to be some property dispute pertaining to abadi land and as per the contents of the first information report the incident took place at 9.30 A.M. on 28.8.1995 and the report was lodged promptly at 11.20 A.M. Same day. The report has been scribed by the informant- Servesh Kumar Mishra- and he has proved it as Exhibit Ka-1. Regarding the injuries being caused to the injured Bihari the doctor C.W.2 has opined that these injuries could have been caused on 28.08.1995 around 9.30 A.M.

(27) Before proper analysis of merit is made it would be convenient to take into account the narration contained in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1. The written report was lodged by Bihari- the injured though, it was scribed by Servesh Kumar Mishra,- the nephew of the victim Bihari, wherein allegation was made to the ambit that on 28.08.1995 around 9.30 A.M. Ram Bali- the accused appellant possessing country-made gun while his two sons possessing stick (lathi) arrived on the spot which is disputed land and insisted-on for raising construction over there. The injured- Bihari asked them not to do so, then he was abused by the accused- appellant Ram Bali fired with his country-made gun with intention to kill and the fire hit the injured- Bihari- who fell down on the ground. At the same time the informant and Doodh Nath Chaubey and Tikori arrived on the spot, saw the occurrence and intervened when the assailants fled away from the scene after extending threats.

(28) So far as perusal of this report is concerned, it does not entail any description that any 'lathi' or danda blow was caused by the two other co-accused- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra. However, in the testimony of both the witnesses of fact Bihari P.W.1- the injured and Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 they have stated that it was around 9.30 A.M. in the morning on 28.8.1995 when the three accused arrived on the spot and insisted for raising construction of wall over the disputed piece of land which is 'abadi' land adjoining to the house of the informant. On being asked not to do so, accused- appellant- Ram Bali fired upon the Bihari (injured), which fire hit on the head due to which he fell down and at that point of time accused- appellants- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra caused lathi blow to him. Besides, they also abused him and it is claimed that P.W.2 Servesh Kumar Mishra, P.W.3 Tikori, P.W.4 Doodh Nath of the village arrived on the spot and saw the incident and intervened only then assailants made their escape good. However, so far as lodging of the FIR is concerned, the same was lodged at 11.20 hours the very same day of the occurrence i.e. 28.08.1995 at Police Station Kotwali Dehat, district Mirzapur.

(29) In that regard, bare perusal of the site plan, Exhibit ka-2, indicates that the place where the occurrence took place is marked by word 'A'- it is the place where, no particular positioning of the assailants or the victim has been specified/fixed in the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer. It has not been mentioned as to where the accused- appellant- Ram Bali was standing and from which side, he fired upon the injured- Bihari. All the relevant details as where required to have been included in the site plan are missing. On the very face, it only says about the place of occurrence marked by word 'A' as the place where the occurrence took place. No other relevant detail.

(30) Position of the other two co- accused- Subhash Chandra and Prakash Chandra have also not been shown in the entire map. This map was prepared at the strength of Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2. This by itself creates a doubt whether the scribe- Servesh Kumar Mishra in fact saw the occurrence or not? And why did not he tell the police about the actual fact, regarding particular position of the assailants and the injured.

(31) In so far as testimony of Servesh Kumar Mishra is concerned, he himself says that he had shown the place of occurrence to daroga ji and daroga ji did not ask anything more. He has not stated that he had specified position of each assailant on the spot at the relevant point of time. It is quite interesting to note that this witness says that he wrote the written report at his home whereas P.W.1 Bihari says that the report was written at the police station after the occurrence was narrated to daroga ji and daroga ji asked him to write the report, whereupon, the report was written in the police station- Kotwali Dehat district- Mirazapur itself.

These are the slight deviations that cannot be said hit at the route of the prosecution case but in so far as the version of the prosecution witness P.W.2 Servesh Kumar Mishra is concerned then he has categorically stated (at page no.2 of his testimony in his cross- examination) that he included all details in his report (regarding the assault being caused by lathi), whereas the report is silent about the assault being caused to the victim by the other co- accused by using lathi and danda. Now, P.W.2 Servesh Kumar Mishra being nephew of the victim corroboration of his testimony should supported by testimony of other witnesses, whereupon, it is noticeable that the statement of Tikori the witness named in the FIR itself is reflective of fact that Tikori was not present on the spot on 28.8.1995 around 9.30 A.M. at village- Bhueli Pandey within Police Station- Kotwali Dehat, District Mirzapur.

(32) That being so, the very authenticity and the veracity of the version of P.W.2 Servesh Kumar Mishra becomes doubtful. As such the scrutiny of the testimony of the eye-witnesses and in particularly that of the victim-Bihari is required to be properly done in this case. If the description of occurrence appearing in the testimony of P.W.1 Bihari is seen then obviously regarding the incident it is stated that the appellants- Prakash Chandra, Subhash Chandra and Ram Bali arrived on the spot- the abadi land- adjoining to the western side of the house of this witness and tried to raise a wall on that land when asked by Bihari, they refused, instead became angry and the accused-appellant Ram Bali with intention to kill fired with his country-made gun, which hit on his head and he fell down. While he fell down appellants- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra dealt with lathi blow on him besides abusing and threatening him. When alarm was raised, victim's nephew Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2, Tikori P.W.3, Doodh Nath P.W.4 and a number of villagers arrived on the spot, when they intervened due to which the victim could be saved.

(33) Now, in so far this ocular version of the occurrence is concerned, injured- Bihari P.W.1 sustained gunshot wound fired by appellant- Ram Bali. At this stage, it would be appropriate to have a glance and scrutiny of the injury report of the injured- Bihari, which is Exhibit Ka-11 on the record and the same has been proved by Dr. I.N. Tiwari. He has stated that he conducted medical examination of Bihari on 28.8.1995 at 12.00 noon, wherein he found the following injuries;

Injury no.1 is stated to be firearm injury 0.3 cm x 0.2 cm wound of entry with blackening around the wound in an area of 0.4 cm x 0.3 cm with contused swelling in an area of 3.5 cm x 2.00 cm around the wound, situated at left side of forehead. 1 cm above the outer part of left eyebrow, serous oozing present. Kept under observation and advised X-ray skull. Apart from it the doctor witness also noticed the two injuries in the shape of abrasion as follows;

Abrasion 0.4 cm x 0.4 cm on right side of chest 2 cm medial to right nipple.

Abrasion 0.4 cm x 0.2 cm on dorsal aspect of left thumb 4 cm proximal to tip of thumb.

In the opinion of doctor all injuries were fresh in duration. Injury no.1 was kept under observation and advised X-ray skull, whereas injury nos.2 and 3 were stated to be simple in nature and caused by friction whereas it was also opined that injury no.1 was caused by firearm and the case was referred to surgeon for expert opinion.

(34) Now, in so far as the description of occurrence as stated by Bihari is concerned, in his cross- examination, he has stated that appellants- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra- the two accused gave lathi blow at full stream while he fell down on the ground. However, he has stated that only one lathi blow on his hand was given, therefore, there is no specification as to whose assault infact hit the victim when it was given by the two accused person- Praksh Chandra and Subhash Chandra, and this version regarding assault by lathi also does not figure in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. when this witness was confronted with the situation of causing lathi blow but no statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. regarding the same he drew blank and stated that he cannot assign any reason as to why daroga ji did not record this fact.

(35) Assuming it to be that it so happened then the testimony of another eyewitness- Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 another eye-witness is also relevant. Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 has not stated in his entire examination-in-chief that any lathi blow was caused by the two accused- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra. Further, in his cross- examination the testimony has come-forth to the effect that after the occurrence he took the injured straight to the police station and further he scribed the report at his home whereas, in that regard the testimony of Bihari P.W.1 on internal page 3 of his cross- examination reveals that prior to the lodging of the report, the injured narrated the incident to the police at the police station then police personnel asked him for giving written report then Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 scribed the report in the presence of the police at the police station and handed it over to them. The testimony of Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 is absolutely silent about any lathi blow being caused. That being so, as a measure of caution in the absence of any independent corroboration to the factum of assault being caused by the two accused- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra also it would not be safer to place reliance on his testimony. However, no independent witness has been produced to consider the ocular version of the occurrence.

(36) Now, in so far as causing firearm wound on injured- Bihari is concerned, contention has been made to the magnitude that there was blackening around the wound and that means the fire was shot from a close range and that cannot be beyond 5 to 6 feet from the injured and the doctor witness Dr. I.N. Tiwari C.W.2 in his cross- examination has categorically stated that since the blackening was found in the wound, therefore, the shot must have been fired from a distance of 6 feet. Further, he has stated in his cross- examination that so far as injury nos.2 and 3 are concerned that may be caused by friction due to fall on the ground but these injuries can not be caused by lathi blow.

(37) While scrutinizing aforesaid specific testimony regarding the fact of manner and style of assault being caused by lathi by the two accused-appellants, a serious doubt is created on fact of participation of the two appellants and in the occurrence. Thus their participation in the occurrence becomes highly improbable. Assuming it to be they were present even then they would have been passive on the spot because there is nothing in the testimony of Bihari P.W.1 and Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 which may attribute any other overt act to the two appellants- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra except the role of causing lathi blow to the injured- Bihari.

(38) Now, in so far as the fire wound is concerned, the fire must have been shot from within a distance of 6 feet, whereas the testimony of injured- Bihari in his cross-examination is specific regarding the distance from which the fire was opened and that is 8 to 9 feet. Now, the weapon used is country-made gun is concerned, it is not any specialized weapon and if such a weapon is used from a distance of 9 feet, certainly it would not cause any blackening like the present one caused on Bihari as injury no.1.

In the wake of aforesaid specific testimony and the testimony of the the Doctor I.N. Tiwari C.W.2, obviously the argument floated by the learned counsel for the appellants carry force that it so happened that some altercation took place, as per the version of the prosecution witnesses two to four minutes of altercation preceded the occurrence and it is also there in the FIR that a number of persons arrived on the spot and on alarm being raised by Bihari- the injured, stone pelting took place on the spot between the informant side and the accused side and in that regard perusal of the site plan itself indicates presence of brick pieces/stone pieces at the place of occurrence. Even in the testimony of prosecution witnesses of fact, this factual aspect has been confirmed that a number of brick pieces were also lying at the place of occurrence. That being so, possibility of pelting stones by both the sides cannot be ruled out. It is also contended by the appellants that someone from inside the crowd fire opened which hit the injured- Bihari.

Now, the version of doctor, vis a vis, the injury caused and the version of gunshot wound being caused as given by Bihari show that the shot must have been fired by someone else rather than the present accused- appellant- Ram Bali, because the distance of Ram Bali at that point of time when he opened fire must be within 6 feet reach to the victim, but this reach cannot be extended upto 8 or 9 feet otherwise there would be no blackening around the wound (pertaining to injury no.1). None other than the injured himself says that fire was shot from a distance of 8 to 9 feet.

(39) That way bare perusal of the site plan of this occurrence Exhibit ka-2 as has been discussed herein above appears to relevant for consideration but at the cost of repetition it can be summed up that in the entire map no place shown as the very place where the shot hit (the injured) and from which side it was opened and there is no locations fixed, no specific point shown as to whose either assailant or the victim was standing on a particular place. Even Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 who has specifically stated that he visited the spot with the daroga ji around 2.00 P.M. had shown the spot to daroga ji and daroga ji did not find any blood on the spot, although, the victim says that blood oozed out from his wound.

(40) Now, in so far as the point of recovery of the country-made gun from the accused Ram Bali is concerned, it is stated that this was the country-made gun used for commission of the offence. But there is no forensic report obtained by the Investigating Officer in this case which may confirm and establish fact that this weapon was used in causing injury (no.1) to the victim-Bihari.

Bare perusal of the arrest and recovery memo Exhibit ka-7 indicates that recovery was effectuated from inside the house of Ram Bali, however, the factum of recovery has not been supported by any worthy witness and in that regard no witness confirming to the fact of recovery has been produced by the prosecution, therefore, it is hard to believe the bald statement of the police officials regarding the recovery of country-made gun from inside the house. If the recovery was so made then how and why the weapon which was allegedly used in the occurrence was not sent for forensic examination.

The recovery map is Exhibit ka-8 and in the absence of any corroboration by any witness of fact of recovery it is hard to believe it to be so in reality. This recovery was effectuated on 29.8.1995. Thus in the absence of any witness to support the factum of recovery it would not be in the interest of justice, as under prevailing circumstances to accept the police version that country-made gun was infact recovered from the possession of Ram Bali the accused and it was used in the commission of the offence. The two witnesses Tikori P.W.3 and Doodh Nath P.W.4 have not supported the incident, though, they have been named as the person who arrived on the spot when the alarm was raised by the injured- Bihari. There is no independent corroboration of the fact of occurrence. In view of gross contradiction on material fact as to where the report was written; and the testimony of Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 is silent about any lathi blow being caused by the accused- Subhash Chandra and Prakash Chandra, and the nature of injury caused hollowness of the prosecution version is exposed.

(41) These are the vital aspects of this case which escaped attention of the trial Judge. Things have been tried to be explained by way of imagination rather than the evidence on record and the attendant facts and circumstances of this case. It can be added here that the doctor witness has categorically stated that he did not prepare any supplementary report of injury no.1 nor is there any paper before him, nor he came across any X-ray examination plate. That being so, the nature of the injuries caused shall remain be confined to the state of simple in nature. In view of above, injury no.1 becomes doubtful to have been caused infact by Ram Bali in the manner and the style alleged by the prosecution for specific reason that there being blackening around the wound the distance given by the injured does not match the medical report. The distance from which the fire was opened also becomes question mark.

Now, the version of the doctor that injury no.1 could have been fatal cannot be said to be based upon any supporting material or worthy paper and that being so, the statement of the doctor regarding nature of injury no.1 being grievous is brazen and bald one.

(42) It is noticeable that on the bare perusal of the letter dated 28.08.1995 written at the police station Kanpur Dehat, Mirzapur addressed to the M.O. Incharge Sadar Hospital, Mirzapur for medical examination of the injured (Bihari) does not bear any case crime number nor any section of Indian Penal Code and in the wake of aforesaid fact situation specific argument has been made that infact after medical examination there was deliberation with the police the F.I.R. was lodged subsequently.

(43) That being a fact situation has not been properly explained by the prosecution as to why the case crime number was not mentioned on this letter. This letter which appears on the back of the injury report of Bihari- the injured,- is Exhibit Ka-11 and the letter has been renumbered as Exhibit Ka 11-A. That way possibility of the FIR being ante-timed cannot be ruled out. Positively in the face of the testimony of Bihari himself in his cross- examination that prior to the lodging of the report, the entire incident was narrated to the police at the police station itself and then only the report was dictated to be written at the police station itself, whereas this aspect has been tried to be twisted and avoided by Servesh Kumar Mishra P.W.2 the scribe of Exhibit Ka-1 that he wrote this report at the police station itself.

Therefore, the argument to the ambit that possibility of FIR being ante-timed cannot be ruled out carries weight and the same is sustained.

(44) These are the specific aspects of this case and these specific aspects ought to have been appreciated properly, vis-a-vis, the evidence and circumstances of this case by the trial court which has not been done by it. Obviously, enmity was existing between both the sides and some altercation is stated to have taken place which has been trid to be coloured differently by the prosecution witnesses. Here the specific corroboration of testimony of the two prosecution witnesses of fact is woefully lacking, therefore, the contention raised by the learned counsel for the appellants appear to be substantial and carry weight and there is every reason to accept the same and to record conclusion that in so far as the charge under Section 307 IPC against the accused- appellant- Ram Bali is concerned, it is not sustainable in the eye of law.

Likewise, participation of the other two co- accused- the two sons of Ram Bali- Prakash Chandra and Subhash Chandra- also becomes highly improbable in the occurrence. Consequently, the charges framed against them u/s 307/34 IPC is also not proved.

(45) In view of aforesaid foregoing reasons and discussion, obviously, the finding of conviction recorded by the trial court becomes erroneous and illegal and the judgement and order of conviction dated 25.03.2004 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/FTC No.-3, Mirzapur in Sessions Trial No. 224 of 1998 (State Vs. Ram Bali and others), under Sections 307, 504, 506 IPC and Sessions Trial No.396 of 1999 (State vs. Ram Bali), under Section 25 Arms Act, Police Station- Kotwali Dehat, District- Mirzapur is hereby set aside.

Appeal is allowed.

Appellants are on bail, they need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and their sureties are discharged subject to their complying with Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

Let a copy of this order be certified to the concerned trial court for its intimation and follow up action.

Amit Kumar and others) arising out of Case Crime No.655A of 2012, under Sections 498A, 304 B of IPC and Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961, Police Station- Khurja Nagar, District- Bulandshahar, by which learned trial court convicted only appellant- Amit and sentenced him for two years under Section 498A IPC with fine of Rs.5,000/-, ten years under Section 304 B and one year imprisonment under Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act with fine of Rs.2,000/-.

2. Brief facts of this case are that Ravi, the informant, is the brother of the deceased. He moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in the Court of Magistrate with the averment that her sister Pooja was married to Amit s/o Bharat Singh on 24.04.2012, who is resident of village Akbarpur, Police Station- Sasani, District- Hathras and gave the dowry according to their financial capacity. A Pulsar motorcycle was also given in the marriage but her in-laws including Amit, his father Bharat Singh, his mother Sharada, his uncle Charan Singh, his brother Manoj and one Pinki were not happy with the dowry given in the marriage and they also started demand of a car as additional dowry. They used to torture Pooja for not fulfilment of the demand of additional dowry. Pooja used to tell the fact regarding the demand of additional dowry and torture for not fulfilling the demand. Parental family members of Pooja tried to make them understand but of no avail. On 13.08.2012 at about 6:00 pm Pooja made a phone call to her brother Ajay and said that Amit and her in-laws were demanding a car and they took her by force to village Akbarpur from Delhi and any untoward incident might take place. The above mentioned persons in connivance with unknown driver of vehicle No. UP-78 BT 0879 have murdered Pooja at about 10:00 pm on 13.08.2012 and have lodged a fake first information report of accident in PS- Khurja Nagar. On coming to know about this incident, the informant went to PS- Khurja, District- Bulandshahr and tried to give a written report but the police refused to receive the report. It has come to the knowledge of the informant that in the above accident neither Amit has sustained any injury nor his motorcycle was damaged. Therefore, they have all killed Pooja by hatching a conspiracy with unknown truck driver.

3. Peculiar facts of this case are that before lodging the aforesaid FIR through application 156(3) Cr.P.C., initially first information report was lodged by Charan Singh, who is uncle of appellant-Amit, having Case Crime No.655 of 2012, under Section 279, 304A and 427 IPC at Police Station Khurja, District- Bulandshahar against the truck driver of truck No.UP-78 BT 0879 and after investigation, charge sheet was prepared against the aforesaid truck driver Somnath Vishwakarma, under Section 279, 304A and 427 IPC but this charge sheet was cancelled by Senior Superintendent of Police, before submission in court and further another charge sheet was prepared and submitted in the concerned court against Amit, Bharat Singh, Smt. Sharada, Charan Singh, Manoj and Pinki, under Section 498A, 304B IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. The above charge sheets were merged and taken together by the learned Magistrate.

4. Charges were framed against the aforesaid accused persons, under Sections 498A and 304B IPC and under Section 3 of Dowry Prohibtion Act, 1961. After completion of trial, learned trial court convicted and sentenced only appellant Amit under Section 498A, 304B IPC and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and acquitted rest of the accused persons and hence this appeal.

5. Heard Shri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Arun Singh, learned AGA for the State.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that first information report was lodged by Charan Singh regarding the accident of appellant with truck No.UP 78 BT 0879. It is submitted that after completion of the investigation it was found by the investigating officer that it was a case of accident simpliciter and charge sheet under Section 304A IPC was prepared, which was cancelled by the Senior Supreintendent of Police. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that it was accidental death and it had nothing to do with any demand of dowry and torture for non-fulfillment of demand of additional dowry.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant next submitted that it was a case of prosecution that appellant hatched a conspiracy with the truck driver and got his wife Pooja murdered in connivance thereof. But, truck driver was not prosecuted and no charge sheet was submitted containing offence under Section 120B of IPC. No trial of any accused persons was conducted for the offence of conspiracy. It is also submitted that it is intertesting that learned trial court acquitted all the accused persons except appellant and no cross appeal against acquittal is filed by prosecution, it means that acquittal of accused persons has become final. In such a situation, when there was no trial regarding the offence of conspiracy and except appellant all other accused persons have been acquitted by the trial court then, the prosecution story of conspiracy in connivance with truck driver itself becomes false.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that Dr. Preetam Singh conducted the postmortem of deceased Pooja and prepared postmortem report. He was examined as PW-4. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that in fact at the place of occurrence, Amit was driving the motorcycle and Pooja was sitting on back seat and a truck coming from opposite side crossed the motorcycle from very thin distance and due to air pressure Pooja fell down and sustained injury on her head. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that this suggestion was put forth before Dr. Preetam Singh (PW4) in his cross-examination and he agreed to this suggestion. Learned counsel submitted that doctor, who is an expert in medical science, has opined that such type of fatal injury can be sustained by a lady if she is sitting on the back seat of the motorcycle while a truck crosses the motorcycle. Since, the doctor has agreed to this suggestion, the appellant has discharged its burden of rebutting the presumption raised against appellant under Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that Senior Superintendent of Police, who cancelled the charge sheet of the accident, namely, Gulab Singh is produced by appellant in his defence as DW2. His statement also shows that charge sheet of accident was cancelled by him on the report of investigating officer of Case Crime No.655A of 2012. But, on the fact it is proved that investigating officer of Case Crime No.655 of 2012 found no case of murder or conspiracy in this case.

9. It is also next submitted that cremation of the deceased took place with the consent of her family members and dead body was given in Surpurdagi of her family members.

10. It is argued by learned counsel for the appellant that PW1- Ravi and PW2- Ajay both are brothers of the deceased. PW1 is informant. It is said by both the witnesses that Pooja made a phone call at 6:00 pm to her brother Ajay from Delhi that so-called accused persons were demanding car and beating her and taking her from Delhi to Village Akbarpur with the intention of killing her. But, in cross-examination witnesses have not supported their version of examination-in-chief. It is said by theses witnesses that Pooja told that five other accused persons were coming on two motorcycle behind them. But they also have stated that Pooja made this phone call from her house in Delhi. PW1 and PW2 have made contrary statements. PW1-informant Ravi has said that phone call was made by Pooja on phone of Ajay who had left his phone at home and he informed him in night when he returned to the home. In the meantime, he did nothing. It is also evident that four brothers of Pooja used to reside in Delhi. They were also not informed by PW1-Ravi regarding phone call who could be the nearest persons to Pooja. This conduct of witnesses is quite unnatural.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant next argued that there was no question of demanding car as additional dowry because it is admitted by PW1 and PW2 that the father of the appellant was hawker on a gas agency and appellant-Amit himself used to work on a gas agency for booking and supplying the gas cylinders. It is also in the evidence that appellant used to get Rs.5,000/- per month as salary from the gas agency. Therefore, appellant and his family were not of such a good financial condition that they could even think of demanding the car in additional dowry.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that there is no evidence on record that soon before death of the deceased she was subjected to any cruelty or harassment in connection with demand of additional dowry. No call-detail is produced by the prosecution to substantiate the factum of phone call made by Pooja at 6:00 pm on 13.08.2012. It is also pointed out that PW2- Ajay has stated in his statement that he was making statement in court for the very first time, therefore, he has denied his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. also PW1 and 2 are wholly unreliable witnesses. Appellant is languishing in jail for the past five years without any evidence on record. Learned trial court has wrongly convicted and sentenced the appellant. Hence, appeal may be allowed.

13. Learned AGA opposed the arguments made on behalf of the appellant and submitted that ante mortem injury in postmortem indicates that such type of injury cannot be sustained by falling from motorcycle only and as far as the first FIR is concerned, it was lodged by co-accused Charan Singh but he was not the eye-witness of so-called accident as alleged by the defence. It is also submitted by learned AGA that it is mentioned in inquest report that inquest proceedings took place in district hospital Khurja. Learned AGA submitted that the death of deceased Pooja cannot be accidental death. PW1 and PW2 have fully supported the prosecution case. When this case was not found of accident, only then the investigating officer of Case Crime No.655A of 2012 sent a report to SSP, Bulandshahr, and after being satisfied with the report of I.O., the S.S.P. cancelled the charge sheet of Case Crime No.655 of 2012. Demand of additional dowry, harassment and torture of Pooja for non-fulfillment of above said demand are fully proved by statements of PW1 and PW2 and since Pooja made a phone call on the same day of her death at about 6:00 pm, therefore, it is also proved that soon before her death, she was subjected to cruelty in connection with demand of additional dowry. Therefore, learned trial court rightly convicted the appellant and sentenced him. Hence, appeal may be dismissed.

14. In this case, two FIRs were lodged. One by Charan Singh, Case Crime No.655 of 2012 pertaining to the fact of accident and second is Case Crime No.655A of 2012 by Ravi, brother of deceased pertaining to accidental murder of Pooja. But, prosecution has finally set up a case as per the first information report lodged by Ravi through application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. On the basis this FIR, charge sheet was submitted under Section 498A, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act and appellant was put on trial. Trial court convicted and sentenced the appellant as aforesaid under Section 304B IPC, trial court drew the presumption of Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act which is quoted here-in-below for ready reference:-

"Section 113B in The Indian Evidence Act, 1872

113B. Presumption as to dowry death.--When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death. Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in section 304B, of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860)."

15. Hence to draw the legal presumption as envisaged by Section 113 of Indian Evidence Act, it is mandatory for prosecution to show that "soon before death," deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand of dowry.

16. In G.V. Siddaramesh Vs. State of Karnataka (2010) 3 SCC 152, it is held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that there must be material to show that soon before the death of woman, such woman was subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand of dowry, then only a presumption can be drawn that a person has committed the dowry death of a woman.

17. In Devendra Vs. State of Haryana (2010) 10 SCC 763 also, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that Section 113B read with the Act (Indian Evidence Act) would mean that unless and until proved otherwise, the court shall hold that a person has caused dowry death of a woman if it is established before the court that soon before her death such woman has been by such person subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with any demand of dowry.

18. To show that soon before her death, deceased Pooja was subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand of dowry, the prosecution has produced PW1- Ravi and PW2- Ajay. Both are brothers of the deceased and it is said by them that on the fateful day, i.e., 13.08.2012 at 6:00 pm, a phone call was made by Pooja on the phone of PW2-Ajay, who had left the phone at home and this phone call was received by informant PW1-Ravi in which Pooja told him that appellant and other co-accused persons were demanding car and beating her and taking her to village Akbarpur from Delhi with intention to kill her. PW1 Ravi has stated in his examination-in-chief that accused persons have killed his sister Pooja with the conspiracy for not meeting out the demand of car as additional dowry and for hiding their crime the murder of Pooja has been shown as an accident. But it is not stated by PW1 how Pooja was killed if it was not an accident. It was burden on prosecution witnesses to show how otherwise the death was caused if accident did not take place because prosecution witnesses PW1 and PW2 have categorically said in their statements that neither the appellant got any injury in accident nor the motorcycle had got any scratch in the accident.

19. In his application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. informant Ravi has stated that:-

"प्रार्थी द्वारा उपरोक्त घटना के बारे में जानकारी करने पर पता चला कि उपरोक्त एक्सीडेंट में अभियुक्त को कोई चोट किसी प्रकार की नहीं है और न ही मोटरसाईकिल कहीं से क्षतिग्रस्त हुई है। केवल अमित के पीछे बैठी पूजा की एक्सीडेंट में मृत्यु हुई है। उपरोक्त घटना एक सोची समझी योजना के तहत उपरोक्त मुल्जिमानों ने अज्ञात ट्रक ड्राईवर के साथ मिलकर कारित की है।"

20. In this way at one hand, the prosecution has tried to establish the case that death of Pooja was result of the accident in connivance and conspiracy of appellant with truck driver, but on the other hand, prosecution has also taken the version that in so-called accident neither appellant got sustained any injury nor motorcycle was damaged even a bit. On this basis, prosecution says that it was a murder. In this way, it looks that prosecution caused shadow on the factum of accident how it took place and from which source it has come to know the factum of conspiracy.

21. Prosecution is not firmly standing on its feet. It was a burden on the shoulder of the prosecution witnesses to show how actually otherwise the death of Pooja took place if it was not a case of an accident. The Court can hardly believe on the fact that such type of accident can be caused out of conspiracy in which the person driving the motorcycle did not get any injury and even motorcycle is not damaged even a bit and the lady sitting behind the motorcycle sustained fatal injuries and died on the spot. If prosecution wants to establish that accident was the result of conspiracy with truck driver, then prosecution witnesses were also to show the element of conspiracy.

22. PW1-Ravi has stated in his statement that Pooja made a phone call and said that Amit was taking her on Pulsar motorcycle to the village. Apart from this, two other motorcycles were also there on which other accused persons were coming from behind. It is also specifically stated by this witness that except the phone call of his sister, he found no other evidence by which he could come to know that except Amit, five other persons were also coming on motorcycles, but PW1- Ravi has not stated this fact to the investigating officer in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Thus, it is proved that this statement by PW1 is made for the very first time in the trial court. PW2- Ajay has also stated in his statement that on 13.08.2012, at about 6:00 pm, deceased Pooja made a phone call on his phone stating that all the accused persons, out of conspiracy, were taking her to village Akbarpur with intention to kill her and soon thereafter the appellant along with other accused persons started journey on motorcycle by taking his sister on motorcycle and killed her at Nehrupur Chungi.

23. Therefore, the above statements of both the witnesses PW1 and PW2 show that they have categorically said that appellant and deceased Pooja were on one motorcycle and other co-accused persons were on two other motorcycles. PW1 and PW2 could only get this information if phone would have been made by the deceased Pooja while she was on the way on the motorcycle driven by the appellant, but PW1 Ravi has specifically stated in his cross-examination that Pooja had made a phone call before departure from Delhi. PW2 also has stated in his cross-examination that:-

"पूजा ने अपने ससुराल के घर से फोन किया था। पूजा ने बताया था कि सब लोग नीचे हैं। मैं ऊपर कमरे से बोल रही हूं। मैंने अपने बड़े भाई रवि को रात के 11-11.30 बजे जब घर आए तब मैंने उनको यह बात बतायी थी कि पूजा का शाम 6 बजे टेलीफोन आया।"

24. Hence, both the PW1 and PW2 have established that phone call was made by the deceased from the house in Delhi before her departure, then how could Pooja tell them that other co-accused were also coming behind on two other motorcycles. Although, the co-accused persons were acquitted by the trial court but there is question of credibility of evidence of PW1 and PW2. Such type of above statements of these witnesses put a big question mark on their credibility. Moreover, no call-detail report was produced by the prosecution regarding phone call of deceased Pooja at 6:00 pm to her brother Ajay. In his statement Ajay has given his mobile number and also of the deceased Pooja mobile number, but the prosecution has not produced any call-details of these two mobile numbers. It is also very strange and unnatural on behalf of PW1- Ravi, that he did not disclose regarding the version of phone call made by Pooja to her four brothers, who were residing in Delhi. These brothers were very near to Pooja and the witnesses have very lightly stated that they could not think of it.

25. With the above discussion, this Court reaches to the conclusions that statements of PW1 and PW2, the only witnesses of fact, have not at all any reliability regarding the phone call made by Pooja. It is not at all proved by their statements that any such phone call was made by Pooja to her brother at 6:00 pm on 13.08.2012 as said by the prosecution because in this regard the prosecution evidence is wholly unreliable and when the above said phone call is not proved, then it is also not proved that appellant was taking Pooja from Delhi to village Akbarpur in District Bulandshahr in order to kill her because the above said alleged phone call, which is not proved as discussed above, was the only source of information to PW1 and PW2.

26. Learned trial court has drawn presumption under Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act only against the appellant and not against all other accused persons on the same evidence of alleged phone call. Trial court has not mentioned how it reached to the conclusion of drawing presumption of Section 113B of Evidence Act only against the appellant and not against other co-accused persons. It means that the trial court has relied on a portion of the phone call and disbelieved the remaining portion of the same phone call. Trial court has only said that PW1 Ravi and PW2 Ajay have not stated regarding any specific role of other co-accused persons except appellant Amit and on the basis of which it is opined by trial court that presumption under Section 113B Indian Evidence Act is drawn against accused Amit and it is not drawn against other co-accused persons. Trial court has not mentioned even a single word what other evidence was found against the husband which was not found against other co-accused persons.

27. Application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved by informant Ravi after a long delay of 14 days of the occurrence. If phone call was there, the fact as to why the application was not moved forthwith by the informant, is not explained any where.

28. Hence, in the opinion of this Court evidence of PW1 and PW2 is not at all reliable regarding the phone call made by Pooja at 6:00 pm on 13.08.2012 to her brother. And as except this alleged phone call, there was no other source of information to informant Ravi or his brother Ajay and hence, PW1 and PW2 were not in a position to state that Pooja was subjected to cruelty or harassment soon before her death in connection with demand of additional dowry. It is very interesting to note that as per the prosecution case in application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., on the basis of which FIR was lodged, prosecution itself states that accident took place in conspiracy with truck driver. Truck number is also mentioned in the first information report. Inquest report also states that Pooja died due to sustaining injuries in accident and trial court confused on this issue because at one place trial court opined that if it would have been an accident then accused Amit also should have sustained injuries and motorcycle would have been damaged and on the other hand, trial court has drawn presumption against the appellant under Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act on believing the evidence of PW1 and PW2 regarding the alleged killing of Pooja by accident in connivance with the truck driver.

29. Further for the sake of argument, for a while, if it is presumed that presumption of Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act is rightly drawn by the trial court then also the appellant has rebutted this presumption. Accused has three stages during trial to rebut the presumption of Section 113B Indian Evidence Act. First stage is to give suggestion to prosecution witness and put his case before him; second stage is that accused will take his defence when evidence against him will be put under provision of Section 313 Cr.P.C., although, statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is not substantive piece of evidence and third stage is to produce defence witnesses. In the case in hand, suggestion was given to PW4 Dr. Preetam Singh, who conducted the postmortem of the deceased, that if a lady is sitting on the motorcycle and truck passes by due to which motorcycle falls then in such type of accident the lady can sustain such injuries, which were sustained by the deceased. Dr. Pretaam Singh PW4 answered in affirmative and opined that in such a situation, the deceased could sustain ante mortem injuries. Suggestions were also given to PW1 Ravi and PW2 Ajay regarding death of deceased in accident. It was stated before PW1 that one Rakesh s/o Raj Pal, who was cousin of appellant Amit Kumar, he was seriously ill on 13.08.2012 and died on 14.08.2012. It is specifically suggested to PW1 that appellant and his wife were going to see Rakesh on 13.08.2012. To this suggestion PW1 showed ignorance but it is said by him that later on he got to know that Rakesh, cousin brother of appellant, was seriously ill on 13.08.2012 and died on 14.08.2012. This factum also co-relates with the situation where accident could happen and in which deceased sustained fatal injuries. It is very much relevant that it is also the prosecution case that deceased Pooja died at near Nehrupur Chungi within the jurisdiction of Police Station Khurja District Bulandshahr. This fact gives strength to the defence taken by the appellant that Pooja died due to simpliciter road accident. Apart from this, it is important that prosecution itself has set up a case of the accident as stated by the complainant Ravi in application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in which even truck No. UP78 BT 0879 is given. The version of FIR is that appellant hatched conspiracy with above truck driver and got Pooja murdered but the truck driver was not prosecuted. No charge sheet was filed against truck driver for the offence of criminal conspiracy. Charge sheet against truck driver under Section 279, 304A and 427 IPC in Case Crime No.655 of 2012 was cancelled by Senior Superintendent of Police. Even the appellant or any other accused persons were not charged with the offence of criminal conspiracy. Therefore, prosecution story of murder itself gets falsified and the trial court did not give any finding as to how the deceased was died. Learned trial court has opined that appellant in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated that he was bringing his wife from Delhi to village Akbarpur and all of a sudden he met with an accident with the truck due to which Pooja fell down and died, but no evidence is produced regarding this fact. Learned trial court failed to consider the fact that charge sheet was prepared against the said truck driver pursuant to the FIR of the accident. Nothing more could be shown by the appellant to rebut the presumption when investigating officer of Case Crime No.655 of 2012 reached to the conclusion of accidental death and prepared the charge sheet. DW2 Gulab Singh, who is retired DIG, who had cancelled the charge sheet prepared by the investigating officer in Case Crime No.655 of 2012, has stated in his statement that C.O. was investigating the Case

Crime No.655 of 2012 which was registered under Section 304B, 498A IPC. On the basis of his case diary charge sheet was cancelled. Learned trial court has opined regarding the evidence of DW2 that he has only given the evidence regarding cancellation of charge sheet of Case Crime No.655 of 2012. This fact was overlooked by trial court that firstly charge sheet was prepared under Section 304A, 279 and 427 IPC after completion of investigation, although it was cancelled before submission in concerned court.

30. On the basis of above discussion, this Court has reached to the conclusion that prosecution has miserably failed to prove the phone call made by the deceased Pooja at 6:00 pm on 13.08.2012 to her brother as discussed above and in the absence of that phone call there remains no evidence on record to show that the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment soon before her death for or in connection with demand of dowry, meaning thereby prosecution has not brought forward any evidence to show that soon before her death deceased was subjected to cruelty. Therefore, trial court erred in drawing the presumption of Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act and in the absence of above presumption, no onus can be shifted on the shoulders of appellant/accused to rebut the presumption. Therefore, the death of deceased Pooja does not fall within the purview of "Dowry Death". Section 304B IPC reads as under :-

"Section 304B in The Indian Penal Code

1. Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death. Explanation.--For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

31. It is provided under Section 304B of IPC that the death of a woman should occur otherwise than under normal circumstances. Prosecution could not prove the death of deceased Pooja "otherwise than normal circumstances". Moreover, as discussed above, prosecution could not prove that soon before her death, deceased Pooja was subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand of dowry.

32. With the aforesaid discussion, this Court is of considered opinion that learned trial court has not appreciated the evidence on record in right perspective and wrongly drew the presumption under Section 113B of Indian Evidence Act against the appellant. Prosecution has also failed to prove the death of deceased Pooja as dowry death. Learned trial court has wrongly convicted the appellant for the offences under Section 498A, 304B of IPC and under Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. Hence, appeal is liable to be allowed.

33. This appeal is accordingly, allowed.

34. Conviction of appellant under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and under Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 is hereby set aside and he is acquitted of all charges framed against him. The appellant be released forthwith if not wanted in any other case.

35. Let a copy of this order be sent to concerned court and jail authorities for ensuring necessary compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 26.3.2013 passed by the court of Special Judge (D.A.A), Banda in Session Trial No.63 of 2012, State Vs. Ram Prakash @ Pappu Yadav arising out of Case Crime no. 73 of 2012, under Sections 452 read with Section 376 IPC, P.S. Bisanda, District Banda, whereby the accused-appellant was convicted under Section 452 IPC and sentenced to five years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.5000/- and on a default, sentence of three months further imprisonment and under Section 376 IPC and sentenced to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- and in case of default of payment of fine, to undergo six months further imprisonment for one year. Both the sentences to be run concurrently.

2. Brief facts of the case are that the FIR was registered on 22.02.2012 on the basis of the application moved by the complainant on the same date, in which it has been alleged that the complainant's daughter, namely, Chunbadi on the date of the occurrence of the offence, i.e, 21.12.2012 was alone in her house, as the complainant as well as his wife being the mother of the victim had gone to the field for doing agricultural activity. In the absence of the complainant and his wife, being the mother of the victim, the victim was all alone in the house and at 4:00 P.M, the unlucky day, being 21.2.2012, one Sri Ram Prakash @ Pappu @ Baura Aheer (Yadav) came to the house of the complainant and when he found that the daughter of the complainant being Ms. Chunbadi was all alone, then he committed bad act of rape on account whereof, the blood started oozing out from her private part. When the complainant along with his wife came back after finishing their agricultural activity at 7:00 P.M, then the daughter of the complainant (victim), narrated this entire event. As at that point of time, it was too late and there was no transportation available, so complainant could not rush to the concerned police station for lodging of complaint. Consequently, in the next morning, i.e, on 22.2.2012, the complainant along with his daughter being Ms. Chunbadi (victim) proceeded to the conerned Police Station for the purposes of lodging of the FIR and in the midway, the complainant met SDM, Baberu and the complainant along with his daughter, and wife gave oral information to the Deputy S.P., Baberu. Thereafter, the complaint was lodged on 22.2.2012 by the informant, whch culminated into registration of the FIR on 22.2.2012 alleging commission of offence by the appellant under Section 452 and 376 IPC, being Case Crime no.73 of 2012.

3. One Sri Likhi Ram Singh was nominated to conduct the investigation, who visited the spot prepared the site-plan and also recorded the statement of prosecutrix and witnesses and after completing investigation, submitted charge sheet against the appellant under Sections 452/376 IPC on 13.3.2012. The matter being triable by the court of Sessions, was committed to the Sessions Court.

4. The learned Trial Court framed charges under Sections 452 and 376 IPC, which was read over to the accused. The accused denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

5. Prosecution examined the following witnesses:

1.	Ram Bhawan	P.W.1
2.	Victim	P.W.2
3.	Bittan	P.W.3
4.	Dr. Bhawna Sharma	P.W.4
5.	Dr. P.S. Sagar	P.W.5
6.	Constable Pramod Kumar	P.W.-6
7.	S.I. Likhi Ram	P.W.-7

6. Apart from the aforesaid witnesses, prosecution submitted documentary evidence, which was proved by leading evidence:

1.	Written report	Ext. Ka-1
2.	Recovery Memo of Blood Stained Salwar and Sari Ext.	Ext. Ka-2
3.	Statement under Section 164 of CrPC	Ext. Ka-3
4.	Medical Report prepared by Doctor of District Woman Hospital, Banda	Ext. Ka-4
5.	Supplementary medical report of District Hospital	Ext. Ka-5
6.	X-ray report prepared by the doctor at District Hospital	Ext. Ka-6
7.	G.D. Entry no.12	Ext. Ka-7
8.	FIR	Ext. Ka-8
9.	Letter for medical examination of victim prepared by the Moharrir	Ext. Ka-9
10.	Siteplan	Ext. Ka-10
11.	Charge Sheet	Ext. Ka-11
12.	Forensic Report	Ext. Ka-12

7. Heard Shri Shyam Lal, learned counsel, assisted by Ms. Abhilasha Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, the learned AGA for the State and also perused the record.

8. Perusal of record shows that occurrence took place on 21.2.2012 and the victim was medically examined on 22.2.2012 in the District Women Hospital, Banda. In the medical examination, no mark of injury was found on the body of the victim including private-parts.

Hymen was red and tender and bleeding was slightly present and a perennial lier was present at 6 o'clock position. The supplementary medical report also observed that Vaginal smear examination and vaginal saline shows no spermatozoa, accordingly no definite opinion regarding rape can be given by the doctor.

9. Further perusal of the supplementary report shows that spermatozoa was not present, the age of the victim was found above 8 years and hence in the supplementary report also, it was stated by the doctor that no definite opinion regarding rape can be given.

10. The victim was examined by prosecution as PW-2. In her statement, the victim stated that accused had committed bad-act with her, as she was all alone on the date of occurrence. She further deposed that the accused came at 4:00 P.M, when the informant being her father as well as her mother had gone to the field for agricultural activity and when he found the victim to be all alone, then he committed rape and the said fact was narrated to her parents, when they returned at 7:00 P.M, on the said evening. Record shows that the victim went to P.S. concerned for the purposes of lodging of the FIR with the blood stained salwar and sari. The victim was cross-examined by the defence, in which she has corroborated and narrated the facts, which found place in the FIR alleging that the appellant (accused) had committed bad-act with her and has raped her on 21.2.2012 itself. The statements of PW-1(father) and PW-3 (mother) also supported the case of the victim. PW-4, being Dr. Bhawna Sharma of the District Women Hospital also deposed in her statement that on the basis of the medical report, there was no mark of injury, but the hymen was torn and it was in red colour and there pain was sustained by the victim. So much so, PW-5 being the Dr. P.S. Sagar in his statement deposed on the basis of the x-ray report that there is no fusion in the bones and the age of victim was 8-14 years. Thereafter, the learned Trial Court after considering the arguments as well as the documentary evidence available on record, concluded that the appellant is to be sentenced under Section 452 and 376 of IPC. Learned trial court accords conviction to the accused-appellant under Section 452 IPC and sentenced him with five years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.5000/- and on default, sentence of three months further imprisonment and further under Section 376 IPC sentenced him for imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- and in case of default of payment of fine, to undergo six months further imprisonment for one year.

11. After some arguments, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that he is not pressing this appeal on merits, but he prays for reduction of the sentence as the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh. Learned counsel also submitted that appellant is languishing in jail for the past more than 9 and ½ (since 28.2.2012) years.

12. This case pertains to the offence of 'rape', defined under Section 375 IPC, which is quoted as under:

[375. Rape.- A man is said to commit "rape" if he-

(a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(b) inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(c) manipulates any part of the body of a woman so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of body of such woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

under the circumstances falling under any of the following seven descriptions :-

First.- Against her will.*

Secondly.- Without her consent.*

Thirdly.- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested, in fear of death or of hurt.*

Fourthly.- With her consent, when the man knows that he is not her husband and that her consent is given because she believes that he is another man to whom she is or believes herself to be lawfully married.*

Fifthly.- With her consent when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind of intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.*

Sixthly.- With or without her consent, when she is under eighteen years of age.*

Seventhly.- When she is unable to communicate consent.*

Explanation 1.- For the purposes of this section, "vagina" shall also include labia majora.*

Explnation 2.- Consent means an unequivocal voluntary agreement when the woman by words, gestures or any form of verbal or non-verbal communication, communicates willingness to participate in the specific sexual act.*

Provided that a woman who does not physically resist to the act of penetration shall not by the reason only of that fact, be regarded as consenting to the sexual activity.

Excpetion 2.- Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.]*

13. Once, the appellant is not pressing the appeal on merits and rather accepting the factum of commission of the offence under Section 452 read with Section 376 of IPC, then the scope of the present appeal gets narrowed down to the question of the quantum of punishment. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, reported in AIR 1977 SC 1926 had in paragraphs-16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 has observed as under: -

"16. The new Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 incorporates some of these ideas and gives an opportunity in s. 248(2) to both parties to bring to the notice of the court facts and circumstances which win help personalize the sentence from a reformative angle. This Court, in Santa Singh (1976) 4 SCC 190, has emphasized how fundamental it is to put such provision to dynamic judicial use, while dealing with the analogous provisions in s. 235(2) "This new provision in s. 235(2) is in consonance with the modern trends in penology and sentencing procedures. There was no such provision in the old Code,. It 'was realised that sentencing is an important stage in the process of administration of criminal justice- as important as the adjudication of guilt-and it should not be con-signed to a Subsidiary position as if it were a matter of not much consequence. It should be a matter of some anxiety to the court to impose an appropriate punishment on the criminal and sentencing should, therefore, receive serious attention of the Court. (p. 194.).

Modern penology regards crime and criminal as equally material when the right sentence has to be picked out. It turns the focus not only on the crime, but also on the criminal and seeks to personalise the punishment so that the reformist component is as much operative as the deterrent element. It is necessary for this purpose that facts of a social and personal nature, sometimes altogether irrelevant if not injurious, at the stage of fixing the guilt, may have to be brought to the notice of the court when the actual sen- tence is determined. (p. 195).

A proper sentence is the amalgam of many factors such as the nature of the offence, the circumstances extenuating or aggravating-of the offence, the prior criminal record, if any, of the offender, the age of the offender, the record of the offender as to employment, the background of the offender with reference to education, home life, sobriety and social adjustment, the emotional and mental condition of the offender, the prospects for the rehabilitation of the offender, the possibility of return of the offender to normal life in the community, the possibility of treatment or training of the offender, the possibility that the sentence may serve as a deterrent to crime by the offender or by others and the current community need, if any, for such a deterrent in respect to the particular type of offence. These factors have to be taken into account by the Court in deciding upon the appropriate sentence. (p.

The hearing contemplated by section 235(2) is not confined merely to hearing oral submissions, but it is also intended to give an opportunity to the prosecution and the ac- cused to place before the court facts and material relating to various factors' bearing on the question of sentence and if they are contested by other side, then to produce evidence for the purpose of establishing the same. Of course, care would have to be taken by the court to see that this hearing on the question of sentence is not abused and turned into an instrument for unduly protracting the proceedings. The claim of due and proper hearing would have to be harmonised with the requirement of expeditious disposal of proceedings." (p. 196).

17. It will thus be seen that there is a great discretion vested in the Judge, especially when pluralistic factors , enter his calculations Even so, the judge must exercise this discretionary power, drawing his inspiration from the humanitarian spirit of the law, and living down the traditional precedents which have winked at the personality of the crime doer and been swept away by the features of the crime. What is dated has to be discarded. What is current has to, be incorporated. Therefore innovation, in all conscience, is in the field of judicial discretion.

18. Unfortunately, the Indian Penal Code still lingers in the somewhat compartmentalised system of punishment viz. imprisonment simple or rigorous, fine and, of course, capital sentence. There is a wide range of choice and flexible treatment which must be available with the judge if he is to fulfil his tryst with cruing the criminal in a hospital setting. Maybe in an appropriate case actual hospital treatment may have to be prescribed as part of the sentence. In another case, liberal parole may have to be suggested and, yet in a third category, engaging in certain types of occupation or even going through meditational drills or other courses may be part of the sentencing prescription. The perspective having changed, the legal strategies and judicial resources, in their variety, also have to change. Rule of thumb sentences of rigorous imprisonment or other are too insensitive to the highly delicate and subtle operation expected of a sentencing judge. Release on probation, conditional sentences, visits to healing centres, are all on the cards. We do not wish to be exhaustive. Indeed, we cannot be.

19. Sentencing justice is a facet of social justice, even as redemption of a crime-doer is an aspect of restoration of a whole personality. Till the new Code recognised statutorily that punishment required considerations beyond the nature of the crime and circumstances surrounding the crime and provided a second stage for bringing in such additional materials, the Indian courts had, by and large, assigned an obsolescent backseat to the sophisticated judgment on sentencing. Now this judicial skill has to come of age.

20. The sentencing stance of the court has been outlined by us and the next question is what 'hospitalization' techniques will best serve and sentencee, having due regard to his just deserts, blending a feeling for a man behind the crime, defence of society by a deterrent component and a scientific therapeutic attitude at once correctional and realistic. The available resources for achieving these ends within the prison campus also has to be considered in this context. Noticing the scant regard paid by the courts below to the soul of S. 248 (2) of the Code and compelled to gather information having sentencing relevancy, we permitted counsel on both sides in the present appeal to file affidavits and other materials to help the Court make a judicious choice of the appropriate 'penal' treatment. Both sides have filed affidavits which disclose some facts pertinent to the project. "

14. In the case of Deo Narain Mandal vs. State of UP reported in (2004) 7 SCC 257, in paragraphs-11 and 12, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under: -

"11. To find out whether the period already undergone by the appellant would be sufficient for reducing the sentence we had called upon the learned counsel appearing for the State to give us the necessary information and from the list of dates provided by the State, we notice that the appellant was arrested on 12th of January, 1983 and was granted bail on 14th of January, 1983 by the Trial Court which shows he was in custody for two days that too as an under trial prisoner. Trial Court sentenced the appellant on 31st of May, 1988 and the High Court released the appellant on the 8th of July, 1988. It is not clear from the list of date when exactly the appellant surrendered to his bail after the judgment of the Trial Court. Presuming the fact in favour of the appellant that he was taken into custody on the date of the judgment i.e. 31st of May, 1988 itself. Since he was released on bail by the High Court of 8th of July, 1988, he would have been custody as a convict for 38 days which together with the two days spent as an under trial, would take the period of custody to 40 days. On facts and circumstances of this case, we must hold that sentence of 40 days for an offence punishable under Section 365/511 read with Section 149 is wholly inadequate and disproportionate.

12. For the reasons stated above, we are of the opinion that the judgment of the High Court, so far as it pertains to the reduction of sentence awarded by the Trial Court will have to be set aside."

15. In the case of Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraphs- 14, 15 and 16 held as under:

"14. The general policy which the courts have followed with regard to sentencing is that the punishment must be appropriate and proportional to the gravity of the offence committed. Imposition of appropriate punishment is the manner in which the Courts respond to the society's cry for justice against the criminals. Justice demands that Courts should impose punishment befitting the crime so that the Courts reflect public abhorrence of the crime.

15. In operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. By deft modulation, sentencing process be stern where it should be, and tempered with mercy where it warrants to be. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration.

16. It was the duty of every Court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing Courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence."

16. In the case of Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed in paragraphs- 30 to 34 has held as under: -

"30. From the aforesaid authorities, it is luminous that this Court has expressed its concern on imposition of adequate sentence in respect of commission of offences regard being had to the nature of the offence and demand of the conscience of the society. That apart, the concern has been to impose adequate sentence for the offence punishable under Section 304-A of the IPC. It is worthy to note that in certain circumstances, the mitigating factors have been taken into consideration but the said aspect is dependent on the facts of each case. As the trend of authorities would show, the proficiency in professional driving is emphasized upon and deviation therefrom that results in rash and negligent driving and causes accident has been condemned. In a motor accident, when a number of people sustain injuries and a death occurs, it creates a stir in the society; sense of fear prevails all around. The negligence of one shatters the tranquility of the collective. When such an accident occurs, it has the effect potentiality of making victims in many a layer and creating a concavity in the social fabric. The agony and anguish of the affected persons, both direct and vicarious, can have nightmarish effect. It has its impact on the society and the impact is felt more when accidents take place quite often because of rash driving by drunken, negligent or, for that matter, adventurous drivers who have, in a way, no concern for others. Be it noted, grant of compensation under the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 is in a different sphere altogether. Grant of compensation under Section 357(3) with a direction that the same should be paid to the person who has suffered any loss or injury by reason of the act for which the accused has been sentenced has a different contour and the same is not to be regarded as a substitute in all circumstances for adequate sentence.

31. Recently, this Court in Rattiram & Ors. v. State of M.P. Through Inspector of Police, (2012) 4 SCC 516 , though in a different context, has stated that:

"64. ... The criminal jurisprudence, with the passage of time, has laid emphasis on victimology which fundamentally is a perception of a trial from the view point of the criminal as well as the victim. Both are viewed in the social context. The view of the victim is given due regard and respect in certain countries... It is the duty of the court to see that the victim's right is protected."

32. We may note with profit that an appropriate punishment works as an eye-opener for the persons who are not careful while driving vehicles on the road and exhibit a careless attitude possibly harbouring the notion that they would be shown indulgence or lives of others are like "flies to the wanton boys". They totally forget that the lives of many are in their hands, and the sublimity of safety of a human being is given an indecent burial by their rash and negligent act.

33. There can hardly be any cavil that there has to be a proportion between the crime and the punishment. It is the duty of the court to see that appropriate sentence is imposed regard being had to the commission of the crime and its impact on the social order. The cry of the collective for justice which includes adequate punishment cannot be lightly ignored. In Siriya alias Shri Lal v. State of M.P. (2008) 8 SCC 72, it has been held as follows: (SCC pp.75-76, para 13)

"13. "7. ... Protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which must be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence. Therefore, law as a cornerstone of the edifice of "order" should meet the challenges confronting the society. Friedman in his Law in Changing Society stated that: "State of criminal law continues to be - as it should be - a decisive reflection of social consciousness of society". Therefore, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or the deterrence based on factual matrix. By deft modulation sentencing process be stern where it should be, and tempered with mercy where it warrants to be.' * "

34. In view of the aforesaid, we have to weigh whether the submission advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant as regards the mitigating factors deserves acceptance. Compassion is being sought on the ground of young age and mercy is being invoked on the foundation of solemnization of marriage. The date of occurrence is in the month of March, 2006. The scars on the collective cannot be said to have been forgotten. Weighing the individual difficulty as against the social order, collective conscience and the duty of the Court, we are disposed to think that the substantive sentence affirmed by the High Court does not warrant any interference and, accordingly, we concur with the same."

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323, in paragraphs- 36 and 37 held as under:-

" 36. Having discussed about the discretion, presently we shall advert to the duty of the court in the exercise of power while imposing sentence for an offence. It is the duty of the court to impose adequate sentence, for one of the purposes of imposition of requisite sentence is protection of the society and a legitimate response to the collective conscience. The paramount principle that should be the guiding laser beam is that the punishment should be proportionate. It is the answer of law to the social conscience. In a way, it is an obligation to the society which has reposed faith in the court of law to curtail the evil. While imposing the sentence it is the Court's accountability to remind itself about its role and the reverence for rule of law. It must evince the rationalized judicial discretion and not an individual perception or a moral propensity. But, if in the ultimate eventuate the proper sentence is not awarded, the fundamental grammar of sentencing is guillotined. Law cannot tolerate it; society does not withstand it; and sanctity of conscience abhors it. The old saying "the law can hunt one's past" cannot be allowed to be buried in an indecent manner and the rainbow of mercy, for no fathomable reason, should be allowed to rule. True it is, it has its own room, but, in all circumstances, it cannot be allowed to occupy the whole accommodation. The victim, in this case, still cries for justice. We do not think that increase in fine amount or grant of compensation under the Code would be a justified answer in law. Money cannot be the oasis. It cannot assume the centre stage for all redemption. Interference in manifestly inadequate and unduly lenient sentence is the justifiable warrant, for the Court cannot close its eyes to the agony and anguish of the victim and, eventually, to the cry of the society. Therefore, striking the balance we are disposed to think that the cause of justice would be best subserved if the respondent is sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment of two years apart from the fine that has been imposed by the learned trial judge.

37. Before parting with the case we are obliged, nay, painfully constrained to state that it has come to the notice of this Court that in certain heinous crimes or crimes committed in a brutal manner the High Courts in exercise of the appellate jurisdiction have imposed extremely lenient sentences which shock the conscience. It should not be so. It should be borne in mind what Cicero had said centuries ago: -

"it can truly be said that the magistrate is a speaking law, and the law a silent magistrate."

18. Further in the case of State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs-16 to 18 had observed as under: -

"16. We again reiterate in this case that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence. The court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment. Meagre sentence imposed solely on account of lapse of time without considering the degree of the offence will be counter-productive in the long run and against the interest of the society.

17. Recently, in the cases of State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Bablu, (2014) 9 SCC 281 and State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Surendra Singh, 2014 (12) SCALE 672, after considering and following the earlier decisions, this Court reiterated the settled proposition of law that one of the prime objectives of criminal law is the imposition of adequate, just, proportionate punishment which commensurate with gravity, nature of crime and the manner in which the offence is committed. One should keep in mind the social interest and conscience of the society while considering the determinative factor of sentence with gravity of crime. The punishment should not be so lenient that it shocks the conscience of the society. It is, therefore, solemn duty of the court to strike a proper balance while awarding the sentence as awarding lesser sentence encourages any criminal and, as a result of the same, the society suffers.

18. Perusal of the impugned order passed by the High Court would show that while reducing the sentence to the period already undergone, the High Court has not considered the law time and again laid down by this Court. Hence the impugned order passed by the High Court is set aside and the matter is remanded back to the High Court to pass a fresh order in the revision petition taking into consideration the law discussed hereinabove after giving an opportunity of hearing to the parties. The appeal is accordingly allowed with the aforesaid direction."

19. In the case of Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph-16 held as under:-

"A Court, while imposing sentence, has a duty to respond to the collective cry of the society. The legislature in its wisdom has conferred discretion on the Court but the duty of the court in such a situation becomes more difficult and complex. It has to exercise the discretion on reasonable and rational parameters. The discretion cannot be allowed to yield to fancy or notion. A Judge has to keep in mind the paramount concept of rule of law and the conscience of the collective and balance it with the principle of proportionality but when the discretion is exercised in a capricious manner, it tantamounts to relinquishment of duty and reckless abandonment of responsibility. One cannot remain a total alien to the demand of the socio-cultural milieu regard being had to the command of law and also brush aside the agony of the victim or the survivors of the victim. Society waits with patience to see that justice is done. There is a hope on the part of the society and when the criminal culpability is established and the discretion is irrationally exercised by the court, the said hope is shattered and the patience is wrecked. It is the duty of the court not to exercise the discretion in such a manner as a consequence of which the expectation inherent in patience, which is the "finest part of fortitude" is destroyed. A Judge should never feel that the individuals who constitute the society as a whole is imperceptible to the exercise of discretion. He should always bear in mind that erroneous and fallacious exercise of discretion is perceived by a visible collective."

20. Following the consistent view of the Hon'ble Apex Court with regard to proportionality of a punishment in Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, it was held as under: -

"15. In Shyam Narain v. State (NCT of Delhi) (2013) 7 SCC77: (AIR 2013 SC 2209), it has been ruled that primarily it is to be borne in mind that sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realise that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in the life of the victim but also a concavity in the social fabric. The purpose of just punishment is designed so that the individuals in the society which ultimately constitute the collective do not suffer time and again for such crimes. It serves as a deterrent. The Court further observed that on certain occasions, opportunities may be granted to the convict for reforming himself but it is equally true that the principle of proportionality between an offence committed and the penalty imposed are to be kept in view. It has to be borne in mind that while carrying out this complex exercise, it is obligatory on the part of the court to see the impact of the offence on the society as a whole and its ramifications on the immediate collective as well as its repercussions on the victim.

16. In State of Madhya Pradesh v. Najab Khan and others, (2013) 9 SCC 509: (AIR 2013 SC 2997), the High Court of Madhya Pradesh, while maintaining the conviction under Section 326 IPC read with Section 34 IPC, had reduced the sentence to the period already undergone, i.e., 14 days. The two-Judge Bench referred to the authorities in Shailesh Jasvantbhai v. State of Gujarat, (2006) 2 SCC 359: (2006 AIR SCW 436), Ahmed Hussain Vali Mohammed Saiyed v. State of Gujarat, (2009) 7 SCC 254: (AIR 2010 SC (Supp) 846), Jameel v. State of Uttar Pradesh*(2010)* 12 SCC 532: (AIR 2010 SC (Supp) 303), and Guru Basavaraj v. State of Karnataka, (2012) 8 SCC 734 : (2012 AIR SCW 4822) and held thus:- "In operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice dispensation system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The courts must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment." In the said case, the Court ultimately set aside the sentence imposed by the High Court and restored that of the trial Judge, whereby he had convicted the accused to suffer rigorous imprisonment for three years.

17. In Sumer Singh v. Surajbhan Singh & others, (2014) 7 SCC 323: (AIR 2014 SC 2840), while elaborating on the duty of the Court while imposing sentence for an offence, it has been ruled that it is the duty of the court to impose adequate sentence, for one of the purposes of imposition of requisite sentence is protection of the society and a legitimate response to the collective conscience. The paramount principle that should be the guiding laser beam is that the punishment should be proportionate. It is the answer of law to the social conscience. In a way, it is an obligation to the society which has reposed faith in the court of law to curtail the evil. While imposing the sentence it is the court's accountability to remind itself about its role and the reverence for the rule of law. It must evince the rationalised judicial discretion and not an individual perception or a moral propensity. The Court further held that if in the ultimate eventuate the proper sentence is not awarded, the fundamental grammar of sentencing is guillotined and law does not tolerate it; society does not withstand it; and sanctity of conscience abhors it. It was observed that the old saying "the law can hunt one's past" cannot be allowed to be buried in an indecent manner and the rainbow of mercy, for no fathomable reason, should be allowed to rule. The conception of mercy has its own space but it cannot occupy the whole accommodation. While dealing with grant of further compensation in lieu of sentence, the Court ruled:-

"We do not think that increase in fine amount or grant of compensation under the Code would be a justified answer in law. Money cannot be the oasis. It cannot assume the centre stage for all redemption. Interference in manifestly inadequate and unduly lenient sentence is the justifiable warrant, for the Court cannot close its eyes to the agony and anguish of the victim and, eventually, to the cry of the society."

18. In State of Punjab v. Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441: *(AIR 2015 SC (Supp) 731), t*his Court, after referring to the decisions in State of Madhya Pradesh v. Bablu, (2014) 9 SCC 281 : (AIR 2015 SC 102) and State of Madhya Pradesh v. Surendra Singh, (2015) 1 SCC 222: (AIR 2015 SC 298), reiterated the settled proposition of law that one of the prime objectives of criminal law is the imposition of adequate, just, proportionate punishment which is commensurate with the nature of crime regard being had to the manner in which the offence is committed. It has been further held that one should keep in mind the social interest and conscience of the society while considering the determinative factor of sentence with gravity of crime. The punishment should not be so lenient that it would shock the conscience of the society. Emphasis was laid on the solemn duty of the court to strike a proper balance while awarding the sentence as imposition of lesser sentence encourages a criminal and resultantly the society suffers.

19. Recently, in Raj Bala v. State of Haryana and others, (2016) 1 SCC 463: (AIR 2015 SC 3142), on reduction of sentence by the High Court to the period already undergone, the Court ruled thus:-

"Despite authorities existing and governing the field, it has come to the notice of this Court that sometimes the court of first instance as well as the appellate court which includes the High Court, either on individual notion or misplaced sympathy or personal perception seems to have been carried away by passion of mercy, being totally oblivious of lawful obligation to the collective as mandated by law and forgetting the oft quoted saying of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, "Justice, though due to the accused, is due to the accuser too" and follow an extremely liberal sentencing policy which has neither legal permissibility nor social acceptability." And again:-

"A Judge has to keep in mind the paramount concept of rule of law and the conscience of the collective and balance it with the principle of proportionality but when the discretion is exercised in a capricious manner, it tantamounts to relinquishment of duty and reckless abandonment of responsibility. One cannot remain a total alien to the demand of the socio-cultural milieu regard being had to the command of law and also brush aside the agony of the victim or the survivors of the victim. Society waits with patience to see that justice is done. There is a hope on the part of the society and when the criminal culpability is established and the discretion is irrationally exercised by the court, the said hope is shattered and the patience is wrecked."

20. Though we have referred to the decisions covering a period of almost three decades, it does not necessarily convey that there had been no deliberation much prior to that. There had been. In B.G. Goswami v. Delhi Administration, (1974) 3 SCC 85: (AIR 1973 SC 1457), the Court while delving into the issue of punishment had observed that punishment is designed to protect society by deterring potential offenders as also by preventing the guilty party from repeating the offence; it is also designed to reform the offender and reclaim him as a law abiding citizen for the good of the society as a whole. Reformatory, deterrent and punitive aspects of punishment thus play their due part in judicial thinking while determining the question of awarding appropriate sentence.

21. The purpose of referring to the aforesaid precedents is that they are to be kept in mind and adequately weighed while exercising the discretion pertaining to awarding of sentence. Protection of society on the one hand and the reformation of an individual are the facets to be kept in view. In Shanti Lal Meena v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2015) 6 SCC 185: AIR 2015 SC 2678), the Court has held that as far as punishment for offence under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 is concerned, there is no serious scope for reforming the convicted public servant. Therefore, it shall depend upon the nature of crime, the manner in which it is committed, the propensity shown and the brutality reflected. The case at hand is an example of uncivilized and heartless crime committed by the respondent No. 2. It is completely unacceptable that concept of leniency can be conceived of in such a crime. A crime of this nature does not deserve any kind of clemency. It is individually as well as collectively intolerable. The respondent No. 2 might have felt that his ego had been hurt by such a denial to the proposal or he might have suffered a sense of hollowness to his exaggerated sense of honour or might have been guided by the idea that revenge is the sweetest thing that one can be wedded to when there is no response to the unrequited love but, whatever may be the situation, the criminal act, by no stretch of imagination, deserves any leniency or mercy. The respondent No. 2 might not have suffered emotional distress by the denial, yet the said feeling could not to be converted into vengeance to have the licence to act in a manner like he has done."

21. Recently in the matter of Manoj Mishra @ Chhotkau vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, Criminal Appeal No. 1167 of 2021, decided on 8.10.2021, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs- 16 and 17 has held as under: -

"16. On arriving at the conclusion that the appellant is liable to be convicted under Section 376 IPC and not under Section 376 D IPC, the appropriate sentence to be imposed needs consideration. The incident in question is based on the complaint dated 09.08.2013. In this circumstance, though it is noted that Section 376 has been amended w.e.f. 21.04.2018 providing for the minimum sentence of 10 years, the case on hand is of 2013 and the conviction of the appellant was on 20.05.2015. The incident having occurred prior to amendment, the preamended provision will have to be taken note. The same provides that a person committed of rape shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life and shall also be liable to fine. In the instant case, taking into consideration all facts including that no material is available on record to indicate that the appellant has any criminal antecedents and that he is also a father of five children and the eldest son is more than 18 years, it appears that there is no reason to apprehend that the appellant would indulgence similar acts in future. In that circumstance, we deem it appropriate that the sentence of 7 years would have been sufficient deterrent to serve the ends of justice. From the custody certificate dated 05.12.2017 issued by the Jail Superintendent, District Jail, Bahraich, it is noticed that the appellant has been in custody from 20.09.2013. If that be the position, he has been in custody and served the sentence for more than 8 years which shall be his period of sentence. As such he has served the sentence imposed by us except payment of fine. The fine and default sentence as imposed by the trial court is maintained.

17. In the result we make the following order:

(i) The conviction and sentence under Section 363, 366, and Section 4 of POCSO Act is confirmed.

The conviction under Section 506 IPC is set aside.

(ii) The conviction order made by the trial court and confirmed by the High Court under Section 376 D IPC is modified. The appellant is instead convicted under Section 376 IPC and is sentenced, for the period undergone. The fine and default sentence as imposed by the trial court shall remain unaltered.

(iii) Since the custody certificate dated 20.09.2013 indicates that the appellant has undergone sentence for more than 8 years, the appellant is ordered to be released on payment of fine as all the sentences have run concurrently and if he is not required to be detained in any other case.

(iv) The appeal is accordingly allowed in part.

(v) Pending application, if any, shall stand disposed of."

22. In view of the legal proposition, so culled out from the aforesaid judgments, the facts and the given circumstances of each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. Needless to point out that it is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The Apex Court has gone even to the extent that the courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. Moreover, the judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers.

23. Generally speaking, law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

24. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

25. Since the learned counsel for the appellant has not pressed the appeal on its merit, however, after perusal of entire evidence on record and judgment of the trial court, we consider that the appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed. Hence, the conviction of the appellant is upheld.

26. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

27. Learned AGA also admitted the fact that appellant is languishing in jail for the last more than 9 years and 9 months. Since, the appellant has already served about 9 years and 9 months in jail, ends of justice will be met if sentence is reduced to the period already undergone.

28. Hence, the sentence awarded to the appellant by the learned trial-court is modified as period already undergone and the fine of Rs.5,000/- and Rs.10,000/- imposed upon the appellant is reduced to Rs.500/- and Rs.1000/- respectively. In case of default of fine, the appellant shall undergo additional simple imprisonment of one month.

29. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed with the modification of the sentence, as above.

3. Baldev Singh Vs St. of Pun. [2009 (1) JIC 120 (SC)]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal has been preferred by the appellant-Akhalesh Pal against the judgment and order passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Jhansi, dated 30.10.2018 in S.T. No. 65 of 2016 (State v. Akhilesh Pal and others) arising out of Case Crime No.272/2015 under Section 498-A, 304-B, 302 IPC and under Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (herein after referred to as 'DP Act, 1961') Police Station-Garotha, District-Jhansi, by which the appellant was convicted under Section 498-A, 304-B IPC and Section 4 of DP Act, 1961, and sentenced only under Section 304-B IPC for 7 years and under Section 4 of DP Act, 1961, for 6 months along with fine of Rs.1,000/-

2. Brief facts of the case are that the complainant-Thakur Das Pal submitted a report in Kotwali Garotha on 11.12.2015 with the averments that his daughter-Kaushal was married to Akhilesh Pal S/o Kallu Pal R/o Village-Khadaura, PS-Garotha, before 4 years. He had given dowry worth Rs.2 lakhs in the marriage, but his daughter's husband, namely, Akhilesh Pal (appellant), Father-in-law-Kallu Pal, Mother-in-law - Smt Valku and Nanad -Smt Urmila were not satisfied. They started demanding Rs.1,00,000/- as additional dowry and started torturing and beating her for non-fulfillment of above demand. In the morning of 11.12.2015, complainant came to know that all above mentioned persons have killed his daughter for non-fulfillment of demand of additional dowry.

3. On this report the Case Crime No. 272 of 2015 was registered against the aforesaid persons and after investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against Akhilesh Pal, Kallu and Smt. Balku under Section 498-A, 304-B and Section ¾ DP Act, 1961. After completion of trial, learned trial court acquitted Kallu and Smt. Balku of all charges levelled against them and convicted Akhilesh Pal and sentenced him as aforesaid. Hence, this Appeal.

4. Heard Sri Jai Singh Parihar, learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA for the State.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant, first of all, submitted that prosecution could not prove when the marriage of deceased took place because no date of marriage is given in First Information Report and prosecution witnesses also did not tell the date of marriage. It is written in the FIR that marriage was solemnized before 4 years but no date is given. It is also submitted that no marriage invitation card is produced by complainant rather a 'letter of thanks' was submitted which is only a photostat copy and not the original. Hence, photostat copy is not permissible in evidence. It is next submitted by learned counsel that as per the FIR, one Pappu had informed the first informant regarding the death of his daughter-Kaushal. The complainant (PW1) has said that Pappu, resident of his village, told him that his daughter has been hanged. PW 3 is mother of the deceased. She has also stated in his statement that Pappu Mishra has informed them regarding the death of the deceased, but this Pappu is not at all produced by the prosecution in evidence.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant argued emphatically that prosecution has not produced any evidence regarding the fact that 'soon before her death' she was subjected to cruelty or harassment in connection with demand of dowry. PW1 is the father of the deceased and PW3 is the mother of the deceased. Only these two witnesses of fact are produced, but none of them has uttered even a single word regarding the fact that soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that it was a case of hanging. The deceased committed suicide by hanging herself. The reason behind the suicide was that deceased was having ailment regarding 'periods', and she was 'issue-less'. Appellant, the husband of the deceased, undertook the treatment of deceased. She was treated by Dr.Manju and Dr.Manju has been produced by defence as DW1. She has stated in her statement that deceased was issue-less and she had treated her. Deceased used to come with her husband-Akhalesh Pal for her treatment. The doctor in her statement has proved the medical papers of treatment. Hence, the appellant has proved the fact that deceased was issue-less and appellant kept her under treatment. Learned counsel also submitted that Beni (DW2) is produced by defence. She has stated in her statement that at the time of occurrence, the door of the room in which the deceased committed suicide, was locked from inside and people, gathered there, had broken the door. Dr.Udal Srivas conducted the postmortem of the deceased. He has also stated in his statement that there was no antemortem injury on the body of the deceased and it was possible that she had hanged herself. Learned counsel argued that there is ample evidence on record that the deceased committed suicide for being issue-less and appellant is not at all responsible for her death. It is also submitted that first information report of this case was registered by the police on mounting pressure created by Smt.Uma Bharti (the then Member of Parliament). This fact is admitted by complainant (PW1) in his statement before learned trial court. Hence, appellant is wrongly convicted and appeal be allowed.

8. Learned AGA, per contra, argued that this fact is not disputed that deceased died within seven years of her marriage. In the FIR itself, the complainant, who is father of the deceased has clearly stated that the marriage of his daughter-Kaushal was solemnized before four years. Learned AGA submitted that it is not necessary to show the exact date of marriage. It is sufficient if the complainant is stating that marriage was solemnized before four years because complainant is the father of the deceased and he is the best person to tell this fact. Apart from it, letter of thanks, which is given after marriage, is produced before trial court and is proved as Ex.ka2. Date of marriage is written in that letter as 30.4.2012.

9. Learned AGA also aruged that there was consistent demand of Rs.1 lakh as additional dowry from deceased and her parents and prosecution witnesses (PW1 and PW3), both have stated in their statements that appellant and his family members used to demand Rs.1 lakh as additional dowry and for not meeting out the demand, the deceased was tortured and harassed by them. Learned AGA also submitted that in postmortem report, there is antemortem injury on the 'index-finger' of the deceased. Therefore, learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant. Hence, appeal be dismissed.

10. First of all, appellant has disputed the fact that the death of the deceased took place within or beyond seven years of her marriage. In this regard, appellant has submitted that no date of marriage is mentioned in the FIR nor any 'invitation-card' of marriage is produced. Yet, I am not convinced with this argument of counsel for the appellant because in FIR itself, the complainant, who is the father of the deceased has specifically stated that the marriage of his daughter was solemnized with appellant before four years from the date of lodging the FIR. Complainant is produced as PW1 before trial court approximately after one and half years of lodging the FIR and in his statement, he has stated that marriage was solemnized before five years. It also coincides with the fact that the marriage took place before four years of lodging the FIR. It is pertinent to mention that the appellant was the husband of the deceased and if he is disputing the fact of date of marriage, he could tell some date of marriage in rebuttal, but no date or year of the marriage is told by appellant because the factum of marriage was also in the knowledge of the appellant and if marriage was not solemnized within seven years of death of the deceased, it was incumbent upon the appellant to show any other date of marriage, but nothing is done, therefore, considering the evidence on this point in its entirety, prosecution has proved that deceased died within seven years of her marriage. As far as the question of non-production of Pappu, who informed the complainant about the death of his daughter is concerned, it does not make any difference because it is not important, who informed the complainant and informer is not produced in evidence because charge-sheet was submitted by the Investigating Officer after investigation and trial court after considering the evidence on record, convicted him. It is the case of demand of dowry and harassment in pursuance thereof. Pappu was not the person to prove the demand of additional dowry and harassment, so if he is not produced in evidence, it does not affect the prosecution case adversely.

11. Learned AGA has submitted that in postmortem report, there was antemortem injury on the 'index-finger' of the deceased, but this injury is only an abrasion for which the doctor, while conducting the postmortem, has opined that this injury could not inflicted in taking the body on the floor. From postmortem report and the statement of the doctor (PW5), it is proved that it was a case of hanging.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant pressed the argument that there is no evidence on the point that soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment in connection with demand of dowry and in absence of this evidence, the death of the deceased cannot be deemed as dowry-death and no presumption in this regard can be raised by the court. This argument of appellant is legally correct. It is relevant to quote the provisions of Section 304-B IPC, which reads as under:

"Section 304B in The Indian Penal Code -(1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life."

13. Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act is also relevant for the case in hand, which reads as under:

"Section 113B in The Indian Evidence Act, 1872-Presumption as to dowry death.--When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death. Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in section 304B, of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860)."

14. The essential ingredients which need to be proved in order to attract the offence of dowry-death are as follows:

i) death is caused in unnatural circumstances

ii) death must have been occurred within seven years of the marriage of the deceased

iii) it needs to be shown that soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for or in connection with any demand for dowry.

Coming to the first ingredient, the postmortem report suggests that the body of the deceased was bearing the mark of hanging. There was ligature mark on the neck of the deceased measuring 25 cm. x 1.2 cm. Hence, there is no doubt that the death was an unnatural death. The second ingredient is also proved as discussed above that the death of the deceased took place within seven years of her marriage. To prove the third ingredient, this Court needs to peruse the testimony of the witnesses. In this regard, the prosecution has produced father and mother of the deceased as PW1 and PW3 respectively. There is not even a single word in the testimony of PW1 and PW3 as to when soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand of dowry. There is no iota of evidence on this point in the statements of PW1 and PW3. Rather PW3, the mother of the deceased, has stated in her examination-in-chief that her daughter remained in her parental home for about one year. After that she had gone to her matrimonial home with her husband-Akhalesh Pal and Raju and after that she remained in her matrimonial home for nine months, but PW1 has not stated at all that during that period of nine months, deceased was ever subjected to cruelty or harassment regarding demand of dowry. So, both the relevant witnesses, namely, PW1 and PW3 have not uttered even a single word regarding third ingredient of harassment or cruelty soon before her death in connection with demand of dowry.

15. Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act raises a presumption against accused regarding the death. A perusal of Section 113-B of the Act shows that there must be material to show that soon before her death of a woman, she was subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand of dowry, then only a presumption can be drawn that a person has committed the dowry-death of a women. It is then up to the appellant to discharge this presumption.

16. Learned trial court has not considered the ingredient regarding cruelty or harassment of the deceased soon before her death. Learned trial court has observed that on the basis of evidence on record, it is told by witnesses that it was marriage in the year 2012 and Rs.1 lakh as additional dowry was demanded. If evidence is considered believable to this extent then the offence is proved only against the appellant-husband and the appellant held guilty by the trial court. Trial court has reached to the conclusion of committing dowry-death of the deceased by her husband-Akhalesh Pal without having any evidence on record as to when she was soon before her death subjected to cruelty or harassment in connection with demand of dowry. The evidence on this point is absolutely silent. Hence, no presumption of Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act could be raised nor the death of the deceased could be considered as dowry-death as provided under Section 304-B IPC. Learned trial court wrongly appreciated the evidence in this regard.

17. Hon'ble Apex Court in Baljinder Kaur vs. State of Punjab, [2015 (1) JIC 71 (SC)] has held that there must be proximate and live link between the effect of cruelty based on demand of dowry and the death of the victim. It is also said by the Hon'ble Apex Court that "soon before death" is a relative term and no straight jacket formula can be laid down fixing any time limit. The determination of the period, which can come within the term "soon before death" is left to be determined by the courts depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case.

18. The same view was expressed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kamesh Panjiyar @ Kamlesh Panjiyar vs. State of Bihar [(2015) 2 SCC 388] and Baldev Singh vs. State of Punjab [2009 (1) JIC 120 (SC)].

19. In the present case, it is most relevant to highlight that the trial court did not give any finding on the point of "soon before death" as discussed above. Not even a single word is found in evidence of PW1 and PW3 in this regard and not even a single word is written by the trial court on above point yet trial court reached to the conclusion that appellant has committed dowry-death. No reason is disclosed by trial court as to how it framed its opinion regarding dowry-death more especially when the factum of cruelty or harassment to the deceased soon before her death is not established at all and evidence in this regard is absolutely missing.

20. Hence, trial court has not appreciated the evidence on right perspective and has given perverse finding.

21. With above discussion, I am of the considered view that offence under Section 304-B IPC is not proved against the appellant, but on the basis of evidence on record, the offences under Section 498-A IPC and Section 4 of the DP Act, 1961, are proved. Learned trial court has not passed any sentence under Section 498-A IPC due to the reason given by the trial court that no separate sentence will be passed under Section 498-A IPC when sentence is being passed under Section 304-B IPC. But, now since appellant is not found guilty for the offence under Section 304-B IPC, it is necessary to pass sentence for the offence under Section 498-A IPC. Consequently, the appellant is awarded sentence under Section 498-A IPC for three years and Rs.5,000/- as fine. The appellant shall undergo three months imprisonment in default of fine. The sentence passed by trial court under Section 4 of DP Act, 1961, needs no interference.

22. The conviction and sentence of appellant under Section 304-B IPC is hereby set aside and appeal is liable to be partly allowed.

23. The appeal is partly allowed in aforesaid terms.

24. The copy of this judgment and lower court record be transmitted to trial court for ensuring compliance. If the appellant has already undergone the modified sentence and is not wanted in any other case, he shall be released, forthwith.

B. Facts and Evidence

2. The case of the prosecution, as unfolds from the FIR dated 17.02.1999 arising out of Case Crime No. 50/99 under Sections 302, 307, 396 IPC, P.S. Bangarmau District Unnao, is that the informant Anand Mohan son of Ram Shanker Gaur gave an application in the Police Station Bangarmau on 17.02.1999 that his uncle Ram Naresh Gaur son of Sri Pal and uncle's son Anil Kumar son of Ram Naresh were killed by the appellants and Sanad Kumar son of Ram Swaroop, Avnish Kumar son of Ram Avatar and Parsu son of Pohkar Pasi. On 16.02.1999 appellant Ashwani Kumar and his brothers had intentionally taken their tractor full of potatoes through the fields of informant breaking its Khahee in consequence of which a verbal exchange had taken place between them. On 17.02.1999, while the informant, his father, his uncle Ram Naresh, uncle's son Anil Kumar and daughter Vasundhara Devi were digging potatoes in the field of Ram Naresh, the armed accused tried to repeat the act to which he objected. Ashwini Kumar fired a shot at Ram Naresh which he missed. Ram Naresh also made an air shot with his licensee gun in exercise of right of private defense. The second shot by Ashwani hit Ram Naresh and he fell. Anil Kumar who tried to pick the gun of his father was immediately shot by Rajesh Kumar, Mithlesh Kumar and Atul Kumar. He died on the spot. The accused then attacked the informant and his other family members present, but they fled to save their lives. Ashwani Kumar took away the licensee gun of Ram Naresh with him.

Injured Ram Naresh, informant and Vasundhrara Devi went to police station to lodge an FIR. Ram Naresh died on the way to hospital from ante-mortem injuries.

3. On 18.02.1999 the police arrested the accused persons from Hanuman Mandir before village Vasiyat Kheda. Upon search, a single barrel gun, factory made, gun no.6382 and four live cartridges(12 bore red colour), out of which three were of No.1 and one was of No.2, in the leash kept on shoulder were recovered from the possession of appellant Ashwani Kumar. In furtherance of this recovery, the FIR dated 18.02.1999 arising out of Case Crime No. 51/99 under Section 25 Arms Act, P.S. Bangarmau, District Unnao was registered.

4. The Charge-sheet was filed against the accused under Sections 302,307 and 396 IPC and Section 3/25 Arms Act, 1959. The case was committed to the Session Court, Unnao for trial. The trial court framed charges under Sections 148 and 302/149 against all the 8 accused namely Ram Lakhan, Ashwani Kumar, Mithlesh Kumar, Atul kumar, Sanad Kumar, Awanish Kumar, Rajesh Kumar and Parshuram and under Section 404 IPC against Ashwani Kumar in Sessions Trial No. 216/99 and also under Section 25 Arms Act, 1959 in Sessions Trial No. 217/99.

5. In order to prove its case the prosecution had testified P.W.-1 the informant, P.W-2 Vasundhara Devi, daughter of deceased Ram Naresh and eye witness of the incident, P.W-3 Aakil Husain, Head Constable who prepared the chik and proved Ext.2 FIR, Ext. 3 general diary Ext.4 G.D report no.31, injury report/medical report/majroobi chitthi as Ext.5 and Ext.6 i.e. special report, P.W-4 Jai Singh constable who was posted at police station Bangarmau on the relevant date and took the body of the deceased Anil Kumar for postmortem,P.W-5 S.I Shiv Narain Upadhyaya who proved Ext.7 i.e. panchnama of deceased Anil Kumar, Ext.8 and 11 i.e. cover letter to CMO and letter R.I photographs of dead body, Ext.12 i.e. inspection report of site Ext. 13 i.e. soil samples-plain and blood stained, Ext.14 i.e. blood stained tehmat and Ext.15 i.e. recovered shrapnels(chharre), P.W.6 Dr. Dinesh Kumar who proved the postmortem report of deceased Ram Naresh and Anil Kumar i.e. Ext.16 and 18 respectively, P.W-7 S.I. 6. In his examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C, the appellant Ashwani Kumar had denied the charges against him and alleged that he is being falsely implicated due to political animosity. Other appellants Rajesh Kumar, Atul Kumar, Mithlesh Kumar and co-accused Parshuram, Ram Lakhan and Sanad Kumar took the same instance. Co-accused Avnish Kumar,in his examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C, took a plea of alibi that he was, at the time of incident, studying at Subhash Inter College Bangarmau where he was admitted in Class XI as Avnindra Kumar.

7. Informant Anand Mohan who was examined as P.W.1 reiterated the version of FIR in the Examination- in-Chief. He further stated that his father Ram Shanker, sister (cousin) Vasundhara, Shrawan Kumar, Mashook Ali and others were eyewitnesses to the incident. After the incident he came running to his village and took a tractor to take Ram Naresh to Bangarmau. He identified the Ext.1 as the application written by him on the way upon which the FIR was registered when he reached the police station at 15.00/ 15.15 hrs. He missed the name of Ram Lakhan in haste and anxiety. Injured Ram Naresh was sent to hospital from police stationa. Later, he got to know that his uncle died on the way to Unnao hospital. He also admitted that accused Ashwani Kumar had, about 8 years ago, prosecuted him, his father Ram Shanker and witness Shrawan Kumar (not examined) for an offence under Section 307 IPC, in which accused Ashwani Kumar and Parshuram had given evidence against him.

In the cross examination, P.W.1 denied having any political animosity with the appellants. However he changed his statement to the extent that the appellants had taken their tractor through the orchard (Bagh) of Ram Naresh and not potato field, a day before and the incident also took place in the said orchard and not potato field. He clarified that he had mistakenly understood the orchard as a potato field. On the date of incident , the deceased Ram Naresh and Anil Kumar left for the field after taking their meals. After 10 to 15 minutes, the informant, his father Ram Shanker and P.W.2 left for the fields and reached around 10.15 hrs. About a sack of potatoes were dug out and not collected before the incident took place. Upon first sight, the tractor was 10-15 steps away from the south Khahee of the orchard. Ram Naresh protested against the tractor being driven through the orchard, having a gun in his hand then. Departing from his examination in chief, he admitted that when appellants did not pay any heed to his protest, fire was first made by the deceased Ram Naresh in the air towards west, while Ashwani was on his tractor. After this Ashwani Kumar fired at Ram Naresh, but it did not hit him. At this, he moved 8-10 steps ahead and not towards the field out of fear. Ram Naresh fell after getting injured by Ashwani's second shot. He was 2-3 arms away from the place Potatoes were being dug out. He fell after moving a little west. His gun fell as well. Rajesh, Atul and Mithlesh who were standing three steps apart from each other, fired from north of the orchard, aiming at Anil Kumar who was trying to pick the gun of Ram Naresh. The accused took the gun and left, leaving their tractor behind. Shrawan Kumar whose field is in towards the west of the place of occurrence had witnessed the incident himself and came running from his field thereafter. The witness admitted that the tractor through which he went to the police station was being driven by the son of Har Govind Mishra (Ex. Pradhan), Pramod and he was hence accompanied by Pramod, Ram Naresh, Vasundhara and Ramesh Kumar who also belong to the family of Har Govind Mishra. He did not accompany Ram Naresh to hospital and came back to the village with police. According to him, the body of Anil Kumar which they left at the orchard was found by him in-front of Mashook Ali's home and was covered with a tehmat (Mashook Ali is a batai-gir who accompanied the informant at the field). The dugout potatoes which they left in the field were not present when they reached back. His statement was recorded by the police at the place where Anil Kumar's body was found around 17.30 hrs., the same day.

8. P.W-2 Vasundhara Devi is the daughter of deceased Ram Naresh and claims to be eye-witness of the incident. In her examination-in-chief, she affirmed that her father Ram Naresh and brother Anil Kumar were killed by Ashwani Kumar and other accused on 17.02.1999. She stated that the first fire was made by Ashwani Kumar aiming at Ram Naresh which he missed. Ram Naresh had a licensee gun from which he air-fired in the exercise of right of private defense. Ashwani Kumar, then fired again at Ram Naresh and he fell. Ashwani Kumar then dared other accused to kill others and fulfill the purpose they were brought for. Thereafter, Rajesh, Atul and Mithlesh fired at Anil with their gun and addhis respectively. Other accused had addhis as well. All four accused fired at them but they saved their lives by running away. She supported the version of P.W.1 in the later part as well, adding that she came back from the police station by the same tractor they went there. Ram Shanker, brother of Ram Naresh accompanied him to the hospital by Jeep after the first aid at Bangarmau.

Upon being cross examined by the defense counsel, the witness had refuted the plea of alibi taken by accused Avanish Kumar. Moreover, the description of the place of occurrence given by P.W-2 is identical to the one given by P.W.1 to a large extent. She deposed that accused Ashwani Kumar did not make the first fire from the tractor, but came down for it. At this point, Ram Naresh had his gun in his hand but not loaded. He loaded his gun thereafter and made an air fire in the exercise of right of private defense, facing east. The second fire made by Ashwani hit Ram Naresh, when he had stepped 2-3 steps ahead from his position.

Differing from her examination by police under Section 161 Cr.P.C, she stated that when Ram Naresh fell, Anil was standing near him and not on the 'Medha' near her. She added, when Anil picked the gun of Ram Naresh, it was not loaded. After the incident, she reached the police station at 15.20 hrs., her statement was not recorded there. According to her, Ram Naresh was sent to hospital within 10-15 minutes. She left for the village around 17.30 hrs. Anand Mohan had already gone to the village with police. She reached the village at 18.00 hrs. Her maternal uncle Sripal and maternal cousins Kamlesh and Rakesh reached by 19.00 hrs. Police remained at the place of occurrence till 18.45 hrs. Body of Anil (deceased) was sent for examination at 18.45 hrs.

9. In his examination, PW3., who was posted as head Moharir at the P.S. Bangarmau on the said date, has certified the chik FIR prepared by him at 15.20 hrs. [Exhibit 2], the Majrubi Chitthi with which injured Ram Naresh was sent to community health centre, Bangarmau with constable Avadhesh Kumar Singh (CP525) and attached thereto, the referral letter of Doctor to Sadar Hospital, Unnao (Exhibit 5) and the special report prepared by him (Exhibit 6) which was sent to authority by Constable Ramakant Tiwari (CP 579).

In the cross-examination, the witness admitted that the copy of the chik FIR with special Report was sent to C.O. Safipur on 18.02.99.

10. CP 571, Jai Singh, who was also posted as constable at P.S. Bangarmau and was testified as PW 4, affirmed on oath that he accompanied the investigating officer to the spot at village Belkheda, Majra Ranipur on the date of occurrence and that he took the body of Anil Kumar, after Panchnama, and documentation to the Mortuary and presented it before doctor on 18.02.99 duly sealed and accompanied with all documents, for postmortem.

11. PW 5, Shiv Narayan Singh was then posted as SSI at PS Bangarmau. He certified before the trial court his signature on FIR, Panchayatnama and the letter to Chief Medical Officer, letter R.I. photograph of dead body, and the challan of the dead body. He admits to have recorded the statement of P.W. 1 and thereafter he proceeded to the spot with a police party. He carried out the panchayatnama of deceased Anil Kumar. At the instance of the informant, he inspected the spot and prepared the site plan, which is in accordance with the revenue map. He also affirmed to have recorded the soil samples, blood stained tahmat and 11 cartridges, 1 bullet, 3 tiklis and two corks and prepared memo thereof in his writing and signature. Further, he recorded the statement of P.W. 2 the same day. The investigation was then taken up by SHO Omraj Singh on the same day at 22.00 hrs.

In the cross examination, the witness affirmed to have left for the spot at 15.30 hrs. with the informant on his bike. Regarding the Sections mentioned and then crossed in panchnama, he clarified that he wrote Sections 147/148/149 on the basis of the number of accused involved but crossed them after tallying with the F.I.R. But the witness vehemently denied the F.I.R. and other documents being ante timed. He admitted that the body of the deceased Anil Kumar was recovered about half a k.m. away from the said place of occurrence, while the tahmat was recovered from spot E indicated in the site plan.

12. Dr. Dinesh Kumar examined as P.W. 6 had conducted the postmortem of deceased Ram Naresh and deceased Anil Kumar and had proved the report before the trial court. In respect of the postmortem of Ram Naresh he stated that the body had four injuries of the description given. In the internal examination, two metal shrapnels were recovered. In his opinion, the death might have occurred between 16.00-17.00 hrs a day before examination due to antemortem firearm injuries. In respect of the deceased Anil Kumar's medical examination, he stated that the deceased died of blood loss and shock around 13.00 hrs. on 17.2.1999.

In the cross examination he further stated that Ram Naresh had suffered three firearm shots. The third injury was caused from behind. The injury which had blackness and burns (injury-1) was caused from one hand distance.

13. P.W. 7 Chandra Bhan Singh deposed that he investigated the case crime no. 51/1999 under Section 3/25 Arms Act on 19.2.1999. He deposed to have recorded the statement of informant Omraj Singh, scribe of the F.I.R. Vishwanath Sonkar and accused Ashwani Kumar. The witness certified the site plan (exhibit 19) prosecution sanction obtained dated 12.5.1999 (exhibit 20) and the charge-sheet prepared after completion of the investigation(exhibit 21) by him.

The cross examination of the witness revealed that the case diary prepared by him did not mention the time of beginning of the investigation on 19.2.1999 but reiterated that the site plan and the investigation were not fabricated.

14. P.W. 8 Vishwanath Sonkar the scribe of the F.I.R. in case crime no. 51/99 dated 18.2.1999 deposed in his examination-in-chief that he accompanied investigating officer P.W. 11 to the spot on 18.2.1999. He affirmed the recovery of a single barrel gun and four live cartridges from accused Ashwani Kumar and others at 20.00 hrs. near Hanuman temple. He identified exhibit 1, 2 3, 4 and 5 (the recovered gun and cartridges), exhibit 23 (F.I.R. written in his handwriting and signature and exhibit 22 (the recovery memo).

The cross examination of the witness revealed several gaps in the prosecution story.

The witness failed to tell the time he reached the spot, whether P.w. 1 was present there or not, whether the police team visited any other house in the village, the dimensions of the platform of the temple on which the accused were sitting at the time of arrest, the distance from which accused were spotted first, or whether any warning was given by the police team to the accused. He deposed that the police team was divided into three parts. His team consisted of constable Mahesh Pratap Verma and Inspector S.N. Upadhyaya but he could not recollect the composition of other teams or their position/direction. There is no witness of the arrest on record other than the police party and five accused themselves. No lantern or any other thing was called for to prepare the memo of recovery. The police party was stated to have been carrying the torch.

15. P.W. 9 525 CP Awadhesh Kumar Singh deposed on oath that he received the body of the deceased Ram Naresh Gaur for postmortem and kept it untouched until the postmortem took place.

16. P.w. 10 Avinash Kumar Dixit stated in his examination in chief that he carried out the inquest of the death of Ram Naresh Gaur after receiving information from P.W. 9 and reported as report no. 31. He proved the exhibit 25-panchayatnama of Ram Naresh Gaur, exhibit 26-photograph of dead body, exhibit 27 dead body challan, exhibit 28 R.I. letter and exhibit 29 letter to C.M.O.

In the cross examination the witness affirmed that the deceased was sent to PHC and then hospital by same tractor and after he died it was brought back and sent for postmortem after panchanama by the same tractor.

17. Om Raj Singh, who was then posted as Officer in charge at police station Bangaurmau and was the Chief Investigating officer of the matter was examined as P.W. 11. He affirmed the statement of P.W. 5 that the investigation of case crime no. 50/1999 was taken up by him in the intervening night of 17.2.1999/18.2.1999 and duly received all documents and the recovery memos prepared so far. He also registered the F.I.R. under Section 3/25 of Arms Act in case crime no. 51/1999 at 22.15 hrs. 18.2.1999 recorded the statements of witnesses Ram Shankar, Ram dulari and inquest witnesses and submitted a charge sheet(exhibit 30) prepared in his handwriting under his signature.

Further in the cross examination it was revealed by the witness that he went to the village of Judai Khera for investigation with P.W. 5 at 21.00 hours and remained there till 03.30 hrs. (18.2.1999). They also made searches at the residence and other probable stations of the accused but they were not present there. The witness reiterated that all the witnesses were arrested together about 100 yards towards east from abadi of village pasiyan khera. The villagers refused to give evidence of the arrest out of fear.

18. On behalf of the defence, two witnesses were examined in support of their case.

19. D.W. 1 Baijnath Tiwari supported the plea of alibi taken by accused Avanish Kumar. D.W. 1 was posted as Lecturer and class teacher of class 11 (science) at Subhash Inter College Bangarmau at the relevant time.

20. D.W. 2 Ram Bahadur Singh who was Principal of Gram Awasiya Vidyalaya, Takiya produced the attendance register of teachers of school and deposed that Shrawan Kumar Gaur whom P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 claimed to have witnessed the incident of 17.2.1999, was present in school between 09:45 to 16.00 hrs. The distance between the school and village Ashayas is 10-11 km. The witness remained consistent in his cross examination.

21. After the completion of the evidence from both the sides the trial court, taking into consideration the oral and documentary evidence and considering the arguments of prosecution as well as defence and duly examining all the papers convicted the appellant as above. Accused Sanad Kumar, Awanish Kumar and Ram Lakhan were given Benefit of doubt and acquitted. Accused Parshuram died during the trial.

C. The case framed by prosecution and defence:

22. The appellants have been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. There is no appeal of the State against the acquittal of co-accused viz. Awanish Kumar, Sanad Kumar and Ram Lakhan. Parshuram yet another co-accused died during the course of trial.

23. The sum and substance of the case framed by the prosecution is that on 16.2.1999 the appellants took their tractor through the land/orchard belonging to the deceased while they were digging out potatoes in their field and some altercation took place. Next day on 17.2.1999 the appellants again made an attempt to repeat the same and on the protest of Ram Naresh, they opened fire and caused the death of Anil Kumar and Ram Naresh both by using lethal weapons i.e. fire arms and the occurrence was witnessed by as many as five eye witnesses viz. Anand Mohan (complainant) PW-1, Vasundhara Devi PW-2, Ram Shankar, Mashook Ali and Shrawan Kumar. Out of five eye witnesses the prosecution produced Anand Mohan (PW-1) who was the nephew of Ram Naresh (deceased) and the cousin of Anil Kumar (deceased) whereas the other witness Vasundhara (PW-2) was the daughter of Ram Naresh (deceased) and the real sister of Anil Kumar (deceased).

24. The post mortem reports support the case of prosecution which were proved. The cause of death is the loss blood on account of fire arm injuries insofar as Anil Kumar is concerned, whereas Ram Naresh died of ante mortem injuries received from a fire arm. Site plan was also prepared by the investigation officer as per revenue map and the inquest reports were also drawn in respect of both the persons who succumbed to the fire arm injuries. Initially Shiv Narain PW-5 stepped into the investigation which was later taken over by Chandra Bhan Singh PW-7. The recovery of the licenced fire arm belonging to Ram Naresh looted in the occurrence was also made by the investigating officer. No one except the two deceased persons received any injury.

25. The appellants were charged of committing the offences under Section 148, 302/149, 404 IPC. Ashwini Kumar was also charged of the offence under Section 25 of the Arms Act. At the stage of Section 313 Cr.P.C. the appellants denied of being guilty and it was submitted that they have falsely been implicated in the occurrence. For non-compliance of the procedure under Section 313 Cr.P.C. there is no grievance except that the applicants stated that they have been implicated falsely. The trial court went through the evidence in detail and conclusions were accordingly drawn against the appellants for holding them guilty. The plea of lack of intention and sudden provocation attracting Section 300 Exception IV IPC was not raised during the course of trial.

26. The most significant contradiction in the ocular testimony of PW-1 noticeable in the case is that the said witness in the cross examination has clearly stated that the first fire on the date of occurrence was shot in the air towards west by Ram Naresh using his licenced gun whereas the PW-2 in her oral testimony being an eye witness has said that the first fire was made by Ashwani Kumar. According to PW-2 the first fire was shot by Ashwini Kumar on which the deceased Ram Naresh objected the assailants from entering into the orchard/potato field belonging to the deceased who in private defence fired in the air.. It was the second shot fired by Ashwini Kumar that hit Ram Naresh and he fell down and his licenced gun fell too. The other victim Anil Kumar who bent for picking up the gun was then fired at by other assailants and having received fire arm injuries died on the spot. This inconsistency between the ocular evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 according to the appellants is a material contradiction that goes to belie the case of the prosecution, as such, they are entitled to the benefit of doubt at par with the other co-accused who have been acquitted.

27. The second contradiction in the oral testimony of eye witness PW-2 is noticed when her version that Ram Naresh after reaching to the police station was taken to the hospital by Jeep is compared to the version of PW-10 (Awinash Kumar Dixit) who in his cross examination has deposed that Ram Naresh (deceased) was taken to the hospital by the same tractor he was brought to the police station. The contradictions certainly shake the credibility of evidence.

28. Apart from the contradictions mentioned above, the appellants have pointed out the ambiguity in the site plan that it was prepared as per the guidance of complainant which the investigating officer has acknowledged in his cross examination, therefore, the evidence of PW-1 being the informant is the genesis of the case. The dead body of the deceased Anil Kumar was recovered at a distance of half a kilometer from the alleged fields i.e. in front of the home of Mashook Ali. It was argued that the tractor of the appellants as per site plan had not entered into potato field of the deceased Ram Naresh at all, yet in the first instance he fired in the air so as to intimidate the appellants of causing grievous injury. It is argued on behalf of appellants that reaching out to their potato field on 17.2.1999 through any objectionable route is not evident from the statement of any witness or FIR, therefore, the protection of private defence asserted by PW-2 on behalf of Ram Naresh was clearly pointless. The first fire made by the deceased (Ram Naresh) rather gave rise to the right of self defence to the appellants who were intimidated excessively and threatened of life to use the chak road passing through the field of deceased. The site plan does not show Mashook Ali or dug out potatoes lying on the field besides the alleged tractor full of potatoes which the accused left behind. The position of other witnesses is also not shown in the site plan.

29. The evidence on record also reflects some overwriting on the inquest report of Anil Kumar (deceased) but same was explained by the investigating officer to the satisfaction of trial court.

30. This Court has taken note of the contradictions mentioned above but all these lapses on the part of investigating officer according to the trial court, would not discredit the ocular testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 who are eye witnesses and their testimony merely on the basis of being close relatives to the deceased, cannot be discredited.

31. The plea of innocence notwithstanding the contradictions and the discrepancies pointed out failed, however, the appellants without formally taking the ground, at this stage, have taken the plea that it was a case of culpable homicide within the scope of Section 300 Exception IV IPC for which the sentence of life imprisonment being maximum is disproportionate. It is submitted that the evidence available on record sufficiently discloses it to be a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Section 300 Exception IV IPC for ready reference is reproduced hereunder:

"300- Murder : Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or--

2ndly.--If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or--

3rdly.--If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or--

4thly.--If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

Illustrations

(a) A shoots Z with the intention of killing him. Z dies in consequence. A commits murder.

(b) A, knowing that Z is labouring under such a disease that a blow is likely to cause his death, strikes him with the intention of causing bodily injury. Z dies in consequence of the blow. A is guilty of murder, although the blow might not have been sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of a person in a sound state of health. But if A, not knowing that Z is labouring under any disease, gives him such a blow as would not in the ordinary course of nature kill a person in a sound state of health, here A, although he may intend to cause bodily injury, is not guilty of murder, if he did not intend to cause death, or such bodily injury as in the ordinary course of nature would cause death.

(c) A intentionally gives Z a sword-cut or club-wound sufficient to cause the death of a man in the ordinary course of nature. Z dies in consequence. Here A is guilty of murder, although he may not have intended to cause Z's death.

(d) A without any excuse fires a loaded cannon into a crowd of persons and kills one of them. A is guilty of murder, although he may not have had a premeditated design to kill any particular individual.

Exception 1.--When culpable homicide is not murder.

Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.

The above exception is subject to the following provisos:--

First.--That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly.--That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly.--That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation.--Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.

(a) A, under the influence of passion excited by a provocation given by Z, intentionally kills Y, Z's child. This is murder, inasmuch as the provocation was not given by the child, and the death of the child was not caused by accident or misfortune in doing an act caused by the provocation.

(b) Y gives grave and sudden provocation to A. A, on this provocation, fires a pistol at Y, neither intending nor knowing himself to be likely to kill Z, who is near him, but out of sight. A kills Z. Here A has not committed murder, but merely culpable homicide.

(c) A is lawfully arrested by Z, a bailiff. A is excited to sudden and violent passion by the arrest, and kills Z. This is murder, inasmuch as the provocation was given by a thing done by a public servant in the exercise of his powers.

(d) A appears as a witness before Z, a Magistrate. Z says that he does not believe a word of A's deposition, and that A has perjured himself. A is moved to sudden passion by these words, and kills Z. This is murder.

(e) A attempts to pull Z's nose. Z, in the exercise of the right of private defence, lays hold of A to prevent him from doing so. A is moved to sudden and violent passion in consequence, and kills Z.

This is murder, inasmuch as the provocation was giving by a thing done in the exercise of the right of private defence.

(f) Z strikes B. B is by this provocation excited to violent rage. A, a bystander, intending to take advantage of B's rage, and to cause him to kill Z, puts a knife into B's hand for that purpose. B kills Z with the knife. Here B may have committed only culpable homicide, but A is guilty of murder.

Exception 2.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Illustration

Z attempts to horsewhip A, not in such a manner as to cause grievous hurt to A. A draws out a pistol. Z persists in the assault. A believing in good faith that he can by no other means prevent himself from being horsewhipped, shoots Z dead. A has not committed murder, but only culpable homicide.

Exception 3.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, believes to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

Exception 4.--Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Explanation.--It is immaterial in such cases which party offers the provocation or commits the first assault.

Exception 5.--Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent.

Illustration

A, by instigation, voluntarily causes Z, a person under eighteen years of age to commit suicide. Here, on account of Z's youth, he was incapable of giving consent to his own death; A has therefore abetted murder."

32. The question as to whether the plea of self defence or an exception, when it was not asserted during the course of trial, remains open or not. In this regard reference may be made to a decision of the apex court reported in 1970 SCC (Crl) 541 (Aher Raja Ladha v. The State of Gujarat) wherein the plea though advanced at the stage of committal was not pursued in trial, yet the apex court held that the trial court and the High Court were wrong in refusing to examine the plea of self defence taken. This Court may observe that the plea of self defence on an exception appended to Section-300 IPC on the strength of evidence available on record is open to be raised at the appellate stage for it is the duty of the trial court and the appellate court both not to ignore any relevant aspect of the case that has a bearing upon his being held guilty.

33. The Court would thus proceed to examine the plea of exception-IV appended to Section 300 IPC for which the evidence of PW-1 is more reliable than PW-2. The distinction is drawn looking to the fact that PW-2 has made mismatched statement more than once as noticed above. Therefore, the credibility of her evidence does not lead to the discovery of truth. The overriding evidence of PW-1 who helped the investigating officer draw the site place, therefore, becomes highly relevant. According to the ocular evidence of PW-1 it is clear that the first fire was opened by Ram Naresh (deceased) which, by no stretch of imagination, could be viewed less than life threatening by the appellants, who in retaliation resorted to use the fire arms and caused a fatal injury to him. The threat to life was equally imminent to the appellants, when Anil Kumar bent to pick up the gun which fell down from the hands of Ram Naresh on receiving injury. The provocation for sudden fight and quarrel was triggerd by the deceased who protested by advancing towards the accused and the heat of passion multiplied on his opening the first fire and this position is well established on a prudent reading of the testimony of PW-1 (Anand Mohan).

34. It would not be prudent to import the element of common intention in a situation of sudden fight or quarrel saddled by provocation or aggression as in the case at hand, therefore, the evidence on record clearly brings the case within the field of Exception-IV appended to Section 300 IPC and the benefit of Section 304 Part-I becomes applicable. The view taken by the trial court that there existed a common intention for murder in the total act of accused persons, in our humble consideration, is overreaching the essence of evidence of which the material contradictions were wrongly ignored and attached no significance.

35. This Court may observe that the element of common intention in the commission of an offence is more a rule of procedure lack of which may not severe the culpability but it mitigates the punishment. This Court may note that the distinction drawn between culpable homicide and murder in the case of Reg. vs. Govinda reported in (1877) ILR 1 Bombay 342 and Virsa Singh v. State of Punjab reported in AIR 1958 SC 465 does not lead us to any doubt that in the present case the appellants did have knowledge of the fatality of the fire arm injury but the sudden provocation and aggression suppressed the element of intention much less than common intention, therefore, benefit of Section 304 Part-II or at least lesser punishment by advancing the benefit under Part-I of Section 304 ought to have been accorded by the trial court.

36. The appellants have already served the sentence for more than 17 years which the State has not disputed besides the fact that one of the appellants (Parshuram Pasi) has died during the pendency of appellate proceedings while incarceration. The Court would equally note that the evidence of the site plan is completely silent on the objectionable course/route that was adopted by the appellants one day before nor has it been shown on the day of occurrence that would give any reason to the deceased to approach towards appellants to hurl abuses or opening first fire which gave rise to sudden provocation.

37. The investigation, evidence or site plan offers no explanation of the tractor loaded with potatoes that was attempted to be brought and driven through the land of deceased and the independent witnesses were neither produced nor their position shown in the site plan unlike appellants. The absence of Shrawan Kumar despite defence evidence having been led to prove his absence was wrongly disbelieved. Above all the body of Anil Kumar (deceased) was recovered half a kilometer away from the place of occurrence and as per medical opinion he died of loss of blood (hemorrhage). For want of adequate justification, the State has not argued that there was any pre-meditation or the appellants had acted in any cruel or unusual manner.

38. The Court may note that the prosecution as a matter of routine does not lay emphasis on the production of independent witnesses during the course of trial or fails to record their statements during investigation. Such a lapse on the part of investigating agency must be viewed seriously by the courts of law and time is not far when the courts may have to invoke the suo motu powers to summon such witnesses for which there ought to exist a witness protection law.

39. For the reasons recorded above, the conviction of the appellants under Section 302 IPC is modified as conviction under Section 304 Part-I IPC and the substantive sentence of life imprisonment is reduced to the period of sentence already undergone by them and the two appeals preferred by the appellants separately as noted above, are partly allowed. Let a copy of the judgement be kept on the record of Criminal Appeal no. 2078 of 2007 as well.

40. All the accused-appellants be set at liberty forthwith if not wanted in any other case.

1. Heard Ms. Seema Pandey (Amicus Curiae) for the appellant; Sri Amit Sinha, learned AGA and have perused the record.

2. This appeal is against the judgment and order of conviction and punishment dated 09.11.1993 and 16.11.1993, respectively, passed by III Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No.166 of 1990 whereby the appellant (Ravindra) has been convicted under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and awarded life imprisonment whereas co-accused Smt. Rajni who was tried for the charge of criminal conspiracy for murder has been acquitted.

Introductory Facts

3. (i) The prosecution case, in brief, is that in the morning of 24.10.1988, at about 7.30 a.m., while Devendra Singh (Informant - PW1), a police constable, was going to attend nature's call, he was informed by one Ram Mehar (PW-2) that, on the road side, in a sewer pit (manhole), a person is lying injured and is groaning. On receipt of the information, PW-1 went to the spot and with the help of PW-2, Sri Chand Chowkidar (not examined) and Prakash Yadav (PW-5) pulled out the person injured from the manhole (sewer pit) and discovered that he was badly injured and his intestine had come out. On being queried, that person disclosed his name (Shiv Kumar Pathak - the deceased), parentage and place of residence. That injured person also stated that "he (the injured), Munna (absconding accused) son of not known, resident of village Tesuwa, police station Faridpur, district Bareilly and Ravindra (the appellant) son of Siya Ram, resident of village Tesuwa, police station Faridpur, district Bareilly, today, in the morning, at about 5.00 a.m., were going to village Barauk to purchase vegetables; Munna (co-accused) owed Rs.500/- to him (the deceased); he (the deceased) had been requesting Munna to return the money, and when, on way, he (the deceased) made a demand for the money, Munna*, all of a sudden, inflicted him* (the deceased) a knife blow on his (deceased's) abdomen and Ravindra (the appellant) held him; thereafter, he (deceased) fell unconscious and, later, when he regained consciousness he is feeling the pain" after stating as above, the injured pointed towards his injury. Narrating the aforesaid incident and the statement of the person injured (the deceased) recited above in vernacular, PW1 lodged a written report (Ex. Ka1) at police station Dadri, district Ghaziabad at 7.30 am on 24.10.1988, which was registered as first information report (FIR) (Ex. Ka-2).

(ii) The injured was rushed to the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi (AIIMS). He was admitted there at 10.00 am. There he died at 11.20 am on 24.10.1988 itself. The summary of his admission and death provided by Department of Forensic Medicine, AIIMS is there on record as Paper No. Ex. Ka-3. Prior to his death, an effort was made to record his statement but the doctor noted "unfit for statement", paper with regard thereto is on record as Ex. Ka-8. On 25.10.1988, the body was identified by deceased's wife Rajni (co-accused) and Rajni's brother (Avnish Kumar), papers with regard thereto, are on record as Ex. Ka-5 and Ex. Ka-4, respectively . Autopsy was conducted on 25.10.1988 at about 4.30 pm, the autopsy report was admitted under section 294 CrPC. Autopsy report stated that death could be about 28 hours before. The Autopsy report recorded following ante-mortem injuries:

2. Incised wound 6 cm x 2 cm x 0.5 cm in mid-umbilical area just 2 cm lateral to the right of injury no.1 and 18 cm below left nipple.

3. Three small lacerated wound size 1 cm x 1 cm x 0.2 cm, 0.5 cm x 0.5 cm and 1 cm x 1 cm just lateral to injury no.2 to the right.

(iii) During investigation the police lifted blood stained and plain earth from the spot, collected chappals (slippers) and prepared memorandums thereof on 24.10.1988, which were marked Ex. Ka10 and Ex. Ka 9 respectively. On 04.11.1988, a shirt of the deceased from the manhole of the sewer from where the injured was taken out; and a knife from the bushes around, was recovered allegedly on the pointing out of the appellant, while in police custody. A memo of that recovery (Ex. Ka-9) was made, which was witnessed by Rajendra Prasad (PW-6) and another.

4. After investigation, on the strength of material collected during investigation, the police sent three persons for trial, namely, Ravindra (the appellant); Munna (the person who inflicted the knife injury); and Smt. Rajni (wife of the deceased). Notably, Munna was challaned as an absconder. After taking cognizance on the police report, the case was committed to the Court of Session. Through out the trial Munna remained absconding therefore evidence was recorded against him as under section 299 CrPC.

Evidence

5. During the course of trial following prosecution witnesses were examined: Constable Devendra Singh (PW-1), the person who lodged the first information report and before whom the deceased had allegedly made statement as noted above; Ram Mehar (PW-2), the person who first noticed the deceased lying in the manhole and on whose information the deceased was taken out from the manhole; Ram Pal Singh (PW-3), who was examined by the prosecution to demonstrate that all the three accused were residing at his premises as his tenant, and that the male accused persons had developed illicit relations with co-accused Rajni (the wife of the deceased), however, this witness completely resiled from the prosecution story and was declared hostile; Inder Singh (PW-4), a police personnel, posted at Defence Colony police station, New Delhi, who proved: the admission of the injured (i.e. the deceased) at AIIMS on 24.10.1988, his death, shortly thereafter, identification of his body by co-accused Rajni (deceased's wife) and Avnish Kumar (Rajni's brother), inquest and handing over of body for autopsy as also papers connected therewith; Prakash (PW-5), the person who helped PW-1 and others to take out the injured from the manhole; Rajendra Prasad (PW-6), the person in whose presence the knife was recovered - he proved the recovery memo (Ex. Ka-9); and Sub Inspector Bahadur Singh (PW-7), the Investigating Officer, who started the investigation. It be noted that post mortem report as well as charge sheet and forensic reports were admitted under section 294 CrPC therefore formal proof requirement was dispensed with.

6. After the prosecution evidence was led, the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution case were put to the appellant who denied his involvement in the crime and claimed that he has been falsely implicated.

Findings of the Trial Court

7. The trial court found that - (a) there was no occasion to doubt the version narrated in the FIR as the police witnesses had no reason to make false allegation; (b) during investigation the investigating officer (PW-7) found that the deceased, his wife (Rajni); Munna and Ravindra (appellant) resided in one room let out by PW-3; (c) PW-4 proved that the deceased in an injured condition was admitted in AIIMS were he expired shortly after admission and his statement could not be recorded as the doctor did not allow him to do so; (d) autopsy report established that the deceased was inflicted knife blows which resulted in his death and the estimated time of death also correlated with the prosecution story; (e) PW-6 established recovery of knife at the instance of the appellant; (f) blood stained shirt was also recovered from the manhole at the instance of the appellant; (g) the chemical examiner report established the presence of human blood on knife, clothes, soil etc therefore, the place of occurrence and the weapon used was proved; (h) the statement of the deceased made before his death is admissible under section 32 of the Evidence Act which clearly establishes that the appellant caught hold the deceased whereas Munna inflicted knife blows resulting in injuries and ultimately his death, the appellant therefore, is liable to be convicted for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. The trial court however found no evidence of conspiracy to nail co-accused Rajni.

Submissions

8. Assailing the judgment and order of the trial court, learned counsel for the appellant contended : (a) that the prosecution failed to prove any motive against the appellant; (b) that the motive was exclusively with Munna; (c) the story in the FIR reciting the manner of incident suggests that it was the individual act of Munna; (d) the statement of the deceased as recited in the FIR is inconclusive as against the appellant; (e) that admittedly the doctor did not certify the condition of the deceased as fit to record statement hence no reliance can be placed on his (deceased's) statement; (f) that recovery of incriminating articles is from an open place already discovered hence it is inconsequential; and (g) that there is no ocular account or any other evidence that the deceased was in the company of the appellant or any body else on or about the time of the incident. It was argued that this is a case where there is virtually no evidence, ocular or circumstantial, to complete the chain of incriminating circumstances to rule out all other hypothesis than the guilt of the appellant. Hence, it is a fit case where the appellant be acquitted of the charges for which he has been tried.

9. Per contra, Sri Amit Sinha, learned AGA, submits that this is a case where the presence of the appellant with the deceased and the other co-accused at the time when the deceased was inflicted injury is substantiated from the statement made by the deceased to PW-1; and the recovery of knife on the pointing out of the appellant corroborates that statement of the deceased therefore, the burden was on the appellant to explain the circumstances in which the deceased had suffered injuries and in absence whereof, the conviction of the appellant would be justified under section 302 IPC with the aid of section 34 IPC.

Analysis

10. We have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record carefully. Admittedly, there is no ocular version of the incident therefore, the case would have to be decided on the basis of proven circumstances. Before we proceed to analyse the prosecution evidence, we may notice that the explanation of the appellant in his statement, under section 313 CrPC, is nothing except that he denies the incriminating circumstances. He does not dispute his identity or the identity of the deceased. He also does not claim that he does not know anything about the deceased. In that light, we will have to analyse the prosecution evidence. The prosecution evidence against the appellant can be divided into two parts. One is the statement of the deceased made to PW-1 and other persons who pulled him out of the manhole, admissible under section 32 of the Evidence Act, and the other is the circumstantial evidence of recovery of shirt of the deceased from the manhole, and the knife from the bushes around, on the information provided by the appellant. In so far as recovery is concerned, that was made on 4.11.1988, that is ten days later, from the same spot which is accessible to all and from where the deceased was taken out in an injured condition. Hence, in our view, the recovery is inconsequential and appears to have been developed to fortify an otherwise weak prosecution case. Even assuming that it is a genuine recovery, it, at best, would be reflective of the knowledge of the appellant where the knife was thrown, suggestive of appellant's presence at the scene of crime. But not that the appellant participated in the act of infliction of injuries on the body of the deceased with the other co-accused Munna.

11. In so far as the statement of the deceased made to the witnesses is concerned, we may observe that it is not a formal dying declaration which a Magistrate records after being satisfied with regard to the condition of its maker. Importantly, it has come on record that at AIIMS when an effort was made to record the statement of the deceased, the doctor did not permit as the person was not fit to give his statement. This was just within three to four hours after the deceased was pulled out of the manhole. Even in the FIR, wherein the statement of the deceased is recited, the deceased, while he was alive, stated that after infliction of injury he had turned unconscious and has now regained consciousness. Bearing all these circumstances in mind we have to very carefully analyse as to what the deceased actually stated and whether from his statement could it be said with certitude that the deceased was caught hold by the appellant to enable co-accused Munna to inflict injuries with knife.

12. In this case, the statement of the deceased made to PW-1 at the time when the deceased, in an injured condition, was taken out from the manhole, is recorded in the FIR, lodged by PW-1, and nowhere else. Meaning thereby that there is no record to suggest that the statement of the deceased was recorded by way of his statement made to the investigating officer under section 161 CrPC. Thus, the recital in the FIR with regard to what the deceased stated is the last record of his statement. In this statement, the deceased had specifically stated that the co-accused Munna had borrowed Rs.500/- from the deceased and when the deceased raised a demand upon him (Munna) for return of the money, while they were moving together in the company of the appellant to purchase vegetables, Munna all of a sudden inflicted him with knife blow on his (deceased's) abdomen and the appellant held him. In this statement of the deceased, there is no specific allegation that the appellant exhorted Munna to inflict knife blows or that the appellant first caught hold the deceased and then knife blows were inflicted. This statement of the deceased therefore, is not conclusive as regards the role of the appellant. Rather, it leaves us guessing whether the appellant held the deceased, to support him, after he was inflicted knife injury by Munna, or to enable Munna to inflict knife injuries. This riddle could have been solved had the prosecution been able to prove a motive for the crime against the appellant. Here, the prosecution set out to prove twin motive for the crime. One, which could not be proved, was that the co-accused Munna and the appellant both had an affair with co-accused Rajni, the wife of the deceased, and, therefore, they were interested in finishing off the deceased; and the other, which stood proved from the statement of deceased, was that Munna was annoyed with the pestering demand of the deceased to return his money. Thus, the proven motive for the crime was with Munna alone. Further, the statement of the deceased made to PW-1 also attributes infliction of knife injury to Munna alone, that too, as a sudden response to the demand for return of the money. In our view, therefore, to convict the appellant for the charge of murder with the aid of section 34 IPC would not be safe even though the evidence led may cast suspicion on the conduct of the appellant. But suspicion alone is no substitute for legal proof. No doubt, had it been a case where there was no statement of the deceased in respect of infliction of injury by Munna and circumstantial evidence had proved the presence of the appellant with the deceased at the time of occurrence, by virtue of section 106 of the Evidence Act, burden would have been on the appellant to explain the circumstances in which the deceased suffered injuries and, in absence of proper explanation, he could have been held guilty. But, here, the statement of the deceased conclusively indicts co-accused Munna and, in respect of the appellant it is inconclusive, therefore, taking the aid of section 106 of the Evidence Act, when the mode and manner of infliction of injury is proved by the statement of the deceased, would not be appropriate.

13. At this stage, we may notice that in the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 made during trial there is some improvement than what is stated in the FIR with regard to what the injured (the deceased) stated when he was taken out from the manhole. In their statement in court the witnesses stated that the deceased had informed them that the appellant held his hand and Munna inflicted knife blow. Importantly, in their testimony in court, the sudden infliction of knife blow by Munna is also not disclosed though, in the FIR, according to what the deceased had told, there was sudden infliction of knife blow by Munna. Further, the sequence of such infliction i.e. that the appellant first held deceased's hands and then knife blow was inflicted, was not there. This improvement goes a step further in the testimony of PW-5 when he states that the deceased on being pulled out of the manhole stated that both Kalua @ Ravindra (the appellant) and Munna had inflicted him knife injuries. In our view, the statements made during trial in so far as they are at variance with the one put on record, that is the FIR in this case, would have to be eyed with extreme suspicion because here we are dealing with hearsay evidence. No doubt, a dying declaration is an exception to the rule against hearsay evidence but where the contents of a statement, which is to read as a dying declaration, are put on record, parole evidence different to that what is codified must not ordinarily be accepted unless there are very strong reasons to do so, because the accused gets no right to cross-examine its maker. We are therefore of the firm view that the so called statement of the deceased is not conclusive as regards the role of the appellant and therefore, by relying upon the same, it would be unsafe to hold the appellant guilty with the aid of section 34 IPC.

14. Now, a question may arise as to why an inference with regard to the guilt of the appellant be not drawn from the conduct which he exhibited. One may say that if the appellant's presence with the deceased had been proved, had he not been guilty, common human courtesy would have been to help out the deceased and not run away by putting him in a manhole. In this regard, we may observe that, firstly, there is no reliable evidence that the appellant had, with the help of co-accused, put the deceased in a manhole. The oral narration of the witnesses in that regard as to what the deceased had told them is not acceptable for two reasons: (a) it is at variance with what the deceased told, as recited in the FIR; and (b) from the recital in the FIR the deceased had stated that he had turned unconscious after infliction of injuries, if that was so, how would he get opportunity to notice as to who put him in the manhole. Secondly, there is no charge framed against the appellant for an offence punishable under section 201 IPC; and, thirdly, different persons react differently. It is a natural human tendency to run away from the scene of crime, particularly, when it is of a heinous nature. Such a conduct is more pronounced when the victim is not a close associate or relative of the person whose conduct is in question. In this case, noticeably, the prosecution failed to prove close relationship between the deceased and the accused persons. PW-3, the witness, set up to do that, turned hostile. Conspiracy allegation also could not be proved. Thus, even if a question may arise as to why the appellant did not help the deceased if he held no guilt, that, by itself, is not a proof of his guilt.

15. The upshot of the foregoing discussion is that though the proven circumstances may create a strong suspicion with regard to the conduct of the appellant but they are not conclusive to enable us to hold with certitude the appellant guilty. At this stage, we may remind ourselves of the observations made by Supreme Court in its judgment in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade and another v. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793 where it was observed: "Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions." The aforesaid legal principle is time-tested and is the bedrock of criminal jurisprudence.

16. In view of the discussion above, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the appellant beyond the pale of doubt. The appellant is therefore entitled to the benefit of doubt. Consequently, the judgment and order of the court below in so far as it relates to the appellant is liable to be set aside. The appeal is therefore allowed. The judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the trial court as against the appellant is set aside. If the appellant is on bail, he need not surrender subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A CrPC to the satisfaction of the trial court below.

17. Before parting, we record our appreciation for the labour put in by Ms. Seema Pandey, who assisted the Court as an Amicus with commendable preparation. We, accordingly, direct that she be paid Rs.10,000/- (ten thousand only) by the High Court Legal Aid Services Committee for her efforts.

18. Let a copy of this order be sent to the court below for information and compliance.

1. By way of this appeal, the appellants have challenged the Judgment and order 20.4.2010 passed by court of Additional District and Sessions Judge/FTC, Court No.2, Ghaziabad in Session Trial No.393 of 2009 arising out of Case Crime No.1310 of 2008 under Sections 354, 376 Indian Penal Code, Police Station-

Sahibabad, District-Ghaziabad whereby the accused-appellants were convicted under Section 376 IPC and sentenced to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.25,000/- each and Section 354 of IPC convicted for two years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.3000/-.

2. The brief facts of this case are that complainant Munni Devi, mother of the prosecutrix, submitted a written report at Police Station Sahibabad, District Ghaziabad, Ex.Ka-2 stating that her daughter (prosecutrix) was going to Happy Public School, Rajendra Nagar for bringing her cousin sister on 23.8.2008 at about 1.30 p.m. On the way Arshad, Mohsin and Mansad resident of village Pasaunda met and they all started molesting her, Arshad tried to drag her to the Budha Park, she raised alarm and some of people gathered there. Then they all ran away from there. On this report, a first information report was lodged at Police Station Sahibabad under Section 354 I.P.C. After lodging the FIR, investigation was started.

3. Investigating Officer recorded the statements of prosecutrix and other witnesses, prepared site plan. Medical examination of prosecutrix was conducted. After completing the evidence, charge sheet was submitted. The case being trialbe exclusively by the court of session, it was committeed to the sessions Court by the competent Magistrate.

4. Learned Judge framed charges against the accused- Mohsin and Mansad under Sections 354 and 376 IPC which were read over to the accused persons. Accused persons denied charges and claimed to be tried. Accused-Arshad was declared juvenile and his trial was separated. The prosecution so as to bring home the charges, examined six witnesses, who are as under:-

1.	Prosecution	P.W.1
2.	Munni Devi	P.W.2
3.	Dr. Sunita	P.W.3
4.	Rajendra Singh Chauhan	P.W.4
5.	Bharat Singh	P.W.5
6.	Sahab Singh	P.W.6

5. After completion of prosecution evidence, the accused was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which he denied evidence against him, two witnesses, namely, D.W.-1 Mohd. Sirajuddin and D.W.-2 Mohd. Waseem were examined by the accused in defence.

6. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	F.I.R.	Ext. Ka-5
2.	Written report	Ext. Ka-2
3.	Statement of prosecutrix (Mala)	Ext. Ka-1
4.	Injury Report	Ext. Ka-3
5.	Site Plan with Index	Ext. Ka-4

7. Heard Shri Rajiv Lochan, learned counsel for the appellants, learned AGA for the State and also perused the record.

8. Perusal of record shows that occurrence took place at about 1.30 p.m. it means that it was day-light incident. Although in the beginning, the mother of the prosecutrix lodged the FIR only with the averments leading to the offence to the extent of Section 354 IPC only, but in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C, the prosecutrix narrated the incident in detail in which she made accusation against the accused-appellants and stated that they committed rape with her one by one after tying her mouth and hands.

9. The story narrated by the prosecutrix under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was repeated by her before learned trial Court as P.W.-1.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants attracted our attention towards some contradictions in the evidence of prosecutrix and in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., but these contradictions do not go to the root of the case.

11. Medical examination of prosecutrix was conducted and medical report was prepared. The evidence of prosecutrix stands on the same footing of injured witness. Prosecutrix was examined at length by the defence but in her cross examination also she had stated that she was raped by the accused persons. PW-2, Munni Devi is mother of the prosecutrix, who submitted written report in Police Station on the basis of which first information report was lodged. In her statement she has formaly proved the above written report. Doctor, who conducted medical examination of the prosecutrix, is also produced by the prosecution as PW-3. The learned trial court convicted and sentenced the appellants for the offence under Sections 376 and 354 IPC.

12. After some arguments, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that he is not pressing this appeal on its merit, but he prays only for reduction of the sentence as the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh. Learned counsel also submitted that appellant is languishing in jail for the past more than 11 years.

13. This case pertains to the offence of 'rape', defined under Section 375 IPC, which is quoted as under:

[375. Rape.- A man is said to commit "rape" if he-

(a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(b) inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(c) manipulates any part of the body of a woman so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of body of such woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

under the circumstances falling under any of the following seven descriptions :-

First.- Against her will.

Secondly.- Without her consent.

Thirdly.- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested, in fear of death or of hurt.

Fourthly.- With her consent, when the man knows that he is not her husband and that her consent is given because she believes that he is another man to whom she is or believes herself to be lawfully married.

Fifthly.- With her consent when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind of intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

Sixthly.- With or without her consent, when she is under eighteen years of age.

Seventhly.- When she is unable to communicate consent.

Explanation 1.- For the purposes of this section, "vagina" shall also include labia majora.

Explnation 2.- Consent means an unequivocal voluntary agreement when the woman by words, gestures or any form of verbal or non-verbal communication, communicates willingness to participate in the specific sexual act.

Provided that a woman who does not physically resist to the act of penetration shall not by the reason only of that fact, be regarded as consenting to the sexual activity.

Exception 1.- A medical procedure or intervention shall not constitute rape.

Excpetion 2.- Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.]

14. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

15. The term 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

16. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

17. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

18. Since the learned counsel for the appellant has not pressed the appeal on its merit, however, after perusal of entire evidence on record and judgment of the trial court, we consider that the appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed. Hence, the conviction of the appellant is upheld.

19. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

20. Learned AGA also admitted the fact which is cited by learned counsel for the appellants that appellants are languishing in jail for the last 11 years. Keeping in view the facts and evidence of this case, we are of considered opinion that ends of justice would be met if sentence for the offence under Section 376 IPC is converted from life

21. Hence, the sentence awarded to the appellants by the learned trial-court is modified and converted from life imprisonment to period of 10 years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.5,000/-. Accused persons shall undergo additional one year simple imprisonment in case of default of fine. Sentence under Section 354 of IPC shall remain intact. All the sentences shall run concurrently as directed by learned trial court.

22. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed with the modification of the sentence, as above.

Writ A No. 55436 of 2017

Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Compulsory retirement – Constitution of India - Article 226, 311 - The order of compulsory retirement is neither punitive nor stigmatic. It is based on subjective satisfaction of the employer and a very limited scope of judicial review is available in such cases. Interference is permissible only on the ground of non-application of mind, mala fide, perverse, or arbitrary or if there is non-compliance with statutory duty by the statutory authority. Power to retire compulsorily the government servant in terms of service rule is absolute, provided the authority concerned forms a bona fide opinion that compulsory retirement is in public interest. (Para 15, 20)

In the case in hand, the record reflects that the petitioner has been awarded several punishments during the entire tenure of service. Though, they have not been categorically denied by the petitioner, but he has tried to explain that those punishment or adverse entries are not sufficient material based on which the committee could form an opinion that his continuance in service is not in the public interest. (Para 17, 18)

B. Adverse entries and un-communicated entries in the confidential record shall be taken into consideration in forming an opinion as to whether service of the petitioner is required and continuance of petitioner is for the benefit of the department and is in the public interest. (Para 25)

It is true that authority while considering as to whether petitioner is deadwood and his continuance in the department is not in the public interest should give due weightage to the record of the last 10 years, but it does not mean that authorities are precluded from looking into the entire service record of the petitioner in forming the opinion.

In the present case, even the service record of the last 10 years of the petitioner is not clean and this fact has not specifically been denied by the petitioner. However, the petitioner had tried to demonstrate that punishment awarded to him has been condoned on the ground that he had been granted time pay scale, grade pay, and A.C.P. which could be extended to him only when the authorities are satisfied that his past service had been satisfactory. (Para 19, 22, 23, 24)

Principles governing the grant of certain benefits i.e. pay scales and other benefits are different than the assessment of service record of the petitioner to assess his suitability for continuance in the department, therefore, grant of the promotional pay scale, etc. may be one factor which may be in favour of the petitioner, but it does not mean that authority while assessing the suitability of the petitioner is under obligation to ignore other factors. (Para 26)

In the instant case, right from the joining of service by the petitioner, it is evident that the petitioner has been awarded adverse entries or punishment. The committee is competent to broadly look into the entire service record of the petitioner to form an opinion. (Para 27)

Present petition assails orders dated 31.07.2017 and 10.11.2017, passed by Commandant, 12th Bn. P.A.C., District-Fatehpur.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Satya Prakash Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner and Dr. Amar Nath

Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioner by means of the present writ petition has assailed the orders dated 31.07.2017 and 10.11.2017 passed by respondent no.2 by which the petitioner has been compulsorily retired from service.

3. The petitioner was appointed as Constable in P.A.C. on 15.08.1981 and was promoted as Head Constable in the year 1992. The date of birth of the petitioner is 25.06.1962 and the date of retirement is 30.06.2022.

4. It appears that a decision was taken by the Government to assess the suitability of about 203 Constables belonging to Class-III employees and 36 employees of Class-IV working in the P.A.C. Department for continuing in service.

5. Pursuant to the said decision, a Committee was constituted to assess the suitability of employees. Accordingly, the committee constituted for such purpose, assessed the suitability of employees. The Committee on the assessment of service record of the petitioner found that in the last 10 years the service of the petitioner was not satisfactory, and accordingly, his services are no longer required in the public interest. Consequently, the committee recommended the compulsory retirement of the petitioner by order dated 31.07.2017.

6. The case of the petitioner is that the service record of the petitioner has not been properly assessed by the committee, yet he has been recommended for compulsory retirement.

7. A counter affidavit has been filed by the respondent-state stating that the petitioner was awarded five minor punishments in the years 1984, 1989, 1998, 2001, and 2015. It was further stated that the petitioner was awarded three censure entries in the years 2002, 2007, and 2010 and adverse annual remarks in the years 2002, 2010, 2013, and 2015. Thus, the service of the petitioner is not satisfactory. The respondents also enclosed a chart based on the service book of the petitioner demonstrating the punishment awarded to the petitioner. The chart enclosed as Annexure 4 to the counter affidavit is being extracted herein-below:-

8. The further averment in the counter affidavit is that the screening committee after scrutinizing the service record of the petitioner found that five minor punishments, three censure entries, and four annual remarks had been awarded to the petitioner, accordingly, it recommended for compulsory retirement of the petitioner as the continuance of the petitioner in service would not be in the public interest.

9. To meet the averments made in the counter affidavit, a second supplementary affidavit has been filed by the petitioner stating therein that petitioner on completing 8 years of satisfactory service as Head Constable was given the benefit of selection grade w.e.f 09.07.2000, and on completing 14 years of service, he was granted super selection grade on 09.07.2006. It is further stated that vide Hindi Order Book (HOB) No.408 dated 15.07.2014, the petitioner was granted Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- under Assured Career Progression (ACP) Scheme by providing two increments w.e.f 30.03.2013. The arrears of salary was also paid to the petitioner. It is further stated that none of the adverse entries awarded to the petitioner in the last 10 years have been communicated to the petitioner, particularly entries of the years 2010, 2013 & 2014 were never communicated to the petitioner. The integrity of the petitioner was always certified by the concerned officer.

10. Respondent no.2 filed a supplementary counter affidavit wherein he did not deny the fact of granting time pay scale to the petitioner on 07.09.2000, but it was pleaded that petitioner was placed under suspension on being engaged in a scuffle with one Indrapal during the Parade at 42nd Battalion P.A.C., Allahabad. It is further pleaded that from the service record, it is also evident that the petitioner was awarded adverse entries in the years 2013 & 2014, however, it is not clear from the record as to whether these entries were communicated to the petitioner or not. The petitioner was punished in the year 2015 at Orderly Room and was awarded adverse entry by order dated 08.01.2018. The petitioner was punished with a penalty of Rs.500 by order dated 30.03.2010.

11. In the rejoinder affidavit filed to the counter affidavit petitioner did not deny the fact of various punishments awarded to the petitioner but has tried to explain in paragraph 5 of the rejoinder affidavit why they are not relevant while assessing and scrutinizing the past service record of the petitioner for consideration to recommend the petitioner for compulsory retirement.

12. The petitioner filed a supplementary rejoinder affidavit to the supplementary counter affidavit wherein the averments made in the supplementary counter affidavit have not been specifically denied. However, in paragraph 5 of the rejoinder affidavit, he has stated that the date 08.01.2018 has been wrongly mentioned whereas the correct date is 08.01.2008, but he did not deny the fact that he was awarded adverse entry by the said order.

13. Challenging the order of compulsory retirement, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the order of compulsory retirement has been passed without correctly assessing and scrutinizing the service record of the petitioner. He submits that there was no material or evidence against the petitioner before the committee based on which the committee could form an opinion that continuance of petitioner in service is not in the public interest. He further submits the fact that the petitioner has been extended the benefit of the time pay scale and benefit of ACP by granting two increments w.e.f 30.03.2013 implies that whatever adverse entries or order of punishment are recorded in the service record of the petitioner have been condoned as the benefit of the time pay scale and ACP are granted on the basis of satisfaction of past service of an employee, and thus, it proves that recommendation of the committee recommending the petitioner to compulsory retirement is not based upon proper appreciation of record of past service of the petitioner. It is further submitted that since the recommendation for compulsory retirement has been made without application of mind, therefore, order of compulsory retirement is not sustainable in law and deserves to be set aside. In support of his aforesaid submissions, he has placed reliance upon the following judgments:-

i. State of Gujarat and Another Vs. Suryakant Chunilal Shah (1999) 1 SCC 529;

ii. Madhya Pradesh State Cooperative Dairy Federation Limited and Another Vs. Rajnesh Kumar Jamindar and Others (2009) 15 SCC 221;

iii. Avinash Chandra Tripathi Vs. State of U.P. and Another 2018 (7) ADJ 582 (DB).

14. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that specific case of the respondents in the counter affidavit is that petitioner has been awarded punishment and adverse entry several times in the entire service, and the committee after scrutinizing the service record of the petitioner rightly formed opinion that continuance of petitioner is not in the public interest and accordingly, the committee has rightly recommended the petitioner for compulsory retirement. He submits that the Court under Article 226 of Constitution of India may not interfere with the order of compulsory retirement except where the order has been passed malafidely, capriciously, and based upon extraneous consideration and as none of the conditions in which this Court can interfere with the order of compulsory retirement are present, the writ petition being devoid of merit deserves to be dismissed. In support of his aforesaid contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in Writ-A No.52623 of 2017 (Dinesh Chandra Vs. State of U.P. & Another) & Writ-A No.11828 of 2018 (Shiv Charan Vs. State of U.P. And 3 Others).

15. Before proceeding to appreciate the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner, it would be apposite to refer to the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Rajesh Kumar Gupta Vs. State of Jammu & Kashmir and Others (2013) 3 SCC 514 wherein Apex Court has succinctly explained the law on compulsory retirement. Paragraphs 20 & 21 of the said judgment are being extracted herein below:-

"20. The principles on which a government servant can be ordered to be compulsorily retired were authoritatively laid down by this Court in Baikuntha Nath Das Vs. District Medical Officer (1992) 2 SCC 299. In para 34, the principles have been summed up as follows:-

"34. The following principles emerge from the above discussion:

(i) An order of compulsory retirement is not a punishment. It implies no stigma nor any suggestion of misbehaviour.

(ii) The order has to be passed by the Government on forming the opinion that it is in the public interest to retire a government servant compulsorily. The order is passed on the subjective satisfaction of the Government.

(iii) Principles of natural justice have no place in the context of an order of compulsory retirement. This does not mean that judicial scrutiny is excluded altogether. While the High Court or this Court would not examine the matter as an appellate court, they may interfere if they are satisfied that the order is passed (a) mala fide or (b) that it is based on no evidence or (c) that it is arbitrary -- in the sense that no reasonable person would form the requisite opinion on the given material; in short, if it is found to be a perverse order.

(iv) The Government (or the Review Committee, as the case may be) shall have to consider the entire record of service before taking a decision in the matter -- of course attaching more importance to record of and performance during the later years. The record to be so considered would naturally include the entries in the confidential records/character rolls, both favourable and adverse. If a government servant is promoted to a higher post notwithstanding the adverse remarks, such remarks lose their sting, more so, if the promotion is based upon merit (selection) and not upon seniority.

(v). An order of compulsory retirement is not liable to be quashed by a court merely on the showing that while passing it uncommunicated adverse remarks were also taken into consideration. That circumstance by itself cannot be a basis for interference.

Interference is permissible only on the grounds mentioned in (iii) above. This aspect has been discussed in paras 30 to 32 above."

21. The aforesaid principles have been re-examined and reiterated by this Court in Nand Kumar Verma Vs. State of Jharkhand (2012) 3 SCC 580. The principles have been restated as follows:-

"34. It is also well settled that the formation of opinion for compulsory retirement is based on the subjective satisfaction of the authority concerned but such satisfaction must be based on a valid material. It is permissible for the courts to ascertain whether a valid material exists or otherwise, on which the subjective satisfaction of the administrative authority is based. In the present matter, what we see is that the High Court, while holding that the track record and service record of the appellant was unsatisfactory, has selectively taken into consideration the service record for certain years only while making extracts of those contents of the ACRs. There appears to be some discrepancy. We say so for the reason that the appellant has produced the copies of the ACRs which were obtained by him from the High Court under the Right to Information Act, 2005 and a comparison of these two would positively indicate that the High Court has not faithfully extracted the contents of the ACRs.

36. The material on which the decision of the compulsory retirement was based, as extracted by the High Court in the impugned judgment, and material furnished by the appellant would reflect that totality of relevant materials were not considered or completely ignored by the High Court. This leads to only one conclusion that the subjective satisfaction of the High Court was not based on the sufficient or relevant material. In this view of the matter, we cannot say that the service record of the appellant was unsatisfactory which would warrant premature retirement from service. Therefore, there was no justification to retire the appellant compulsorily from service."

16. In the case of State of Gujarat Vs. Umedbhai M. Patel (2001) 3 SCC 314 the Apex Court has broadly summarised the principles relating to compulsory retirement. Paragraph 11 of the said judgment is being extracted herein below:-

"11. The law relating to compulsory retirement has now crystallised into definite principles, which could be broadly summarised thus:

(i) Whenever the services of a public servant are no longer useful to the general administration, the officer can be compulsorily retired for the sake of public interest.

(ii) Ordinarily, the order of compulsory retirement is not to be treated as a punishment coming under Article 311 of the Constitution.

(iii) For better administration, it is necessary to chop off dead wood, but the order of compulsory retirement can be passed after having due regard to the entire service record of the officer.

(iv) Any adverse entries made in the confidential record shall be taken note of and be given due weightage in passing such order.

(v) Even uncommunicated entries in the confidential record can also be taken into consideration.

(vi) The order of compulsory retirement shall not be passed as a short cut to avoid departmental enquiry when such course is more desirable.

(vii) If the officer was given a promotion despite adverse entries made in the confidential record, that is a fact in favour of the officer.

(viii) Compulsory retirement shall not be imposed as a punitive measure."

17. In the light of parameters laid down by the Apex Court in the aforesaid two judgments, the Court proceeds to analyse the challenge to the order of compulsory retirement. In the case in hand, the record reflects that the petitioner has been awarded several punishments during the entire tenure of service which has been detailed in the earlier part of the judgment.

18. The fact that the petitioner has been awarded so many adverse entries and punishment as stated in the counter affidavit, which has been detailed above, has not been categorically denied by the petitioner. Though, the petitioner has tried to explain in rejoinder affidavit that those punishment or adverse entries are not sufficient material based on which the committee could form an opinion that continuance of petitioner in service is not in the public interest.

19. It is also urged by the learned counsel for the petitioner that whatever adverse entry or punishment has been awarded in the past are condoned by the respondents for the reasons that petitioner has been awarded time pay scale and grade pay etc. and had been granted ACP which can be granted only when in the opinion of the department, service of the petitioner had been satisfactory.

20. At this point, it would be worth notice the judgment of this Court in the case of Dinesh Chandra (supra) wherein order of compulsory retirement has been assailed on the ground that it was based upon annual confidential remarks for the years 2011-12 and 2013-14, and an 'Excellent' entry awarded by the Tehsildar for the year 2016-17 was ignored, thus, order of compulsory retirement is illegal; while repelling the said contention, this Court held that the order of compulsory retirement is based upon subjective satisfaction of the employer and a very limited scope of judicial review is available in such cases. It is further held that the order of compulsory retirement is neither punitive nor stigmatic. Paragraph 8 of the said judgment is being extracted herein below:-

"8. Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Shyamlal v. State of U.P., AIR 1954 SC 369, held that the two requirements for compulsory retirement are that the officer has completed twenty-five years service and that it is in the public interest to dispense with his further services. It is true that this power of compulsory retirement may be used when the authority exercising this power cannot substantiate the misconduct which may be the real cause for taking the action but what is important to note is that the directions in the last sentence in Note 1 to Article 465-A make it abundantly clear that an imputation or charge is not in terms made a condition for the exercise of the power. In other words, a compulsory retirement has no stigma or implication of misbehaviour or incapacity. A compulsory retirement does not amount to dismissal or removal and, therefore, does not attract the provisions of Article 311 of the Constitution. In Rajasthan SRTC v. Babu Lal Jangir, (2013) 10 SCC 551, held that it hardly needs to be emphasised that the order of compulsory retirement is neither punitive nor stigmatic. It is based on subjective satisfaction of the employer and a very limited scope of judicial review is available in such cases. Interference is permissible only on the ground of non-application of mind, mala fide, perverse, or arbitrary or if there is non-compliance with statutory duty by the statutory authority. Power to retire compulsorily the government servant in terms of service rule is absolute, provided the authority concerned forms a bona fide opinion that compulsory retirement is in public interest."

21. Similar view has been taken by this Court in the case of Shiv Charan (supra) wherein the order of compulsory retirement was challenged on the ground that the order is stigmatic and has been passed in violation of Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India.

22. Applying the parameters elucidated by the Apex Court in considering the challenge to the order of compulsory retirement, this Court finds that recommendation of the committee to compulsorily retire the petitioner is based upon consideration of the entire service record of the petitioner.

23. It is true that authority while considering as to whether petitioner is deadwood and his continuance in the department is not in the public interest should give due weightage to the record of the last 10 years, but it does not mean that authorities are precluded from looking into the entire service record of the petitioner in forming the opinion that an employee is deadwood and his continuance in the department is not in the public interest.

24. In the present case, even the service record of the last 10 years of the petitioner is not clean which is evident from the chart given in the counter affidavit, extracted above, and this fact has not specifically been denied by the petitioner. However, the petitioner had tried to demonstrate that punishment awarded to him has been condoned on the ground that he had been granted time pay scale, grade pay, and A.C.P. which could be extended to him only when the authorities are satisfied that his past service had been satisfactory.

25. It is true that in the case of Umedebhai M. Patel (supra) the Apex Court has held that if the officer was given a promotion despite adverse entries in his confidential record, that is a fact in his favour, but at the same time, Apex Court has also held that adverse entries and uncommunicated entries in the confidential record shall be taken into consideration in forming an opinion as to whether service of the petitioner is required and continuance of petitioner is for the benefit of the department and is in the public interest.

26. At this point, it is worth noticing that principles governing the grant of certain benefits i.e. pay scales and other benefits are different than the assessment of service record of the petitioner to assess the suitability of the petitioner whether his continuance in the department is for the public good or not, therefore, grant of the promotional pay scale, etc. may be one factor which may be in favour of the petitioner, but it does not mean that authority while assessing the suitability of the petitioner is under obligation to ignore other factors to consider whether the continuance of petitioner in the department is in the public interest or not.

27. In the instant case, right from the joining of service by the petitioner, it is evident that the petitioner has been awarded adverse entries or punishment. The committee is competent to broadly look into the entire service record of the petitioner to form an opinion as to whether the employee should be recommended for compulsory retirement as the object of the compulsory retirement is to weed out the deadwood and making a healthy working environment in the department for the public good.

28. So far as the judgment of this Court in the case of Avinash Chandra Tripathi (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner is concerned, it was a case where the service record of the petitioner did not reflect any adverse entry against him and one adverse entry, which was awarded to him, was set aside and upon consideration of entire service record, this Court found that opinion formed by the committee for recommending the case of the petitioner for compulsory retirement was not based upon material on record, and accordingly, this Court interfered with the order of compulsory retirement.

29. In the case of Suryakant Chunilal Shah (supra), the order of compulsory retirement was based upon the involvement of the employee in two criminal cases, and the department based on the involvement of the employee in two criminal cases formed an opinion that the continuance of the employee in the department was not in the public interest. The apex court set aside the order of compulsory retirement holding that involvement of an employee in a criminal case does not imply that he is guilty. Paragraph 27 of the said judgment is being extracted herein-below:-

"27. The whole exercise described above would, therefore, indicate that although there was no material on the basis of which a reasonable opinion could be formed that the respondent had outlived his utility as a government servant or that he had lost his efficiency and had become a dead wood, he was compulsorily retired merely because of his involvement in two criminal cases pertaining to the grant of permits in favour of fake and bogus institutions. The involvement of a person in a criminal case does not mean that he is guilty. He is still to be tried in a court of law and the truth has to be found out ultimately by the court where the prosecution is ultimately conducted. But before that stage is reached, it would be highly improper to deprive a person of his livelihood merely on the basis of his involvement. We may, however, hasten to add that mere involvement in a criminal case would constitute relevant material for compulsory retirement or not would depend upon the circumstances of each case and the nature of offence allegedly committed by the employee."

30. As the judgment of Suryakant Chunilal Shah (supra) has been rendered in a different fact situation, therefore, this judgment does not come in aid to the petitioner.

31. In the case of Madhya Pradesh State Cooperative Dairy Federation Limited (supra), Apex Court affirmed the order of High Court quashing the order of compulsory retirement as no consideration has been given to the performance of the employee for the last five years and order of compulsory retirement had been passed ignoring the rules and circulars made by the Federation to assess the suitability of an employee whether he is dead wood for the department and should be compulsory retired. Paragraphs 41 & 42 of the judgment are being extracted herein-below:-

"41. We have noticed hereinbefore that although criteria adopted by the State were required to be considered for the purpose of determining the suitability or otherwise of the employees to continue in service, the necessity to give special consideration to the performance of the employees for the last five years before the order was passed had been given a complete go-by. The learned Single Judge as also the Division Bench, as noticed hereinbefore, clearly held that for the purpose of weeding out the dead wood, it was absolutely necessary to take into consideration the performance of each of the employees at least for the last two years.

Each case, thus, was required to be considered on its merit.

42. The broad criteria, which are not only applicable generally for the aforementioned purpose, were required to be followed but there cannot be any doubt or dispute that the criteria laid down by the State was imperative in character. Thus, the Federation adopted the rules and circulars made or issued by the State Government. The Federation itself having formulated the criteria required to be applied for passing orders of compulsory retirement was, thus, bound thereby."

32. This judgment is also of no help to the petitioner as the facts in which order of compulsory retirement was quashed by the High Court and affirmed by the Apex Court are entirely different and not akin to the facts in the present case.

33. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed with no order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

Writ-A No. 5817 of 2020

Kaushal Kishore Chaubey & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Syed Wajid Ali

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Pension/Retiral Benefits - U.P. Civil Service Regulations - Regulation - 368 & 370 - Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits (Amendment) Rules, 2005 - U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 - The services rendered by an employee either as work charged employee or Seasonal Collection Amin are to be counted for granting the pensionary benefit to them, and the nomenclature of their appointment, be a daily wager, temporary or whatever, is not material to consider their claim for grant of pensionary and retiral benefits. (Para 22)

The pensionary provisions must be given a liberal construction being a social welfare measure; it does not mean that something can be given contrary to rules, but the purpose of grant of such pension must be kept in mind while interpreting pensionary provision. The grant of pension is to facilitate a retired Government employee to live with dignity in his winter of life, therefore, such benefit should not be denied to an employee unreasonably on mere technicalities. (Para 16 to 20)

In the instant case is that the petitioners have been engaged as Seasonal Collection Amin between the year 1976 to 1990 and their services have been regularized between the years 2011 to 2016 and they have been extended all the benefits like the revision of pay with the approval of the competent authority as paid to the regular Collection Amin. The duties which have been discharged by the petitioners while working as Seasonal Collection Amin was similar to the duties discharged by regular Collection Amin, and on continuance and satisfactory services rendered by them as Seasonal Collection Amin, they have been regularized in service as per Rules. Thus, it is evident that though the nomenclature and nature of appointment to the petitioners were Seasonal Collection Amin, but as a matter of fact, they meet all the requirements to be treated as temporary employees. (Para 21)

The services rendered by the petitioners as Seasonal Collection Amin cannot be ignored for extending the benefits of pension and other retiral benefits to them on the pretext that their appointment is to be treated from the date of regularization and not from the date of their engagement as work charged employee. (Para 24)

Constitution of India: Article 14 - Petitioners have worked for decades as Seasonal Collection Amin discharging the same duty which has been discharged by the regular Collection Amin and have been extended same benefits which have been extended to the regular Collection Amin, therefore, denying them the benefit of pension and other benefits which have been extended to Regular Collection Amin would not only be arbitrary but against the concept of the right to equality as enshrined in Art. 14 of the Constitution of India. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Syed Wajid Ali, learned counsel for the petitioner, and Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. The petitioners, through the present writ petition, have prayed for a writ of mandamus commanding the respondents to grant pension and other retiral benefits to them .

3. The petitioners, who are five in numbers, were engaged as Seasonal Collection Amin on different dates in Tehsil Sadar, District Maharajganj. Their services were regularized and all of them have retired. The details of all the petitioners in respect of their date of engagement, regularization, and retirement are given in the table below:-

Sl No.	Name of Petitioners	Date of Engagement	Date of Regularization	Date of Retirement
1.	Kaushal Kishore Chaubey	05.07.1976	31.05.2012	31.05.2018
2.	Nar Singh	20.03.1984	23.12.2011	31.01.2018
3.	Ravindra Kumar Dubey	29.08.1989	25.10.2016	20.09.2019
4.	Madan Prasad	03.02.1990	24.12.2011	31.01.2020
5.	Ramesh Chandra Pandey	10.03.1987	09.09.2012	31.07.2016

4. It is stated in the writ petition that the petitioners had worked as Seasonal Collection Amin continuously except with some artificial break before they were regularized on the post of Collection Amin. The petitioners were granted the pay scale applicable to the regular Collection Amin and their salary was revised from time to time with the approval of the competent authority, therefore, the working of the petitioners cannot be treated as Seasonal Collection Amin rather they were temporary employees, hence, after retirement, they are entitled to retiral benefits including the pension because of Regulation 368 & 370 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations.

5. As the petitioners are entitled to all the retiral benefits including pension, accordingly, they submitted a representation to respondent no.2-District Magistrate/Collector, Maharajganj to grant them all the retiral benefits including pension, but the competent authority informed them that since they had discharged their duties as Seasonal Collection Amin before their regularization, therefore, they are not entitled to the pension and other retiral benefits.

6. Further, the case of the petitioners is that the petitioners have served as Collection Amin for more than three decades, therefore, the respondent authority has acted arbitrarily and malafidely in not extending the benefit of pension to the petitioners.

7. In the counter affidavit of the respondent nos. 2 and 3, the assertions made by the petitioners in respect of their engagement as Seasonal Collection Amin and their regularization have not been denied. However, in paragraphs nos.10 & 11 of the counter affidavit, it is averred that the petitioners are not entitled to the pensionary benefits in view of Government Orders dated 15.09.2011, 19.05.2016, and 15.05.2009 and further in view of Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits (Amendment) Rules, 2005 which clarified that the persons appointed on or after 01.04.2005 are not covered by Pension Rules. It is further stated that whatever post-retiral benefits were due to the petitioners, they have been paid.

8. Strangely, a separate counter affidavit has been filed by respondent no.1 stating therein that the services rendered by the petitioners as Seasonal Collection Amin before regularization is liable to be counted for the qualifying period of 10 years service for the purpose of giving pension and other retiral benefits. Paragraph no.2 of the counter affidavit of respondent no.1 is being extracted here-in-below:-

" 2. That in the present petition, the petitioners continued to work on the post of seasonal collection Amin and their scales were also being revised and subsequently, their services were regularized and they have retired from their posts therefore, the services rendered by the petitioners as seasonal collection Amin before their regularization is liable to be counted for the qualifying period of 10 years for the purpose of giving pension and other retiral benefits."

9. Learned counsel for the petitioners contended that the action of the respondent authorities in not extending the benefit of pension and other retiral dues to the petitioners on the pretext that the claim of the petitioners relating to their post retiral benefits are governed by the various Government Orders, referred above, and Rule 2005, hence, the petitioners are not entitled to the benefits of U.P. Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961 is incorrect and not sustainable in law. He further contends that since, undisputedly the petitioners have been engaged as Seasonal Collection Amin between the year 1976 to 1990 and they have been extended all the benefits, like the revision of pay scale, etc. as applicable to regular Collection Amin, therefore, the nature of appointment of the petitioners is temporary and as the Fundamental Rules 56 applies to them, therefore, it is wrong to contend that they are not entitled to pension and other retiral benefits having been appointed after 01.04.2005.

10. It is submitted that the petitioners have been appointed on various dates between the year 1976 to 1990 and because of their continuance in service, their services have been regularized, therefore, it is wrong to assume that the date of appointment of the petitioners is the date of their regularization and not the date on which they have been engaged as Seasonal Collection Amin.

11. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance upon the judgments of this Court in the case of Board of Revenue through its Chairman: The District Magistrate and Up--Zila Adhikari Vs. Prasidh Narain Upadhyay, reported in 2006 (5) AWC 5194 (DB); Gulaichi Devi Vs. State of U.P. and Ors., reported in 2019 12 ADJ 547; State of U.P. and others Vs. Ram Sunder Ram, reported in 2016 34 LCD 2804 (DB); Babu Lal Tewari Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2019 (3) ADJ 501 and also the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of V. Sukumaran Vs. state of Kerala and another, reported in 2020 4 Supreme(SC) 509.

12. Per-contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel would contend that the petitioners are not entitled to the pensionary benefits and other retiral benefits in view of the Government Orders dated 15.09.2011, 19.05.2016, and 15.05.2009 and Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits (Sansodhan) Rules, 2005.

13. She further contends that the date of regularization of the petitioners shall be taken to be the date of their substantive appointment, and since all the petitioners have been regularized after 01.04.2005, therefore, they are not entitled to the pension and other retiral benefits, and whatever benefit was due to them, that had already been paid to them, as such the writ petition lacks merit and deserves to be dismissed.

14. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

15. Before dealing with the submissions of learned counsel for the parties, it would be appropriate to have a glance at various pronouncements of Apex Court as well as of this Court dealing with the questions as to whether the services rendered as daily wager or work charged employee, etc. are to be counted for pension or not.

16. In the case of V. Sukumaran (supra), the Apex Court has emphasized that the pensionary provisions must be given a liberal construction being a social welfare measure; it does not mean that something can be given contrary to rules, but the purpose of grant of such pension must be kept in mind while interpreting pensionary provision. It emphasized that the grant of pension is to facilitate a retired Government employee to live with dignity in his winter of life, therefore, such benefit should not be denied to an employee unreasonably on mere technicalities.

17. In the case of State of U.P. and others(supra), the Division Bench of this Court repelled the contention of the counsel for the State of U.P. that the respondent in the appeal is not entitled to the pension and other pensionary benefits as he did not hold any regular post and worked on the non-pensionable establishment on the availability of work and fund. The relevant paragraph nos. 10, 12, 13 & 14 of the judgment are being reproduced here-in-below:-

"10. Dr. Hari Shankar Ashopa v. State of U.P. and Ors. 1989 ACJ 337 after referring to the Fundamental Rule 56 and various provisions contained in Civil Service Regulations, this Court observed that Clause (e) of Rule 56 unequivocally recognizes, declares and guarantees retiring pension to every Government servant who retires on attaining the age of superannuation, or who is prematurely retired or who retires voluntarily. To be precise, every Government servant (whether permanent or temporary) who retires under Clause (a) or Clause (b) or who is required to retire, or who is allowed to retire under Clause (c) of Rule 56, becomes entitled for a retiring pension, of course, the first and third conditions stipulated in Article 361 of the Regulations are satisfied.

12. We have occasion to peruse the entire record in question and find that the petitioner-respondent was initially appointed on the post of Temporary Seasonal Collection Peon in agriculture department on 27.5.1970 and subsequently on 31.9.1975 his services were retrenched. Taking shelter of the Government order dated 6.3.1977, which provided that the retrenched employee was to be absorbed in revenue department on the basis of seniority, the petitioner was again appointed on the post of Temporary Collection Peon on 4.2.1981 on substantive post and he worked continuously without any break upto 1.1.1990. Thereafter the petitioner's services were regularized on the post of Collection Peon w.e.f. 1.1.1990. The petitioner has retired on attaining the age of superannuation on 30.6.2004. The petitioner filed the writ petition in question in the year 2007 for counting his temporary services on the post of Temporary Collection Peon from 4.2.1981 to 1.1.1990. Learned Single Judge has proceeded to dispose of the writ petition in question on 16.3.2009 with the following observations:-

"Thus in view of the mater, the contention of the respondents that the service rendered by the petitioner as Temporary Collection Peon is not liable to be taken into consideration for the purpose of computing petitioner's pension is clearly misconceived and is rejected. Respondents are liable to consider the temporary continuous service rendered by the petitioner on the post of Collection Peon from 4.2.1981 to 1.1.1990 for the purpose of computing his pension.

For the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition is finally disposed of with a direction to the petitioner to file a fresh comprehensive representation for revision of his pension on the grounds raised in the present writ petition alongwith the certified copy of this order before the respondent no.2 within two weeks from today and in case any such representation is preferred by the petitioner as directed above, the same shall be considered and decided by the respondent no.2 strictly in accordance with law by a reasoned and speaking order after taking into consideration the service rendered by the petitioner on the post of Temporary Collection Peon from 4.2.1981 to 1.1.1990 as expeditiously as possible preferably within a period of two months from the date of receipt of the petitioner's representation."

13. The service record of the petitioner, which is appended alongwith supplementary affidavit filed by the State on 22.12.2015, clearly reveals that no doubt the petitioner was initially inducted in the agriculture department as Seasonal Collection Peon on temporary basis in the year 1976 but he had been accorded regular pay scale and the increment was also given by the department concerned on 1.2.1986 and thereafter he was paid regular pay scales. The engagement of the petitioner was made against substantive post and this is admitted case that he has been accorded pay scales and regular increments and at no point of time the said document had been disputed by the appellants.

14. In the case of Dukh Haran Singh (supra) the Court has taken a view that the petitioner does not qualify for grant of pension as in terms of Regulations 361 and 370 of the Regulations, the services rendered prior to that are neither substantive, permanent nor temporary. The same would not be applicable in the present case as the relief, which has been accorded by learned Single Judge is in consonance with the Regulations wherein the petitioner had been accorded pay scale and other benefits against substantive post and as such, his claim cannot be negated on the ground that his nomenclature was as seasonal. The same would not help to the appellants-respondents."

18. In the case of the Board of Revenue (supra), the Division Bench repelled an argument that the respondent was a Seasonal Collection Amin, therefore, he was not entitled to pensionary benefits. The Court after noting the ingredients of 'qualifying service' defined in Section 1 Chapter XVI of Article 361 of the Civil Service Regulations held that the Conditions (B) of Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations is inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56, and thus, is inoperative. The Court also observed that the continuous working of the respondent for more than 37 years cannot be ignored on the basis of a vague and unsubstantiated plea. Relevant paragraph nos.12, 13 & 16 of the judgment are being extracted here-in-below:-

"12. The term "qualifying service" is 'defined in Section 1 Chapter XVI of Article 361 of the Civil Service Regulations, which provides that the service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions:-

(A) The service must be under Government.

(B) The employment must be substantive and permanent.

(C) The service must be paid by government.

13. In the present case, so far as the condition Nos.A and C are concerned, they are satisfied and the dispute is only with respect to condition No. B, i.e., lack of permanent character of service. However, in our view, the aforesaid provisions stand obliterated after the amendment of Fundamental Rule 56 by U.P. Act, No.24 of 1975 which allows retirement of a temporary employees also and provides in Clause (e) that a retiring pension is payable and other retiral benefits, if any, shall be available to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this Rule. Since the aforesaid amendment Rule 56 was made by an Act of Legislature, the provisions contained otherwise under Civil Service Regulations, which are pre-constitutional, would have to give way to the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56. In other words the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56 shall prevail over the Civil Service Regulations, if they are inconsistent. Conditions (supra) of Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations are clearly inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56 and thus is inoperative.

16. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that since in the service book, the petitioner-respondent was also shown as Seasonal Collection Peon and, therefore, the mention of word "temporary" as his initial appointment will not make any difference. We do not agree. The contention of the appellants that the petitioner-respondent was a Seasonal Collection Peon and his engagement and post was extended from time to time by the Commissioner is totally unsubstantiated, as nothing has been brought on record to substantiate this plea. Even otherwise the continuous working of the petitioner-respondent for more than 37 years cannot be ignored on the basis of a vague and unsubstantiated plea sought to be raised by the appellants. The statutory right of the petitioner-respondent following by rendering service for such a long service, cannot be brushed aside lightly."

19. In the case of Babu Lal Tewari (supra), the Court has considered the definition of "qualifying service' defined in Section 1 Chapter XVI of Article 361 of the Civil Service Regulations, and held that Condition (B) of Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations being inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56 is inoperative. The Court repelled the argument of the respondent-State that as the petitioner has not completed 10 years service as regular employee since prior to that he was appointed as temporary employee as Peon, therefore, he is not entitled to pensionary benefits. Relevant extract of paragraph no. 11 is being reproduced here-in-below:

"11. Even otherwise, I find that Fundamental Rule, 56, as operative in Uttar Pradesh made by provincial legislation, clearly provides that any person who retires under Fundamental Rule 56 would be entitled for retiring pension. Fundamental Rule 56 since it is provincial enactment would prevail over Civil Service Regulations, which are pre-constitutional provision. This aspect was considered by a Division Bench of this Court in Prasidh Narain Upadhyay (supra), and the Court held:

"12. The term "qualifying service" is defined in Section 1 Chapter 16 of Article 361 of the Civil Service Regulations which provides that the service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions:

(A)The service must be under Government.

(B)The employment must be substantive and permanent.

(C)The service must be paid by Government.

13. In the present case, so far as the condition Nos. A and C are concerned, they are satisfied and the dispute is only with respect to condition No. B, i.e. lack of permanent character of service. However, in our view, the aforesaid provisions stand obliterated after the amendment of Fundamental Rule 56 by U.P. Act No. 24 of 1975 which allows retirement of a temporary employee also and provides in Clause (e) that a retiring pension is payable and other retiral benefits, if any, shall be available to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this Rule. Since the aforesaid amendment Rule 56 was Service Regulations, which are pre-constitutional would have to give way to the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56. In other words, the provisions of Fundamental Rule 56 shall prevail over the Civil Service Regulations, if they are inconsistent. Condition B (supra) of Article 361 of Civil Service Regulations are clearly inconsistent with Fundamental Rule 56 and thus, is inoperative.

14. A similar controversy came up for consideration earlier before this court in the case of Dr. Hari Shanker Ashopa Vs State of U.P. and others, 1989 ACJ 337. After referring to the Fundamental Rule 56 and various provisions contained in Civil Service Regulations, this Court observed as under:

"Clause (e) of Rule 56 unequivocally recognizes, declares and guarantees retiring pension to every Government servant who retires on attaining the age of superannuation, or who is prematurely retired or who retires voluntarily. To be precise, every Government servant (whether permanent or temporary) who retires under Clause (a) of Clause (b), or who is required to retire, or who is allowed to retire under Clause (C) of Rule 56, becomes entitled for a retiring pension, of course, the first and third conditions stipulated in Article 361 of the Regulations are satisfied."

20. In the case of Gulaichi Devi (supra), after analyzing the various pronouncements, the Court has held that a temporary employee appointed on the various establishment of the Government is entitled to the pension under Fundamental Rules, 1956.

21. Undisputedly, the fact in the instant case is that the petitioners have been engaged as Seasonal Collection Amin between the year 1976 to 1990 and their services have been regularized between the years 2011 to 2016 and they have been extended all the benefits like the revision of pay with the approval of the competent authority as paid to the regular Collection Amin. The duties which have been discharged by the petitioners while working as Seasonal Collection Amin was similar to the duties discharged by regular Collection Amin, and on continuance and satisfactory services rendered by them as Seasonal Collection Amin , they have been regularized in service as per Rules. Thus, from the facts narrated above, it is evident that though the nomenclature and nature of appointment to the petitioners were Seasonal Collection Amin , but as a matter of fact, they meet all the requirements to be treated as temporary employees as held by the Apex Court in the case of A.P. Srivastava Vs. Union of India and others, (1995) 3 UPLBEC 1842 (Supplement), [See also Ram Pratap Vs. State of U.P., 2006 (4) ADJ 709, Babu Singh Vs. State of U.P., 2006 (8) ADJ 371, Kedar Ra-I Vs. State of U.P., 2008 ILR (All) 659, Ram Sajiwan Maurya Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ Petition No.3031 (S/S) of 2004 (decided on 12 August 2009), Kanti Devi Vs. State of U.P., 2009 (10) AJD 18, Kishan Singh Vs. State of U.P., 2009 (9) ADJ 516 & Awadh Bihari Shukla Vs. State of U.P., 2015 (6) ADJ 186].

22. From the judgments referred above, it is clear that the Courts has consistently held that the services rendered by an employee either as work charged employee or Seasonal Collection Amin are to be counted for granting the pensionary benefit to them, and the nomenclature of their appointment, be a daily wager, temporary or whatever, is not material to consider their claim for grant of pensionary and retiral benefits.

23. Further, it is also pertinent to mention that the petitioners have worked for decades as Seasonal Collection Amin discharging the same duty which has been discharged by the regular Collection Amin and have been extended same benefits which have been extended to the regular Collection Amin, therefore, in such factual scenario denying the petitioners the benefit of pension and other benefits which have been extended to Regular Collection Amin would not only be arbitrary but against the concept of the right to equality as enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

24. In view of the above discussion and given the law elucidated by the Apex Court as well as by this Court in various pronouncements referred above, the services rendered by the petitioners as Seasonal Collection Amin cannot be ignored for extending the benefits of pension and other retiral benefits to them on the pretext that their appointment is to be treated from the date of regularization and not from the date of their engagement as work charged employee.

25. Consequently,the writ petition is allowed. A writ of mandamus is issued to the respondent to compute pensionary benefit payable to the petitioners after taking into account their entire service including the service rendered by them as Seasonal Collection Amin. The amount payable to the petitioners shall be computed within three months from the date of presentation of a copy of this order downloaded from the official website of Allahabad High Court, and the same shall be paid within the next two months. The respondents shall also continue to pay current pensionary benefits as and when the same fell due.

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

Writ-A No. 5064 of 2021

Sachin Yadav ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Kailash Singh Kushwaha, Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh Kushwaha

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Sanjay Kumar Srivastava

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Ministerial Staff and Group 'D' Employees), Rules, 1984 - Rule 6 - U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

The object of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate relief to the bereaved family so that the bereaved family may get over the financial hardship suffered by them on account of the untimely death of the sole bread earner of the family. It is settled in law that the compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule and no aspirant has a right to the compassionate appointment. Thus, the petitioner cannot claim an appointment on compassionate grounds as a matter of right, and it can be given to the petitioner if he fulfills the norms prescribed for the grant of compassionate appointment. (Para 15, 16)

B. Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools)(Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Ministerial Staff and Group 'D' Employees), Rules, 1984: Rule 6 - The minimum age for recruitment on Class-III Posts is 18 years. The petitioner did not submit any application as soon as he became eligible for consideration for appointment on the compassionate ground rather he applied after six years, at the age of 24 years on 4.11.2019. (Para 14)

C. U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying-in-Harness, Rules, 1974 – (a) Under the Scheme for compassionate appointment, the Rule does not envisage any such contingency where the widow of the deceased employee submitted an application for consideration of appointment on compassionate ground, and thereafter, she sat idle and did not take any legal recourse to assert her claim for appointment, rather she waited for her son to become eligible, thereafter, she withdrew her application and requested for the appointment of her son in her place. The father of the petitioner had died in the year 2006. The family survived for more than 15 years. The mother of the petitioner was entitled to claim the compassionate appointment which she did not pursue, and surrendered her claim after nine years of submission of her application with a request for the appointment of her son in her place. If such a practice is permitted, that would frustrate the object of the Scheme of compassionate appointment. (Para 17, 18)

(b) It is true that Rules, 1974 provides that if the application for compassionate appointment is submitted after five years, the competent authority is obliged to forward it to the State Government to consider the claim of compassionate appointment who is under obligation to consider the same, but the application has to be submitted within a reasonable time after the expiry of the period prescribed for submitting such application specifying the reasons for the delay in submitting the application.

If the state government in a given case is satisfied, that the delay in filing the application is bona fide, it may consider the application and accord consideration for compassionate appointment subject to fulfillment of other eligibility criteria prescribed for compassionate appointment. The said provision does not confer an indefeasible right upon the aspirant of the compassionate appointment for consideration of his application. (Para 20)

In the present case, no such condition exists inasmuch as the petitioner has not explained the reason for the delay in submitting the application rather the facts stated above reveals that the mother of the petitioner was dormant in pursuing her claim. (Para 21)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kailash Singh Kushwaha, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondent no.1, and Sri Sanjay Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for respondents no.2,3 and 4.

2. The petitioner, through this writ petition, has prayed for the following reliefs:

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondent no.3 to provide compassionate appointment to the petitioner without any further delay.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondent no.2 either to take appropriate and necessary decision on the reference made by respondent no.3 by letter dated 27.12.2011 followed by reminder dated 30.04.2013 and 04.03.2021 for providing compassionate appointment or to refer the matter to the State Government f through proper channel forthwith.

(iii) Issue any other writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the present case.

(iv) Award the costs of the petition in favour of the petitioner."

3. The case of the petitioner is that the father of the petitioner Late Satya Pal Singh was an Assistant Teacher in Primary School Jagra, Block Nidhauli Kala, District Etah, who unfortunately died on 16.3.2006. After his death, the mother of the petitioner applied for compassionate appointment on 3.1.2011. The application of the mother of the petitioner was processed, she was asked to submit an application in the prescribed format. Thereafter, respondent no.4 forwarded the application of the mother of the petitioner along with its recommendation for compassionate appointment to respondent no.3 on 27.12.2011. Since the mother of the petitioner applied after five years from the date of death of his father, therefore, the respondent no.3 referred the application of the mother of the petitioner vide letter dated 27.12.2011 to respondent no.2 for grant of relaxation in time for the delay in submitting the application.

4. It appears that no decision was taken on the application of the mother of the petitioner for the compassionate appointment.

5. It further transpires from the record that when no decision was taken on the application of the mother of the petitioner, she withdrew her application and requested the appointment of her son Sachin Yadav in her place. The District Basic Education Officer, Etah vide letter dated 4.3.2021 forwarded the application of the petitioner for compassionate appointment to the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Prayagraj, for grant of relaxation in time as the petitioner has submitted the application after five years from the date of death of his father. In the aforesaid backdrop, the petitioner has prayed for the relief extracted above.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that Para-8 of the Government Order dated 4.9.2000 provides for seeking necessary approval of the State Government where the application for the compassionate appointment has been submitted after five years from the date of death of the deceased employee, and the State Government is under obligation to consider the application of the petitioner for grant of relaxation for the delay in submitting the said application. Accordingly, he submits that the action of the respondents in not considering the application of the petitioner is illegal. He further contends that whatever delay has occurred, the same has occurred on account of inaction on the part of the respondents in not considering the application of compassionate appointment of his mother in time, therefore, the petitioner is entitled to relaxation in limitation for grant of appointment on compassionate ground.

7. In support of the contention, he has placed reliance upon two judgments of this Court in the cases of Madhav Prasad Shakya Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2018(11) ADJ 198 and Vishal Saini Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2021 (3) ADJ 74 (LB).

8. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel contended that the father of the petitioner had died on 16.3.2006 and more than 15 years have passed since the date of death of the father of the petitioner. Accordingly, he contends that a sufficiently long time has elapsed since the death of the father of the petitioner, and the family has survived, therefore, the relief prayed for cannot be granted at this stage since the object of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate relief to the bereaved family.

9. He submits that the mother of the petitioner had submitted an application on 27.11.2011 after about five years from the date of death of the father of the petitioner, and as the limitation prescribed under the Rules for considering the application for the compassionate appointment has expired, therefore, the application of the mother of the petitioner had to be referred to the competent authority for seeking extension of time for considering her claim for compassionate appointment.

10. He submits that though the mother of the petitioner was entitled to the compassionate appointment, she did not pursue her claim, and on 4.11.2019 she withdrew her application with the request to grant compassionate appointment to her son. Accordingly, he submits that there is an inordinate delay in submitting the application for the compassionate appointment, and the relief claimed can not be allowed at this stage. Thus, he submits that the writ petition is devoid of merit and deserves to be dismissed.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel.

12. Indisputably, the father of the petitioner died on 16.3.2006. The mother of the petitioner submitted an application seeking the compassionate appointment on 3.1.2011. Since the application of the mother of the petitioner was not in the proper format, therefore, she was asked to submit an application in proper format by respondent no.4. She, thereafter, submitted an application on 27.12.2011 in the proper format. Since the mother of the petitioner submitted the application after five years, therefore, respondent no.3 referred the matter to the State Government seeking the extension of time in respect to the compassionate appointment of the mother of the petitioner.

13. The matter was referred to the State Government but it appears that the State Government did not act upon the application nor the mother of the petitioner pursued her claim for appointment on compassionate ground. Later on, the mother of the petitioner withdrew her application for the grant of compassionate appointment and requested the appointment of her son on compassionate ground.

14. Accordingly, the petitioner at the age of 24 years applied for the compassionate appointment on 4.11.2019. Under Rule 6 of the Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools)(Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Ministerial Staff and Group 'D' Employees), Rules, 1984 (in Short the Rules), the minimum age for recruitment on Class-III

Posts is 18 years. The petitioner did not submit any application as soon as he became eligible for consideration for appointment on the compassionate ground rather he applied after six years after he became eligible for appointment on compassionate ground.

15. The father of the petitioner had died in the year 2006 and the mother of the petitioner withdrew her application after 13 years and requested for grant of compassionate appointment to her son. At this stage, it is worth noticing that the object of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate relief to the bereaved family so that the bereaved family may get over the financial hardship suffered by them on account of the untimely death of the sole bread earner of the family. It is settled in law that the compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule and no aspirant has a right to the compassionate appointment.

16. Thus, the petitioner cannot claim an appointment on compassionate grounds as a matter of right, and it can be given to the petitioner if he fulfills the norms prescribed for the grant of compassionate appointment.

17. In the case in hand, the mother of the petitioner applied for the compassionate appointment in the proper format in December 2011. Since the application was submitted beyond the period of limitation i.e. five years prescribed for submitting the application for compassionate appointment, therefore, the matter was referred to the State Government, but the State Government did not take any decision on the application of the mother of the petitioner. His mother also did not pursue her claim, and after about 13 years from the date of death of petitioner's father, she withdrew her application and requested for the appointment of her son in her place on compassionate ground. The petitioner thereafter submitted an application on 4.11.2019.

18. The family of the petitioner survived for more than 15 years. The mother of the petitioner was entitled to claim the compassionate appointment which she did not pursue, and surrendered her claim after nine years of submission of her application with a request for the appointment of her son in her place. Under the Scheme for compassionate appointment under U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying-in-Harness, Rules, 1974 (in short the Rules), the Rule does not envisage any such contingency where the widow of the deceased employee submitted an application for consideration of appointment on compassionate ground, and thereafter, she sat idle and did not take any legal recourse to assert her claim for appointment on compassionate ground, rather she waited for her son to become eligible for compassionate appointment, thereafter, she withdrew her application and requested for the appointment of her son in her place. If such a practice is permitted, that would frustrate the object of the Scheme of compassionate appointment which is to provide immediate succor to the bereaved family and to help out the family from the rigors of financial hardship being faced by the family due to the death of sole bread earner of the family and also against the settled norms prescribed for grant of compassionate appointment. Since the family has survived for about 15 years, therefore, this Court believes that the relief claimed by the petitioner cannot be granted.

19. This view is supported by the judgment of the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No. 897 of 2021, Central Coalfields Limited through its Chairman and Managing Director & Ors. Vs. Smt. Parden Oreon decided on 9th April 2021 wherein the Apex Court refused to grant the compassionate appointment to the son of the respondent who submitted the application for the compassionate appointment more than ten years after the respondent's husband has gone missing.

Paragraph 9 of the judgment is reproduced herein-below:

"9. We are in agreement with the High Court that the reasons given by the employer for denying compassionate appointment to the Respondent's son are not justified. There is no bar in the National Coal Wage Agreement for appointment of the son of an employee who has suffered civil death. In addition, merely because the respondent is working, her son cannot be denied compassionate appointment as per the relevant clauses of the National Coal Wage Agreement. However, the Respondent's husband is missing since 2002. Two sons of the Respondent who are the dependents of her husband as per the records, are also shown as dependents of the Respondent. It cannot be said that there there was any financial crisis created immediately after Respondent's husband went missing in view of the employment of the Respondent. Though the reasons given by the employer to deny the relief sought by the Respondent are not sustainable, we are convinced that the Respondent's son cannot be given compassionate appointment at this point of time. The application for compassionate appointment of the son was filed by the Respondent in the year 2013 which is more than 10 years after the Respondent's husband had gone missing. As the object of compassionate appointment is for providing immediate succour to the family of a deceased employee, the Respondent's son is not entitled for compassionate appointment after the passage of a long period of time since his father has gone missing."

20. It is true that the Rule, 1974 provides that if the application for compassionate appointment is submitted after five years, the competent authority is obliged to forward it to the State Government to consider the claim of compassionate appointment who is under obligation to consider the same, but the application has to be submitted within a reasonable time after the expiry of the period prescribed for submitting such application specifying the reasons for the delay in submitting the application. If the state government in a given case is satisfied, that the delay in filing the application is bonafide, it may consider the application and accord consideration for compassionate appointment subject to fulfillment of other eligibility criteria prescribed for compassionate appointment. The said provision does not confer an indefeasible right upon the aspirant of the compassionate appointment for consideration of his application even though it has been submitted with inordinate delay without any proper and bonafide explanation for the delay in submitting the said application.

21. In the instant case, no such condition exists inasmuch as the petitioner has not explained the reason for the delay in submitting the application rather the facts stated above reveals that the mother of the petitioner was dormant in pursuing her claim. Thus, the argument of the petitioner's counsel that once the application for compassionate appointment is submitted after the period prescribed for submitting the application, the competent authority is bound to forward the same to the state government who is under obligation to consider the same is misconceived and not sustainable.

22. In the opinion of the Court, Judgments relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner are not applicable in the present case. In the case of Madhav Prasad Shakya (supra), the petitioner submitted a representation immediately after attaining the age of majority, which application was rejected by the State Government on the ground that the application has been filed after the expiry of five years. In that circumstances, the Court held that the application has wrongly been rejected. The factual situation in the case of Madhav Prasad Shakya (supra) in which this Court allowed the writ petition is different from the facts of the present case, hence, the law enunciated in the said judgment is not attracted in the present case.

23. In the case of Vishal Saini (supra), it has been held that at the time of death of petitioner's father, he was minor. The mother of the petitioner was given the compassionate appointment, who also died on 31.1.2012 during the service period. At the time of death of his mother, the petitioner was minor, and as soon as, he became major, he submitted an application for appointment on compassionate ground on 11.10.2019 which was rejected by the authority concerned on the ground of limitation. In such a factual backdrop, the Court held that the claim of the petitioner has wrongly been rejected on the ground of limitation. The facts of the present case are not akin to the facts of the case of Vishal Saini (supra), therefore, the judgement of Vishal Saini (supra) does not help the cause of the petitioner.

24. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. However, there shall be no order as to costs.

A. Service law – Deployment of teachers for non-educational purposes - Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 - Section 27 - U.P. Rules, 2011 (Special Rules) - Rule 21(3) - Appointment of the petitioners as booth level officer and deployment of their services for the purposes of conduct of duties relating to elections, cannot be termed to be covered under the provisions of Section 27 of the Act of 2009, providing for prohibition of deployment of teachers for non-educational purposes. S. 27 of the RTE Act, 2009 itself carves out an exception to the duties relating to elections and meaning of duties relating to election, include preparation of electoral rolls. (Para 12)

B. Constitution of India - Article 324 - Section 27 of the Act of 2009 - Interpretation – The words used in Section 27 are 'duties relating to elections'.

Article 324 deals with the superintendence, direction and control of the preparation of the electoral rolls for and the conduct of, all elections to Parliament and to the Legislature of every State and of elections to the offices of President and Vice President held under this Constitution treating them to be vested in a commission referred to in this Constitution as the Election Commission.

Use of word 'and', between 'control of the preparation of electoral rolls for' and 'the conduct of all elections' in Article 324(1) means that preparation of electoral rolls is a prelude to conduct of elections. Thus, when given comprehensive and inclusive meaning means that preparation of electoral rolls is included in duties relating to elections. (Para 13, 15)

C. Words and Phrases – 'relating to'/'in relation to' - 'in relation to' are words of comprehensiveness which might both have a direct significance as well as indirect significance, dependent on the context. They are not words of restrictive content and ought not to be so construed. (Para 14)

The word 'relating to' used in S. 27, has to be given a comprehensive meaning and will include all the works relating to election where elections are notified or not. Thus, where elections are notified or not, duties of a teacher can be deployed in terms of the provisions contained in S. 27 even for works in relations to election which includes preparation of electoral rolls as provided u/Article 324 of the Constitution. Therefore, no fault can be attributed to the deployment of the petitioners in relations to the election work. (Para 16)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Agarwal, J.)

1. Sri Ashwani Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for petitioners, Sri Vijay Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent nos. 5 and 6.

2. Petitioners have filed this petition challenging the order annexed as Annexure-1 to the writ petition, whereby petitioners who are working as Assistant Teachers in primary school have been requisitioned to work as booth level officer (BLO).

3. Learned counsel for petitioners has placed reliance on decision of co-ordinate Benches in case of Charu Gaur and 2 others vs. State of U.P. and 6 others (Writ - A No. 6975 of 2021) so also in case of Madan Gopal and 8 others vs. State of U.P. and 6 others (Writ - A No. 17884 of 2019), and placing reliance on these decisions, it is submitted that in terms of the prohibition under Section 27 of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 2009"), prohibits the District Magistrate and District Basic Education Officers to depute Assistant Teachers for works in violation of Section 27 of the Act of 2009, thus petitioners' engagement as BLO be set aside.

4. Petitioners have also placed reliance on the decision of Division Bench of this Court in case of *Sunita Sharma Advocate High Court & Another vs. State of U.P. & 3 others, passed in PIL No. 11028 of 201*5, where services of the petitioners were requisitioned for the purpose of work of verification of ration cards, where Division Bench of this Court allowed the writ petition and directed the District Administration to not to requisition the services of teachers in Primary Schools and Junior High Schools for carrying out such work, which is without the authority of law.

5. Similarly, reliance is placed on the decision of a co-ordinate Bench in U.P. Pradeshiya Prathmik Shikshak Sangh Banda and another vs. State of U.P. and 3 others (Writ - A No. 34082 of 2017) decided on 2.8.2017, where teachers were directed to undertake the exercise of verification of ration cards and the list of Antyodaya, BPL Card-holders under the provisions of National Food Security Act and High Court was pleased to quash the proceedings.

6. This aspect has already been considered by this Court while deciding Writ - A No. 12187 of 2021, decided on 1.10.2021, wherein this Court considered the law laid down in case of Sunita Sharma (supra) and also the provisions contained in Section 27 of the Act of 2009, inasmuch as Section 27 of Act of 2009 provides as under :

"27. Prohibition of deployment of teachers for non-educational purposes.- No teacher shall be deployed for any non-educational purposes other than the decennial population census, disaster relief duties or duties relating to elections to the local authority or the State Legislatures or Parliament, as the case may be."

7. Rule 21(3) of the U.P. Rules,2011 (Special Rule) reads in the following terms:

"21(3). For the purpose of maintaining the pupil-teacher ratio, no teacher posted in a school shall be made to serve in any other school or office or deployed for any non-educational purpose, other than the decennial population census, disaster relief duties or duties relating to elections to the local authority or the State Legislatures or Parliament."

8. Whereas the order dated 3.11.2010 passed by the Election Commission of India provides that BLOs can be appointed only amongst the list mentioned below in addition to teachers who can be appointed as BLO :-

(i) Anganwadi workers,
(ii) Patwari/Amin/Lekhpal,
(iii) Panchayat Secretary,
(iv) Village Level Workers,
(v) Electricity Bill Readers,
(vi) Postman,
(vii) Auxiliary Nurses & Mid-wives,
(viii) Health workers,
(ix) Mid-day meal workers,
(x) Contract teachers,
(xi) Corporation Tax Collectors,
(xii) Clerical Staff in Urban area (UDC/LDC etc.)

9. This order dated 3.11.2010 passed by Election Commission of India will be of no assistance to the present petitioners, as teachers are included.

10. As far as the provisions contained in Section 27 of the Act of 2009 is concerned, it prohibits deployment of teachers for non-educational purposes but carves out an exception for their deployment to the work of census, disaster relief duties or duties relating to elections to the local authority or the State Legislatures or Parliament. Similarly, Rule 21(3) of the U.P. Rules of 2011 has been drafted in terms of the language of Section 27 of the Act of 2009, leaving no iota of doubt that duty of teachers can be deployed for the purposes of decennial population census, disaster relief duties or duties relating to elections to the local authority or the State Legislature or Parliament.

11. When tested on this touchstone, then cases of Charu Gaur (supra) and *Madan Gopal (supra)*are distinguishable on their own facts inasmuch as they have been passed taking into consideration orders of Division Bench of this Court in case of Sunita Sharma (supra), U.P. Pradeshiya Prathmik Shikshak Sangh Banda and another (supra), whereas the ratio of law laid down in case of U.P. Pradeshiya Prathmik Shikshak Sangh Banda and another (supra) is not applicable to the facts of the present case, inasmuch as in case of U.P. Pradeshiya Prathmik Shikshak Sangh Banda and another (supra), teachers were deployed to undertake exercise of verification of ration cards and the list of BPL card holders under the provisions of National Food Security Act. Similarly, in case of Sunita Sharma (supra), they were deployed in the work of verification of card holding families on the basis of criteria for inclusion and exclusion under the National Food Security Act, 2013, which is not one of the permitted exercises, for which teachers can be deployed in terms of the provisions contained under Section 27 of the Act of 2009 and therefore, having failed to take into consideration a fact that appointment as booth level officer, as are the facts of the case of Charu Gaur (supra) and Madan Gopal (supra), ratio of law laid down in case of Sunita Sharma (supra) and U.P. Pradeshiya Prathmik Shikshak Sangh Banda and another (supra) is not applicable to the facts of that case as well as present case.

12. Appointment of the petitioners as booth level officer and deployment of their services for the purposes of conduct of duties relating to elections, cannot be termed to be covered under the provisions of Section 27 of the Act of 2009, providing for prohibition of deployment of teachers for non-educational purposes and therefore, the petition is liable to be dismissed and is dismissed both on its facts and also on the touchstone of the fact that ratio of law laid down in case of Charu Gaur (supra) and Madan Gopal (supra), which have been followed in case of Sri Krishan vs State of U.P. and 4 others (Writ - A No. 18683 of 2019), Writ - A No. 11355 of 2020 (Rakesh Kumar Vishwakarma and 3 others vs. State of U.P. and 4 others), Writ - A No. 8539 of 2021 (Ragini and 4 others vs. State of U.P. and 5 others), so also in case of Writ - A No. 11781 of 2021 (Sandeep Kumar Bhatia vs.State of U.P. and 4 others) is not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the case and in all these orders, this fact was not presented to the court concerned that Section 27 of the RTE Act, 2009 itself carves out an exception to the duties relating to elections and meaning of duties relating to election, include preparation of electoral rolls.

13. The words used in Section 27 of the Act of 2009 are 'duties relating to elections'. Article 324(1) of the Constitution of India deals with the superintendence, direction, and control of the preparation of the electoral rolls for, and the conduct of, all elections to Parliament and to the Legislature of every State and of elections to the offices of President and Vice President held under this Constitution treating them to be vested in a commission referred to in this Constitution as the Election Commission.

14. Meaning and import of the words used in Section 27 of the Act of 2009 'relating to' have been interpreted by the High Court of Madras in case of State Wakf Board, Madras vs. Abdul Azeez Sahib and Others, AIR 1968 Madras 79 (81), wherein it is held that 'in relation to' are words of comprehensiveness which might both have a direct significance as well as indirect significance, dependent on the context. They are not words of restrictive content and ought not to be so construed.

15. Similarly, use of word 'and', between control of the preparation of electoral rolls for and the conduct of all elections in Article 324(1) means that preparation of electoral rolls is a prelude to conduct of elections. Thus, when given comprehensive and inclusive meaning means that preparation of electoral rolls is included in duties relating to elections.

16. Thus, when words used in Section 27 of the Act 2009 'relating to' are construed in terms of the law laid down by Division Bench of Madras High Court, then there is no iota of doubt that the word 'relating to' has to be given a comprehensive meaning and will include all the works relating to election where elections are notified or not and cannot be given retrospective meaning as has been sought to be given by a co-ordinate Bench in case of Shri Krishan vs. State of U.P. and 4 Others (Writ-A No.18683 of 2019) and thus where elections are notified or not, duties of a teacher can be deployed in terms of the provisions contained in Section 27 of the Act of 2009 even for works in relations to election which in my opinion includes preparation of electoral rolls as provided under Article 324 of the Constitution of India. Therefore, no fault can be attributed to the deployment of the petitioners in relations to the election work.

17. Therefore, there being no violation of the provisions of Section 27 of the Act of 2009, petition fails and is dismissed.

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

Writ-A No. 6978 of 2021

Rinku Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Shadab Ali

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Criminal Case and Disciplinary proceeding – U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 - Section 14(1) - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 392, 406, 395 & 412; Indian Police Act, 1861 - Section 7 - Police Regulation - Regulation 492, 493 - Proceedings in criminal case and departmental proceedings can go on simultaneously, except where departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on the same set of facts and the evidence in both the proceedings is common. (Para 16)

The purpose of the two proceedings are totally different, therefore both the proceedings can continue simultaneously as the departmental proceeding is to maintain discipline and efficiency in public service; criminal proceedings are initiated to punish a person for committing an offence violating the public duty. The nature of evidence in both criminal and disciplinary proceedings is different. In the disciplinary proceedings, the rule of the preponderance of probabilities is applied whereas, in the criminal proceeding, the principle of strict standard of proof beyond a reasonable doubt is applicable. (Para 17, 18, 19)

The gravity of the charge is not by itself enough to determine the question of continuance of departmental and criminal proceedings simultaneously unless the charge involves complicated questions of law and fact and continuance of disciplinary proceeding is likely to prejudice the defence of the employee before the criminal court. (Para 19)

In the present case, firstly, the charges against the petitioner in the criminal proceeding and disciplinary proceeding are not identical as there is one additional charge in the disciplinary proceeding. Secondly, to succeed, the petitioner has to demonstrate that charge against the petitioner is grave and involves complicated questions of fact and law and further if the disciplinary proceeding is continued that would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner. Though a bald averment has been made that continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial, there is no pleading in the writ petition as to how continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner. (Para 22, 23)

B. Words and Phrases – 'has been' - 'has been' refers to an event which has already occurred. The words "has been" reflect to something which has performed and accomplished in past and is not continuing in present. The words "has been" refer to the state of affairs as existed in past and it is a present perfect tense. (Para 20)

C. Police Regulation: Regulation 492, 493 – Regulation 492 clearly says that where a police officer "has been judicially tried". The language is very important. It talks of something which has already happened. The simple language of provision shows where a police officer has been tried judicially and only the judgment is awaited, in such circumstances and in interregnum period, the competent authority should not decide to take further departmental action but should await the decision. In other words, Regulation 492 shall be attracted only when the judicial trial is over but judgment has not been delivered and it is awaited. (Para 20)

Similarly Regulation 493 is attracted when trial is complete and judgment of trial court has also come, resulting in recording a finding in favour of police officer. It restrains the competent authority in such matter to create a situation where a contrary finding can be recorded in departmental proceedings vis-a-vis court's verdict and the Regulation provides that such a contingency should not occur hence it prohibits such a course to be followed by competent authority. (Para 20)

Court observed that in the instant case, these regulations do not come in aid to petitioner as only charge sheet has been issued and that early conclusion of the disciplinary proceeding is good in the interest of the employee as well as the department for the reason that if the employee is exonerated from the charges, he may not be out of service unnecessarily and may be reinstated and if the employee is found guilty, the department will get rid of such employee who is not worth continuing in the employment. (Para 12, 24)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

4. Surendra Singh & anr. Vs St. of U.P. & anr., 2012 (2) ADJ 135 (LB) (Para 20)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Dr. Amarnath Singh, learned Standing Counsel for respondent nos.1 to 3.

2. The petitioner by means of the present writ petition has prayed for the following relief:-

"(i). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature Certiorari to quash departmental proceeding under Rule 14(1) of the U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules-1991 related to Case Crime No.109 of 2019, under Sections 392, 406 I.P.C., Police Station-Nagal, District Saharanpur, pending against the Petitioner before Respondent no.3.

(ii). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing the Respondents especially Respondent No.3 not to proceed further departmental proceeding against the Petitioner under Rule 14(1) of the U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules-1991 related to Case Crime No.109 of 2019, under Sections 392, 406 I.P.C., Police Station-Nagal, District Saharanpur, pending before him."

3. The brief facts of the case are that petitioner is a Police Constable. He was posted in Surveillance Cell G.R.P., Agra. One Mohd. Akhtar lodged an F.I.R. against one Basheer and some unknown person under Sections 406 and 392 of I.P.C alleging that at about 3.00 A.M on 13.05.2019, he had looted Rs.8,34,700/- from his brother when he was sleeping along with his friends on the roof of a house behind the Dhaba of Mulla Ji in village Umah, P.S. Nagar, District Saharanpur. The police arrested Basheer and other persons. During the investigation, the accused admitted loot, and further stated that the loot was committed with the help of Constable Rinku Singh i.e. the petitioner. The looted money was recovered from the possession of the accused and accordingly, police converted the case under Sections 395 and 412 of I.P.C.

4. According to the petitioner, he was not named in the F.I.R. and his name surfaced during the confessional statement of accused persons. The petitioner filed Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.14957 of 2019 against the F.I.R. dated 13.05.2019 in which this Court stayed the arrest of the petitioner till submission of a police report under Section 173(2) of Cr. P.C by order dated 29.05.2019. The police after investigation submitted charge sheet.

5. The Magistrate Deoband, Saharanpur took cognizance of the charge sheet, and accordingly, a Criminal Case No.579 of 2019 (State Vs. Basheer Khan and Others) was registered which is pending before the Additional Civil Judge (J.D.)/Judicial Magistrate, Deoband, District Saharanpur.

6. It appears that a departmental proceeding had also been initiated against the petitioner on account of his involvement in the criminal case and accordingly, a charge sheet dated 21.08.2019 has been issued to the petitioner on the following charges:-

"प्रतिसार उप निरीक्षक जी०आर०पी० लाइन अनुभाग आगरा श्री छोटे सिंह की आख्या दिनांकित 14.05.2019 के माध्यम से दिनांक 13.05.2019 को पुलिस उपाधीक्षक रेलवे आगरा अनुभाग आगरा के आदेशानुसार आप तीनों कर्मचारीगणों को आपके कार्यालय में तलाशा गया, न मिलने पर आपकी रपट गैरहाजिरी दिनांक 13.05.2019 को रपट संख्या 16 समय 20:35 बजे जीआरपी लाइन अनुभाग आगरा के रोजनामचा आम मे अंकित करायी गयी। और दिनांक 14.05.2019 को दैनिक समाचार पत्र के अवलोकन से पाया कि निरीक्षक 052010095 ना०पु० ललिक कुमार त्यागी व आरक्षी 299/062494410 शायर वेग व आरक्षी 2378/062531098 रिन्कू सिंह के विरुद्ध थाना नागल जनपद सहारनपुर मे मु०अ०सं० 109/2019 धारा 406,392 आईपीसी तरमीम धारा 395/412 आईपीसी में नाम प्रकाश मे आया है एवं निरीक्षक 052010095 ना०पु० ललित कुमार त्यागी की दिनांक 13.05.2019 को समय 21:05 बजे गिरफ्तारी हुई एवं 1,44,000/- रुपया बरामद हुआ। तथा दोनो आरक्षी गिरफ्तार नहीं किये गये है। आपका यह कृत्य पुलिस विभाग जैसे अनुशासित बल की स्वच्छ छवि को धूमिल करता है। और एतद्द्वारा आपके द्वारा घोर लापरवाही/ अनुशासनहीनता / स्वेच्छाचारिता का परिचय दिया गया है।"

7. The petitioner pursuant to the aforesaid charge sheet submitted his reply on 11.01.2020.

8. In the aforesaid factual backdrop, the petitioner has prayed for the reliefs extracted above.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that charge in the criminal case as well as in the departmental proceeding is identical, and in case, the departmental proceeding is allowed to be continued, same shall prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner, as the petitioner would have to disclose the defence in the departmental proceeding which he wants to take in the criminal proceeding. Accordingly, he submits that in the facts of the present case, it is desirable in the interest of justice that this Court may stay the departmental proceeding till the criminal trial is concluded. In support of his aforesaid contention, he has placed reliance upon Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation. He has also placed reliance upon the interim order passed by this Court in Writ-A No.24162 of 2010.

10. Rebutting the aforesaid contention, learned Standing Counsel would contend that there is no bar in law that the departmental proceeding and criminal trial cannot continue simultaneously. He submits that the purpose of the departmental proceeding and trial by the criminal court is different, and parameters to consider the departmental inquiry and criminal trial are different. He further submits that rules relating to the appreciation of evidence in the two inquiries are also different. The further submission is that finding can be recorded in the preponderance of probabilities in the departmental inquiry and it is not necessary that charge must be proved to the hilt.

11. The further submission is that it is the domain of the disciplinary authority to conclude in the given fact and circumstances whether the continuance of the departmental proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial of the employee, and therefore, he submits that this Court should not exercise its power under Article 226 of Constitution of India to stay the departmental proceeding, as the continuance of departmental proceeding is dependent upon the evidence and material on record.

12. He further submits that Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation do not come in aid to petitioner as the said regulation talks of cases where police official has been judicially tried and judgment in the criminal trial is awaited whereas in the instant case, only charge sheet has been issued. He further contends that charges in the departmental proceeding and criminal trial are not identical since, in addition to the charge of involvement of the petitioner in criminal activity, there is an additional charge in the departmental proceeding against the petitioner. Thus, he submits that no case for interference by the Court has been made out by the petitioner, and the writ petition deserves to be dismissed.

13. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

14. The undisputed facts as emanates from the record are that petitioner was implicated in a criminal case bearing Case Crime No.109 of 2019, under Sections 395 and 412 of I.P.C. Simultaneously, a departmental proceeding had also been initiated against the petitioner under Section 7 of Indian Police Act, 1861 in which two charges had been leveled against the petitioner; firstly, petitioner was absent on 13.05.2019 in the G.R.P. Line, Agra and absence of petitioner have been recorded in the general diary through Report No.16, time 20:35. Secondly, it has come to the knowledge of the department through a news item published in the daily newspaper on 14.05.2019 that a criminal case has been lodged against the petitioner along with other constables in which petitioner was arrested at 9:05 P.M. on 13.05.2019 and amount of Rs.1,44,000/- was recovered from him.

15. The Apex Court in the case of Capt. M. Paul Anthony Vs. Bharat Gold Mines Ltd and Another 1999 (3) SCC 679 has held in paragraph 22 as under:-

"22. The conclusions which are deducible from various decisions of this Court referred to above are:-

(i) Departmental proceedings and proceedings in a criminal case can proceed simultaneously as there is no bar in their being conducted simultaneously, though separately.

(ii) If the departmental proceedings and the criminal case are based on identical and similar set of facts and the charge in the criminal case against the delinquent employee is of a grave nature which involves complicated questions of law and fact, it would be desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till the conclusion of the criminal case.

(iii) Whether the nature of a charge in a criminal case is grave and whether complicated questions of fact and law are involved in that case, will depend upon the nature of offence, the nature of the case launched against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected against him during investigation or as reflected in the charge sheet.

(iv) The factors mentioned at (ii) and (iii) above cannot be considered in isolation to stay the Departmental proceedings but due regard has to be given to the fact that the departmental proceedings cannot be unduly delayed.

(v) If the criminal case does not proceed or its disposal is being unduly delayed, the departmental proceedings, even if they were stayed on account of the pendency of the criminal case, can be resumed and proceeded with so as to conclude them at an early date, so that if the employee is found not guilty his honour may be vindicated and in case he is found guilty, administration may get rid of him at the earliest."

16. In the case of State Bank of India and Others Vs. R.B. Sharma 2004 7 SCC 27, the Apex Court has explained the object of departmental proceeding and criminal proceeding. Paragraphs 7 & 8 of the said judgment are being extracted herein below:-

"7. It is a fairly well-settled position in law that on basic principles proceedings in criminal case and departmental proceedings can go on simultaneously, except where departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on the same set of facts and the evidence in both the proceedings is common.

8. The purpose of departmental enquiry and of prosecution are two different and distinct aspects. Criminal prosecution is launched for an offence for violation of a duty the offender owes to the society, or for breach of which law has provided that the offender shall make satisfaction to the public. So crime is an act of commission in violation of law or of omission of public duty. The departmental enquiry is to maintain discipline in the service and efficiency of public service. It would, therefore, be expedient that the disciplinary proceedings are conducted and completed as expeditiously as possible. It is not, therefore, desirable to lay down any guidelines as inflexible rules in which the departmental proceedings may or may not be stayed pending trial in criminal case against the delinquent officer. Each case requires to be considered in the backdrop of its own facts and circumstances. There would be no bar to proceed simultaneously with departmental enquiry and trial of a criminal case unless the charge in the criminal trial is of grave nature involving complicated questions of fact and law. Offence generally implies infringement of public duty, as distinguished from mere private rights punishable under criminal law. When trial for criminal offence is conducted it should be in accordance with proof of the offence as per the evidence defined under the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act 1872 (in short "the Evidence Act"). Converse is the case of departmental enquiry. The enquiry in a departmental proceedings relates to conduct or breach of duty of the delinquent officer, to punish him for his misconduct defined under the relevant statutory rules or law. That the strict standard of proof or applicability of the Evidence Act stands excluded is a settled legal position. Under these circumstances, what is required to be seen is whether the department enquiry would seriously prejudice the delinquent in his defence at the trial in a criminal case. It is always a question of fact to be considered in each case depending on its own facts and circumstances."

17. Similar view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Noida Entrepreneurs Association Vs. NOIDA and Others 2007 (2) ADJ 86 (SC) wherein Apex Court also considered the long line decisions concerning conduct of departmental proceeding and criminal proceeding simultaneously and concluded that purpose of the two proceedings are totally different, therefore, both the proceedings can continue simultaneously as the departmental proceeding is to maintain discipline and efficiency in public service; criminal proceedings are initiated to punish a person for committing an offence violating the public duty.

18. Now, the legal position is well settled that departmental proceeding and the criminal proceeding can continue simultaneously as the object and purpose of the criminal proceeding and disciplinary proceeding are different and they operate in a different field. In the disciplinary proceedings, the rule of the preponderance of probabilities is applied whereas, in the criminal proceeding, the principle of strict standard of proof beyond a reasonable doubt is applicable.

19. The nature of evidence in both criminal and disciplinary proceedings is different. The only exception to this rule that can be culled out from the law elucidated by the Apex Court on the issue of the continuance of disciplinary proceeding and criminal proceeding simultaneously is that disciplinary proceedings may be stayed where criminal charges against the delinquent employee are grave and involves complicated question of facts and law, and continuance of disciplinary proceeding is likely to prejudice the defence of the employee before the criminal court. The gravity of the charge is not by itself enough to determine the question of continuance of departmental and criminal proceedings simultaneously unless the charge involves complicated questions of law and fact.

20. This Court in the case of Surendra Singh and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Another 2012 (2) ADJ 135 (LB) had considered the scope of Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation and this Court succinctly explained the meaning of the word 'has been and held that expression 'has been' refers to an event which has already occurred. Paragraphs 21, 27, 28 & 29 of the said judgment are being extracted herein below:-

"21. Regulation 492 clearly says that where a police officer "has been judicially tried". The language is very important. It talks of something which has already happened. The simple language of provision shows where a police officer has been tried judicially and only the judgment is awaited, in such circumstances and in interregnum period, the competent authority should not decide to take further departmental action but should await the decision. In other words, Regulation 492 shall be attracted only when the judicial trial is over but judgment has not been delivered and it is awaited. The words "has been" reflect to something which has performed and accomplished in past and is not continuing in present. The words "has been" refer to the state of affairs as existed in past and it is a present perfect tense. The words "has been" on a plain grammatical construction means, without doubt, the existence of past event i.e. the requisite event has already occurred and completed. The expression "has been" and its connotation have been subject of interpretation before Apex Court and this Court, both, at several occasions and it would be useful to refer a few thereof.

27. The above exposition of law clearly shows that the term "has been" in simple language means a thing already happened and here the term "judicially tried" means that police officer concerned's trial in the court of law is already complete but the decision is awaited.

28. Similarly Regulation 493 is attracted when trial is complete and judgment of trial court has also come, resulting in recording a finding in favour of police officer. It restrain the competent authority in such matter to create a situation where a contrary finding can be recorded in departmental proceedings vis a vis court's verdict and the Regulation provides that such a contingency should not occur hence it prohibits such a course to be followed by competent authority.

29. Going by the above discussion it becomes apparently clear that situation in the present cases do not attract either Regulation 492 or 493 in both these matters since the only stage at which the criminal cases proceeding presently are that a charge sheet has been filed against petitioners. The petitioners cannot be said to have undergone judicial trial so far. The trial is still awaited. For the purpose of understanding the meaning of word "Trial" one may simply refer to the provisions of Cr.P.C. and that would clearly show that an accused can be said to have tried when evidence by prosecution and defence has already led and matter has been argued before trial court. This itself leaves inescapable conclusion that both these writ petitions at this stage have to fail."

21. In the light of interpretation given by this Court in the case of Surendra Singh (supra) relating to Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation, this Court finds that submission of learned counsel for the petitioner based upon Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation is misplaced and is not sustainable in law, since in the instant case only charge sheet in the criminal case has been filed, and trial is yet to begin.

22. Now, coming to the second limb of argument that whether disciplinary proceeding and the criminal proceeding can proceed simultaneously where both proceedings have been initiated on the same set of charges and evidence in both the proceedings are identical and shall prejudice the criminal proceeding since petitioner would have to disclose the defence which he wants to take in the criminal proceeding. In the opinion of the Court, the said submission is also misconceived for two reasons; firstly, as detailed above, the charge against the petitioner in the criminal proceeding and disciplinary proceeding are not identical as there is one additional charge in the disciplinary proceeding which has been delineated above. Secondly, to succeed, the petitioner has to demonstrate that charge against the petitioner is grave and involves complicated questions of fact and law, and further if the disciplinary proceeding is continued that would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner.

23. In the case in hand, though a bald averment has been made in the writ petition in paragraph 31 that continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial, there is no pleading in the writ petition as to how continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner.

24. As the petitioner has failed to demonstrate that charge against the petitioner is grave and involves complicated questions of fact and law, and further how the continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner, this Court is not inclined to accept the aforesaid submission of learned counsel for the petitioner. At this stage, it is pertinent to mention that early conclusion of the disciplinary proceeding is good in the interest of the employee as well as the department for the reason that if the employee is exonerated from the charges, he may not be out of service unnecessarily and may be reinstated, and if the employee is found guilty, the department will get rid of such employee who is not worth continuing in the employment.

25. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed with no order as to costs.

A. Service Law – Disciplinary Proceeding - Pension - U.P. Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1956 - Rule 29 - A plain reading of Rule 29 reveals that a Government servant cannot marry again without permission of the state Government. The legislature to their wisdom has used the word "notwithstanding" which means, even if the marriage is permissible under personal law for the time being applicable to a Government servant, such Government servant cannot be allowed to marry again without permission of the state Government. (Para 19)

The act of performing a second marriage during the life-time of one's wife cannot be regarded as an integral part of Hindu religion nor could it be regarded as practising or professing or propagating Hindu religion and even if bigamy be regarded as an integral part of Hindu religion, Rule 27 of the U.P. Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1956 requiring permission of the Government before contracting such marriage must be held to come under the protection of Article 25(2)(b) of the Constitution. (Para 20)

B. Misconduct on the part of the petitioner amounts to grave misconduct so as to attract Rule 29 of the Rules, 1956 read with Article 351A of the Civil Services Regulation. The petitioner has misrepresented before the authorities and made every effort to mislead them as if he has not contracted the second marriage. The conduct of the petitioner is in breach of the Rules, 1956 and unbecoming of a Government servant. The conduct of the petitioner was a gross-misconduct and the provisions of Rule 29 of the Rules, 1956 read with Article 351A of the Civil Services Regulations were rightly invoked. (Para 23)

C. Once the 1956 Rules provides that second marriage by a Government servant during the lifetime of first wife is an offence, and it amounts to misconduct, then it is not open for the Court to take a different view than what has been considered by the disciplinary authority. (Para 19)

Constitution of India: Article 226 – Scope - The scope of interference with the order of the Tribunal by this Court u/Article 226 exercising extra-ordinary, equitable and discretionary jurisdiction, has its own limits. The scope of judicial review is extended only when there is no evidence or the conclusion or finding is such as no reasonable person would have ever reached on the basis of the material available. Performance of second marriage during currency of the first marriage resulting in punishment of removal from service cannot be held to be shockingly disproportionate to the charge on established judicial parameters. In the present case, the findings recorded by the Tribunal in the impugned order are findings of fact based on consideration of relevant evidences and materials on record. (Para 21, 25)

(iv) a writ, order or direction in the nature of which this Hon'ble court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

Facts:-

3. Briefly stated, facts of the present case are that the petitioner was appointed as Assistant Prosecutor on 05.09.1970. Subsequently, he was promoted on the post of Public Prosecutor and further promoted on the post of Senior Public Prosecutor on 17.07.1999. He retired from service on 31.12.2004.

4. A disciplinary proceeding was initiated against the petitioner on the basis of complaint of his wife Smt. Rajendri Devi. A charge-sheet dated 15.09.1987 was served upon him. Another disciplinary proceeding was also initiated against the petitioner on the basis of similar allegations by virtue of charge sheet dated 30.06.1992 and the inquiry proceeding was conducted. Subsequently, the matter arising from the first inquiry was compromised before the A.D.M. Saharanpur on the basis of some statement allegedly made by the aforesaid Smt. Rajendri Devi. Consequently, the proceeding against the petitioner, was dropped on 13.06.1997. The second inquiry also met the same fate in the light of the alleged statement of Smt. Rajendri Devi. From records, it appears that the aforesaid Smt. Rajednra Devi has also stated that no children were born from the wedlock of the petitioner.

5. Subsequently, it came to light that the petitioner has two children, namely daughter - Kumari Preeti and son - Sangeet Chaudhari from the wedlock of one Rajni Devi. The petitioner moved an application dated 13.07.1999 for taking benefit of family planning in which he also decleared that he has two children. On these facts, amongst others, coming to light, a fresh inquiry was initiated against the petitioner on 07.11.2003. A charge-sheet was issued. The petitioner appeared before the inquiry officer and led evidences. However, for reasons best-known to him, he did not produce Smt. Rajendri Devi and instead took the stand that Rajendri Devi and Smt. Rajni Devi, both are one and the same person who is his legally wedded wife and as such, there is no question of second marriage.

6. When the petitioner did not produce Smt. Rajendri Devi before the inquiry officer, then the inquiry officer himself took the statement of Smt. Rajendri Devi, who stated that she is not Rajni Devi. She stated that she is the first wife and she is daughter of one Amrit Singh, resident of Meerpurkalan, P.S. Babugarh, Post Ghunghral, Hapur, Ghaziabad. She further stated that second wife of the petitioner is Smt. Rajni Devi who is daughter of one Chhatar Singh, resident of Hanuman Teela, Khurja, District Bulandshahar. The inquiry officer also afforded opportunity to the petitioner to cross-examine the aforesaid Smt. Rajendri Devi but the petitioner did not appear to cross-examine her.

7. Based on evidences on record, the inquiry officer concluded that Rajednri Devi is the first wife of the petitioner and without permission from the State Government as required under Rule 29 of the U.P. Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1956'), the petitioner contracted the second marriage with one Smt. Rajni Devi, daughter of Chhatar Singh and has also led false evidences knowing fully well that he has contracted second marriage with Rajni Devi. After following due procedure of law, the appointing authority awarded punishment to the petitioner by forfeiting his pension inasmuch as before the order of punishment dated 28.06.2005 was passed, the petitioner had retired from service on 31.12.2004. Aggrieved with the aforesaid order of punishment/ office memorandum dated 28.06.2005, the petitioner filed Claim Petition No.1350 of 2006 before the State Public Service Tribunal, Indira Bhawan, Lucknow, which was dismissed by the impugned order dated 02.09.2021.

8. In paragraphs 14 to 25 of the impugned order dated 02.09.2021, the Tribunal has recorded the following findings of fact:-

"14. It appears from record that Smt. Rajendri Devi wife of petitioner had made a complaint against petitioner on 28.09.1978 in which she had stated that petitioner had married with another lady namely Smt. Rajni Devi. She could not give birth to any child. Before A.D.M. Smt. Rajendri Devi appeared before enquiry officer and filed her affidavit to the effect that since no child was born with her and Manbir Singh, she was mentally upset and that is why due to some misunderstanding, she had made a false complaint against her husband and now she did not want to pursue the matter. They have compromised before A.DM. Saharanpur, as such A.DM. dropped the matter against petitioner on 13.06.1997. Since this enquiry was dropped on the basis of compromise, and this time there is additional charge of giving wrong facts and concealment of facts, state government is fully justified to institute fresh enquiry, as such principle of double jeopardy does not apply in this case.

15. Study of enquiry report reveals that petitioner was given 4 opportunities to cross-examine Smt. Rajendri Devi, but he did not turn up.

16. Record also shows that petitioner has given his statement before enquiry officer on 10.01.2004 that his family members had changed the name of his wife from Smt. Rajendri Devi to Rajni Devi on the advice of astrologers and pandits. Statements of gram pradhan Sri Kishan Pal Singh, Shiv Kumar and Mahipal Singh were recorded by enquiry officer. They have given their statements in favour of petitioner. Another witness Sri Vijendra Singh has certified the family register issued by him on 25.12.2003.

17. In the birth certificate of petitioner's son Sri Sangcet Chaudhary issued by Nagar Panchayat, Mathura, name of mother of his son is mentioned as Rajni Devi and not Rajendri Devi. This is admitted by Petitioner.

18. Smt. Rajendri Devi has given statement before enquiry officer that she has no child and her name was never changed as Rajni Devi. Rajni Devi is a different lady from whom petitioner had conducted marriage and they have two children.

19. We find from record that petitioner in his application dated 30.06.1988 given before Dy. Director, Prosecution, himself admitted that he had married with Smt. Rajendri Devi and also admitted that she has no child while he has given an application dated 10.5.1999 claiming extra increment under family planning scheme that he has two children namely Km. Preeti Chaudhary and Sri Sangeet Chaudhary born in 1982 and 1984 respectively. This is own admission of petitioner. Since Rajendri Devi has no child as admitted by petitioner, he performed second marriage with Smt. Rajni Devi with whom two children were born in the year 1982 and 1984.

20. Thus, from his own admission and material available on record, it is established that petitioner had performed second marriage with Rajini Devi during the life time of his legally wedded wife Smt. Rajendi Devi, without permission of government.

21. It is evidently proved from the record that petitioner had not given correct facts before A.DM. Saharanpur in the earlier enquiry and concealed the material facts due to which enquiry was dropped.

22. So far as punishment is concerned. learned counsel has submitted that respondents should have taken a lenient view while awarding punishment and major punishment should not have been inflicted upon petitioner.

23. He has referred to a decision of Hon'ble Allahabad High Court given in the case of Shravan Kumar Pandey vs State of U.P & others in writ petition no.70379 of 2009 regarding Rule 29 of U.P. Government. Servants Conduct Rules, 1956. We could not find any provision which prohibits the state government from awarding major punishment.

24. Submission that enquiry could not be instituted for 4 years old. We find that petitioner raised the issue on 10.05.1999 claiming extra increment under family planning scheme on the ground that he had two children, while he had earlier concealed this material fact. On account of admitted facts of petitioner, enquiry was again instituted on 25.03.2003 before retirement of petitioner. Due to concealment of the facts and compromise reached between petitioner and Rajendri Devi, enquiry was dropped by A.D.M. In the year 1997, as such this submission of learned counsel fails.

25. Petitioner not only performed second marriage with Rajni Devi without taking permission of state government during life time of his first wife, but he also tried to mislead the state government by concealing the material facts that he has two children."

Submissions:-

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner has not contracted a valid marriage with Smt. Rajni Devi and as such in the absence of any proof of his legal marriage with Smt. Rajni Devi, the question of contracting second marriage does not arise at all, as well as provisions of Rule 29 shall also not be attracted.

10. He, therefore, submits that the impugned orders passed by the Tribunal as well as by the disciplinary authority deserve to be quashed. In support of his submissions, he relied upon a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of (1994) 5 SCC 545 Laxmi Devi (Smt.) vs. Satya Narayan and others and two single Judge judgments of this Court, i.e. Aneeta Yadav vs. State of U.P. and 5 others in Writ-A No.24493 of 2015, decided on 02.05.2016 and Gore Lal Verma vs. State of U.P. and 4 others in Writ-A No.5204 of 2021, decided on 14.07.2021.

11. Learned Standing Counsel has supported the impugned orders.

Discussion and Findings:-

12. We have carefully considered submissions of the learned counsels for the parties and perused the records of the writ petition.

13. Perusal of the record shows that the first enquiry was dropped against the petitioner on the basis of the alleged compromise of Smt. Rajendri Devi. The second enquiry also met with the same fate as departmental proceeding was dropped. The third enquiry was initiated on the basis of the materials coming into the hands of the department, which indicated that the petitioner has contracted the second marriage and he had misrepresented. In the third enquiry, charges were found proved against the petitioner on the basis of the evidences available on record.

14. We have perused the enquiry report and we find that the case set up by the petitioner was that Rajendri Devi and Rajni Devi were one and the same person. The said stand was disbelieved by the enquiry officer and it was held that Rajendri Devi and Rajni Devi are two different persons, as the first wife Smt. Rajendri Devi is the daughter of Amrit Singh, resident of Meerpurkalan, P.S. Babugarh, Post Ghunghral, Hapur, Ghaziabad and Smt. Rajni Devi (second wife) is the daughter of one Chhatar Singh, resident of Hanuman Teela, Khurja, District Bulandshahr.

15. A specific finding of fact has also been recorded by the enquiry officer on the admitted facts that with the wedlock of petitioner and Smt. Rajni Devi, two children were born namely Km. Priti and Sangeet Chaudhary. Thoroughly inconsistent and contradictory stand has been taken by the petitioner right from the very inception. On one hand, he has come up with the story that Rajendri Devi and Rajni Devi are one and the same person and on the other hand, he has taken the stand before us that Smt. Rajni Devi is not his legally wedded wife. Both the stands cannot co-exist. It was not disputed by the petitioner either before the inquiry officer or before the Tribunal that Smt. Rajni Devi is his legally wedded wife. Therefore, the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that he has not legally contracted second marriage with aforesaid Rajni Devi, has no legs to stand.

16. It is admitted case of the petitioner that no issue was born from Smt. Rajendri Devi. Smt. Rajendri Devi has stated that she is not Rajni Devi and no issue has born to her from the wedlock of the petitioner. Statement of Smt. Rajendri Devi was recorded by the inquiry officer who afforded opportunity to the petitioner to cross-examine Rajendri Devi, but the petitioner did not appear to cross-examine her. The petitioner could not dispute that he has two children, namely Kumari Preeti and Sangeet Chaudhary. The name of mother of these two children as per school certificates and municipal records is Smt. Rajni Devi and petitioner is shown as father of these two children. This clearly indicates that the petitioner and Smt. Rajni Devi are husband and wife and from their wedlock, two children were born but the petitioner has initially suppressed these facts. In his letter dated 30.03.1988, addressed to the Deputy Director of Prosecution, Agra Zone, Agra, the petitioner has stated that his wife is Rajendri Devi and no issue was born to her. When this letter was confronted to the petitioner by the inquiry officer, then he stated that under some confusion he has given a wrong application. Thus, while the petitioner has stated on 30.03.1988 that he has no children, sufficient documentary evidences came to light that daughter - Preeti was born in the year 1982 and the son Sangeet Chaudhary was born in the year 1984 from the wedlock of the petitioner and Smt. Rajni Devi. On the basis of the aforesaid facts and other material and evidences on record, the inquiry officer concluded that the petitioner's first wife is Rajendri Devi daughter of Amrit Singh, resident of Meerpurkalan, P.S. Babugarh, Post Ghunghral, Hapur, Ghaziabad and his second wife is Smt. Rajni Devi daughter of Chhatar Singh, resident of Hanuman Teela, Post Nayaganj, Khurja, District Buland Shahar and the two children have born from the wedlock of the petitioner and the aforesaid Smt. Rajni Devi. The findings recorded by the Tribunal in paragraphs 14 to 25 of the impugned order are based on evidences and relevant materials on record which go to show that the petitioner has contracted second marriage with Smt. Rajni Devi while his first wife Smt. Rajendri Devi is alive. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, it cannot be said that there was absolutely no evidence before the inquiry officer or the Tribunal to hold that the petitioner has contracted second marriage with Smt. Rajni Devi.

17. The judgment in the case of Laxmi Devi (supra), relied by learned counsel for the petitioner is clearly distinguishable on the facts of the present case. That apart, the aforesaid judgment was rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in a criminal appeal arising from a criminal case under Section 494, I.P.C. The judgment of learned single Judge of this court in the case of Aneeta Yadav (supra), is also of no help to the petitioner. In the said case, anonymous complaint was made that Aneeta Yadav had solemnized marriage with Sri Brijesh Kumar Yadav who was already married with one Smt. Kusum Devi and has four children. Thus, Aneeta Yadav had not contracted the second marriage but it was her husband who contracted the second marriage and she had no knowledge about the first marriage of her husband. Therefore, it was held that no punishment could be awarded to Aneeta Yadav in terms of Rule 29 of the Rules, 1956. Thus, the facts of the case of Aneeta Yadav (supra) are entirely different from the facts of the present case. The other judgment of learned Single Judge in the case of Gore Lal Verma (supra) relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner is also of no help to the petitioner inasmuch in the case of Gore Lal Verma the dismissal order was passed solely on account of having maintained live-in relationship outside the marriage. It is not the case of the petitioner herein.

18. At this juncture, it would be appropriate to reproduce the provisions of Rule 29 of the U.P. Government Servant Conduct Rules, 1956 as under:

"Bigamous marriages- (1) No government servant who has a wife living shall contract another marriage without first obtaining the permission of the government, notwithstanding t*hat such subsequent marriage is permissible under the personal law for the time being applicable to him.*

(2) No female government servant shall marry any person who has a wife living without first obtaining the permission of the government."

19. The aforesaid provisions of Rule 29 was considered by a coordinate bench of this court in Special Appeal No.570 of 2012 (Pawan Kumar Misra vs. State of U.P. thru its Principal Secretary Home, Government of U.P. and others), decided on 02.05.2014 and it was held as under:

"9. A plain reading of Rule 29 reveals that a government servant cannot marry again without permission of the state government. The legislature to their wisdom has used the word "notwithstanding" which means, even if the marriage is permissible under personal law for the time being applicable to a government servant, such government servant cannot be allowed to marry again without permission of the state government.

14. We are of the view that the appellant-petitioner cannot take assistance of the provisions contained in Hindu Marriage Act or alike personal law being a government servant. The 1956 Rules has got statutory force and also got overriding effect over the provisions contained in the statute dealing with personal law.

17. In the case in hand, the appellant-petitioner had committed an offence of bigamy after enjoying 11 years of matrimonial life. Once the 1956 Rules provides that second marriage by a government servant during the lifetime of first wife is an offence, and it amounts to misconduct, then it is not open for the court to take a different view than what has been considered by the disciplinary authority.

22. Any liberty given by the courts or interference with such matters, may result with ill consequence in due course of time or may break the discipline in police force. It is not a case where misconduct has been committed by not an ordinary government servant. Being a member of disciplined police force, it is always expected that such person shall be abide law and in case, a member of the police or Armed forces is permitted to break the law and abuse the powers conferred by the statutes, it shall send a wrong message to the society."

(Emphasis supplied by us)

20. In the case of Javed vs. State of Haryana, (2003) 8 SCC 369, Hon'ble Supreme Court has dealt with the question of second marriage and affirmed the judgment of this court in Ram Prasad Seth vs. State of U.P., AIR 1957 All. 411 and Badruddin vs. Aisha Begum, 1957 All.LJ 300 in which it was held by this court that the act of performing a second marriage during the life-time of one's wife cannot be regarded as an integral part of Hindu religion nor could it be regarded as practising or professing or propagating Hindu religion and even if bigamy be regarded as an integral part of Hindu religion, Rule 27 of the U.P. Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1956 requiring permission of the Government before contracting such marriage must be held to come under the protection of Article 25(2)(b) of the Constitution.

21. In the case of Kursheed Ahmad Khan vs. State of U.P., (2015) 8 SCC 439, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the provisions of Rule 29 of the aforesaid Rules, 1956, to be valid and further held that performance of second marriage during currency of the first marriage resulting in punishment of removal from service cannot be held to be shockingly disproportionate to the charge on established judicial parameters (see para 11 of the judgment).

22. Similar view has been taken by a learned single Judge in his judgment dated 18.05.2006 in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.27190 of 1997 (Veerpal Singh vs. Senior Superintendent of Police, Agra, and others).

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner lastly submitted that there may be misconduct on the part of the petitioner but it does not amount to grave misconduct so as to attract Rule 29 of the Rules, 1956 read with Article 351A of the Civil Services Regulation. The submission made by the learned counsel for the petitioner has no substance inasmuch as the petitioner has misrepresented before the authorities and made every effort to mislead them as if he has not contracted the second marriage. The evidences on record proved that according to own admission of the petitioner, Smt. Rajni Devi is his wife and proved to be his second wife. The conduct of the petitioner is in breach of the U.P. government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1956 and unbecoming of a government servant. That apart, the conduct of the petitioner is a gross-misconduct attracting the provisions of Rule 29 of Rules, 1956. In the case of Khursheed Ahmad Khan (supra), on contracting second marriage during lifetime of the first wife and on that account, the punishment of removal from service, was held to be valid. Therefore, we have no hesitation to hold that the conduct of the petitioner was a gross-misconduct and the provisions of Rule 29 of the Rules, 1956 read with Article 351A of the Civil Services Regulations were rightly invoked.

24. The issue can also be analysed from another angle that in case the logic and the proposition so advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is taken on its face value, it may create havoc and undesired results inasmuch as it will tantamount to create a situation wherein there would be violence to the statutory provisions of Rule 29 of the U.P. Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1956. Rule 29 was consciously enacted stipulating that no government servant, who has a wife living shall contract another marriage without obtaining the permission of the government notwithstanding that such subsequent marriage is permissible under the personal law for the time being applicable to him. Once Rule 29 is clear and applicable to the petitioner being government servant, he has no option but to face consequences on breach of it.

25. The findings recorded by the Tribunal in the impugned order are findings of fact based on consideration of relevant evidences and materials on record. The scope of interference with the order of the Tribunal by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India exercising extra-ordinary, equitable and discretionary jurisdiction, has its own limits. The scope of judicial review is extended only when there is no evidence or the conclusion or finding is such as no reasonable person would have ever reached on the basis of the material available. Perusal of the impugned order of the Tribunal shows that the Tribunal has passed the order on the basis of relevant material and evidences available on record establishing that the petitioner has contracted the second marriage in breach of Rule 29 of the Rules, 1956.

26. For all the reasons afore-stated, we do not find any good reason to interfere with the impugned order of the Tribunal. Consequently, the writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

A. Service Law – Seniority – Promotion/Appointment – Constitution of India - Article 14 - The Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Naib Tehsildar) Service Rules, 2003 - Rule 16 - Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Revenue Inspector) Service Rules, 2014 - Rule 5 - The Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Naib Tehsildar) Service Rules, 2003 as amended by the Second Amendment Rules, 2014 - Rule 5(2)(b) - Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajasva Nirikshak) Service Rules, 2014 - Uttar Pradesh Assistant Revenue Clerk (Registrar Kanungo) Service Rules, 1958 - Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Revenue Nirikshak) Service Rules, 2017.

From bare reading of the Revenue Inspector Service Rules and Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, it emerges that originally as per Naib Tehsildar Rules 2003, 9% promotion to the post Naib Tehsildar through the Commission was to be made from amongst substantially appointed Registrars Kanungos who have completed 5 years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment provided that if sufficient number of eligible or suitable registrar Kanungo are not available for promotion, the post may be filled by promotion under sub clause (a) i.e. from amongst substantially appointed Revenue Inspectors. (Para 13)

Since the post of Registrar Kanungo, Assistant Registrar Kanungo and Land Record Clerks were merged and amalgamated in the equal pay scale on the post of Revenue Inspector as per recommendation of the pay Commission 2008 and the decision of the State Government dated 22.11.2011 as mentioned in the GO dated 18.04.2012, as such there arose some confusion as to the post of Registrar Kanungo etc. who were given the designation of Revenue Inspector. Therefore, to streamline the things and to preserve the benefit of promotion for the aforesaid cadre of Registrar Kanungo etc., a new clause (b) in sub-rule (2) of Rule 5 of the Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, 2003 was substituted which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

There is always presumption in favour of the constitutional validity of statutory provisions. (Para 18)

Perusal of Rule 5(2)(b) of the Naib Tehsildar service Rules, 2003 shows that the same 9% promotion quota has been reserved/retained by the amended Rules for Revenue Inspectors whose originally substantive posts were Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk. This provision of 9% promotion quota shall continue till such time the availability of Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk is fully exhausted and thereafter, the 50% quota for promotion to the post of Naib Tehsildar shall be filled by promotion through commission from amongst substantially appointed Revenue Inspectors who have completed two years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment. (Para 14)

Conclusion can be drawn from the amended provisions of the Naib Tehsildar Rules, 2003 that it protects the interest of the originally substantially appointed Registrars Kanungo/Assistant Registrars Kanungo/Land Record clerk who have now been designated as Revenue Inspector and are now governed by the new set of Rules i.e. the Revenue Inspector Service Rules, 2014 as superseded by the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajasva Nirikshak) Rules 2017 notified by Notification dated 17.10.2017. (Para 15)

The impugned Rule 5(2)(b) of the Rules 2003 as amended by the 2nd amendment Rules 2014 is neither discriminatory nor it violates any of the fundamental rights of the petitioners and instead it protects the promotion opportunity of the petitioners who were originally and substantially appointed as Assistant Registrar/Registrar Kanungo/Land Record clerks. The promotion quota of 9% as was originally provided for them for the promotion to the post of Naib Tehsildar, has been still retained by the impugned Rule 5(2)(b) of the Service Rules 2003 as amended by the 2nd amendment by the Rules 2014. (Para 16)

B. Both the well settled principles for challenging the constitutional validity of a statutory provisions, namely, lack of legislative competence and infringement of any of the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India; are totally absent in the present set of facts. Neither there is any allegation in the writ petition nor it has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that the impugned Rules are beyond Rule making power or legislative competence of the State. (Para 17)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Present petition challenges validity of Rule 5(2)(b) of The Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Naib Tehsildar) Service Rules, 2003 as amended by the Second Amendment Rules, 2014.

As per Rule 5(1) (kha) of the Naib Tehsildar Rules 2003, 9% post of Naib Tehsildars were to be filled through commission by promotion from amongst the Registrar Kanungo who have completed 5 years of service. The Naib Tehsildar Rules, 2003 was amended by the 2nd amendment Rule 2014 notified by notification No.328/1-0-2014-3-3(1)-67 PC dated 17.02.2014. By the aforesaid amendment Rule 5(2)(b) of the Naib Tehsildar Rules, 2003 was amended providing that 9% promotion through commission shall be made to the post of Naib Tehsildar from amongst such substantially appointed Rajasva Nirikshak (Revenue Inspector) whose original substantive post were Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk and who have completed two years of service as Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk/Rajasva Nirikshak on the first day of the year of the recruitment. The aforesaid 9% promotion quota is to continue till such time the availability of Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk is fully exhausted and thereafter 50% quota for promotion to the post of Naib Tehsildar shall be filled by promotion through the commission from amongst substantially appointed Rajasva Nirikshak (Revenue Nirikshak) who have completed two years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment. Simultaneously, the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajasva Nirikshak) Service Rules, 2014 were also enacted and notified by Notification No.327/1-9-2014-RA-9-4892-2011, dated 17.02.2014.

4. The aforesaid Rules 2014 amended the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Revenue Inspector) Service Rules 2011 and the Uttar Pradesh Assistant Revenue Clerk (Registrar Kanungo Service Rules 1958.

5. The aforesaid Revenue Inspector Service Rules, 2014 were superseded by the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajaswa Nirikshak) Service Rules 2017, notified by Notification No.1783/1-9-2017-3(S)/2017, dated 17.10.2017.

6. Aggrieved with the 2nd amendment Rules, 2014 amending Uttar Pradesh Revenue Executive (Naib Tehsildar) Rules, 2003, substituting new Rule 5(2)(b), the petitioners have filed the present writ petition challenging the constitutional validity of the aforesaid Rule 5(2)(b) of the Naib Tehsildar Rules, 2003 as amended by the 2nd amendment Rules 2014.

Submissions

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners has referred to paragraph Nos.3, 7, 15, 16, 19 and 30 of the writ petition and reiterated the same as his submissions. The aforesaid paragraphs of the writ petition are reproduced below :-

3. That the petitioners were initially appointed on the post of Lekhpal in the year 1981, 1994 and 1997 and later on, promoted to the post of Assistant Registrar, Kanungo/Revenue Inspector. Now the petitioners are working as such and are posted and working in district Siddhartha Nagar.

The petitioners are filing a chart showing their names in the seniority list, their date of initial appointment, date of promotion and its confirmation. Copy of chart showing the details of the petitioners is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No. 1 to this writ petition.

7. That initially the Assistant Registrar Kanungo and Registrar Kanungo was the functionaries required to work in the office of Teshil Headquarter, while the Land Record Clerk was required to work at Collectorate in District Headquarter.

15. That while promulgating the Naib Tehsildar (Second Amendment) Service Rules, 2014, the authorities did not taken into consideration the present position arises out of merger of posts of RK/ARK/LCR in total strength of Rajaswya Nirikshak in pursuance of the Government order dated 17.4.2012 and further the Naib Tehsildar (Second Amendment) Service Rules, 2014 which too was enacted on the same day i.e. 17.2.2014.

16. That as the Rajaswya Nirikshak Service Rules, 2014 shown the total strength of Rajaswya Nirikshak as 2473 including 1326 posts of Rajaswya Nirikshak as well as 1082 post of Assistant Registrar Kanungo / Registrar Kanungo and 65 posts of Land Record Clerks, therefore, the continuance of the earlier position of 41% and 9% posts of Naib Tehsildar for the purpose of promotion is exfacie illegal as in Rajaswya Nirikshak Service Rules, 2014 there is no post of RK/ARK/LCR after their merger in the post of Rajaswya Nirikshak.

19.That if the authorities concerned felt any impediment in providing the 50% quota to each i.e. to the erstwhile RK/ARK/LCR now merged in the total cadre strength of Rajaswya Nirikshak, they should have at least provided for the proportionate promotional avenue to the post of Naib Tehsildar should have been provided taking into account the number of posts of Rajaswya Nirikshak including erstwhile posts of Rajaswya Nirikshak (1326) and erstwhile posts of RK/ARK/LCR (1147 posts) now merged in Rajaswya Nirikshak.

30. That on 11.8.2021, a tentative list has also been published by respondent no. 2 in which the petitioners are at Serial No. 396, 397,399,498,499,500,501,502,508, respectively and in case promotion is being made as per provided under Rule 16 of the Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, 2003, the petitioners are also entitle for promotion on the post of Naib Tehsildar, otherwise, in pursuance Rule 5(2)ka of Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, 2003, even much junior to the petitioners directly appointed as Rajaswya Nirikshak would be promoted on the post of Naib Tehsildar. A copy of tentative list dated 11.8.2021 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No. 9 to this writ petition.

8. Learned standing counsel supports the amended Rules and submits that the Rules do not suffer from any unconstitutionality and therefore, the writ petition deserves to be dismissed.

Discussion & Findings

9. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and perused the record of the writ petition and with the consent of learned counsels for the parties this writ petition is being finally heard without calling for a counter affidavit.

10. It is admitted case of the petitioners that they were originally appointed as Lekhpal and subsequently promoted to the post of Assistant Registrar Kanungo. Their services were governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Assistant Revenue Clerk (Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo) Service Rules, 1958. Subsequently, by the above referred Government Order dated 18.04.2012, the post of Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Registrar Kanungo (1082 posts) and Land Record Clerk (65 posts) were amalgamated in the equal pay scale and designated as Revenue Inspector.

11. In these situations, the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajasva Nirikshak) Service Rules, 2014 was enacted with effect from 17.02.2014; in exercise of powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India and in supersession of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Revenue Inspector) Service Rules, 2011 and the Uttar Pradesh Assistant Revenue Clerk (Registrar Kanoongo/Assistant Registrar Kanoongo) Service Rules, 1958 as amended from time to time, and any other Rules and orders on the subject. Thus, the petitioners who were originally appointed as Lekhpal and subsequently promoted as Assistant Registrar Kanungo, came to be governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajasva Nirikshak) Service Rules, 2014 (hereinafter referred to as "Revenue Inspector Service Rules, 2014"). Rule 5 of the Revenue Inspector Service Rules, 2014 provides for recruitment to the post of Revenue Inspector from four sources (a) 25% by Direct Recruitment through the Commission on the basis of competitive examination (b) 55% by promotion through the commission from amongst substantially appointed Lekhpals who have completed 5 years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment (c) 18% by promotion through the commission from amongst substantially appointed Collection Amins who have completed five years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment and (d) 2% by promotion through the Commission from amongst substantially appointed Land Acquisition Amins who have completed five years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment. The aforesaid Revenue Inspector Service Rules, 2014 were notified by Notification dated 17.02.2014. Simultaneously, the Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, 2003 were also amended by 2nd Amendment Rules 2014, vide Notification No.328/1-9-2014-Ra-3-3(1)-97-T.C. dated 17.02.2014 Rule 5 by the aforesaid 2nd Amendment Rule 5(2)(b) was substituted by a new Rule 5(2)(b) which is reproduced below :

COLUMN I Existing clause	COLUMN II clause as substituted
(b) Nine percent by promotion through the commission from amongst substantively appointed Registrar Kanungos who have completed five year service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment.	(b) Nine percent by promotion through the commission from amongst such substantively appointed Rajaswa Nirikshaks whose original substantive posts were Registrar kanungos/ Assistant Registrar kanungo/ Land record clerk and who have have completed two years service as Registrar kanungo/Assistant Registrar kanungo/Land record clerk/Rajaswa

	Nirikshak on the first day of the year of recruitment.
provided that if sufficient number of eligible or suitable Registrar Kanungos are not available for promotion the post may be filled by promotion under sub clause(a).	provided that the provisions referred to in sub clause (a) and (b) above shall continue till such time the availability of Registrar kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record clerk is fully exhausted and, thereafter, the fifty percent quota for promotion to the post of Naib-tahsildar shall be filled up by promotion through the commission from amongst substantively appointed Rajaswa Nirikshak who have completed two years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment.

12. The aforequoted Rule 5(2)(b) of the Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, 2003 as amended by the Second Amendment Rules, 2014 dated 17.02.2014, is under challenge in the present writ petition.

13. From bare reading of the aforesaid Revenue Inspector Service Rules and Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, it emerges that originally as per Naib Tehsildar Rules 2003, 9% promotion to the post Naib Tehsildar through the Commission was to be made from amongst substantially appointed Registrars Kanungos who have completed 5 years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment provided that if sufficient number of eligible or suitable registrar Kanungo are not available for promotion, the post may be filled by promotion under sub clause (a) i.e. from amongst substantially appointed Revenue Inspectors. Since the post of Registrar Kanungo, Assistant Registrar Kanungo and Land Record Clerks were merged and amalgamated in the equal pay scale on the post of Revenue Inspector as per recommendation of the pay Commission 2008 and the decision of the State Government dated 22.11.2011 as mentioned in the above referred Government Order dated 18.04.2012, as such there arose some confusion as to the post of Registrar Kanungo etc. who were given the designation of Revenue Inspector. Therefore, to streamline the things and to preserve the benefit of promotion for the aforesaid cadre of Registrar Kanungo etc., a new clause (b) in sub-rule (2) of Rule 5 of the Naib Tehsildar Service Rules, 2003 was substituted which has been reproduced above and which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

14. Perusal of the clause (b) of sub Rule 2 of Rule 5 of the Naib Tehsildar service Rules, 2003 shows that the same 9% promotion quota has been reserved/retained by the amended Rules for Revenue Inspectors whose originally substantive posts were Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk. This provision of 9% promotion quota shall continue till such time the availability of Registrar Kanungo/Assistant Registrar Kanungo/Land Record Clerk is fully exhausted and thereafter, the 50% quota for promotion to the post of Naib Tehsildar shall be filled by promotion through commission from amongst substantially appointed Revenue Inspectors who have completed two years service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment.

15. An irresistible conclusion can be drawn from the aforequoted amended provisions of the Naib Tehsildar Rules, 2003 that it protects the interest of the originally substantially appointed Registrars Kanungo/Assistant Registrars Kanungo/Land Record clerk who have now been designated as Revenue Inspector and are now governed by the new set of Rules i.e. the Revenue Inspector Service Rules, 2014 as superseded by the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Revenue Executive (Rajasva Nirikshak) Rules 2017 notified by Notification dated 17.10.2017.

16. The impugned clause (b) of sub Rule 2 of Rule 5 of the Rules 2003 as amended by the 2nd amendment Rules 2014 is neither discriminatory nor it violates any of the fundamental rights of the petitioners and instead it protects the promotion opportunity of the petitioners who were originally and substantially appointed as Assistant Registrar/Registrar Kanungo/Land Record clerks. The promotion quota of 9% as was originally provided for them for the promotion to the post of Naib Tehsildar, has been still retained by the impugned clause (b) of sub Rule 2 of Rule 5 of the Service Rules 2003 as amended by the 2nd amendment by the Rules 2014.

17. Neither there is any allegation in the writ petition nor it has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that the impugned Rules are beyond Rule making power or legislative competence of the State. Therefore, both the well settled principles for challenging the constitutional validity of a statutory provisions, namely, lack of legislative competence and infringement of any of the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India; are totally absent in the present set of facts.

18. It is well settled that there is always presumption in favour of the constitutional validity of a statutory provisions.

19. Considering the entire facts and circumstance and the provisions of the Rule 5(2)(b) of Service Rules, 2003 under challenge and the other relevant Rules, we do not find any unconstitutionality in the impugned provisions. The writ petition is wholly devoid of merit and, therefore, deserves to be dismissed.

20. For all the reasons aforestated, the writ petition is dismissed. The provisions of Rule 5(2)(b) of Service Rules, 2003 is held to be valid.

21. After this judgment was dictated in open court, learned counsel for the petitioner states that the consideration of the petitioners for promotion are being held up by the State Government on one pretext or the other.

22. Be as it may, we feel it appropriate to observe that the State Government shall proceed forthwith to consider for promotion of Revenue Inspectors to the post of Naib Tehsildar, in accordance with law, provided there is no legal impediment.

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - Pension - U.P. Government Servant Dying-in-Harness Rule, 1974 - Rules 4 & 5 - U.P. Procedure for Direct Recruitment for Group "C" Posts (Outside the Purview of Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission) Rules, 1998 - Rule 5(4)(e) - Once the family member of the deceased employee has obtained compassionate appointment, his right to be considered, on a subsequent occasion upon termination, for appointment under the same Rules would not entitle such a person to fresh appointment. (Para 20)

The purpose of the Rules 1974, for compassionate appointment is to tide over the financial hardship befallen upon the family on the sudden demise of the bread earner. On exhaustion of the right upon appointment under Rules 1974, it is not open to the petitioner to turn around and say that he be granted a lower post. Petitioner with all eyes open had accepted the appointment on a Class III post and was fully aware that he would have to pass the type test. On having failed to acquire the minimum prescribed type speed, it is not open for the petitioner to turn around and seek a fresh appointment on a lower post.

The claim for compassionate appointment on having being exhausted on appointment cannot be re-agitated on termination or for that matter on acquiring a higher qualification. The contention of the petitioner if accepted would be violative of Article 14/16 of the Constitution of India. Such an appointment at this stage, in the given facts, would tantamount to backdoor appointment bypassing the recruitment rules. (Para 20, 21)

B. Petitioner failed to point out any illegality, infirmity or jurisdictional error.

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent relied upon by petitioner:

1. Mukul Sagar Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Writ-A No. 12737 of 2018, decided on 04.07.2018 (Para 8)

2. Smt. Shaheen Siddiqui Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Writ-A No. 43351 of 2019, decided on 11.09.2014 (Para 8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Pursuant to order dated 16 September 2021 learned Standing Counsel has received written instructions and submits that the reasons assigned in the impugned order has been reiterated by the second respondent.

3. On the consent of the parties, the matter is being heard finally at the admission stage without calling for the counter affidavit.

4. Petitioner came to be given compassionate appointment on 14 June 2018 on the post of Assistant Clerk, a Class-III post. Petitioner is having graduate degree and CCC certificate from DOEACC.

5. It was clearly provided in the appointment letter that petitioner would have to obtain computer knowledge/typing proficiency as mandated under the service rules within the period of probation.

6. Petitioner joined duties on the post of Junior Assistant in the Collectorate Sambhal. Petitioner was called upon to take the typing test of on 24 June 2019, however, petitioner sought further time to practice and gain typing speed. Thereafter, petitioner appeared on 31 January 2020 in the typing test, but failed to achieve type speed of 25 words per minute. Petitioner again was given an opportunity to improve his typing proficiency and skill but he again on 12 June 2020 failed to achieve the requisite speed in the typing test. The services of the petitioner came to be dispensed with by the second respondent, District Magistrate, Sambhal, by passing the impugned order dated 15 June 2020. The consequential order dated 15 July 2020 came to be passed by the Tehsildar, Tehsil Gunnaur, District Sambhal, terminating the services of the petitioner. Aggrieved, petitioner raised a challenge to the afore-noted orders in a petition being Writ Petition No. 7998 of 2020. The writ petition came to be disposed of by passing the judgment and order dated 5 March 2021, directing the respondent-authorities to consider the representation of the petitioner for compassionate appointment on a lower post. The relevant portion of the order for the purposes of the case is extracted:

"21. There is no infirmity in the impugned order terminating the services of the petitioner after grant of one month notice period. The impugned orders dated 15.06.2020 and 19.07.2020 are not liable to be interfered with and the prayer for quashment of the impugned orders is declined.

22. xxx

23. xxx

24. In the wake of the aforesaid submissions this Court feels that eligibility for appointment on lower post after the services of the petitioner have been terminated, is a matter which may be considered in the first instance by the competent authority.

25. Without going into the merits of the submissions, the matter is remitted to the respondent no. 2, District Magistrate, Sambhal. The respondent no. 2, District Magistrate, Sambhal shall decide the representation of the petitioner for appointment on a lower post under the U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974, in accordance with law within a period of four months from the date of production of a computer generated copy of this order, downloaded from the official website of the High Court Allahabad.

26. The computer generated copy of such order be self attested by the petitioners (party concerned) along with a self attested identity proof of the said person (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number to which the said Aadhar Card is linked. The Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

27. The writ petition is disposed of finally with the above directions."

7. In compliance thereof, by the impugned order dated 24 May 2021, claim of the petitioner for appointment on the lower post under compassionate appointment rules came to be rejected on the plea that the claim of the incumbent for compassionate appointment is considered once under the Dying-in-Harness Rules, there is no provision under the rules for appointing the incumbent on a lower post on having failed to acquire the minimum qualification/proficiency prescribed under the rules for the Class-III post.

8. It is urged by learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner was not a confirmed employee, therefore, petitioner's case could be considered for appointment on a lower post in the event of the petitioner having not qualified the type test; in the event of the petitioner not being considered for a lower post, it would tantamount to perpetuate the financial hardship of the family; petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment still subsists. Reliance has been placed on the orders passed by this Court in Mukul Sagar Vs. State of U.P. and others1 and Smt. Shaheen Siddiqui Vs. State of U.P. and others2.

9. In other words, it is urged that petitioner is entitled to appointment on a lower post on having not successfully qualifying the requisite proficiency test for the post on which the petitioner came to be appointed.

10. Per contra, the learned standing counsel submits that petitioner came to be granted compassionate appointment under the Dying-in-Harness Rules, on Class-III post as per the qualification of the petitioner. The service rules mandate that the incumbent apart from having minimum educational qualification is to pass type test. Accordingly, petitioner was appointed on a condition that he would be required to appear and pass the type test within the period of probation. Services of the petitioner came to be dispensed with as petitioner failed to qualify the type test despite several opportunities. The claim for compassionate appointment stood exhausted on being appointed. Services of the petitioner came to be dispensed with on the terms and conditions of appointment. It is not permissible under the rules that petitioner can seek a fresh appointment on compassionate ground.

11. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

12. The sole question for determination is, as to whether, petitioner can be reappointed on compassionate ground on a lower post on having failed to acquire the essential qualification prescribed for Class-III post under the service rules.

13. Facts inter-se parties are not in dispute.

14. Petitioner came to be appointed Clerk (Class-III) on compassionate ground under the provision of U.P. Government Servant Dying-in-Harness Rule, 19743, on the death of the deceased employee. It is not being disputed that under the rules governing recruitment on Class-III post, petitioner is required to pass type test. Petitioner came to appointed on 14 June 2018, subject to condition that petitioner would obtain/qualify the typing test. It is admitted that petitioner was given several opportunities but petitioner failed to qualify the typing test at 25 words per minute. Accordingly, services of the petitioner came to be terminated. Petitioner challenged the termination order before this Court in writ jurisdiction. The Court declined to interfere with the impugned order dispensing with the service of the petitioner on having not fulfilled the conditions of appointment as mandated under the service rules, however, directed the respondents to consider, as to whether, petitioner can be appointed on a lower post. Pursuant to the directions of this Court, the impugned order 24 May 2021, has been passed. The second respondent has noted in the impugned order that since petitioner failed to qualify the type test, accordingly, services of the petitioner came to be terminated as per the terms and conditions of the appointment, on having not acquired the minimum essential qualification required for appointment on Class-III post.

15. It is further noted in the impugned order that there is no provision under Rules, 1974, to reconsider the appointment of the incumbent claiming fresh appointment on a lower post after termination.

16. Rule 4 envisages that the Rules, 1974, and the order issued thereunder of having effect notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any rules, regulations and order in force. Rule 5 provides for recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased. The rule categorically mandates that in case a government servant dies in harness and spouse of the deceased government servant is not already employed under the government, Central and/or State, one member of the family, who is not already employed shall be given a suitable employment in government service on a post in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if, such person (i.) fulfils the educational qualification prescribed for the post; (ii) is otherwise qualified for government service.

17. Rule 5 came to be amended/substituted vide notification dated 22 January 2014, wherein, it was specifically provided that if the post on which a person is appointed under the rules require typing as the essential qualification, then in that event, the person would be appointed under Rules, 1974, on a condition that within one year from the date of appointment the appointee will have to obtain type speed at 25 words per minute, failing which, his services will be dispensed with. Rule 5 reads thus:

"5. मृतक के कुटुम्ब के किसी सदस्य की भर्ती.—

(प) पद के लिए विहित शैक्षिक अर्हताएं पूरी करता हो :

परन्तु यह कि यदि नियुक्ति किसी ऐसे पद पर की जाती है जिसके लिए टंकण को एक अनिवार्य अर्हता के रूप में विहित किया गया है और मृत सरकारी सेवक के आश्रित के पास टंकण में अपेक्षित प्रवीणता नहीं है, तो उसे इस शर्त के अधीन नियुक्त किया जाएगा कि वह एक वर्ष के भीतर ही टंकण में 25 शब्द प्रति मिनट की अपेक्षित गति प्राप्त कर लेगा और यदि वह ऐसा करने में विफल रहता है तो उसकी सामान्य वार्षिक वेतन – वृद्धि रोक ली जाएगी, और टंकण में अपेक्षित गति प्राप्त करने के लिए उसे अग्रेतर एक वर्ष की अवधि प्रदान की जाएगी, और यदि बढ़ायी गयी अवधि में भी वह टंकण में अपेक्षित गति प्राप्त करते में विफल रहता है तो उसकी सेवायें समाप्त कर दी जायेंगी,

परन्तु यह और कि किसी ऐसे पद पर नियुक्ति किये जाने की दशा में, जिसके लिए कम्पयूटर प्रचालन और टंकण एक अनिवार्य अर्हता के रूप में विहित की गयी है और मृतक सरकारी सेवक का आश्रित कम्प्यूटर प्रचालन और टंकण में अपेक्षित प्रवीणता नहीं रखता है, तो उसे इस शर्त के अधीन रहते हुए नियुक्त कर लिया जायेगा कि वह एक वर्ष के भीतर ही कम्पयूटर प्रचालन में डी0ओ0ई0ए0सी0सी0 सोसायटी द्वारा प्रदत्त ''सी0सी0सी0'' प्रमाण पत्र या सरकार द्वारा उसके समकक्ष मान्यता प्राप्त किसी प्रमाण–पत्र के साथ–साथ टंकण में 25 शब्द प्रति मिनट की अपेक्षित गति अर्जित कर लेगा, और यदि वह ऐसा करने में विफल रहता है तो उसकी सामान्य वार्षिक वेतन–वृद्धि रोक ली जायेगी और कम्प्यूटर प्रचालन में अपेक्षित प्रमाण–पत्र और टंकण में अपेक्षित गति अर्जित करने के लिए उसे एक वर्ष की अग्रेतर अवधि प्रदान की जायेगी, और यदि बढ़ायी गयी अवधि में भी वह टंकण में अपेक्षित गति प्राप्त करते में विफल रहता है तो उसकी सेवायें समाप्त कर दी जायेंगी।

(ii) ....

(iii)...."

18. On specific query, learned counsel for the petitioner does not dispute that the service rules governing the appointment on Class III posts mandates typing at a prescribed speed as an essential qualification. It is also not being disputed that petitioner came to be appointed on a Class III post under Rules, 1974, on a condition that he would require to obtain the typing speed within the period noted in the appointment letter. It is also not being disputed that petitioner was asked to appear for the typing test on four occasions and petitioner was unable to obtain/qualify the prescribed speed on two occasions, consequently, the services of the petitioner came to be terminated.

19. Rule 5(4)(e) of the U.P. Procedure for Direct Recruitment for Group "C" Posts (Outside the Purview of Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission) Rules, 1998 reads thus:

"5. Procedure for direct recruitment

(1) .....

x

(e) In the case of candidates to be selected for any post for which typewriting or shorthand and typewriting has been prescribed as an essential qualification, there shall be a test of typewriting or shorthand and typewriting, as the case may be....."

20. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner on having not fulfilled the essential qualification mandated for a Class III post, should now be offered a lower post under Rules 1974, is misconceived. The purpose of the Rules 1974, for compassionate appointment is to tied over the financial hardship befallen upon the family on the sudden demise of the bread earner. Once the family member of the deceased employee has obtained compassionate appointment, his right to be considered, on a subsequent occasion upon termination, for appointment under the same Rules would not entitle such a person to fresh appointment. On exhaustion of the right upon appointment under Rules 1974, it is not open to the petitioner to turn around and say that he be granted a lower post. Petitioner with all eyes open had accepted the appointment on a Class III post and was fully aware that he would have to pass the type test. On having failed to acquire the minimum prescribed type speed, it is not open for the petitioner to turn around and seek a fresh appointment on a lower post. The claim for compassionate appointment on having being exhausted on appointment cannot be re-agitated on termination or for that matter on acquiring a higher qualification. The contention of the petitioner if accepted would be violative of Article 14/16 of the Constitution of India. Such an appointment at this stage, in the given facts, would tantamount to backdoor appointment bypassing the recruitment rules.

21. Petitioner cannot claim reversion or fresh appointment on a post which he had not held at the time of appointment under Rules, 1974. Petitioner having not fulfilled the specific condition of appointment, this Court had declined to interfere with the impugned order terminating the services of the petitioner as no illegality or infirmity could be pointed out. Petitioner cannot seek appointment on mercy and/or sympathy. Such an appointment was rightly not granted by the State-respondents.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner failed to point out any illegality, infirmity or jurisdictional error.

23. The petition being devoid of merit is, accordingly, dismissed.

But even in such a case, no conclusion can be arrived at without examining the entire record in question and hence it is always advisable to allow disciplinary proceedings to continue unhindered. (Para 19, 21)

Where such a huge amount of money has been defalcated by several officers in collusion with Directors/Managers and Principals of several institutions; naturally, the investigation would take time to ascertain the link of the flow of money into hands of several persons, who colluded with each other to misappropriate such a huge amount. (Para 24)

In the case in hand, only seven months have elapsed, and considering the gravity of the charge, this Court finds that the principles elucidated by the Apex Court in the cases of U.P. Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad (infra) and Allahabad Bank & anr. (infra) are applicable, and delay in submitting the charge sheet cannot be ground to interfere in the suspension order. (Para 25)

2) This Court expressed its reservation regarding practice of keeping an employee under suspension for an indeterminate period - Suspension order should not be for an indeterminate period as it amounts to harassment of an employee and employee has to endure the scorn of the society and would injure his reputation in the society and his family. Court observed that considering the nature of charge in the instant case, one and half year would be sufficient time within which the respondents should issue charge sheet. If for any reason, the respondents are not able to comply with that, it is open to the petitioner to submit a representation before the competent authority requesting for revocation of the suspension order. And if at that time, the competent authority thinks that the petitioner should continue under suspension, he shall pass reasoned and speaking order on the representation specifying the reasons for continuance of suspension. (Para 28)

B. Though petitioner contends that no other person except him has been suspended but there is no pleading in the writ petition stating the name of persons who are also charged with the same allegation as that of the petitioner but have not been suspended. (Para 26)

C. The mere grant of interim order in favour of some of the I.T.I. institutions does not establish that charge against the petitioner is incorrect or false. (Para 27)

Present petition assails suspension order dated 24.12.2020, passed by Principal Secretary, Social Welfare, UP at Lucknow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms. Chhaya Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for respondent nos.1 & 2.

2. The petitioner by means of the present writ petition has assailed the suspension order dated 24.12.2020 passed by respondent no.1.

3. The petitioner was appointed as District Social Welfare Officer. He was promoted to the post of Additional District Development Officer on 07.01.2010. Thereafter, the petitioner was transferred to District Mathura on the post of District Social Welfare Officer/Additional District Development Officer on 27.06.2017.

4. It appears that a report was published in the newspaper Times of India, Lucknow on 11.08.2018 regarding defalcation of funds allocated for students fee reimbursement as well as scholarship by the Directors/Managers and principals of I.T.I. institutions in Mathura. Acting on the said report, the state government constituted a committee to enquire into the allegations of misappropriation of fund of fee reimbursement and scholarship of the students.

5. The committee enquired into the matter and submitted the report on 27.11.2020. The committee found that the allegation of misappropriation of fund prima facie is correct. Based on the aforesaid report, an F.I.R. was also lodged against the erring officers including petitioner under Sections 409, 420 & 468 of I.P.C. Thereafter, petitioner was suspended by order dated 24.12.2020 on the ground that in the inquiry conducted by three members committee in respect of allegations of misappropriation of fund of fee reimbursement and scholarship, it was prima facie found that the petitioner was involved in collusion with private ITI institutions in misappropriation of about 23 crores of public money allotted for scholarship and reimbursement of the fee to students.

6. Challenging the suspension order, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has urged that more than seven months have passed from the date of the suspension order, neither charge sheet has been issued nor the inquiry has commenced, therefore, the petitioner cannot remain in suspension for an indefinite period, hence, the suspension order deserves to be quashed. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Ajay Kumar Choudhary Vs. Union of India through its Secretary 2015 7 SCC 291.

7. He further contends that the inquiry report reveals that it does not indict the petitioner, therefore, the suspension order has been passed mechanically and without application of mind. He submits that petitioner has issued recovery orders for recovery of the embezzled amount, therefore, the charge against the petitioner of defalcation of huge public money in the suspension order on the face of the record is incorrect. He further submits that the affiliation of private ITI institutions was canceled which has been stayed by this Court in several writ petitions and order of one of such petitions passed in Writ-C No.928 of 2021 is Annexure 7 to the writ petition. He also contends that several officers have been named in the inquiry report, but only the petitioner has been suspended, therefore, the action of the respondent is arbitrary and discriminatory. Thus, he contends that the suspension order is not sustainable in law.

8. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel would contend that the charge against the petitioner is serious inasmuch as the petitioner is said to be involved in embezzlement of Rs. 23 crores which is huge public money allotted for fee reimbursement and scholarship to students, and therefore, considering the nature of the charge leveled against the petitioner, the petitioner has rightly been suspended. He submits that considering the gravity of the charge, the petitioner must be kept out of duty so that he may not manipulate or tamper with the evidence. He further submits that to substantiate the charge against the petitioner that he is involved in the defalcation of Rs. 23 crores of public money; link of the trail of money to various accounts have to be traced out by the authority and investigating agencies which obviously would take time, therefore, considering the nature of the charge, the delay in submitting the charge sheet cannot be ground in the instant case to interfere with the order of suspension.

9. He further submits that the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner has not been indicted in the inquiry is incorrect. He contends that the issuance of the recovery order by the petitioner does not imply that he is not involved in the defalcation of public money.

10. Learned Standing Counsel further contends that so far as the contention of counsel for the petitioner that no other officer except the petitioner has been suspended, the said contention is not borne out from the record since there is no pleading to this effect in the writ petition. He submits that the petitioner cannot take shelter of the interim order passed by this Court in Writ-C No.928 of 2021 filed by the private ITI institutions as stay order in the said writ petitions does not mean that the court has given the clean chit to the institutions.

11. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

12. Three members committee was constituted pursuant to a report published in the daily newspaper in Times of India, Lucknow on 11.08.2018 unearthing a big scam where 2700 private I.T.I. institutions have been found involved in the misuse of affiliation to these I.T.I. Institutions, and misappropriation of funds allocated for fee reimbursement and scholarship to the students.

13. On the basis of the said report, F.I.R. has been registered against the erring officers including the petitioner under Sections 409, 420, and 468 of IPC. Based on the said inquiry report, the petitioner is charged with involvement in misappropriation of Rs. 23 crores of public money allotted for reimbursement of fees and scholarship to the marginal section of the students. The charge on the face of it is very serious, and if found proved, would entail major punishment.

14. Now coming to the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner has issued recovery certificate against the institutions and as per the inquiry report he is not indicted.

15. The inquiry report, page 48 of the paper book, only suggest that District Social Welfare Officer, Mathura on 01.09.2020 issued notices to several I.T.I. institutions for returning excessive fund which has been wrongly paid to them towards fee reimbursement and scholarship to the students.

16. So far as the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that inquiry report does not indict the petitioner, it is worth mentioning that report is bulky and runs into several pages. At this stage, it would be apt to refer to paragraph 11 of the conclusion of the inquiry report which shows that the petitioner is also indicted. Paragraph 11 of the conclusion of the inquiry report is being reproduced herein below:-

"11. नियमावली के नियम-12 (vii) के अन्तर्गत दशमोत्तर छात्रवृत्ति एवं शुल्क प्रतिपूर्ति की स्वीकृति हेतु गठीत जनपदीय छात्रवृत्ति स्वीकृति समिति व वर्ष 2015-16 से 2019-20 तक जनपद मथुरा मे तैनात रहे जिला समाज कल्याण अधिकारी, जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक, संयुक्त निदेशक प्रशिक्षण, आगरा मण्डल आदि एवं दशमोत्तर छात्रवृत्ति का कार्य देख रहे सम्बन्धित पटल सहायक अनियमितता के लिए उत्तरदायी हैं। उक्त वर्षों मे कार्यरत रहे जिला समाज कल्याण अधिकारियों व कर्मचारियों का विवरण संलग्न हैं।"

17. Thus, the submission of counsel for the petitioner that the inquiry report does not indict the petitioner is not sustainable.

18. So far as the argument of counsel for the petitioner that more than seven months have elapsed and no charge sheet has yet been issued against the petitioner and he cannot remain in suspension for an indefinite period; in the opinion of the Court, the said submission of the counsel for the petitioner is misconceived in the fact of the present case since considering the gravity of the charge against the petitioner, and the fact that amount of Rs. 23 crores have been defalcated by the petitioner and other persons in connivance with private I.T.I. institutions, it is obvious that the investigation will take time as the investigating agency is to find out the trail of money into various hands to establish the charge. Hence, there would naturally be delay in issuing charge sheet due to the tedious process of finding out the trail of money into various hands.

19. In this respect, it would be apt to refer to the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of U.P. Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad and Others Vs. Sanjiv Rajan 1993 Supp. (3) SCC 483 where on the issue of delay in submitting the charge sheet, Apex Court held as under in paragraph 5 of the aforesaid judgment:-

"5. The ground given by the High Court to stay the operation of the suspension order, is patently wrong. There is no restriction on the authority to pass a suspension order second time. The first order might be withdrawn by the authority on the ground that at that stage, the evidence appearing against the delinquent employee is not sufficient or for some reason, which is not connected with the merits of the case. As happened in the present case, the earlier order of suspension dated March 22, 1991 was quashed by the High Court on the ground that some other suspended officer had been allowed to join duties. That order had nothing to do with the merits of the case. Ordinarily, when there is an accusation of defalcation of the monies, the delinquent employees have to be kept away from the establishment till the charges are finally disposed of. Whether the charges are baseless, malicious or vindictive and are framed only to keep the individual concerned out of the employment is a different matter. But even in such a case, no conclusion can be arrived at without examining the entire record in question and hence it is always advisable to allow disciplinary proceedings to continue unhindered. It is possible that in some cases, the authorities do not proceed with the matter as expeditiously as they ought to, which results in prolongation of the sufferings of the delinquent employee. But the remedy in such cases is either to call for an explanation from the authorities in the matter, and if it is found unsatisfactory, to direct them to complete the inquiry within a stipulated period and to increase the suspension allowance adequately. It is true that in the present case, the charge-sheet was filed after almost a year of the order of suspension. However, the facts pleaded by the appellants show that the defalcations were over a long period from 1986 to 1991 and they involved some lakhs of rupees. It also appears that the authorities have approached the police and in the police investigation, the amount of defalcation is found to be still more. Since the matter is of taking accounts which are spread over from 1986 to 1991 and of correlating the entries with the relevant documents, and several individuals are involved, the framing of charges was bound to take some time. The Court has to examine each case on its own facts and decide whether the delay in serving the charge-sheet and completing the inquiry is justified or not. However, in the present case, the High Court has not quashed the order of suspension on the ground of delay in framing the charges. As stated earlier, it has set aside the order or suspension on the ground that the authority had no power to pass the second order of suspension in the same case. We are afraid that the High Court has misconstrued the nature and purpose of the power of suspension vested in the management. It is not disputed that at present all officers concerned are served with the charge-sheets and have been suspended. There is no discrimination between the officers on that account. The charges are also grave and the authorities have come to the conclusion that during the disciplinary proceedings, the officers should not continue in employment to enable them to conduct the proceedings unhindered. Hence, we are satisfied that the order in appeal was not justified."

20. In another case of Allahabad Bank and Another Vs. Deepak Kumar Bhola (1997) 4 SCC 1 the Apex Court allowed the appeal of the bank against the order of the High Court setting aside the suspension order of the respondent who was charged with the offence of criminal misconduct and cheating by adopting corrupt and illegal means or otherwise abusing his position to obtain undue pecuniary gain for himself which amounted to an offence involving moral turpitude.

21. One of the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the respondent, as noted by the Apex Court in paragraph 4 of the judgment, is that since 10 years had elapsed from the date order of suspension was set aside, therefore, the Court should not interfere. The said argument was repelled by the Apex Court and it has noted in paragraph 11 of the judgment that merely because 10 years have elapsed since the charge sheet had been filed cannot be a ground to the respondent to come back to duty on a sensitive post of the bank till he is exonerated of the charges. Paragraph 11 of the aforesaid judgment is being extracted herein below:-

"11. We are unable to agree with the contention of learned counsel for the respondent that there has been no application of mind or the objective consideration of the facts by the appellant before it passed the orders of suspension. As already observed, the very fact that the investigation was conducted by the C.B.I which resulted in the filing of a charge-sheet, alleging various offences having been committed by the respondent, was sufficient for the appellant to conclude that pending prosecution the respondent should be suspended. It would be indeed inconceivable that a bank should allow an employee to continue to remain on duty when he is facing serious charges of corruption and mis-appropriation of money. Allowing such an employee to remain in the seat would result in giving him further opportunity to indulge in the acts for which he was being prosecuted. Under the circumstances, it was the bounden duty of the appellant to have taken recourse to the provisions of clause 19.3 of the First Bipartite Settlement, 1966. The mere fact that nearly 10 years have elapsed since the charge-sheet was filed, can also be no ground for allowing the respondent to come back to duty on a sensitive post in the Bank, unless he is exonerated of the charge."

22. Now coming to the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ajay Kumar Choudhary (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner; the said judgment has been rendered in different factual circumstances wherein an officer was suspended for the charge that he had granted NOC to certain land treating the same to be private land though, in fact, the land was owned by Union of India and held by Director General of Defence Estates. In the said case, the charged officer was suspended on 30.09.2011 and no charge sheet was issued till 21.06.2013 and thereafter, the suspension order was extended from time to time, and when it was extended four times for 90 days w.e.f. 22.03.2013, the appellant challenged the same before the Central Administrative Tribunal who disposed of the Original Application directing that if no charge memo was issued to the appellant before the expiry of 21.06.2013, the appellant would be reinstated in service. The said order came to be challenged by the respondent in the writ petition before the Delhi High Court who allowed the writ petition with certain directions. Against the order of Delhi High Court, the appellant preferred S.L.P. and Apex Court held that currency of a suspension order should not extend beyond three months if, within this period, the charge sheet is not served on the delinquent employee. Paragraph 21 of the said judgment is being reproduced herein below:-

"21. We, therefore, direct that the currency of a suspension order should not extend beyond three months if within this period the memorandum of charges/charge-sheet is not served on the delinquent officer/employee; if the memorandum of charges/charge-sheet is served a reasoned order must be passed for the extension of the suspension. As in the case in hand, the Government is free to transfer the concerned person to any department in any of its offices within or outside the State so as to sever any local or personal contact that he may have and which he may misuse for obstructing the investigation against him. The Government may also prohibit him from contacting any person, or handling records and documents till the stage of his having to prepare his defence. We think this will adequately safeguard the universally recognised principle of human dignity and the right to a speedy trial and shall also preserve the interest of the Government in the prosecution. We recognise that previous Constitution Benches have been reluctant to quash proceedings on the grounds of delay, and to set time limits to their duration. However, the imposition of a limit on the period of suspension has not been discussed in prior case law, and would not be contrary to the interests of justice. Furthermore, the direction of the Central Vigilance Commission that pending a criminal investigation departmental proceedings are to be held in abeyance stands superseded in view of the stand adopted by us."

23. The judgment of Apex Court in the case of Ajay Kumar Chaudhary (supra) has not noticed the judgments of Apex Court in the cases of U.P. Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad (supra) and Allahabad Bank and Another (supra). Further, the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Ajay Kumar Chaudhary (supra) was rendered in a factual situation where charge leveled against the appellant was that he has wrongly granted N.O.C. to the land owned by the Union of India which was held by the Director-General of Defence Estates treating it to be private land and there was no charge of defalcation of huge amount of money traveling into the hands of several persons as in the present case.

24. It is worth noticing that where such a huge amount of money has been defalcated by several officers in collusion with Directors/Managers and Principals of several institutions; naturally, the investigation would take time to ascertain the link of the flow of money into hands of several persons, who colluded with each other to misappropriate such a huge amount.

25. In the case in hand, only seven months have elapsed, and considering the gravity of the charge, this Court finds that the judgment of Ajay Kumar Chaudhary (supra) does not come in aid to the petitioner rather, the principles elucidated by the Apex Court in the cases of U.P. Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad (supra) and Allahabad Bank and Another (supra) are applicable, and delay in submitting the charge sheet cannot be ground to interfere in the suspension order.

26. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that no other person except petitioner has been suspended is also not substantiated from the record since there is no pleading in the writ petition stating the name of persons who are also charged with the same allegation as that of the petitioner have not been suspended.

27. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that several I.T.I. institutions who are also charged with defalcation of money have been granted an interim order by this Court, and therefore, prima facie, the charge leveled against the petitioner is not correct is concerned, the said submission also has no substance inasmuch as the mere grant of interim order in favour of some of the I.T.I. institutions does not establish that charge against the petitioner is incorrect or false. Therefore, the said contention does not stand to merit.

28. This Court before concluding, may note that Apex Court in the case of Ajay Kumar Chaudhary (supra) has expressed its reservation regarding practice of keeping an employee under suspension for an indeterminate period, therefore, keeping in view the fact that suspension order should not be for an indeterminate period as it amounts to harassment of an employee and employee has to endure the scorn of the society and would injure his reputation in the society and his family, this Court believes that considering the nature of charge in the instant case, one and half year would be sufficient time within which the respondents should issue charge sheet. If for any reason, the respondents are not able to submit the charge sheet within the said period, it is open to the petitioner to submit a representation before the competent authority requesting for revocation of the suspension order. In case, petitioner submits any such representation for revocation of the suspension order, and if, the competent authority thinks that the petitioner should continue under suspension, he shall pass reasoned and speaking order on the representation of the petitioner specifying the reasons for continuance of suspension of the petitioner.

29. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed subject to the observations made above.

Present petition assails order of termination dated 14.11.2019, passed by District Judge, Maharajganj.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for respondent No. 1 and Ms. Pooja Agarwal, learned counsel for respondent Nos. 2 to 5.

2. Pleadings are exchanged between the parties. With the consent of parties, writ petition is being decided at the admission stage itself.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that High Court of judicature at Allahabad has issued advertisement for recruitment of Group 'C' post in the U.P. Civil Court Staff Centralized Recruitment Scheme-2014, (Advertisement No. 1/Sub. Court/Category 'C'/Clerical Cadre/2014). He further pointed out that as per Point No. 9 of General Instruction, all the candidates, who are already in Central/State Government Service or in any Central/State Government undertaking or in any type of other organization established and governed by the Central/State Government, shall have to produce no objection certificate (N.O.C.) as and when called for. Petitioner, being fully eligible for the said post, has submitted application form and ultimately after going through the due procedure as provided in advertisement, he was appointed on the post of Junior Assistant vide appointment letter dated 09.09.2015 at District Court Maharajganj on probation.

4. He next submitted that prior to this joining, petitioner was working on Group 'D' post in Northern Central Railways. On 10.09.2015, he had sent his resignation to Civil Division, Mechanical Engineering, Jhansi and on 11.09.2015, submitted his joining at District Court, Maharajganj. On 31.05.2016, respondent No. 5 has issued notice to the petitioner to submit his reply as to whether prior to this department, he was working in some other department or not and whether he was allotted any PRAN or not, which was replied by the petitioner vide letter dated 13.06.2016 that earlier he was working as class IV employee in Northern Central Railway and submitted his resignation. He has also informed that he was allotted PRAN No. 110073384088 from Northern Central Railway and along with his letter, he has also annexed the photocopy of resignation letter.

5. He further submitted that on reply dated 13.06.2016, he was directed by the Officer concerned to inform the date of resignation and further about no objection certificate, if obtained and also as to why he has concealed the facts. The same was duly replied by the petitioner vide letter dated 21.06.2016 in which petitioner submitted that while submitting his application form, there was no requirement of no objection certificate as it is stated that candidates shall have to produce no objection certificate as and when called for. This is also stated that he has never concealed the facts and further he was willing to fill up the details of his service in police verification form, but it was never been required to fill up, therefore, he could not disclose about his first service.

6. It is next submitted that again, petitioner was issued letter dated 22.08.2016 with almost similar allegation which was also replied by the petitioner vide letter date 15.09.2016. After 22.08.2016, no further notices were issued to the petitioner. According to the petitioner, after completion of two year's of probation period, as per rule 19 of Uttar Pradesh State District Court Rules, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Rules, 2013'), his services were made confirmed and vide order dated 03.09.2019, he has been promoted on the post of Senior Assistant at District Court, Maharajganj.

7. It is further submitted that on 29.08.2019 i.e. after three years from the issuance of last notice, he has received another notice and submitted reply vide letter dated 03.10.2019. On 15.10.2019, petitioner was issued one more notice by which he was required to present acceptance of his resignation letter by the Northern Central Railway within a period of one month, failing which, his services shall automatically be terminated. It is next submitted that vide letters dated 02.11.2019 and 12.11.2019, petitioner requested respondents to give more time and also provide the entire material on the basis of which inquiry against the petitioner was proceeded. Lastly, vide letter dated 14.11.2019, service of petitioner was terminated without following the procedure as enshrined in Rules, 2013.

8. Facts are not disputed that in the advertisement, there was no requirement to produce no objection certificate at the time of submission of application form, neither petitioner has concealed any fact at any point of time nor he was required to disclose the status of his first service prior to his joining. It is next submitted that petitioner was also promoted vide letter dated 03.09.2019, therefore, in all eventuality, it is required on the part of respondents to follow Rule 23(5) of Rules, 2013 for holding enquiry to award major punishment. Neither any notice has been served to the petitioner nor any inquiry officer has ever been appointed. Except show cause notice, no opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner before passing impugned order.

9. Lastly, it is submitted that petitioner has taken specific plea in paragraph Nos. 50 to 59 in writ petition that he has not been provided opportunity to face inquiry. It is further submitted that in paragraph No. 31 of the counter affidavit, there is no denial of the facts and only stated that by the perusal of records, it indicates that petitioner concealed the fact that at the time of joining, he was working in Railway Department. Petitioner reiterated that he has never concealed any facts and further his appointment was made permanent and given promotion, therefore, Rule 23(5) of Rules, 2013 has to be followed before awarding major punishment, therefore, order is bad and is liable to be set aside.

10. Ms. Pooja Agarwal, learned counsel for respondent Nos. 2 to 5 has vehemently opposed the submissions made by learned counsel for the petitioner, but could not dispute the facts as well as provisions of Rules, 2013 placed by learned counsel for the petitioner. She only submitted that petitioner has concealed the facts about his working at Railway Department prior to submission of application form as well as joining pursuant to the advertisement. Petitioner was on probation, therefore, his services can be terminated at any point of time. She also submitted that promotion on the post of Senior Assistant could not be a ground for completion of his probation as no order has been passed for completion of probation as required in Rule 19(5) of Rules, 2013. She next submitted that even in case charge-sheet has not been issued, no prejudice caused to the petitioner, therefore, order is well within the limits of law. She further submitted that opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner and petitioner has never raised any objection that he has not been given opportunity of hearing. In support of her contention, she has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of High Court of Madhya Pradesh vs. Satya Narain Jhavar, (2001) 7 SCC 161. She further submitted that similar view was taken by the Courts in the case of G.S. Ramaswamy vs. Inspector-General of Police, 1966 SC 175, State of U.P. vs. Akbar Ali Khan, AIR 1966 SC 1842, Samsher Singh vs. State of Punjab and another, (1974) 2 SCC 831, Sukhbans Singh vs. State of Punjab and others, AIR 1962 SC 1711. She further placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court passed in State of Punjab and others vs. Balbir Singh (2004) 11 SCC 743 and submitted that termination of petitioner is simplicitor and not punitive in nature, therefore, no inquiry is required. Lastly, she placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in State of U.P. vs. Harendra Arora and Another (2001) 6 SCC 392 and submitted that it is required on the part of petitioner to show that prejudice is caused to him. She also submitted that similar view was taken by the Apex Court in Om Prakash Mann vs. Director of Education (Basic) and other (2006) 7 SCC 558.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner in his rejoinder arguments submitted that submissions made by learned counsel for respondents is self contradictory as on one hand, Rule 19(2) of Rules, 2013 provides two years as period of probation and Rule 19(5) of Rules, 2013 says that for completion of probation, specific order is required and contrary to that Schedule-B of Rule 3(3) & 4 provides that for promotion on the post of Senior Assistant from Junior Assistant, minimum five years of substantive and satisfactory service in the said scale is required. Further, Rule 19(3) of Rules, 2013 provides maximum period of extension of probation which cannot be more than the period specified in Rule 19(1) & (2) of Rules, 2013. As per Rule 19(1) & (2) of Rules, 2013, period of probation is two years and as per Rule 19(3) of Rules, 2013, it can be extended maximum for two years. Therefore, once petitioner has completed the service of four years, his probation cannot be extended beyond that. Here, petitioner is promoted on the post of Senior Assistant, his service would be deemed to be substantive and satisfactory and his probation is to be deemed completed. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of State of Punjab v. Dharam Singh, AIR 1968 Supreme Court 1210 which says that if service rules fix a certain period of time beyond which the probationary period cannot be extended and an employee appointed or promoted to a post on probation is allowed to continue in that post after completion of the maximum period of probation without an express order of confirmation, he cannot be deemed to continue in that post as a probationer. In fact, he would be treated to be confirmed on the post by implication.

12. I have considered rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, perused the records, judgments as well as Rules, 2013.

13. Certain facts of the case are undisputed. As per terms of advertisement, there is no requirement of annexing "No Objection Certificate" alongwith application form and further no opportunity was given to the petitioner at any point of time to disclose as to whether he was working on any other post at the time of submission of application form or at the time of joining. Further, as and when notices were issued to the petitioner, he has duly replied the same without concealment of any fact, therefore, it cannot be said that he has concealed any fact at any point of time.

14. Service of petitioner is governed by the provisions of Rules, 2013 and Rule 19 provides for probation. Rule 19 of Rules, 2013 is quoted below:-

"19. Probation-

(1) All appointments to the Service by direct recruitment shall be on probation for the period of two years.

(2) All appointments by promotion shall be on probation basis for a period of two years.

(3) The period of probation for reasons to be recorded in writing, may be extended by the appointing authority by such period not exceeding the period of probation specified in sub-rule (1) or (2).

(4) At the end of period of probation or the extended period of probation the appointing authority shall consider the suitability of the person so appointed or promoted to hold the post to which he was appointed or promoted, and-

(i) if it decides that he is suitable to hold the post to which he was appointed or promoted and has passed the examinations or tests, if any, required to be passed during the period of probation it shall, as soon as possible, issue an order declaring him to have satisfactorily completed the period of probation and such an order shall have effect from the date of expiry of the period of probation, including extended period, if any, as the case may be.

(ii) if the appointing authority considers that the person is not suitable to hold the post to which he was appointed or promoted, as the case may be, he shall by order-

(a) If he is a promotee, revert him to the post which he held prior to his promotion.

(b) If he is a probationer, discharge him from service;

(5) A person shall not be considered to have satisfactorily completed the period of probation unless a specific order to that effect is passed. Any delay in passing such an order shall not entitle the person to be deemed to have satisfactorily completed the period of probation."

15. Further, Schedule-B, Rule 3(3) & (4) of Rules, 2013 deals with the procedure and requirement for recruitment and promotion and for promotion on the post of Senior Assistant from Junior Assistant, minimum five years of substantive and satisfactory service in the earlier scale is required. Relevant part of Schedule-B is quoted below:-

Sl. No.	Category Posts	Method of Recruitment	Qualification etc.
4-	Senior Assistant (Munsarim, Civil Judge (SD & JD, Addl. Civil Judge (SD & JD) /Munsarim-cum-Reader/Readers of these Courts & JSCC & Addl. JSCC /Deputy; Nazir/Record Keeper(Cr.)/ Suits Clerk/Decree writer/Clerk to CMM, CJM, JM Courts/Librarian/Head Copyist (Civil & Criminal), etc., Protocal Officer., Category "C") & Amin Grade-I Category "C") 5200-20,200 Grade pay 2800	By Promotion from Junior Assistant amongst Clerical Cadre of pay scale of Rs. 5200-20,200 Grade Pay 2000 On the basic of seniority-cum- merit with minimum Five years of substantive and satisfactory service in the said scale	For Librarian the qualification would be preferably bachelor in Library Science.

16. From the perusal of Rule 19 of Rules, 2013, it is apparently clear that appointment shall be made on probation for a period of two years and further in the light of Rule 19(3) of Rules, 2013, probation may be extended not exceeding the period of probation specified in sub-rule 1 & 2 of Rule 19 of Rules, 2013 i.e. two years. In the present case, probation of petitioner has never been extended and he has completed five years of service crossing the bars of Rule

19(1) & (3). Rule 19(5) provides that a person shall not be considered to have satisfactorily completed the period of probation unless a specific order to that effect is passed. Any delay in passing such an order shall not entitle the person to be deemed to have satisfactorily completed the period of probation. No doubt, in present case, no specific order has been passed, but Schedule-B clearly provides that promotion on the post of Senior Assistant shall be made only after completion of five years substantive and satisfactory service in the earlier scale meaning thereby his service was found satisfactory as he was promoted on the post of Senior Assistant. Considering this fact, respondents also have never extended his probation, therefore, under such facts of the case, probation of petitioner is deemed to be treated complete for the reason that in case service of petitioner was not satisfactory, he should never been promoted on the post of Senior Assistant.

17. Apex Court in the matter of State of Punjab Vs. Dharam Singh (Supra) has clearly held that once the time of probation is prescribed and employee is allowed to continue on the said post after completion of maximum period of probation without an express order of confirmation, he shall be treated confirm by implication. Paragraph No. 5 of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"5. In the present case, Rule 6(3) forbids extension of the period of probation beyond three years. Where, as in the present case, the service rules fix a certain period of time beyond which the probationary period cannot be extended, and an employee appointed or promoted to a post on probation is allowed to continue in that post after completion of the maximum period of probation without an express order of confirmation, he cannot be deemed to continue in that post as a probationer by implication. The reason is that such an implication is negatived by the service rule forbidding extension of the probationary period beyond the maximum period fixed by it. In such a case, it is permissible to draw the inference that the employee allowed to continue in the post on completion of the maximum period of probation has been confirmed in the post by implication."

18. I have also gone through the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for respondents in the matter of High Court of Madhya Pradesh (Supra) where it was not the case that petitioner was promoted and thereafter termination was made. In G.S. Ramaswamy (Supra), State of U.P. vs. Akbar Ali Khan(Supra), Samsher Singh(Supra) and Sukhbans Singh(Supra) Court has also taken similar view in the light of different facts, therefore, these judgments would not come into the rescue of respondents.

19. So far as case of State of Punjab and others vs. Balbir Singh (Supra) is concerned, it says about determination of suitability of an employee for a particular job, such termination would be termination simplicitor and not punitive in nature. In the present case, undoubtedly, service of petitioner was found satisfactory and considering his suitability, he was promoted on the post of Senior Assistant, therefore, this judgment also could not help respondents. So far as judgments of State of U.P. vs. Harendra Arora(Supra) & Om Prakash Mann (supra) are concerned, facts are entirely different and there is prejudice against the petitioner as he was not given opportunity before Inquiry Officer to show that at no point of time, he has never concealed any fact. Learned counsel for respondents could not demonstrate this fact that at any point of time, in advertisement or at any stage of joining, appointment or in continuation of service, he was given opportunity to disclose about his previous service, therefore, these judgments also would not applicable in the case of respondents. The very submission made by learned counsel for respondents, that petitioner was on probation, therefore, his service can be terminated, cannot be accepted in the light of Rule 3(3) & 4 of Rules, 2013 alongwith Schedule-B for promotion as well as law laid down by the Apex Court in the matter of State of Punjab(Supra), therefore, the contention raised by learned counsel for respondents is having no force.

20. Therefore, under such facts of the case as well as provisions of Rules, 2013 and law laid down by the Apex Court, probation of petitioner shall be treated to be complete and his service cannot be terminated on the ground that he was on probation.

21. Petitioner has taken specific plea that no Inquiry Officer has been appointed except the show cause notice, no opportunity of hearing was given to him before passing order which was also not denied in the counter affidavit. In the present case, petitioner was appointed on the post of Junior Assistant on probation and thereafter he has been promoted on the post of Senior Assistant and in the light of discussions made here-in-above, his service is to be treated confirmed, therefore, petitioner cannot be terminated from service without following the procedure prescribed in Rule 23(5) of Rules, 2013.

22. Therefore, under such circumstances as well as provisions of Rules, 2013 and law laid down by the Apex Court, order of termination dated 14.11.2019 passed by respondent No. 3 is bad and is hereby set aside. Respondent No. 3-District Judge, Maharajganj is directed to reinstate the petitioner in service forthwith alongwith all consequential benefits.

23. Accordingly, writ petition is allowed.

24. No order as to costs.

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service Law – Right of a contractual employee – Legitimate expectation - When a person enters a temporary employment or gets engagement as a contractual or casual worker and the engagement is not based on a proper selection as recognized by the relevant rules or procedure, he is aware of the consequences of the appointment being temporary, casual or contractual in nature. Such a person cannot invoke the theory of legitimate expectation for being confirmed in the post when an appointment to the post could be made only by following a proper procedure for selection and in concerned cases, in consultation with the Public Service Commission. (Para 19)

In the present case, the petitioner-appellant entered into a contract voluntarily and with eyes wide open for his engagement for a fixed period from 02.03.2020 to 31.8.2020 and on expiry of the period of agreement, his agreement was not renewed and he was not re-engaged. Sufficient reasons have been disclosed in the order dated 06.05.2021 passed by CDO, Kannauj for not extending the engagement of the petitioner-appellant. (Para 14, 15)

It is settled law that a writ of mandamus can be issued if a petitioner is able to establish that he has legally protected and judicially enforceable subsisting right. The petitioner has completely failed to demonstrate that he has any statutory or legal right to compel the respondents to execute an agreement for his re-engagement or further engagement as Computer Operator for MANREGA in District Kannauj. (Para 20)

Constitution of India – Article 226 - This Court in exercise of its extraordinary, equitable and discretionary jurisdiction u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India has no power to re-write contract or to compel the State to enter into an agreement. (Para 23)

Present Special Appeal challenges judgment and order dated 09.08.2021, passed by Hon'ble Single Judge.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Surendra Prasad Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

Brief facts of the case

2. This special appeal has been filed challenging the order dated 9.8.2021 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ -A No.6652 of 2021 which is reproduced below:-

"Heard Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Birendra Pratap Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

The contractual engagement of the petitioner has been brought to an end by the respondents. Quite apart from the reasons which have been taken into consideration, the principal question which arises is whether the Court should consider the grant of a prerogative writ consequent to the contractual appointment of the petitioner having been brought to an end. The Court in this regard bears in mind the principles enunciated by a Division Bench of the Court in Rajesh Bhardwaj Vs. Union of India [2019 (2) ADJ 830]. Undisputedly, the Court cannot by way of a writ command the respondents to either renew or perpetuate the contractual engagement of the petitioner. In any case and since it is not governed by any statutory rules or regulations, the Court cannot issue a declaration invalidating the termination or direct reinstatement.

Consequently, the writ petition fails and is dismissed."

3. The petitioner had filed the aforesaid Writ -A No. 6652 of 2021 challenging the order dated 6.5.2021. The operative portion of the impugned order in the writ petition is reproduced below:-

"उक्तानुसार पारित निर्देशों के क्रम में जनपद स्तर पर कम्प्यूटर आपरेटर का पद सृजित न होने, राज्य मरनेगा प्रकोष्ठ लखनऊ से मनरेगा संविदा कर्मियों के सीधे उनके खाते में मानदेय हस्तान्तरित किये जाने एवं जनपद स्तर पर कार्यहित में आवश्यकता न होने के .ष्टिगत श्री प्रशान्त शुक्ला की संविदा अवधि / अनुबन्ध दिनांक 31.08.2020 को समाप्त होने पर आगे संविदा के नवीनीकरण किये जाने की जिला कार्यक्रम

अतः मा0 उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद में श्री प्रशान्त शुक्ला बनाम उ0प्र0 सरकार एवं 06 अन्य के नाम से योजित याचिका सं0 ए–1936 / 2021 के साथ संलग्न प्रत्यावेदन दिनांक 25.09.2020 पर कार्यवाही करने हुये प्रत्यावेदन को एतद् द्वारा निस्तारित किया जाता है।"

4. It would be relevant to mention that the petitioner voluntarily and with eyes wide open entered into an agreement dated 31.3.2020 for his engagement on honorarium basis @ Rs.11,200/- per month for the specific period of 2.3.2020 to 31.8.2020 (six months) or till continuation of the scheme, whichever is earlier. The agreement came to an end on 31.8.2020. Thereafter, on account of no necessity of engagement for work, the petitioner-appellant was not further engaged.

5. Consequently, the petitioner filed Writ - A No.1936 of 2021 (Prashant Shukla Vs. State of U.P. & six others) which was disposed of by order dated 18.3.2021 observing that "without expressing any opinion on the merits of the issue the concerned respondent is directed to look into the grievance of the petitioner and redress the same strictly in accordance with law."

6. Pursuant to the aforesaid order passed by learned Single Judge, the representation of the petitioner was decided by the impugned order dated 6.5.2021 passed by the Chief Development Officer, Kannuaj declining to extend the contractual engagement of the petitioner or to reengage him.

7. In the order dated 6.5.2021 it has also been observed that neither post of Computer Operator has been created by the State Government at the District Level for work under Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MNREGA) scheme nor the petitioner-appellant was employed through lawful selection process.

8. The aforesaid order dated 6.5.2021 was challenged by the petitioner-appellant in Writ-A No.6652 of 2021 which has been dismissed by the abovequoted impugned order passed by learned Single Judge dated 9.8.2021 observing that "the Court cannot by way of a writ command the respondents to either renew or perpetuate the contractual engagement of the petitioner. In any case and since it is not governed by any statutory rules or regulations, the Court cannot issue a declaration invalidating the termination or direct reinstatement."

Aggrieved with this order the petitioner-appellant has filed the present special appeal.

Submissions

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant submits that the impugned order has been passed by the learned Single Judge merely on the basis of the law laid down by a Division Bench in Rajesh Bhardwaj Vs. Union of India and others 2019(2) ADJ 830 whereas the contrary view has been taken by two different Division Benches in Special Appeal No.104 of 2021 (Prem Chandra Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and 4 others) decided on 14.6.2021 and Jagbhan Vs. State of U.P. and 5 others in Special Appeal Defective No.250 of 2021 decided on 14.6.2021.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant has further urged that the judgment in the csae of Rajesh Bhardwaj (Supra) is liable to be referred to Larger Bench as it runs counter to the view taken by two different coordinate Bench in the case of Jagbhan (Supra) and Prem Chandra Gupta (Supra).

Learned Standing Counsel supports the impugned judgement.

Finding

11. We have carefully considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties.

12. It is admitted case of the petitioner that he was engaged for the period from 2.3.2020 to 31.8.2020 on honorarium basis as Computer Operator under a written agreement dated 31.3.2020 which he entered voluntarily and with eyes wide open. On expiry of the period of agreement, his contractual engagement came to an end. Neither any statutory provision nor any judgement could be placed by learned counsel for the petitioner before us, which may indicate that in absence of legally protected or judicially enforceable subsisting right, the petitioner-appellant has a right to ask for a mandamus from the writ court to the authorities to compel them to renew the contract or to extend the period of engagement by entering into a fresh agreement.

13. The judgment relied by learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant in the case of Jagbhan (Supra) has no bearing on the facts of the present case. The facts in the case of Jagbhan (Supra) are different inasmuch as in the case the services of the petitioner were terminated by an order on the basis of an enquiry report dated 25.9.2020 without affording any opportunity of hearing to him. When the said order of termination was challenged, the learned Single Judge passed the order dismissing the writ petition, which is reproduced below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the parties.

This petition at the behest of a contractual employee aggrieved by an order of termination would not be maintainable in light of the decision of the Division Bench in Rajesh Bhardwaj Vs. Union of India and Others [2019 (2) ADJ 830]. It is accordingly dismissed as such."

The facts of the case of Prem Chandra Gupta (Supra) relied by learned counsel for the petitioner are also similar to the facts of the case of Jagbhan (Supra).

The order of learned Single Judge, which was challenged in Special Appeal in the case of Prem Chandra Gupta (Supra), is reproduced below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel.

The Court finds no ground to entertain this petition directed against an order of termination of the contractual engagement of the petitioner bearing in mind the judgment rendered by the Division Bench of the Court in Rajesh Bhardwaj Vs. Union of India and Others [2019 (2) ADJ 830]. The writ petition is accordingly dismissed as not maintainable"

14. Thus, the orders of learned Single Judge, which were challenged in the case of Jagbhan (Supra) and Prem Chandra Gupta (Supra) arose from an ex parte order of termination of services on the basis of an ex parte enquiry report and the orders of the learned Single Judge were not on merit of the case, but it was simply observed that the writ petition is not maintainable in the light of the law laid down in the case of Rajesh Bhardwaj (Supra).

The facts of the present case are entirely different as the petitioner-appellant herein entered into a contract voluntarily and with eyes wide open for his engagement for a fixed period from 2.3.2020 to 31.8.2020 and on expiry of the period of agreement, his agreement was not renewed and he was not re-engaged.

15. Sufficient reasons have been disclosed in the order dated 6.5.2021 passed by Chief Development Officer, Kannauj for not extending the engagement of the petitioner-appellant.

16. The writ petition of the petitioner-appellant herein was dismissed by the learned Single Judge not by merely referring to the law laid down in the case of Rajesh Bhardwaj (Supra) but it was also held that the Court cannot by way of a writ command the respondents to either renew or perpetuate the contractual engagement of the petitioner. In any case and since it is not governed by any statutory rules or regulations, the Court cannot issue a declaration invalidating the termination or direct reinstatement.

17. The petitioner-appellant had filed the aforesaid Writ-A No.6652 of 2021 praying for (a) to quash the order dated 6.5.2021 and (b) to issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to execute the agreement reinstating the petitioner as Computer Operator for MANREGA works in District Kannauj. We find that the order dated 6.5.2021 does not suffer from any manifest error of law and as such a writ of certiorari cannot be issued.

18. The Apex Court in the case of Director, Institute of Management Development, U.P. Vs. Smt. Pushpa Srivastava JT 1992 (4) S.C.489 had the occasion to consider the right of a contractual employee for re-engagement and held as under:-

"4. The respondent was first appointed in the appellant- Institute as a Research Executive on a consolidated fixed compensation of Rs. 1,250 per month on contract basis for aperiod of three months. It was specifically stated in the order that it was purely on ad hoc basis, liable for termination without any notice on either side.

5. By an order dated 18th of July, 1988 the appointment of respondent was exended for a further period of three months with effect from 2nd August, 1988 on the same terms and conditions. Here again, it requires to be noted that the appointment was purely on ad hoc basis. On 28th of January, 1989 a fresh Office Order was made appointing the respondent as Training Executive on a contract basis for a period of three months. The consolidated pay was fixed at Rs.1,500 per month. Here also, the appointment was purely on ad hoc basis and terminable without notice by either side. On 20th June, 1989 she was appointed on a newly created post of Executive carrying a pay scale of Rs. 770-1600. This appointment was also on ad hoc basis for a period of six months and it was terminable by one month's notice on either side. on 5th January, 1990 another ad hoc appointment was made for a period of three months. Though by efflux of time the appointment came to an end on 21st of March, 1990 yet she was continued beyond the prescribed period.

6. On 13th July, 1990 she submitted a resignation letter. This letter of resignation was forwarded to the Director of the Institute who accepted the same by an order dated 31st July, 1990.

7. Notwithstanding the acceptance of resignation, on 25th of August, 1990, the respondent made a further request that her services might be continued for some more time in the appellant-institute. On this request, the respondent was appointed on a contractual basis as a Training Executive on a consolidated compensation of Rs.2,400 per month. On this occasion also, the appointment was purely on a ad hoc basis terminable without notice.

8. On 3rd of January, 1991 a Committee of the Institute went into the question of abolition of redundant posts. The report was submitted by the Committee to the effect that several posts including the posts of Training Supervisors and Research Executive had become redundant. Therefore, the committee recommended their abolition. Accepting the report of the committee on 14th January, 1991 five posts were abolished including the post of Training Supervisors and Research Executive with effect from the last training programme of the current financial year.

9. Since the appointment of the respondent was coming to an end at the end of February 1991 she preferred W.P. 1041 of 1991."

17.For our part, we do not think it is necessary to decide the question as to who has the power to abolish the post of Training Executive; whether under Rule 16(viii), the Director or under Rule 11, the Board since we propose to limit the controversy to the terms of appointment.

18.The order dated 1.9.90 reads as follow :

"1-168D/1132 1.9.90

OFFICE ORDER

With effect from the date of joining Smt. Pushpa Rani Srivastava is appointed a consolidated fixed pay of Rs. 2400 per month on contract basis for a period of six months in the Institute.

The appointment of Smt. Srivastava is purely on ad hoc basis and is terminable without any notice.

sd/-

(K.K.N. SINGH) DIRECTOR"

(19) The following are clear from the above order :

(i) The respondent was appointed on a contractual basis.

(ii) The post was to carry a consolidated pay of Rs.2400 per month.

(iii) The duration of appointment was six months from the date of the respondent joining charge.

(iv) It is purely on ad hoc basis.

(v) It is terminable without any notice.

20. Because the six months' period was coming to an end on 28th February, 1991, she preferred the Writ petition a few days before and prayed for mandamus which was granted by the learned Judge under the impugned judgment. The question is whether the directions are valid in law. To our mind, it is clear that where the appointment is contractual and by efflux of time, the appointment comes to an end, the respondent could have no right to continue in the post. Once this conclusion is arrived at, what requires to be examined is, in view of the services of the respondent being continued from time to time on `ad hoc' basis for more than a year whether she is entitled to regularisation? The answer should be in the negative.

23. In the instant case, there is no such rule. The appointment was purely ad hoc and on a contractual basis for a limited period. Therefore, by expiry of the period of six months, the right to remain in the post comes to an end. (Emphasis supplied by us)

9. Further in the case of Secretary, State Of Karnataka and others vs Umadevi And Others (2006) 4 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"When a person enters a temporary employment or gets engagement as a contractual or casual worker and the engagement is not based on a proper selection as recognized by the relevant rules or procedure, he is aware of the consequences of the appointment being temporary, casual or contractual in nature. Such a person cannot invoke the theory of legitimate expectation for being confirmed in the post when an appointment to the post could be made only by following a proper procedure for selection and in concerned cases, in consultation with the Public Service Commission. Therefore, the theory of legitimate expectation cannot be successfully advanced by temporary, contractual or casual employees. It cannot also be held that the State has held out any promise while engaging these persons either to continue them where they are or to make them permanent. The State cannot constitutionally make such a promise. It is also obvious that the theory cannot be invoked to seek a positive relief of being made permanent in the post."

20. It is also settled law that a writ of mandamus can be issued if a petitioner is able to establish that he has legally protected and judicially enforceable subsisting right. The petitioner has completely failed to demonstrate that he has any statutory or legal right to compel the respondents to execute an agreement for his re-engagement or further engagement as Computer Operator for MANREGA in District Kannauj.

21. In Director of Settlement, A.P. Vs. M.R. Apparao (2002) 4 SCC 638 (para 17) Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the High Court's power for issuance of mandamus and held as under :-

"17. Coming to the third question, which is more important from the point of consideration of High Court's power for issuance of mandamus, it appears that the constitution empowers the High Court to issue writs, directions or orders in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III and for any other purpose under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It is, therefore essentially, a power upon the High Court for issuance of high prerogative writs for enforcement of fundamental rights as well as non-fundamental or ordinary legal rights, which may come within the expression 'for any other purpose'. The powers of the High Courts under Article 226 though are discretionary and no limits can be placed upon their discretion, they must be exercised along recognised lines and subject to certain self-imposed limitations. The expression 'for any other purpose' in Article 226, makes the jurisdiction of the High Courts more extensive but yet the Court must exercise the same with certain restraints and within some parameters. One of the conditions for exercising power under Article 226 for issuance of a mandamus is that the Court must come to the conclusion that the aggrieved person has a legal right, which entitles him to any of the rights and that such right has been infringed. In other words, existence of a legal right of a citizen and performance of any corresponding legal duty by the State or any public authority, could be enforced by issuance of a writ of mandamus. "Mandamus" means a command. It differs from the writs of prohibition or certiorari in its demand for some activity on the part of the body or person to whom it is addressed. Mandamus is a command issued to direct any person, corporation, inferior Courts or Government, requiring him or them to do some particular thing therein specified which appertains to his or their office and is in the nature of a public duty. A mandamus is available against any public authority including administrative and local bodies, and it would lie to any person who is under a duty imposed by statute or by the common law to do a particular act. In order to obtain a writ or order in the nature of mandamus, the applicant has to satisfy that he has a legal right to the performance of a legal duty by the party against whom the mandamus is sought and such right must be subsisting on the date of the petition.{Kalyan Singh vs. State of U.P., AIR 1962 SC 1183}. The duty that may be enjoined by mandamus may be one imposed by the Constitution, a statute, common law or by rules or orders having the force of law. When the aforesaid principle are applied to the case in hand, the so-called right of the respondents, depending upon the conclusion that the amendment Act is constitutionally invalid and, therefore, the right to get interim payment will continue till the final decision of the Board of Revenue cannot be sustained when the Supreme Court itself has upheld the constitutional validity of the amendment Act in Venkatagiri's case (2002) 4 SCC 660 on 6.2.1986 in Civil Appeal Nos. 398 & 1385 of 1972 and further declared in the said appeal that interim payments are payable till determination is made by the Director under Section 39(1). The High Court in exercise of power of issuance of mandamus could not have said anything contrary to that on the ground that the earlier judgment in favour of the respondents became final, not being challenged. The impugned mandamus issued by the Division Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in the teeth of the declaration made by the Supreme Court as to the constitutionality of the amendment Act would be an exercise of power and jurisdiction when the respondents did not have the subsisting legally enforceable right under the very Act itself. In the aforesaid circumstances, we have no hesitation to come to the conclusion that the High Court committed serious error in issuing the mandamus in question for enforcement of the so-called right which never subsisted on the date, the Court issued the mandamus in view of the decision of this Court in Venkatagiri's case. In our view, therefore, the said conclusion of the High Court must be held to be erroneous."

22. A Division Bench of this Court in which one of us (Justice Surya Prakash Kesarwani) is one of the member, had considered the power of the High Court for issuance of high prerogative writ for enforcement of fundamental rights, and held as under:-

"18. It is settled law that writ of mandamus can be issued if the petitioner has a legal right to the performance of a legal duty by the party against whom the mandamus is sought and such right must be subsisting on the date of the petition. Similar view has also been taken by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kalyan Singh vs. State of U.P.13. Applying the principles of issuance of writ of mandamus on the facts of the present case, we find that the petitioners have no legal right for protection on the facts of the present case inasmuch as such the protection as being asked, may amount to protection against commission of offence under Section 494/495 I.P.C. It is well settled law that writ of mandamus can not be issued contrary to law or to defeat a statutory provision including penal provision. The petitioners do not have legally protected and judicially enforceable subsisting right to ask for mandamus."

Therefore, the learned Single Judge has not committed any error of law in dismissing the writ petition by refusing to issue mandamus as prayed for.

23. It is also well settled law that this Court in exercise of its extraordinary, equitable and discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has no power to re-write contract or to compel the State to enter into an agreement.

24. For all the reasons aforestated, we do not find any merit in this special appeal. Consequently, the Special Appeal is dismissed.

Spl. Appl. No. 1552 of 2012

Hari Om Saran Srivastava ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Yogesh Kumar Saxena, Sri Siddhartha Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Education – Superannuation – Extension - Uttar Pradesh High School and Intermediate College (Payment and Salary to Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1971 - U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 - Regulation

21 of Chapter 3 under Section 16-G - A Government servant has no right to continue in service after his retirement from service. The appellant/petitioner having retired from service much before the grant of National Award for Teachers to him, has no right for extension of service. The appellant retired from service on 30.6.2009 after attaining the age of superannuation on 01.01.2009. He was awarded the National Award to Teachers-2008 on 5.9.2009, i.e., after his retirement from service. Thus, at the time of his retirement, he was not in service. There is no provision for extension of service of a teacher after his retirement from service or extension of service with retrospective effect. Thus, once the contract of service has come to an end, then no extension of service can be accorded. Therefore, denial of extension of service of the appellant/petitioner does not deprive him of his any fundamental rights, guaranteed under the Constitution or any of his statutory rights. (Para 16, 19)

The petitioner-appellant was an Assistant Teacher, LT Grade, who had superannuated on 30.6.2009 after attaining the age of 62 years. The basic ground sought to be raised by the learned counsel for the appellant is w.r.t. the fact that the appellant is entitled to extension of services for a period of 2 years in the light of the provisions contained u/Regulation 21 Chapter 3 of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the GOs dated 6.5.1982, 4.12.1986, 4.2.2004, 29.6.2004 and 30.6.2005, as the appellant has been awarded with National Award to Teachers-2008. (Para 7, 8)

Government Order dated 04.02.2004 - Two conditions have to be fulfilled, namely, (a) The concerned Teacher should be possessed with an award on the date of consideration for extension of 2 years; (b) He or she (Teacher) should be on duty and performing on the post, so assigned to him/her. (Para 9 to 11)

On the date, the appellant was awarded the National Award to Teachers-2008, he stood superannuated as the award was granted to him on 5.9.2009, whereas the date of his superannuation was 30.6.2009. Thus, the appellant on the date of being considered for extension of 2 years had already superannuated. (Para 12)

B. Order as to extension of service made on a date when servant has ceased to be in service, then order of extension is nullity. Order of extension cannot be passed after petitioner has attained the age of superannuation. (Para 14)

Contract of service came to an end with petitioner's attaining age of superannuation, and extension could have been accorded only when contract of service have been in subsistence and not at the point of time when contact of service has come to an end. According extension of service prerequisite condition is subsistence of contract of service, and once contract of service has come to an end by operation of law on account of the incumbent having attained the age of superannuation, then same cannot be permitted to be revived by according extension with retrospective effect. (Para 14)

C. The date, on which an award is granted, is a determining factor for the grant of benefits - In the present case, the award was with regard to the public recognition of valuable services in the community, as a Teacher of outstanding merit referable to National Award to Teacher-2008, but the same was granted to the appellant on 5.9.2009, i.e., after the date of superannuation i.e., 30.6.2009. Scheme/event, which pertains to the conferring an award is one thing and grant of award is another thing. Consideration and decision might be taken to award a particular incumbent referable to a particular scheme or a policy, but the crucial factor for determining the date vis-a-vis the eligibility is the date, when the award is being granted to the beneficiary. Therefore, the crucial date, relevant for the purposes of considering the claim of the appellant for grant of extension is the date, when the appellant became eligible under the provisions of Regulation 21 Chapter 3 of the U.P. Intermediate Act, 1921 and the Government Orders issued from time to time. (Para 15)

Present Special Appeal assails judgment and order dated 20.10.2010, passed by Hon'ble Mr. V.K.Shukla, J.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Present intra-court appeal, purported to be under Chapter 8 Rule 5 of the Rules of the High Court 1952, has been instituted by the appellant challenging the valildity and the correctness of the judgment and order dated 20.10.2010 passed by the learned Single Judge in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 62959 of 2010, Hariom Sharan Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and others.

2. Though the present appeal was filed with delay condonation application, and the delay was condoned by virtue of the order dated 28.8.2012. Today, when the matter came up before this Court, then the learned counsel for the appellant as well as the learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondent nos.1 to 5 requested the Court to decide the present appeal at the admission stage itself. Though, notices were issued to Respondent no.6, but no response has been filed by it. Hence in the circumstances, this Court is proceeding to decide the appeal on the basis of the material available on record.

3. Heard Sri Siddhartha Srivastava holding brief of Sri Yogish Kumar Saxena, learned counsel for the petitioner and Smt. Shubhra Singh, learned counsel for the State respondents and carefully perused the records.

4. As per the case, set up by the petitioner- appellant before the Writ-Court and in the present appeal, the petitioner-appellant, has pleaded that Respondent no.6 is an Institution by the name and the nomenclature of the K.K. Inter College, Kannauj, recognized under the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Act, 1921 and is receiving grant-in-aid from the State Government. Consequently, the provisions contained under the Uttar Pradesh High School and Intermediate College (Payment and Salary to Teachers and other Employees Act, 1971 are fully applicable to Respondent no.6, Institution. It appears that the petitioner- appellant, was appointed as an Assistant Teacher in Respondent no.6/ Institution in the year 1967 and thereafter he was promoted to CT Grade Teacher in the year 1972 and further promoted as LT Grade Teacher on 8.7.1995. As the date of birth of the petitioner-appellant was 2.1.1947, therefore, he attained the age of superannuation, i.e, 62 years, on 1.1.2009, but the petitioner-appellant was granted an extension till the end of the academic Session. Thus his date of retirement of service became 30.6.2009. However, it appears that the petitioner-appellant was awarded with National Award to Teachers, 2008 by the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Department of School Education and Literacy on 5.9.2009, which is already on record at Page-47 of the paper-book. It further transpires from the record that when the petitioner was not allowed extension of his services while granting the benefit of 2 years and not being allowed to function as Assistant Teacher in Respondent no.6/ Institution till 30.6.2011, i.e, after 2 years of his actual retirement, 30.6.2009, on the strength of the Government Orders dated 6.5.1982, 4.12.1986, 4.2.2004, 29.6.2004 and 30.6.2005, then the petitioner instituted Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 36334 of 2010, Hariom Sharan Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. seeking relief to the extent that in terms of the Government Order dated 6.6.1982 recommendation had already been made by the Regional Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Nagar for grant of extension, so a suitable decision be taken by the State Government in the light of the same. The said writ petition was eventually disposed of on 5.7.2010 with an appropriate direction to the State Government to take appropriate decision on the recommendation of the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Nagar strictly in accordance with law, as early as possible, preferably within 4 weeks from the date of submission of the certified copy of the order.

5. In compliance of the order dated 5.7.2010 passed in Writ Petition No. 38339 of 2010, Hariom Sharan Srivastava vs. State of U.P, the respondent no.1, has proceeded to pass an order, whereby claim set up by the petitioner-appellant for extension of the services for a period of 2 years has been declined. The said order has been made the subject matter of challenge at the instance of the petitioner-appellant, by filing Writ Petition No.62959 of 2010, Hariom Sharan Srivastava Vs. State of U.P, which came to be dismissed on 20.10.2010, which is subject matter of challenge in the present Special Appeal.

6. We have heard learned counsel for the appellant, as well as the learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents and carefully considered their submissions.

7. It is undisputed that the petitioner-appellant was an Assistant Teacher, LT Grade, who had superannuated on 30.6.2009 after attaining the age of 62 years. Admittedly, Respondent no.6 is a recognized Institution under the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and is also receiving grant-in-aid from the State Government. So far as the service condition of the appellant is concerned, with reference to the date of his superannuation and extension, the same is clearly providing under Regulation 21 of Chapter 3 under Section 16-G. Regulation 21 of Chapter 3 for the ready reference is being quoted hereunder: -

"21. आचार्य, प्रधानाध्यापक, अध्यापकों का अधिवर्ष वय 62 वर्ष होगा। फलस्वरूप 58 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता पर मिलने वाले सेवानिवृतिक लाभ अब 60 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर तथा 60 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर मिलने वाले सेवानिवृतिक लाभ 62 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर अनुमन्य होगा। यदि किसी आचार्य, प्रधानाध्यापक अथवा अध्यापक का उपर्युक्त अधिवर्ष वय 2 जुलाई और 30 जून के मध्य में किसी तिथि को पड़ता है तो उसे, उस दशा को छोड़ कर जबकि वह स्वयं सेवा विस्तरण न लेने हेतु लिखित सूचना अपने अधिवर्ष वय की तिथि से 2 माह पूर्व दे दें, 30 जून तक सेवा विस्तरण स्वमेव प्रदान किया गया समझा जायेगा, ताकि ग्रीष्मावकाश के उपरान्त जुलाई में प्रतिस्थानी की व्यवस्था हो सके। इसके अतिरिक्त सेवा विस्तारण केवल उन्हीं विशिष्ट दशाओं में प्रदान किया जा सकेगा जो राज्य सरकार द्वारा निर्धारित की जाये।

अन्य कर्मचारियों के विषय में अधिनियम में दिये गये प्राविधान यथावत रहेंगे।"

8. It is not in dispute that Regulation 21 of Chapter 3 of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 will govern the controversy in question. The basic ground sought to be raised by the learned counsel for the appellant is with regard to the fact that the appellant is entitled to extension of services for a period of 2 years in the light of the provisions contained under Regulation 21 Chapter 3 of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the Government Orders dated 6.5.1982, 4.12.1986, 4.2.2004, 29.6.2004 and 30.6.2005, as the appellant has been awarded with National Award to Teachers-2008.

9. A bare reading of the Government Order dated 4.2.2004, which is at page-51 of the paper-book, itself provides in paragraph-2 as under: -

" .....

10. In the Government Order dated 4.2.2004, purposely the word "Karyarat Adhyapak" has been employed, which itself implies that on the date of superannuation for extension for a period of 2 years, the respective teacher has to be on duty, i.e, he should be serving on the post in question and performing the duty so assigned to him.

11. Thus two conditions have to be fulfilled, namely, (a) The concerned Teacher should be possessed with an award on the date of consideration for extension of 2 years; (b) He or she (Teacher) should be on duty and performing on the post, so assigned to him / her.

12. After analysing the facts of the present case with regard to the aforesaid requirement as reproduced hereinabove, the net conclusion is that on the date, the appellant was awarded the National Award to Teachers-2008, he stood superannuated as the award was granted to him on 5.9.2009, whereas the date of his superannuation was 30.6.2009. Thus, the appellant on the date of being considered for extension of 2 years had already superannuated.

13. Now, a question arises as to whether in law, it is permissible to grant extension to an officer or employee, once he / she stood superannuated. The issue is no more res integra, as the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State Of Assam & Ors vs Padma Ram Borah, AIR 1965 SC 473 has clearly observed as under:

"We do not think that the State Government had any jurisdiction to pass such an order on May 9, 1961. According to the earlier order of the State Government itself, the service of the respondent had come to an end on March 31, 1961. The State Government could not by unilateral action create a fresh contract of service to take effect from April 1, 1961. If the State Government wished to continue the service of the respondent for a further period, the State Government should have issued a notification before March 31, 1961. In R. T. Rangachari v. Secretary of State 64 Ind App 40 : 1937 AIR(PC) 27, their Lordships of the Privy Council were dealing with a case in which a Sub-Inspector of Police was charged with certain irregular and improper conduct in the execution of his duties. After the Sub-Inspector had retired on invalid pension and his pension had been paid for three months, the matter was re-opened and an order was made removing the Sub-Inspector from service as from the date on which he was invalided. Lord Roche speaking for the Board said :

"It seems to require no. demonstration that an order purporting to remove the appellant from the service at a time when, as their Lordships hold, he had for some months duly and properly ceased to be in the service, was a mere nullity and cannot be sustained.""

14. Following the judgment in the case of State of Assam (supra), a learned Single Judge of this Court in the case of Smt. Indira Daniels Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2005 (3) ESC Alld 1612 in paragraph-7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 has observed as under:-

"7. After respective arguments have been advanced, the undisputed factual position, which is emerging is to the effect that as far as petitioner is concerned, she had been performing and discharging her duties as Principal of the institution in question, and on account of commendable job performed by her, recommendation was made for giving her National Award, but before any decision could be taken in the matter of grant of National Award, she attained the age of superannuation and retired from service on 30.6.2003. In fact said National Award was given to her on 5.9.2003 i.e. much after attaining the age of superannuatipn. Therefore, the Government has chosen not to extend the service of petitioner. As to whether the action of the State Government in not extending service of petitioner by two years is correct or incorrect decision has to be seen in the context of relevant Regulations and Government Orders. Regulation 21 of Chapter III of the Regulations framed under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, provides that an incumbent shall retire after he/she attains the age of 60 years and in case the age of superannuation falls in between the academic session then benefit is extended and superannuation takes place on the last date of academic session. Government Orders dated 23.10.1991 with reference to previous Government Order dated 6.5.1982, 27.7.1983, 4.12.1986. 2.8.1984, 3.9.1985 and 10.5.1988, provides for two years' extension of service to those teachers who have been recipient of National Awards/State Awards, and one year to those, who; had participated in the freedom struggle of 1942, and thereafter, re-appointment for further period of one year. As per the said Government Order earlier procedure has been sought to be simplified, and precise time schedule has been provided for so that decision is taken before the end of academic session. Director of Education by the first week of April is obliged to furnish full particulars in prescribed proforma along with requisite testimonials to the Committee constituted in this respect. The said Committee will forward its recommendation to State Government in the second or third week of April, and thereafter, State Government would take final decision by the first week of May. Said schedule is purposive, so that before any incumbent attains his/her age of superannuation, decision is taken qua him/her for extension of service. There is provision of extension of service of teachers, but the question is as to whether extension can be provided for with retrospective effect or not? Hon'ble apex Court in the case of State of Assam and Ors. v. Padma Ram Borah, AIR 1965 SC 473, has taken the view that order as to extension of service made on a date when servant has ceased to be in service, then order of extension is nullity. Relevant extract of the aforementioned judgment is being extracted below :

"We do not think that State Government had any jurisdiction to pass such an order on May 9, 1961. According to the earlier order of the State Government itself, the service of the respondent had come to an end on March 31, 1961. The State Government could not by unilateral action create a fresh, contract of service of the respondent for a further period; the State Government should have issued a notification before March 31, 1961. In R.T. Rangachari v. Secretary of the State, 64 Ind App 40 : AIR 1937 PC 27, their Lordships of the Privy Council were dealing with a case in which a Sub-Inspector of Police was charged with certain irregular and improper conduct in the execution of his duties. After the Sub-Inspector had retired on invalid pension and his pension had been paid for three months, the matter was reopened and an order was made removing the Sub-Inspector from service as from the date on which he was invalided. Lord Roche speaking for the Board said:

"It seems to require no demonstration that an order purporting to remove the appellant from the service at a time when as their Lordships hold, he had for some months duly and properly ceased to be in the service was a mere nullity and cannot be sustained."

The position is the same here The respondent had ceased to be in service on March 31, 1981 by the very order of the State Government. An order of retention in service passed more than a month thereafter, was a mere nullity and cannot be sustained."

8. Testing the facts of the present case on the touchstone of the principles as laid down in the aforementioned judgment that once the contract of service has come to an end, then by no stretch of imagination, any extension can be accorded to the same, here it is clearly reflected that petitioner had attained her age of superannuation and continued till 30.6.2003, with session benefit. Contract of service came to an end with petitioner's attaining age of superannuation, and extension could have been accorded only when contract of service have been in subsistence and not at the point of time when contract of service has come to an end. Re-employment could not have been offered to petitioner, as in case of teachers, who are recipients of National Award, there is no scheme for re-employment and the scheme is only in respect to grant of extension. For according extension of service prerequisite condition is subsistence of contract of service, and once contract of service has come to an end by operation of law on account of the incumbent having attained the age of superannuation, then same cannot be permitted to be revived by according extension with retrospective effect. Scheme which provides for final decision for extension of service by first week of May clearly intended that decision for extension of service be taken during subsistence of contract of service and not when incumbent had attained age of superannuation. The precise view taken by the State Government in the present case is that as the petitioner had already attained the age of superannuation on the date when National Award had been given to him, as such extension cannot be accorded to her does not appear to be unreasonable or arbitrary view.

9. The Hon'ble apex Court in the case of Prem Dutta Chamoli v. State of U.P., (S.L.P.) (C) No. 16808 of 1993, has taken the view that teachers with National/State Awards can be given extension both in the interest of the institution and the public to utilise their services as teachers. However, Hon'ble apex Court has precluded the said extension for according Principalship or any other higher post. The said judgment has been followed by this Court in the case of Committee of Management, Indian Girls Inter College, Allahabad v. State of U.P. and Ors., (C.M.W.P. No. 50031 of 2003, decided on 26.2.2004), wherein extension as teachers has been provided for. In the aforesaid judgment, the view taken in Five Judge Bench judgment of the apex Court (supra) referred to above that order of extension cannot be passed after petitioner has attained the age of superannuation, has not been noticed, as such no advantage or benefit can be extended of the aforesaid two judgments to the petitioner.

10. As far as question of parity is concerned, here in the present case teachers who are alleged to have been accorded benefit of extension with retrospective effect same has been made, that was in compliance to the interim orders passed by this Court. As far as petitioner is concerned, there has been no interim order in her favour, and that is why the State Government has proceeded to exercise its discretion independently and as claim of petitioner was not legally sustainable, same has been refused by giving valid reasons, in support of the same. Incorrect decision cannot be made foundation and basis for asking the Court to take similar view, inasmuch as parity is not extendable qua illegal acts. As petitioner had already attained the age of superannuation, then by no stretch of imagination, extension could have been accorded to the petitioner.

11. In view of what has been stated above, present writ petition lacks merit and is dismissed."

15. The issue as to whether the date, on which an award is granted, is a determining factor for the grant of benefits? In the present case, the award was with regard to the public recognition of valuable services in the community, as a Teacher of outstanding merit referable to National Award to Teacher-2008, but the same was granted to the appellant on 5.9.2009, i.e, after the date of superannuation i.e, 30.6.2009. Scheme/ event, which pertains to the conferring an award is one thing and grant of award is another thing. Consideration and decision might be taken to award a particular incumbent referable to a particular scheme or a policy, but the crucial factor for determining the date vis-a-vis the eligibility is the date, when the award is being granted to the beneficiary. Therefore, the crucial date, relevant for the purposes of considering the claim of the appellant for grant of extension is the date, when the appellant became eligible under the provisions of Regulation 21 Chapter 3 of the U.P. Intermediate Act, 1921 and the Government Orders issued from time to time.

16. Even otherwise, the issue that an officer or employee has no unfettered and absolute right to continue in service beyond the age of superannuation, is no more res integra in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Assam and others vs. Basanta Kumar Das*, AIR 1973 SC 1252 held as under: -

"A Government servant has no right to continue in service beyond the age of superannuation and if he is retained beyond that age it is only in the exercise of the discretion of the Government."

17. Following judgment in the case of Basanta Kumar Das (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur and others Vs. Jag Mohan Lal reported in AIR 1989 SC 75 in paragraph 9 and 10 has observed as under:-

"9. What do we have here in this case to distinguish those principles or not to apply those principles? In our opinion, there is none. In the scheme provided herein the respondent or any other officer of the Bank has a legitimate right to remain in service till he attains the age of superannuation. But beyond that age, he has no such right unless his service is extended by the Bank. The further rights of parties are regulated by the proviso to Regulation 19(1). It reads:

"Provided that the competent authority may at its discretion, extend the period of service ot an officer who has attained the age of fifty eight years or has completed thirty years' service as the case may be, should such extension be deemed desirable in the interest of the Bank. "

10. Look at the language of proviso and the purpose underlying. The Bank may in its discretion extend the service of any officer. On what ground? For what purpose?

That has been also made clear in the proviso itself. It states "should such extension be deemed desirable in the interest of the Bank". The sole purpose of giving extension of service is, therefore, to promote the interest of the Bank and not to confer any benefit on the retiring officers. Incidentally the extension may benefit retired officials. But it is incorrect to state that it is a conferment of benefit or privilege on officers. The officers upon attaining the age of superannuation or putting the required number of years of service do not earn that benefit or privilege. The High Court has completely misunderstood the nature of right and purpose of the proviso. The proviso preserves discretion to the Bank. It is a discretion available with every employer, every management, State or otherwise. If the Bank considers that the service of an officer is desirable in the interest of the Bank, i~ may allow him to continue in service beyond the age of superannuation. If the Bank considers that the service of an officer is not required beyond superannuation, it is an end of the matter. It is no reflection on the officer. It carries no stigma."

18. Yet the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of P. Venugopal vs. Union of India, reported in (2008) 5 SCC 1, in paragraph-8 has observed as under:-

"It is true that in establishments like AIIMS, there is an age of superannuation governing the length of service of its officers and employees. Such age of superannuation may be suitably altered by way of reducing the age so as to affect even the serving employees under appropriate circumstances and no exception can be taken to such course of action. Similarly under the Service Rules, there may be provision for extension of service after the attainment of the age of superannuation and it is well settled that in the event of refusal by an employer to grant an extension, the employee cannot justifiably claim to be deprived of any right or privilege. The view taken is that the employer has a discretion to grant or not to grant such extension having regard to the interest of the employer or the establishment. This view is expressed by this Court in the Case of State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur and Ors. vs. Jag Mohan Lal (AIR 1989 SC 75). In this case, at para 12, this Court observed as follows :

"13. ...The Bank has no obligation to extend the services of all officers even if they are found suitable in every respect. The interest of the Bank is the primary consideration for giving extension of service. With due regard to exigencies of service, the Bank in one year may give extension to all suitable retiring officers. In another year, it may give extension to some and not to all. In a subsequent year, it may not give extension to any one of the officers. The Bank may have a lot of fresh recruits in one year. The Bank may not need the services of all retired persons in another year. The Bank may have lesser workload in a succeeding year. The retiring persons cannot in any year demand that "extension to all or none". If we concede that right to retiring persons, then the very purpose of giving extension in the interest of the Bank would be defeated. We are, therefore, of opinion that there is no scope for complaining arbitrariness in the matter of giving extension of service to retiring persons.""

19. The discussion made above leads to the conclusion that the appellant retired from service on 30.6.2009 after attaining the age of superannuation 01.01.2009. He was awarded the National Award to Teachers-2008 on 05.09.2009, i.e, after his retirement from service. Thus, at the time of his retirement, he was not in service. There is no provision for extension of service of a teacher after his retirement from service or extension of service with retrospective effect. Thus, once the contract of service has come to an end, then no extension of service can be accorded. Therefore, denial of extension of service of the appellant/ petitioner does not deprive him of his any fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution or any of his statutory rights. A government servant has no right to continue in service after his retirement from service. The appellant / petitioner having retired from service much before the grant of National Award for Teachers to him, has no right for extension of service.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant has miserably failed to show any illegality or manifest error in the impugned judgment passed by the learned Single Judge.

21. No other point has been raised by the learned counsel for the appellant.

22. For all the reasons aforestated, the present intra-court appeal lacks merit and is, therefore, dismissed.

23. Cost made easy.

A. Practice and Procedure – Intra-Court Appeal against interlocutory order – Maintainability - Interlocutory orders which finally decide a question or issue in controversy in the main case or which finally decide a collateral issue or a question which is not the subject-matter of the main case, are "judgments" for the purpose of filing appeals under the relevant rules of the High Court. Orders passed by the Court which are of a routine nature would not be "judgments" even if they cause some inconvenience to the parties. (Para 6)

In the present case, the order dated 01.11.2021, against which the present appeal has been preferred, is merely of a procedural nature and cannot in any manner be said to touch the merits of the controversy or the dispute between the parties so as to be deemed to have been issued in exercise of powers conferred u/Art. 226 of the Constitution. It is open to the appellant to raise his grievance before the Single Judge before whom the matter is to be taken up as per the direction of the learned Single Judge. (Para 11)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Present Special Appeal challenges order dated 01.11.2021, passed by learned Single Judge.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava, J. & Hon'ble Vivek Varma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anu Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Amitabh Rai, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent nos. 1 and 2, Sri Pawan Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 and 4 and Sri Shashank Pathak, Advocate holding brief of Sri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for respondent nos. 6 to 18.

2. The present special appeal has been filed seeking to challenge the order dated 1.11.2021 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No. 25379 (M/S) of 2021 (Rama Kant Pandey and others v. Principal Secretary. Institutional finance, Lucknow & Ors.).

3. A preliminary objection has been raised by the learned counsel for the respondents with regard to maintainability of the special appeal. It has been contended that the order under challenge in this appeal does not decide the rights of the parties and as such, the same cannot held to be a judgment for the purposes of filing an intra Court appeal. He further submits that the appellant has filed a stay vacation application along with counter affidavit in the present writ petition and the said application is stated to be listed on 6.12.2021.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant by referring to the merits of the case has contended that the present special appeal is maintainable.

5. In order to appreciate the rival contentions, we deem it necessary to set out the impugned order dated 1.11.2021 passed by the learned Single Judge against which the present special appeal has been preferred. The order dated 1.11.2021 reads as under:

"The petitioners' names were included in the list of members of the General Body of the Society registered for the year 2017 and 2018 with the office of the Deputy Registrar, Firms Societies and Chits. Now, by the impugned order dated 28.07.2021, the said list that was registered under Section 4B of the Societies Registration Act, has been revised. It has excluded the petitioners names. The list of 2017-18 relates to members of the General Body of the Society known as Shiksha Prachar Tatha Prasar Samiti, Village Babhnan, Post Sugar Mill Babhnan, District Gonda, carrying a total of 78 members, including the petitioners. The list that has now been drawn up and made part of the impugned order dated 28.07.2021, passed by the Deputy Registrar, Firms Societies and Chits, carries 45 names excluding the petitioners.

The submission of learned counsel for the petitioners is that once a list of members is registered, the name of its members cannot be excluded on any ground whatsoever without hearing the members whose name is proposed to be excluded. It has been asserted in paragraph Nos. 50 and 51 of the writ petition that the impugned orders have been passed by the Deputy Director, Firms Societies and Chits, in collusion with opposite party Nos. 4 and 5, without providing any opportunity of hearing to the petitioners.

Mr. Virendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel accepts notice on behalf of respondent Nos.1 and 2. Mr. Pawan Kumar Pandey, accepts notice on behalf of respondent No.5. Learned Standing Counsel and Mr. Pandey, appearing on behalf of the respondents submits that the earlier list was got illegally registered by unauthorized persons on the basis of sham elections and that before passing the impugned order, Kashi Prasad Mishra, Vipin Kumar Mishra, Brij Bihari Mishra and Shalini Mishra, respondent No.5, were heard.

Prima facie, the impugned order has been passed without opportunity of hearing. Reliance in this connection has been placed by the learned counsel for the petitioners on the decision of this Court in Shiv Narain Agarwal and Others Vs. State Of U.P. Thru. Prin.Secy. Institutional Finance, Lko. & Ors, Miscellaneous Single No.16656 of 2021 decided on 06.08.2021, where opportunity of hearing before removal of the name of a member of the General Body has been held to be an essential requirement of the exercise of power to amend the list of members of the General Body.

Issue notice to respondent Nos.3, 4 and 6.

Steps be taken by RPAD, returnable on 09.11.2021.

List this petition for admission on 01.12.2021.

Order on Civil Misc. Application No.143707 of 2021

Issue notice.

Until further orders, operation of the impugned orders dated 28.07.2021 and 26.08.2021, (Annexure Nos. 1 and 2, respectively) passed by the Deputy Director, Firms Societies and Chits, Ayodhya Division Ayodhya shall remain suspended."

6. The question as to whether an intra Court appeal would be available against an interlocutory order or not, has been considered by the Supreme Court in the case of Shah Babulal Khimji v. Jayaben D. Kania and another, (1981) 4 SCC 8, and it was held that interlocutory orders which finally decide a question or issue in controversy in the main case or which finally decide a collateral issue or a question which is not the subject matter of the main case, are "judgments" for the purpose of filing appeals under the relevant rules of the High Court. The law laid down by the Supreme Court in Shah Babulal Khimji (supra) is to the effect that orders passed by the Court which are of a routine nature would not be "judgments" even if they cause some inconvenience to the parties.

7. In Midnapore Peoples' Coop. Bank Ltd. and others v. Chunilal Nanda and others, (2006) 5 SCC 399, the Supreme Court again emphasised that routine orders which are passed to facilitate the progress of the case till its culmination in the final judgment are not to be held as "judgments" for the purposes of filing intra-court appeals. It was also held that orders which may cause some inconvenience or some prejudice to a party but which do not finally determine the rights and obligations of the parties, would not amount to "judgments".

8. The view taken by the Apex Court in the case of Shah Babulal Khimji (Supra) was followed by the Division Bench of this Court in Usha Devi and others vs. State of U.P. and others (Special Appeal Defective No.1124 of 2007). The Court said as under :

"However, in our view, this appeal is not maintainable. The Hon'ble Single Judge while permitting the respondents to file counter affidavit has granted an interim order till the next date of listing. Neither the rights of the parties have been adjudicated finally nor any issue has been decided. When an order can be construed as a "judgment" whereagainst a special appeal under Chapter-VIII Rule 5 is maintainable has been considered repeatedly in catena of cases by this Court time and again. Earlier while Letters Patent appeal under Clause 15 was maintainable against the judgment of the Hon'ble Single Judge, the question as to when an "order" would be a "judgment" came up for consideration before a full Bench in the case of Shital Din and others Vs. Anant Ram, 1993 A.L.J. 127 (FB) and it held as under:-

"".....on a reading of several clauses of the Letters Patent of the High Court we have come to the conclusion that a final decision, which effectually disposes of the appeal before the High Court, should amount to a judgment, whether it amounts to a decree or not."

The Apex Court in the case of Shah Babulal Khimji Vs. Jayaban D. Kania and another, AIR 1981 SC, 1786 while dealing with an appeal from a suit for specific performance of a contract considered the question as to whether under clause 15 of the Letters Patent, special appeal would be maintainable. In the said case the plaintiff sought an interim relief of appointment of a Receiver on the suit property during the pendency of the suit. The learned Single Judge dismissed the application seeking interim relief. The plaintiff filed special appeal under clause-15 of the Letter Patent, which was dismissed as not maintainable. The Apex Court while reversing the judgment of the appellate court, classified judgments in three categories:-

a) Final judgment

b) Preliminary judgment

c) Intermediary or interlocutory judgment.

It was also held by the Apex Court where a proceeding finally terminates after adjudication of all the issues or some of the issues the adjudication is a judgment. The adjudication is also a judgment, even though it does not result in termination of proceedings, if it possesses the characteristics and trappings of a judgment. An order may possess such characteristics and trappings when the order adversely affects a valuable right of the party by deciding an important aspect of the trial in an ancillary proceeding.

The Apex Court in para-119 at page-1817 also held as under:

"(1) That the trial Judge being a senior court with vast experience of various branches of law occupying a very high status should be trusted to pass discretionary or interlocutory orders with due regard to the well settled principles of civil justice. Thus, any discretion exercised or routine orders passed by the trial Judge in the course of the suit which may cause some inconvenience or, to some extent, prejudice one party or the other cannot be treated as a judgment otherwise the appellate court (Division Bench) will be flooded with appeals from all kinds of orders passed by the trial Judge. The courts must give sufficient allowance to the trial Judge and raise a presumption that any discretionary order, which he passes, must be presumed to be correct unless it is ex facie legally erroneous or causes grave and substantial injustice.

(2) That the interlocutory order in order to be a judgment must contain the traits and trappings of finality either when the order decides the questions in controversy in an ancillary proceeding or in the suit itself or in a part of the proceedings."

9. The said view was followed by another Division Bench in the case of State of U.P Vs. Kumari Renu Tiwari,1993(2) UPLBEC,1325 and the following propositions were laid down:

"(1) When the term "judgment" is used in a Statute or rule linked with the term "decree" as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, it will have a restricted and narrow meaning but when it is not so linked, it will have a wider connotation;

(2) ordinarily for an adjudication to be a "judgment" it should bring about termination of the proceeding in which the adjudication is made; and

(3) an order passed on an application for interim relief is ordinarily not a "judgment" but it will qualify to be called "judgment' if it affects valuable right of the party or decides an important aspect of the trial and the effect of the order on the party concerned is direct and immediate rather than indirect and remote"

The same view was taken by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No. 1247 of 2005 (Musafir Singh vs. Shiv Ram Yadav and others) decided on 20.10.2005.

We have also followed and taken the same view in Special Appeal No. 1247 of 2005, Musafir Singh Vs. Shiv Ram Yadav and others decided on 20.10.2005. A similar contention has also been dispelled by this Court in Special Appeal No. 1288 of 2006 Rajendra Singh Bhadauriya Vs. Committee of Management & others decided on 6.11.2006. Moreover, after perusing the relief sought by petitioner-respondent no. 5, we are not convinced that the interim order passed by the Hon'ble Single Judge can be treated to have granted any final relief to the petitioner-respondent no. 5."

10. Similar controversy came up before a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ashutosh Shrotriya and others v. Vicc-Chancellor, Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University and others, 2015 (8) ADJ 248, wherein the matter was considered in detail and the law was finally laid down to the effect that an order of a learned Single Judge upon a petition under Articles 226 or 227 of the Constitution only calling for counter and rejoinder affidavits is merely a procedural order in aid of the progression of the case. An order of this nature which is purely of a procedural nature in aid of the progression of the case and to enable the Court to form a considered view after a counter affidavit and a rejoinder are filed would not be amenable to a special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5. Such an order does not decide anything nor does it have the trappings of finality. If a party to the proceedings seeks to press an application for ad interim relief of a protective nature even before a counter affidavit is filed, on the ground that a situation of irretrievable injustice may result or that its substantive rights would be adversely affected in the meantime, such an argument must be addressed before the Single Judge. If such an argument is urged, it would be dealt with however briefly, consistent with the stage of the case, by the Single Judge. It is for the Division Bench hearing the special appeal to consider whether the order decides matters of moment or is of such a nature that would affect the vital and valuable rights of the parties and causes serious injustice to the concerned party.

11. In the facts of the present case the order dated 1.11.2021, against which the present appeal has been preferred, is merely of a procedural nature and cannot in any manner be said to touch the merits of the controversy or the dispute between the parties so as to be deemed to have been issued in exercise of powers conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution. It is open to the appellant to raise his grievance before the Single Judge before whom the matter is to be taken up as per the direction of the learned Single Judge.

12. In view of the aforementioned facts and circumstances, the preliminary objection raised with regard to maintainability of the special appeal under the provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, is sustained.

13. The special appeal is held to be not maintainable and is accordingly dismissed.

Counsel for the Appellant:

Counsel for the Respondents:
Mr. Manjiv Shukla, Addl. C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Appointment – Concealment - Pendency of criminal case - Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 - Chapter VIII Rule 5 - It could not be disputed that the application form did not require the appellant to disclose pendency of any criminal proceedings. All what the application required was to disclose whether the appellant had been convicted of any offence or not and in the instant case, the appellant has not been convicted by any competent court in respect of any offence. Also, till such time the application form was filled and the affidavit was furnished by the appellant, he was not served with summons of the criminal case, hence the affidavit of the appellant stating to the best of his knowledge that he has not been convicted by any court of law, cannot be said to be a statement which was incorrect or suffered from any concealment. (Para 9 to 11, 14, 15)

Hon'ble Court after noticing the dictum of the Apex Court in the case of Sandeep Kumar's case (infra) as well as Avtar Singh's case (infra) held that it was not open for the Authorities to have taken a different view on the same set of facts. Also, for the reason that once the learned Single Judge in its judgment dated 05.08.2019 had already noticed that the case of the appellant was covered by the judgment of Avtar Singh's case (infra), (Para 8, 16)

Appeal allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Avtar Singh Vs U.O.I. 2016, (2016) 8 SCC 471 (Para 5)

2. Commissioner of Police & ors. Vs Sandeep Kumar, (2011) 4 SCC 644 (Para 12)

Present Special Appeal challenges order dated 20.01.2021, passed by learned Single Judge as well as order dated 31.08.2019, passed by respondents.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. The instant intracourt appeal has been preferred under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 assailing the order dated 20.01.2021 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No.33715 (S/S) of 2019 (Madhusoodan Vs. State of U.P. & others).

2. In order to appreciate the controversy involved, certain brief facts giving rise to the instant appeal are being noticed hereinafter.

3. The appellant had applied for the post of Police Constable in the Uttar Pradesh Police in pursuance of an advertisement issued by the Uttar Pradesh Police Recruitment and Promotion Board Lucknow, for Police Constable and Constable P.A.C. (male) Direct Recruitment, 2015. The appellant was selected and he was also provided with a provisional admit card. The appellant also participated in the physical test scheduled on 23rd of April, 2016, thereafter the documents of the appellant were verified and he was also found medically fit.

4. Thereafter, on 30.06.2018, the appellant received a notice from the Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Ambedkar Nagar seeking his explanation regarding the case registered against the appellant. The appellant replied to the same. However, the reply of the appellant did not find favour. Consequently by means of order dated 21.07.2018, the appellant was not found fit for appointment on the ground of pendency of criminal case number NCR No.292 of 2013 under Sections 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC, at police station Jalalpur, District Ambedkar Nagar.

5. The appellant assailed the order dated 21.07.2018 before learned Single Judge of this Court. After hearing the parties the learned Single Judge, after noticing the dictum of Apex Court in the case of Avtar Singh Vs. Union of India 2016 reported as (2016) 8 SCC 471 partly allowed the writ petition. The relevant portion of the judgment dated 05.08.2019 reads as under:-

"Consequently, keeping in view the aforesaid principles of law enunciated by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Avtar Singh (supra), the order impugned cannot be sustained. As such, the writ petition is partly allowed. A writ of certiorari is issued quashing the impugned order dated 21.07.2018, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the petition. A writ of mandamus is issued directing the competent authority to consider the case of the petitioner and pass a reasoned and speaking order strictly in light of the principles of law laid down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the aforesaid judgment within a period of three weeks from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before him.
Consequences to follow."

6. The respondents thereafter considering the case of the appellant again by means of the impugned order dated 31.08.2019 rejected the case of the appellant. Being aggrieved against this order of rejection dated 31.08.2019 the appellant preferred the writ petition in this Court which has been dismissed by the learned Single Judge.

7. The Court has heard the learned counsel for the appellant Shri Anand Prakash Pandey and the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents Shri Manjiev Shukla.

8. Submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the respondents have erred in rejecting the case of the appellant and even the learned Single Judge has not noticed that the appellant had not concealed any fact regarding the said criminal case. It is also urged that the case of Avtar Singh (supra) was squarely applicable as already held by the learned Single Judge in the first round of litigation in its judgment dated 05.08.2019 passed in Writ Petition No.22104 (S/S) of 2018.

9. Further submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the application form which was filled, did not require the appellant to disclose the pendency of any criminal case. Learned counsel has drawn the attention of the Court to the application form which has been brought on record as Annexure A-1 with this appeal and has pointed out that all what the application form required is to state whether the appellant has been convicted by any competent court.

10. It is also urged that in so far as the appellant is concerned, he was not even aware of the said proceedings. He has drawn the attention of the Court to the extracts of the order-sheet of the case NCR No.292 of 2013 and has indicated that though the summons were issued by the Court but the same were never served on the appellant till the time, he had filled the said application and even subsequently he had furnished an affidavit and till such time, he was not aware of the said proceedings. It is only on 11.09.2019 that the appellant had been served with the summon.

11. Thus, the submission is that the appellant has never been convicted at any time. Even at the time of filling of the application he was not aware of the proceedings as till then he was not served with the summons and thus there was never any concealment or intention to conceal the pendency of any proceedings. Even though the application did not seek any information regarding pendency of any criminal case.

12. It is submitted that once in Avtar Singh's case (supra) wherein the Apex Court has laid down principles to be considered while making an appointment of a person against whom certain cases are pending and morefully enunciated in para 38 of the said report and the same were squarely applicable and held by the learned Single Judge in its judgment dated 05.08.2019 passed in Writ Petition No.22104 (S/S) of 2018, it was not open for the respondents to have taken any other view, hence the impugned order dated 31.08.2019 was bad in the eyes of law and this aspect of the matter has not been considered by the learned Single Judge. Learned Counsel for the appellant has relied upon a decision of the Apex Court in the case of Commissioner of Police and others Vs. Sandeep Kumar reported in (2011) 4 SCC 644 in support of his submissions.

13. Learned Standing Counsel, on the other hand, has submitted that since the appellant did not inform the Authorities regarding the pendency of the criminal case, consequently the impugned order passed by the Authorities, finding the appellant not fit for appointment, cannot be faulted. Moreover, even the learned Single Judge has found that the pendency of the criminal case was not properly disclosed and a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India being discretionary in nature and having been dismissed for want of disclosure in the aforesaid circumstances, the appeal is also devoid of merits and may not be entertained and is liable to be dismissed.

14. Apparently, what the learned Standing Counsel could not dispute is the fact that the application form did not require the appellant to disclose pendency of any criminal proceedings. All what the application required was to disclose whether the appellant had been convicted of any offence or not and in the instant case, the appellant has not been convicted by any competent court in respect of any offence.

15. Learned Standing Counsel also could not dispute the fact that till such time the application form was filled and the affidavit was furnished by the appellant, he was not served with the summons of the criminal case, hence the affidavit of the appellant stating to the best of his knowledge that he has not been convicted by any court of law, cannot be said to be a statement which was incorrect or suffered from any concealment.

16. Noticing the dictum of the Apex Court in the case of Sandeep Kumar's case (supra) as well as Avtar Singh's case (supra) also for the reason that once the learned Single Judge in its judgment dated 05.08.2019 had already noticed that the case of the appellant was covered by the judgment of Avtar Singh's case (supra), it was not open for the Authorities to have taken a different view on the same set of facts.

17. It is also not disputed that the sole ground of passing the order dated 31.08.2019 is the alleged non-disclosure of the criminal case.

18. In view of the aforesaid, we find that the dismissal of the writ petition by the learned Single Judge was not justified, accordingly, we are of the view that the appeal deserves to be allowed. Consequently, the order dated 20.01.2021 passed by the learned Single Judge is set aside so also the impugned order dated 31.08.2019 shall stand set aside and the writ petition shall stand allowed.

19. Consequences to follow.

20. In the facts and circumstances, there shall be no order as to costs.

(Para 10)

B. No concealment of fact - When the respondent filed application seeking compassionate appointment, she was not married as she is stated to have married on December 01, 2001 whereas the application for compassionate appointment was filed on October 13, 1999. Hence, it is not a case of concealment of fact in the application filed by the respondent. (Para 7, 8)

Considering the fact that the respondent is in service for the last more than 15 years and, there was no concealment of fact as such in the application filed by her seeking compassionate appointment, no ground is made out for interference. (Para 11)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Smt. Vimla Srivastava Vs St. of U.P. & anr., 2016 (1) ADJ 21 (DB) (Para 4, 10)

2. The St. of U.P. & anr. Vs Neha Srivastava, Special Leave Petition No. 22646 of 2016, decided on 23.07.2019 (Para 4, 10)

Present Special Appeal assails judgment and order dated 25.01.2021, passed by learned Single Judge.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.)

1. Order dated January 25, 2021 passed by learned Single Judge has been challenged by the State by filing the present intra-Court appeal.

2. The respondent had approached this Court challenging the order dated September 1, 2017, whereby the order of her appointment on compassionate basis was cancelled on the ground that she had concealed the factum of her being married at the time of initial appointment.

3. Learned Standing Counsel, appearing for the appellants, submitted that it is a case where respondent had concealed the factum of her being married at the time of the compassionate appointment, hence there being concealment of fact, her appointment is liable to be cancelled. Relying upon Rule 2(c)(iii) of U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules"), it is submitted that married daughter is not included in the definition of the "family". That being so, the appointment granted to the respondent on compassionate basis was liable to be withdrawn. As such, there was no error in the order withdrawing compassionate appointment granted to the respondent and learned Single Judge has wrongly quashed the same.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that exclusion of unmarried daughter from the definition of the family vide Rule 2(c)(iii) of the Rules was struck down by this Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava Vs. State Of U.P. And Another 2016(1) ADJ 21 (DB). It means that the daughter, whether married and unmarried, both are now included within the definition of the "family" for the purpose of Rule 2(c) of the Rules. Special Leave Petition No. 22646 of 2016 (The State of U.P. and another Vs. Neha Srivastava) against the same was dismissed by Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated July 23, 2019.

5. It is further submitted that at the time when the respondent filed application for appointment on compassionate basis, she was not married, hence, there was no concealment of fact as such. Marriage took place thereafter. She, being in service for the last 15 years and having family to support, should not be thrown out of service. At present, she would be over age for entry into service.

6. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the paper book.

7. As is evident from the fact on record, father of the respondent, who was working as Labour Inspector in the Labour Department, died during service in September, 1980. The respondent was an infant at that time. She attained majority in the year 1998. Only thereafter, she filed application for appointment on compassionate basis on October 13, 1999. Her case remained pending for a period of about six years. During interregnum period, on December 1, 2001, she got married. In pursuance of order dated July 21, 2006 issued by Government giving appointment to the respondent on a Class-III post, Deputy Labour Commissioner on November 4, 2006 issued appointment letter, pursuant whereof the respondent joined service.

8. From the aforesaid fact, it is evident that when the respondent filed application seeking compassionate appointment, she was not married as she is stated to have married on December 01, 2001 whereas the application for compassionate appointment was filed on October 13, 1999. Hence, it is not a case of concealment of fact in the application filed by the respondent.

9. Rule-2 (c)(iii) of the Rules defines "family" as under:

"2. Definitions.- In these rules, unless the context otherwise requires,-

.....

(c) "family" shall include the following relations of the deceased Government servant:

(i) Wife or husband;

(ii) Sons;

(iii) Unmarried and widowed daughters;"

10. Validity of the aforesaid provision, whereby married daughters were excluded for consideration for appointment on compassionate basis, was subject matter of challenge before this Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava's case (supra). This Court held that exclusion of married daughter from the ambit of expression of "family" as defined under Rule 2(c) of the Rules is illegal and unconstitutional, hence was struck down. Special Leave Petition against the aforesaid judgment was dismissed by Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated July 23, 2019 in Neha Srivastava's case (supra). Meaning thereby, after exclusion of married daughter for being eligible for appointment on compassionate basis having been struck down by this Court, even married daughters are eligible for appointment on compassionate basis, and hence, cannot be treated ineligible, as such, as this Court has not framed any law rather has merely declared the law.

11. Considering the fact that the respondent is in service for the last more than 15 years and, as noticed above, there was no concealment of fact as such in the application filed by her seeking compassionate appointment, we do not find that any ground is made out to interfere in the order passed by learned Single. The appeal is, accordingly, dismissed.

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - Mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. If the family had sufficient means to carry on its affairs for long time, in such a case compassionate appointment cannot be made. The purpose is not for providing a post against post. It is not reservation in service by virtue of succession. (Para 6 to 11)

Late Sri Jagdish Narayan Mishra (Assistant Teacher, L.T. Grade) was survived by four persons, his wife, his son Ashutosh Mishra, his daughter Anju Devi and appellant Arti Mishra. In respect of the appellant, it is recorded that she has got married 15 years ago and her husband is employed, and despite opportunity, learned counsel for the appellant could not establish from the record the penury condition of the appellant or the family of the deceased so as to entitle her for consideration of her request for compassionate appointment sympathetically. He also could not satisfy the Court as to why the application seeking compassionate appointment was made at such a belated stage. (Para 4, 5)

Compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule of appointment in the public services. The whole object of granting compassionate appointment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. (Para 11)

Present Special Appeal assails judgment and order dated 24.09.2021, passed by Hon'ble Mr. Pankaj Bhatia, J.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.)

1. This intra-Court appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, is directed against the order dated 24.09.2021 passed by learned Single Judge dismissing the Writ Petition.

2. The facts, in brief, are that the appellant's father, Late Jagdish Narain Mishra, was working as Assistant Teacher (L.T. Grade) in Sri Bhola Nath Shanti Niketan Inter College, Belwa Bazar, Mariahu, Jaunpur (hereinafter referred to in short as "College"). He died during service on January 21, 2005, leaving behind his wife, son Ashutosh Mishra, and two daughters, Anju and the appellant, Arti. At that time the appellant claimed to be unmarried.

However, it appears that subsequently the appellant got married sometime in the year 2006-07. As per own case of the appellant, as stated in Annexure-5 to the writ petition, she applied for compassionate appointment on October 24, 2008 under the U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants (Dying in Harness) Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to in short as "the Rules"). The application of the appellant seeking compassionate appointment was rejected by the District Inspector of Schools, Jaunpur (hereinafter referred to in short as "DIOS") vide order dated September 9, 2011/ December 13, 2012 on the ground that after examining the matter, it has come to his notice that the applicant, Arti, is married. Aggrieved against the same the appellant filed Writ Petition (Writ-A) No. 21185 of 2013 challenging the aforesaid order passed by DIOS. The learned Single Judge finding that despite being married, the petitioner is not excluded from the definition of the family as defined under Rule 2(c) of the Rules, allowed the writ petition vide order dated January 06, 2020 and set aside the aforesaid order passed by the DIOS. The learned Single Judge further directed the DIOS to reconsider the appellant's claim for compassionate appointment and observed that the candidature of the petitioner would not be ignored only for the reason that she is a married daughter. Pursuant to the aforesaid order dated January 06, 2020, the DIOS reconsidered the claim of the appellant regarding compassionate appointment and rejected the same vide order dated 29.12.2020. Feeling aggrieved, appellant filed Writ Petition (Writ-A) No. 2045 of 2021, which has been dismissed by learned Single Judge vide order dated 24.09.2021 affirming the order passed by DIOS, which is under challenge.

4. The learned Single Judge, while dismissing the writ petition of the appellant, has noticed the reasons given by of DIOS in the order rejecting the claim of the appellant for compassionate appointment and observed as under:

"A perusal of the impugned order records that late Sri Jagdish Narayan Mishra was survived by four persons, his wife, his son Ashutosh Mishra, his daughter Anju Devi and petitioner Arti Mishra. In respect of the petitioner, it is recorded that she has got married 15 years ago and her husband is employed, and finding that no hardship existed so as to consider the case for appointment of the petitioner, the application was rejected."

5. Despite repeated opportunity, learned counsel for the appellant could not point out any illegality, irregularity or infirmity in the aforesaid findings recorded by learned Single Judge. Moreover, even before this Court, despite opportunity, learned counsel for the appellant could not establish from the record the penury condition of the appellant or the family of the deceased so as to entitle her for consideration of her request for compassionate appointment sympathetically. He also could not satisfy the Court as to why the application seeking compassionate appointment was made at such a belated stage.

6. It is well settled that if the family had sufficient means to carry on its affairs for long time, in such a case compassionate appointment cannot be made. The purpose of compassionate appointment is not to provide employment by succession but it is to meet immediate hardship arose due to sudden demise of sole bread earner of the family leaving behind the legal heirs in penury.

7. In Mumtaz Yunus Mulani Vs. State of Maharashtra and others (2008) 11 SCC 384, the Court held that now a well settled principle of law is that appointment on compassionate ground is not a source of recruitment. The reason for making such a benevolent scheme by the State or public sector undertakings is to see that the dependants of the deceased are not deprived of the means of livelihood. It only enables the family of the deceased to get over sudden financial crises.

8. The purpose of compassionate appointment is not for providing a post against post. It is not reservation in service by virtue of succession. If the family is not in penury and capable to maintain itself for a long time, no mandamus would be issued after a long time for providing compassionate appointment to a legal heir of the deceased employee. In Santosh Kumar Dubey Vs. State of U.P. and others JT 2009 (8) SC 135 and M/s Eastern Coalfields Ltd. Vs. Anil Badyakar and others JT 2009(6) SC 624 the Apex Court has declined to issue any mandamus after expiry of a long time. In Santosh Kumar Dubey Vs. State of U.P.'s case (upra) after considering the Rules the Apex Court said that if family of the deceased has been able to survive, after five years no mandamus or direction should be issued for giving compassionate appointment.

9. Recently, the Supreme Court in State of Himachal Pradesh and Anr. vs. Shashi Kumar reported in (2019) 3 SCC 653 had an occasion to consider the object and purpose of appointment on compassionate ground. The Court referring to earlier judgment in Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 observed as under:

"21. ... it is necessary to note that the nature of compassionate appointment had been considered by this Court in Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana [(1994) 4 SCC 138 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 930]. The principles which have been laid down in Umesh Kumar Nagpal [Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 930] have been subsequently followed in a consistent line of precedents in this Court. These principles are encapsulated in the following extract:

"2. ... As a rule, appointments in the public services should be made strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and merit. No other mode of appointment nor any other consideration is permissible. Neither the Governments nor the public authorities are at liberty to follow any other procedure or relax the qualifications laid down by the rules for the post. However, to this general rule which is to be followed strictly in every case, there are some exceptions carved out in the interests of justice and to meet certain contingencies. One such exception is in favour of the dependants of an employee dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood. In such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. ... What is further, mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. (emphasis added)

10. The Court further referring to its earlier decision in Mumtaz Yunus Mulani Vs. State of Maharashtra's case (surpa), in para 26, observed:

"26. The judgment of a Bench of two Judges in Mumtaz Yunus Mulani v. State of Maharashtra (2008) 11 SCC 384 has adopted the principle that appointment on compassionate grounds is not a source of recruitment, but a means to enable the family of the deceased to get over a sudden financial crisis. The financial position of the family would need to be evaluated on the basis of the provisions contained in the scheme."

11. Hon'ble Supreme Court very recently in Civil Appeal No. 6003 of 2021 (The State of Uttar Pradesh and others Vs. Premlata) decided on October 5, 2021, in para 10 of the judgment, referring to the above authorities on the subject, said as under:

"10. Thus as per the law laid down by this court in the aforesaid decisions, compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule of appointment in the public services and is in favour of the dependents of a deceased dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood, and in such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis.

(emphasis added)

12. Taking into account the above binding precedents and in view of the discussions made hereinabove, we do not find any error in the order passed by learned Single Judge, impugned herein, so as to warrant interference.

13. The appeal lacks merits and is, accordingly, dismissed.

A. Interpretation - Doctrine of prospective overruling - where the question of law has been declare & settled by the Courts, then it has to be held that the said question of law was in existence right from day one - decision of Apex Court enunciating a principle of law is applicable to all cases irrespective of its stage of pendency because it is assumed that what is enunciated by the Supreme Court is, in fact, the law from inception - Prospective operation is only exception to this general rule - Under the doctrine of "prospective overruling" the law declared by the Court applies to the cases arising in future only and its applicability to the cases which have attained finality is saved - principle of prospective overruling would not apply in respect of the judgment passed by the Supreme Court unless and until it is expressly so mentioned in the judgment - However, where the rights of a party have been considered and declared, then the said proceedings cannot be reopened on the ground that the judgment on the basis of which, the rights were declared, has been overruled . 14. New India Assurance Company Limited Vs Smt. Somwati & ors. 2020 (3) T.A.C. 711 (S.C.),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prakash Chandra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Vashu Deo Mishra, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The present appeal has been filed for enhancement of compensation awarded by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (in short "Tribunal"), vide judgment and order dated 22.10.2014 passed in Claim Petition No. 134 of 2013 (Dayal and Others Versus Sanjeev Batra and Others).

3. Facts, in brief, as pleaded in claim petition before the Tribunal, are that the deceased Heera Lal, who was 20 years old at the time of accident, on 07.03.2013 at about 06:30 AM while he was waiting for some vehicle to reach Lucknow at a place which is situated at Lucknow-Raebareli National Highway near village Mastipur, P.S.-Nigoha, Lucknow, was hit by Vehicle Tata Ace bearing Registration No. UP-32 CZ-5364 and he succumbed to the injuries sustained in the accident and the driver of the Tata Ace was driving it rash and negligently, are not in dispute. The plea that the deceased was earning Rs. 5,000/- per month was not accepted by the Tribunal. The Tribunal, on the basis of notional income i.e. Rs. 3,000/- per month, awarded the compensation. No amount towards future prospects was provided by the Tribunal. Under the head(s) of miscellaneous expenses and loss of estate, the Tribunal awarded Rs. 5000/- each.

4. For the purposes of adjudication of the claim, the Tribunal framed the following issues:-

१. क्या दिनांक 07–3–2013 को समय करीब 06:30 बजे सुबह लखनऊ रायबरेली राजमार्ग पर, ग्राम मस्तीपुर के सामने थाना निगोहां, लखनऊ में टाटा ऐस वाहन संख्या यू0पी0–32/सी0जेड0–5364 के चालक ने वाहन के इन्तजार में खड़े हीरा लाल को टक्कर मार दी जिससे उसे काफी चोटें आई जिसके फलस्वरूप घटनास्थल पर ही उसकी मृत्यु हो गयी?

2. क्या दुर्घटना के समय टाटा ऐस वाहन संख्या यू0पी0–32/सी0जेड0–5364 विपक्षी संख्या–2, बीमा कम्पनी से बीमित थी?

3. क्या दुर्घटना के समय टाटा ऐस वाहन संख्या यू0पी0–32/सी0जेड0–5364 के चालक के पास वैध एवं प्रभावी चालन अनुज्ञप्ति थी?

4. क्या याचीगण क्षतिपूति के रूप में धनराशि पाने के अधिकारी हैं, यदि हॉ तो कितनी और किससे ?

5. There is no dispute regarding the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue nos. 1 to 3. The issue no. 4 which relates to grant of compensation is in question before this Court.

6. While pressing the present appeal for enhancement of compensation, the first issue raised is to the effect that the Tribunal wrongly applied the multiplier. Elaborating on this aspect, learned Counsel for the appellants submitted that multiplier of 18 ought to have been applied after taking note of the age of the deceased i.e. 20 years at the time of accident, however, in the present case the multiplier of 11 has been applied by the Tribunal after considering the age of the father of the deceased. In this regard reliance has been placed on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others; reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680: 2017 ACJ 2700. Relevant paragraph 59 reads as under:-

59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:

59.1. The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC

(L&S) 167] should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma[Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] , a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.

59.2. As Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari [Reshma Kumari v. Madan Mohan, (2013) 9 SCC 65 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 191 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 826] , which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] is not a binding precedent.

59.3. While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

59.4. In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

59.5. For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paras 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

59.6. The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] read with para 42 of that judgment.

59.7. The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

59.8. Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years."

7. On the issue of multiplier, the learned Counsel for the Insurance company Sri Vashu Deo Mishra, submitted that the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra), is of the year 2017 and it is not applicable in the present case as the accident in which Heeralal expired is of year 2013. However, he could not dispute the ratio of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra). The submission of learned Counsel for the Insurance Company Sri Vashu Deo Mishra, on the issue of applicability of law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra) is fallacious and unsustainable as law is otherwise.

8. All the judgments apply retrospectively except otherwise provided. It is well established principle of law that the principle of prospective operation of over ruling of judgment, does not apply except where it is specifically mentioned.

The law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court is normally assumed to be the law from inception. Prospective operation is only exception to this general rule. It is trite law that where the question of law has been settled by the Courts, then it has to held that the said question of law was in existence right from the first day.

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarwan Kumar vs. Madan Lal Aggarwal; reported in (2003) 4 SCC 147 , observed as under:-

"15. For the first time this Court in Golak Nath v. State of Punjab accepted the doctrine of "prospective overruling". It was held: (AIR p. 1669, para 51)

"51. As this Court for the first time has been called upon to apply the doctrine evolved in a different country under different circumstances, we would like to move warily in the beginning. We would lay down the following propositions: (1) The doctrine of prospective overruling can be invoked only in matters arising under our Constitution; (2) it can be applied only by the highest court of the country i.e. the Supreme Court as it has the constitutional jurisdiction to declare law binding on all the courts in India; (3) the scope of the retroactive operation of the law declared by the Supreme Court superseding its "earlier decisions' is left to its discretion to be moulded in accordance with the justice of the cause or matter before it."

The doctrine of "prospective overruling" was initially made applicable to the matters arising under the Constitution but we understand the same has since been made applicable to the matters arising under the statutes as well. Under the doctrine of "prospective overruling" the law declared by the Court applies to the cases arising in future only and its applicability to the cases which have attained finality is saved because the repeal would otherwise work hardship on those who had trusted to its existence. Invocation of the doctrine of "prospective overruling" is left to the discretion of the Court to mould with the justice of the cause or the matter before the Court. This Court while deciding Gian Devi Anand case did not hold that the law declared by it would be prospective in operation. It was not for the High Court to say that the law laid down by this Court in Gian Devi Anand case would be prospective in operation. If this is to be accepted then conflicting rules can supposedly be laid down by different High Courts regarding the applicability of the law laid down by this Court in Gian Devi Anand case or any other case. Such a situation cannot be permitted to arise. In the absence of any direction by this Court that the rule laid down by this Court would be prospective in operation, the finding recorded by the High Court that the rule laid down in Gian Devi Anand case by this Court would be applicable to the cases arising from the date of the judgment of this Court cannot be accepted being erroneous."

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M.A. Murthy vs. State of Karnataka; reported in (2003) 7 SCC 517, observed as under:-

"8. The learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the approach of the High Court is erroneous as the law declared by this Court is presumed to be the law at all times. Normally, the decision of this Court enunciating a principle of law is applicable to all cases irrespective of its stage of pendency because it is assumed that what is enunciated by the Supreme Court is, in fact, the law from inception. The doctrine of prospective overruling which is a feature of American jurisprudence is an exception to the normal principle of law, was imported and applied for the first time in L.C. Golak Nath v. State of Punjab. InManaging Director, ECIL v. B. Karunakar the view was adopted. Prospective overruling is a part of the principles of constitutional canon of interpretation and can be resorted to by this Court while superseding the law declared by it earlier. It is a device innovated to avoid reopening of settled issues, to prevent multiplicity of proceedings, and to avoid uncertainty and avoidable litigation. In other words, actions taken contrary to the law declared prior to the date of declaration are validated in larger public interest. The law as declared applies to future cases. (See Ashok Kumar Gupta v. State of U.P. and Baburam v. C.C. Jacob.) It is for this Court to indicate as to whether the decision in question will operate prospectively. In other words, there shall be no prospective overruling, unless it is so indicated in the particular decision. It is not open to be held that the decision in a particular case will be prospective in its application by application of the doctrine of prospective overruling. The doctrine of binding precedent helps in promoting certainty and consistency in judicial decisions and enables an organic development of the law besides providing assurance to the individual as to the consequences of transactions forming part of the daily affairs. That being the position, the High Court was in error by holding that the judgment which operated on the date of selection was operative and not the review judgment in Ashok Kumar Sharma case No. II. All the more so when the subsequent judgment is by way of review of the first judgment in which case there are no judgments at all and the subsequent judgment rendered on review petitions is the one and only judgment rendered, effectively and for all purposes, the earlier decision having been erased by countenancing the review applications. The impugned judgments of the High Court are, therefore, set aside."

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K. Madhava Reddy vs. State of Andhra Pradesh; reported in (2014) 6 SCC 537, observed as under:-

"10. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties at length. The doctrine of prospective overruling has its origin in American jurisprudence. It was first invoked in this country in Golak Nath v. State of Punjab, with this Court proceeding rather cautiously in applying the doctrine, was conscious of the fact that the doctrine had its origin in another country and had been invoked in different circumstances. The Court sounded a note of caution in the application of the doctrine to the Indian conditions as is evident from the following passage appearing in Golak Nath case wherein this Court laid down the parameters within which the power could be exercised. This Court said: (AIR p. 1669, para 51)

"51. As this Court for the first time has been called upon to apply the doctrine evolved in a different country under different circumstances, we would like to move warily in the beginning. We would lay down the following propositions: (1) The doctrine of prospective overruling can be invoked only in matters arising under our Constitution; (2) it can be applied only by the highest court of the country i.e. the Supreme Court as it has the constitutional jurisdiction to declare law binding on all the courts in India; (3) the scope of the retroactive operation of the law declared by the Supreme Court superseding its ''earlier decisions' is left to its discretion to be moulded in accordance with the justice of the cause or matter before it."

11. It is interesting to note that the doctrine has not remained confined to overruling of earlier judicial decision on the same issue as was understood in Golak Nath case. In several later decisions, this Court has invoked the doctrine in different situations including in cases where an issue has been examined and determined for the first time. For instance in India Cement Ltd. v. State of T.N., this Court not only held that the levy of the cess was ultra vires the power of the State Legislature brought about by an amendment to the Madras Village Panchayat Amendment Act, 1964 but also directed that the State would not be liable for any refund of the amount of that cess which has been paid or already collected. In Orissa Cement Ltd. v. State of Orissa, this Court drew a distinction between a declaration regarding the invalidity of a provision and the determination of the relief that should be granted in consequence thereof. This Court held that it was open to the Court to grant, mould or restrict the relief in a manner most appropriate to the situation before it in such a way so as to advance the interest of justice."

12. Reference may also be made to the decision of this Court in Union of India v. Mohd. Ramzan Khan w*here non-furnishing of a copy of the enquiry report was taken as violative of the principles of natural justice and any disciplinary action based on any such report was held liable to be set aside. The declaration of law as to the effect of non-supply of a copy of the report was, however, made prospective so that no punishment already imposed upon a delinquent employee would be open to challenge on that account."*

13. In Ashok Kumar Gupta v. State of U.P., a three-Judge Bench of this Court held that although Golak Nath case regarding unamendability of fundamental rights under Article 368 of the Constitution had been overruled in Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala yet the doctrine of prospective overruling was upheld and followed in several later decisions. This Court further held that the Constitution does not expressly or by necessary implication provide against the doctrine of prospective overruling. As a matter of fact Articles 32(4) and 142 are designed with words of width to enable the Supreme Court to declare the law and to give such directions or pass such orders as are necessary to do complete justice. This Court observed: (Ashok Kumar Gupta case, SCC pp. 246-47, para 54)

"54. ... So, there is no acceptable reason as to why the Court in dealing with the law in supersession of the law declared by it earlier could not restrict the operation of law, as declared, to the future and save the transactions, whether statutory or otherwise, that were effected on the basis of the earlier law. This Court is, therefore, not impotent to adjust the competing rights of parties by prospective overruling of the previous decision in Rangachari ratio. The decision in Mandal case postponing the operation for five years from the date of the judgment is an instance of, and an extension to the principle of prospective overruling following the principle evolved in Golak Nath case."

14. Dealing with the nature of the power exercised by the Supreme Court under Article 142, this Court held that the expression "complete justice" are words meant to meet myriad situations created by human ingenuity or because of the operation of statute or law declared under Articles 32, 136 or 141 of the Constitution. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed: (Ashok Kumar Gupta case, SCC pp. 250-51, para 60)

"60. ... The power under Article 142 is a constituent power transcendental to statutory prohibition. Before exercise of the power under Article 142(2), the Court would take that prohibition (sic provision) into consideration before taking steps under Article 142(2) and we find no limiting words to mould the relief or when this Court takes appropriate decision to mete out justice or to remove injustice. The phrase "complete justice' engrafted in Article 142(1) is the word of width couched with elasticity to meet myriad situations created by human ingenuity or cause or result of operation of statute law or law declared under Articles 32, 136 and 141 of the Constitution and cannot be cribbed or cabined within any limitations or phraseology. Each case needs examination in the light of its backdrop and the indelible effect of the decision. In the ultimate analysis, it is for this Court to exercise its power to do complete justice or prevent injustice arising from the exigencies of the cause or matter before it. The question of lack of jurisdiction or nullity of the order of this Court does not arise. As held earlier, the power under Article 142 is a constituent power within the jurisdiction of this Court. So, the question of a law being void ab initio or nullity or voidable does not arise."

15. In Somaiya Organics (India) Ltd. v. State of U.P., this Court held that the doctrine of prospective overruling was in essence a recognition of the principle that the court moulds the relief claimed to meet the justice of the case and that the Apex Court in this country expressly enjoys that power under Article 142 of the Constitution which allows this Court to pass such decree or make such order as is necessary for doing complete justice in any case or matter pending before this Court. The Hon'ble Court observed: (SCC p. 532, para 27)

"27. In the ultimate analysis, prospective overruling, despite the terminology, is only a recognition of the principle that the court moulds the reliefs claimed to meet the justice of the case -- justice not in its logical but in its equitable sense. As far as this country is concerned, the power has been expressly conferred by Article 142 of the Constitution which allows this Court to ''pass such decree or make such order as is necessary for doing complete justice in any cause or matter pending before it''. In exercise of this power, this Court has often denied the relief claimed despite holding in the claimants' favour in order to do ''complete justice'."

16. The "doctrine of prospective overruling" was, observed by this Court as a rule of judicial craftsmanship laced with pragmatism and judicial statesmanship as a useful tool to bring about smooth transition of the operation of law without unduly affecting the rights of the people who acted upon the law that operated prior to the date of the judgment overruling the previous law."

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of B.A. Linga Reddy vs. Karnataka State Transport Authority; reported in (2015) 4 SCC 515, observed as under:-

34. The view of the High Court in Ashrafulla has been reversed by this Court. The decision is of retrospective operation, as it has not been laid down that it would operate prospectively; more so, in the case of reversal of the judgment. This Court in P.V. George v. State of Kerala held that the law declared by a court will have a retrospective effect if not declared so specifically. Referring to Golak Nath v. State of Punjab it had also been observed that the power of prospective overruling is vested only in the Supreme Court and that too in constitutional matters. It was observed: (P.V. George case, SCC pp. 565 & 569, paras 19 & 29) "19. It may be true that when the doctrine of stare decisis is not adhered to, a change in the law may adversely affect the interest of the citizens. The doctrine of prospective overruling although is applied to overcome such a situation, but then it must be stated expressly. The power must be exercised in the clearest possible term. The decisions of this Court are clear pointer thereto.

* **

29. Moreover, the judgment of the Full Bench has attained finality. The special leave petition has been dismissed. The subsequent Division Bench, therefore, could not have said as to whether the law declared by the Full Bench would have a prospective operation or not. The law declared by a court will have a retrospective effect if not otherwise stated to be so specifically. The Full Bench having not said so, the subsequent Division Bench did not have the jurisdiction in that behalf."

35. In Ravi S. Naik v. Union of India, it has been laid down that there is retrospective operation of the decision of this Court. The interpretation of the provision becomes effective from the date of enactment of the provision. In M.A. Murthy v. State of Karnataka, it was held that the law declared by the Supreme Court is normally assumed to be the law from inception. Prospective operation is only exception to this normal rule. It was held thus: (M.A. Murthy case, SCC pp. 520-21, para 8)

"8. The learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the approach of the High Court is erroneous as the law declared by this Court is presumed to be the law at all times. Normally, the decision of this Court enunciating a principle of law is applicable to all cases irrespective of its stage of pendency because it is assumed that what is enunciated by the Supreme Court is, in fact, the law from inception. The doctrine of prospective overruling which is a feature of American jurisprudence is an exception to the normal principle of law, was imported and applied for the first time in Golak Nath v. State of Punjab. InECIL v. B. Karunakar the view was adopted. Prospective overruling is a part of the principles of constitutional canon of interpretation and can be resorted to by this Court while superseding the law declared by it earlier. It is a device innovated to avoid reopening of settled issues, to prevent multiplicity of proceedings, and to avoid uncertainty and avoidable litigation. In other words, actions taken contrary to the law declared prior to the date of declaration are validated in larger public interest. The law as declared applies to future cases. (See Ashok Kumar Gupta v. State of U.P. and Baburam v. C.C. Jacob.) It is for this Court to indicate as to whether the decision in question will operate prospectively. In other words, there shall be no prospective overruling, unless it is so indicated in the particular decision. It is not open to be held that the decision in a particular case will be prospective in its application by application of the doctrine of prospective overruling. The doctrine of binding precedent helps in promoting certainty and consistency in judicial decisions and enables an organic development of the law besides providing assurance to the individual as to the consequences of transactions forming part of the daily affairs. That being the position, the High Court was in error by holding that the judgment which operated on the date of selection was operative and not the review judgment in Ashok Kumar Sharma case. All the more so when the subsequent judgment is by way of review of the first judgment in which case there are no judgments at all and the subsequent judgment rendered on review petitions is the one and only judgment rendered, effectively and for all purposes, the earlier decision having been erased by countenancing the review applications. The impugned judgments of the High Court are, therefore, set aside."

13. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P.V. George vs. State of Kerala; reported in (2007) 3 SCC 557 has held as under:-

"27. The rights of the appellants were not determined in the earlier proceedings. According to them, merely a law was declared which was prevailing at that point of time; but the appellants were not parties therein. Thus, no decision was rendered in their favour nor any right accrued thereby."

14. Thus, it is clear that the principle of prospective overruling would not apply in respect of the judgment passed by the Supreme Court unless and until it is expressly so mentioned in the judgment. Furthermore, there cannot be an estoppel against the statute.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bengal Iron Corpn. vs. CTO; reported in 1994 Supp (1) SCC 310 has held as under:-

"18. ... . There can be no estoppel against the statute. ... . Law is what is declared by this Court and the High Court -- to wit, it is for this Court and the High Court to declare what does a particular provision of statute say, and not for the executive. Of course, the Parliament/Legislature never speaks or explains what does a provision enacted by it mean. (SeeSanjeev Coke Mfg. Co. v. Bharat Coking Coal Ltd.)"

16. Thus, where the question of law has been settled by the Courts, then it has to be held that the said question of law was in existence right from day one.

17. However, where the rights of a party have been considered and declared, then the said proceedings cannot be reopened on the ground that the judgment on the basis of which, the rights were declared, has been overruled. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India v. Madras Telephone SC & ST Social Welfare Assn., reported in (2006) 8 SCC 662; has held as under:-

"21. Having regard to the above observations and clarification we have no doubt that such of the applicants whose claim to seniority and consequent promotion on the basis of the principles laid down in the Allahabad High Court's judgment inParmanand Lal case have been upheld or recognised by the Court or the Tribunal by judgment and order which have attained finality will not be adversely affected by the contrary view now taken in the judgment in Madras Telephones. Since the rights of such applicants were determined in a duly constituted proceeding, which determination has attained finality, a subsequent judgment of a court or tribunal taking a contrary view will not adversely affect the applicants in whose cases the orders have attained finality. We order accordingly."

18. Thus, it is clear that the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) would apply in the present case as the order passed by the Tribunal has been challenged. It is not a case where the claimants have tried to reopen a case which has already been finalized. It goes without saying that it is settled proposition of law that an appeal is continuation of original proceedings.

19. Sri Mishra on the issue of multiplier also submitted that multiplier has correctly been applied by the Tribunal. In this regard he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shakti Devi Vs. New India Insurance Company Limited And Another; reported in 2011 (1) TAC 4 (SC). On this aspect the view of this Court is that the latest view of Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court would prevail over the view taken in the judgment passed in the case of Shakti Devi (Supra) as such also the argument of the Counsel for the Company on the issue of multiplier has no force.

20. Considering the aforesaid, on the issue of multiplier, this Court after taking note of age of deceased i.e. 20 years at the time of accident, is of the view that in the instant case for grant of compensation the multiplier of 18 is the correct multiplier and has to be applied and the Tribunal based upon the age of father of the deceased has wrongly applied the multiplier of 11.

21. It is next submitted by the learned Counsel for the appellants that notional income of Rs. 3,000/- per month i.e. Rs. 36,000/- per annum of deceased, who was black smith (yksgkj) and at the time of death was earning about Rs. 5,000/- per month as pleaded in the claim petition, has wrongly been considered by the Tribunal for grant of compensation. He submitted that accident took place on 07.03.2013 and on account of injury sustained the son of the appellant no. 1 expired on spot. As such, considering the date of death of the son of the appellant no. 1 as also the law on this issue, the notional income of the deceased should be considered as Rs. 6,000/- per month.

22. Opposing the aforesaid, Sri Mishra learned Counsel for the Insurance Company, submitted that in the claim petition the income of the deceased, per month, has been shown as Rs. 5,000/-, as such, beyond this amount the income cannot be enhanced.

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment passed in the case of Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Nanu Ram and Others; reported in 2018 SCC Online SC 1546; observed as under:-

"8.3 With respect to the income of the deceased, as the family could not produce any evidence to show that the income of the deceased was Rs 15,000 per month, as claimed, the High Court took his income to be Rs 6000, which is marginally above the minimum wage of an unskilled worker at Rs 5342.

This finding is also not being interfered with.

8.4. The Insurance Company has submitted that the father and the sister of the deceased could not be treated as dependents, and it is only a mother who can be dependent of her son. This contention deserves to be repelled. The deceased was a bachelor, whose mother had pre-deceased him. The deceased's father was about 65 years old, and an unmarried sister. The deceased was contributing a part of his meagre income to the family for their sustenance and survival. Hence, they would be entitled to compensation as his dependents.

8.5. The Insurance Company has contended that the High Court had wrongly awarded Rs. 1,00,000 towards loss of love and affection, and Rs. 25,000 towards funeral expenses.

The judgment of this Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) has set out the various amounts to be awarded as compensation under the conventional heads in case of death. The relevant extract of the judgment is reproduced herein below :

"(54)....Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years." (Emphasis supplied)

As per the afore-said judgment, the compensation of Rs. 25,000 towards funeral expenses is decreased to Rs. 15,000.

The amount awarded by the High Court towards loss of love and affection is, however, maintained.

8.6 The MACT as well as the High Court have not awarded any compensation with respect to Loss of Consortium and Loss of Estate, which are the other conventional heads under which compensation is awarded in the event of death, as recognized by the Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi (supra).

The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial and welfare legislation. The Court is duty-bound and entitled to award "just compensation", irrespective of whether any plea in that behalf was raised by the Claimant.

In exercise of our power under Article 142, and in the interests of justice, we deem it appropriate to award an amount of Rs. 15,000 towards Loss of Estate to Respondent Nos. 1 and 2.

8.7 A Constitution Bench of this Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) dealt with the various heads under which compensation is to be awarded in a death case. One of these heads is Loss of Consortium.

In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium', "parental consortium', and "filial consortium'.

The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse. Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54.

Spousal consortium is generally defined as rights pertaining to the relationship of a husband-wife which allows compensation to the surviving spouse for loss of "company, society, co-operation, affection, and aid of the other in every conjugal relation."Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979).

Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training."

Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love, affection, companionship and their role in the family unit.

Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. Modern jurisdictions world-over have recognized that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions therefore permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is a compensation for loss of the love, affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of Filial Consortium.

Parental Consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act.

A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count. Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram @ Jagmal Singh v. Sohi Ram 2017 (4) RLW 3368 (Raj); Uttarakhand High Court in Smt. Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar 2014 (3) UC 1687; Karnataka High Court in Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570 (DB).

However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of Filial Consortium.

The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "Loss of Consortium' as laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra).

In the present case, we deem it appropriate to award the father and the sister of the deceased, an amount of Rs. 40,000 each for loss of Filial Consortium.

9. In light of the abovementioned discussion, Respondents 1 and 2 are entitled to the following amounts:

Head	Compensation awarded
(I) Income	Rs 6000
(ii) Future prospects	Rs 2400 (i.e. 40% of the income)
(iii) Deduction towards personal expenditure	Rs 2800 i.e. ⅓rd of (Rs 6000 + Rs 2400)
(iv) Total income	Rs 5600 i.e. ⅔rd of (Rs 6000 + Rs 2400)
(v) Multiplier	18
(vi) Loss of future income	Rs 12,09,600 (Rs 5600 × 12 × 18)
(vii) Loss of love and affection	Rs 1,00,000 (Rs 50,000 each)
(viii)Funeral expenses	Rs 15,000
(ix) Loss of estate	Rs 15,000
(x) Loss of filial consortium	Rs 80,000 (Rs 40,000 payable to each of Respondents 1 and 2)
Total compensation awarded	Rs 14,25,600 along with interest @ 12% p.a. from the date of filing of the claim petition till payment.

Out of the amount awarded, Respondent 1 is entitled to 60% while Respondent 2 shall be granted 40% along with interest as specified above."

24. In the case of Chameli Devi and Others vs. Jivrail Mian and Others; reported in 2019 (4) TAC 724 (S.C.), the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"Keeping in view the fact that the accident took place in 2001 and the deceased was a carpenter, it would not be unjustified to assess his income at Rs.200/- per day. It is true that carpenter may not get per work every day, hence, we access the income at Rs.5000/- per month. Adding 40% for future prospects Rs.2,000/-, the total income works out to Rs.7,000/-. Deducting 1/5 for personal expenses, keeping in view a large number of dependents, the datum figure comes out to Rs.5,600/- per month or Rs.67,200/- per year. Applying multiplier of 16, the compensation works out to Rs.10,75,200/-. Rs.70,000/- is added towards other non-conventional heads as laid down in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi & Ors. (2017) 16 SCC 680 : 2017 (4) T.A.C. 673. The total compensation comes out to Rs.11,45,200/-."

25. In the case of Syed Sadiq And Others vs. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company Limited; reported in (2014) 2 SCC 735, the deceased was Vegetable Vendor and the Hon'ble Supreme Court, for the purposes of granting of compensation, after considering the state of economy and rising prices in agriculture products held that a vegetable vendor is reasonably capable of earning Rs. 6,500/- per month.

"9. There is no reason in the instant case for the Tribunal and the High Court to ask for evidence of monthly income of the appellant claimant. On the other hand, going by the present state of economy and the rising prices in agricultural products, we are inclined to believe that a vegetable vendor is reasonably capable of earning Rs 6500 per month."

26. In the judgment dated 10.12.2014 passed in F.A.F.O. (D) No. 748 of 2011 (Smt. Sheela Pandey W/O Late Surendra Kumar Pandey & 4 Others. vs. The New India Insurance Co. Ltd. Bena Ghabar Branch & 2 Others), this Court, for granting compensation, assessed the notional income of the deceased, who was doing business of selling milk/ diary business, at Rs. 6,500/- per month.

27. In the case of New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Resha Devi and Others; reported in 2017 (4) T.A.C. 288 (All.), this Court, in para 8, observed that "there can be no exact uniform rule for measuring the value of the human life and the measure of damages cannot be arrived at by precise mathematical calculations. Obviously award of damages would depend upon the particular facts and circumstances of the case but the element of fairness in the amount of compensation so determined is the ultimate guiding factor. In such view of the matter, presumption of Rs. 100/- per day as notional income even for a unskilled labour in the year 2014 appears to us to be frugal and by no stretch of imagination to be just even the minimum wages fixed by the State Government is much higher than that looking to the rise in cost index. We are of the considered upon that notional income of an unskilled labour could not be less than Rs. 200/- per day."

28. This Court feels that reference to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of New India Assurance Company Limited vs. Smt. Somwati and Others; reported in 2020 (3) T.A.C. 711 (S.C.), is also relevant. In this case, the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the issue as to whether both consortium and loss of love and affection could have been awarded. The Hon'ble Supreme Court on the issue aforesaid observed as under:-

"38. The three-Judge Bench in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] has categorically laid down that apart from spousal consortium, parental and filial consortium is payable. We feel ourselves bound by the above judgment of the three-Judge Bench. We, thus, cannot accept the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the amount of consortium awarded to each of the claimants is not sustainable.

39. We, thus, found the impugned judgments [Somwati v. Dharmendra Kumar, 2019 SCC OnLine All 3897] , [Sangita Devi v. New India Assurance Ltd., 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10877] , [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Azmati Khatoon, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10530] , [Cholamandalam MS General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Umarani, 2019 SCC OnLine Mad 29630] , [Pinki v. Rajeev, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 11882] , [Nanak Chand v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd., 2020 SCC OnLine Del 62] , [Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rinku Devi, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10493] of the High Court awarding consortium to each of the claimants in accordance with law which does not warrant any interference in this appeal. We, however, accept the submissions of the learned counsel for the appellant that there is no justification for award of compensation under separate head "loss of love and affection". The appeal filed by the appellant deserves to be allowed insofar as the award of compensation under the head "loss of love and affection".

40. We may also notice the three-Judge Bench judgment of this Court relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant i.e. Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. [Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 327 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 254 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 905] The counsel for the appellant submits that this Court has granted only Rs 40,000 towards "loss of consortium" which is an indication that "consortium" cannot be granted to children. In the above case, Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal has awarded Rs 20,000 to the widow towards loss of consortium and Rs 10,000 to the minor daughter towards "loss of love and affection". The High Court has reduced [Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. v. Sangita Arya, 2016 SCC OnLine Utt 970] the amount of consortium from Rs 20,000 to Rs 10,000. Para 16 of the judgment is to the following effect : (Sangita Arya case [Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 327 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 254 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 905] , SCC p. 330, para 10)

"10. The consortium payable to the widow was reduced [Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. v. Sangita Arya, 2016 SCC OnLine Utt 970] by the High Court from Rs 20,000 (as awarded by MACT) to Rs 10,000; the amount awarded towards loss of love and affection to the minor daughters was reduced from Rs 10,000 to Rs 5000. However, the amount of Rs 5000 awarded by MACT towards funeral expenses was maintained."

41. This Court in the above case confined its consideration towards the income of the deceased and there was neither any claim nor any consideration that the consortium should have been paid to other legal heirs also. There being no claim for payment of consortium to other legal heirs, this Court awarded Rs 40,000 towards consortium. No such ratio can be deciphered from the above judgment that this Court held that consortium is only payable as a spousal consortium and consortium is not payable to children and parents.

42. It is relevant to notice the judgment of this Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] which was delivered shortly after the above three-Judge Bench judgment of Sangeeta Arya [Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 327 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 254 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 905] specifically laid down that both spousal and parental consortium are payable which judgment we have already noticed above.

43. We may also notice one more three-Judge Bench judgment of this Court in M.H. Uma Maheshwari v. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [M.H. Uma Maheshwari v. United India Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 6 SCC 400 : (2020) 3 SCC (Cri) 274 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 744] decided on 12-6-2020. In the above case, the Tribunal had granted the amount of rupees one lakh towards loss of consortium to the wife and rupees three lakhs for all the appellants towards loss of love and affection. The High Court in the above case had reduced the amount of compensation in the appeal filed by the insurance company. The High Court held [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. M.H. Uma Maheshwari, 2017 SCC OnLine Kar 6258] that by awarding the amount of rupees one lakh towards loss of consortium to the wife, the Tribunal had committed error while awarding rupees one lakh to the first appellant towards the head of "loss of love and affection". Allowing the appeal filed by the claimant, this Court maintained the order of MACT.

44. In the above judgment although rendered by the three-Judge Bench, there was no challenge to award of compensation of rupees one lakh towards the consortium and rupees three lakhs towards the loss of love and affection. The appeal was filed only by the claimants and not by the insurance company. The Court did not pronounce on the correctness of the amount awarded under the head "loss of love and affection".

45. We may also notice the additional submission advanced in Civil Appeal No. 3099 of 2020 [arising out of SLP (C) No. 8250 of 2020], Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rinku Devi & Others. As noted above, we have taken the view that the order [Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rinku Devi, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10493] of the High Court awarding compensation towards "loss of love and affection" @ Rs 50,000 to each of the claimants is unjustified which is being set aside in this appeal. We, further, in the above appeal also set aside the directions of the High Court in para 9 by which statutory amount along with interest accrued thereon was directed to be deposited in Aasra fund.

46. In result, all the appeals are partly allowed. The award of compensation under the conventional head "loss of love and affection" is set aside. Motor Accidents Claims Tribunals shall recompute the amount payable and take further steps in accordance with law.

47. All the appeals are partly allowed accordingly. No costs."

29. Considering the date of accident i.e. 07.03.2013, monthly income of the deceased mentioned in the claim petition as also observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and this Court in the judgments referred above, this Court is of view that notional income of the deceased for the purpose of calculating compensation should be considered as Rs. 5,000/- per month.

30. Learned Counsel for the appellants next submitted that the future prospects were demanded in the claim petition, which has not been disputed by the other side, however, the Tribunal failed to grant any amount towards future prospect and as such, as per law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra), the amount towards future prospect is also liable to be granted.

31. Learned Counsel for the respondents could not dispute the settled position of law as also the fact that the Tribunal did not granted any amount towards future prospects. Accordingly, this Court is of the view that claimant/appellant no. 1 is entitled for future prospect as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra).

32. Learned Counsel for the appellants further stated that under the conventional head(s) i.e. miscellaneous expenses and loss of Estate, the Tribunal has awarded Rs. 5,000/- each. Thus this amount is also liable to be enhanced in view of the judgment passed in the cases of Pranay Sethi (Supra) and Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. (Supra).

33. Considering the amount awarded by the Tribunal in the light of judgment referred hereinabove, this Court is of the view that appellants are entitled to the enhanced amount under conventional heads such as loss of estate, funeral expenses, loss of consortium.

34. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the view that appellants are entitled to an amount to the tune of Rs. 8,66,000/- as detailed hereinunder, with interest @ 7%, as awarded by the Tribunal, from the date of filing of claim petition till realization.

It is made clear that this Court has modified the judgment and award dated 22.10.2014, under appeal, passed by the Tribunal, with respect to the amount awarded by the Tribunal as also that out of above amount awarded to the appellant No.2, Priti, sister of the deceased, would be entitled to Rs. 40,000/-, which is the amount awarded to her under the head of loss of consortium. The Tribunal while providing the amount in terms of this judgment shall adjust the amount, if any, already paid/ provided to the appellants.

36. The appeal is disposed of finally in above terms.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

This is an appeal by the Union of India through the General Manager, Northern Railways from a judgment and order of the Railway Claims Tribunal, Lucknow Bench, Lucknow, in Case No. OA/II/U/384/2013, Harish Chandra Tiwari v. Union of India, awarding compensation to the claimant-respondent on account of his father's death in a

2. The claimant, Harish Chandra Tiwari, instituted proceedings under Section 16 of the Railway Claims Tribunal Act, 1987 with allegations that on 17.03.2011, his father, Ram Prasad Tiwari, died in a railway accident, while travelling on board the Ganga Gomti Express from Lucknow to Prayag. It was pleaded by the claimant that his father boarded the Ganga Gomti Express at Lucknow with Prayag as the destination on a Second Class ticket, on 17.03.2011. As the train was moving near the Up Advance Signal at the Lalgopalganj Railway Station, the deceased suddenly fell off the train. In consequence of the injuries sustained in the accident, Ram Prasad Tiwari died. The petitioner filed a written statement, wholesomely denying the respondent's claim. The claim was particularly resisted on the plea that the deceased was neither travelling on the train in question nor did he suffer injury in consequence of a railway accident. It was averred that the claim is baseless and founded on concocted facts. The petitioner pleaded that the claim was barred by Section 124A of the Railways Act, 1989.

3. On the pleadings of parties, the Tribunal framed the following issues (rendered into English from Hindi vernacular) :

(i) Whether the deceased was a bona fide passenger on board the train in question?

(ii) Whether the accident resulting in the deceased's death fell within the definition of an unexpected incident within the meaning of Section 123(c)(ii) read with Section 124A of the Railways Act, 1989?

(iii) Who are the dependents of the deceased?

(iv) To what relief is the claimant entitled?

4. The claimant filed his affidavit in support of the claim, testifying as A.W.1. Another affidavit of Sanjeev Kumar was filed, who deposed as A.W.2. Documentary evidence comprising photostat copies of the Station Master's memo, the Panchnama, Police Form No. 13, Police Form No. 379, the Postmortem Report, the Final Report put in by the Police and the Voter ID Card was filed. The petitioner, by way of documentary evidence, placed a copy of the Divisional Railway Manager's report regarding the accident. Issue nos. 1 and 2 were decided together by the Tribunal, holding that the deceased was a bona fide passenger on board the Ganga Gomti Express train. It was further held that the deceased died in consequence of a fall that he had from the train, that occurred due to a sudden jerk, as the deceased was emerging from the toilet. The accident occurred on 17.03.2011 at 09:45 p.m. near the Up Advance Signal of the Lalgopalganj Railway Station. It was held that there was no evidence about the deceased sustaining injuries on account of being run over by a train or a self-inflicted injury or one sustained as a result of criminal negligence. Issue Nos. 1 and 2 were decided in favour of the claimant and against the petitioner. The Tribunal held that the claimant was the deceased's son, drawing that inference from the Voter Id Card. He was held entitled to dependency, in view of provisions of Section 123B of the Railways Act, 1989. The claimant was held entitled to compensation in the sum of Rs. 8 lacs, as the accident occurred prior to 01.01.2017, but, with the award being pronounced after that date, where higher of the two compensations would be that to which the claimant was entitled on the date of award, compared to his entitlement on the date of accident with the accrued interest. To adopt this principle of quantification, the Tribunal relied on the Supreme Court in Union of India v. Rina Devi, (2019) 3 SCC 572.

5. Heard Mr. Mahendra Kumar Mishra, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Dhiraj Chaurasai, learned Counsel appearing for the claimant-respondent.

6. It was strenuously argued before us that there is no evidence on record to indicate that the deceased was a bona fide passenger on board the Ganga Gomti Express on the fateful day and that he died as a result of a railway accident while travelling as such. Mr. Mishra invited the attention of the Court to the fact that the testimony of the claimant that the deceased was travelling on board the train in question with a valid travelling ticket is based on no evidence. He says that the Tribunal has failed to notice the fact that no travelling ticket was recovered/found on the deceased's person during the Panchnama. Also, the deceased's ticket was not produced by the claimant as well. It has been pointed out by Mr. Mishra that the claimant's case was that his father boarded the train in question on a Second Class railway ticket, accompanied by Sanjeev Kumar, the claimant's son. It is then pointed out that though A.W.2 Sanjeev Kumar has said in his testimony that he was travelling with the deceased on board the train in question and that he had the travelling tickets for himself as well as his grandfather, but there is no pleading in the claim petition regarding the presence of Sanjeev Kumar with his grandfather in the train or at the railway station. Also, there is no evidence of Sanjeev Kumar's presence at the Lalgopalganj Railway Station.

7. Learned counsel for the claimant-respondent Mr. Chaursiya, on the other hand, has repelled the above submissions and urged that there is no reason to disbelieve the eye-witness account of A.W.2 Sanjeev Kumar, who is the grandson of the deceased. It is submitted that so far as non-recovery of the deceased's travelling ticket from his body at the time of Panchnama is concerned, the possibility of loss of a small paper ticket is high in the case a person who dies as a result of a fall from train and then being crushed under its wheels. It is pointed out that the said fact was pleaded in Column 7 of the claimant's application, where it is specifically mentioned that the journey ticket from Lucknow to Prayag railway station was lost somewhere at the site of the accident, along with other belongings of the deceased. So far as this part of the submission of learned counsel for the appellant is concerned, it must be remarked that there is no dispute about the fact that the deceased died as a result of injuries sustained in a railway accident near Lalgopalganj Railway Station. The fact whether he was a bona fide passenger on board train or a man wandering on the tracks, who was crushed under its wheels, or still more, an unfortunate man, who cannot be regarded as a bona fide passenger for travelling on board the train in question without a valid travelling ticket, is a matter to be wholesomely assessed. It has been asserted by Sanjeev Kumar that he purchased journey tickets for himself and his grandfather at the Lucknow railway station to secure a passage from Lucknow to Prayag railway station. It has been testified by Sanjeev Kumar in Paragraph 4 that his grandfather placed the journey ticket in the upper pocket of his shirt (kurta) which was lost in the accident. It could not be recovered despite best efforts.

8. This Court has perused the lower court records, and what we find is that about this categorical assertion of Sanjeev Kumar in Paragraph Nos. 3 and 4 of his affidavit, he has not been cross-examined or contradicted in any manner by the appellant. The Tribunal has remarked that the deceased was neither a native of Lalgopalganj, nor was he employed there. Thus, according to the Tribunal, he had no business to be on the railway tracks in Lalgopalganj, except as a passenger on board train. The assertion of the deceased's grandson that he was travelling with his grandfather on a valid ticket and the fact that the deceased died on the railway tracks as a result of a fall from a jerky movement of the train, followed by a crush injury under its wheels, has a wholesome truth to it, which the Tribunal has rightly believed. It is accordingly held that the deceased was a bona fide passenger on board the train in question, when he suffered the fatal accident giving rise to this claim.

9. There is then this contention urged on behalf of the appellant that the story about A.W.2 Sanjeev Kumar, being a co-passenger with his grandfather, is not believable, inasmuch as, soon after the accident, he neither gave information to his parents nor the G.R.P. or the local Police nor reached the site of accident. As such, his testimony is of no worth. It has also been argued that the deceased's son and father of A.W.2, that is to say, the claimant, reached the spot and participated in the Panchnama, but there is no evidence that A.W.2 did anything to establish his presence on the spot along with his grandfather. The affidavit of A.W.2 carries a categorical assertion that after the deceased's fell off the train, Sanjeev Kumar was left shell-shocked. He raised an alarm and pulled the emergency chain to stop the train. The train did not stop; rather it moved on and halted at the next scheduled stop, that is to say, Prayag Railway Station. It is also testified in the affidavit by A.W.2 that he went to the G.R.P. Chowki to report the matter, but the policemen on duty said that the control room had already sent out that information, and that the witness should proceed to Lalgopalganj.

These assertions in the affidavit have not been contradicted by the appellant through any kind of cross-examination or other evidence in rebuttal.

10. The appellant has largely sought to challenge the respondent-claimant's case about the deceased being a victim of a railway accident while travelling on board train as a bona fide passenger on the basis of documents, such as the Station Superintendent's memo dated 17.03.2011, who has said that he had received information from gateman Ram Bahadur that an old man, aged about 70 years, had been crushed under the wheels of the train near the Up Advance signal at the Lalgopalganj Railway Station. Besides the statutory inquiry report of the Divisional Railway Manager, these documents project the accident to be a case of death, with the deceased being run over by the train while moving about the tracks. This Court must remark that the manner in which the accident has been described by A.W.2, the deceased's grandson, inspires confidence and is a plausible version that coalesces with the circumstances. It is not unnatural for an old grandfather to travel along with his grandson. The stand of A.W.2 that he was shocked to see his grandfather fall off the train as a result of a jerk as he was emerging from the toilet is a fact that is, in no way, fantastic or incredible. The further assertion by A.W.2 that he attempted to halt the train by pulling the emergency chain, which did not work, is also something quite possible. These are experiences that are commonplace, where alarm chains installed in railway bogies, particularly general bogies of the Second Class unreserved compartment, are often not in working order. The assertion by A.W.2 that the train did not halt when he pulled the emergency chain, but proceeded to Lalgopalganj, is quite a natural happening. The fact that this information was conveyed to the Police by A.W.2, who told witness that it had already been flashed by the control room and that the witness should proceed to Lalgopalganj, is also logical.

11. The claimant, on the other hand, has asserted in his affidavit that he had received information, at midnight, from sources of the Police, who conveyed it through the claimant's neighbours. This version corroborates the account of A.W.2. The further assertion in the affidavit of A.W.2 that he set out to the place of accident along with 8-10 natives of his village is also a behaviour that is quite logical in the settings of rural India. The grandson apparently proceeded from Prayag Railway Station to Lalgopalganj, after being advised by the Police there, whereas the claimant-son of the deceased proceeded from his native village on information by the Police. These facts, all fit into a chain of connected circumstances, which speak for themselves. Not much reliance can be placed on the report of the Divisional Railway Manager or the reports of Railway Protection Force or other communications between the Railway Authorities, all of which are not based on any dependable evidence as to how the deceased landed on the railway tracks at Lalgopalganj. The Tribunal has rightly held that the deceased had no business at Lalgopalganj to be about the tracks there. The Tribunal has believed evidence about the deceased being a bona fide passenger on board the train in question and suffering a fatal railway accident, while travelling as such. Here, reference may be made to the law about burden of proof vis à vis the victim being a bona fide passenger, laid down in Rina Devi (supra). In Rina Devi the law relating to burden of proof on this count has been laid down by the Supreme Court thus :

29. We thus hold that mere presence of a body on the railway premises will not be conclusive to hold that injured or deceased was a bona fide passenger for which claim for compensation could be maintained. However, mere absence of ticket with such injured or deceased will not negative the claim that he was a bona fide passenger. Initial burden will be on the claimant which can be discharged by filing an affidavit of the relevant facts and burden will then shift on the Railways and the issue can be decided on the facts shown or the attending circumstances. This will have to be dealt with from case to case on the basis of facts found. The legal position in this regard will stand explained accordingly.

(Emphasis by Court)

12. It would, thus, be seen that once it is asserted on affidavit by the claimant that the deceased was travelling on a valid ticket, the burden of proof would shift on the Railways and the issue has to be decided on the basis of attending circumstances. There is an eye-witness account about the accident coming from the grandson of the deceased. There is no unnatural inertia or lack of action attributable to A.W.2, on the basis of which, his presence at the scene of accident or his presence along with his grandfather on the fateful journey may be doubted. The findings of the Tribunal, therefore, on issues nos. 1 and 2, receive our affirmation.

13. The other point on which the judgment of the Tribunal has been assailed is about the rate of interest that has been awarded. It is 9% per annum from the date of judgment. It is argued again on the strength of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Rina Devi that compensation cannot carry interest over and above what is payable on the date of award, that is to say, Rs. 8 lacs. In this connection, reference may be made to paragraph 19 of the report in Rina Devi, where it is held :

19. Accordingly, we conclude that compensation will be payable as applicable on the date of the accident with interest as may be considered reasonable from time to time on the same pattern as in accident claim cases. If the amount so calculated is less than the amount prescribed as on the date of the award of the Tribunal, the claimant will be entitled to higher of the two amounts. This order will not affect the awards which have already become final and where limitation for challenging such awards has expired, this order will not by itself be a ground for condonation of delay. Seeming conflict in Rathi Menon [Rathi Menon v. Union of India, (2001) 3 SCC 714, para 30 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1311] and Kalandi Charan Sahoo [Kalandi Charan Sahoo v. South-East Central Railways, (2019) 12 SCC 387 : 2017 SCC OnLine SC 1638] stands explained accordingly. The four-Judge Bench judgment in Pratap Narain Singh Deo [Pratap Narain Singh Deo v. Srinivas Sabata, (1976) 1 SCC 289 : 1976 SCC (L&S) 52] holds the field on the subject and squarely applies to the present situation. Compensation as applicable on the date of the accident has to be given with reasonable interest and to give effect to the mandate of beneficial legislation, if compensation as provided on the date of award of the Tribunal is higher than unrevised amount with interest, the higher of the two amounts has to be given.

14. It is submitted that higher of the two amounts being the revised compensation payable on the date of award, which is one made after 01.01.2017, whereas the accident occurred prior to it, no further interest is payable. It is trite that the Tribunal has awarded the higher of the two amounts of compensation, one worked according to the rate applicable on the date of accident together with the accrued interest, and the other according to the rate on the date of award, rightly choosing the higher amount of compensation according to the principles in Rina Devi. The Tribunal, however, has directed payment of interest at the rate of 9% per annum on the compensation awarded from the date of judgment until realization, without providing for a period of time after expiry whereof and persisting default by the Railways, interest would be payable over and above the sum of Rs. 8 lacs. However, this does not mean that the appellant can pay the compensation awarded whenever they like, and yet not be liable to pay any interest. The question whether over and above the sum of Rs.8 lacs interest, if any, would be payable and reckoned from what date, fell for consideration of a Division Bench of this Court in Union of India through General Manager, Northern Railway v. Smt. Gayatri Devi, First Appeal From Order No. 166 of 2018, decided on 14.08.2018. In Gayatri Devi (supra), it was held:

In Rina Devi's case [supra] while dealing with grant of interest on compensation amount (issue no.4), the Apex Court held that interest can be awarded from the date of accident itself when the liability of the Railway arises upto the date of payment without any difference in the stages. The relevant paragraph reads as under:-

"As already observed, though this Court in Thazhathe Purayil Sarabi (supra) held that rate of interest has to be at the rate of 6% from the date of application till the date of the award and 9% thereafter and 9% rate of interest was awarded from the date of application in Mohamadi (supra), rate of interest has to be reasonable rate at par with accident claim cases. We are of the view that in absence of any specific statutory provision, interest can be awarded from the date of accident itself when the liability of the Railways arises upto the date of payment, without any difference in the stages. Legal position in this regard is at par with the cases of accident claims under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. Conflicting views stand resolved in this manner."

As far as the case at hand is concerned, in view of the proposition of law as propounded in Rina Devi's [supra] it is necessary to calculate the total amount i.e. amount of compensation plus interest to ascertain whether the amount so calculated is less than the amount prescribed as on the date of the award. In the event the amount of compensation with interest was less than the amount prescribed on the date of award, then the amount which is higher is to be paid to the claimants.

For the reasons aforesaid, we are of the view that the ends of justice will be secured by awarding Rs. Eight lac in all as compensation to the claimants. It may be added that provisions for compensating monetarily either under the Railways Act or Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial piece of legislation and the purpose for award of interest is to put pressure on the relevant person not to delay in making the payment. In other words, when any amount is due to a creditor and the same is not paid by the debtor over a certain period, the creditor is deprived of the use of the said amount for the period during which the amount remains unpaid for which he is entitled to be compensated by way of payment of interest. Therefore, in the event the appellants fails to pay the aforesaid amount of Rs. Eight lacs within a period of 90 days, then interest @ 9% shall be payable till the date of actual payment.

(Emphasis by Court)

15. Going by the principle laid down in Gayatri Devi, the direction to pay interest on the compensation awarded ought to be modified by ordering interest to be payable at the rate of 9% per annum after expiry of a period of ninety days from the date of judgment till realization.

16. The appeal partly succeeds and stands allowed in part. The impugned award is modified to the extent that on the sum of compensation ordered to be paid by the Tribunal, interest shall be payable at the rate of 9% per annum after expiry of a period of ninety days from the date of judgment passed by the Tribunal till realization, if within the aforesaid period of time, the awarded compensation is not paid to the claimant or deposited with the Tribunal.

17. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Claim petition - comprehensive policy / package policy - Liability of insurer - comprehensive/package policy distinct from Act policy or third party policy - Occupant in car and pillion rider of scooter/motor cycle are covered under comprehensive policy - comprehensive policy / package policy of two wheeler covers the risk of the pillion rider as much as it does of the rider/ insured - Insurer can hardly wriggle out of their liability to indemnify & satisfy the award (Para 22, 23)

B. Cases Relied on :

1. National Insurance Company Vs Balakrishnan & anr., (2013) (1) SCC 731

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is an Appeal by the Insurer from an award of the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Sitapur, under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. The claim petition, giving rise to this Appeal, being Motor Accident Claim Petition no.325 of 1995 was instituted on 25.12.1997 before the District Judge/ Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Sitapur by Mohd. Iliyas, respondent no.1 to this Appeal. Pankaj Shukla, the second respondent here, and the New India Assurance Co. Limited, were arrayed as the two opposite parties to the claim petition. The New India Assurance Co. Limited is the appellant here.

2. As facts would show in greater detail, Pankaj Shukla, respondent no.2 here, was operating the motor scooter, with whom respondent no.1, Mohd. Iliyas, the claimant was a pillion rider, when the vehicle met with the accident, giving rise to this claim. The claimant-respondent no.1 sustained serious injuries in the accident and claimed compensation under various heads, which has been granted by the Tribunal vide the award impugned. Since the appellant was the Insurer, who had insured the two wheeler that the two respondents were riding, they have been ordered to indemnify and satisfy the award. That is what has led the Insurance Company to prefer the present Appeal.

3. Mohd. Iliyas, the claimant-respondent no.1, shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the claimant', whereas Pankaj Shukla, the second respondent, who was operating the scooter, that met with the accident, shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the rider'. The appellant, New India Assurance Co. Limited, shall hereinafter be called 'the Insurer'.

4. Shorn of unnecessary details, on May the 4th, 1997 the claimant was riding pillion with the rider on the latter's scooter, bearing registration no. UP 34A 5623. Both these men are employees of the District Court, Sitapur. At about 9:45 a.m. as the scooter, carrying the two, approached the Bus Stand at Sitapur, the scooter swerved, to prevent a collision with a rickshaw that suddenly appeared from the left hand side. In consequence, the scooter hit a truck on its backside, causing both the rider and the claimant to be thrown to the ground. The scooter, of course, had tripped. In consequence, the claimant sustained serious injuries, that are indicated to be four fractures in the pelvis and rupture of the urethra. He had a long and repeat stay in hospitals, in a non-ambulatory condition for three months and suffered extreme physical pain. He had to attend the call of nature while being on his bed. The claimant had to undergo prolonged treatment and multiple surgical procedures, involving substantial expenditure in the treatment. The accident, according to the medical certification, has left the claimant permanently impotent. The claimant instituted the claim petition, as already detailed hereinbefore, asking the rider and the Insurer to pay him compensation in the sum of Rs.5,75,150/-. These expenses have been claimed under thirteen different heads, set out in paragraph no.22 of the claim petition. There is a detailed statement of the medical management, hospitalization, non-ambulatory period when the claimant was bed ridden and the repeat surgery that the claimant had to undergo, besides a future darkened by impotency and a prolonged medical supervision; may be life long.

5. The rider put in a written statement, saying that the accident did not take place due to his negligence. It happened because of the sudden appearance of the rickshaw on the wrong side, and a collision with it had to be prevented. It was pleaded that he held a valid driving licence and his vehicle was duly insured with the Insurer. The compensation, if any payable, had to be borne by the Insurer.

6. The Insurer put in their written statement, traversing the claim. It was pleaded that the claim was not verifiable, inasmuch as there was no site-plan. No cause of action had arisen against the Insurer. The rider had not intimated the Insurer of the accident. The claim petition was based on false and concocted facts in order to wrench compensation from the Insurer. It was also said that they would have been liable, if the vehicle was insured and that the policy had not been disclosed. It was also said that if the rider did not have a valid driving licence, they would not be liable. The further case was that the claimant had to establish his case by documentary evidence. An objection was also taken that the truck owner and the driver were not impleaded, and, therefore, the claim was bad for non-joinder of necessary parties. It was also the Insurer's case that the scooter was not being operated according to the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy.

7. On the pleadings of parties, the following issues were framed by the Tribunal (translated into English from Hindi):

"(1) Whether on 04.05.1997 at 9:45 a.m. near the Bus Stand at Sitapur, the scooter bearing Registration No. UP 34A 5623 met with an accident involving a truck and the claimant received injuries in the accident?

(2) Whether the accident happened because of both the drivers driving the vehicles at high speed and negligently? If yes, its effect?

(3) Whether on account of non-joinder of the truck owner, driver and the truck insurer, the claim is bad for non-joinder?

(4) Whether the two vehicles were insured and operated according to the terms of the insurance policy?

(5) Whether the drivers of the two vehicles had valid and effective driving licences at the time of the accident? If yes, its effect?

(6) To what amount of compensation is the claimant entitled?"

8. The claimant examined himself in support of his claim as PW-1, besides another Raja Bux Sngh as PW-2. On behalf of the opposite parties to the claim petition, the rider examined himself as OPW-1. The claimant filed voluminous documentary evidence, which includes X-ray reports, treatment cards of various doctors and specialist doctors, discharge slips from hospitals, nursing home discharge slips, case-sheets from hospitals, nursing home bills and cash memos of the medicines purchased, ambulance bills and receipts, bills and payment receipts relating to surgeries undergone at the Blue Cross Hospital, Lucknow, the information given to the Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), with whom the claimant was working as a Munsarim, the order of the District Judge, sanctioning him an advance from the GPF, the claimant's salary certificate and report of the Medical Board, recommending special medical leave for the claimant. There is a very detailed description of all this documentary evidence set out in the impugned award, which need not be further listed, except where the relevant document is required to be referred to. The Insurance Company, as part of their documentary evidence, filed their surveyor's report, the rider's driving licence, the insurance cover note/ policy. The rider, for his part, filed his driving licence, the scooter's registration certificate and the insurance policy/ cover note.

9. On issues nos.1 and 2, the Tribunal, after an extensive review of evidence and the law applicable, held that the accident took place on the date, time and place alleged, involving the scooter and the truck. Both the drivers were rash and negligent, but the rider of the scooter was largely guilty of negligent driving. The Tribunal found contributory negligence on the part of the driver of the truck and the rider of the scooter, apportioning the liability between them as 20% and 80% respectively. The truck driver, its owner or insurer could not be found, and, therefore, issue no.3 was also answered in favour of the claimant by holding that to the extent of contributory negligence found for the driver of the truck, the claimant would be deprived of the compensation that he could recover from the owner, the driver or the insurer of the truck.

10. Issue no.4 was decided in the manner that it was held that the truck having escaped traceless with no identity about its owner, driver or insurer known, it would be assumed that it was insured.

11. The fifth issue was decided in the manner that the rider had filed his driving licence, which was found to be valid on the date of the accident and the Insurer could not dispel the validity of the licence. About the truck, it was said that there was no licence lodged on behalf of the truck driver or the owner, and, therefore, it would be assumed that he had no valid driving licence at the time of the accident.

12. On the sixth issue, the Tribunal did a minute examination of the compensation claimed under various heads, with reference to the documentary evidence and held, under different heads, that the claimant was entitled to a total compensation of Rs.1,98,300/-. Of this amount, 80% would be payable to the claimant because he would lose 20% that was the apportioned share of the negligent truck driver, who could not be located or brought before the Tribunal. Thus, the liability of the Insurer would be 80% of Rs.1,98,300/- payable with interest at the rate of 12% per annum reckoned from the date of presentation of the claim.

13. Heard Mr. Asit Srivastava, learned Counsel for the appellant in support of this Appeal. No on appears on behalf of the respondents.

14. It must be remarked that the claimant has not raised any issue about the finding on the point of contributory negligence and apportionment of liability between the two vehicles, to wit, the scooter and the fugitive truck. In substance, therefore, whatever be the law about the right of the claimant to recover compensation, where one of the vehicles cannot be identified, and there is contributory negligence held with apportionment, the case here is limited to judging the validity of the award made by the Tribunal, for whatever it is.

15. So far as the factum of accident, its date, time and place is concerned, it has been sought to be assailed on the basis of the claimant's failure to lodge an information with the Police or to summon the GD Entry from Police Station, Kotwali, Sitapur about the accident. It has been emphasized that the claimant's father was a Munsarim in the Civil Court, and so is the claimant. They are men well acquainted with legal procedures and ought to have lodged a First Information Report. The suggestion is that the claimant received the injuries in question in some other motor accident or under different circumstances, not involving the insured vehicle. The claimant has entered the witness-box and proved his case. The rider, who was examined as OPW-1, has also proved the factum of accident. The mere absence of an FIR would not shroud an accident of this magnitude under any kind of doubt. After the claimant and the rider, both testified to the factum of accident, its time, place and the manner of occurrence, burden lay upon the Insurer to rebut by cogent evidence that the accident never happened in the manner described.

16. The Insurer has not led any evidence to dispel the factum of accident or its time, place and manner of occurrence. In the absence of any evidence produced by the Insurer, the findings of the Tribunal about the accident have to be upheld. It is well-nigh settled that mere non-registration of an FIR concerning the accident, would not be decisive about the accident ever happening. It was a non-fatal accident, where the claimant was severely injured and the rider was rash and negligent. Both are employees of the Civil Court, Sitapur. If they have chosen not to lodge an FIR about the accident, where the rider dashed against the truck from the backside, there is nothing so unnatural about their failure that may detract from the truth of the accident or its time, place and manner of occurrence.

17. There is some evidence that information was given to the police station by the claimant's brother, who serves in a foreign country, on account of which, a copy of that information could not be produced. The fact that the Police did not register that information is also not of much consequence, inasmuch as invariably informations about accidents, where one party is not out to prosecute the other, are often not registered as crimes. The Tribunal, in the opinion of this Court, has rightly believed the accident to have happened in the manner and on the date, time and place as alleged by the claimant; and not disputed by the rider. The finding about the rider being negligent and rash while operating his scooter is also far from exceptionable. Learned Counsel for the appellant has not raised much issue about the said finding, though he says that the truck driver ought to have been held liable for more contribution to the negligence, because he was operating the larger vehicle. We do not think so. The manner, in which the accident took place, is not a very complex episode. It appears that some rickshaw suddenly appeared on the scene when the scooter operated by the rider and pillion ridden by the claimant was moving towards the Sitapur Bus Stand. In order to save the rickshaw from being hit by the scooter, the rider swerved to one side. That sent the vehicle on the path of accident, leading it to dash on to the rear side of the unknown truck.

18. From these facts, the Tribunal has inferred that the rider was driving rashly and negligently. This finding appears to be unexceptionable. The reason is that careful driving envisages the foresight of another's foolishness or incompetence on the road. A careful driver has to operate his vehicle in the manner that he can avert an accident, notwithstanding another's mistake or negligence. This is, particularly, true of the road conditions in small towns, where rule of the road and other niceties of traffic management do not come to the aid of a disciplined driver or check the recalcitrant one. The road conditions in small towns, unregulated by traffic signals, are a multi-dimensional movement of vehicles or traffic, with a mix of all kinds of mobile entities on the same pathway. It could include pedestrians, very slow moving vehicles and the presence of animals as well. A driver who chooses to operate his vehicle in this kind of traffic has to condition his driving instincts, and, particularly, regulate his speed to a degree where an unexpected movement by another may be negotiated to avert an accident.

19. What would be careful driving in the regulated conditions of a metropolis may not be so in a small mofassil town. The rider in this case, assessing from what appears in evidence, seems to have committed the mistake of moving at a speed that prevented him from bringing his vehicle to a halt or negotiate to safety, when the rickshaw suddenly appeared on the wrong side. The speed of the scooter was certainly so much, that the sudden appearance of the rickshaw caused the driver to swerve and dash his two-wheeler on the rear side of the truck. This is certainly a case, where the rider was largely negligent and responsible for the accident. There is no case that the accident occurred because the truck had suddenly applied brakes, bringing the bigger vehicle to a halt. The accident was perpetuated by the unforeseen intrusion of the rickshaw. Therefore, the learned Counsel for the Insurer, Mr. Srivastava is not right in his submission that the bigger vehicle ought to have been apportioned with more liability towards contributory negligence.

20. So far as the quantum of compensation is concerned, this Court has gone through the documents relating to the treatment that the claimant received. No doubt, he has suffered debilitating fracture to his pelvic bone and rupture of the urethra. He has undergone multiple surgical operations in various hospitals at Lucknow. He has turned impotent in consequence of the accident, of which there is a certificate on record from Dr. Rajeshwar Krishnan of Blue Cross Hospital, Faizabad Road, Maha Nagar, Lucknow, paper no. 17ग/30. There is no reason to disbelieve the said certificate. Quite apart, there are consistent records about the repeat surgical procedures undergone by the claimant at the Blue Cross Hospital, Lucknow and the treatment that he had received at Neera Nursing Home, Mahanagar Extension, Lucknow. The case-sheets relating to that treatment and the medicines administered, while an indoor, are there. Of foremost importance is Paper No. 60ग, which is a copy of the report of the Divisional Medical Board, Lucknow, comprising three Senior Government Doctors. The report certifies that the claimant was examined and found to be a case of urethral dispersion with fracture in the pelvis. The aforesaid Medical Board, by their report dated 27.08.1997 (paper no.60ग) recommended sanction of special medical leave to the claimant. There is also on record paper no.16ग1/59 and 16ग/60, which are orders dated 05.07.1997 and 17.07.1997 passed by the District Judge of Sitapur, sanctioning Earned Leave and Medical Leave to the claimant. By the order dated 05.07.1997, the learned District Judge sanctioned Earned Leave from 01.07.1997 to 31.07.1997 and by the order dated 17.09.1997, medical leave on full average pay was sanctioned, from 01.08.1997 to 31.10.1997. There are tomes of medical bills and receipts, apart from medical reports, that go to show the extensive nature of injuries and the consequent pain and suffering the claimant has evidently suffered. The Insurer has not brought on record any evidence to dispel the truth of these well connected and sequenced documents, evidencing the medical procedures and treatment undergone by the claimant. The Insurer cannot, therefore, dispute the validity of the various medical records by insisting that these records have not been proved by examining the various doctors, who have been involved in treating the claimant across a protracted period of time.

21. The Tribunal, in our opinion, has awarded him compensation, marshalled into different heads, on a modest scale. It is by no means extravagant, as the learned Counsel for the Insurer urges.

22. There is one point that was, particularly, argued with much emphasis by Mr. Asit Srivastava, learned Counsel for the Insurer. He submitted that the Insurance Policy did not cover the risk of the pillion rider. Evidently, this point was not urged before the Tribunal and no issue was framed about it. Nevertheless, this Court has looked into the xerox copy of the Insurance Policy, that is on record as Paper No. 18ग/28. The Insurance Policy covers the risk of any person, including the insurer. The policy is clearly a comprehensive policy or what is called, in current times, as package policy. A policy of this kind, in our opinion, covers the risk of the pillion rider as much as it does of the rider/ insured. It was not disputed before this Court that the policy involved in this case is a comprehensive policy/ package policy. It is not a mere Act policy or a third party policy. The position about the occupants in a car or a pillion rider on a two wheeler, where the policy is a comprehensive/ package policy, is well settled in view of the decision of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company v. Balakrishnan & another, (2013) (1) SCC 731. In National Insurance Company v. Balakrishnan & another, it has been held:

"24. It is extremely important to note here that till 31-12-2006 the Tariff Advisory Committee and, thereafter, from 1-1-2007 IRDA functioned as the statutory regulatory authorities and they are entitled to fix the tariff as well as the terms and conditions of the policies issued by all insurance companies. The High Court had issued notice to the Tariff Advisory Committee and IRDA to explain the factual position as regards the liability of the insurance companies in respect of an occupant in a private car under the "comprehensive/package policy". Before the High Court, the competent authority of IRDA had stated that on 2-6-1986, the Tariff Advisory Committee had issued instructions to all the insurance companies to cover the pillion rider of a scooter/motorcycle under the "comprehensive policy" and the said position continues to be in vogue till date. It had also admitted that the "comprehensive policy" is presently called a "package policy". It is the admitted position, as the decision would show, the earlier Circulars dated 18-3-1978 and 2-6-1986 continue to be valid and effective and all insurance companies are bound to pay the compensation in respect of the liability towards an occupant in a car under the "comprehensive/ package policy" irrespective of the terms and conditions contained in the policy. The competent authority of IRDA was also examined before the High Court who stated that the Circulars dated 18-3-1978 and 2-6-1986 of the Tariff Advisory Committee were incorporated in the Indian Motor Tariff effective from 1-7-2002 and they continue to be operative and binding on the insurance companies. Because of the aforesaid factual position, the Circulars dated 16-11-2009 and 3-12-2009, that have been reproduced hereinabove, were issued.

25. It is also worthy to note that the High Court, after referring to individual circulars issued by various insurance companies, eventually stated [2011 ACJ 1415 (Del)] thus: (Yashpal Luthra case [2011 ACJ 1415 (Del)] , ACJ p. 1424, para 27)

"27. In view of the aforesaid, it is clear that the comprehensive/ package policy of a two-wheeler covers a pillion rider and comprehensive/package policy of a private car covers the occupants and where the vehicle is covered under a comprehensive/package policy, there is no need for the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal to go into the question whether the insurance company is liable to compensate for the death or injury of a pillion rider on a two-wheeler or the occupants in a private car. In fact, in view of the TAC's directives and those of the IRDA, such a plea was not permissible and ought not to have been raised as, for instance, it was done in the present case."

26. In view of the aforesaid factual position, there is no scintilla of doubt that a "comprehensive/package policy" would cover the liability of the insurer for payment of compensation for the occupant in a car. There is no cavil that an "Act policy" stands on a different footing from a "comprehensive/package policy". As the circulars have made the position very clear and IRDA, which is presently the statutory authority, has commanded the insurance companies stating that a "comprehensive/package policy" covers the liability, there cannot be any dispute in that regard. We may hasten to clarify that the earlier pronouncements were rendered in respect of the "Act policy" which admittedly cannot cover a third-party risk of an occupant in a car. But, if the policy is a "comprehensive/package policy", the liability would be covered. These aspects were not noticed in Bhagyalakshmi [(2009) 7 SCC 148 : (2009) 3 SCC (Civ) 87 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 321] and, therefore, the matter was referred to a larger Bench. We are disposed to think that there is no necessity to refer the present matter to a larger Bench as IRDA, which is presently the statutory authority, has clarified the position by issuing circulars which have been reproduced in the judgment by the Delhi High Court and we have also reproduced the same."

23. In this view of the matter, the Insurer can hardly wriggle out of their liability to satisfy the award.

24. In the result, the appeal fails and is dismissed with costs. The interim order dated 19.09.2001 is hereby vacated.

25. It is further directed that in case accounts of the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal have been assigned to the newly established Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, the learned District Judge, Sitapur and the learned Presiding Officer, Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Sitapur shall together take necessary steps for disbursement of compensation to the claimant.

26. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Additional District Judge, Sitapur through the learned District Judge, Sitapur and to the Presiding Officer, Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Sitapur by the Senior Registrar.

4. National Insurance Company Limited Vs Pranay Sethi & ors., 2017 5 Supreme(SC) 1050

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Shri D.N. Shukla, learned counsel for appellant as well as Ms. Manjima Singh, Advocate holding brief of Ms. Archana Singh, learned counsel for Insurance Company and perused the record.

2. This appeal u/s 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act has been filed by the claimant/appellant challenging the judgment and award dated 08.11.2005 passed by the Additional District Judge/M.A.C.T., Court No. 6, Aligarh by which a sum of Rs. 85,000/- along with 6% interest has been awarded as compensation on account of death of deceased.

3. Facts in brief are that an application under Section 166 Motor Vehicles Act was filed by the claimant/appellant seeking compensation to the tune of Rs. 8,00,000/- with 12 % interest alleging that on 15.09.2000, deceased Vivek Kumar Singh son of appellant was traveling by bus bearing no. UP14B2331 from Delhi, as it arrived in the limit of police station Gabhana, a truck bearing no. H.N.V.9465 coming from opposite direction (Aligarh) driven rashly and negligently by its driver collided with the bus in which deceased Vivek Kumar Singh sustained injuries and died. F.I.R. in this regard was lodged by one Prem Pal r/o Anoop Sahar as Crime No. 218 of 2000 under Sections 279, 338, 304-A and 427 IPC. Deceased was aged about 21 years and earned Rs. 3500/- by working in Courier Company. Proceedings were contested by truck owner & driver as well as Insurance Company by filing written statement and denying the allegations made by the claimant/appellant.

4. Learned Tribunal on the basis of pleadings and after appreciating the evidence brought on record by the parties, both oral and documentary held that accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the drivers of both the offending vehicles and determined the liability 50-50%. Learned Tribunal recorded the finding on the basis of oral testimony of eye witness P.W. 2 Lakkhi who proved the manner and mode of accident. It was stated by him that he is Chaukidar in the police station concerned and his village is located near place of accident. Accident took place in his presence on 15.09.2000 at about 12-1 o'clock in the night. A bus bearing no. UP14B2331 was coming from the side of Delhi and truck coming from the side of Aligarh collided. The driver of truck was driving it rashly and negligently in which Vivek Kumar Singh s/o Karan Singh aged about 21-22 years died. He informed to the police station. O.P.W.1 Vijaypal Singh, conductor of the bus bearing no. UP14B2331 stated that on 15.09.2000, he was plying the bus from Khurja to Kanpur. At about 2 o'clock in the night near Gabhana bridge, a truck bearing no. H.N.V.9465 driven by its driver rashly and negligently came from the side of Aligarh and collided with the bus causing damages to it and passengers also got injuries. O.P.W. 2 Brijpal, the driver of the bus bearing no. UP14B2331 has also made similar statement. The testimony of P.W. 2, O.P.W.1 & O.P.W.2 was unshakable in cross-examination. After investigation of the case, charge sheet was submitted by the police. This fact was also taken into account by learned Tribunal.

5. On the question of quantum, learned Tribunal found that appellant failed to lead any evidence about income of deceased as Rs. 3500/- per month which he earned from work in Bartiks Courier, so presumed his notional income as Rs. 15,000/-p.a, deducted 1/3 towards personal expenses and after applying multiplier of 08 at the age of claimant (father) determined the compensation to the tune of Rs. 80,000/- (eighty thousand) and further awarded a sum of Rs. 5000/- funeral expenses. In this manner, a total sum of Rs. 85,000/- was determined as compensation payable to the claimant/appellant.

6. Learned counsel for appellant submits that the Tribunal has wrongly assessed the notional income of the deceased as Rs. 15,000/- p.a. and also applied the multiplier on the basis of the age of parents. No amount has been assessed for future prospect, loss of estate, love & affection. Very less amount has been assessed for funeral expenses. In this way award is very meagre. Learned counsel for respondent opposed the above arguments.

7. Considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the appellant as well as learned counsel for Insurance Company and perused the record.

8. The submission of learned counsel for appellant is that notional income of Rs. 15000/- p.a. of deceased as presumed by the tribunal is very meagre. In this regard, it is noteworthy that deceased was unskilled person whose income was not proved. In the case of Mohd. Unus; Vs. Rais; Najnien Begum and others2015(2)TAC526, this court enhanced the notional income of Rs.15000/- to Rs.36000/- p.a.

Likewise, in the case of State of Haryana and another Vs. Jasbir Kaur and others (2003)7 SCC 484. Hon'ble the Apex Court has fixed the notional income to be Rs. 3000/- per month where death of deceased aged about 25 years took place in the year 1999. In the present case, incident took place in the year 2000, therefore, as per observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this court in the aforesaid cases, the notional income of deceased be assumed as Rs. 100/- per day i.e. Rs. 3000/- per month which amounts to Rs. 36,000/- p.a.

9. In my considered opinion, the Tribunal cannot be said to be right in presuming the notional income of the deceased Rs. 15000/- p.a. on the place of Rs.36000/- .

10. In the case of Sarla Verma and others Vs. Delhi Tranport Corporation and another, (2009)6SCC 121, it was held that multiplier to be used should be as provided in column 4 of the judgment. Multiplier prescribed for the age group of 21-25 years is 18. It may be relevant to quote para 42 of the said judgment which reads as under:

"We therefore hold that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in column (4) of the Table above (prepared by applying Susamma Thomas, Trilok Chandra and Charlie), which starts with an operative multiplier of 18 (for the age groups of 15 to 20 and 21 to 25 years), reduced by one unit for every five years, that is M-17 for 26 to 30 years, M-16 for 31 to 35 years, M-15 for 36 to 40 years, M-14 for 41 to 45 years, and M-13 for 46 to 50 years, then reduced by two units for every five years, that is, M-11 for 51 to 55 years, M-9 for 56 to 60 years, M-7 for 61 to 65 years and M-5 for 66 to 70 years."

11. The scheme of multiplier has been again affirmed by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and others, 2017 Supreme(SC) 1050.

12. In the view of the dictum of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Sarla Verma (Supra) and Pranay Sethi (Supra), the multiplier of 18 should be applied at the age of 21-25 because the age of deceased was between 21-25 years at the time of accident as per record. In this regard the multiplier applied by the learned tribunal seems to be incorrect.

13. So far as the amount to be deducted towards personal expenses in the case of bachelor is concerned, it has been held by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra) that for determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the Tribunals and the Courts shall be guided by Paragraphs no. 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma (supra) case. Para 31 deals with the deduction in the case of bachelor. Para 30 to 32 are quoted below:

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra4, the general practice is to apply standardised deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this (2003) 3 SLR (R) 601 Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six.

31. Where the deceased was a bachelor and the claimants are the parents, the deduction follows a different principle. In regard to bachelors, normally, 50% is deducted as personal and living expenses, because it is assumed that a bachelor would tend to spend more on himself. Even otherwise, there is also the possibility of his getting married in a short time, in which event the contribution to the parent(s) and siblings is likely to be cut drastically. Further, subject to evidence to the contrary, the father is likely to have his own income and will not be considered as a dependant and the mother alone will be considered as a dependant. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, brothers and sisters will not be considered as dependants, because they will either be independent and earning, or married, or be dependent on the father.

32. Thus even if the deceased is survived by parents and siblings, only the mother would be considered to be a dependant, and 50% would be treated as the personal and living expenses of the bachelor and 50% as the contribution to the family. However, where the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, as in a case where he has a widowed mother and large number of younger non- earning sisters or brothers, his personal and living expenses may be restricted to one-third and contribution to the family will be taken as two-third."

14. In view of the above, deduction in the head of personal expenses of the deceased who was bachelor at the time of accident are to be made to the extent of 50 % on the place 1/3 of the amount of the income.

15. Further submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that no compensation has been determined in the head of future prospects. Hon'ble the Apex Court has held in the case of National Insurance Company Vs. Pranay Sethi (Supra) that while determining the income, an addition of 40 % of the established income should be awarded where the deceased being self employed or on the fixed salary was below the age of 40 years and an addition of 25 % where the deceased was between the age of 40-50 years and 10 % where the deceased was between the age of 50-60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

16. Learned tribunal has not determined any amount of compensation in the head of future prospects as provided by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the aforesaid case. In this regard, it has committed the manifest error of law in not determining any amount in future prospects of the deceased.

17. In view of the above the age of the deceased being between 21-25 years at the time of accident, the additional amount of 40 % be added to the income as future prospect.

18. As the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants in support of amount for conventional head is concerned, Hon'ble the Apex Court has held in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) that reasonable figure for conventional head namely loss of estate, consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15000/-, 40000/- and 15000/- respectively. The aforesaid amount should be enhanced @ 10 % in every three years.

19. In this way , learned tribunal is not right on the point of making determination of amount for loss of estate and funeral expenses. Since, deceased was unmarried, therefore, no amount in the head of loss of consortium can be given.

20. In view of the above facts and discussions, the compensation to be paid to the claimant/appellant has to be redetermined as under:

S.No.	Heads	Calculation
i	Income	Rs. 3000/- per month

ii	40 % of (i) above to be added as future prospects	(Rs. 3000 + 1200) = Rs. 4200/- per month
iii	50 % of (ii) deducted as personal expenses of deceased	(Rs. 2100/-)
iv	Compensation after multiplier of 18	(2100 x 12 x 18) = 4,53,600/-
v	Loss of Estate	Rs. 15,000/-
vi	Funeral Expenses	Rs. 15000/-
	Total compensation awarded	Rs. 4,83,600/-

21. The claimants/appellants shall also be entitled to 7% simple interest as awarded by tribunal on the amount from the date of filing of application till the date of actual payment.

22. Accordingly, the appeal filed by the claimant/appellant is Partly Allowed and award stands modified to the extent directed above and the claimant/appellant shall be entitled for payment of Rs. 483,600/- (four lacs eighty three thousand six hundred) as determined above from the opposite parties no 1 & 2 in the same proportion as directed by the learned tribunal.

23. No order as to costs.

Cases Relied on :

1. National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs Sinitha Vs & ors., (2012) 2 SCC 356

2. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs Sunil Kumar & anr., (2019) 12 SCC 398

3. Shivaji & anr. Vs Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & ors., AIR 2018 SC 3705.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This case was directed to be listed in the additional cause list vide order dated 02.12.2021, but it has appeared in the daily cause list. Nevertheless, it is on the day's list and is, accordingly, taken up.

2. Heard Mr. T.J.S. Makker, learned counsel for the appellant and Mr. Anshul Baranwal appearing on behalf of the respondents.

3. The appellant was a driver of a truck bearing Registration No. UP 77 A 7454. He was employed to operate the said vehicle by one Mangali Prasad Gupta, who was the owner of the truck. On 15.05.2013, he was plying the vehicle between Sitapur and Kanpur. When the truck was somewhere about the Police Station-Hasanganj in District-Unnao, a wild animal suddenly jumped onto the road. The driver endeavoured to save the animal, which led him to collide with another truck. The accident led the driver to suffer serious injuries. He sustained fractures to both his lower limbs and presumably to his spine (described in vernacular as 'kamar'). He was rushed to the Medical College at Lucknow. The driver remained admitted to the hospital from 29.05.2013 to 05.06.2013. By the time, he preferred this claim, he was still undergoing treatment. It was pleaded that as a result of the accident, he was completely handicapped. One of his legs was amputated above the knee and now, he is not fit to do any work in consequence of the injuries that he sustained. He suffered mentally, physically and economically, besides the heavy medical expenditure that the treatment entailed. It is on the foot of the aforesaid facts that the petitioner instituting Claim Petition No. 334 of 2013 under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short 'the Act').

4. Shorn of unnecessary detail, it must be recorded that the owner of the truck, who was impleaded as opposite party no. 1 to the claim petition, denied the accident as also his liability. It is further pleaded that the vehicle was insured with the New India Insurance Co. Ltd., who were impleaded as opposite party no. 2 to the claim petition.

5. The Insurance Company, on their part, denied all the assertions in the claim petition. It was further asserted that the claim was, in any case, exaggerated and brought on facts that were concocted. The registration certificate, permit, fitness of the vehicle etc. were questioned with the assertion that if all those documents were not in order, the insurance company would not be liable, in any case. The validity of the driver's licence was also put in issue.

6. The Tribunal, after framing as many as seven issues and answering each, on the basis of the evidence on record, found for the driver and against the owner as well as the Insurance Company. By the impugned judgment and award, the claim was decreed for a sum of Rs. 6,23,292/- with 7% simple interest, payable annually from the date of presentation of the petition, till realization.

7. Aggrieved, the present appeal has been preferred by the Insurance Company.

8. The only ground urged in support of the appeal by Mr. T.J.S. Makker is that the claimant being the Driver of the truck that met with the accident was a tortfeasor and could not capitalize on his own fault or negligence by preferring a claim petition under Section 163-A of the Act. He places reliance on the decision of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Sinitha vs. Others, (2012) 2 SCC 356, where it has been held:

"27. Thus, in our view, it is open to a concerned party (owner or insurer) to defeat a claim raised under Section 163-A of the Act, by pleading and establishing anyone of the three "faults", namely, "wrongful act", "neglect" or "default". But for the above reason, we find no plausible logic in the wisdom of the legislature, for providing an additional negative bar precluding the defence from defeating a claim for compensation in Section 140 of the Act, and in avoiding to include a similar negative bar in Section 163-A of the Act. The object for incorporating sub-section (2) in Section 163-A of the Act is, that the burden of pleading and establishing proof of "wrongful act", "neglect" or "default" would not rest on the shoulders of the claimant. The absence of a provision similar to sub-section (4) of Section 140 of the Act from Section 163-A of the Act, is for shifting the onus of proof on the grounds of "wrongful act", "neglect" or "default" onto the shoulders of the defence (owner or the insurance company). A claim which can be defeated on the basis of any of the aforesaid considerations, regulated under the "fault" liability principle. We have no hesitation therefore to conclude, that Section 163-A of the Act is founded on the "fault" liability principle.

33. From the preceding paragraphs (commencing from para 22), we have no hesitation in concluding, that it is open to the owner or insurance company, as the case may be, to defeat a claim under Section 163-A of the Act by pleading and establishing through cogent evidence a "fault" ground ("wrongful act" or "neglect" or "default"). It is, therefore, doubtless, that Section 163-A of the Act is founded under the "fault" liability principle. To this effect, we accept the contention advanced at the hands of the learned counsel for the petitioner."

9. Mr. Anshul Baranwal has submitted that the law in National Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Sinitha and Others (supra), is no longer good law in view of the subsequent three-Judge Bench decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Sunil Kumar and Another, (2019) 12 SCC 398.

10. In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Sunil Kumar and Another (supra), a three-Judge Bench, of their Lordships has answered a question referred by a two-Judge Bench, for decision by a larger Bench, disagreeing with the principle in National Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Sinitha and Others (supra). In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Sunil Kumar and Another (supra), the question referred was noted thus:

" 1. Unable to agree with the reasoning and the conclusion of a two judge bench of this Court in National Insurance Company Limited vs. Sinitha and others, a coordinate bench of this Court by order dated 29th October, 2013 has referred the instant matter for a resolution of what appears to be the following question of law.

"Whether in a claim proceeding under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") it is 1 [(2012) 2 SCC 356]open for the Insurer to raise the defence/plea of negligence?"

11. The question was answered in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Sunil Kumar and Another (supra), which is as under:

".....8. From the above discussion, it is clear that grant of compensation under Section 163-A of the Act on the basis of the structured formula is in the nature of a final award and the adjudication thereunder is required to be made without any requirement of any proof of negligence of the driver/owner of the vehicle(s) involved in the accident. This is made explicit by Section 163-A(2). Though the aforesaid section of the Act does not specifically exclude a possible defence of the Insurer based on the negligence of the claimant as contemplated by Section 140(4), to permit such defence to be introduced by the Insurer and/or to understand the provisions of Section 163-A of the Act to be contemplating any such situation would go contrary to the very legislative object behind introduction of Section 163-A of the Act, namely, final compensation within a limited time frame on the basis of the structured formula to overcome situations where the claims of compensation on the basis of fault liability was taking an unduly long time. In fact, to understand Section 163-A of the Act to permit the Insurer to raise the defence of negligence would be to bring a proceeding under Section 163-A of the Act at par with the proceeding under Section 166 of the Act which would not only be self-contradictory but also defeat the very legislative intention.

9. For the aforesaid reasons, we answer the question arising by holding that in a proceeding under Section 163-A of the Act it is not open for the Insurer to raise any defence of negligence on the part of the victim."

12. The view in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Sunil Kumar and Another (supra) has been followed by a subsequent three-Judge Bench in Shivaji and Another vs. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and Others, AIR 2018 SC 3705.

13. In view of the aforesaid position of law, that has now come to be settled, this Court is of the opinion that the impugned award is not open to be assailed on the ground that the claimant was a tortfeasor or one guilty of negligence on his part, and, therefore, could not maintain a petition under Section 163-A of the Act.

14. No other point was pressed.

15. Therefore, this appeal fails and stands dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

16. The compensation deposited with the Tribunal shall be disbursed to the claimant, forthwith.

5. United India Insurance Company Ltd. Vs Sunil Kumar & anr. (2019) 12 SCC 398

(Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard counsel for the appellant and Shri Rajesh Trivedi representing the claimants-opposite party nos. 1 to 6.

2. The present First Appeal From Order has been filed by the defendant under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as, ''Act') against the award dated 25.2.2013 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Lucknow in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 431 of 2012 Ram Kali versus Executive Engineer (Aasthai Yantrik Khand (Temporary Mechanical Division), Lok Nirman Vibhag, District Agra).

3. The facts of the case are that respondent/opposite party nos. 1 to 6 filed a Claim Petition under Section 163-A of the Act alleging that Ram Asrey died in an accident caused due to rash and negligent driving of the vehicle (Registration No. U.P 80A 9846) by its driver. The defendant-appellant is the owner of the offending vehicle. The driver of the vehicle was not impleaded as a defendant in the claim petition. A First Information Report regarding the aforesaid incident was also filed and Case Crime No.124/2012 under Section 279/304-A I.P.C was registered against the driver of the vehicle.

4. The respondent/opposite party no. 1 is the wife of the deceased Ram Asrey while the respondent/opposite party nos. 2 to 6 are the sons of the deceased Ram Asrey. In their claim petition, the respondent/opposite parties claimed a compensation of Rs.10,66,000.00 alleging that the deceased was earning Rs.3000/- per month at the time of his death.

5. The Tribunal issued summons to the defendant-appellant on 4.9.2012 by registered post with acknowledgment due but the acknowledgments were not received by the Court by 10.10.2012 and therefore, the Tribunal declared that the summons had been duly served on the appellant/defendant. The defendant-appellant did not put in appearance in the case and no written statement was filed by it till 22.10.2012. Consequently, by order dated 22.10.2012, the Tribunal passed an order to proceed ex parte against the appellant-defendant.

6. In the claim-petition, the opposite party no. 1 appeared as plaintiff-witness no.1 to prove her case regarding the accident. The Postmortem Report, the First Information Report registering Case Crime No.124 of 2012, the spot inspection report prepared by the Police during investigation and the charge sheet submitted by the Police against the driver of the offending vehicle were also filed as evidence to prove the case of the claimant. The Tribunal, after considering the evidence on record, held that as the claim-petition was filed under Section 163-A of the Act, therefore, the negligence of the driver in causing the accident was not required to be proved and the claimants-opposite parties were entitled to compensation from the defendant-appellant as it was proved from the oral and documentary evidence on record that Ram Asrey had died due to an accident arising out of the use of the offending vehicle. The Tribunal determined the compensation on minimum wages payable to a daily wage labour, i.e., Rs.3000/- per month and after holding that the age of the deceased at the time of his death was between 35 to 40 years, applied a multiplier of 16 to determine the total compensation payable to the claimants-opposite parties. The Tribunal by its award dated 25.2.2013 determined the compensation payable to the claimants-opposite parties as Rs.3,93,500.00 with six percent simple interest from the date of filing the claim petition.

7. It was argued by the counsel for the appellant that the award dated 25.2.2013 has been passed without serving notice to the appellant and without giving any opportunity of hearing to the appellant. It was argued by the counsel for the appellant that the claim-petition was not maintainable because the driver of the offending vehicle had not been impleaded as a defendant in the said case. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the impugned award passed by the Tribunal is liable to be set aside.

8. Rebutting the argument of the counsel for the appellant, the counsel for the claimants-opposite parties has argued that notices had been issued to the appellant by registered post and the appellant deliberately avoided to appear before the Tribunal and therefore, vide its order dated 22.10.2012, the Tribunal proceeded to hear the case ex parte against the appellant. It was argued that in the circumstances of the case, the appellant had been given an opportunity to represent his case before the Tribunal which they failed to avail of and no illegality has been committed by the Tribunal in proceeding ex parte against the appellant. It was further argued that the claim-petition was filed under Section 163-A of the Act and the award has also been computed on the structured formula basis in accordance with Schedule-II of the Act, therefore, the negligence of the owner or the driver of the offending vehicle was not required to be proved by the claimants-opposite parties and thus, the driver of the offending vehicle was not a necessary party in the claim petition. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the appeal has no merit and is liable to be dismissed. In support of his contention, the counsel for the claimants-opposite parties has relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court reported in Shivaji and Another versus Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Co.Ltd. and others 2018(3) T.A.C. 673(S.C.) and the judgment of Gauhati High Court reported in New India Insurance Co.Ltd., versus Lalawmpuia (Minor) and others 2010(4) T.A.C. 500 (Gau.).

9. I have considered the submissions of the counsel for the parties and also perused the records.

10. The procedure to be followed by the Tribunal in a claim-petition filed under Sections 163-A and 166 has been prescribed in Chapter IX of the U.P Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998.

11. Rule 207 of the Rules 1998 provides that the Claims Tribunal shall send to the owner of the Motor Vehicle involved in the accident and its insurer, a notice of the date on which it will hear the application. Rule 208 of the Rules 1998 provides that the owner of the Motor Vehicle and the insurer, may at or before the first hearing or within such further time as the claims Tribunal may allow, file a written statement dealing with the claim raised in the application. Rule 208(3) of the Rules, 1998 provides that the date of first hearing for filing written statement under sub rule (1) shall not be more than one month from the date of issuance of notices to the owner/driver and insurer of the Motor Vehicle and no further time, more than one month shall be given for that. Rule 221 of the Rules 1998 provides that Rules 9 to 13 and 15 to 30 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as, "C.P.C.') shall, so far as may be, apply to proceedings before the claims Tribunal.

12. Order V Rule 9(3) of C.P.C. provides that amongst other modes, summons may be made by delivering or transmitting a copy thereof by registered post acknowledgment due addressed to the defendant or his agent empowered to accept the service of summons. Order V Rule 9(5) of C.P.C provides that where summons issued by the Court are properly addressed, pre-paid and duly sent by registered post acknowledgement due, then the Court issuing the summons shall declare that the summons had been duly served on the defendant notwithstanding the fact that the acknowledgement having been lost or mislaid, or for any other reason, has not been received by the Court within 30 days from the date of issue of summons. Order V Rule 9 of C.P.C is reproduced below:-

"Rule 9 Order V of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 "Delivery or transmission of summons for service"

9. Delivery of summons by Court.- (1) Where the defendant resides within the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is instituted, or has an agent resident within that jurisdiction who is empowered to accept the service of the summons, the summons shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, be delivered or sent either to the proper officer to be served by him or one of his subordinates or to such courier services as are approved by the Court.

(2) The proper officer may be an officer of a Court other than that in which the suit is instituted, and where he is such an officer, the summons may be sent to him in such manner as the Court may direct.

(3) The services of summons may be made by delivering or transmitting a copy thereof by registered post acknowledgment due, addressed to the defendant or his agent empowered to accept the service or by speed post or by such courier services as are approved by the High Court or by the Court referred to in sub-rule (1) or by any other means of transmission of documents (including fax message or electronic mail service) provided by the rules made by the High Court:

Provided that the service of summons under this sub-rule shall be made at the expenses of the plaintiff.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (1), where a defendant resides outside the jurisdiction of the court in which the suit is instituted, and the Court directs that the service of summons on that defendant may be made by such mode of service of summons as is referred to in sub-rule (3) (except by registered post acknowledgment due), the provisions of rule 21 shall not apply.

(5) When an acknowledgment or any other receipt purporting to be signed by the defendant or his agent is received by the Court or postal article containing the summons is received back by the Court with an endorsement purporting to have been made by a postal employee or by any person authorised by the courier service to the effect that the defendant or his agent had refused to take delivery of the postal article containing the summons or had refused to accept the summons by any other means specified in sub-rule (3) when tendered or transmitted to him, the Court issuing the summons shall declare that the summons had been duly served on the defendant:

Provided that where the summons was properly addressed, pre-paid and duly sent by registered post acknowledgment due, the declaration referred to in this sub-rule shall be made notwithstanding the fact that the acknowledgment having been lost or mislaid, or for any other reason, has not been received by the Court within thirty days from the date of issue of summons.

(6) The High Court or the District Judge, as the case may be, shall prepare a panel of courier agencies for the purposes of sub-rule (1).

13. It is not the case of the appellant that notice/summons in the case issued to the appellant were not properly addressed and were not duly sent by registered post with acknowledgment due. The records of the case indicate and the said fact has also been been recorded in the award of the Tribunal that summons were issued by registered post to the appellant. The summons were issued on 4.9.2012. The acknowledgment was not received by the Tribunal till 10.10.2012 i.e., after 30 days from the date of issue of the summons. In the circumstances, by virtue of Order V Rule 9 (5) - Proviso, the Tribunal had, rightly, by its order dated 10.10.2012 declared that the summons had been duly served on the defendant. In view of the aforesaid, it shall be deemed that the appellant had been served summons/notice in the case. The appellant did not appear before the Tribunal and did not file any written statement contesting the claim petition. Therefore, the Tribunal vide its order dated 22.10.2012 directed that the proceedings be heard ex-parte against the appellant-defendant. For the aforesaid reasons, the contention of the defendant-appellant that no opportunity of hearing was given to the defendant and no notice was served on him is unfounded and is rejected.

14. So far as the arguments of the counsel for the appellant that the claim-petition was not maintainable because the driver of the offending vehicle had not been impleaded as a defendant in the case, is concerned, the same for reasons stated presently is also without substance.

15. A reading of the grounds raised in the memo of appeal shows that the appellant has not disputed the fact that Ram Asrey died in an accident arising out of the use of the offending Vehicle and has filed the appeal contesting only the allegations made in the claim petition regarding the negligence of the driver of the offending vehicle in causing the accident. It is also not the case of the appellant that he is not the owner of the vehicle. The claim petition was filed and was registered under Section 163-A of the Act in which the claimant is not required either to plead or establish any wrongful act, or neglect or default of the owner of the Vehicle or of any other person. Section 163-A of the Act, is reproduced below:-

"163 A. Special provisions as to payment of compensation on structured formula basis.--

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or in any other law for the time being in force or instrument having the force of law, the owner of the motor vehicle or the authorised insurer shall be liable to pay in the case of death or permanent disablement due to accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle, compensation, as indicated in the Second Schedule, to the legal heirs or the victim, as the case may be. Explanation.--For the purposes of this sub-section, "permanent disability" shall have the same meaning and extent as in the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 (8 of 1923).

(2) In any claim for compensation under sub-section (1), the claimant shall not be required to plead or establish that the death or permanent disablement in respect of which the claim has been made was due to any wrongful act or neglect or default of the owner of the vehicle or vehicles concerned or of any other person.

(3) The Central Government may, keeping in view the cost of living by notification in the Official Gazette, from time to time amend the Second Schedule".

16. The Supreme Court in Machindranath Kernath Kasar versus D.S.Mylarappa and others (2008) 13 SCC 198 which was regarding a case regarding a claim petition filed under Section 166 of the Act (in which the negligence of the driver of the vehicle has to be pleaded and established by the claimants) held that the driver may not be a necessary party in the claim proceedings in the sense that in his absence, the entire proceedings shall not be vitiated as the owner of the vehicle was a party in his capacity as a joint tortfeasor. The observations of the Supreme Court in Paragraph -30 of the said reports is reproduced below-

"30. It is, however, of some interest to note the provisions of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act. In terms of this aforementioned provision, the Tribunal is mandatorily required to specify the amount which shall be paid by the owner or driver of the vehicle involved in the accident or by or any of them. As it is imperative on the part of the Tribunal to specify the amount payable inter alia by the driver of the vehicle, a fortiori he should be impleaded as a party in the proceeding. He may not, however, be a necessary party in the sense that in his absence, the entire proceeding shall not be vitiated as the owner of the vehicle was a party in his capacity as a joint tortfeasor."

17. As noted earlier in cases filed under Section 166 of the Act, the claimants have to plead and establish the negligence of the driver in causing the accident. The role of a driver in any claim proceedings under the Act is to contest the allegations of negligence made against him as also the allegation that the accident was caused by use of the vehicle driven by him. As noted earlier, the allegation of the claimants and the findings of the Tribunal that the accident happened due to use of the vehicle owned by the appellant is not challenged in the present appeal. A driver is sufficiently represented in proceedings under Section 166 even if he appears as a witness to deny and contest the allegations of negligence made against him (Machindranath Kernath Kasar (Supra) and Uma Kant Tewari versus Jai Prakash Srivastava and others. (2019) 5 ADJ 640. If that is the situation under Section 166, then obviously in proceedings under Section 163-A, where the claimants are not required to plead or establish any wrongful act, doing or negligence on the part of either the owner or the driver of the vehicle, the driver of the offending vehicle is not a necessary party and proceedings shall not be vitiated because the driver was not impleaded in the claim petition if the owner of the vehicle had been impleaded as a party. It was observed by the Supreme Court in United India Insurance Company Ltd. versus Sunil Kumar and another (2019) 12 SCC 398. Paragraph 8 & 9 are reproduced below:-

"8. From the above discussion, it is clear that grant of compensation under Section 163-A of the Act on the basis of the structured formula is in the nature of a final award and the adjudication thereunder is required to be made without any requirement of any proof of negligence of the driver/owner of the vehicle(s) involved in the accident. This is made explicit by Section 163A(2). Though the aforesaid section of the Act does not specifically exclude a possible defence of the Insurer based on the negligence of the claimant as contemplated by Section140(4), to permit such defence to be introduced by the Insurer and/or to understand the provisions of Section 163A of the Act to be contemplating any such situation would go contrary to the very legislative object behind introduction of Section 163A of the Act, namely, final compensation within a limited time-frame on the basis of the structured formula to overcome situations where the claims of compensation on the basis of fault liability were taking an unduly long time. In fact, to understand Section 163A of the Act to permit the Insurer to raise the defence of negligence would be to bring a proceeding under Section 163A of the Act on a par with the proceeding under Section 166 of the Act which would not only be self-contradictory but also defeat the very legislative intention.

9. For the aforesaid reasons, we answer the question arising by holding that in a proceeding under Section 163A of the Act, it is not open for the Insurer to raise any defence of negligence on the part of the victim."

18. The aforesaid judgment was also referred and followed by the Supreme Court in Shivaji and another (Supra).

19. As the negligence of the driver of the offending vehicle is not to be pleaded or proved in proceedings under Section 163-A of the Act and under Section 163-A, the liability to pay compensation is of the owner and the Insurance Company, the proceedings under Section 163-A of the Act, 1988 will not be vitiated merely because the driver of the Vehicle was not impleaded as a party in the claim case.

20. For the aforesaid reasons, the appeal lacks merit and is dismissed. Interim order, if any, passed in favour of the appellant, is vacated.

Civil Law - Civil Procedure Code,1908 - O.41 R. 23, O.41 R.25 - Remand of case by Appellate Court - first appellate court remanded the matter with a direction to the trial court to issue additional commission for assessing the value of the construction after deducting depreciation value and after obtaining the Amin report about market value of the land as well as the construction and after giving opportunity of evidence to both the parties, determine the valuation of the plaintiff's share - Held - There was no sufficient evidence before the first appellate court to determine the issues involved and hence, the order of remand passed by the first appellate court is well justified. Cases Relied on:

1. Ram Bali Singh & ors. Vs Ram Sakal (F.A.F.O. No. 560 of 1989-Decided on March 13, 1989

2. Chaturghun Vs Dhanpati Rai & ors. 2007 (69) ALR 861

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. This First Appeal From Order has been filed against the judgment and order dated 6.12.2007 passed by the First Appellate Court of Additional district Judge, Court No. 9/Special Judge, E.C. Act, Shahjahanpur in Civil Appeal No. 25 of 2003 Raj Kumar and another Vs. Rajeshwar and others.

2. The first appeal was filed against the judgment and final decree dated 31.5.2003 passed in Original Suit No. 373 of 1979 Ram Kumar Vs. Rajeshwar by the Court of Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Shahjahanpur.

3. The trial court in the proceeding of final decree of O.S. No. 373 of 1979 in compliance of the judgment and order of the First Appellate Court dated 19.9.2001 by which the matter was remanded to the trial court with the observation that the trial court shall make valuation of the share of defendants in such manner as he thinks fit and directed the sale of share to such defendants-appellants and make a necessary and proper directions in that behalf as envisaged under section 4 of the Partition Act, issued a commission to assess the valuation and on the basis of commission report has determined the value of the half share of the plaintiff as Rs. 1,74,000/- and further ordered defendant to deposit the amount within two months for execution of sale deed.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant mainly contended that the appellate court can remand the matter only according to provision of Order 41 Rule 23 and Rule 25 of the C.P.C. The conditions of aforesaid provisions are not fulfilled in the present matter and hence, the first appellate court should not have remanded the matter but instead himself has decided the points involved after taking evidence. Learned counsel further contended that first appellant court has all the powers of taking additional evidence and the first appellate court should have exercised that power and after taking additional evidence should have decided the matter finally. The first appellate court has failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in it and hence, the impugned order is not sustainable .

5. Learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance on the judgment in the case of Ram Bali Singh and others Vs. Ram Sakal (F.A.F.O. No. 560 of 1989-Decided on March 13, 1989) and Chaturghun Vs. Dhanpati Rai and others [2007 (69) ALR 861].

6. On the other hand; learned counsel for the respondents contended that the Amin report on the basis of which the trial court has fixed the valuation was objected by the plaintiff-appellant himself before the trial court. In his objection he has disputed the market value of the land as well as the constructions thereupon. Learned counsel further contended that it is not function of the appellate court to decide objections against Amin Report. The factual aspect as taken in para 5 of the aforesaid objections can only be determined by the trial court. Learned counsel for the appellant further contended that Under Order 41 Rule 24 C.P.C. the appellate court may after resettling the issue if necessary finally determined the suit if the evidence upon the record is sufficient to enable the appellate court to pronounce the judgment. There is no sufficient evidence on record to enable the appellate court to pronounce the judgment, hence, the first appellate court has rightly remanded the matter to the trial court for taking necessary evidence to determine the points in issue. The order of the first appellate court is just and proper and appeal has no merits.

7. By the impugned order the first appellate court has remanded the matter with a direction to the trial court to issue additional commission for assessing the value of the construction after deducting depreciation value and after obtaining the Amin report about market value of the land as well as the construction and after giving opportunity of evidence to both the parties determine the valuation of the plaintiff's share. The first appellate court has also observed that the market value for sale and purchase can be determined on the basis of prevalent circle rate and after taking evidence of the parties on the point. it has also observed that Amin has assessed the value of the land on the basis of neighbours statements about the rate of the land. Amin has also not assessed the quantity of construction material used in the construction, hence, the trial court ought to obtain the objections on the Amin report and after giving opportunity of evidence to both the parties should have determined the valuation of the disputed property on the date on which the defendant has offered to purchase the disputed property. On the aforesaid grounds the first appellate court has remanded the matter and has given directions as mentioned above.

8. From the material on record it appears that the trial court has only got the report of Amin about the value of the disputed property which has construction as well. The plaintiff has filed detailed objection against it and some of the objections are factual in nature. Learned trial court without taking into consideration the relevant basis of valuation and without giving any opportunity of evidence to the parties has determined the valuation of the property solely on the basis of Amin report. It is also clear that additional Amin report is required in the matter and parties have also to be given opportunity of producing evidence on the point of valuation as observed by the learned appellate court. There was no sufficient evidence before the first appellate court to determine the issues involved and hence, the order of remand passed by the first appellate court is well justified. The order 41 Rule 23 A C.P.C. also provides that if the suit is decided otherwise on preliminary point and decree reversed in appeal and retrial is necessary the appellate court have the same powers as it has under Rule 23. In this case on the points involved, evidence will be required, so it will be in form of a re-trial.

9. In the light of the aforesaid provision also the order of remand of the first appellate court is just.

10. In Chaturghun Vs. Dhanpati Rai and others (Supra) the matter was remanded with categorical direction to the lower court to give opportunity to the plaintiff to file the map of the consolidation proceeding so as to prove the existence of "Nali' and further to clarify the dimensions, area and number of the public land if any left out in the consolidation proceeding for the purpose of Nali. On the aforesaid this court has held that the purpose of remand was to enable the plaintiff to adduce sufficient evidence to fill the lacunas which have been pointed out by the lower appellate court and was not permissible under law. While in Ram Bali Singh and others Vs. Ram Sakal (Supra) the matter was remanded as the appellate court found that case be decided as a fresh after getting its survey map prepared. On this it was held that the appellate court can get the survey map prepared itself remand only for this purpose amounts to illegal exercise of jurisdiction. In the present case as observed above additional commission is to be issued, objections are to be invited against the Amin Report and the parties are to be provided opportunity of leading evidence and thereafter matter can be decided. So the rulings cited by the learned counsel for the appellants are distinguishable.

11. From the above discussion it is clear that the impugned order is just and reasonable and there is no ground to interfere in it. The first appeal is liable to be dismissed.

12. Accordingly, the First Appeal From Order is dismissed.

1. Heard learned counsel fort the petitioner, Sri Siddhartha Sinha, Advocate, learned counsel for the opposite party No.3 to 6, Ms. Rose Mary Raju, Advocate and learned A.G.A. for the State, Sri Anurag Singh Chauhan, Advocate.

2. The instant petition in hand is filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking issuance of writ in the nature of habeas corpus for production of a minor infant child, the petitioner no.1, namely, Master Devansh Agarwal (the detenue) through his mother, Smt. Deepti Goyal (daughter of Sri K.K. Agarwal), both resident of B-47, Sector-H, Aliganj, District-Lucknow. Smt. Deepti Goyal herself is arrayed in the petition as petitioner no.2.

3. The relief claimed in the petition is reproduced hereunder:-

(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Habeas Corpus directing the opposite parties to produce the petitioner No.1/ Detenue and handover his custody to the petitioner No.2.

(ii) Issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case.

A. Factual Matrix

4. The pleadings indicate the relation between opposite party no.3 Dr. Dinesh Agarwal and petitioner no.2 as husband and wife. They have serious differences which lead to cleavage in their matrimonial life, resulting their non judicial separation from matrimonial home situated at Katras Bazar Rajbari Road, Katras, Dhanbad, Jharkhand. The petition discloses that petitioner No.2 and opposite party No.3 married on 30.6.2017. Soon after marriage Dr. Dinesh Agarwal, opposite party no.3 and his family members started demanding Rs.40 lacs in dowry from the petitioner no.2 as opposite party no.3 came to know that she has a P.P.F. account worth more than Rs.40 lacs. Apart from the said demand of dowry, the opposite party no.3 and his family members namely petitioner's father-in-law, Sri Jeewan Lal Agrawal and others started torturing her mentally and physically in connection with the said demand. Due to the harassment, petitioner no.1 was compulsed to live in Lucknow most of the time where the petitioner no.1, detenue was born on 3.7.2018. Petitioner no.1 and 2 were brought by the opposite party no.3 to Dhanbad after birth of detenue but due to constant harassment petitioner no.2 forced to come back to Lucknow with petitioner no.1 by the end of February, 2020 and had been staying in Lucknow ever since.

5. On 6.6.2020, the opposite party no.3 suddenly came to the house of the petitioner no.2 and pretended that he wants to reconcile with the petitioner no.2. He stayed there, but on the next morning at about 9 O'clock, the opposite party no.3 pretended to take the child out from the house. He taken away the detenue, petitioner no.1 assuring the petitioner no.2 to come back after having a short drive with him. Opposite party no.3 even left his luggage at the house of petitioner no.2 to assure and keep her into impression that he will return with the petitioner no.1 but actually he ran away and kidnapped the petitioner no.1 detenue with the help of his driver. After that petitioner no.2 through their common friend came to know that the opposite party no.3 have reached at Katras, District- Dhanbad, State of Jharkhand taking away the detenue with him illegally from the custody of petitioner no.2. Petitioner no.2 when contacted the opposite party no.3, he told that petitioner no.2 should give access of her P.P.F. account to him if she wants petitioner no.1, detenue back.

6. Since the incident dated 7.6.2020 of abduction of petitioner no.1, the child is by his father (the opposite party no.3), he is in custody of father in Katras, District Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand. This gave rise to the inter parental custody dispute pertaining to their minor child. For the purpose of brevity and convenience hereinafter in foregoing paras wherever contextually needed the opposite party no.3, the petitioner no.2 and the petitioner no.1 shall be addressed also as "father' "mother' and "the child/detenue' respectively.

7. At the time of incident the child detenue (petitioner no.1) was an infant of about 1 year and 9 months' age. The mother has stated that the detenue child is dependent on mother's milk and needs such care and protection which father cannot provide. She is highly educated lady, qualified in M.B.A. Finance and Human Resources, had worked as Assistant Professor in B.B.D. University at Lucknow but quit her job to take care of her child. She has been taking care of her child financially or otherwise since his birth and petitioner no.1, the detenue has never been parted from the petitioner no.2. She has a constant source of income being generated from her savings and residing with her parents in their own house at Lucknow. In support of her claim as to the financial competence, the petitioner no.2 has filed Income Tax Return of year 2019-20 issued by the Income Tax Department as Annexure-2, wherein the gross income is shown Rs.5,16,328/-. In the night of 6.6.2020, the opposite party no.3 landed at the house of the petitioner no.2 and virtually snatched away and kidnapped the child in the morning of 7.6.2020 pretending to come back after a short drive with the child.

8. The petition was filed on 15.6.2020 and was first taken up on 18.6.2020. On 13.7.2020, this court has observed, relevant portion of the order is extracted and reproduced hereunder:-

"Hon'ble Virendra Kumar Srivastava, J.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that detenue aged about two years has been illegally snatched from the custody of petitioner no.2 and herculean effort was made by the concerned police to trace out the detenue but since the opposite party nos.3 and 4 are residents of Jharkhand State, the concerned local police is not cooperating with the U.P. Police in absence of any specific direction of this Court.

Learned AGA submits that effort was made to search out the detenue but the detenue could not be traced out.

In view of the above, issue notice to opposite party nos.3 to 6 through opposite party no. 2 i.e. Station House Officer, Police Station Aliganj, Lucknow to produce the detenue Master Devansh on 05.08.2020."

9. Again on 5.8.2020, the court has observed, relevant portion is extracted and reproduced hereunder:-

"Hon'ble Abdul Moin,J.

Sri R.P. Shukla, learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 to 6, submits that in pursuance to the order of this Court dated 13.07.2020, the child Master Devansh Agarwal could not be produced today as he is not well. A copy of the medical prescription dated 03.08.2020 has been produced today in Court. Sri Shukla prays for and is granted a week's time for bringing on record the said medical prescription and he would also indicate the medical condition of the child. The medical condition to be indicated on behalf of respondent nos. 3 to 6 would also indicate the medical certificate from a doctor as to whether the child is fit to travel from Jharkhand to Lucknow and in case the certificate does not indicate so then the child shall be produced before this Court on 14.08.2020."

10. The order dated 5.8.2020 of this court recorded the appearance of the opposite parties no. 3 to 6 for the first time through Sri R.P. Shukla and Gaurav Mishra Advocates with filing of the counter affidavit on their behalf.

11. On 20.1.2021, this court has passed following order:-

"Hon'ble Alok Mathur,J.

1. Heard Sri Siddhartha Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioners as well as learned A.G.A. for the State while Sri Vivek Sonkar, Advocate has put in appearance on behalf of opposite party No.s 3 to 6.

2. An application for recall of order dated 11.1.2021 along with vakalatnama has been filed in the registry by Sri Vivek Sonkar on 19.11.2020. Office has reported that it has not been able to trace any such application for recall of order dated 11.1.2021. In absence of the application for recall, I proceed with the matter.

3. It has been submitted by Sri Siddhartha Sinha that this Court by means of order dated 17.3.2020 had directed opposite party No.s 3 and 6 to produce the detenue Master Devansh Agrawal on 5.8.2020. A perusal of the order sheet dated 5.8.2020 indicates that on 5.8.2020 the detenue could not be produced and, therefore, by means of the order dated 5.8.2020 this Court directed for production of the detenue on 14.8.2020. It has been submitted that there was no sitting of this Court on the said date due to COVID 19 lock-down, therefore, this Court by means of order dated 27.8.2020 directed the detenue to be produced on 8.9.2020, on which date also there was no Court sitting due to the pandemic. It has been submitted that in the meanwhile opposite party No.2 in order to avoid producing the detenue moved an application for recall of the order dated 27.8.2020 which was rejected on 14.10.2020. Subsequently, on 11.1.2021 this Court directed for production of the detenue today i.e. 20.1.2021.

4. When the matter has been taken up Sri Vivek Sonkar, the new counsel appearing for opposite parties No.3 to 6, could not show any cogent reason for non-appearance of the detenue as directed by this Court vide its order dated 20.1.2021 today. He, however, submits that opposite party No.3 is in Jharkhand and they will appear on any date fixed by this Court. It has also been informed that as per direction of this Court a sum of Rs.30,000/- has already been deposited in this Court to show the bonafide and also to enable opposite party No.3 along with the detenue to appear before this Court.

5. In view of above, I see no reason as to why opposite party No.3 is not appearing before this Court along with the detenue. As, such, list this case on 28.1.2021 on which date opposite party No.3 shall appear before this Court along with the detenue Master Devansh Agarwal.

6. It is made clear that if this order is not complied with, the Court will have no option except to adopt coercive methods for their appearance."

12. Hon'ble Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No.586 of 2021 moved against the order dated 20.1.2021 has held as under:-

"The High Court directed the petitioner No.1 to be present in Court on 20.1.2021 along with the child in a writ of Habeas Corpus filed by the respondent No.3. We are informed by the learned counsel for the petitioners that the matter is now listed for hearing on 28.01.2021.

Learned counsel for the petitioners brought to our notice an order passed by this court on 11.01.2021 in Transfer Petition (c) Nos.1371-1372 of 2020 filed by Respondent No.3 by which the matrimonial dispute has been referred to the Supreme court Mediation Centre.

We are not inclined to interfere with the order impugned in the special leave petition. However, the petitioner is at liberty to bring to the notice of the High Court that the entire dispute is referred to the Supreme Court Mediation Centre and the transfer petition was directed to be listed after eight weeks.

The special leave petition is dismissed.

Pending application (s), if any, shall stand disposed of."

13. Though, counter affidavit was filed by the opposite party no. 3 to 6 but in compliance of the order of this court the detenue, 'Master Devansh Agrawal' was not produced before the court. It would be relevant to quote the order dated 28.1.2021, where the conduct of counsel appearing for the opposite party no.3 to 6 was observed by this court

"Hon'ble Alok Mathur,J.

1. Today when the matter has been taken up Sri Deepak Agrawal, Advocate has put in appearance on behalf of respondent no. 3. He has placed an order of Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 25.01.2021, passed in SLP (Civil) No. 586 of 2021. According to which it seems that one transfer application has been preferred before the Apex Court where the present matrimonial dispute has been referred to the Mediation Center of the Apex Court. The aforesaid SLP was filed against the earlier order of this Court dated 20.01.2021, where this Court had directed respondent no. 3 to appear before this Court alongwith detenue Master Devansh Agarwal.

2. Perused the order of Apex Court dated 25.01.2021.

3. Today, attention of this Court has been drawn towards the order of the Apex Court dated 11.01.2021, passed in Transfer Petition (Civil) No. 1371 of 2020.

4. The conduct of the counsel appearing for opposite party no. 3 is highly regrettable inasmuch as, the earlier orders passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court were never brought to the notice of this Court, which lead this Court to pass the order dated 20.01.2021.

5. In the light of the apology made by learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 3, this Court is not passing any further order in this regard.

6. Looking into the order of the Apex Court dated 11.01.2021, as well as 25.01.2021, list this case after two month's.

7. Learned counsel for the parties shall inform this Court, on the next date of listing, about the outcome of the mediation proceedings at Supreme Court."

14. The petitioner by way of supplementary affidavit has furnished information as to the proceeding of Hon'ble Apex Court stating that the opposite party no.3 challenged the order dated 20.1.2021 passed by this court. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Special Leave to Appeal No. 586 of 2021 referred the matter to Supreme Court's Mediation Center and dismissed the aforesaid Special Leave to Appeal vide order dated 25.1.2021. The order dated 25.1.2021 of the Apex Court is made annexure to the petition. In pursuance of order dated 25.1.2021, the parties appear before the Mediation Center of Hon'ble Supreme Court and after several rounds of single and joint session of mediation and after considering options available with them parties could not arrive at any amicable solution to resolve their dispute, as such, the mediation failed. The true copy of the Mediation Report is made annexure no.2 to the supplementary affidavit, which is reproduced hereunder:-

"Comprehensive mediation sessions were held with parties on 01.02.21, 02.01.21 & 04.02.21 through virtual mode and on 08.02.21 physical mediation at Supreme Court Mediation Centre.

However, after several rounds of single and joint session of mediation and after considering options available with them parties could not arrive at any amicable solution to resolve their dispute."

15. The petitioner has informed this court by way of the supplementary affidavit about two original suits of the opposite party no.3 against petitioner no.2 in para 6, which is reproduced hereunder:-

"6. That the opposite party no.3 to this Writ Petition filed two frivolous cases against the petitioner no.2 at Dhanbad vide O.S. No.333/2020 and O.S. No.385/2020. The petitioner no.2 challenged the same in Hon'ble Supreme Court in Transfer Petition Nos (Civil) Nos.1371-1372/2020. The Hon'ble Supreme Court was pleased to say the proceedings of the cases O.S. No.333/2020 and O.S. No.385/2020. The true copies of the order dated 7.12.2020 and 11.01.2021 passed in Transfer Petition (Civil) No.1371-1372/2020 is being filed herewith as Annexure No.SA-3."

16. Despite the orders passed by this court the child was not produced by the opposite party no.3 in the court. On 24.9.2021, this court has ordered for facilitating a meeting between the detenue and mother by the opposite party number 3, the order is quoted hereunder:-

"Hon'ble Manish Mathur,J.

Adjourned on account of request made of Mr. Prabhjit Jauhar, learned counsel for the respondents No.3 to 6 due to his personal engagement.

Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Mrs. Rose Mary Raju on behalf of the respondents No.3 to 6.

Due to adjournment of the matter, learned counsel for appellants submits that the mother of the alleged detenue is not being permitted to meet the detenue aged about three years. With regard to the matter pertaining to mediation or any settlement between the parties, it has been informed that mediation proceedings before the Hon'ble the Supreme Court have failed.

Considering submissions of learned counsel for the appellant/mother of the detenue, learned counsel for the parties were provided time to obtain instructions for facilitating a meeting between the detenue and the mother. Upon obtaining instructions from the clients, learned counsel appearing for respondents no.3 to 6 submits that no hindrance will be caused in meeting of the mother with the detenue and for that purpose the mother of the detenue can travel to Dhanbad (where the detenue is staying with his father). It is submitted that the father of the detenue shall take care of the burden of financial expenditure pertaining to travel as well as stay of the mother at Dhanbad, where she will have unrestricted excess to the detenue during the day time, commencing from 10:00 AM to 05:00 PM. For the purpose of the such meeting, a person of the Bal Kalyan Samiti, Dhanbad shall be present during the meeting which shall be facilitated by the Superintendent of Police, Dhanbad.

As per the arrangements, meeting shall take place at a mutually agreeable place and may take place in Lucknow itself with the mutual consent of parties, if possible. In case the meeting take place at Lucknow, the same procedure shall be followed, for which the Concerned SHO, Lucknow shall ensure presence of a person from the Bal Kalyan Samiti.

List this case on 01.11.2021."

17. In the petition, petitioner no.2 has also stated about lodging of the first information report with regard to the abduction of the petitioner No.1, detenue by the opposite party no.3 as Case Crime No. 178 of 2020 under sections 498-A, 336, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act.

18. The counter affidavit filed on behalf of the opposite party no.3 to 6 has set forth a defence against the allegation made in the petition pertaining to illegally taking away the detenue (petitioner no.1), the child from the custody of mother, (petitioner no.2). In para 25, it is stated that petitioner no.1 was neither kidnapped nor taken away forcibly, the petitioner no.1 is not in the illegal custody of his natural guardian, petitioner no.2 has not invoked the remedy provided under the law to declare the guardianship which can be decided on the facts and evidences adduced by the parties. Further para 26 of the counter affidavit is reproduced hereunder:-

"26. That the contents of paragraph 13 of the writ petition are denied as incorrect. Since the opposite party no.3 is also the natural guardian therefore no FIR could have been lodged questioning his guardianship. The delay in lodging the FIR itself speaks that the same is being thought and false. Moreover, the falsity of the FIR is apparent on the face of it as avernments made in paras 11 and 12 of the writ application and that in the FIR are completely different versions. In the writ application she has averred that the deponent with her permission took the child but did not return and in the FIR she has alleged that the child was snatched from her custody and kidnapped by the deponent."

19. With regard to the relief prayed by the petitioner no.2 in her petition for handing over the custody of minor child, the petitioner no.1 to her from the custody of opposite party no.3, the father, in para 7 of the counter affidavit it is objected that according to the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court and High Courts, the principal consideration for the court is to ascertain whether the custody of the children requires that the present custody should be changed, and the children should be left in the care and custody of somebody else. The principle is well settled, that in a matter of custody of a child, the welfare of the child is of paramount consideration for the court.

20. Further, father of the detenue child (opposite party no.3) claims himself according to the Section 6 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 his natural guardian and is capable of looking after the child. The child in his parental place getting love and affection of father, grand parents and cousins as he lives in joint family. To the contrary petitioner no.2 does not take proper care of the child as for the care of child she totally depend on maid and servants of nuclear family in her house at Lucknow. She is also suspected to be suffering from "Paranoid Personality Disorder" and often remain socially withdrawn. The opposite party no.3 claimed himself reputed Orthopedic and Spine Surgeon practicing in Katras, Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand, is capable of care of child and also financially sound to do so. With a view to clarify why the opposite party no.3 and petitioner no.2, the husband and wife living separately, he stated in para 12 and 13 of the counter affidavit that due to her obstinate behaviour, petitioner no.2 was forced to take separate accommodation out of the joint family and shifted on 5.11.2018 against his conscience but instead of living there, petitioner no.2 left the matrimonial house on 7.3.2020 without any cause and information to the opposite party no.3, efforts were made to convince the petitioner no.2 to return to matrimonial home but she patently refused. Petitioner no.2 lodged an First Information Report No.178 of 2020 arraigning the entire family members on baseless allegations. He filed a writ petition bearing number 9964 (MB) of 2020 before this court which was disposed of vide order dated 19.6.2020, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme court in the case of Arnesh Kumar 2006 SCC 2622. Further, entire dispute have been referred to the Mediation Center of the Family Court by the police and the case has been fixed for appearance of the parties.

21. It is further stated in para 17 of the counter affidavit that opposite party no.3 is inclined to restore his matrimonial ties, therefore, he has filed a suit before Family Court, Dhanbad invoking the provisions of Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 for restitution of conjugal rights. The child is in fact an essential bridge between the opposite party no.3 and petition no.2, copy of the plaint is made annexure to the petition.

22. Admittedly, the petitioner no.1, the detenue taken birth in the city of Lucknow. In para 22 the opposite party no.3 in his counter affidavit explained it by saying that petitioner no.2 has been in regular habit of living in Lucknow at her parents house and she never own responsibility of her husband and child. The allegation regarding the birth of child at Lucknow at her expenses is also false and unfounded. The deponent being a doctor made all arrangement for delivery of child in Katras, Dhanbad but the wife insisted to deliver the child in Lucknow, she is under the influence of mother all the time and very rigid. He further states in the same para that even after the delivery she refused to come back with opposite party no.3, however, he paid in cash Rs.50,000/- to her for child expenses. In para 23 of the counter affidavit, he has stated that petitioner no.2 has herself deserted the matrimonial house.

23. Apart of the aforesaid factual pleas, the said opposite party no.3 has challenged the maintainability of the writ petition on the ground that he being natural guardian of the petitioner no.1 in view of Section 6 of the the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 the father has paramount right for the custody of child and he cannot be deprived of the custody of minor child, his custody is not unlawful or conducive to the interest and welfare of child so as to warrant interference by the court. The habeas corpus petition shall not be the appropriate proceeding to make a decision as to who between the husband and wife shall be entitled to the custody of child. It needs elaborate enquiry on the basis of evidences to be led by both the parties which can be conveniently done only in civil or family court.

24. The opposite party no.3 has taken an objection as to the maintainability that under Article 226(1) of the Constitution of India. The power to issue writ to the government authority or the person concerned is to be exercise by the High Court having the territorial jurisdiction. In the instant case, the permanent residence of the child in Dhanbad and falls within the jurisdiction of Jharkhand High Court, therefore, this court has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the petition for removal of custody from father and to handover the child to the mother.

25. For the purpose of considering paramount consideration of child in not disturbing the present position of custody of the child with father, he has setforth his financial capacity and social status and family status also. Despite having been filed a huge and lengthy counter affidavit dealing all aspects of the case, legal and factual, the opposite party no.3 has not stated or explained why he has not produced the detenue before the court in compliance of the order in this regard. Though, admittedly he has taken away the child with him (according to him with the consent of mother of the child) from Lucknow to Dhanbad. On the direction of this court issued vide order dated 5.8.2020. He filed a supplementary counter affidavit annexing medical certificate as to the medical advice and opinion of a doctor in Dhanbad, Jharkhand, the same is reproduced hereunder:-

"This is to certify that I have examined Master Devansh Agarwal, aged 2 years on 3rd and 8th August 2020. He was suffering from upper respiratory tract infection (URI) and was diagnosed as Pharyngitis after clinical evaluation. This is an allergic and seasonal type of disorder. I have treated him with antibiotic and anti-allergic.

He has recovered well from the ailment and doing well.

I have advised him to stay away from cold weather and drinks. It is not advisable for him to travel to long distance in AC care or train in view of the prevailing COVID 10 Epidemic."

26. In the aforesaid context, it would be relevant to quote certain para of the counter affidavit filed by the State of U.P. in the present petition. The said counter affidavit is sworn by Manoj Kumar, Sub Inspector, Police Station, Aliganj, Lucknow, Investigating Officer of the Case Crime No.178 of 2020 referred hereinabove. The relevant paras from para no.7 to 15 of the counter affidavit are quoted hereunder:-

B. Arguments.

27. Heard the learned counsels for the parties. It is argued by the learned counsel for the petitioner No.2 that out of the wedlock between the father and mother of the child, he borne on 3.7.2018 in Lucknow. It is further argued that the mother who carried the child in her womb for 9 months and then gave birth to him, the child used to reside in the house B-47, Sector H, Aliganj, District-Lucknow. The child was never parted from her mother before 7.7.2020 when he was illegally taken away from her custody. The mother is well educated having M.B.A. in Finance and Human Resource, she is physically, financially and emotionally very much eligible for taking care of child in every way. It is further argued that there was repeated demand of dowry of Rs. 40 lacs by father of the child (opposite party no.3) since before his birth. When the atrocities and cruelties of the father of the child in connection with the demand of dowry increased day by day, she was compulsed to leave her matrimonial home in Dhanbad, Jharkhand and to go to Lucknow before delivery of the child. All the cost and expenses of delivery of the child were incurred by her. She has a constant source of earning accrued from the interest over her savings in the Bank. It is further argued that mother was in a reputed job of teaching but since birth of child only for the purpose of looking after him and care she left that job. It is argued that the way in which the custody of the minor infant child of approximately 21 months was snatched deceitfully from mother and he was abducted by the father who taken away him from Lucknow to Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand itself amount not only immoral but a criminal act also. Further despite several orders of the court to appear in person and produce the child before the court, father intentionally defied the order and thus maliciously stopped the child to see her mother. It is evident from the order of this court also passed to facilitate the meeting of the mother with the child but the same was disobeyed. Even the mother has deposited Rs.30,000/- in the High Court in compliance of the order of the court as expenses for arriving at Lucknow from Dhanbad with the child and companion, if any. The money still remain unexhausted in the court's account but that order was also made futile by the father. All these shows the instinct of the father to illegally confine the child with him and not permitting him to see his mother in anyway daringly. It is further argued that the detention of the child is not by the reason of love and affection of father towards the child but it is in vengeance of mother's leaving the matrimonial home, so as to teach her a lesson. Moreover, to bargain the demand of dowry of Rs.40 lacs in lieu of the child to go back to her mother.

28. Learned counsel had argued that the child is of much tender age, he needs his mother at this stage and nothing can replace the love affection and care of the mother to which he is entitled. If he is left in the custody of father and his relatives it is much possible for them to make his brain wash and influence him against her mother. Keeping into view all these facts it is emphasized that in the light of judgments of the Hon'ble The Apex Court and this court the welfare of the child be considered and child be removed from the custody of father to hand over him in the custody of mother. Reliance placed on the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Roxann Sharma Vs. Arun Sharma1 and the judgment of this court in Meenakshi and Anr. Vs State of U.P. and Others2 and in Shigorika Singh Thru. her mother Vs. Dr. Abhinandan Singh and Others3.

29. Against the contention of of the counsel for the petitioner, counsel for the opposite party number 3 to 6 argued that the mother unreasonably left the matrimonial house when she was conceived, even on her insisting and denial to live in joint family separate accommodation was arranged by father of the child but she reached in Lucknow on the motivation of her mother who is a dominating lady. It is further contended that father is practicing doctor in Orthopedic and is a Spine Surgeon, belongs to a reputed family, has a clinic in Katras at Dhanbad, State of Jharkhand. He is permanent resident of the aforesaid place, therefore, child should reasonably be stayed with the father. So far as the present custody of the father is concerned, it is obtained with the consent of mother of the child when he went Lucknow with a purpose to reconcile the matrimonial differences with her. Under that reconciliation the mother of the child became ready to come at Dhanbad from Lucknow. A day after when she permitted on 7.6.2020 to carry the child with him from Lucknow to Dhanbad. It is argued that family of father of the child is a joint family comparingly, the mother of the child is in nuclear family. In the custody of father, the child is gaining much love, affection and care not only from father but also from other family members like grandparents, his cousins brother and sisters. To the contrary for the care of the child in Lucknow, his mother quite depend on her servants and maids and it is not possible for the mother to look after him at every point of time, as such, the child would feel loneliness and neglected which certainly would affect his upbringing and growth. Learned counsel relied on the judgment of this court in writ petition of Habeas Corpus No.467 of 2021 Vahin Saxena

(Minor Corpus) and Another Vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others4 where the father's petition was dismissed and petitioner, the Corpus was set at liberty to go back along with respondent no.4, his mother to the place from where they have come. Further, reliance is placed on the judgment of Habeas Corpus No. 9 of 2020, Reshu @ Nitya and 2 Others Vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others5. Further reliance has been placed on the judgment of Hon'ble The Apex Court in Ruchi Majoo Vs. Sanjeev Majoo6 and a judgment of High Court of Orissa delivered on 15.10.2015 in Anil Kumar Pradhan and Others Vs. Madhabi Pradhan7.

30. Learned counsel relied on the Judgment of Vahin Saxena (Minor Corpus) (Supra) emphasing its para-10 in which judgment of Tejasvini Gaud & others Vs. Shekhar Jagdish Prasad Tewari & others8 is relied on para 14 and 19, which is quoted hereunder:-

"14. Writ of habeas corpus is a prerogative process for securing the liberty of the subject by affording an effective means of immediate release from an illegal or improper detention. The writ also extends its influence to restore the custody of a minor to his guardian when wrongfully deprived of it. The detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody is treated as equivalent to illegal detention for the purpose of granting writ, directing custody of the minor child. For restoration of the custody of a minor from a person who according to the personal law, is not his legal or natural guardian, in appropriate cases, the writ court has jurisdiction.

19. Habeas corpus proceedings is not to justify or examine the legality of the custody. Habeas corpus proceedings is a medium through which the custody of the child is addressed to the discretion of the court. Habeas corpus is a prerogative writ which is an extraordinary remedy and the writ is issued where in the circumstances of the particular case, ordinary remedy provided by the law is either not available or is ineffective; otherwise a writ will not be issued. In child custody matters, the power of the High Court in granting the writ is qualified only in cases where the detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody. In view of the pronouncement on the issue in question by the Supreme Court and the High Courts, in our view, in child custody matters, the writ of habeas corpus is maintainable where it is proved that the detention of a minor child by a parent or others was illegal and without any authority of law.

31. In the broad spectrum emerged from the pleadings of the parties namely the petitioner no.2 and private opposite party no.3 to 6 and that of the State opposite parties of the present writ of habeas corpus, this court has a duty to examine at the threshold whether the minor is in lawful custody of the private respondent no.3. In forthcoming paras of the judgment discussion will be made on the following aspects of the matter for the purpose of determination of right and entitlement of either of the parties to have custody of the child (detenue) subject to the consideration of best interest and welfare of the child:-

(i) Whether the custody of the minor child, Devansh Agrawal, the petitioner no.1 was taken away from the custody of his mother (the petitioner no.2) by the opposite party no.3 illegally, if so, its effect.

(ii) Jurisdiction of the Court and comity of courts.

(iii) Relevant provisions of Law- Maintainability of petition for habeas corpus.

(iv) Welfare of the child.

(v) Mother being a natural guardian, her importance in the life of petitioner no.1 (detenue, Devansh Agrawal) who is an infant child of approximately two years the legal rights of the natural guardian and the paramount interest of the child.

(vi) Best interest of the child.

(vii) Conclusion.

(i) Whether the custody of the minor child, Devansh Agrawal, the petitioner no.1 was taken away from the custody of his mother (the petitioner no.2) by the opposite party no.3 illegally, if so, its effect.

32. The foregoing paras under the head "Factual Matrix", state the arrival of opposite party no.3 at the home of petitioners on 6.6.2020 in a car from Dhanbad to Lucknow pretending an offer to reconcile the disputes between them. On the next day, opposite party no.3 at about 9 O'Clock, left his luggage in petitioner's home pretending to go out with petitioner no.1, the child (Master Devansh Agrawal) for having a short drive with him and thereafter to come soon. But, he taken away the child to his home at Katras Dhanbad, in the State of Jharkhand. In his counter affidavit, the opposite party no.3 though has accepted bringing the child with him from Lucknow to Dhanbad but added that he did so with permission of the mother of the child, the petitioner no.2. In the wake of the pleadings with regard to the above incident of taking away the child (petitioner no.1) by father (the opposite party no.3) from the custody of mother (petitioner no.2) pretending that he will come soon after having a short drive with him whether amounts permission of mother for such taking away the child from Lucknow to Dhanbad. This is also material to keep into consideration the conduct of opposite party no.3 who left his luggage in the house of petitioners to keep petitioner no.1 under impression that he will come soon with the child after having a drive. The permission or consent of the mother for taking out the child (detenue) from her custody by the opposite party no.3 may be construed by all stretch of imagination only to the extent of near vicinity of the house or to a maximum within the territorial limits of District Lucknow and in no way upto the District-Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand. Such acquiescence cannot be treated as consent of the mother to take away her child from Lucknow to Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand by reason of her being in impression caused through the misrepresentation by the opposite party no.3 verbally as well as by his conduct. By leaving his luggage, the opposite party no.3 kept the petitioner no.2 under impression that he certainly will not leave her home or even the District Lucknow with the child. The act and conduct of the opposite party no.3 to go out of Lucknow with the child from his car traveling a long distance to his home at Katras Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand shows that while he was seeking permission to take out the child for having a short drive and come soon thereafter he maliciously intended to leave even Lucknow with the child to bring him in Katras, District Dhanbad, State of Jharkhand. At that moment there seems no privity of mind between the petitioner no.2 and the opposite party no.3 on the same thought with regard to taking the child out of home in Lucknow only.

33. It would not be out of room to refer two provisions of law one from Indian Contract Act which creates civil liability against maker of an untrue statement and another from criminal law which punishes the maker of such statement. Section 18 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 reads as under:-

18. "Misrepresentation" defined.-- "Misrepresentation" means and includes-- -- "Misrepresentation" means and includes--"

(1) the positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, though he believes it to be true;

(2) any breach of duty which, without an intent to deceive, gains an advantage of the person committing it, or any one claiming under him, by misleading another to his prejudice, or to the prejudice of any one claiming under him;

(3) causing, however innocently, a party to an agreement, to make a mistake as to the substance of the thing which is the subject of the agreement.

Section 415 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 runs as under:-

415. Cheating.--Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently or dishonestly induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or intentionally induces the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived, and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property, is said to "cheat". Explanation.--A dishonest concealment of facts is a deception within the meaning of this section. Illustrations

(a) A, by falsely pretending to be in the Civil Service, intentionally deceives Z, and thus dishonestly induces Z to let him have on credit goods for which he does not mean to pay. A cheats.

(b) A, by putting a counterfeit mark on an article, intentionally deceives Z into a belief that this article was made by a certain celebrated manufacturer, and thus dishonestly induces Z to buy and pay for the article. A cheats.

(c) A, by exhibiting to Z a false sample of an article, intentionally deceives Z into believing that the article corresponds with the sample, and thereby, dishonestly induces Z to buy and pay for the article. A cheats.

(d) A, by tendering in payment for an article a bill on a house with which A keeps no money, and by which A expects that the bill will be dishonored, intentionally deceives Z, and thereby dishonestly induces Z to deliver the article, intending not to pay for it. A cheats.

(e) A, by pledging as diamonds article which he knows are not diamonds, intentionally deceives Z, and thereby dishonestly induces Z to lend money. A cheats.

(f) A intentionally deceives Z into a belief that A means to repay any money that Z may lend to him and thereby dishonestly induces Z to lend him money. A not intending to repay it. A cheats.

(g) A intentionally deceives Z into a belief that A means to deliver to Z a certain quantity of indigo plant which he does not intend to deliver, and thereby dishonestly induces Z to advance money upon the faith of such delivery. A cheats; but if A, at the time of obtaining the money, intends to deliver the indigo plant, and afterwards breaks his contract and does not deliver it, he does not cheat, but is liable only to a civil action for breach of contract.

(h) A intentionally deceives Z into a belief that A has performed A's part of a contract made with Z, which he has not performed, and thereby dishonestly induces Z to pay money. A cheats.

(i) A sells and conveys an estate to B. A, knowing that in consequence of such sale he has no right to the property, sells or mortgages the same to Z, without disclosing the fact of the previous sale and conveyance to B, and receives the purchase or mortgage money from Z. A cheats.

34. The word "Misrepresentation" as defined in the Section 18 of the Indian Contract Act,1872 and the illustration in Sections 415 of the Indian Penal Code,1860 in the offences relating to the cheating is untrue statement of a material fact made by one party which affects the other party's decision in correspondence. Believing on the misrepresentation, the petitioner though never intended to loose her child (detenue) nor it was communicated to her that child will go permanently in the custody of the opposite party no.3 as and when she let the child to go with the opposite party no.3 out from the house for a drive. The petitioner no.2 in fact suffered loss of custody of her child who was given birth by her in Lucknow and since his birth upto the date of incident i.e. on 7.6.2020 approximately for one year nine months was naturally remain with his mother. The opposite party no.3 already have filed two civil suits relating for restitution of conjugal rights under Section 9 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 as well as under the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 in the court at District- Dhanbad, wherein mediation though ordered but was not succeeded, therefore, arrival of opposite party no.3 in Lucknow and entry in the house of petitioners was obviously for some interested purpose in planned way which reflects from the taking away the child (detenue) from the custody of mother with whom he was still under litigation. The taking out of the child or removing the child from the custody of mother (petitioner no.2) by the opposite party no.3 (father), even both of them are natural guardian of the child, but the father since snatched of the child from the custody of mother in a deceitful manner, therefore, his custody turned in unlawful detention of the child. Even he stopped the child to see her mother despite several orders passed by the court for production of child in the court and even facilitating the meeting of mother with the child by a blunt defiance of the order. Since then the petitioner no.2 could not see her child the petitioner no. 1, Master Devansh Agarwal in utter violation of the infant's fundamental right.

35. In a case before Supreme Court, Kusheshwar Prasad Singh Vs. State of Bihar & Ors.9 it is held:-

"16. It is settled principal of law that a man cannot be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is sound principle that he who pretends a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned. To put it differently, "a wrongdoer ought not to be permitted to make a profit out of his own wrong".

36. In another case before Hon'ble Supreme Court Mrs. Elizabeth Dinshaw Vs. Arvind M. Dinshaw & Anr.10 of which fact are somehow akin to the facts of the present case, the father abducted the minor illegally in India. On a writ petition filed by the mother for the custody of minor it was held that the mother was full of genuine love and affection for the child and she could be safely trusted to look after, educate him and attend in every possible way to his proper upbringing. The child's presence in India was held to be result of an illegal act of abduction and the father who was guilty of said act was held not entitled to get any advantage. Relying upon 1966(1) All England Reporter 886, it was observed that it is the duty of courts in all countries to see that the parent doing wrong by removing the children out of their country did not gain any advantage by his or her wrong doing.

37. In Gippy Arora Vs. State of Punjab and Others11 the relevant portion of para-13 is quoted hereunder:-

"Similar question had arisen before this Court in Manjit Kaur v. State of Punjab, Crl. W.P No.608 of 2008, decided on August 14, 2008 where a minor child of 9 months was taken away by his grand-parents when their daughter-in-law , an NRI, had come from abroad for a short period. This court had held relying upon Manju Tiwari Vs. Rajendra Tiwari, AIR 1990 SC 1156 that habeas corpus perition was maintainable as the child has been illegally snatched away from the mother. Custody of the child was handed over to the mother leaving the parties to avail other remedies in accordance with law."

38. The instant matter under the petition for the writ in the nature of habeas corpus, pertaining to removal of minor infant child on 7.6.2020 from the custody of mother with whom he was residing in Lucknow since his birth till he was taken away by the father (Opposite Party No. 3) to Dhanbad in Jharkhand and detained in his custody clogging the parenting opportunities of mother and stopping her even from seeing the child, the father's custody of child is absolute unlawful.

39. The facts stated hereinabove cumulatively indicate the opposite party no. 3 who was separately living from the petitioners at Dhanbad (Jharkhand) reached Lucknow at the residence of petitioners and deceitfully won the custody of the child (Petitioner No. 1) from the sole custody of mother (petitioner no. 2) taking him away to Dhanbad instantly and then not only clogged her parenting rights but also stopped the child (petitioner No. 1) from seeing her. The act of opposite party no. 3 (the father of the child) is nonetheless a crime akin to kidnapping defined as an offence under Section 361 and 362 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860. His act of deceitfully taking away the child out from custody of mother amounts to parental kidnapping which is not only illegal but criminal also.

40. Concluding the above discussions the custody of the petitioner no.1 Master Devansh Agrawal (detenue) with opposite party no.3 is unlawful, illegal and criminal, therefore, he cannot be permitted to take undue advantage over the rights of custody as natural guardian of the child in the present writ.

A legal maxim states "no man shall take advantage of his wrong; and this maxim, which is based on elementary principals, is fully recognized in courts of law and of equity, and, indeed, admits of illustration from every branch of legal procedure". This is based on the latin maxim "commodum ex injuria sua nemo habere debet".

(ii) Jurisdiction of the Court and comity of courts

41. Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956 provides that firstly father is the natural guardian of a minor, and, after him "the mother" would be the natural guardian. It does not mean that the guardianship to the mother accrued only after the death of the father or on his renouncing the world.

42. In Githa Hariharan Vs. Reserve Bank of India and Vandana Shiva Vs. Jayanta Bandopadhyaya12 the Supreme Court held that during some circumstances the mother can act as a natural guardian of the child, even if the father is alive. The meaning of word "after him" was interpreted as "in the absence of". If both the parents are living separately for a long time and minor lives with mother then mother becomes natural guardian of the minor. If the father for any reason is physically not available to take care of the minor child, then he may be considered "absent" and mother can validly act on behalf of minor. In the proviso of Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956, it is stated that if the minor is below five years of age then mother is the natural guardian of the minor child. The meaning of the words used in the Section "ordinarily with the mother" is to be read with Section 9 of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 which deals with the jurisdiction of the court in which it states that the place where the minor ordinarily resides. The purpose of stating a mother as the natural guardian of the child who is below five years is that mother is the best person to look after the welfare of the child and father cannot afford sufficient time to the needs of the child as well as welfare of the child. The Phrase "the place where the minor ordinarily resides" when the child is below five years of age means that the court will have the jurisdiction where the mother resides and the child resides with the mother. It is thus clear that the "child' Devansh Agarwal is ordinary resides in house B-47, Sector-H, Aliganj, District-Lucknow where the mother lives.

43. It was argued vehemently by the learned counsel for the opposite party no.3 to 6 that the child being in the custody of father residing at Katras, Dhanbad in the State of Jharkhand relief sought in habeas corpus with regard to removal of child from the custody of father at Dhanbad to hand over the custody to the mother at Lucknow is not entertainable in view of Article 226 (1) of the Constitution of India. It is not disputed that the child borne in Lucknow on 3.7.2018 and was residing there with her mother (petitioner no.2) till 7.6.2020 when he was brought by father from Lucknow to Dhanbad, Jharkhand. Much have been discussed in preceding paras pertaining to such taking away of the child by the father under the head " Whether the custody of the minor child, Devansh Agrawal, the petitioner no.1 was taken away from the custody of his mother (the petitioner no.2) by the opposite party no.3 illegally".

44. In Yashita Sahu v. State of Rajasthan13 Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in para- 10 as under:-

"10. It is too late in the day to urge that a writ of habeas corpus is not maintainable if the child is in the custody of another parent. The law in this regard has developed a lot over a period of time but now it is a settled position that the court can invoke its extraordinary writ jurisdiction for the best interest of the child. This has been done in Elizabeth Dinshaw v. Arvand M. Dinshaw [Elizabeth Dinshaw v. Arvand M. Dinshaw, (1987) 1 SCC 42 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 13] , Nithya Anand Raghavan v. State (NCT of Delhi) [Nithya Anand Raghavan v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2017) 8 SCC 454 : (2017) 4 SCC (Civ) 104] and Lahari Sakhamuri v. Sobhan Kodali [Lahari Sakhamuri v. Sobhan Kodali, (2019) 7 SCC 311 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 590] among others. In all these cases, the writ petitions were entertained. Therefore, we reject the contention of the appellant wife that the writ petition before the High Court of Rajasthan was not maintainable."

45. Similar question had arisen before this Court in Manjit Kaur v. State of Punjab14 decided on August 14, 2008 where a minor child of 9 months was taken away by his grand-parents when their daughter-in-law, an N.R.I., had come from abroad for a short period. This court had held relying upon Manju Tiwari Vs. Rajendra Tiwari15 that High Court can exercise jurisdiction vested in it under Article 226 of the Constitution of India with respect to the issuance of writ of habeas corpus when there is illegal detention or wrongful custody, as such, the writ of habeas corpus petition maintainable as the child has been illegally snatched away from mother.

46. In S.P. Chengalvarajna Naidu (dead) by Lrs v. Jagannath16 Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as follows:-

"Fraud-avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal" observed Chief Justice Edward Coke of England about three centuries ago. It is the settled proposition of law that a judgment or decree obtained by playing fraud on the court is a nullity and honest in the eyes of law. Such a judgment/decree - by the first court or by the highest court - has to be treated as a nullity by every court, whether superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any court even in collateral proceedings."

47. For maintainability of writ for the Habeas Corpus the Apex Court in Capt. Dushyant Somal Vs. Sushma Somal17 held:-

3. There can be no question that a writ of habeas corpus is not to be issued as a matter of course, particularly when the writ is sought against a parent for the custody of a child..... ..... But all this does not mean that a writ of habeas corpus cannot or will not be issued against a parent who with impunity snatches away a child from the lawful custody of the other parent, to whom a court has given such custody.

..... The High Court was quite right in coming to the conclusion that the appellant-petitioner had taken away the child unlawfully from the custody of the child's mother. The writ of habeas corpus was, therefore, rightly issued. In the circumstances, on the finding, impossibility of obeying the order was not an excuse which could be properly put forward.

48. In the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Dinshaw (Supra), in para-9, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"The sudden and unauthorised removal of children from one country to another is far too frequent nowadays, and as it seems to me, it is the duty of all courts in all countries to do all they can to ensure that the wrongdoer does not gain an advantage by his wrongdoing.

The courts in all countries ought, as I see it, to be careful not to do anything to encourage this tendency. This substitution of self-help for due process of law in this field can only harm the interests of wards generally, and a Judge should, as I see it, pay regard to the orders of the proper foreign court unless he is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that to do so would inflict serious harm on the child."

49. The opposite party no.2 after having fraudulently taken away the custody of the child from an area falling within the jurisdiction of this court has taken stand that the petitioner is not entitled to maintain the petition of habeas corpus with regard to the custody of child which is not tenable in the eyes of law. Moreover, he plead that custody of the child cannot be removed from him does not lie in his mouth as he played a fraud with the petitioner and later on got a preferential right to keep the custody of the child. The manner in which the child has been taken away from the petitioner cannot have the approval and sanction of law. He should have adopt a legal procedure to take the custody of the child.

50. It is held, therefore, the Bench of High Court Allahabad, at Lucknow has jurisdiction over the matter of child's custody to be removed from father residing at Dhanbad, State of Jharkhand as he retain custody of child in illegal way and the child is in his illegal detention.

51. In the case of Yashita Sahu (Supra), it is held by Hon'ble Apex Court with regard to the comity of courts as under:-

"Comity of courts

In the fast shrinking world where adults marry and shift from one jurisdiction to another there are increasing issues of jurisdiction as to which country's courts will have jurisdiction. In many cases the jurisdiction may vest in two countries. The issue is important and needs to be dealt with care and sensitivity. Though the interest of the child is extremely important and is, in fact, of paramount importance, the courts of one jurisdiction should respect the orders of a court of competent jurisdiction even if it is beyond its territories. When a child is removed by one parent from one country to another, especially in violation of the orders passed by a court, the country to which the child is removed must consider the question of custody and decide whether the court should conduct an elaborate enquiry on the question of child's custody or deal with the matter summarily, ordering the parent to return the custody of the child to the jurisdiction from which the child was removed, and all aspects relating to the child's welfare be investigated in a court in his/her own country."

(iii) Relevant provisions of Law- Maintainability of petition for habeas corpus.

52. Section 6 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 if its proviso being quoted hereunder:-

"6. Natural guardians of a Hindu minor.-- The natural guardian of a Hindu minor, in respect of the minor's person as well as in respect of the minor's property (excluding his or her undivided interest in joint family property), are--

(a) in the case of a boy or an unmarried girl--the father, and after him, the mother: provided that the custody of a minor who has not completed the age of five years shall ordinarily be with the mother;

....."

53. Section 6 (a) of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 which shall hereinafter be called for the purpose of brevity and convenience as "Act of 1956" states that father is the natural guardian of minor, after him the mother becomes the natural guardian. The proviso to the Section 6 (a) states that if the minor is below five years of age then the mother is the natural guardian of the minor child.

54. The law for guardianship under Hindu law was codified under Act of 1956 enacted to define the relation of guardians with the minors their rights and power on the minors' person and property virtually the Act of 1956 is a extended part of the guardianship and Wards Act, 1890. It focuses on the type of guardians and custody of the child. Under the Act of 1956 out of the three types, first is the natural guardian. Section 6 of the Act 1956 states about the guardian of the minor i.e., father, mother or the husband. Father is the natural guardian, after him, mother becomes natural guardian of minor. Even under Section 19 of the Guardianship and Wards Act, 1890 also it is stated that a father cannot be deprived of natural guardianship of child unless he has been found unfit. When the father is alive, he is natural guardian and it is only after him, the mother becomes natural guardian.

55. The guardianship of the minor is not about legal rights of the guardians but it takes the welfare of child into consideration. Section 13 of the Act of 1956 runs as under:-

"13. Welfare of minor to be paramount consideration.--

(1) In the appointment or declaration of any person as guardian of a Hindu minor by a court, the welfare of the minor shall be the paramount consideration.

(2) No person shall be entitled to the guardianship by virtue of the provisions of this Act or of any law relating to guardianship in marriage among Hindus, if the court is of opinion that his or her guardianship will not be for the welfare of the minor."

A bare reading of the aforesaid provision provides as a paramount consideration the welfare of the minor. It is stated that Section 6 should be always read with Section 13 of the Act of 1956.

56. There are two other provisions in Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 namely Section 7 and 17, which are quoted hereunder for easy reference:-

7. Power of the Court to make order as to guardianship.--

(1) Where the Court is satisfied that it is for the welfare of a minor that an order should be made--

(a) appointing a guardian of his person or property or both, or

(b) declaring a person to be such a guardian the Court may make an order accordingly.

(2) An order under this section shall imply the removal of any guardian who has not been appointed by will or other instrument or appointed or declared by the Court.

(3) Where a guardian has been appointed by will or other instrument or appointed or declared by the Court, an order under this section appointing or declaring another person to be guardian in his stead shall not be made until the powers of the guardian appointed or declared as aforesaid have ceased under the provisions of this Act.

17. Matters to be considered by the Court in appointing guardian.--

(1) In appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor, the Court shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be guided by what, consistently with the law to which the minor is subject, appears in the circumstances to be for the welfare of the minor.

(2) In considering what will be for the welfare of the minor, the Court shall have regard to the age, sex and religion of the minor, the character and capacity of the proposed guardian and his nearness of kin to the minor, the wishes, if any, of a deceased parent, and any existing or previous relations of the proposed guardian with the minor or his property.

(3) If minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the Court may consider that preference. 1[]

(5) The Court shall not appoint or declare any person to be a guardian against his will.

57. This would be pertinent here to clarify that this court in the instant petition for issuance of writ of habeas corpus has no need to declare and appoint "Guardian' of the minor. The scope of the instant writ is confined to the custody of minor to either one of the parents the natural guardians of the minor child, keeping in consideration his best interest and welfare. The word "welfare" should not be weighed with money nor should be judged on the ground of mere physical comfort but it should also be a moral and ethical welfare of the child alongwith physical well being.

(iv) Welfare of the child.

58. In the case before High Court in Habeas Corpus petition Shigorika Singh (Supra), the Corpus Shigorika Singh borne out of wedlock of Dr Ayushi Singh (mother) and opposite party no.1, Dr. Abhinandan Singh (father). By reason of some serious matrimonial differences they were separated including harassment and physical torture. The wife was dropped by father of the child with her minor daughter to her maternal home on 25.10.2018 and since then they were living together with the parents of mother, though father was visiting regularly to both of them without any objection from the mother's maternal family. In the facts involved in this case the father of Shigorika visited the maternal home of her mother on 10.1.2020 at about 7 to 8 p.m. and pretending that he wants to meet with his daughter sitting in the car, thus he taken the daughter from her mother's custody and drove away with the daughter. Mother seen the daughter being driven away with the father raised alarm but the father left the spot with the daughter, subsequently, on his denial the petition in the nature of Habeas Corpus was filed against father by the mother seeking custody of daughter. In that case also the court had relied on the judgment of Yashita Sahu Vs. State of Rajasthan. In a Habeas Corpus petition as aforesaid, the High Court must examine at the threshold, whether a minor is in lawful or unlawful custody of any person private respondents named in the writ petition. The court in the above case was of the opinion that the custody of daughter with his father was illegal, consequent thereupon writ petition was allowed with a direction that custody of daughter should be immediately handover to mother.

59. In another case before this court in Meenakshi and others (Supra), mother was the first petitioner and father was the respondent no.9, they were married on 20.4.2014, out of their wedlock for a period of four years throughout of her marriage she was tortured physically and mentally in connection with the demand of dowry. She went back to her mother's house on 4.6.2018 with a son born on 20.9.2016, the Court held in para-18 and 19 as under:-

18. There is little doubt about the issue that though both the mother and the father are natural guardians, a writ of habeas corpus may issue, because the Court can still determine the legality of the custody with reference to the question of the minor's welfare. As it is said, it is not so much about the rights of the parents to an exclusive custody of the child, as it is about the child's welfare. It is, therefore, lawful for the Court to exercise its jurisdiction and issue a writ of habeas corpus to place the child in a custody, where his/ her welfare appears to the Court to have the best prospects. This petition is, therefore, held to be maintainable.

19. It must be remarked here that the mother has come up with serious allegations about her son being kidnapped by force, by none else than her brother and being delivered into her husband's custody. In their counter affidavit, filed by respondent nos. 6 to 8, that allegation has been vociferously denied. Meenakshi's attempts to put the process of criminal law in motion with regard to her allegations about the minor's kidnapping have failed with the police, and the Judicial Magistrate too, has declined to order the police to register and investigate the case; the Magistrate has directed the matter to proceed as a complaint case. Meenakshi's brother and husband have both denied allegations about the minor being kidnapped. So far as this Court is concerned, there is no tangible evidence about the minor's alleged forcible removable from the mother's custody. This Court is not inclined to probe the matter further, bearing in mind the relationship between parties, and the minor's welfare.

Further, in para-25 held as under:-

25. No doubt, the father and the mother, are both natural guardians, if one goes by Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956. The mother's right and that of the father, under Section 6(a) as to guardianship has been considered at par by the Supreme Court in Githa Hariharan (Ms) and another vs. Reserve Bank of India and another, (1999) 2 SCC 228. So far as custody goes, as distinct from guardianship, between the two natural guardians, the mother is to be preferred by virtue of the proviso to Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956, in the case of a child below five years of age.

60. Ultimately, the court held that generally speaking further the custody of a minor child of tender age below the age of 5 years ought to be with mother subject to several exceptions. This court allowed the writ petition of habeas corpus and ordered that minor who is presently in the custody of his father shall be delivered into the custody of mother within 3 days from receipt of copy of this order. In case minor's custody is not handover to his mother then that time the Chief Judicial Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police of the District acting in aid of Chief Judicial Magistrate shall cause the minor to be delivered into the custody of his mother after taking it out from the custody of his father.

61. In the case of Roxann Sharma (Supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court held about the custody of a Hindu child aged about 5 years considering the entitlement of father vis-a-vis mother, in para 10 to 15 as under:-

10. Section 6 of the HMG Act is of seminal importance. It reiterates Section 4(b) and again clarifies that guardianship covers both the person as well as the property of the minor; and then controversially states that the father and after him the mother shall be the natural guardian of a Hindu. Having said so, it immediately provides that the custody of a minor who has not completed the age of 5 years shall ordinarily be with the mother. The significance and amplitude of the proviso has been fully clarified by decisions of this Court and very briefly stated, a proviso is in the nature of an exception to what has earlier been generally prescribed. The use of the word "ordinarily" cannot be over-emphasised. It ordains a presumption, albeit a rebuttable one, in favour of the mother. The learned Single Judge appears to have lost sight of the significance of the use of word "ordinarily" inasmuch as he has observed in paragraph 13 of the Impugned Order that the Mother has not established her suitability to be granted interim custody of Thalbir who at that point in time was an infant. The proviso places the onus on the father to prove that it is not in the welfare of the infant child to be placed in the custody of his/her mother. The wisdom of the Parliament or the Legislature should not be trifled away by a curial interpretation which virtually nullifies the spirit of the enactment.

11. We shall now consider the relevance of the precedents cited before us by the learned Senior Counsel for the Father. In Sarita Sharma vs. Sushil Sharma (2000) 3 SCC 14, in defiance of the orders passed by the Jurisdictional Court in the U.S., the mother, Sarita, had returned to India with two children from their matrimonial relationship. The High Court viewed that the divorce decree and custodial directions having emanated from a competent Court deserve to be honoured, and accordingly allowed the Habeas Corpus Petition and directed the mother to return the custody of the children to the father, Sushil. This Court was not persuaded that further consideration by Courts in India as to whether the interests of the children, which were paramount, stood foreclosed and could not be cogitated upon again. As regards Section 6 of the HMG Act, it opined that although it constitutes the Father as a natural guardian of a minor son it could not be considered as superseding its paramount consideration as to what is conducive to the welfare of the minor. These observations were reiterated and this Court reversed the decision of the High Court holding that the interests and welfare of the children dictated that the custody should be with their mother. This case, therefore, militates against the legal and factual position which the Father seeks to essay before us. It is also important to underscore the fact that both the children were over the age of five, a fortiori, the custody should not have been reversed in the case in hand by the High Court from the Mother to the Father since Thalbir was then around one year old and is presently still less than three years old.

12. Learned Senior Counsel has next drawn our attention to Mausami Moitra Ganguli vs. Jayant Ganguli, (2008) 7 SCC 673. In this case also, this Court was confronted with the custody conflict over 10 year male child. We must be quick to point out that the Court did not consider Section 6 of the HMG Act after detailing the factors which were indicative of the position that the welfare of the child lies with continuing the custody with the father, this Court dismissed the mother's appeal. The facts are totally distinguishable. The ratio continues to be that it is the welfare of a minor which has paramount importance.

13. The HMG Act postulates that the custody of an infant or a tender aged child should be given to his/her mother unless the father discloses cogent reasons that are indicative of and presage the livelihood of the welfare and interest of the child being undermined or jeopardised if the custody retained by the mother. Section 6(a) of HMG Act, therefore, preserves the right of the father to be the guardian of the property of the minor child but not the guardian of his person whilst the child is less than five years old. It carves out the exception of interim custody, in contradistinction of guardianship, and then specifies that custody should be given to the mother so long as the child is below five years in age. We must immediately clarify that this Section or for that matter any other provision including those contained in the G&W Act, does not disqualify the mother to custody of the child even after the latter's crossing the age of five years.

14. We must not lose sight of the fact that our reflections must be restricted to aspects that are relevant for the granting of interim custody of an infant. The Trial is still pending.

The learned Single Judge in the Impugned Order has rightly taken note of the fact that the Mother was holding a Tenured College Professorship, was a post-graduate from the renowned Haward University, receiving a regular salary. Whether she had a Bi-polar personality which made her unsuitable for interim custody of her infant son Thalbir had not been sufficiently proved. In the course of present proceedings it has been disclosed that the Father has only passed High School and is not even a graduate. It has also not been denied or disputed before us that he had undergone drug rehabilitation and that he was the member of Narcotics Anonymous. This is compounded by the fact that he is not in regular employment or has independent income. As on date he is not an Income tax assessee although he has claimed to have earned Rupees 40,000 to 50,000 per month in the past three years. We must again clarify that the father's suitability to custody is not relevant where the child whose custody is in dispute is below five years since the mother is per se best suited to care for the infant during his tender age. It is for the Father to plead and prove the Mother's unsuitability since Thalbir is below five years of age. In these considerations the father's character and background will also become relevant but only once the Court strongly and firmly doubts the mother's suitability; only then and even then would the comparative characteristic of the parents come into play. This approach has not been adopted by the learned Single Judge, whereas it has been properly pursued by the learned Civil Judge.

15. In the course of the hearings before us temporary visitation rights were granted to the Mother under the provision of a social worker who had been appointed by the Maharashtra State Legal Service Authority. We have had the advantage of perusing her very diligent and detailed Reports which vividly recount the initial reluctance and antipathy of Thalbir to his Mother, which very quickly came to be naturalised because of the maternal affection of the Mother. The Reports of the Social Worker lucidly indicate that at present Thalbir is extremely comfortable and happy in the company of his Mother but becomes agitated at the sight of his Father when he has to return to him. The Social Worker has also fervently pleaded that her Reports should be kept sealed for fear of the Father. This is extremely disturbing to us just as we expect it should be to the Father also.

62. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.3 to 6 relied on the judgment of Vahin Saxena (Minor Corpus (Supra), wherein the petitioner corpus born in the year 2012, the mother of child as such to left her maternal home in the year 2012 alongwith minor child and since then he is with his mother, a divorce petition was also pending between husband and wife, para-22 has held as under:-

"22. In a child custody matter, a writ of habeas corpus would be entertainable where it is established that the detention of the minor child by the parent or others is illegal and without authority of law. In a writ court, where rights are determined on the basis of affidavits, in a case where the court is of a view that a detailed enquiry would be required, it may decline to exercise the extraordinary jurisdiction and direct the parties to approach the appropriate forum. The remedy ordinarily in such matters would lie under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 195613 or the Guardians and Wards Act, 189014, as the case may be."

And, ultimately held that since the case involves a proceeding between husband and wife under the Hindu Marriage Act pending before the Family Court and all reliefs and claims are open to raise before the said forum and in other appropriate proceeding. The petitioner no.1, the minor at liberty to go back along with the respondent, mother to the place from where they have come with dismissing the petition of father.

63. Likewise, in the judgement delivered by this court in Reshu @ Nitya (Supra) para 47 is relevant to quote here with regard to the character of the proposed guardian:-

47. Considering the facts of the case in particular the allegations against the respondent and pendency of a criminal case for an offence punishable under Section 498-A IPC, it was observed in the decision in the case of Nil Ratan Kundu that one of the matters which is required to be considered by a court of law is 'character' of the proposed guardian and that the same would be a relevant factor. It was observed thus :-

"63. In our considered opinion, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, both the courts were duty-bound to consider the allegations against the respondent herein and pendency of the criminal case for an offence punishable under Section 498-A IPC. One of the matters which is required to be considered by a court of law is the "character" of the proposed guardian. In Kirtikumar10, this Court, almost in similar circumstances, where the father was facing the charge under Section 498-A IPC, did not grant custody of two minor children to the father and allowed them to remain with the maternal uncle.

64. Thus, a complaint against the father alleging and attributing the death of the mother, and a case under Section 498-A IPC is indeed a relevant factor and a court of law must address the said circumstance while deciding the custody of the minor in favour of such a person. To us, it is no answer to state that in case the father is convicted, it is open to the maternal grandparents to make an appropriate application for change of custody. Even at this stage, the said fact ought to have been considered and an appropriate order ought to have been passed."

64. Further, in para 48 and 49 of the aforesaid judgment, the father's preferential rights to the custody of minor child was not given weight on the ground that it would not be in the interest of children to hand over the custody to father. The respective Paras are quoted here under:-

48. In an earlier decision in the case of Kirtikumar Maheshankar Joshi vs. Pradipkumar Karunashanker Joshi10, where in almost similar circumstances the father was facing a charge under Section 498-A I.P.C., it was held that though the father being a natural guardian, has a preferential right to the custody of the children, but in the facts and circumstances of the case, it would not be in the interest of the children to hand over their custody to the father.

49. It is, therefore, seen that in an application seeking a writ of habeas corpus for custody of a minor child, as is the case herein, the principal consideration for the court would be to ascertain whether the custody of the child can be said to be unlawful and illegal and whether the welfare of the child requires that the present custody should be changed and the child should be handed over in the care and custody of somebody else other than in whose custody the child presently is.

65. Ultimately the petition of the father was dismissed with the finding recorded in para 59 that it would be relevant to bear in mind that in deciding questions relating to custody of a minor child, as in the present case, the paramount consideration would be welfare of the minor and not the competing rights with regard to guardianship agitated by the parties for which the proper remedy would be before the appropriate statutory forum.

66. Further, learned counsel for the opposite party no.3 to 6 relied on the judgment of Ruchi Majoo (Supra) wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"A child of NRI parents was born in America. The wife on account of husband's alleged addiction in pornographic films, internet sex and adulterous behavior during the couple's stay in America, took a decision to educate the child in Delhi and the husband consented to it. But later the husband filed a case of abduction of minor child against the wife in America and an Interpol red corner notice was issued against the wife.

The wife took refuge udder an order passed by the District Court, Delhi in a petition filed under Section 7, 8, 10, 11 of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890 granting interim custody of the minor ro her. A writ filed by the husband was allowed by the impugned order of the High Court, whereby the High Court set aside the order passed by the District Court and dismissed the custody case filed by the mother.

The main question in this appeal were: (I) whether the High Court was justified in dismissing the petition for custody of the minor on the ground that the court at Delhi had no jurisdiction to entertain the same, (ii) whether the High Court was right in declining exercise of jurisdiction on the principle of comity of courts, and (iii) whether the order granting interim custody to the mother of the minor called for any modification in terms of grant of visitation rights to the father, pending disposal of the petition by the trial court.

Allowing the appeal and answering the first two questions in the negative and the third question in the affirmative, the Supreme Court held:

The court of Delhi was in the facts and circumstances of the case competent to entertain the application filed by the appellant."

(v) Mother being a natural guardian, her importance in the life of petitioner no.1 (detenue, Devansh Agrawal) who is an infant child of approximately two years the legal rights of the natural guardian and the paramount interest of the child.

"Only mothers can think of the future because they give birth to it in their children.

Maxim Gorky"

There is a Sanskrit Shlok authored by Maharshi Ved Vyas in Skand Purana devoted to the importance and magnanimity of "Mother" which is quoted hereunder:-

नास्ति मातृसमा छाया
नास्ति मातृसमा गतिः।
नास्ति मातृसमा त्राणं
नास्ति मातृसमा प्रपा।

Means,

"there is no shelter like a mother,
no sustenance (support) like a mother,
no protection like a mother,
no vitaliser like a mother."

67. It is settled law by our courts that while deciding matters of custody of a child the only basis must be what would be in the best interest of child.

68. The role of the mother in the development of a child's personality can never be doubtful, a child receives the best shelter and protection through the mother, naturally mother is required for any child to grow up in her company neither the father nor any other person can give the same kind of love, affection, care and sympathies to a child as that of mother. The presence and company of mother is always in the welfare of the minor child.

69. In Eugenia Archetti Abdullah Vs. State of Kerala18, a Division Bench of Kerala High Court observed that for an infant child of less than three years lap of the mother is a natural cradle where the safety and welfare of children can be assured and there is no substitute for the same.

70. The mothers role in the early childhood and development of the child is well recognized in the literature as well in the legal panorama of the nation. Mothers play a great role in their children's life, caring them, loving them, teaching them and so much more. A mother's role is important in developing a child's potential in his/her early age. Early childhood is that important part of life in which developmentally, a child is learning a lot from their surrounding and people around them which will impact their growing years. Therefore, as the main persons in a child's life at this stage, a mother's relationship with a child is crucial.

(vi) Best interest of the child

71. In Yashita Sahu Vs. State of Rajasthan (Supra), Hon'ble Apex Court held in para-18 and 19 as under:-

"18. Thereafter, another Bench of this Court in Lahari Sakhamuri [Lahari Sakhamuri v. Sobhan Kodali, (2019) 7 SCC 311 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 590] , while interpreting the judgment in Nithya Anand Raghavan [Nithya Anand Raghavan v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2017) 8 SCC 454 : (2017) 4 SCC (Civ) 104] held as follows : (Lahari Sakhamuri case [Lahari Sakhamuri v. Sobhan Kodali, (2019) 7 SCC 311 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 590] , SCC p. 337, para 41)

"41. ... the doctrines of comity of courts, intimate connect, orders passed by foreign courts having jurisdiction in the matter regarding custody of the minor child, citizenship of the parents and the child, etc., cannot override the consideration of the best interest and the welfare of the child and that the direction to return the child to the foreign jurisdiction must not result in any physical, mental, psychological, or other harm to the child."

19. We are of the considered view that the doctrine of comity of courts is a very healthy doctrine. If courts in different jurisdictions do not respect the orders passed by each other it will lead to contradictory orders being passed in different jurisdictions. No hard-and-fast guidelines can be laid down in this regard and each case has to be decided on its own facts. We may, however, again reiterate that the welfare of the child will always remain the paramount consideration."

72. In the case of Gaurav Nagpal Vs. Sumedha Nagpal19 Hon'ble Apex Court in cases of dispute between mother and father expected the courts to strike a just and proper balance between the requirements of welfare of the minor children and the rights of their respective parents over them. It is held in para-48 which runs as under:-

48. Merely because there is no defect in his personal care and his attachment for his children--which every normal parent has, he would not be granted custody. Simply because the father loves his children and is not shown to be otherwise undesirable does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that the welfare of the children would be better promoted by granting their custody to him. Children are not mere chattels nor are they toys for their parents. Absolute right of parents over the destinies and the lives of their children, in the modern changed social conditions must yield to the considerations of their welfare as human beings so that they may grow up in a normal balanced manner to be useful members of the society and the guardian court in case of a dispute between the mother and the father, is expected to strike a just and proper balance between the requirements of welfare of the minor children and the rights of their respective parents over them.

73. The word "welfare' is given meaning by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Gaurav Nagpal (Supra) in para-51 which runs as under:-

51. The word "welfare" used in Section 13 of the Act has to be construed literally and must be taken in its widest sense. The moral and ethical welfare of the child must also weigh with the court as well as its physical well-being. Though the provisions of the special statutes which govern the rights of the parents or guardians may be taken into consideration, there is nothing which can stand in the way of the court exercising its parens patriae jurisdiction arising in such cases.

74. In Anjali Kapoor (Smt.) Vs. Rajiv Baijal20 Hon'ble Apex Court further explained the word welfare as under:-

"21. In Walker v. Walker & Harrison [1981 New Ze Recent Law 257] the New Zealand Court (cited by British Law Commission, Working Paper No. 96) stated that:

"Welfare is an all-encompassing word. It includes material welfare; both in the sense of adequacy of resources to provide a pleasant home and a comfortable standard of living and in the sense of an adequacy of care to ensure that good health and due personal pride are maintained. However, while material considerations have their place they are secondary matters. More important are the stability and the security, the loving and understanding care and guidance, the warm and compassionate relationships that are essential for the full development of the child's own character, personality and talents."

75. In deciding the question as to the custody of minor child to anyone of the parent the elements required to be considered is not only the absolute right of the guardian superseding the interest of the child. Hon'ble The Apex Court in para 2 and 5 of the judgment in Sumedha Nagpal Vs. State of Delhi & Ors.21

"2. Both parties do recognise that the question of custody of the child will have to be ultimately decided in proceedings arising under Section 25 of the Guardians & Wards Act read with Section 6 of the Act and while deciding such a question, welfare of the minor child is of primary consideration. Allegations and counter-allegations have been made in this case by the petitioner and Respondent 2 against each other narrating circumstances as to how the estrangement took place and how each one of them is entitled to the custody of the child. Since these are disputed facts, unless the pleadings raised by the parties are examined with reference to evidence by an appropriate forum, a proper decision in the matter cannot be taken and such a course is impossible in a summary proceeding such as writ petition under Article 32 of the Constitution.

5. In deciding such a question, what we have to bear in mind is the welfare of the minor child and not decide such a question merely based upon the rights of the parties under the law. In the pleadings and the material placed before us, we cannot say that there is any, much less clinching, material to show that the welfare of the minor child is at peril and calls for an interference. The trauma that the child is likely to experience in the event of change of such custody, pending proceedings before a court of competent jurisdiction, will have to be borne in mind. We are conscious of the emphasis laid by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the lap of a mother is the natural cradle where the safety and welfare of the child can be assured and there is no substitute for the same, but still we feel that at this stage of the proceedings it would not be appropriate for us to interfere in the matter and leave all matters arising in the case to be decided by an appropriate forum irrespective of whatever we have stated in the course of this order. Even though we have dealt with the contentions raised by Shri D.D. Thakur as to grant of interim custody to the petitioner, we should not be understood as having held that a petition would lie under Article 32 for grant of custody of a minor child; we refrain from examining or deciding the same."

76. In Rosy Jacob Vs. Jacob A. Chakramakkal 22 the Apex Court observed in para 7 as under:-

In his view the principle on which the Court should decide the fitness of the guardian mainly depends on two factors :(i) the father's fitness or otherwise to be the guardian and (ii) the interests of the minors. Considering these factors it was felt that both the parties in the present case loved their children who were happy during their stay with both of their parents.

77. In Anjali Kapoor (Smt.) (Supra), Hon'ble Apex Court relying on its two other judgments observed in para 17 and 19:-

17. In Elizabeth Dinshaw v. Arvand M. Dinshaw [(1987) 1 SCC 42 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 13 : AIR 1987 SC 3] this Court has observed that whenever a question arises before court pertaining to the custody of the minor child, the matter is to be decided not on consideration of the legal rights of the parties but on the sole and predominant criterion of what would best serve the interest and welfare of the child.

19. In McGrath (infants), Re [(1893) 1 Ch 143 : 62 LJ Ch 208 (CA)] it was observed that: (Ch p. 148)

"... The dominant matter for the consideration of the court is the welfare of the child. But the welfare of a child is not to be measured by money only, nor by physical comfort only. The word welfare must be taken in its widest sense. The moral and religious welfare of the child must be considered as well as its physical well-being. Nor can the ties of affection be disregarded."

78. In Mausami Moitra Ganguli Vs. Jayant Ganguli23 Supreme Court observed in para-19 as under:-

19. The principles of law in relation to the custody of a minor child are well settled. It is trite that while determining the question as to which parent the care and control of a child should be committed, the first and the paramount consideration is the welfare and interest of the child and not the rights of the parents under a statute. Indubitably, the provisions of law pertaining to the custody of a child contained in either the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 (Section 17) or the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 (Section 13) also hold out the welfare of the child as a predominant consideration. In fact, no statute, on the subject, can ignore, eschew or obliterate the vital factor of the welfare of the minor.

79. In Rosy Jacob (Supra), the Apex Court observed "Merely because the father loves his children and is not shown to be otherwise undesirable cannot necessarily lead to the conclusion that the welfare of the children would be better promoted by granting their custody to him as against the wife who may also be equally affectionate towards her children and otherwise equally free from blemish, and, who, in addition, because of her profession and financial resources, may be in a position to guarantee better health, education and maintenance for them".

80. After going through the case laws propounded by Hon'ble Apex Court with regard to the interest and welfare of the child, this Court has also required to evaluate the facts and circumstances involved in the present case with regard to the custody of minor child, Master Devansh Agarwal whether lies with the present custody i.e, with father or lies in removal of custody from the father to hand over the same to his mother.

81. In the foregoing discussion this court has already held the custody of father, opposite party no.3 is illegal, then also it is necessary to look into the best interest of the child, his physical and financial comfort, emotional attachment with natural guardian as well as the gravity of love, affection and care of either of the parent towards the minor child. The child since his birth on 3.7.2018 in Lucknow was ever been with the mother till 7.6.2020 when he was taken away from Lucknow to Dhanbad by the father at the age approximately below two years. The mother in her petition supported with the affidavit has stated that the child has never been parted from her throughout the aforesaid period and he heavily depends on her for his feeding, still depends on mother's milk. In other words, it is undoubtedly admitted fact that father has never been in custody of the child since his birth before 7.6.2020 when he landed suddenly at the house of petitioners in Lucknow on the pretext of offering some reconciliation. Naturally, the father would have not acquainted with the habit and requirement of the child for his nourishment, his care and requirements.

82. In his counter affidavit father emphatically stated his rights as natural guardian of the child to retain his custody and protested the removal of custody from him for the purpose repatriating the child to the custody of his mother again. He has also stated about the joint family who took responsibility of upbringing the child, caring him with love and affection but as the love and affection of a mother towards his child cannot be substituted from any others love and affection, the child is bound to loose her mother, even the father has stopped him seeing the mother, despite order of the court. The child is admittedly below the age of five years much tender in age approximately two years and he needs a lot of love from his mother. A Sanskrit Shlok for the requirement of a growing child since his birth is quoted hereunder:-

लालयेत् पंचवर्षाणि
दशवर्षाणि ताडयेत्
प्राप्ते तु षोडशे वर्षे पुत्रं
मित्रवदाचरेत्।

Meaning thereby, upto the age of five, love your child a lot, upto the age of ten be strict with him but when the child reaches the age of 16, treat him like a friend.

83. In the judgment above cited time and again it is held by Hon'ble Apex Court that the custody of a minor child primarily be decided not on consideration of legal right of the parties but on the sole and predominant criteria what would best served for the interest of the child. The word "welfare" must be taken in widest sense the moral and religious welfare of the child must be consider as well as its physical well-being. In considering the welfare the ties and bond with a child is natural cannot be substituted by any other thing like compassion, comfort or care. In the present case, the counter affidavit of father has repeated in so many words his competency with regard to physical comfort and financial support to the child as well as the love and care, the child attaining from the joint family. In Gaurav Nagpal (Supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that simply because the father loves his children does not necessarily lead to the conclusions that the welfare of the children would be better promoted by granting their custody to him.

(vii) Conclusion

84. Here, in the present case the detention of the minor child by the father is held illegal and without authority of law. Further, it has been observed by this court during pendency of petition several orders of the court with regard to the production of child and even to facilitate the meeting of the mother with the child were flouted over by the father. This is enough to show that father not only has taken away the child illegally from the custody of mother but also he had not left any opportunity for the child to see his mother or the mother to see her child. This conduct of the father if taken with the facts of differences between the husband and wife i.e., the mother of the child by reason of which they are separately residing and the fact that the F.I.R. under Sections 498-A, 336, 506 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act is lodged against father with regard to cruelty in connection with the demand of dowry and abduction of the child, there is reason to believe that father in furtherance of his malice towards mother will also make brain wash of the child towards his mother that would not be in the interest and welfare of the child. The mother is competent enough to take care, maintenance and upbringing of the child with the love and affection. She deserves to have custody of the child removing the same from the father.

85. In view of the above circumstances, the writ of habeas corpus is required to be issued to opposite party no.3 to produce the child before this Court on 20.12.2021 for handing over the same to the petitioner no.2 (mother), however, he will be at liberty to get finally decided his rights of exclusive custody as guardian by the family court or court of Guardians and Wards Act which are competent to declare the same in the welfare of the child on the basis of evidences produced before the said courts.

86. Opposite party no.3 is directed to produce the child in the court at 2:00 p.m. on 20.12.2021 for handing over the custody of the child to the petitioner no.2 (mother). The order regarding the visitation rights of opposite party no.3 will be passed after the child is produced in the court.

87. The opposite party no.2, S.H.O. Police Station Aliganj, Lucknow is directed to ensure the production of child alongwith opposite party no.3 in the court on the date fixed for implementation of the order. The expenses for the journey with companion if any deposited in the court pursuant to the order dated 20.1.2021 still remains unexhausted which shall be paid to the opposite party no.3 by the Senior Registrar of the court after handing over the child by the opposite party no.3 to petitioner no.2 (mother).

88. The instant writ petition of habeas corpus is disposed of in the above said terms.

89. Office is directed to list for implementation of the order on 20.12.2021.

90. The Senior Registrar of the court is directed to promptly serve the copy of the judgment to the opposite party no.3 in person in addition to the service in ordinary process through e-mail also and to the Superintendent of Police, Dhanbad for facilitating the implementation of order through his official Fax and e-mail.

91. The opposite party no.2, S.H.O., Police Station Aliganj, Lucknow shall get copy of the order promptly and constitute a police team to recover the child with opposite party no.3, so as to ensure the production of the child before the court on the date of implementation.

Kallu @ Ravi) arising out of Crime No.32 of 2014, under Sections 377 I.P.C. and Section 3(A)/4 POCSO Act, Police Station Kakadeo by which appellant was convicted and sentenced under Section 377 I.P.C. for a period of 10 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.20,000 and under Section 4 POCSO Act for a period of 10 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.20,000 and in default of payment of fine to undergo additional simple imprisonment for a period of 2 years respectively.

2. Fact in brief are that informant Subodh Kumar @ Guddu is resident of B-52, Rajapurwa opposite to Ambedkar Park, Police Station Kakadeo, District Kanpur Nagar. On 07.02.2014 at about 9:30 P.M. nephew of informant aged about 8 years was playing outside the house. Appellant took him into the Ambedkar Park with bad intention and committed sodomy. Hearing shriek of the victim, informant and his brother Manoj went towards the park. Seeing them appellant fled away by jumping the grill. On the same day a written tehrir was given at the police station Kakadeo on the basis 2 of which F.I.R. was lodged at about 10:30 P.M.

3. Majrubi chitthi was prepared in the police station and victim was sent to L.L.R. Hospital for medical examination.

4. Medical examination was done by Medical Officer, L.L.R. Hospital, Kanpur Nagar on 08.02.2014 at about 1:15 P.M. Detail of which is as under :-

(I) Anal mucosal tears present on interior and posterior wall of anus at 12 O'clock and 6 O'clock position, fresh bleeding coming out during pushing of anal wall in opposite direction.

(II) Yellowish white material present on anal opening. Slide prepared for examination of semen/spermatozoa and handed over to the police.

(III) Opinion :- patient admitted u/o of Dr. Pawan Singh for expert opinion and management as a case of sexual assault by male partner. Injury no.1 caused by sodomy, fresh in duration and kept under observation, slide preparation done for examination of semen/spermatozoa of yellowish while material and handed over to police. On microscopic examination of swab/slide smears were negative for spermatozoa.

5. Investigation of the case was handed over to S.I. Ramakant Dubey who took in possession the clothes of victim, made spot inspection, prepared site plan and recorded statements of victim and of other witnesses. On the material collected during the investigation he prepared charge-sheet and submitted before the court concerned.

6. The court concerned took cognizance of the offences and in compliance of Section 207 Cr.P.C. necessary copies of police 3 papers were given to the appellant.

7. On the basis of material on record charge under Section 377
I.P.C. and Â¾ POCSO Act was framed which was read over and explained to the appellant who did not plead guilty but denied and claimed for trial.

8. In support of its case, prosecution adduced PW-1 Subodh Kumar informant, PW-2 victim as witness of fact, PW-3 Constable Satyendra Singh who prepared the F.I.R., PW-4 Dr. Vinay Kumar who examined the victim, PW-5 S.I. Ramakant Dubey who investigated the case and PW-6 Dr. Looba Khan the pathologist, PW-7 Manoj (uncle of the victim) a witness of fact.

9. After conclusion of prosecution evidence statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded in which he stated about the incident to be false and the witnesses deposing falsely. In defence he produced DW-1 Pradeep Yadav, DW-2 Sunil and DW-3 Radha.

10. After hearing the arguments made by learned counsel for the appellant as well as learned counsel on behalf of the State and on perusal of record, learned trial court passed the judgment and order dated 09.08.2017 while convicting and sentencing the appellant as aforesaid. Being aggrieved with the judgment and order he has preferred this appeal.

11. Heard Sri Shive Datta Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State.

12 . Learned counsel for the appellant submits that no independent witness was examined by the prosecution whereas the alleged incident took place in a park that is an open public place. The medical report has also not supported the prosecution 4 version, all the witnesses are interested witnesses and close relatives of the victim. No semen or spermatozoa was found on the anus and on the clothes of the victim during pathological examination. In this way, the prosecution could not prove it's case beyond reasonable doubt. The judgment under challenge is against the facts on record and also against the law. Without considering these facts, the learned trial court has awarded severe punishment to appellant.

13. At the outset, learned counsel for the appellant confined his argument to the quantum of sentence only without challenging the impugned judgment and order on merits. He has further submitted that as per statement of appellant recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. his age was 18 years at the time of recording the statement on 04.06.2015 whereas the incident took place on 07.02.2014, which shows that he was aged about 17 years at the time of occurrence. Considering the tender age of the appellant, a liberal view may be taken by the court. He has further submitted that appellant remained in jail throughout the trial from the date of incident and as such he has been in jail for the last more than 7 years. Minimum sentence provided under Section Â¾ POCSO Act is 7 years he, therefore, requested that considering the period already served in the jail, the sentence awarded to the appellant, may be modified to the minimum as provided under the Act.

14. He further submitted that learned trial court has awarded separate sentence under Section 377 I.P.C. and under Section 4 POCSO Act whereas on the analogy of Section 42 of POCSO Act accused be awarded sentence under the law which provides greater punishment. In view of this legal position learned trial court might have awarded sentence either under Section 377 I.P.C. or under Section 4 POCSO Act.

15. Learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State supported the impugned judgment and order of learned trial court and submitted that victim is a minor boy and act of the appellant is heinous in nature and trial court after appreciating all the evidence available on record, rightly convicted the appellant for the offences under Section 377 I.P.C. & Section 4 POCSO Act. The appellant deserves no leniency, hence appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

16. Section ¾ of POCSO Act reads as under:

Section 3: Penetrative sexual assault.- A person is said to commit 'penetrative sexual assault' if- (a) he penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a child or makes the child to do so with him or any other person; or (b) he inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of the child or makes the child to do so with him or any other person; or (c) he manipulates any part of the body of the child so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of body of the child or makes the child to do so with him or any other person; or (d) he applies his mouth to the penis, vagina, anus urethra of the child or makes the child to do so to such person or any other person.

Section 4: Punishment for penetrative sexual assault.- Whoever commits penetrative sexual assault shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine.

17. Section 377 I.P.C. reads as under :-

377. Unnatural offences.— Whoever voluntarily has carnal intercourse against the order of nature with any man, woman or animal, shall be punished with 1[imprisonment for life], or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine. Explanation.— Penetration is sufficient to constitute the carnal intercourse necessary to the offence described in this section.

18. Section 42 of POCSO Act reads as under :-

42. Alternate Punishment:- Where an act or omission constitutes an offence punishable under this Act and also under sections 166A, 354A, 354B, 354C, 3540, 370, 370A, 375, 376, 376A, 376C, 3760, 376E or section 509 of the Indian Penal Code, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, the offender found guilty of such offence shall be liable to punishment under this Act or under the Indian Penal Code as provides for punishment which is greater in degree.

19. Regarding submission made by learned counsel for the appellant that on the analogy of Section 42 of POCSO Act, the learned trial court might have awarded sentence either under Section 377 I.P.C. or under Section 4 POCSO Act, which provides greater punishment, it is to note that the offence mentioned under Section 42 of POCSO Act does not include offence under Section 377 I.P.C., therefore, Section 42 of the Act cannot be taken recourse with, while awarding sentence.

20. While dealing with the quantum of sentence, it is expedient to go through the legal position in this regard.

21. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, AIR 1977 SC 1926, explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to antesocial behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by re-culturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

22. In Sham Sunder vs Puran, (1990) 4 SCC 731, where the 7 high court reduced the sentence for the offence under section 304 part I into undergone, the supreme court opined that the sentence needs to be enhanced being inadequate. It was held:

"The court in fixing the punishment for any particular crime should take into consideration the nature of offence, the circumstances in which it was committed, the degree of deliberation shown by the offender. The measure of punishment should be proportionate to the gravity of offence."

23. In State of MP vs Najab Khan, (2013) 9 SCC 509, the high court, while upholding conviction, reduced the sentence of 3 years by already undergone which was only 15 days. The supreme court restored the sentence awarded by the trial court. Referring the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP (2010) 12 SCC 532, Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, (2012) 8 SCC 734, the court observed as follows:

"In operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or the deterrence based on factual matrix. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice dispensation system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The courts must not only keep in view the rights of victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment."

24. Earlier, "Proper Sentence" was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP (2004) 7 SCC 257 by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the principle of proportionately. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into 8 account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

25. In subsequent decisions, the supreme court has laid emphasis on proportional sentencing by affirming the doctrine of proportionality. In Shyam Narain vs State (NCT of delhi), (2013) 7 SCC 77, it was pointed out that sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed with regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realize that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in the life of the victim but also a concavity in the social fabric. The purpose of just punishment is that the society may not suffer again by such crime. The principle of proportionality between the crime committed and the penalty imposed are to be kept in mind. The impact on the society as a whole has to be seen. Similar view has been expressed in Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, (2014) 7 SCC 323 , State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, (2016) 1 SCC 463.

26. In Kokaiyabai Yadav vs State of Chhattisgarh(2017) 13 SCC 449, it has been observed that reforming criminals who understand their wrongdoing, are able to comprehend their acts, have grown and nurtured into citizens with a desire to live a fruitful life in the outside world, have the capacity of humanising the world.

27. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP (2010) 12 SCC 532, Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, (2012) 8 SCC 734, Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, (2014) 7 SCC
323 , State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, (2016) 1 SCC 463 and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should 9 adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced.

28. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society cannot endure long and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

29. In the present case at the time of commission of offence the convict was nearly 17 years of age. It cannot be said that he was mature and there is no possibility of reform in him. The medical report of the victim shows that he did not sustain any physical 10 injury and there was no sign of physical violence on him. There is no previous criminal history of the appellant. The minimum punishment for the offence under Section 4 POCSO Act is provided for 7 years. The appellant has been in jail from the outset. As such he served in jail for a period of more than 7 years and there is no minimum limit provided under Section 377 I.P.C. Considering the age of the appellant and the period he served in jail, this Court is of the opinion that a liberal view should be taken on sentence by reducing the term of imprisonment already undergone by the appellant in this case and for default in payment of fine he will undergo additional imprisonment for a period of two months for each.

30. Consequently, the conviction is upheld and the sentence under Section 377 I.P.C. and under Section 4 POCSO Act is modified to already undergone and in default of payment of fine he is to undergo additional imprisonment for a period of two months in each.

31. With the above modifications, the appeal is partly allowed.

32. Copy of this judgment alongwith original record of Court below be transmitted to the Court concerned for necessary compliance. A compliance report be sent to this Court within one month. Office is directed to keep the compliance report on record.

Spl. Appl. No. 1601 of 2012

Narendra Kumar Upadhyay ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Neeraj Tiwari, Sri Ashok Khare, Sri Anurag Ojha

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Mrigraj Singh, Sri Manvendra Dixit

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - U.P. Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974: Rule 5 and 6 - Provision for compassionate appointment is an exception to the principle that there must be an equality of opportunity in matters of public employment. The exception to be constitutionally valid has to be carefully structured and implemented in order to confine compassionate appointment to only those situations which subserve the basic object and purpose which is sought to be achieved. (Para 22 to 25, 35)

B. Object of compassionate appointment is to enable the family of the deceased - employee to tide over the sudden financial crisis due to death of the bread earner which has left the family in penury and without means of livelihood, it is an exception to the normal rule of public employment, it is a concession. Compassionate Appointment cannot be treated as a Bonanza. It is not disbursement of gift. It is meant to provide minimum relief for meeting immediate hardship to save the bereaved family from sudden financial crisis due to death of sole breadwinner. (Para 23 to 26, 32, 35)

C. Mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. If employer finds that Financial arrangement made for family subsequent to death of the employee is adequate members of the family cannot insist for compassionate appointment. (Para 32, 35(c), 35(d))

D. There is no general or vested right to compassionate appointment. Compassionate appointment can be claimed only where a scheme or rules provide for such appointment. The norms prevailing on the date of the consideration of the application should be the basis for consideration of claim for compassionate appointment. (Para 22, 35(e), 35(j))

E. Rule 5 mandates that ordinarily, an application for compassionate appointment must be made within five years of the date of death of the deceased employee. The power conferred by the first proviso is a discretion to relax the period in a case of undue hardship and for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner. (Para 22, 35)

Where a long lapse of time has occurred since the date of death of the deceased employee, the sense of immediacy for seeking compassionate appointment would cease to exist and this would be a relevant circumstance which must weigh with the authorities in determining as to whether a case for the grant of compassionate appointment has been made out. Provisions for the grant of compassionate appointment do not constitute a reservation of a post in favour of a member of the family of the deceased employee. Hence, there is no general right which can be asserted to the effect that a member of the family who was a minor at the time of death would be entitled to claim compassionate appointment upon attaining majority. Where the rules provide for a period of time within which an application has to be made, the operation of the rule is not suspended during the minority of a member of the family. (Para 23, 35)

The burden lies on the applicant, where there is a delay in making an application within the period of five years to establish a case on the basis of reasons and a justification supported by documentary and other evidence. It is for the St.Government after considering all the facts to take an appropriate decision. The power to relax is in the nature of an exception and is conditioned by the existence of objective considerations to the satisfaction of the Government. (Para 22, 35)

F. A candidate for compassionate appointment has no right to any particular post of choice. He can only claim to be considered. It is not for conferring status on the family. An applicant has no right to claim compassionate appointment in a particular class or group or on the higher post than what was held by the deceased employee as a matter of right, on the ground that he/she is eligible fulfilling the eligibility criteria of such higher post. (Para 30, 32, 35)

G. Neither the Governments nor the public authorities are at liberty to follow any other procedure or relax the qualifications laid down by the rules for the post. (Para 32, 35)

In the present case, father of the petitioner died on 7.7.1991 when petitioner was aged about eight years. He applied for compassionate appointment sometime in the year 2006-07 and the District Basic Education Officer granted appointment unauthorisedly, without grant of relaxation by the Competent Authority/St.Government. Thus, the petitioner unauthorisedly and in contravention of the GO, without relaxation of period for submission of application, obtained appointment on compassionate ground, which is nullity. Therefore, the appointing authority has lawfully cancelled the order of appointment of the petitioner. (Para 35)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Present Special Appeal challenges judgment and order dated 13.08.2012, passed by Hon'ble Mr. Justice V.K. Shukla.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Anurag Ojha, learned counsel for the petitioner/appellant, Sri Mrigraj Singh, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2 and 3 and Sri Manvendra Dixit, learned counsel for the respondent no.1.

2. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the appellant/petitioner is the son of the deceased, namely, Gyan Chand Upadhay, who was working as Assistant Teacher, and has died on 07.07.1991. According to the petitioner/appellant, he was about 8 years old at the time of death of his father. His mother, namely, Shashi Kala, made an application on 23.07.1992 before the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur, seeking appointment on compassionate ground, which was followed by a representation dated 14.10.1991 and reminders dated 23.09.1993, 17.07.1994 and 07.11.1995, but the appointment was not granted. The petitioner/appellant passed his Intermediate Examination in the year 2001 and thereafter did graduation from Purvanchal University, Jaunpur. Thereafter, he filed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 71340 of 2007, which was finally disposed of by order dated 09.02.2007 providing that the petitioner/appellant may file representation before the respondent no.1 ventilating all his grievances.

3. According to the petitioner/appellant, the respondent no.1 in the aforesaid Writ Petition No. 71340 of 2007, was the State of U.P. However, the petitioner/appellant instead of filing representation before the State Government, moved an application for compassionate appointment before the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur, who granted appointment vide order dated 31.03.2010. Admittedly, the petitioner/appellant filed an application for compassionate appointment after about 9 years of death of his father, but neither relaxation was sought from the State Government nor any representation was filed by him before the State Government pursuant to the order of the learned Single Judge dated 09.02.2007 nor delay in filing the application was condoned. Therefore, show cause notice dated 05.03.2012 was issued by the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur to the petitioner/appellant requiring him to show cause as to why his appointment may not be cancelled on the ground that petitioner/appellant obtained compassionate appointment by concealment of facts and misrepresentation. However, the petitioner/appellant had not submitted any reply to the aforesaid show cause notice. Consequently, the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur passed an order dated 14.04.2012 cancelling the appointment of the petitioner/appellant as untrained assistant teacher. Aggrieved with this order, the petitioner/appellant filed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 39344 of 2012 (Narendra Kumar Upadhaya Versus State of U.P. and others), which was dismissed by the learned Single Judge vide impugned judgment dated 13.08.2012, observing as under:-

(I) The said order is in uttar violation of the order passed by this Court, as in the absence of order passed by the State Government, according relaxation, the District Basic Education Officer, could not have entertained the said application, and accorded compassionate appointment. District Basic Education Officer, had no authority whatsoever to accord compassionate appointment, the order offering compassionate appointment was void/illegal.

(ii) Thereafter District Basic Education Officer, has acquired knowledge of fact that date of death of father of the petitioner is 07.07.1991 and by misrepresenting the then District Basic Education Officer, Dhirendra Nath Singh offered appointment to the petitioner after 19 years and same was totally illegal and in contravention of Government Order.

(iii) Fact of the matter is that this Court Court has given categorical direction that matter be considered and decided by the State Government and accepted position is that there is no decision of the State Government.

(iv) In the facts of the case District Basic Education Officer, has rightly proceeded to revoke the earlier order, inasmuch as earlier order is based on misrepresentation and law on the subject is clear, that even if there is no power of review conferred under statute, every authority has inherent jurisdiction to recall/review its order, if the order has been passed on misrepresentation.

(v) Consequently, petitioner was not at all entitled to be offered compassionate appointment after 19 years of date of death, and there was no order passed by the State Government for accepting the time barred6claim after 19 years of death of father, and as order has been obtained by manipulation then this Court refuses to interfere in the matter as any interference with the order impugned would amount to perpetuation of illegality. The State Government is directed to take action against erring officials also in accordance with law.

4. The present special appeal has been filed challenging the aforesaid order dated 13.08.2012 passed in Civil Misc. Writ petition No. 38344 of 2012 (Narendra Kumar Upadhaya Versus State of U.P. and others).

5. Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel submits as under:-

(i) The petitioner/appellant was only 8 years of age when his father died on 07.07.1991. Therefore, on attaining the age of majority, he filed an application for compassionate appointment, hence, there was no delay in filing the application for compassionate appointment.

(ii) The financial condition of the family of the deceased for the purposes of compassionate appointment has to be looked into, as on the date of death of his father. Reliance has been placed in the case of Sheo Kumar Dubey Versus State of U.P. and others 2014 (2) ADJ 312.

(iii) Once compassionate appointment has been granted to petitioner/appellant on 10.03.2012, then the said order cannot be reviewed on the ground that the order granting compassionate appointment is nullity, as the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur has no power to review its own order.

(iv) The compassionate appointment in the District Basic Education Department is governed by the Government Order dated 04.09.2000, which is pari materia with the provision of the U.P. Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974. Therefore, the petitioner/appellant was entitled for compassionate appointment and was rightfully granted the compassionate appointment.

6. Learned Standing Counsel as well as learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2 and 3 support the impugned order passed by the learned Single Judge.

7. We have carefully considered the submission of the learned counsel for the parties.

8. It is undisputed that the deceased employee died on 07.07.1991 when the petitioner was about 8 years old. He passed Intermediate Examination in the year 2001 and thereafter did his graduation some time in the year 2004. Thereafter, he filed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 71340 of 2007 which was disposed of by the impugned order dated 09.02.2007 giving liberty to the petitioner/appellant to make a representation before the respondent no.1 ventilating all his grievances. However, petitioner had not filed any representation before the State Government which has power to condone/ relax the condition for filing an application beyond five years. Petitioner/appellant moved an application before the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur claiming appointment on compassionate ground pursuant to the order dated 09.02.2007 passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 31340 of 2007. The District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur passed an order of compassionate appointment on 31.03.2010. Subsequently, show cause notice dated 05.03.2012 was issued by the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur to show cause as to why his appointment may not be cancelled, as it was illegally obtained. The petitioner/appellant, for the reason best known to him had not submitted any reply before District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur. Therefore, the District Basic Education Officer, Jaunpur passed order dated 14.04.2012 cancelling his appointment.

9. Admittedly, the father of the petitioner/appellant Sri Gyan Chand Upadhyay was an Assistant Teacher in a Primary School Sauraiyyah, Block Khutahan, District Jaunpur, who died in-harness on 07/07/1991, leaving behind his widow Smt. Shashi Kala and two sons, namely, Narendra Kumar Upadhyay (petitioner/appellant) and Dharmendra. It is also not in dispute that after the death of Sri Gyan Chand Upadhyay (since deceased) on 7.7.1991, his widow Shashi Kala preferred application for the grant of compassionate appointment addressed to the third respondent on 23.7.1991, followed by reminders dated 14.10.1992, 23.9.1993, 17.7.1994 and 7.11.1995, respectively. There is nothing on record to substantiate the fact as to what action had been taken by the widow of the deceased Smt. Shashi Kala for enforcement of her legal right to be considered for compassionate appointment.

10. However, after a span of more than 16 years, it appears that the petitioner/appellant filed Writ Petition no. 71340 of 2007, Narendra Kumar Upadhyay vs. State of U.P. and others, seeking direction to the respondents therein to consider his claim for grant of compassionate appointment on account of the death of Sri Gyan Chand Upadhyay on 7.7.1991. The order dated 9.2.2007 passed in the said writ petition is reproduced below: -

"It is alleged that father of the petitioner expired during harness while working as assistant teacher in Prathmik Vidyalay Sauraiyya district Jaunpur. At the relevant time, petitioner was minor. On attaining majority he has made an application for compassionate appointment. Petitioner seeks consideration of his claim for compassionate appointment under the relevant provision of the rules applicable.

Sri P.D. Tripathi learned counsel for the respondents points out that the application has been made after expiry of five years from the date of death of the employee concerned. It is therefore requires relaxation of outer limit fixed by the State Government.

In view of the aforesaid facts let a representation be made by the petitioner before Respondent No.1 ventilating all this grievances within two weeks from today along with certified copy of this order. ON such representation being made, Respondent No.1 shall consider and decide the same, by means of a reasoned speaking order, preferably within four weeks thereafter.

With the aforesaid observations/directions, the present writ petition is disposed of finally."

11. By the aforequoted order dated 09.02.2007 passed in the Writ Petition No.

71340 of 2007, direction was issued to the respondent no.1 therein i.e, the State of Uttar Pradesh, to consider and decide the claim of the petitioner/appellant, on representation by him for ventilation of his grievances. The petitioner/appellant as per her own showing has appended as Annexures-9 and 10 to the Writ Petition No. 39344 of 2012, the representation preferred by him before the respondent no.2 and 3 for consideration of his claim for grant of compassionate appointment. There is nothing on record to show that by which manner and by which mode, the said letters/ representations were served upon the respondent nos. 2 and 3.

12. Clause-8 of the Government Order dated 4.9.2000 issued by Secretary, U.P. Government, addressed to Director Education (Basic) and Chairman Uttar Pradesh, Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad providing the manner according to which compassionate appointment may be granted to a dependent of a deceased teacher / employee of the Institutions of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad, is reproduced below:-

"(8) मृतक आश्रित .ारा सम्बन्धित कर्मचारी के मृत्यु के दिनांक से पांच वर्ष के भीतर सेवायोजन के लिए आवेदन प्रस्तुत किया जा सकता है। परन्तु जहां राज्य सरकार को यह समाधान हो जाये कि सेवायोजन के लिए आवेदन करने के लिए नियत समय सीमा से किसी विशिष्ट मामले में, अनुचित कठिनाई होती है वहां वह अपेक्षाओं को, जिन्हें वह मामले में न्याय संगत और साम्यपूर्ण रीति से कार्यवाही करने के लिए आवश्यक समझे, अभियुक्त या शिथिल कर सकती है। नियमों में इस आशय की अभिमुक्ति/शिथिलीकरण के सम्बन्ध में, प्रस्ताव सम्बन्धित प्राधिकारी .ारा शिक्षा निदेशक (बे0) के माध्यम से शासन को प्रेषित किये जायेंगे।"

13. Clause-8 of the Government Order dated 4.9.2000 as referred to above is para materia with the provisions contained under the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974. Rules 5 and 6 of the Uttar Pradesh Dying in Harness Rules 1974 (in short "The Rules 1974") are reproduced below:-

"[5. Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased. - (1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules and the spouse of the deceased Government servant is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall, on making an application for the purposes, be given a suitable employment in Government service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission, in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if such person-

(i) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post,

(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service, and

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

(2) As far as possible, such an employment should be given in the same department in which the deceased Government servant was employed prior to his death.]

[5A. Recruitment of member of the family of Police/P.A.C. Personnel who dies in May, 1973. - Notwithstanding anything contained to the contrary contained in Rule 5 or in any other rule, the provisions of these rules shall apply in the case of members of the family of twenty-two police or per Provincial Armed Constabulary personnel who died as a result of disturbances* in May, 1973, as they apply in the case of a Government servant during dying in harness after the commencement of these rules.]

6. Contents of application for employment. - An application for appointment under these rules shall be addressed to the appointing authority in respect of the post for which appointment is sought but it shall be sent to the Head of Office where the deceased Government servant was serving prior to his death. The application shall, inter alia, contain the following information :

(a) the date of the death of the deceased Government servant; the department in which he was working and the post which he was holding prior to his death;

(b) names, age and other details pertaining to all the members of the family of the deceased, particularly about their marriage, employment and income;

(c) details of the financial condition of the family*; and*

(d) the educational and other qualifications, if any, of the applicant."

14. A conjoint reading of Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974 and the Government Order dated 4.9.2000, clearly reveals that for the purposes of consideration for grant of compassionate appointment to the dependent of the deceased employee, the dependent has to fulfil the minimum requirement, i.e, (a) possess educational qualification prescribed for the post; (b) otherwise qualified for service; (c) makes an application for employment within 5 years from the date of the death of the deceased. Proviso to Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974 carves out an exception to entertain an application beyond five years, when the State Government is satisfied that the time limit for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement, as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

15. Thus from the aforesaid analysis with respect to the legal provisions as recapitulated hereinabove and the facts of the present case, it is crystal clear that the petitioner/ appellant has neither taken any steps before the State Government in terms of the Proviso to Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974, or the aforequoted Clause 8 of the Government Order for relaxation of outer limit of five years for consideration of application for compassionate appointment, nor any such relaxation was granted by the State Government.

16. On a pointed query, made from the learned Senior Counsel, as to whether any decision had been taken by the State Government for relaxation of the outer limit of 5 years for consideration for grant of compassionate appointment? The learned Senior Counsel could not point out from records any decision so taken by the State Government.

17. Even from perusal of the order dated 31.3.2010 passed by the third respondent granting compassionate appointment to the petitioner/appellant, there is no recital about the mandatory compliance of the Clause-8 of the Government Order dated 4.9.2000 read with Rules 5 and 6 of the Rules, 1974.

18. Learned Senior Counsel has further argued that the family condition of the petitioner appointment for the purposes of compassionate appointment has not been looked into as on the date of the death of the deceased (father).

19. The said argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner/appellant is not acceptable, as the stage of consideration of the claim of the petitioner/appellant for grant of compassionate appointment can only be seen, once the hurdle of granting relaxation or dispensing with the delay in filing the application for compassionate appointment beyond 5 years is over. Until and unless relaxation is accorded by the State Government on the basis of an application of the dependent of the deceased giving required particulars/ details, there was no occasion for respondents to have considered the claim of the petitioner for grant of compassionate appointment with regard to the family condition of the family. Hence we do not find any error in the order dated 14.4.2012, which has been impugned by the petitioner/appellant before the learned Single Judge.

20. The argument of learned counsel for the petitioner/appellant that once compassionate appointment had been granted to the petitioner/appellant on 31.3.2010, then it could not be reviewed by the third respondent, as he has no power to review its own order, cannot be accepted as once the order dated 31.3.2010 granting compassionate appointment was a nullity being in contravention of the Government Order dated 4.9.2000, then it was open for the third respondent to cancel its earlier order, which was nullity in the eyes of law. The learned Single Judge has recorded a categorical finding of fact in its judgment dated 13.8.2012, which is impugned before us, observing as under: -

"Petitioner knew that, without his application for relaxation being allowed by State Government, he is not entitled to get appointment, even then he succeeded in procuring appointment. The order was for the benefit of petitioner, and complicity of petitioner in procuring order cannot be ruled out in the facts of the case. Fact of the matter is that manipulation is writ apparent and petitioner has already been apprised of the fact that in case any facts are found concealed, said appointment shall ipso facto cancelled."

Object and principles of Compassionate Appointment:-

21. The Apex Court in the case of Hamza Haji vs. State of Kerala reported in 2006 (7) SCC 416 in paragraphs 28 and 29 has observed as under: -

"In Hip Foong Hong vs. H. Neotia and Company (1918 Appeal Cases 888) the Privy Council held that if a judgment is affected by fraudulent conduct it must be set aside. In Rex vs. Recorder of Leicester (1947 (1) K B 726) it was held that a certiorari would lie to quash a judgment on the ground that it has been obtained by fraud. The basic principle obviously is that a party who had secured a judgment by fraud should not be enabled to enjoy the fruits thereof*. In this situation, the High Court in this case, could have clearly either quashed the decision of the Forest Tribunal in OA No.247 of 1979 or could have set aside its own judgment in MFA No.328 of 1981 dismissing the appeal from the decision of the Forest Tribunal at the stage of admission and vacated the order of the Forest Tribunal by allowing that appeal or could have exercised its jurisdiction as a court of record by invoking Article 215 of the Constitution to set at naught the decision obtained by the appellant by playing a fraud on the Forest Tribunal. The High Court has chosen to exercise its power as a court of record to nullify a decision procured by the appellant by playing a fraud on the court. We see no objection to the course adopted by the High Court even assuming that we are inclined to exercise our jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution of India at the behest of the appellant."*

22. A Full Bench of this Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Dubey and others vs. State of U.P. and others, 2014(2) ADJ, 312 (Para 29), considered various aspects relating to compassionate appointment and held as under :-

"We now proceed to formulate the principles which must govern compassionate appointment in pursuance of Dying in Harness Rules:

(i) A provision for compassionate appointment is an exception to the principle that there must be an equality of opportunity in matters of public employment. The exception to be constitutionally valid has to be carefully structured and implemented in order to confine compassionate appointment to only those situations which subserve the basic object and purpose which is sought to be achieved;

(ii) There is no general or vested right to compassionate appointment*. Compassionate appointment can be claimed only where a scheme or rules provide for such appointment. Where such a provision is made in an administrative scheme or statutory rules, compassionate appointment must fall strictly within the scheme or, as the* case may be, the rules;

(iii) The object and purpose of providing compassionate appointment is to enable the dependent members of the family of a deceased employee to tide over the immediate financial crisis caused by the death of the bread-earner;

(iv) In determining as to whether the family is in financial crisis, all relevant aspects must be borne in mind including the income of the family; its liabilities, the terminal benefits received by the family; the age, dependency and marital status of its members, together with the income from any other sources of employment;

(v) Where a long lapse of time has occurred since the date of death of the deceased employee, the sense of immediacy for seeking compassionate appointment would cease to exist and this would be a relevant circumstance which must weigh with the authorities in determining as to whether a case for the grant of compassionate appointment has been made out;

(vi) Rule 5 mandates that ordinarily, an application for compassionate appointment must be made within five years of the date of death of the deceased employee. The power conferred by the first proviso is a discretion to relax the period in a case of undue hardship and for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner;

(vii) The burden lies on the applicant, where there is a delay in making an application within the period of five years to establish a case on the basis of reasons and a justification supported by documentary and other evidence*. It is for the State Government after considering all the facts to take an appropriate decision.* The power to relax is in the nature of an exception and is conditioned by the existence of objective considerations to the satisfaction of the government;

(viii) Provisions for the grant of compassionate appointment do not constitute a reservation of a post in favour of a member of the family of the deceased employee. Hence, there is no general right which can be asserted to the effect that a member of the family who was a minor at the time of death would be entitled to claim compassionate appointment upon attaining majority*. Where the rules provide for a period of time within which an application has to be made, the operation of the rule is not suspended during the minority of a member of the family."* (Emphasis supplied by us)

23. In Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 13102 of 2010, Union of India Vs. Smt. Asha Mishra, decided on 7.5.2010, a Division Bench of this Court has observed as under: -

"The principles of consideration for compassionate appointment have been firmly settled and have been reiterated from time to time. Compassionate appointment is not a vested right or an alternate mode of employment*. It has to be considered and granted under the relevant rules.* The object of compassionate appointment is to tide over an immediate financial crisis. It is not a heritable right to be considered after an unreasonable period, for the vacancies cannot be held up for long and that appointment should not ordinarily await the attainment of majority. Where the family has survived for long, its circumstances must be seen before the competent authority may consider such appointment. It is not to be ordinarily granted, where a person died close to his retirement*. The Court, however, has emphasised time to time and more authoritatively in National Institute of Technology Vs. Neeraj Kumar Singh, (2007) 2 SCC 481 that such appointment can be granted only under a scheme.* It should not be considered after a long lapse of time."

24. The judgment in the case of Smt. Asha Mishra (supra) has also been taken notice by the Full Bench of this Court in Shiv Kumar Dubey (supra) reiterating the legal principles so mandated therein. Recently, the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No. 897 of 2021, in the matter of Central Coalfields Limited Through its Chairman an Managing Director and Ors. Vs. Parden Oraon decided on 09.04.2021, in paragraph 9 has observed as under:-

"9. ... The application for compassionate appointment of the son was filed by the Respondent in the year 2013 which is more than 10 years after the Respondent's husband had gone missing. As the object of compassionate appointment is for providing immediate succour to the family of a deceased employee, the Respondent's son is not entitled for compassionate appointment after the passage of a long period of time since his father has gone missing."

25. The object of compassionate appointment is to enable the family of the deceased - employee to tied over the sudden financial crisis due to death of the bread earner which has left the family in penury and without means of livelihood, it is an exception to the normal rule of public employment, it is a concession; vide; V. Sivamurthy vs. State of A.P., (2008) 13 SCC 730 (Paras 13-18), Umesh Kumar Nagpal vs. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 (Para-2), Haryana SEB vs. Hakim Singh, (1997) 8 SCC 85 at 87, Director of Education (Secondary) vs. Ankur Gupta, (2003) 7 SCC 704 (Para-6), Food Corporation of India vs. Ramkesh Yadav, (2007) 9 SCC 531 (Para.9), Indian Bank vs. Promila, (2020) 2 SCC 729, State of U.P. vs. Pankaj Kumar Vishnoi, 2013 (11) SCC 178 (Paras 11-15), N.C. Chakrawarti Singh (2014) 13 SCC 583 (Para 6-9), Union of India vs. P. Venktesh (2019) 15 SCC 613 (Para.7), Union of India vs. V. R. Tripathi, (2019) 14 SCC 646 (Para 13). The basic intention to grant compassionate appointment is that on the death of the employee concern his family is not deprived of the means of livelihood vide PNB Vs. Ashwini Kumar Taneja, (2004) 7 SCC 265 (para 4). It can not be claimed by way of inheritance vide State of Chhatisgarh & others Vs. Dhirjo Kumar Sengar (2009) 13 SCC 600 (para 10 and 12). In Santosh Kumar Dubey Vs. State of U.P., (2009) 6 SCC 481 (para 11 & 12), the Apex Court held that Compassionate Appointment can not be treated as a Bonanza.

26. In Chief Commissioner, Central Excise & Customs, Lucknow & others Vs. Prabhat Singh (2012) 13 SCC 412 (para 19), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that it is not disbursement of gift. It is not sympathy syndrome. In State of U.P. Vs. Pankaj Kumar Vishnoi 2013(11) SCC 178 (paras 7,12,13 & 20). The Apex Court held that it is meant to provide minimum relief for meeting immediate hardship to save the bereaved family from sudden crisis due to death of sole bread winner. Similar view has been expressed in SAIL Vs. Madhusudan (2008) 15 SCC 560 (para 15) and SBI Vs. Anju Jain (2008) 8SCC 475 (Para 33).

27. In SBI Vs. Surya N. Tripathi, (2014) 15 SCC 739 (paras 4,9), the Apex Court held that if employer finds that Financial Arrangement made for family subsequent to death of the employee is adequate members of the family can not insist for compassionate appointment.

28. In General Manager (D & PB) and others Vs. Kunti Tiwary and other (2004)7 SCC 271 (Para 9), Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the Division Bench erred in diluting the criteria of penury to one of "not very well-to-do.

29. In Union of India Vs. Shashank Goswami, (2012) 11 SCC 307 (Paras 9, 10) the Apex Court held that an applicant has no right to claim compassionate appointment in a particular class or group. It is not for conferring status on the family. In Pepsu Road Transport Corporation Vs. Satinder Kumar, 1995 Supp. (4) SCC 597 (Para 6) the Apex Court held that while minimum qualification for eligibility may be matriculation, generally graduate and even post graduate decree holders respond and offer themselves for clerical appointments. Courts can not ignore this fact and direct that possession of minimum qualification alone would be sufficient.

30. In State of Madhya Pradesh & others VS. Ramesh Kumar Sharma (1994) Supp.(3) SCC 661, the Apex Court held that a candidate for compassionate appointment has no right to any particular post of choice. He can only claim to be considered.

31. In the judgment in the case of The Director of Treasuries in Karnataka & Anr. vs. Somyashree, in Civil Appeal No.5122 of 2021, decided on 13.09.2021, Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the object and principles of compassionate appointment, as under:

"7. While considering the submissions made on behalf of the rival parties a recent decision of this Court in the case of N.C. Santhosh (Supra) on the appointment on compassionate ground is required to be referred to. After considering catena of decisions of this Court on appointment on compassionate grounds it is observed and held that appointment to any public post in the service of the State has to be made on the basis of principles in accordance with Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India and the compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule. It is further observed that the dependent of the deceased Government employee are made eligible by virtue of the policy on compassionate appointment and they must fulfill the norms laid down by the State's policy. It is further observed and held that the norms prevailing on the date of the consideration of the application should be the basis for consideration of claim of compassionate appointment. A dependent of a government employee, in the absence of any vested right accruing on the death of the government employee, can only demand consideration of his/her application. It is further observed he/she is, however, entitled to seek consideration in accordance with the norms as applicable on the day of death of the Government employee. The law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decision on grant of appointment on compassionate ground can be summarized as under:

(i) that the compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule;

(ii) that no aspirant has a right to compassionate appointment;

(iii) the appointment to any public post in the service of the State has to be made on the basis of the principle in accordance with Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India;

(iv) appointment on compassionate ground can be made only on fulfilling the norms laid down by the State's policy and/or satisfaction of the eligibility criteria as per the policy;

(v) the norms prevailing on the date of the consideration of the application should be the basis for consideration of claim for compassionate appointment.

8.....

8.1.....

8.2 Apart from the above one additional aspect needs to be noticed, which the High Court has failed to consider. It is to be noted that the deceased employee died on 25.03.2012. The respondent herein - original writ petitioner at that time was a married daughter. Her marriage was subsisting on the date of the death of the deceased i.e. on 25.03.2012. Immediately on the death of the deceased employee, the respondent initiated the divorced proceedings under Section 13B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 on 12.09.2012 for decree of divorce by mutual consent. By Judgment dated 20.03.2013, the Learned Principal Civil Judge, Mandya granted the decree of divorce by mutual consent. That immediately on the very next day i.e. on 21.03.2013, the respondent herein on the basis of the decree of divorce by mutual consent applied for appointment on compassionate ground. The aforesaid chronology of dates and events would suggest that only for the purpose of getting appointment on compassionate ground the decree of divorce by mutual consent has been obtained. Otherwise, as a married daughter she was not entitled to the appointment on compassionate ground*. Therefore, looking to the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, otherwise also the High Court ought not to have directed the appellants to consider the application of the respondent herein for appointment on compassionate ground as ''divorced daughter'. This is one additional ground to reject the application of the respondent for appointment on compassionate ground."*

32. In a most recent judgment in the case of The State of Uttar Pradesh and others vs. Premlata in Civil Appeal No.6003 of 2021, decided on 05.10.2021, Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the provisions of U.P. Rules 1974 and summarized the principles of compassionate appointment in the context of U.P. Rules, 1974, as under:

"9. As per the law laid down by this court in catena of decisions on the appointment on compassionate ground, for all the government vacancies equal opportunity should be provided to all aspirants as mandated under Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution. However, appointment on compassionate ground offered to a dependent of a deceased employee is an exception to the said norms. The compassionate ground is a concession and not a right.

9.1 In the case of State of Himachal Pradesh and Anr. vs. Shashi Kumar reported in (2019) 3 SCC 653, this court had an occasion to consider the object and purpose of appointment on compassionate ground and considered decision of this court in case of Govind Prakash Verma vs. LIC reported in (2005) 10 SCC 289, in para 21 and 26, it is observed and held as under:-

"21. The decision in Govind Prakash Verma [Govind Prakash Verma v. LIC, (2005) 10 SCC 289, has been considered subsequently in several decisions. But, before we advert to those decisions, it is necessary to note that the nature of compassionate appointment had been considered by this Court in Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana [Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 930]. The principles which have been laid down in Umesh Kumar Nagpal [Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana, (1994) 4 SCC 138 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 930] have

"2. ... As a rule, appointments in the public services should be made strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and merit. No other mode of appointment nor any other consideration is permissible. Neither the Governments nor the public authorities are at liberty to follow any other procedure or relax the qualifications laid down by the rules for the post*. However, to this general rule which is to be followed strictly in every case, there are some exceptions carved out in the interests of justice and to meet certain contingencies. One such exception is in favour of the dependants of an employee dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood. In such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment.* The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis*. The object is not to give a member of such family a post much less a post for post held by the deceased.* What is further, mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. The posts in Classes III and IV are the lowest posts in nonmanual and manual categories and hence they alone can be offered on compassionate grounds, the object being to relieve the family, of the financial destitution and to help it get over the emergency. The provision of employment in such lowest posts by making an exception to the rule is justifiable and valid since it is not discriminatory. The favourable treatment given to such dependant of the deceased employee in such posts has a rational nexus with the object sought to be achieved viz. relief against destitution. No other posts are expected or required to be given by the public authorities for the purpose. It must be remembered in this connection that as against the destitute family of the deceased there are millions of other families which are equally, if not more destitute. The exception to the rule made in favour of the family of the deceased employee is in consideration of the services rendered by him and the legitimate expectations, and the change in the status and affairs, of the family engendered by the erstwhile employment which are suddenly upturned."

"26. The judgment of a Bench of two Judges in Mumtaz Yunus Mulani v. State of Maharashtra [Mumtaz Yunus Mulani v. State of Maharashtra, (2008) 11 SCC 384 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 1077] has adopted the principle that appointment on compassionate grounds is not a source of recruitment, but a means to enable the family of the deceased to get over a sudden financial crisis. The financial position of the family would need to be evaluated on the basis of the provisions contained in the scheme. The decision in Govind Prakash Verma [Govind Prakash Verma v. LIC, (2005) 10 SCC 289 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 590] has been duly considered, but the Court observed that it did not appear that the earlier binding precedents of this Court have been taken note of in that case."

10. Thus as per the law laid down by this court in the aforesaid decisions, compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule of appointment in the public services and is in favour of the dependents of a deceased dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood, and in such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. The object is not to give such family a post much less a post held by the deceased.

10.1 Applying the law laid down by this court in the aforesaid decisions and considering the observations made hereinabove and the object and purpose for which the appointment on compassionate ground is provided, the submissions on behalf of the respondent and the interpretation by the Division Bench of the High Court on Rule 5 of Rules 1974, is required to be considered.

10.2 The Division Bench of the High Court in the present case has interpreted Rule 5 of Rules 1974 and has held that ''suitable post' under Rule 5 of the Rules 1974 would mean any post suitable to the qualification of the candidate irrespective of the post held by the deceased employee*. The aforesaid interpretation by the Division Bench of the High Court is just opposite to the object and purpose of granting the appointment on compassionate ground. ''Suitable post' has to be considered, considering status/post held by the deceased employee and the educational qualification/eligibility criteria is required to be considered, considering the post held by the deceased employee and the suitability of the post is required to be considered vis a vis the post held by the deceased employee, otherwise there shall be no difference/distinction between the appointment on compassionate ground and the regular appointment. In a given case it may happen that the dependent of the deceased employee who has applied for appointment on compassionate ground is having the educational qualification of Class-II or Class-I post and the deceased employee was working on the post of Class/Grade IV and/or lower than the post applied, in that case the dependent/applicant cannot seek the appointment on compassionate ground on the higher post than what was held by the deceased employee as a matter of right, on the ground that he/she is eligible fulfilling the eligibility criteria of such higher post. The aforesaid shall be contrary to the object and purpose of grant of appointment on compassionate ground which as observed hereinabove is to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis on the death of the bread earner. As observed above, appointment on compassionate ground is provided out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that some source of livelihood is provided and family would be able to make both ends meet.*

10.3 .....

11. In view of the above and for the reasons stated above, the Division Bench of the High Court has misinterpreted and misconstrued Rule 5 of the Rules 1974 and in observing and holding that the "suitable post' under Rule 5 of the Dying-In-Harness Rules 1974 would mean any post suitable to the qualification of the candidate and the appointment on compassionate ground is to be offered considering the educational qualification of the dependent. As observed hereinabove such an interpretation would defeat the object and purpose of appointment on compassionate ground.

(Emphasis supplied by us)

33. The petitioner/appellant has neither pleaded nor argued as to what had been the financial condition of the family of the deceased right from 1991 till today. There is nothing on record to show that the financial condition of the family of the deceased was deplorable.

34. As more than 30 years have passed since the father of the petitioner/appellant had expired, neither there is any useful purpose to issue any positive direction, nor the facts of the case warrants it.

Conclusions: -

35. We have discussed above in detail the case of the petitioner / appellant and the principles of law on compassionate appointment laid down by this Court and by Hon'ble Supreme Court, which are briefly summarized as under: -

(a) A provision for compassionate appointment is an exception to the principle that there must be an equality of opportunity in matters of public employment. The exception to be constitutionally valid has to be carefully structured and implemented in order to confine compassionate appointment to only those situations which subserve the basic object and purpose which is sought to be achieved;

(b) The object of compassionate appointment is to enable the family of the deceased - employee to tied over the sudden financial crisis due to death of the bread earner which has left the family in penury and without means of livelihood, it is an exception to the normal rule of public employment, it is a concession. The basic intention to grant compassionate appointment is that on the death of the employee, his family is not deprived of the means of livelihood. It can not be claimed by way of inheritance. Compassionate Appointment can not be treated as a Bonanza. It is not disbursement of gift. It is not sympathy syndrome. It is meant to provide minimum relief for meeting immediate hardship to save the bereaved family from sudden financial crisis due to death of sole bread winner. If employer finds that Financial arrangement made for family subsequent to death of the employee is adequate members of the family can not insist for compassionate appointment.

(c) Mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family.

(d) In determining as to whether the family is in financial crisis, all relevant aspects must be borne in mind including the income of the family; its liabilities, the terminal benefits received by the family; the age, dependency and marital status of its members, together with the income from any other sources of employment;

(e) There is no general or vested right to compassionate appointment. Compassionate appointment can be claimed only where a scheme or rules provide for such appointment. Where such a provision is made in an administrative scheme or statutory rules, compassionate appointment must fall strictly within the scheme or, as the case may be, the rules;

(f) Where a long lapse of time has occurred since the date of death of the deceased employee, the sense of immediacy for seeking compassionate appointment would cease to exist and this would be a relevant circumstance which must weigh with the authorities in determining as to whether a case for the grant of compassionate appointment has been made out;

(g) An applicant has no right to claim compassionate appointment in a particular class or group. It is not for conferring status on the family. A candidate for compassionate appointment has no right to any particular post of choice. He can only claim to be considered.

(h) The dependent/applicant cannot seek the appointment on compassionate ground on the higher post than what was held by the deceased employee as a matter of right, on the ground that he/she is eligible fulfilling the eligibility criteria of such higher post.

(i) Provisions for the grant of compassionate appointment do not constitute a reservation of a post in favour of a member of the family of the deceased employee. Hence, there is no general right which can be asserted to the effect that a member of the family who was a minor at the time of death would be entitled to claim compassionate appointment upon attaining majority. Where the rules provide for a period of time within which an application has to be made, the operation of the rule is not suspended during the minority of a member of the family.

(j) The norms prevailing on the date of the consideration of the application should be the basis for consideration of claim for compassionate appointment.

(k) Neither the Governments nor the public authorities are at liberty to follow any other procedure or relax the qualifications laid down by the rules for the post. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is to enable the family to tide over the sudden financial crisis.

(l) Rule 5 mandates that ordinarily, an application for compassionate appointment must be made within five years of the date of death of the deceased employee. The power conferred by the first proviso is a discretion to relax the period in a case of undue hardship and for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner;

(m) The burden lies on the applicant, where there is a delay in making an application within the period of five years to establish a case on the basis of reasons and a justification supported by documentary and other evidence. It is for the State Government after considering all the facts to take an appropriate decision. The power to relax is in the nature of an exception and is conditioned by the existence of objective considerations to the satisfaction of the government;

(n) The father of the petitioner died on 07.07.1991 when petitioner was aged about eight years. He applied for compassionate appointment sometime in the year 2006-07 and the District Basic Education Officer granted appointment unauthorisedly, without grant of relaxation by the Competent Authority/ State Government. Thus, the petitioner unauthorisedly and in contravention of the government order, without relaxation of period for submission of application, obtained appointment on compassionate ground, which is nullity. Therefore, the appointing authority has lawfully cancelled the order of appointment of the petitioner. Hence impugned order of the learned Single Judge does not suffer from any manifest error of law.

36. For all the reasons aforestated, we see no reason to deffer or take different view, vis-a-vis the view taken by the learned Single Judge in the judgment under challenge.

37. The present intra-court appeal is devoid of merit. Hence, it is dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law – Promotion – Seniority - Police Act 1861 - Sections 2, 12, 23 & 46(2)(c) - U.P. Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2015 - Rules 3(i), 3(m), 3(n), 4(1), 18(2), 22(3), 22(4), 26, 27 & 28 - The Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2008 - Sections, 20, 21,22, 23, 24, 25 & 26 - Rule 18(2), 19 - Uttar Pradesh Government Seniority Rules, 1991 - The Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Reserve Pool Teachers) Ordinances, 1978 (U.P. Ordinance 10 of 1978) - The Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Reserve Pool Teachers) (Second) Ordinance 1978 (U.P. Ordinance 22 of 1978) - The Uttar Pradesh Police Constables and Head Constables Service Rules, 2008 - Rules 3, 3(i), 4, 4(1), 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27 & 28.

Code of Civil Procedure: Order I Rule 8 – Non-joinder of necessary party - When the constitutional validity of a provision is challenged and there are beneficiaries of the said provision, some of them in a representative capacity have to be made parties failing which the writ court would not be justified in hearing a writ petition in the absence of the selected candidates when they are already appointed on the basis of the provision which was under assail before the Writ Court. (Para 28)

In the case at hand neither any rule nor regulation was challenged. Thirteen persons, who were impleaded, were not treated to be in the representative capacity. No adverse order can be passed against persons who were not made parties to the litigation. (Para 29, 30)

If a person who is likely to suffer from the order of the Court and has not been impleaded as a party has a right to ignore the said order as it has been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice. Proviso to Order I, Rule IX, CPC provide that non-joinder of necessary party be fatal. Undoubtedly, provisions of CPC are not applicable in writ jurisdiction by virtue of the provision of S. 141 CPC but the principles enshrined therein are applicable. (Para 34)

By the final outcome of the writ petitions viz. by the impugned order under appeal, almost 990 non-gazetted police personnel might be affected. When all the appointees were not impleaded, the writ petition was defective and hence, no relief could have been granted to the writ petitioners. In the instant case, prior to passing of the impugned judgment under appeal, no advertisement or publication was issued regarding the institution of the aforesaid writ petitions. Thus, the judgment under appeal has been passed without granting opportunity to the necessary parties to a lis to come and defend themselves. (Para 21, 37, 38)

The provisions of Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure have not been complied with by the writ petitioners. Impugned order under appeal is liable to be dismissed on the ground of non-joinder of the parties in the writ petitions. (Para 16, 21, 28 to 40)

B. The Police Act, 1861 is a special statute and a complete code. If the legislature has already made a law and the field is occupied, in such a situation, rules can be made under the law enacted by the legislature and not under Article 309. (Para 15(VI), 43, 44 to 59)

Once a self-contained Code in the form of the Police Act has been enacted by the legislature and its continuance after the adoption of the Constitution is ensured by Art. 313 and Art. 372 of the Constitution, the field relating to recruitment and conditions of service of members of the police force in the St.stands occupied by the legislation. Any rule or order relating to the determination of the conditions of service of the police force can be made only under the provisions of the Police Act or by the legislation enacted by the St.legislature governing the service conditions of the police force. S.2, S.7 and S. 46 of the Police Act clearly evince an intent of the legislature to occupy the whole of the field relating to conditions of service of the police force. (Para 43)

U/s 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the St.Government has been vested with power to determine the pay and all other conditions of service of members of the subordinate ranks of the police force. The determination within the meaning of S.2 may be both by means of the exercise of the rule-making power as well as by an administrative direction. Thus, the Police Act, 1861 being a complete code and it occupies the entire field of the determination of service condition. The power to determine all the conditions of service of member of the subordinate ranks of the police force is vested with the St.Government and the St.Government has the rule making power u/s 46(2)(c) of the Police Act, 1861 to carry out the purposes of the Act by framing rules. (Para 63)

The GO dated 03.02.1994 shows that it relates to out of turn promotion of the Sub-Inspector to the post of Inspector and the ground for such out of promotion was the indomitable courage shown by the Sub-Inspectors in discharge of their duties. It does not contemplate merely courage rather indomitable courage. This GO is also referable to S.2 of the Police Act, 1861. Vide circular dated 10.02.1994 issued by the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh in pursuance of the statutory GO dated 03.02.1994, a complete mechanism/procedure was provided for out of turn promotion. For an act of bravery, a police officer can be rewarded according to Chapter XXXI of the Police Regulations, but the GO dated 03.02.1994 required something more than good work and bravery. (Para 61)

GOs 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.2003 are referable to the same source i.e. S.2 of the Police Act, 1861 and further statutory order dated 03.02.1994 continuously remain in existence from 03.02.1994 till 07.06.2014 and all these GOs were co-existing as they were operating in different field providing for different contingencies. (Para 62)

From perusal of the impugned order dated 20.02.2019, it transpires that the learned Single Judge has not considered the object of the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, its source, its nature etc. It appears that the learned Single Judge, while passing the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019, has laid much emphasis upon Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspectors and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2008 and not considered the statutory GOs, as referred to hereinabove, which have been issued u/s 2 r.w. S.46(2) of the Police Act, 1861. (Para 64, 83)

C. Seniority is a civil right available to a Government servant to be determined by the policy of the employer and further it is always open for the employer/St.Government to amend/modify its policy and, thus, there is no vested right available to a Government servant if such policy is changed. (Para 16(g), 68)

Rule 3(i) of the Rules, 2015 - 'member of service' - a person appointed to a post in service under these rules or any previous rules before the commencement of these rules. (Para 16(h))

Rule 3(m) of Rules, 2015 - 'Service' - means the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service. (Para 16(h))

Rule 3(n) of Rules, 2015 - 'Substantive Appointment' - an appointment, not being an ad hoc appointment, on a post in the cadre of the service, made after selection in accordance with the rules and, if there were no rules, in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government. (Para 16(h))

Rule 3(m) of Rules, 2008 - 'substantive appointment' - an appointment, not being ad hoc appointment, on a post in the cadre of the service, made after selection in accordance with the rules and if there were no rules, in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government. (Para 69)

Rule 4 of the Rules, 2008 - 'Cadre of service' - the strength of service and of each category of service therein shall be such as may be determined by the Government from time to time. (Para 69)

Rule 28 of the Rules, 2008 empowers the St.Government to grant relaxation from the conditions of service Rule 30 of the Rules, 2008 grants overriding effect to the said rules and further sub-rule 4 of Rule 30 also provides that notwithstanding such recission, the benefit of seniority and conformation etc. granted before 02.12.2008 under the prevalent rules, government orders or administrative instructions shall not be withdrawn. (Para 65, 75)

Rule 3(i) and Sub-Rule 2 of Rule 19 of Rules, 2008 clearly provide that any person substantively appointed under the orders enforced prior to the commencement of these Rules to a post of Cadre of the Service as well as any person appointed to a post in the service prior to commencement of Rules, 2008 and who was working on the post shall be deemed to be substantively appointed under the said Rules. (Para 69, 75)

Rule 18(2) of the Rules, 2015 provides that if more than one order of appointment are issued in respect of any one selection u/Rule 17, then a combined order shall also be issued, mentioning the names of the persons in order of seniority as determined in the selection or, as the case may be, as it stood in the cadre from which they are promoted. Proviso to Rule 18(2) provides that any person appointed before the commencement of these rules to a post under the service and working on that post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these rules. (Para 16(q), 76)

On 07.06.2014, the St.Government issued an order u/s 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by which the mechanism of out of turn promotion was rescinded and in its place, other arrangements, namely, cash reward and grant of medals was brought into force. Hence, prior to 07.06.2014, the GOs dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999 were being applied for granting out of turn promotion on cadre posts of personnel who had shown exemplary courage, while carrying out their duties. It appears that once the St.Government on 07.06.2014 took a decision of rescinding its policy of granting out of turn promotion and replacing the same with the other arrangement, the St.Government in order to rectify the anomaly created vide order dated 01.05.1999, which provided that although promotions would be made on cadre post, the same would be treated ex cadre and the same would not confer any benefit for determination of seniority, issued the order dated 23.07.2015 rectifying the said anomaly by which earlier order dated 01.05.1999 was rescinded with immediate effect and it was provided that 990 Non-Gazetted Police Officers/employees who had been granted out of turn promotion w.e.f. 1994 till 2014, their probation shall be counted with effect from their date of out of turn promotion. This Government Order dated 23.07.2015 were challenged by the writ petitioners/private respondents before the learned Single Judge. (Para 16(h), 66, 67, 70, 71, 74)

At the time of issuance of the statutory orders i.e. 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999, there were no service rules framed by the St.Government u/s 46(2)(c) of the Police Act, 1861. Thus, all the out of turn promotions were promoted on cadre posts and the said promotions were made by the St.Government in accordance with the GOs, which were issued in exercise of the statutory powers available to it under the provisions of Police Act, 1861. Therefore, promotion of the appellants were made in accordance with the procedure then prevailing in law and were made on cadre posts. (Para 72)

A bare reading of Rule 3(i), 3(l) and 3(m) of Rules, 2008 and on considering the fact that out of turn promotees were appointed on cadre posts as per the then existing procedure issued by the St.Government under the provisions of Police Act, 1861, it transpires that such out of turn promotees were member of the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service having been substantively appointed on a cadre post prior to the issuance of the Rules, 2008 and after the advent of the Rules, 2008, they continued in the said capacity. (Para 73)

The appellants were 'members of service' from the initial date of their out of turn promotion on the post of Inspector, for the reason firstly, that their promotion was against a vacancy in the cadre, secondly it was in accordance with the procedure prescribed by law i.e. under the GO issued under the provisions of S.2 of the Police Act, 1861 and thirdly it was a substantive appointment. Thus, seniority could not have been denied to them by any stretch of imagination or by operation of any law. (Para 16(i))

The appellants are 'members of the service' and 'substantively appointed' out of turn on the strength of the statutory Government Orders. Therefore, the policy of the St.Government issued vide order dated 23.07.2015 was legally justified and the learned Single Judge erred in quashing the GO dated 23.07.2015 and the seniority list. (Para 76, 82)

The learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order, has failed to appreciate the nature of the appointment of the appellants. Furthermore, the learned Single Judge has not considered Rule 3(i) and part of Rule 3(m) of the Rules, 2008, which was conjuncted after the word 'and'. Even the GOs dated 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.2003, which are the statutory orders have not been appreciated. (Para 83)

D. Merger of Cadres - Merger of cadre and the matter of creation of post is a prerogative of the St.policy. It is always open to the St.Government to create post or merge the cadres. No employee has the right to object to the merger/integration of the cadre of different departments on the ground that it will adversely affect the prospects of promotion or cover other service benefits. (Para 78)

In the instant case, there are two classes i.e. (1) out of turn promotee cadre; (2) direct recruitee cadre. These two classes were subsequently merged into one class of cadre. However, a dispute arose. Direct recruitee/private respondents have claimed that they are senior to the out of turn promotee cadre, whereas out of turn promotee cadre/appellants claims that as they are being working since the date of giving out of turn promotion on the strength of the statutory orders which have been issued in terms of S.2 of the Police Act, 1861, therefore, the policy decision taken by the St.Government vide order dated 23.07.2015 and the consequential orders are perfectly justifiable. (Para 77)

Further, before and after the merger of two cadres into one cadre, nature and duties of the post in question are more or less identical. Furthermore, the qualifications prescribed for appointment on the post in question on the date the private respondents and appellants were appointed, were the same. The appellant's date of substantive appointment on the post in question is admittedly prior in the point of time to that of the private respondents. (Para 79)

E. Doctrine of per incuriam and sub-silentio - It is settled law that when a judgment is rendered by ignoring the provisions of the governing statute and earlier larger Bench decision on the point such decisions are rendered per incuriam. (Para 16(k), 84)

Learned Single Judge has not taken into consideration the relevant statutory provisions, relevant GOs and the previous judgments of the Apex Court and this Court while passing the judgment and order under appeal. (Para 16(k), 16(r))

As per Rules 3(i), 3(m), 3(n), 4(1), 22(3), 22(4), 27 and 28 of Rules, 2015 and Rule 18(2) of Rules, 2008, and from a conjoint reading of Rules, 2008 and Rules, 2015, it is unambiguously clear that the appellants were members of service from the initial date of their out of turn promotion on the post of Inspector. That the policy decision taken by the St.Government vide order dated 23.07.2015 impugned in the writ petitions does not suffer from any illegality and the same is not violative of any of the provisions of the Rules, 2008 and Rules, 2015 rather the same is protected under both the Rules. (Para 17(i))

Writ petitioners have not challenged the aforesaid provisions contained in the said Rules and the same is neither arbitrary nor discriminatory in any manner so as to render it violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. (Para 17(i))

Thus, the learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order, has not at all considered the aforesaid aspect of the matter and the judgment and order under appeal is hit by the doctrine of *per incuriam as well as the doctrine of *sub silentio, hence the impugned order passed by the learned Single Judge is liable to be set-aside and also the writ petitions are also liable to be dismissed. (Para 17(i))

Special appeals allowed. (E-4)

(1) The above-captioned Special Appeal Nos. 100 of 2019, 98 of 2019, 99 of 2019 and 103 of 2019 has been preferred by the appellants (out of turn promotees/private respondents in the writ petition) and Special Appeal No. 277 of 2021 has been preferred by the State, assailing the correctness of the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 passed in Service Single No. 5677 of 2016 and connected Service Single No. 13625 of 2016 and 10759 of 2016, whereby the learned Single Judge, while allowing the aforesaid writ petitions, quashed the Government Order dated 23.07.2015, consequential order dated 29.07.2015 and seniority list dated 24.09.2016 and further directed the State to prepare a fresh seniority list in accordance with Rule 22 (3) of the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2015 and assign the seniority to the promotees of ex cadre posts from the date when their immediate juniors were promoted to the post of Inspector in accordance with the service rules against cadre posts within a period of two months from the date of the order and after preparing the seniority list as directed aforesaid, consequential orders in respect of promotions etc. be issued.

FACTS

(2) The factual matrix relevant for adjudication of this set of appeals is as under :-

(a) The State Government had issued a Government Order dated 05.11.1965, which provided for the method of selection of Sub-Inspector for promotion to the rank of Inspector. This Government Order dated 05.11.1965 is referable to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1861"). Thereafter, the State Government issued another Government Order dated 29.10.1983 under Section (2) of the Act, 1861, providing therein a Selection Committee be constituted for the purpose selecting Sub-Inspectors for promotion to the post of Inspectors.

(b) The aforesaid Government Orders dated 05.11.1965 and subsequent Government Orders were rescinded/modified by the Government Order dated 24.07.2003 issued under Section 2 of the Act, 1861 providing for the selection process for promotion of Sub-Inspector (Civil Police) to the Inspector (Civil Police). Subsequently, the State Government has issued Government Order dated 3.2.1994, by means of which it was provided that those Constables and Sub-Inspectors/Platoon Commanders, who have shown exemplary courage, be given appointment from the post of Constable to Head Constable and from the post of Sub-Inspector and Platoon Commander to Inspector/Company Commander on ex cadre posts. It was further provided that for each year, such ex cadre posts would be created by the State Government on the proposal of the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow. It was also provided that it has overriding effect over any other existing orders.

(c) The aforesaid Government Order dated 03.02.1994 contemplated that the promotions would be made on ex cadre posts, which were to be sanctioned by the State Government for the said purpose every year, however, no such post were ever created and the out of turn promotions were made on cadre posts of Head Constables and Inspector, respectively.

(d) The Government Order dated 3.2.1994 is also referable to Section 2 of the Act, 1861. Thereafter, the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh had issued a Circular dated 10.02.1994 in pursuance of the statutory Government Order dated 3.2.1994, in which complete mechanism/procedure was prescribed for out of turn promotion.

(e) Subsequently, on 01.05.1999, the State Government issued another statutory order referable to Section 2 of the Act, 1861, by means of which it laid down that out of turn promotions would be against the vacancies existing in the cadre, however, promotion would be treated ex cadre and its benefit will not be available for the purposes of determination of seniority.

(f) It is relevant to add here that at the time of issuance of the statutory orders i.e. 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999, there were no service rules framed by the State Government under sub-section 2(c) of Section 46 of the Act, 1861. All the out of turn promotees were, thus, promoted on cadre posts and the said promotions were granted by the State Government in accordance with the Government Orders which were issued in exercise of the statutory powers available to it under the provisions of the Act, 1861.

(g) Subsequently, for the first time, the State Government, in exercise of power available to it under sub-sections (2) of Section 46 read with Section 2 of the Act, 1861 (Act No. 5 of 1861), framed the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2008") in supersession of all existing rules issued in this behalf with a view to regulating the selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc., which came into effect from 02.12.2008.

(h) Thereafter, another Government Order dated 07.06.2014 was issued by the State Government under Section 2 of the Act, 1861, by means of which, the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, which was related to ex cadre out of turn promotees of non-gazetted staff of the Police department, was cancelled and consequently a decision was taken by the State Government to award the non-gazetted staff of the police department who had shown exemplary courage with the Police Medal of the Chief Minister's appreciation letter and was Rs.25,000/- cash reward instead of out of turn promotion in terms of the Government Order dated 07.06.2014. The Director General of Police, U.P. had also issued a circular dated 14.08.2014 in pursuance to the aforesaid Government Order dated 07.06.2014.

(i) The Director General of Police, Lucknow, on 06.02.2015 and 20.05.2015, wrote to the Principal Secretary, Home, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, refusing for grant of seniority to the ex cadre out of turn promotees from the date of their out of turn promotion, who were engaged in the security of the Chief Minister, inter alia on the ground that in the Government Order dated 01.05.1999, it was provided that out of turn promotions would be made against the vacant posts in the cadre which will be treated as ex cadre promotions and no benefit of the same will be admissible in the fixation of seniority. In these backgrounds, a direction was sought through the aforesaid letters dated 06.02.2015 and 20.05.2015 from the State Government with regard to fixation of seniority of such out of turn promotees.

(j) Thereafter, Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was issued, whereby earlier order dated 01.05.1999 was rescinded with immediate effect and it was provided that the probation of 990 Non-Gazetted Police Officers/ employees, who had been granted out of turn promotion w.e.f. 1994 till 2014, shall be counted with effect from their date of out of turn promotion. This Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was issued by the State Government in exercise of powers available to it under Section 2 of the Act, 1861.

(k) Thereafter, the State Government, in exercise of power conferred under sub-section 2 of Section 46 read with Section 2 of the Act, 1861, has framed U.P. Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2015") in superssession of all existing rules or orders issued in this behalf with a view to regulating the selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc. of Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors of (Civil Police) in Uttar Pradesh Police Force, which came into force w.e.f. 19.08.2015.

(l) Thereafter, the writ petitioners/private respondents herein, who are regularly promoted Inspectors from the cadre of Sub-Inspector against cadre posts of the Inspector of Civil Police, has challenged the Government Order dated 23.07.2015, consequential order dated 29.07.2015 issued by the Director General of Police, U.P. and the seniority list dated 24.02.2016 by filing Service Single No. 5677 of 2016, 13625 of 2016 and 10759 of 2016, by impleading the name of thirteen out of turn promotees as private respondents in the aforesaid writ petitions.

(m) When the aforesaid writ petitions were listed before the learned Single Judge as peremptorily i.e. on 20.02.2019, none was responded before the learned Single Judge on behalf of the private respondents in writ petitions/ appellants herein, therefore, in the absence of any assistance on behalf of the private respondents/appellants herein, the learned Single Judge, looking to the fact that the matter was expedited by the Apex Court and so many counsel, namely, Mr. Brijendra Singh, Sri Ravi Singh, Sri Sameer Kalia have put in appearance on earlier occasions when the case was listed, proceeded to hear the matter finally on the basis of the submissions put forth by learned Counsel for the writ petitioners and learned Counsel for the State.

(n) Learned Single Judge, on considering the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 in the light of the Rules, 2008, observed that the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 had been issued in violation of Rules, 2008 and ex cadre posts are not the posts within the cadre and their appointments were not substantive appointments and as such, out of turn promotees cannot claim seniority on the basis of their appointment on ex cadre post over the writ petitioners and the seniority of all the Inspectors are to be governed in accordance with Rules 22 (3) of Rules, 2015, which provides that the seniority of the Inspectors is to be determined from the date of substantive appointment after selection and inter se seniority of the promotees of same selection is to be that of the seniority in the ex cadre posts.

(o) In these backdrops, the learned Single Judge allowed the writ petitions with the direction as already recorded above, vide judgment and order dated 20.02.2019, which is impugned in the above-captioned special appeals.

(14) Thereafter, the Director General of Police (Establishment), Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow has issued the consequential order on 29.07.2015 in regard to Government Order dated 23.07.2015.

STATUTORY PROVISIONS: RULES

(15) The Police Act, 1861

I. The Police Act, 1861 was enacted in the aftermath of the Mutiny of 1857. The Act, 1861 received the assent of the Governor General on 22.03.1861. The long title describes it as "an act for the regulation of police". The Preamble states that "it was expedient to re-organise the police and to make it a more efficient instrument for the prevention and detection of crime'. The Act and the Regulations were saved under Section 243 of the Government of India Act, 1935 and by Article 313 and 372 of the Constitution.

II. After the enactment of the Constitution, the police is a State subject under Entry 2 of the State List to the Seventh Schedule. Entry 2, which deals with the police, including railway and village police, is subject to the provisions of Entry 2A of the Union List providing for the deployment of any armed force of the Union or any other force subject to the control of the union. Section 2 of the Act, 1861 provides for the constitution of force, in the following terms :-

"2. Constitution of the forces.-- The entire police establishment under a State Government shall for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be one police force, and shall be formally enrolled and shall consist of such number of officers and men, and shall be constituted in such manner, as shall from time to time be ordered by the State Government.

Subject to the provisions of this Act the pay and all other conditions of service of members of the subordinate ranks of any police force shall be such as may-be determined by the State Government."

III. Section 7 provides that subject to the provisions of Article 311 of the Constitution and to such rules as the State Government may, from time to time, make under the Act, the Director-cum-Inspector General may, at any time, dismiss, suspend or reduce any police officer of subordinate ranks who is though to be remiss or negligent in the discharge of the duties or unfit "for the same' or may award one of the punishments mentioned in the provision. Section 8 provides that every police officer appointed to the police force shall receive on appointment, a certificate in the form annexed to the Act by virtue of which such a person is vested with the powers, functions and privileges of the police officer. When the person named in the certificate ceases to be a police officer, the certificate shall cease to have effect and it would have to be surrendered forthwith.

IV. Section 12 of Act, 1861 confers upon the Director General-cum-Inspector General, the power to make rules and is in the following terms :-

"12. Power of Inspector-General to make rules.- The Director General of Police may, from time to time, subject to the approval of the State Government, frame such orders and rules as he shall deem expedient relating to the organization, classification and distribution of the police force, the places at which the members of the force shall reside, and the particular services to be performed by them; their inspection, the description of arms, accoutrements and other necessaries to be furnished to them, the collecting and communicating by them of intelligence and information; and all such other orders and rules relating to the police-force as the Inspector-General shall, from time to time, deem expedient for preventing abuse or neglect of duty, and for rendering such force efficient in the discharge of its duties."

V. Section 23 of the Act, 1861 provides for the duties of police officers. A rule making power is conferred upon the State Government under Section 46 (2). Under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of Section 46, the following has been made :-

"46. Scope of Act. (1) This Act shall not by its own operation take effect in any presidency, State or place. But the State Government by an order to be published in the Official Gazette may extend the whole or any part of this Act to any presidency, State or place; and the whole or such portion of this Act as shall be specified in such order shall thereupon take effect in such presidency, State or place.

(2) When the whole or any part of this Act shall have been extended, the State Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules consistent with this Act:

(a) to regulate the procedure to be followed by Magistrates and police-officers in the discharge of any duty imposed upon them by or under this Act;

(b) to prescribe the time, manner and conditions within and under which claims for compensation under section 15A are to be made, the particulars to be stated in such claims, the manner in which the same are to be verified, and the proceedings (including local enquiries, if necessary) which are to be taken consequent thereon; and

(c) generally, for giving effect to the provisions of this Act.

(3) All rules made under this Act may from time to time be amended, added to or cancelled by the State Government."

VI. The Act, 1861 and the rules made thereunder constitute a self-contained code providing for the appointment of police officers and prescribing the procedure for their removal, as held by the Apex Court in State of U.P. Vs. Babu Ram Upadhya : AIR 1961 SC 751, Chandra Prakash Tiwari Vs. Shakuntala Shukla : 2002 (6) SCC 127. Thus, the Act, 1861 is a special statute and a complete code.

Provided that any person appointed before the commencement of these rules to a post under the service and working on that post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these rules.

XXVI. Rule 19 relates to training; Rule 20 relates to probation; Rule 21 relates to confirmation; Rule 22 of the Rules, 2015 lays down that the seniority of the persons appointed to the post in service shall be determined in the matter laid down therein, which is reproduced as under :-

"22. Seniority.-- Seniority of persons substantively appointed to any posts in the service shall be determined as follows--

(1) Determination of seniority of sub-inspectors recruited before 2-12-2008

(a) Seniority of sub-inspectors recruited by any means who have undergone training at one time shall be determined on the basis of the percentage of marks obtained by them in training after selection in training institutions.

(b) Sub-inspectors trained in one training session shall be junior to all sub-inspectors trained in previous training session and shall be senior to all sub-inspectors trained in subsequent training sessions. Restriction being that if sub-inspectors appointed by direct recruitment and by promotion undergo training in one training session then in that case the seniority of promotes vis a vis direct recruits shall be determined in a cyclic order (the first being a promotee) so far as may be, in accordance with the quota prescribed for two sources.

(2) Determination of seniority of sub-inspectors recruited after 2-12-2008

(a) seniority of sub-inspectors appointed by any type of selection shall be determined from their date of selection. Here date of selection means the date on which the Head of the Department approves the select list sent by the Board or the selection committee after the completion of recruitment process;

(b) selection of sub-inspectors by the Board by means of direct recruitment shall be considered a separate selection. Inter se seniority of sub-inspectors recruited in a single selection under direct recruitment shall be according to the order of the final select list issued by the Board.

(c) sub-inspectors recruited under the dependants of deceased category and sub-inspectors recruited under the Skilled Sportsmen Rules, 2011 shall be considered a separate selection of direct recruitment. The inter se seniority of sub-inspectors so recruited shall be determined according to the percentage of marks obtained by them in training after selection in training institutions. In one training session if percentage of marks obtained in training institutions are same for more than one candidate then date of birth shall be made the basis of determination of inter se seniority. In case of percentage of marks and date of birth being same the seniority shall be determined according to the alphabetical order of the names in High School Certificates in English.

(d) Sub-inspectors appointed through promotion shall be considered a separate selection. If promotion to the post of sub-inspector is through an examination then inter se seniority of sub-inspectors appointed after promotion shall be according to the final select list issued by the Board. (3) Determination of seniority of Inspectors.--

Seniority of inspectors appointed on the basis of promotion shall be determined from their date of selection. (4) The seniority in some special case determined according to a previously determined policy shall remain unchanged.

(5) Despite the aforesaid if new facts come to light about seniority determination or in case some dispute arises then it shall be resolved by the Head of the Department according to policy of the Government."

XXVII. "27. Relaxation for the conditions of service.--

Where the State Government is satisfied that the operation of any rule, regulating the conditions of service of persons appointed to the service causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may, notwithstanding anything contained in the rules applicable to the case, by order, dispense with or relax the requirements of that rule to such extent and subject to such conditions as it may consider necessary for dealing with the cases in just and equitable manner."

XXIX. Rule 28 is a savings clause, which is reproduced as under :-

"28. Savings.--Nothing in these rules shall affect reservations and other concessions required to be provided for the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other special categories of persons in accordance with the orders of the Government issued from time to time in this regard.

XXX. The State Government, in exercise of powers under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 46 read with sub-section (3) of the said section and section 2 of the Act, 1861 and all other powers enabling him in this behalf and in superssession of all existing rules or orders issued in this behalf, has framed the Uttar Pradesh Police Constable and Head Constable Service Rules, 2015, which is in operation w.e.f. 02.12.2015.

APPELLANTS' CASE

(16) On behalf of the appellants, broadly the submissions made are as under :-

(a) The persons, who were covered by the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 and who might be prejudicially and adversely affected by the outcome of the writ petitions, were not impleaded as party respondents and only 13 persons out of 990 non-gazetted police personnel have been impleaded in the writ petitions, hence the writ petitions ought to be dismissed by the learned Single Judge for non-joinder of necessary parties. Furthermore, the writ petitions were not maintainable in view of non-compliance of the provisions of Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. The submission of the appellants is that in case there are large number of persons likely to be adversely affected, the provision of impleading some of them in representative capacity in accordance with the principles laid down in Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 are required to be followed, which mandates permission of the Court in this regard and publication in the notice. In the instant case, no permission was ever sought nor any advertisement was issued prior to passing of the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 under appeal. He further argued that the principles of Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 are applied in writ proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and which provide that one person may sue or defend on behalf of all in same interest with the permission of the Court, however, before the aforesaid permission is granted, it is necessary to give notice of the institution of the suit at the plaintiff's expense to all persons so interested, either by personal service or where, by reason of the number of persons or any other cause such service is not practicable, by public advertisement, as the Court in each case may direct. Furthermore, prior to passing the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 under appeals, no advertisement was issued regarding the institution of the aforesaid writ petitions, therefore, it is clear that the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 under appeal has been passed without granting opportunity to the necessary parties to a lis to come and defend themselves. In support of this submissions, appellants have relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Suresh Vs. Yeotmal District Central Co-operative Bank and another : (2008) 12 SCC 558, State of Rajasthan Vs. Ucchab Lal Chhanwal : (2014) 1 SCC 144, Ranjan Kumar and others Vs. State of Bihar and others : (2014) 16 SCC 187, Rashmi Mishra Vs. M.P. Public Service Commission and others : (2006) 12 SCC 724.

(b) The appellants/private respondents in writ petitions were not afforded opportunity of hearing by the learned Single Judge and the impugned judgment is ex parte. Even the learned single Judge has not taken into consideration the case of the appellants, who filed their counter affidavit before the learned Single Judge as counter affidavit filed by them has not at all been adverted to by the learned Single Judge. Appellants' submission is that on the date when the writ petitions were being finally heard by the learned Single Judge, a request was made on behalf of the Counsel for the appellants before the learned Single Judge that they are out of station on account of marriage of a close relative and as such, the matter may be adjourned only for a day and further matter may be fixed for the succeeding day itself. However, the learned Single Judge, without considering the fact that even on earlier occasion, the matter was finally heard and judgment was reserved on 13.04.2018 and later on it was released by the Co-ordinate Bench of the Court and was again being listed for final hearing, has passed the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 under appeals without affording opportunity of hearing to the Counsel for the appellants as well as other Counsel for the private respondents. This fact of request having been made to the learned Single Judge for adjournment for a day has not been disputed in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent no.8 in Special Appeal No. 100 of 2019 and, therefore, the aforesaid defect of non-joinder of necessary parties could not be pointed out to the learned Single Judge, which itself renders the petition not maintainable and liable to be dismissed at the very outset.

(c) While adjudicating the issue raised in the writ petitions, the learned Single Judge has not at all considered the relevant provisions of Police Act, 1861 and Police Regulations and has also ignored the relevant and material provisions of Rule, 2008 and Rule, 2015. Further the learned Single Judge has not at all taken into consideration the previous judgments of the Apex Court as well as this Court which have clarified and laid down the nature of Government Orders issued under Section 2 of the Act, 1861 and also the nature of appointment on the basis of those Government Orders. Elaborating his submission, appellants have asserted that the appellants and other similarly situated out of turn promotees were appointed in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the said purpose under law against substantive vacant posts in the cadre. Thus, since the date of their initial appointment/promotion, they were "members of service' having been born in the cadre since their date of initial appointment on the post of Inspector and as such, their appointment on the post of Inspector on out of turn basis cannot at all be treated to be ex cadre, and treating their appointment on the post of Inspector as an ex cadre appointment/promotion would not only be illegal but would also be absolutely factually incorrect. To substantiate the aforesaid submissions, appellants has drawn our attention to the Police Act, 1861 and has argued that a perusal of Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, it reveals that the State Government has been empowered to lay down the conditions of service and pay of the members of subordinate police force. Further Section 46-2 (c) of the Police Act, 1861 empowers the State Government to make rules consistent with the provisions of the Act by notification in official gazette generally for giving effect to the provisions of the said Act. A perusal of the aforesaid makes it abundantly clear that the State Government while laying down the conditions of service of police personnel exercises statutory powers available to it under Section 2 as well as Section 42-2(c) of the Police Act, 1861. He argued that under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, statutory orders are issued and under Section 42-2(c) of the Police Act, 1861, rules are framed by the State Government. However, both, orders under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and Rules under Section 42-2(c) of the Police Act, 1861, have statutory origin and none is subordinate to the other.

(d) It has been stated by learned Senior Counsel Sri Kalia that the State Government, while exercising power enshrined to it under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, issued an order dated 03.02.1994, by which it was provided that those Constables and Sub-Inspectors/Platoon Commanders, who have shown exemplary courage, be given appointment from the post of Constable to Head Constable and from the post of Sub-Inspector and Platoon Commander to Inspector/Company Commander on ex cadre posts. It was further provided that for each year, such ex cadre posts would be created by the State Government on the proposal of the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow and further it has overriding effect over any other existing orders. He argued that the aforesaid order dated 03.02.1994 contemplated that the promotions would be made ex cadre posts, which were to be sanctioned by the State Government for the said purpose every year, however, no such post were ever created and the out of turn promotions were made on cadre posts of Head Constables and Inspectors, respectively. Subsequently, on 01.05.1999, the State Government issued another statutory order referable to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by which it laid down that out of turn promotions would be against the vacancies existing in the cadre, however, promotion would be treated ex cadre and its benefit will not be available for the purposes of determination of seniority. He pointed out that at the time of issuance of the aforesaid statutory orders dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999, there were no service rules framed by the State Government under Section 46-2 (c) of the Police Act, 1861. Therefore, all the out of turn promotees were, thus, promoted on the cadre posts and the said promotions were granted by the State Government in accordance with Government Orders which were issued in exercise of the statutory powers available to it under the provisions of the Police Act, 1861. Thus, it is clear that promotion of the appellants were made in accordance with the procedure, then, prevailing in law and were made on cadre posts.

(e) Sri Kalia has further stated that in exercise of powers made to it under Section 2 of the Section 46 read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the State Government framed the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules, 2008"). The Rules, 2008 were deemed to come into force w.e.f. 02.12.2008. Rule 3 of the Rules, 2008 lays down the definitions. Rule 3(i) of Rules, 2008 provides "member of service', which means a person substantively appointed under these rules or the rules or orders in force prior to the commencement of these rules to a post in the cadre of the service. Rule 3 (l) provides "service', which means that the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service. The definition of substantive appointment has been laid down in Rule 3 (m), which provides that substantive appointment means an appointment, not being an ad hoc appointment, on a post in the cadre of the service, made after selection in accordance with rules and, if there were no rules, in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government. He argued that a bare reading of the aforesaid Rules and after taking into consideration the same, that out of turn promotees were appointed on cadre posts as per the then existing procedure issued by the State Government under the provisions of the Act, 1861, such out of turn promotees were member of the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service having been substantively appointed on a cadre post prior to the issuance of the Rules, 2008 and after the advent of the said rules, they continued in the said capacity. It has been pointed out by Sri Kalia that cadre of service has been defined in Rule 4 of the Rules, 2008, which lays down that the strength of service and of each category of service therein shall be such as may be determined by the Government from time to time. Rule 19 of the Rules, 2008 relates to the appointment and proviso to Rules 19 (2) of the Rules, 2008 prescribed that any person appointed to a post in the service prior to the commencement of these rules and is working on the post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these rules. Rule 22 of the Rules, 2008 lays down that the seniority of the persons appointed to the post in service shall be determined in accordance with Uttar Pradesh Government Servant Seniority Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as "Seniority Rules, 1991") as amended from time to time. Further Rule 28 of the Rules, 2008 empowers the State Government to grant relaxation from the conditions of service if it is satisfied that operation of any rule, regulating the condition of service of persons appointed to the service causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may notwithstanding any thing contained in the Rules applicable to the case, by order dispense with or relax the requirement of that rule to such extent and subject to such conditions as it may consider necessary for dealing with the cases in just and equitable manner. Rule 30 of the Rules, 2008 grants overriding effect to the said rules notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other rules, government order or administrative instructions made or issued by the State Government and further Sub-Rule 4 of Rule 30 also provides that notwithstanding such rescission, the benefit of selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc. granted before 02.12.2008 under the prevalent rules, government orders or administrative instructions shall not be withdrawn.

(f) Sri Kalia has stated that on 07.06.2014, the State Government issued an order under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by means of which the mechanism of out of turn promotion was done away with and in its place other arrangements, namely, cash reward and grant of medals was brought into force, as such prior to 07.06.2014, the Government Orders dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999 was being applied for granting out of turn promotion on cadre posts on personnel who had shown exemplary courage, while carrying out their duties. He argued that once, on 07.06.2014, the State Government took a decision of rescinding its policy of granting out of turn promotion and replacing the same with other arrangement, the State Government in order to rectify the anomaly created vide earlier order dated 01.05.1999 which provided that although promotions would be made on cadre post, the same would be treated ex cadre and the same would not confer any benefit for determination of seniority, issued the order dated 23.07.2015 rectifying the said anomaly by means of which the earlier order dated 01.05.1999 was rescinded with immediate effect and it was provided that 990 Non-Gazetted Police Officers/ Employees, who had been granted out of turn promotion w.e.f. 1994 till 2014, their probation shall be counted with effect from their date of out of turn promotion.

(g) Elaborating his submission, Shri Kalia has submitted that the order dated 23.07.2015 was also issued by the State Government exercising powers available to it under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861. The said order was challenged by the writ petitioners on the ground that the same has been issued in violation of the express provisions of the Rules, 2008 and operation of which would cause them undue hardship, since the out of turn promotees would be placed higher in rank in the seniority list. He argued that seniority is a civil right available to a Government servant to be determined by the policy of the employer and further it is always open for the employer/State Government to amend/modify its policy and, thus, there is no vested right available to a Government servant if such policy is changed. To strengthen his submission, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court rendered in Prafful Kumar Das Vs. State of Orissa : (2003) 11 SCC 614.

(h) Sri Kalia has pointed out that the writ petitioners have worked under the out of turn promotees for considerable period of time i.e. from 1994 till 2014 and have choosen not to challenge the arrangement of grant of out of turn promotion and as such, only on the ground that they would be facing hardship by loss of seniority is no ground to strike down the policy of the State Government as laid down vide order dated 23.07.2015. He argued that the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2015") have been framed by the State Government in exercise of power available to it under Section 46-2 (c) of the Police Act, 1861 read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, wherein the arrangement provided vide order dated 23.07.2015 has been specifically saved and incorporated in the Rules, 2015 and further out of turn promotions have been statutorily saved for all purposes. Rule 3 of the Rules, 2015 lays down the definitions and further Rule 3(i) provides for "member of service', which means a person appointed to a post in service under these rules or any previous rules before the commencement of these rules. Rule 3 (m) of Rules, 2015 provides the definition of "Service' which means the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service. The definition of "Substantive Appointment' has been laid down in Rule 3 (n) of Rules, 2015, which means an appointment, not being an ad hoc appointment, on a post in the cadre of the service, made after selection in accordance with the rules and, if there were no rules, in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government.

(i) Sri Kalia has further pointed out that Cadre of Service has been defined in Rule 4 (1) of the Rules, 2008, which lays down that the strength of service and of each category of service therein shall be such as may be determined by the Government from time to time. Rule 18 of the Rules, 2008 relates to appointment and proviso to Rules 18 (2) of the Rules, 2008 provides that any person appointed before the commencement of these rules to a post under the service and is working on the that post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these rules. Rule 22 of the Rules, 2015 lays down that the seniority of the persons appointed to the post in service shall be determined in the manner laid down therein and further Rule 22 (3) of the Rules, 2015 deals with determination of seniority of Inspectors. He argued that under the provisions of Rule 22 (4) of the Rules, 2015, the seniority in some special case determined according to previously determined policy shall remain unchanged. He argued that a perusal of the Rule 22 (4) of the Rules, 2015 makes it abundantly clear that the policy as determined by the State Government vide order dated 23.07.2015 has been specifically saved by operation of the aforesaid rule. He further argued that Rule 27 of the Rules, 2015 empowers the State Government to grant relaxation from the conditions of service, if it is satisfied that operation of any rule, regulating the condition of service of persons appointed to the service cause undue hardship in any particular case, it may not withstanding anything contained in the Rules applicable to the case by order dispense with or relax the requirement of that rule to such extent and subject to such conditions as it may consider necessary for dealing with the cases in just and equitable manner. Thus, from a conjoint reading of the Rules, 2008 and Rules 2015, it is unambiguously clear that the appellants were members of service from the initial date of their out of turn promotion on the post of Inspector, for the reason firstly, that their promotion was against a vacancy in the cadre, secondly it was in accordance with the procedure prescribed by law i.e. under the Government Order issued under the provisions of Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and thirdly it was a substantive appointment. Thus, seniority could not have been denied to them by any stretch of imagination or by operation of any law.

(j) It has further been stated by the learned Senior Counsel Sri Kalia that the policy decision taken by the State Government vide order dated 23.07.2015 does not suffer from any illegality and is not violative of any of the provisions of Rules, 2008 and Rules, 2015 rather the same is protected under both the rules and further the writ petitioners have not challenged the aforesaid provisions contained in the said Rules and the same is neither arbitrary nor discriminatory in any manner so as to render it violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

(k) Sri Kalia has pointed out that it was nobody's case that the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 impugned in the writ petitions has not been issued by the State Government, hence the learned Single Judge erred in law in holding that there is no order of his Excellency the Governor. Thus, it is axiomatic that the writ petitions were not maintainable on the first count itself and further the same were bereft of any merit in them. The policy of the State Government issued vide order dated 23.07.2015 impugned in the writ petitions was legally justified and the same could not have been impeached alleging violation of the Rules, 2008 as well as Rules, 2015, wherein the said policy decision has been specifically saved and granted statutory recognition. He argued that the aforesaid propositions of fact and law was not considered by the learned Single Judge while passing the judgment and order under appeal for the reason that the counsel for the appellants could not be heard and, thus, it is clear that judgment and order under appeal is hit by the doctrine of per incurium as well as the doctrine of sub silentio. Hence, the judgment and order under appeal by which bunch of writ petitions were allowed, is liable to be set-aside and the said writ petitions are liable to be dismissed.

(l) Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate, appearing on behalf of the appellants in Special Appeal No. 103 of 2019 has reiterated the aforesaid submissions advanced by Shri S.K. Kalia and has argued that the issue in the writ petitions is in respect of the promotions of Sub-Inspectors to the rank of Inspectors. The aforesaid promotions had been governed by the Government Order dated 05.11.1965, which provided for the method of selection of Sub-Inspector for promotion to the rank of Inspector. The Government Order dated 05.11.1965 issued by the Government is referable to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861. The Government Order dated 29.10.1983 issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 provided for a selection committee for the purpose of selecting Sub-Inspectors for promotion to the post of Inspectors. The Government Order dated 05.11.1965 and subsequent Government Orders were rescinded/modified by the Government Order dated 24.07.2003 issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 providing for the Selection Process for promotion of Sub-Inspector (Civil Police) to the Inspector (Civil Police). The aforesaid Government Orders dated 05.11.1965, 29.8.1983 and 24.07.2003 were providing selection process for normal promotion of the Sub-Inspectors to the rank of Inspectors. These Government Orders have been issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and were having statutory force, hence they are having mandatory and binding effect as held by the Full Bench of this Court in Vijay Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others : (2005) 2 AWC 1191 and State of U.P. and others Vs. Rajendra Singh and another : 2015 (4) ADJ 575.

(m) Sri Trivedi has submitted that the Police Act is a State subject under Entry 82 of the State list to the 7th Schedule of the Constitution of India. The Police Act was enacted in the year 1857 and received the assent of the then Governor General on 22.03.1861. Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 provides for the constitution of force. Sub-section 2 of Section 46 of Police Act, 1861 confers a rule making power upon the State Government. He argued that from the aforesaid, it is quite evident that Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 is the exclusive provision empowering the State to issue Government Order from time to time for enrollment of police personnel and constitution of Police Force. Section 46 (2) of the Police Act, 1861 provides that the State Government may from time to time by notification in the Gazette, make rules consistent with the act, Enrollment/recruitment of police personnel or anything related to that is not provided under Section 46 (2) of the Police Act, 1861. He pointed out that the Rules, 2008 have come into operation on 02.12.2008.

(n) Sri Trivedi, while drawing our attention to Rule 3 (i), 3 (m), 19 (1) and (2) of the Rules 2008, has contended that Sub-Rule 2 of Rule 19 of Rules, 2008 clarifies that any person appointed prior to the commencement of rules to a post under the service and working on that post shall be deemed to have substantive appointment under the Rules. He, thereafter, drawing our attention to Rule 28, 30 (1), 30 (2), 30 (3), 30 (4) of Rules, 2008, and has argued that sub-rule (4) of Rule 30 of the Rules, 2008 provides that the benefit of selection, promotion, training, appointment, seniority and confirmation etc. granted before the commencement of the Rules under the Government Orders or the administrative instructions shall not be withdrawn. He also drawing our attention of Rule 3 (i), 3 (n), 18 (2), 22 (3), 22 (4), 26 and 27 of the Rules, 2015 and has contended that these statutory provisions have not been considered by the learned Single Judge while passing the judgment and order under appeal. He argued that Rule 3 (m) of Rules, 2008 though has been noted by the learned Single Judge but part of it has not at all been considered which provides that where there were no rules, the substantive appointment means in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being as per the executive instructions provided by the Government. Similarly, Rule 3 (n) of the Rules, 2015 though noted by the learned Single Judge, however, were not completely considered by the learned Single Judge and the part of the said Rules, 2015, where there were no rules, the substantive appointment means in accordance with the procedure prescribed for time being by executive instructions issued by the Government has all together been ignored.

(o) Sri Trivedi has further submitted that the learned Single Judge has also not considered the object of the Government Order dated 03.02.1994. In a previous judgment of this Court rendered by the learned Single Judge in the case of Krishna Kumar Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and others : 2001 (3) AWC 2163, the object of the Government Order dated 03.02.1994 was considered and in paras 6 to 8 of the aforesaid report, it has been categorically held that the aforesaid Government Order does not contemplate merely courage rather indomitable courage for grant of out of turn promotion and for an act of bravery, a police officer can be rewarded according to Chapter XXXI of Police Regulations, but the Government Order dated 03.02.1994 required something more than good work and bravery and for out of turn promotion, the police officers must have shown indomitable courage and gallantry. However, the learned learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned judgment, was much influenced with the promulgation of Rules, 2008 and discarded the orders issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 because the learned Single Judge escaped attention of the fact that the Government Order issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and Rules framed under Section 46 (2) of the Police Act, 1861 are both pieces of subordinate/delegate legislation. He argued that as the object of Government Order dated 03.02.1994, its source, its nature etc. could not be considered by the learned Single Judge and, as such, the nature of appointment by way of out of turn promotion could not be tested by the learned Single Judge. In fact the out of turn promotion was having a statutory backing.

(p) It has been contended by Sri Trivedi that the learned Single Judge, while considering Rules, 2008, has not taken into consideration the meaning of term "members of service'. Rule 3 (i) of Rules, 2008 categorically provides that any person substantively appointed under the orders enforced prior to the commencement of these Rules to a post of Cadre of the Service shall be deemed to be substantively appointed in service. Further, learned Single Judge has completely ignored the part of definition of substantive appointment as occurring in Rule 3 (m) of the Rules, 2008. The part which was conjuncted after the word "and' has not been taken into account. The part which was highlighted in bold in the impugned judgment has only been considered and the part which provides that the substantive appointment would also mean to the appointment in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government, if there were no rules, has not been considered. Similarly proviso to sub-rule 2 of Rule 19 of the Rules, 2008 has also not been taken into consideration, which provides that any person appointed to a post in the service prior to commencement of the Rules, 2008 and was working on the post shall be deemed to be substantively appointed under the said Rules. The learned Single Judge has also not taken into consideration the sub-rule 4 of Rule 30 which categorically provided that nothing contained in the Rules can withdraw the benefit of the selection, promotion, training appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc. granted before 02.12.2008 under the prevalent Government Orders. Similarly, learned Single Judge could not give any findings to the policy decision contemplated under Government Order dated 07.06.2014 and, therefore, could not have the occasion to test the need of issuing Government Order dated 23.07.2015. He argued that the learned Single Judge could not advert to the necessity of bringing a new set of Rules after the policy decision dated 23.07.2015 and their impact/effect on the policy decision dated 23.07.2015. He argued that the effect of Government Order dated 23.07.2015 is quite apparent in the Rules, 2015. A bare glance on the relevant statutory provisions of Rules, 2015 established that the policy decision dated 23.07.2015 taken with reference to Section (2) of Police Act, 1861 is clearly saved by Rules, 2015.

(q) Elaborating his submission, Sri Trivedi has submitted that the learned Single Judge could not advert himself to the Rule 3 (I) and 3 (n) of Rules, 2015, which provides for the term "members of service' and "substantive appointment', respectively. The learned Single Judge has also not considered the proviso to the Rule 18 (2) of the Rules, 2015. The aforesaid proviso categorically provides that any person appointed before the commencement of Rule, 2015 to a post under the service and working on that post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under the said Rules. However, this aspect of the matter has been completely ignored by the learned Single Judge. Similarly, sub-rule (3), (4) and (5) of Rule 22 of the Rules, 2015 have not been considered which proceed to save the policy decision contemplated under Government Order dated 23.07.2015 wherein the sub-rule 4 provides that the seniority in some special case determined according to previous determined policy shall remain unchanged. Furthermore, the learned Single Judge has also remained oblivious to Rule 28 of the Rule, 2008 and Rule 27 of Rules, 2015, which provide for relaxation. To strengthen his submission, he has placed reliance upon Narendra Chadha and others Vs. Union of India and others : 1986 (2) SCC 157, Union of India and others Vs. Pratap Narain and others : 1992 (3) SCC 268, State of U.P. and others Vs. Rajendra Singh and another : 2015 (4) ADJ LB (FB), Vijay Kumar Gaur Vs. State of U.P. and another : 2016 (11) ADJ 502 (LB), Vijay Singh and others Vs State of U.P. and others : 2005 AWC 1191 (FB), Ajay Kumar Bhuyan Vs. State (Special Appeal No. 117 of 2014, decided on 03.02.2014), Krishna Kumar Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and another : 2001 (3) AWC 2163.

(r) It has been submitted by Sri Trivedi that the learned Single Judge has not taken into consideration the relevant statutory provisions, relevant Government Orders and the previous judgments of the Apex Court and this Court and thus the judgment of the learned Single Judge can be termed to be per incuriam and the same suffers from the vice of doctrine of sub silentio. In support of this submission, he has placed reliance upon the judgments of the Apex Court in V. Kishan Rao Vs. Nikhil Super Specialty Hospital : 2010 (5) SCC 513, Government of A.P. and another Vs. B. Satyanarayan : 2000 (4) SCC 262, Young Vs. General of Police : 2019 SCC Online Mad. 4347.

(s) The other submission of the learned Senior Counsel Sri Trivedi is that once the policy decision has been taken vide Government Order dated 07.06.2014, the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 became need of the hour to be issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861. This was done in order to save those appointments and further to protect the right accrued to all those police officers who were promoted out of turn. The policy decisions has further necessitated to promulgate the new set of rules in consonance with the said policy decision. The rule pertaining to appointment i.e. Rule 18 in 2015 Rules which goes to demonstrate that proviso to sub-rule (2) that any person appointed before the commencement of these rules and working over the post deemed to have been substantively appointed under the said rules. He argued that Rule 22 pertaining to seniority was also suitably amended in furtherance of the policy decision contained in Government Order dated 07.06.2014 and 23.07.2015 but the learned Single Judge has not taken into consideration sub-rule 3, 4 and 5 of the Rule 22 of the Rules, 2015 even though the Rule 4 categorically provides that the seniority in some special case shall be determined on the basis of previously determined policy shall remain unchanged.

(t) Sri Trivedi has further stated that at the best, Government Order dated 23.07.2015 can be treated to be integration in the cadre or amalgamation/merger of the cadre and ex cadre. He argued that it is settled law that questions relating to creation/abolition of cadre/categories of posts pertain to the field of policy decision and the same is within the exclusive discretion and jurisdiction of the State. Similarly, amalgamation/merger/bifurcation of the cadre creation or abolition of different category post or cadre classification re-constitution and re-structure the pattern and cadres/categories of service fall within the exclusive domain of the policy decision of the State Government. There is no right of any employee of the State to challenge such action on the ground of co-incidental prejudice or the reduced chances of promotion. A Government servant has no right to challenge the authority of the State to amend, alter and bring into new rules. But in the instant case, the State Government has taken policy decision of integration/merger of ex cadre into cadre. The amalgamation of employees by the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was the need of the hour in the wake of the policy decision dated 07.06.2014. The legislature was also conscious of the aforesaid policy decisions and thus, Rules, 2008 were repealed and in its place, new Rules 2015 have been promulgated. These rules which have saved these policy decisions have not been challenged by the writ petitioners/ private respondents with regard to competence of the State Government for taking action of amalgamation/merger of the Government Servants or the creation/management of the cadre.

(u) To strengthen the aforesaid submission, Sri Trivedi has relied upon S.P. Shivprasad Pipal Vs. Union of India : 1998 AIR (SC) 1982, S.I. Roopal and another Vs. Lt. Governor through Chief Secretary, Delhi and others : AIR 2000 SC 594, State of Maharastra Vs. Chandrakant Anand Kulkarni : 1981 AIR (SC) 1990, P.U. Joshi and others Vs. APPELLANTS/STATE CASE

(17) On behalf of the State, submission of Sri Manjive Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is as under :-

(a) The necessary parties were not impleaded as respondents in the writ petitions and, therefore, the writ petitions ought to have been dismissed by the learned Single Judge for non-joinder of necessary parties. He argued that the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was related to 990 employees including Head Constables, but without impleading affected parties, learned Single Judge has quashed the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 and therefore, the impugned judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 is unsustainable in the eyes of law. He also argued that writ petitions were not maintainable in view of non-compliance of the provisions of Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

(b) The next submission of the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is that out of turn promotees were appointed in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the said purpose under law against substantive vacant posts in the cadre and thus, since the date of their initial appointment/promotion, they were "member of service' having been born in the cadre since their date of initial appointment on the post of Inspector and as such, their appointment on the post of Inspector on out of turn basis cannot be at all treated to be ex cadre, and treating their appointment on the post of Inspector as an ex cadre, appointment/promotion would not only be illegal, but would also be absolutely factually incorrect. He argued that as per Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the State Government has been conferred power to lay down the conditions of service and pay of the members of sub-ordinate police force. Section 46 (2) (c) of the Police Act, 1861 further empowers the State Government to make Rules consistent with the provisions of the Act by Notification under official gazette for giving effect to the provisions of the Police Act, 1861. Thus it is quite clear that the State Government, while laying down the conditions of service of police personnel exercises statutory powers available to it under Section 2 as well as Section 46 (2) (c) of the Police Act, 1861.

(c) Elaborating his submission, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, statutory orders are issued and under Section 46 (2) (c) of the Police Act, 1861, rules are framed by the State Government. However, orders, under Section 2 and Rules under Section 46 (2) (c) of the Police Act, 1861, both have statutory origin and none is subordinate to the other. He argued that in exercise of powers available to it under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the State Government issued an order dated 03.02.1994 by means of which it was provided that those Constables and Sub-Inspectors/Platoon Commanders, who have shown exemplary courage, be given appointment from the post of Constable to Head Constable and from the post of Sub-Inspector and Platoon Commander to Inspector/Company Commander on ex cadre posts, would be created by the State Government on the proposal of the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow. The aforesaid office memorandum dated 03.02.1994 further provided that it has overriding effect over any other existing orders. He argued that although the aforesaid order contemplated that the promotions would be made ex cadre posts, which were to be sanctioned by the State Government for the said purpose every year. However, no such post were ever created and the out of turn promotions were made on cadre posts of Head Constables and Inspectors, respectively. Subsequently, on 01.05.1999, the State Government issued another statutory order referable to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 by means of which it laid down that out of turn promotions would be against the vacancies existing the cadre. However, it would be on ex cadre basis and its benefit will not be available for the purposes of determination of seniority. He pointed out that at the time of issuance of statutory orders i.e. 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999, there were no service rules framed by the State Government under Section 46 (2) (c) of the Police Act, 1861.

(d) It has been stated by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that in exercise of power available to it under sub-Section (2) of Section 46 read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the State Government has framed the Rules, 2008. This rules were deemed to come into force w.e.f. 02.12.2009. Rule 3 of the Rules, 2008 lays down the definitions and further Rule 3 (i) provides for "member of service', whereas definition of "service' has been laid down in Rule 3 (l) and the definition of "Substantive Appointment' has been laid down in Rule 3 (m) of Rules, 2008. He argued that a bare reading of the aforesaid Rules and after taking into consideration the same that out of turn promotees were appointed on cadre posts as per the existing procedure issued by the State Government under the provisions of the Police Act, 1861 and such out of turn promotees were of the U.P. Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service having been substantively appointed on a cadre post prior to the issuance of Rules, 2008 and after the advent of the said Rules, they continued in the said capacity.

(e) Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has further stated that "Cadre of Service' has been defined in Rule 4 of the Rules, 2008, which lays down that the strength of service and of each category of service therein shall be such as may be determined by the Government from time to time. Rule 19 of the Rules, 2018 relates to appointment and proviso to Rule 19 (2) prescribes down that any person appointed to a post in the service prior to the commencement of these Rules and is working on the post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these Rules. Rule 22 of the Rules, 2018 lays down that the seniority of the persons appointed to the post in service shall be determined in accordance with U.P. Government Servant Seniority Rules, 1991, as amended from time to time. Rule 28 of the Rules, 2008 empower the State Government to grant relaxation from the conditions of service, if it is satisfied that operation of any rule, regulating the condition of service of persons appointed to the service cause undue hardship in any particular case, it may notwithstanding anything contained in the Rules applicable to the case, by order dispense with or relax the requirement of that rule to such extent and subject to such conditions as it may consider necessary for dealing with the cases in just and equitable manner.

(f) It has been argued by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that Rule 30 of the Rules, 2008 grants overriding effect to the said rules notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other rules, Government Order or administrative instructions made or issued by the State Government and further sub-rule (4) of Rule 30 also provides that notwithstanding such rescission, the benefit of selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc. granted before 02.12.2008 under the prevalent rules, government orders or administrative instructions shall not be withdrawn. He further argued that on 07.06.2014, the State Government issued an order under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by which the mechanism of out of turn promotion was done away with and in its place, other arrangement, namely, cash reward and grant of medals, was brought into force and as such, prior to 07.06.2014, the Government Orders dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999 was being applied for granting out of turn promotion on cadre posts of personnel who had shown exemplary courage, while carrying out their duties. His submission is that once the State Government on 07.06.2014 took a decision for rescinding its policy for granting out of turn promotion and replacing the same with other arrangement, the State Government, in order to rectify the anomaly created vide earlier order dated 01.05.1999, which provided that although promotions would be made on cadre post but the same would be treated ex cadre and the same would not confer any benefit for determination of seniority, issued the order order dated 23.07.2015 rectifying the said seniority anomaly by means of which the earlier order dated 01.05.1999 was rescinded with immediate effect and it was provided that 990 non-gazetted Police Officers/Employees, who had been granted out of turn promotion w.e.f. 1994 till 2014, their probation shall be counted w.e.f. their date of out of turn promotion. This Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was issued by the State Government in exercise of powers available to it under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861.

(g) Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has stated that the aforesaid Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was challenged by the writ petitioners on the ground that the same has been issued in violation of the express provisions of the Rules, 2008 and operation of which would cause them undue hardship, since the out of turn promotees would be placed higher in rank in the seniority list. He, while placing reliance upon Prafull Kumar Das Vs. State of Orissa : 2003 (11) SCC 614, has argued that the seniority is a civil right available to a Government Servant to be determined by the policy of the employer and further it is always open for the employer/State Government to amend /modify its policy and thus there is no vested right available to a Government Servant if such policy is changed. He argued that the writ petitioners have worked under the out of turn promotes for considerable point of time i.e. from 1994 till 2014 and have chosen not to challenge the arrangement of grant of out of turn promotion and as such, only on the ground that they would be facing hardship by loss of seniority is no ground to strike down the policy of the State Government laid down vide order dated 23.07.2015.

(h) Elaborating his submission, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has drawn our attention to Rules, 2015 and argued that Rules 2015 have been framed by the State Government in exercise of powers available to it under Section 46 (2) (c) read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, wherein the arrangement provided vide order dated 23.07.2015 has been specifically saved and incorporated in the Rules, 2015 and further out of turn promotions have been statutorily saved for all purposes.

(i) Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has also drawn our attention to Rules 3 (i), 3 (m), 3 (n), 4 (1), 22 (3), 22 (4), 27 and 28 of Rules, 2015 and Rule 18 (2) of Rules, 2008, and argued that from a conjoint reading of Rules, 2008 and Rules, 2015, it is unambiguously clear that the appellants were members of service from the initial date of their out of turn promotion on the post of Inspector, for the reason firstly, that their promotion was against a vacancy in the cadre, secondly it was in accordance with the procedure prescribed by law i.e. under the Government Order issued under the provisions of Section 2 of the Police At, 1861 and thirdly it was a substantive appointment and, thus, seniority could not have been denied to them by any stretch of imagination or by operation of any law. He further argued that the policy decision taken by the State Government vide order dated 23.07.2015 impugned in the writ petitions does not suffer from any illegality and the same is not violative of any of the provisions of the Rules, 2008 and Rules, 2015 rather the same is protected under both the Rules. He pointed out that the writ petitioners have not challenged the aforesaid provisions contained in the said Rules and the same is neither arbitrary nor discriminatory in any manner so as to render it violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Thus, the learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order, has not at all considered the aforesaid aspect of the matter and the judgment and order under appeal is hit by the doctrine of per incurium as well as the doctrine of sub silentio, hence the impugned order passed by the learned Single Judge is liable to be set-aside and also the writ petitions are also liable to be dismissed.

PRIVATE RESPONDENTS' CASE

(18) On behalf of the respondents, the submission of learned Counsels are as under :-

(a) Sri Asit Kumar Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri V.S. Ojha, appearing on behalf of the writ petitioners/private respondents has submitted that if the policy decisions of the Government is under challenge on the ground of being violative of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India, the proceedings are analogous to those in which the constitutionality of a statutory rules regulating seniority of the Government Servant is assailed, in such proceedings the necessary parties to be impleaded or those against whom the relief is sought and in whose absence no effective decision can be rendered by the Court. In the present case, relief was claimed against the State Government, which has been impleaded through its representative. The individuals who are likely to be affected as a result of readjustment of the writ petitioners/private respondents in the seniority list in accordance with law were at the most, proper parties and not necessary parties, and their non-joinder could not be fatal to the writ petition. In support of his submission, he has relied upon G.M. South Central Railways Sikandarabad Vs. A.V.R. Siddhanti : (1974) 4 SCC 335 and A. Janardana Vs. Union of India : (1983) 3 SCC 601.

(b) Elaborating his submission, Sri Chaturvedi has stated that since the number of ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspectors, who have been included in the seniority list dated 24.02.2016, were very large, therefore, thirteen ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspectors were made parties in the array of respondents in the writ petitions in the representative capacity to represent ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspectors, at the time of filing of the writ petition. Thereafter, few ex cadre out of turn promotees were impleaded in compliance of the orders passed by the learned Single Judge and few applications were allowed as Intervener during the writ proceedings. However, only five ex cadre out of turn promotees, who were respondents in the writ petitions, have filed four special appeals and none else. In support of his submission, he has placed reliance upon Prabodh Verma and others Vs. State of U.P. and others : (1984) 4 SCC 251.

(c) The submission of Sri Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel is that it has been wrongly alleged on behalf of the appellants that none of Sub-Inspectors given out of turn promotion as Inspector, have been impleaded even in the representative capacity, whereas, as a matter of fact more than thirteen Sub-Inspectors granted out of the turn promotions as Inspectors were respondents in the writ petitions and even few were interveners out of which only five Inspectors earlier granted out of turn promotion from the post of Sub-Inspectors and further promoted as Depurty Superintendent of Police, during the pendency of writ petitions, have filed four special appeals and none who were not impleaded in representative capacity, have filed special appeal resulting which is not open for five appellants to plead non-impleadment in special appeals as well as compliance of principles of Order I Rule VIII of the Civil Procedure Code. The said ground only open to those who were not impleaded even in representative capacity. He further argued that five appellants, who were respondents in the writ petitions in the representative capacity, cannot plead that the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 is ex parte as vide order dated 06.02.2019 passed in the bunch of the writ petitions, learned Single Judge has fixed the hearing of the bunch of the writ petitions for peremptorily hearing on 20.02.2019 and in this regard, a written notice dated 14.02.2019 (Annexure No. CA-23 of Special Appeal No. 103 of 2019) served upon the counsel for respondents as well as through e-mail on 15.02.2019 to Sri Anoop Trivedi but even then none appeared to argue on 20.02.2019. His submission is that the sanctity of peremptorily hearing on 20.02.2019 has to be honored without any exception and despite non-appearance on the date fixed for peremptorily hearing, it is not open for the appellants to plead that the judgment dated 20.02.2019 is ex parte. He argued that the Counsel for the State of U.P. was present and argument on his behalf has been considered and decided through the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019. It has not been pleaded on behalf of the State of U.P./appellants that the issue raised during the course of hearing on 20.02.2019 has not been considered and incorporated in the judgment dated 20.02.2019. He further argued that the averment made in the counter affidavit of the private respondents will not change or affect in any manner the findings recorded in paragraph 32, 35, 36 and 37 of the impugned judgment dated 20.02.2019. However, during the course of hearing on 20.02.2019, the averments made in the counter affidavit of private respondents was read by the learned Single Judge and only thereafter the relevant pleadings, the judgment dated 20.02.2019 was delivered.

(d) The next submission of the learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents Sri Chaturvedi is that the private respondents herein are regularly promoted Inspectors (Civil Police) from the cadre post of Sub-Inspector (Civil Police) in accordance with law applicable. The Police Act, 1861 was enacted with object to re-organise the police and to make it a more efficient instrument for the prevention and detection of crime. Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 relates to the constitution of force. Section 12 of the Police Act, 1861 is related to the power of Inspector General to make rules. Section 46 of the Police Act, 1861 empowers the State Government to frame rules. He argued that prior to 02.12.2018, there were no rules, framed under Section 46 (2) read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 so as to govern the matter of appointment of subordinate ranks i.e. Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors, and earlier entire matter to be governed by various orders issued by the State Government from time to time under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861. On 03.02.1994, an Office Memorandum was issued by the State Government by which a provision was made for the appointment of Constables/Sub-Inpsectors/Platoon Commanders on the ex cadre post of Head Constables/ Inspectors/Company Commanders in the reorganization of their act of indomitable courage and bravery. On 10.02.1994, order was issued by the Inspector General of Police (Personnel) laying down the procedure with regard to cash reward and out of turn promotion, whereas order dated 10.02.1994 was not issued under Section 12 of the Police Act, 1861 as the same was not approved by the State Government. On 01.05.1999, another Government Order was issued in which it was provided that out of turn promotion would be made against the vacant posts in the cadre, which will be treated as ex cadre promotion and no benefit of same will be admissible in the fixation of seniority. It was also pleaded that in paragraph-2 of the aforesaid Government Order dated 01.05.1999 that such promotions should not be more than 2% in the year. He argued that in the promotion order of ex cadre out of turn promotees, it was specifically mentioned that in future, they would have to appear in the selection/examination for regular promotion on the post of Inspector (Civil Police) and after being declared successful, their seniority would be determined accordingly.

(e) Learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents has submitted that in exercise of powers conferred under sub-Section 2 read with Section 46 read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the Government of Uttar Pradesh framed Rules, 2008 in supersession of all existing rules issued in this behalf with a view to selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc., which came into effect from 02.12.2008. At this stage, he has drawn our attention to sub-rule (i), (l) and (m) of Rules 3, 4, 5 (1) (iii), 5 (2) (b), 17, 22, 28, 29 and 30 and has argued that proviso appended to the Sub-Rule 2 of Rule 19 of Rules, 2008 is referable to Rule 15, which relates to recruitment of Sub-Inspectors and not to the Inspectors. Thus, the Government Orders dated 03.02.1994, 02.01.1998 and 01.05.1999 continued to operate subject to Rule 5 (1) (iii) and Rule 5 (2) (b) of the Rules, 2008.

(f) At this stage, learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents has drawn our attention to the service details of the appellants, which are reproduced as under :-

(g) It has been submitted by the learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents that pursuant to the aforesaid Office Order dated 03.02.1994, 02.01.1998 and 01.05.1999, out of turn promotion on the ex cadre post of Inspector (Civil Police) were given on 29.03.2013 to Sri Udai Pratap Singh (SI 2007-08 Batch) (respondent no.6 in writ petition No. 13625 (SS) of 2016) and Sri Rajendra Kumar Nagar (SI 2007-08 Batch) (respondent no.7 in writ petition no. 13625 (S/S) of 2016) and their names find place at Serial No. 616 and 617, respectively, in the seniority list dated 24.02.2016. He argued that on the basis of the recommendation of U.P. Police Recruitment and Promotion Board and approval by the Director General of Police, U.P., the respondent no.5 (Devi Prasad Shukla in writ petition no. 13625 (SS) of 2016) was promoted from the post of Sub-Inspector (Civil Police) to Inspector (Civil Police) on regular basis on 12.07.2013 in accordance to the provisions of the U.P. Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2008 as amended in 2013. The name of respondent no.5 in writ petition no. 13625 of 2016 (S/S) i.e. Devi Prasad Shukla herein appears at serial no. 1719 in the promotion order dated 12.07.2013.

(h) It has been argued by the learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents that another Government Order was issued by the State Government on 07.06.2014, whereby the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, which was related to ex cadre out of turn promotees of non-gazetted staff of the police department was cancelled and consequently a decision was taken by the State Government to award the non-gazetted staff of the police department who had shown exemplary courage with the police medal, Chief Minister's appreciation letter and Rs.25,000/- cash reward instead of out of turn promotion in terms of the Government Order dated 07.06.2014. A circular to the said effect was issued by the Director General of Police, U.P. on 14.08.2014. He argued that after issuance of the aforesaid Government Order dated 07.06.2014, cancelling the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, no benefits can be extended to the ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspector (Civil Police) beyond the provisions of the Circular dated 14.08.2014. He further argued that the Director General of Police, Lucknow, on 06.02.2015 and 20.05.2015, wrote to the Principal Secretary, Department of Home, Government of U.P., refusing for grant of seniority to the ex cadre out of turn promotees from the date of their out of turn promotion, who were engaged in the security of the Hon'ble Chief Minister, on the ground that in the Government Order dated 01.05.1999, it was provided that out of turn promotees would be made against the vacant posts in the cadre which will be treated as ex cadre promotions and no benefit of the same will be admissible in the fixation of seniority. Thereafter, Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was issued, whereby decision was taken by the State Government to give seniority to the ex cadre out of turn promotee non-gazetted police officers/employees and, thereafter, pursuant to Government Order dated 23.07.2015, consequential order was issued by the Director General of Police, U.P. on 29.07.2015 in violation of Rules, 2008.

(i) Sri Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel has submitted that the Government Order dated 23.07.2015, which was related, to ex cadre out of turn promotion of non-gazetted staff of Police Department had already been cancelled by the State Government vide Government Order dated 07.06.2014 and as such, no benefit contradictory to the Government Order dated 07.06.2014 could be made to the out of turn promotees. The findings recorded by the learned Single Judge in paragraph-32 of the impugned judgment dated 20.02.2019 is perfectly justifiable. He argued that the statutory provisions relied upon on behalf of the appellants in the counter affidavit filed in writ petitions will not change or affect the findings recorded in paragraph 32, 35, 36 and 37 of the impugned judgment dated 20.02.2019 as the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 has to be tested only on the touch stone of Rules, 2008 as the same was applicable from 02.12.2008 to 18.08.2015, which was framed in exercise of powers confirmed under Section 46 (2) read with Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and all other powers enabling the State Government in this behalf and in superssession of all existing Rules issued in this behalf, read with Rule 30 (overriding effect of the Rules, 2008 added through notification dated 05.04.2010) to regulate the selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc. of Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors. Whereas the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was only in exercise of power under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, resulting which the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 being in conflict with the Preamble, Sub-rule (i), (l) and (m) of Rules 3, 4, 5 (1) (iii), Rule 5 (2) (b), Rule 17, Rule 19, Rule 22, Rule 28, Rule 29 and Rule 30 of Rules, 2008. He argued that the appellants have deliberately skipped preamble, sub-rule (l) of Rule 3, Rule 5 (2) (b), Rule 17, Rule 29 as well as the fact, criteria and procedure for out of turn promotion as Inspector was to be governed only by the procedure laid down in paragraph 6 of the letter dated 10.02.1994 issued by Inspector General of Police (Personnel) of the office of Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow which was not even in exercise of powers under Section 12 of the Police Act, 1861. Whereas criteria and procedure for regular promotion as Inspector is to be governed in pursuance of Government Orders dated 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.20003 or Rule 17 of Rules, 2018 during the relevant period between 10.02.1994 to 07.06.2014.

(j) It has been contended by Sri Chaturvedi that the criteria and procedure dated 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.2003 and Rule 17 of the 2008 had statutory backing, whereas letter dated 10.02.1994 have no statutory backing. The criteria and procedure for regular promotion as Inspector is uniformly to be applied for all Sub-Inspectors including Sub-Inspectors promoted as Inspector as ex cadre out of turn promotee in terms of Rules 5 (2) (b) read with Rule 17 substituted vide notification dated 06.06.2013 and same procedure was adopted while regular promotion of three appellants through order dated 12.07.2013, whereas the remaining two appellants were not regularly promoted till 23.07.2015. Neither the three appellants have challenged their promotion order dated 12.07.2013 nor all the five appellants have challenged their terms and conditions of out of turn promotions. However, the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 is not saved under Rule 29 of the Rules, 2008 as only the orders existing till 02.12.2008 were saved even the Government Order dated 12.07.2013 i.e. promotion order has not been superseded or revised till date. He further argued that the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 is not management/ amalgamation/merger of cadre as there is no cadre, of out of turn promotee Sub-Inspectors. There is only one cadre of Sub-Inspectors which has two posts i.e. Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors. As the seniority of regularly promoted Inspectors is determined only on the basis of substantive appointment on the post of Sub-Inspectors except those who are later on regularly promoted as Inspector on account of any reason.

(k) Sri Chaturvedi has submitted that the law of sub silentio and per incuriam is not applicable with respect to the paragraph 32, 35, 36 and 37 of the impugned judgment dated 20.02.2019. He argued that the judgments relied by the appellant are not relevant and applicable. He further argued that in exercise of powers conferred under Clause-(c) to sub-Section (2) of Section 46 read with sub-section (3) of the said section and Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the State Government framed Rules, 2015 in supersession of all existing Rules or orders issued in this behalf with a view to regulating the selection, promtion, training, appointment, determination of senrioity and confirmation etc. of Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors of (Civil Police in Uttar Pradesh Police Force), which came into force with effect from 19.08.2015. The relevant rules for the purposes of instant case are preamble, sub-rule (i), (m) and (n) of Rule 3, Rule 4, Rule 5 (1) (iii), Rule 5 (2) (b), Rule 17 (1) (b), Rule 17 (2) (b), Rule 18, Rule 22, Rule 26 and Rule 27 and Rule 28. The proviso appended to the sub-rule 1 of Rule 18 is referable to Rule 15 and Rule 16, which relates to the recruitment of Sub-Inspectors and not to the Inspectors. The proviso appended to the Sub-Rule 2 of Rule 18 is referable to Rule 17 (1), which relates to the recruitment of Sub-Inspectors by promotions and not to the Inspectors. He argued that on 04.02.2016, tentantive, combined seniority list of Commanders was circulated by the U.P. Police Headquarter, Allahabad under the signature of the Deputy Inspector General of Police (Establishment), U.P. and objections were invited against said list by 12.02.2016, keeping in view of Government Order dated 23.07.2015 in paragraph 3 (10) of Tentative Seniority List dated 04.02.2016. Against the aforesaid tentative seniority list dated 04.02.2016, the writ petitioners/respondents filed their objection to the Inspector General of Police (Establishment), U.P. The respondents herein/writ petitioners in their objection specifically indicated that the tentative seniority list was prepared in violation to Rules, 2008 and names of ex cadre out of turn promotee Inspectors (Civil Police) has wrongly been included in the tentative seniority list because out of turn promotions/ appointments are not the substantive promotion/appointment. He argued that in paragraphs 39, 40 and 41 of his objection dated 12.02.2016, respondent no.6 specifically stated that the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 cannot override or supersede the statutory Rules, 2008. It has also been indicated in the objection that out of turn ex cadre promotee Inspector (Civil Police) cannot be placed over and above the substantively appointed/promoted Inspector (Civil Police) and tentative seniority list dated 04.02.2016 has been issued in utter violation to the provisions of Rules, 2008 and further seniority should be determined in accordance with the provisions of Rules, 2008. He argued that on 24.02.2016, combined final seniority list of Inspectors (Civil Police), Reserve Inspectors and Company Commanders has been issued in de horse the Rules and no heed has been paid to the objections filed by the writ petitioners/respondents herein and objections were rejected through non-speaking and unreasoned order and in utter disregard and violation to the provisions of Rules, 2015, the seniority list has been finalized and number of ex cadre out of turn promotee Inspector (Civil Police), who are ranked junior to the writ petitioners/respondents herein treating their out of turn ex cadre promotion date as their date of regular promotion on the basis of the Government Order dated 23.07.2015, which was in violation of Rules, 2008 and was not to be saved by 2015 Rules which came into force w.e.f. 19.08.2015, therefore, action of the State cannot be justified on the touchstone of reasonableness and fairness, hence same cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

(l) Sri Chaturvedi has submitted that the direction issued by the Apex Court vide order dated 30.06.2016 was not complied within the stipulated period of three months and the writ petitions were decided after two years and seven months due to delaying tactics adopted by the appellants/respondents which will be evident from the order-sheet of the writ petitions. He further argued that prior to 03.02.1994 and after 07.06.2014, there was provision for cash rewards in terms of Government Orders/Police Regulations which is compilation of Government Orders with regard to categories covered under Government Orders dated 03.02.1994, 02.01.1998 and 01.05.1999 whereas between 03.02.1994 to 07.06.2014, it was out of turn promotion which is in effect is a reward as they have to be considered again for regularization of their promotion on their turn in accordance with the procedure laid down in the Government Orders dated 05.11.1965, 24.07.2003 and Rules of 2008 and 2015. He further argued that the word "Special Categories' used in Rule 28 of the Rules, 2015 can include "Other Backward Class Categories' applying the doctrine "Ejusdem Generis'.

(m) It has been argued by the learned Senior Counsel for the private respondents that the police force is a uniform disciplined service governed by rank and the benefits conferring higher status and rank to juniors will disturb the entire edifice which is foundation to strict discipline based on seniority, rank and status and of utmost importance in a disciplined uniform police force. He further argued that ex cadre out of turn promotions were granted in pursuance of Government Order dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999. According to Service Rules, an ex cadre out of turn promotee cannot be substantive appointee/promotee until they are granted regular promotion. After coming into force of service rules, ex cadre out of turn promotee Inspector (Civil Police) cannot be extended seniority benefits in contravention to the provisions of service rules. He further argued that on 22.11.2019, combined seniority list of Inspector (Civil Police), Reserve Inspector and Company Commander has been issued giving the benefit of Government Order dated 23.07.2015 by the Deputy Inspector General of Police Personnel/ Establishment i.e. respondent no.11, rejecting the objection dated 28.07.2019 submitted by the respondent no.6 vide order dated 20.11.2019, during the pendency of the special appeal in utter violation to the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 as well as order dated 28.03.2019 passed in Special Appeal.

(n) Submission of the learned Senior Counsel Sri Chaturvedi is that the condition of recruitment cannot be relaxed. The condition of recruitment are mandatory for appointment by promotion and any appointment in contravention thereof would negate the scheme of the Rules. The power to relax the Rules does not include the power to relax recruitment rules. In support of his submission, he relied upon Syed Khalid Rizbi and others vs. Union of India and others : 1993 Supp. (3) SCC 575, The Food Commissioner, U.P. and others Vs. Om Pal Singh and others (Special Appeal No. 1960 of 2011, decided on 05.10.2018, M. Venketeswarlu and others Vs. Government of A.P. and others : 1996 (5) SCC 167, U.P. Jal Nigam and others vs. Narinder Kumar Agarwal : 1996 (8) SCC 43, Suraj Prakash Gupta and others Vs. State of J & K and others : 2000 (7) SCC 516, Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Cooperation Vs. Subhash Sindhi Cooperative Society Jaipur and others : 2013 (5) SCC 427, Chairman, Public Service Commission, J & K and Anr. Vs. Sudarshan Singh Jamwal and others : 1998 (9) SCC 327, U.P. Unaided Medical Colleges Welfare Association Vs. Union of India and others : 2016 (3) UPLBEC 2363, Bhupendra Nath Hazarika and others Vs. State of Assam and others : 2013 (2) SCC 516.

(o) Sri Chaturvedi has further stated that "proviso' cannot be read independently, the proviso will have to be read with the main provision and further proviso cannot travel beyond the scope of main provision and same cannot be inconsistent to the main provision. In support of his submission, he relied upon J.K. Industries Ltd. and others Vs. Chief Inspector of Factories and Boilers and others : 1996 (6) SCC 665.

(p) The next submission of Sri Chaturvedi is that the executive instruction or orders cannot override the statutory rules. In support of his submission, he relied upon Vijay Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others : 2005 (2) AWC 1191 (FB), K. Kuppusamy and another Vs. State of Tamil Nadu and others : 1998 (8) SCC 469, Dr. Rajinder Singh Vs. State of Punjab : 2001 (5) SCC 482, Bindeshwari Ram Vs. State of Bihar and others : 1989 (4) SCC 465, Anurag Yadav and others Vs. State of U.P. and others : 2010 (3) UPLBEC 2261, K. P. Sudhakaran and another Vs. State of Kerala and others : 2006 (5) SCC 386, Mahadev Bhau Khilare (Mane) and others Vs. State of Maharashtra and others : (2007) 5 SCC 524.

(q) The other submission of Sri Chaturvedi is that in the guise of removing a difficulty, Government cannot change the scheme and essential provision of the Act. In support of his submission, he relied upon Madeva Upendra Sinai and others vs. Union of India and others : 1975 (6) SCC 765, Delhi Development Authority and another Vs. Joint Action Committee Allottee of SF's Flats and others : 2008 (2) SCC 672.

(r) The next submission of Sri Chaturvedi is that if there is conflict between specific provision and general provision, then, specific provision will prevail over general provision. In support of his submission, he relied upon J.K. Cotton Spinning and Weaving Mills Company Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. : AIR 1961 (SC) 1170, Dharni Sugars and Chemicals Ltd. Vs. Union of India and others : 2019 (5) SCC 480.

(s) Sri Chaturvedi has further stated that if a person has continued to work, that by itself will not confer any right upon him since principle of holding over or concept of adverse possession is not applicable in service jurisprudence. In support of his submission, he relied upon M. S. Patil (Dr.) Vs. Gulbarga University : 2010 (10) SCC 63, State of Orissa and another Vs. Mamta Mohanty : 2011 (3) SCC 436, A. Umarani Vs. Registrar Cooperative Societies and others : 2004 (7) SCC 112.

(t) Sri Chaturvedi has stated that out of turn promotees Inspector cannot claimed equivalence with regularly promoted Inspectors keeping in view the Government Order dated 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983, 24.07.2003 and Rule 5 (2) (b) read with Rule 17 of the Rules, 2018 viz a viz Government Order dated 03.02.1994, I.G. (k) letter dated 10.02.1994, Government Order dated 02.01.1998, 01.05.1999 and 07.04.2014. In the intra court appeal, Courts Act as a Court of correction to correct its own judgment/order in exercise of the same jurisdiction as was vested in the Single Bench and not as a Court of error. In support of his submission, he relied upon Baddula Lakshmaiah and others Vs. Sri Anjaneya Swami Temple & others : 1996 (3) SCC 52 and Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad and others Vs. B. Karunakar and others : 1993 (4) SCC 727. He argued that the purpose of legislation /Government actions should be the happiness of greatest number. Its object should be with two motives procuring pleasure and avoiding pain. In the instant case, action of Government extents pleasure for few and inflicting pain to a large number and as such, action of Government, while issuing Government Order dated 23.07.2015 is not sustainable. Thus, the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 do not suffer from any illegality, irregularity and impropriety and the same is just and proper.

DISCUSSION

(19) Before entering into the merits of the case, it would be apt to first deal with the following preliminary submissions of the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants :-

"(a) 990 employees/persons, who were covered by the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 and who might be prejudicially and adversely affected by the outcome of the writ petitions, were not impleaded as party respondents in the writ petitions and only few of them were impleaded in the writ petitions as private respondents, hence the writ petitions ought to have been dismissed by the learned Single Judge for non-joinder of necessary parties but the learned Single Judge did not consider this aspect of the matter even though specific plea in this regard has been taken by the private respondents/appellants herein in the writ petitions but that too was not considered.

(b) The writ petitions were not maintainable and ought to be dismissed as no permission under Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 was applied for, nor granted, prior to passing the judgment under appeal, hence necessary parties were not put to notice and as such, on this ground alone the judgment and order under appeal deserves to be set-aside.

(c) The impugned order under appeal is an ex parte order as it has been passed by the learned Single Judge without hearing the learned counsel for the appellants/private respondents in writ petitions.

(20) It transpires from the record of the writ petitions that by a common judgment and order dated 20.02.2019, the learned Single Judge decided three writ petitions i.e. writ petition No. 13625 (S/S) of 2016, 5677 (S/S) of 2016 and 10759 (S/S) of 2016. It comes out that in writ petition no. 13625 (S/S) of 2016, three out-of-turn promotees on ex cadre posts were impleaded as private respondents; in writ petition no. 5677 (S/S) of 2016, six out-of-turn promotees on ex cadre posts were impleaded as private respondents; and in writ petition no. 10759 (S/S) of 2016, four out-of-turn promotees on ex cadre posts were impleaded as private respondents.

(21) It is not in dispute that by the final outcome of the writ petitions viz. by the impugned order under appeal, almost 990 non-gazetted police personnel might be affected. Further, learned Counsel for the appellants/private respondents were not present at the time of final hearing of the bunch of writ petitions and the impugned order under appeal has been passed by the learned Single Judge without hearing the learned Counsel for the appellants/private respondents. It also transpires from the impugned order under appeal that the aforesaid preliminary submissions of the appellants/private respondents have not been discussed or decided by the learned Single Judge.

(22) Now, the question whether the aforesaid preliminary submissions ought to be addressed by the learned Single Judge and whether the appellants/private respondents have ever raised the aforesaid preliminary submissions before the learned Single Judge or any assertion in this regard on behalf of the private respondents/appellants have been made in the counter version in the writ petitions or not.

(23) The specific stand of the appellants/private respondents is that respondent no.6/Uday Pratap Singh has filed a supplementary counter affidavit along with application for taking memo of appearance and supplementary counter affidavit on records (C.M. Application No. 59422 of 2017) in Writ Petition No. 13625 of 2016 (S/S) and in paragraphs 3 to 6 in the supplementary counter affidavit, it has been stated as under :-

"3. That the order impugned affects 990 non-gazetted police officers consisting of Head Constables, Sub-Inpsectors, Inspectors/ Company Commanders.

4. That the quashing of the Government Order dated 23rd July, 2015 has been prayed, however, neither any Head Constable nor any Sub Inspector, nor any Company Commander has been impleaded as party-respondent in the above noted writ petition.

5. That further, all the Inspectors covered under the Government Order dated 23rd July, 2015 have also not been made party-respondent in the Writ petition. Moreover, none of the Inspectors have been impleaded in representative capacity by seeking leave of the Court. It is specifically stated here that the neither any application for impleading any set of Inspectors under the representative capacity has been preferred nor any step whatsoever akin to the provisions contemplated under Order I Rule 8, 9, 9A C.P.C. have been taken.

6. In the circumstances the above writ petition deserves to be dismissed on the ground of non-impleadment of necessary and proper parties."

(24) Submission of the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants/private respondents is that even if the learned Counsel for the private respondents were not present at the time of hearing of the writ petitions, the learned Single Judge ought to have taken into consideration the material brought by means of aforesaid supplementary counter affidavit by the private respondents but the learned Single Judge has not appreciated the aforesaid contents made in the supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of the private respondents in writ petition No. 13625 of 2016 (S/S) while passing the impugned order appeal even though in the absence of their counsel. According to them, there was no rebuttal on behalf of the writ petitioners to the aforesaid contents of the supplementary counter affidavit in the aforesaid writ petition.

(25) Per contra, it has been contended by the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the writ petitioners/private respondents herein that since the number of ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspectors, who have been included in the seniority list dated 24.02.2016 was very large, therefore, thirteen ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspectors were made parties in the array of respondents in the writ petitions in the representative capacity to represent ex cadre out of turn promotees Inspectors, at the time of filing of the writ petition. Thereafter, few ex cadre out of turn promotees were impleaded in compliance of the orders passed by the learned Single Judge and few applications were allowed as intervener during the writ proceedings. However, only five ex cadre out of turn promotee, who were respondents in the writ petitions, have filed four special appeals and none else. In these backgrounds, his submission is that plea of the appellants for non-compliance of the principles of Order I Rule 8 of the Civil Procedure Code is not sustainable as the said ground only open to those who were not impleaded even in representative capacity.

(26) It is noted here that both the learned Senior Counsels i.e. appellants side and respondents side, have placed reliance upon Prabodh Verma and others Vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) in support of their contentions. Therefore, decision of the Apex Court in Prabodh Verma and Others v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others (supra) requires to be addressed. The facts in the said case deserved to be stated. In the said case the principal question that arose for determination before the Apex Court was the constitutional validity of two Uttar Pradesh Ordinances, namely, (1) The Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Reserve Pool Teachers) Ordinance, 1978 (U.P. Ordinance 10 of 1978), and (2) The Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges Reserve Pool Teachers) (Second) Ordinance, 1978 (U.P. Ordinance 22 of 1978). This Hon'ble High Court for certain reasons had struck down the ordinance. Be it noted, the writ petition was filed by the Uttar Pradesh Madhyamik Shikshak Sangh. Apart from the question of validity, the subsidiary question that arose before the Apex Court is whether the termination of the services of the appellants and the petitioner before the Apex Court as secondary school teachers and intermediate college lecturers following upon the High Court judgment is valid and, if not, the relief to which they are entitled. After narrating the facts, the Apex Court observed that the writ petition filed by the Sangh suffered from two serious, though not incurable, defects. We think it appropriate to reproduce the statement of facts as reproduced in the judgment.

"28. The real question before us, therefore, is the correctness of the decision of the High Court in the Sangh's case. Before we address ourselves to this question, we would like to point out that the writ petition filed by the Sangh suffered from two serious, though not incurable, defects. The first defect was that of non-joinder of necessary parties. The only respondents to the Sangh's petition were the State of Uttar Pradesh and its concerned officers. Those who were vitally concerned, namely, the reserve pool teachers, were not made parties - not even by joining some of them in a representative capacity, considering that their number was too large for all of them to be joined individually as respondents. The matter, therefore, came to be decided in their absence. A High Court ought not to decide a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution without the persons who would be vitally affected by its judgment being before it as respondents or at least by some of them being before it as respondents in a representative capacity if their number is too large, and, therefore, the Allahabad High Court ought not to have proceeded to hear and dispose of the Sangh's writ petition without insisting upon the reserve pool teachers being made respondents to that writ petition, or at least some of them being made respondents in a representative capacity, and had the petitioners refused to do so, ought to have dismissed that petition for non- joinder of necessary parties."

(27) Thereafter, the Apex Court proceeded to summarise its conclusion and the relevant conclusion for the present purpose are reproduced below:-

"50 (1) A High Court ought not to hear and dispose of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution without the persons who would be vitally affected by its judgment being before it as respondents or at least some of them being before it as respondents in a representative capacity if their number is too large to join them as respondents individually, and, if the petitioners refuse to so join, then the High Court ought to dismiss the petition for non-joinder of necessary parties.

(2) The Allahabad High Court ought not to have proceeded to hear and dispose of Civil Miscellaneous Writ No. 9174 of 1978 - Uttar Pradesh Madhyamik Shikshak Sangh v. State of Uttar Pradesh - without insisting upon the reserve pool teachers being made respondents to that writ petition or at least some of them being made respondents thereto in a representative capacity as the number of the reserve pool teachers was too large and, had the petitioners refused to do so, to dismiss that writ petition for non- joinder of necessary parties."

(28) On perusal of the aforesaid dictum of the Apex Court, it is crystal clear that the Apex Court had opined that when the constitutional validity of a provision is challenged and there are beneficiaries of the said provision, some of them in a representative capacity have to be made parties failing which the writ court would not be justified in hearing a writ petition in the absence of the selected candidates when they are already appointed on the basis of the provision which was under assail before the Writ Court.

(29) On a perusal of the order impugned, we find that only 13 persons were made respondents in the writ petitions. It is well settled in law that no adverse order can be passed against persons who were not made parties to the litigation.

(30) In the case at hand neither any rule nor regulation was challenged. Thirteen persons, who were impleaded, were not treated to be in the representative capacity. In this regard, it is profitable to refer to some authorities.

(31) In Indu Shekhar Singh and others v. State of U.P. and others : 2006 (8) SCC 129, the Apex Court has held thus: -

"There is another aspect of the matter. The appellants herein were not joined as parties in the writ petition filed by the respondents. In their absence, the High Court could not have determined the question of inter se seniority."

(32) In Km. Rashmi Mishra v. M.P. Public Service Commission and others : (2006) 12 SCC 724, after referring to Prabodh Verma (supra) and Indu Shekhar Singh (supra), the Apex Court took note of the fact that when no steps had been taken in terms of Order 1 Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure or the principles analogous thereto, all the seventeen selected candidates were necessary parties in the writ petition. It was further observed that the number of selected candidates was not many and there was no difficulty for the appellant to implead them as parties in the proceeding. Ultimately, the Apex Court held that when all the selected candidates were not impleaded as parties to the writ petition, no relief could be granted to the appellant therein.

(33) In Tridip Kumar Dingal and others v. State of West Bengal and others : (2008) 1 SCC 768, the Apex Court approved the view expressed by the tribunal which had opined that for absence of selected and appointed candidates and without affording an opportunity of hearing to them, the selection could not be set aside. In paragraph-41, the Apex Court has held as under :-

"Regarding protection granted to 66 candidates, from the record it is clear that their names were sponsored by the Employment Exchange, they were selected and appointed in 1998-99. The candidates who were unable to get themselves selected who raised a grievance and made a complaint before the Tribunal by filing applications ought to have joined them (selected candidates) as respondents in the Original Application, which was not done. In any case, some of them ought to have been arrayed as respondents in a `representative capacity'. That was also not done. The Tribunal was, therefore, wholly right in holding that in absence of selected and appointed candidates and without affording opportunity of hearing to them, their selection could not be set aside."

(34) In Public Service Commission, Uttaranchal v. Mamta Bisht and others : AIR 2010 SC 2613, the Apex Court, while dealing with the concept of necessary parties and the effect of non-implementation of such a party in the matter when the selection process is assailed, observed thus: -

"In case the respondent No.1 wanted her selection against the reserved category vacancy, the last selected candidate in that category was a necessary party and without impleading her, the writ petition could not have been entertained by the High Court in view of the law laid down by nearly a Constitution Bench of this Court in Udit Narain Singh Malpaharia Vs. Additional Member, Board of Revenue, Bihar & Anr., AIR 1963 SC 786, wherein the Court has explained the distinction between necessary party, proper party and proforma party and further held that if a person who is likely to suffer from the order of the Court and has not been impleaded as a party has a right to ignore the said order as it has been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice. More so, proviso to Order I, Rule IX of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter called CPC) provide that non- joinder of necessary party be fatal. Undoubtedly, provisions of CPC are not applicable in writ jurisdiction by virtue of the provision of Section 141 CPC but the principles enshrined therein are applicable. (Vide Gulabchand Chhotalal Parikh Vs. State of Gujarat; AIR 1965 SC 1153; Babubhai Muljibhai Patel Vs. Nandlal, Khodidas Barat & Ors., AIR 1974 SC 2105; and Sarguja Transport Service Vs. State Transport Appellate Tribunal, Gwalior & Ors. AIR 1987 SC 88)"

(35) In Vijay Kumar Kaul and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors. : 2008 (6) SCC 797, the Apex Court has ruled thus:

"Another aspect needs to be highlighted. Neither before the Tribunal nor before the High Court, Parveen Kumar and others were arrayed as parties. There is no dispute over the factum that they are senior to the Appellants and have been conferred the benefit of promotion to the higher posts. In their absence, if any direction is issued for fixation of seniority, that is likely to jeopardise their interest. When they have not been impleaded as parties such a relief is difficult to grant."

(36) In State of Rajasthan v. Ucchab Lal Chhanwal : (2014) 1 SCC 144, the Apex Court opined that: -

"Despite the indefatigable effort, we are not persuaded to accept the aforesaid preponement, for once the Respondents are promoted, the juniors who have been promoted earlier would become juniors in the promotional cadre, and they being not arrayed as parties in the lis, an adverse order cannot be passed against them as that would go against the basic tenet of the principles of natural justice."

(37) In view of the aforesaid enunciation of law, it is crystal clear that in such a case when all the appointees were not impleaded, the writ petition was defective and hence, no relief could have been granted to the writ petitioners.

(38) In the instant case, undisputed facts are that prior to passing of the impugned judgment under appeal, no advertisement or publication was issued regarding the institution of the aforesaid writ petitions. Thus, it is clear that the judgment under appeal has been passed without granting opportunity to the necessary parties to a lis to come and defend themselves.

(39) At this stage, it would be relevant to reproduce Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which is as under :-

"Rule 8 - One Person May Sue Or Defend On Behalf Of All In Same Interest.- (1) Where there are numerous persons having the same interest in one suit,-

(a) one or more of such persons may, with the permission of the Court, sue or be sued, or may defend such suit, on behalf of, or for the benefit of, all persons so interested;

(b) the Court may direct that one or more of such persons may sue or be sued, or may defend such suit, on behalf of, or for the benefit of, all persons so interested.

(2) The Court shall, in every case where a permission or direction is given under sub-rule (1), at the plaintiff's expense, give notice of the institution of the suit to all persons so interested either by personal service, or, where, by reason of the number of persons or any other cause, such service is not reasonably practicable, by public advertisement, as the Court in each case may direct.

(3) Any person on whose behalf, or for whose benefit, a suit is instituted or defended, under sub-rule (1), may apply to the Court to be made a party to such suit.

(4) No part of the claim in any such suit shall be abandoned under sub-rule (1), and no such suit shall be withdrawn under sub-rule (3), of rule 1 of Order XXIII, and no agreement, compromise or satisfaction shall be recorded in any such suit under rule 3 of that Order, unless the Court has given, at the plaintiff's expense, notice to all persons so interested in the manner specified in sub-rule (2).

(5) Where any person suing or defending in any such suit does not proceed with due diligence in the suit or defence, the Court may substitute in his place any other person having the same interest in the suit.

(6) A decree passed in a suit under this rule shall be binding on all persons on whose behalf, or for whose benefit, the suit is instituted, or defended, as the case may be.

Explanation.-For the purpose of determining whether the persons who sue or are sued, or defend, have the same interest in one suit, it is not necessary to establish that such persons have the same cause of action as the person on whom behalf, or for whose benefit, they sue or are sued, or defend the suit, as the case may be.]"

(40) Considering the aforesaid facts, it is noted here that the provisions of Order I Rule 8 of the Code of Civil Procedure have not been complied with by the writ petitioners. Thus, we are of the considered view that impugned order under appeal is liable to be dismissed on the ground of non-joinder of the parties in the writ petitions.

(41) However, since the dispute relating to seniority and promotion is pending for quite long time before this Court, therefore, with the consent of the learned Counsel for the parties, now we proceed to hear the matter on merits also.

(42) Before adverting to the rival submissions, it would be apt to have a glance to the relevant statutes/statutory provisions, dealing with the recruitment and appointment as also the conditions of service of Police Officers of subordinate rank in U.P. Police Force.

(43) The Full Bench of this Court in State of U.P. and others Vs. Rajendra Singh and others : 2015 (4) ADJ 575 (LB) (FB) has held in para-25, 33 and 42 as under :-

"25. Now, it is in this background that we must have due regard to the applicability of the rules framed under Article 309 of the Constitution to the police force. Before we do so, it is necessary to recapitulate that Section 2 of the Police Act mandates that the entire police establishment under a State Government is deemed to be one police force for the purposes of the Act. The force is to be formally enrolled and is to consist of such number of officers and men, and shall be constituted in such manner, as shall from time to time be ordered by the State Government. Moreover, the pay and all other conditions of service of the members of subordinate ranks of the police force shall be such as may be determined by the State Government subject to the provisions of the Act. Three aspects of the provision stand out. The first is that for the purposes of the Act, the entire police establishment under a State Government is deemed to be one police force. The second is that the State Government is empowered, from time to time, to order the formal enrolment of the force, the strength of the force consisting of officers and men and the manner in which the force shall be constituted. The third aspect is that the pay and all other conditions of service of members of the subordinate ranks of the police force are to be such as is determined by the State Government subject, however, to the provisions of the Act. Under Section 7, the power to dismiss, suspend or reduce any police officer of the subordinate ranks is subject to Article 311 of the Constitution and to such rules as the State Government may, from time to time, make under the provisions of the Act. A specific rule-making power is conferred upon the State Government by Section 46 (2) (c) generally for giving effect to the provisions of the Act. The decision of the Constitution Bench in Babu Ram Upadhya (supra) holds that the Police Act and the rules framed under it constitute a self-contained Code."

"33. The judgment in A B Krishna (supra) was followed by another Bench of two learned Judges of the Supreme Court in Chandra Prakash Tiwari (supra). This judgment specifically dealt with the rules framed by the Governor of Uttar Pradesh under Article 309 of the Constitution and their applicability in view of an order which was made in pursuance of the Police Act. On 5 November 1965, the Governor issued a direction to the effect that promotions from the post of Sub Inspectors to Inspectors would be made on the basis of merit. Under the Uttar Pradesh Government Service (Criterion for Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 1994 framed by the Governor under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, the criterion for promotion was seniority subject to rejection of the unfit. The Supreme Court, after adverting to the earlier decision in A B Krishna, held that the Police Act was a complete Code in itself which had made special statutory provisions for appointment, dismissal, placement and all other steps required to reorganise the police and to make it a more efficient instrument for the prevention and detection of crime. The Supreme Court held that unless the specific provisions contained in the Government Order dated 5 November 1961 which have been framed under the provisions of the Police Act was repealed, the general rules framed under Article 309 of the Constitution would not prevail. In that context, the Supreme Court observed as follows:

"On a conspectus of the whole issue, it is thus difficult to comprehend that the General Rule framed under Article 309 should or would also govern the existing special rules concerning the police rules. Admittedly, the guidelines as contained in the Government Order dated 5.11.1965 have been under and in terms of the provisions of the Police Act. There is special conferment of power for framing of Rules dealt with more fully herein before, which would prevail over any other Rule. Since no other rule stands formulated and the Government Order of 1965 being taken as the existing rule pertaining to the subject matter presently under consideration with recent guide-lines as noted above, its applicability cannot be doubted. Unless the General Rule specifically repeal the effectiveness of the special rules, question of the latter rule becoming ineffective or inoperative would not arise. In order to be effective, an express mention is required rather an imaginary repeal. It is now a well settled principle of law for which no relation is further required that law Courts rather loath repeal by implication. The General Rule framed under Article 309 has been for all State Government officials on and since 1994. List II (State List) of the 7th Schedule specially refers to the powers of the State Legislature to frame Rules specially for the Police. In this context Item 2 thereof would be significant which reads as follows:

"List II-State List"

"2 Police (including railway and village police) subject to the provisions of entry 2A of List I."

Police force admittedly has a special significance in the administration of the State and the intent of the framers of our Constitution to empower the State Government to make rules there-for has its due significance rather than being governed under a general omnibus rule framed under the provisions under Article 309. When there is a specific provision unless there is a specific repeal of the existing law, question of an implied repeal would not arise..."

"42. Insofar as the present controversy is concerned, it would now be necessary for the Court to formulate the basic principles which have emerged on the subject:

(i) The Police Act 1861 and the Rules framed under it constitute a self-contained Code and by virtue of the provisions of Article 313 of the Constitution, the Act and the Rules continue to remain in force, under Article 313 of the Constitution;

(ii) Rules and Government Orders referable to a specific source of power under the Police Act 1861 such as Section 2 or, as the case may be, Section 46 (2) (c) would continue to hold the field and would not be abrogated merely by the exercise of the general rule-making power conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution;

(iii) Under the proviso to Article 309, rules regulating the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union and of the States can be made until a provision in that behalf is made by or under legislative enactment of the appropriate legislature. Any rule so made will have effect subject to the provisions of the Act;

(iv) When there is a specific provision, unless there is a specific repeal of the existing law, the question of an implied repeal would not arise;

(v) The rules framed under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution would apply, generally speaking to Government servants appointed in connection with the affairs of the Union or, as the case may be, the States but the police force would be governed by the provisions of the Police Act 1861 and by the rules and administrative determinations referable to a specific source of power under the Police Act 1861;

(vi) Under Section 2 of the Police Act 1861, the State Government has been vested with power to determine the pay and all other conditions of service of members of the subordinate ranks of the police force. The determination within the meaning of Section 2 may be both by means of the exercise of the rule-making power as well as by an administrative direction. The Police Act 1861, being a complete Code as enunciated by the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court, it occupies the entire field of the determination of service conditions. The power to determine all the conditions of service of members of the subordinate ranks of the police force is vested with the state government. The state government has the rule making power under Section 46 (2) (c) to carry out the purposes of the Act by framing rules;

(vii) Once a self-contained Code in the form of the Police Act has been enacted by the legislature and its continuance after the adoption of the Constitution is ensured by Article 313 and Article 372 of the Constitution, the field relating to recruitment and conditions of service of members of the police force in the State stands occupied by the legislation. Any rule or order relating to the determination of the conditions of service of the police force can be made only under the provisions of the Police Act or by the legislation enacted by the State legislature governing the service conditions of the police force. Section 2, Section 7 and Section 46 of the Police Act clearly evince an intent of the legislature to occupy the whole of the field relating to conditions of service of the police force;

(viii) The ratio of the decision of the Supreme Court in A B Krishna's case is that if the legislature has already made a law and the field is occupied, in such a situation, rules can be made under the law enacted by the legislature and not under Article 309;

(ix) The rules framed under a legislative enactment constitute delegated or subordinate legislation. The rules made under Article 309 are not of that nature. The rules which have been framed under Article 309 and the rules under an enactment of the state legislature are referable to two distinct sources of power. The rules made under the proviso to Article 309 are intended to deal with a situation where the President or the Governor, as the case may be, may regulate the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or, as the case may be, of the States until a provision in that behalf is made under an Act of the appropriate legislature under the Article. Though, the authority to frame rules in Article 309 vests with the Governor while the authority to frame subordinate legislation under the state enactment is vested with the State Government, the two jurisdictions are entirely different. One is referable to a transitional power which is vested in the President or the Governor, as the case may be, under the proviso to Article 309 while the other is traceable to the substantive power to frame subordinate legislation which is delegated to the State Government under a legislative enactment. Once a law has been enacted by the competent legislature and particularly in a situation where legislation, such as the Police Act is construed as a complete Code, it constitutes special statute governing the police force incorporating within its field, matters relating to appointment, dismissal, placement and all other steps required to reorganise the police and make it a more effective instrument for the prevention and detection of crime, as was held in Chandra Prakash Tiwari's case by the Supreme Court;

(x) In Chandra Prakash Tiwari, the Supreme Court after considering the consistent position of the State Department of Home, held that 'by reasons of the provisions of a special statute, namely, the Police Act read with the authorization contained therein by way of executive order, the Governor of Uttar Pradesh obviously did not in fact intend to apply the general law to all and sundry'16. In this background, it has been held that unless the general rules which are framed under Article 309 of the Constitution specifically repeal the special rules and unless there is a specific repeal of the existing law, the question of an implied repeal would not arise. The rules framed under Article 309 are for Government servants in general while the police force would be guided by the provisions of the Police Act. This interpretation which has been placed by the Supreme Court has been held to be consistent with the position adopted in inter-ministerial correspondence of the State Government; and

(xi) The decision in Chandra Prakash Tiwari's case specifically deals with the Police Act and the applicability of the Rules framed under the proviso to Article 309 to members of the police force in the State of Uttar Pradesh. This decision of the Supreme Court has been duly followed by the Full Bench of this Court in Vijai Singh (supra) while holding that since the field of regulation of service conditions of members of the police force is occupied by the provisions of the Police Act and it continues to be in operation under Article 313, the Rules framed under Article 309 would not be attracted."

(44) From the aforesaid, it is crystal clear that the Police Act, 1861 is a special statute and a complete code.

(45) At the cost of repetition, it is relevant to mention here that selection of Inspectors in Uttar Pradesh stands effected on the basis of merit arranged in order of seniority and the Government Order dated 5.11.1965 being the background thereto. Thereafter, for the purpose of promotion from the post of Sub-Inspector (Civil Police) to Inspector, a Committee was constituted vide order dated 29.10.1983. Under Section 46 of Police Act, 1861, power to frame Rules has been conferred upon State Government.

(46) It is not disputed by the parties that till 2008 there were no Rules framed under Section 2 read with Section 46 of Act, 1861 so as to govern the matter of recruitment and appointment of Police Officers of subordinate rank, i.e. Constables, Head Constables and Sub-Inspectors. The entire matter earlier used to be governed by various orders issued by State Government from time to time which were considered to be "Statutory Orders" issued/ referable under/to Section 2 of Act, 1861.

(47) It is in this context, an Office Memorandum dated 3.2.1994 was issued by Principal Secretary (Home). This Office Memorandum was in reference to the appointment of a Police Inspector/ Company Commander on a non cadre post of Deputy Superintendent of Police where such Police Inspector/Company Commander P.A.C. has shown an act of exemplary courage and gallantry. Conditions on which such appointment against a non cadre post of Deputy Superintendent of Police, was permissible, provided in the Office Memorandum dated 03.02.1994.

(48) On the same date, i.e., 3.2.1994 another Government Order No. 605 (11) छ–पु–1–24/93 was issued by Principal Secretary (Home) providing for a similar ex cadre "Out of Turn" promotion to Constables and Sub-Inspectors/Platoon Commander on the post of Head Constable and Inspector/ Company Commander respectively. The conditions of such appointment are similar to the earlier Government Order except for the difference of designations of post and rank.

(49) The aforesaid Government Orders being orders relating to recruitment and conditions of service of Police Officers of subordinate rank, hence statutory by virtue of Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861.

(50) Thereafter, the Inspector General of Police has issued a Circular on 10.02.1994 laying down the procedure with regard to cash reward and out of turn promotion . This Circular dated 10.02.1994 was not under Section 12 of the Police Act, 1861 as it was not approved by the State Government.

(51) Subsequently, the aforesaid Government Order dated 3.2.1994 was modified in respect of Constable by Government Order dated 02.01.1998. On 01.05.1999, another Government Order was issued, in which it was provided that out of turn promotion would be made against the vacant posts in the cadre, which will be treated as ex cadre promotion and no benefit of the same will be admissible in the fixation of seniority. It was also provided in paragraph-2 of the aforesaid Government Order dated 01.05.1999 that such promotions should not be more than 2% in the year. Another Government Order dated 07.06.2014 was issued by the State Government, whereby the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, which was related to ex cadre out of turn promotees of non-gazetted staff of the police department was cancelled and consequently, a decision was taken by the State Government to reward the non-gazetted staff of the police department who had shown exemplary courage, with the police medal, Chief Minister's appreciation letter and Rs.25,000/- cash reward instead of out of turn promotion in terms of the Government Order dated 07.06.2014. On 14.08.2014, the Director General of Police, U.P. has issued a circular with regard to the Government Order dated 07.06.2014.

(52) Thereafter, another Government Order dated 23.07.2015 was issued, whereby decision was taken by the State Government to give seniority to the ex cadre out of turn promotee non-gazetted police officers/employees.

(53) Thereafter, the Director General of Police (Establishment), Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow has issued the consequential order on 29.07.2015 in regard to Government Order dated 23.07.2015.

(54) It transpires from the aforesaid Government Orders that the State Government, while exercising the powers enshrined to it under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, issued order dated 03.02.1994, which shows that those Constables and Sub-Inspectors/Platoon Commanders, who have shown exemplary courage, be given appointment from the post of Constable to Head Constable and from the post of Sub-Inspector and Platoon Commander to Inspector/Company Commander on ex cadre posts. In the aforesaid Government Order dated 03.02.1994, it was clearly provided that for each year, such ex cadre posts would be created by the State Government on the proposal of Inspector General of Police, Lucknow. This Government Order dated 03.02.1994 has overriding effect over any other existing orders. The Government Order dated 03.02.1994 also contemplates that the promotions would be made on ex cadre posts, which were to be sanctioned by the State Government for the said purpose every year, however, no such posts were ever created and out of turn promotions were made on cadre posts of Inspectors and Head Constables, respectively.

(55) On 01.05.1999, the State Government had issued another statutory order referable to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by which it transpires that out of turn promotions would be against the vacancies existing in the cadre, however, it would be on ex cadre basis and its benefit will not be available for the purposes of determination of seniority.

(56) It is relevant to mention here that Section 46 (2) of the Police Act, 1861 provides that the State Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official gazette, make Rules consistent with the Act. Enrolment/recruitment of police personnel or anything related to police personnel or anything related to that which is not provided under Section 46 (2) of the Police Act, 1861.

Therefore, Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 is the exclusive provision empowering the State to issue Government Orders from time to time for enrollment of police personnel and constitution of police force.

(57) It is not in dispute that at the time of issuance of statutory orders dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999, there were no service rules framed under Section 2 of the Police Act read with Section 46 of the Police Act, 1861 so as to govern the matter of recruitment and appointment of Police Officers of subordinate ranks i.e. Constables, Head Constables and Sub-Inspectors. The entire matter earlier used to be governed by various orders issued by the State Government from time to time which were considered to be "Statutory Orders' issued/referable under/to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861.

(58) Here, it is relevant to mention that both orders under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and rules framed under Section 46-2 (c) of the Police Act, 1861 have statutory origin and none is subordinate to the other.

(59) At this juncture, it would be apt to mention here that the Full Bench of this Court in Vijay Singh Vs. State of U.P. : 2005 (2) AWC 1191 (FB), while considering the dictum of the Apex Court rendered in various cases, has held that the legislature, while enacting the provisions of Section 2 of the Act, 1861 itself delegated the power to the statutory authorities to fix the eligibility including the age etc. and statutory authorities had performed their duties in exercise of the delegated powers from time to time without any deviation therefrom. Paras-61, 62, 63, 64 are reproduced as under :-

"61. It may be pertinent thereto that observation made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ajay Kumar Bhuyan (supra) that unless the orders issued by the Government are published in the Official Gazette cannot be given effect to, are not applicable here as Section 2 of the Act, 1861 does not provide for it and Rules framed Under Section 46(2) of the Act, 1861 have to be published in the Official Gazette. More so, the Kerala Act provided for publication of orders in the State's Official Gazette.

62. Purpose of publication is to make the people aware of the law. The issue as to whether in every case, the law requires to be published in the Official Gazette, came for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in B.K. Srinivasan v. State of Karnataka : [1987] 1 SCC 658. The Court held as under :

"Where the parent Statute prescribes the mode of publication or promulgation that mode must be followed. Where the parent Statute is silent, but the subordinate legislation itself prescribes the manner of publication, such a made of publication may be sufficient, if reasonable. If the subordinate legislation does not prescribe the mode of publication or if the subordinate legislation prescribes a plainly unreasonable mode of publication, it will take effect only when it is published through the customarily recognised official channel, namely, the Official Gazette or some other reasonable mode of publication.There may be subordinate legislation which is concerned with a few individuals or is confined to small local areas. In such cases publication or promulgation by other means may be sufficient. [Narayana Reddy v. State of A.P. : (1969) 1 Andh WR 77]."

63. So far as the police service is concerned, admittedly, it does not concern the masses. It may be relevant for those only, who have attained eligibility and went to join police service. Government Orders issued Under Section 2 of the Act, 1861 have never been published in the Official Gazette rather have always been published in the Police Gazette. Thus, we do not find any force in the submissions made by Mr. Chaudhary that Government Orders so issued can not be given effect to for want of publication in the Official Gazette.

64. In the view of the above, we reach the inescapable conclusion that statutory rules cannot be set at naught by issuing executive instructions. But the facts of the instant case do no make the said proposition of law applicable at all. As herein the field is already occupied by the provisions of Act, 1861 which is in operation by virtue of the provisions of Article 313 of the Constitution, thus. Rules, 1972 could not be attracted at all. The Government Orders issued for fixing the maximum age for recruitment on subordinate police posts operate in an entirely different field and are not in conflict with the Rules, 1972. The case stands squarely covered by the Apex Court judgment in Chandra Prakash Tiwari (supra) and, thus, it is not possible for us to take any other view. The main submissions made by Mr. Chaudhary that Pre-Constitutional law stands abrogated altogether by commencement of the Rules, 1972, is devoid of any merit. Therefore; our answer to question No. 1 is that the field stood occupied on account of the provisions of Section 2 of the Act, 1961. The Legislature while enacting the provisions of Section 2 of Act, 1961 itself delegated the power to the statutory authorities to fix the eligibility including the age etc, The statutory authorities had performed their duties in exercise of the delegated powers from time to time without any deviation therefrom.

65. In such facts and circumstances, there was no occasion for His Excellency, the Governor to frame the Rules under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, also applicable in the case of recruitment of subordinate police officers."

(60) From the aforesaid Government Orders dated 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.2003, it transpires that these Government Orders were provided selection process for normal promotion of the Sub-Inspectors to the rank of Inspectors. These Government Orders have been issued under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and were having statutory force, hence they are having mandatory and binding effect as these are termed as statutory orders.

(61) The Government Order dated 03.02.1994 shows that this Government Order relates to out of turn promotion of the Sub-Inspector to the post of Inspector and the ground for such out of promotion was the indomitable courage shown by the Sub-Inspectors in discharge of their duties. This Government Order is also referable to Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861. Vide circular dated 10.02.1994 issued by the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh in pursuance of the statutory Government Order dated 03.02.1994, a complete mechanism/procedure was provided for out of turn promotion. The Government Order dated 03.02.1994 does not contemplate merely courage rather indomitable courage for grant of out of turn promotion. For an act of bravery, a police officer can be rewarded according to Chapter XXXI of the Police Regulations, but the Government Order dated 03.02.1994 required something more than good work and bravery.

(62) It is not disputed by the parties that Government Orders 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.2003 are referable to the same source i.e. Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861 and further statutory order dated 03.02.1994 continuously remain in existence from 03.02.1994 till 07.06.2014 and all these Government Orders were co-existing as they were operating in different field providing for different contingencies.

(63) It is also not in dispute that under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, the State Government has been vested with power to determine the pay and all other conditions of service of members of the subordinate ranks of the police force. The determination within the meaning of Section 2 may be both by means of the exercise of the rule-making power as well as by an administrative direction. Thus, the Police Act, 1861 being a complete code and it occupies the entire filed of the determination of service condition. The power to determine all the conditions of service of member of the subordinate ranks of the police force is vested with the State Government and the State Government has the rule making power under Section 46 (2) (c) of the Police Act, 1861 to carry out the purposes of the Act by framing rules.

(64) From perusal of the impugned order dated 20.02.2019, it transpires that the learned Single Judge has not considered the object of the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, its source, its nature etc., hence the nature of the appointment of the appellants by way of out of turn promotion appears to be not tested by the learned Single Judge while passing the impugned order dated 03.02.1994. It appears that the learned Single Judge, while passing the judgment and order dated 20.02.2019, has laid much emphasis upon Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspectors and Inspector (Civil Police) Service Rules, 2008 and not considered the statutory Government Orders, as referred to hereinabove, which have been issued under Section 2 read with Section 46 (2) of the Police Act, 1861.

(65) Rule 28 of the Rules, 2008 empowers the State Government to grant relaxation from the conditions of service, if it is satisfied that operation of any rule, regulating the condition of service of persons appointed to the service cause undue hardship in any particular case, it may notwithstanding anything contained in the Rules applicable to the case, by order dispense with or relax the requirement of that rule to such extent and subject to such condition as it may consider necessary for dealing with the cases in just and equitable manner. Rule 30 of the Rules, 2008 grants overriding effect to the said rules notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other rules, Government Order or administrative instructions made or issued by the State Government and further sub-rule 4 of Rule 30 also provides that notwithstanding such recission, the benefit of seniority and conformation etc. granted before 02.12.2008 under the prevalent rules, government orders or administrative instructions shall not be withdrawn.

(66) At the cost of repetition, it is apt to mention that on 07.04.2014, the State Government issued order under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by which the mechanism of out of turn promotion was done away with and in its place, other arrangements, namely, cash, reward and grant of medals was brought into force, as such, prior to 07.06.2014, the Government Order dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999 was being applied for granting out of turn promotion on cadre posts on personnel, who had shown exemplary courage, while carrying out their duties.

(67) It appears that in order to rectify the anomaly created vide earlier order dated 01.05.1999, by which although promotions would be made on cadre post but the same would be treated ex cadre and the same would not confer any benefit for determination of seniority and also considering the aforesaid order dated 07.06.2014 for rescinding its policy of granting out of turn promotion, the State Government, in exercise of powers available to it under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, issued an order dated 23.07.2015, rectifying the said seniority anomaly, by which the earlier order dated 01.05.1999 was rescinded with immediate effect and it was provided that 990 non-gazetted Police Officers/Employees, who had been granted out of turn promotion w.e.f. 1994 till 2014, their probation shall be counted w.e.f. their date of out of turn promotion. This order dated 23.07.2015 was challenged by the writ petitioners inter alia on the ground that the same has been issued in violation of the provisions of Rules, 2008 and operation of which would cause them undue hardship, since the out of turn promotees would be placed higher in rank in the seniority list.

(68) In Praful Kumar Das Vs. State of Orissa (Supra), the Constitution Bench of this Court has held that the seniority is a civil right available to the Government Servant to be determined by the policy of the employer and further it is always open for the employer/State Government to amend/modify its policy and thus, there is no vested right available to a Government Servant if such policy is changed.

(69) Rule 3 (i) of Rules, 2008 has clearly provided that any person substantively appointed under the orders enforced prior to the commencement of these Rules to a post of Cadre of the Service shall be deemed to be substantively appointed in service. The word "substantive appointment' defined in Rule 3(m) of Rules, 2008, which clearly provided that substantive appointment means an appointment, not being ad hoc appointment, on a post in the cadre of the service, made after selection in accordance with the rules and if there were no rules, in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government. Sub-Rule 2 of Rule 19 of the Rules, 2008 provides that any person appointed to a post in the service prior to commencement of Rules, 2008 and was working on the post shall be deemed to be substantively appointed under the said Rules. "Cadre of service' has been defined in Rule 4 of the Rules, 2008, which lays down that the strength of service and of each category of service therein shall be such as may be determined by the Government from time to time.

(70) The question before the learned Single Judge in the writ petitions was that whether the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 and the seniority list of Inspectors in civil police dated 24.02.2016 are legal and valid or they are arbitrary, illegal and unjust.

(71) It transpires from the record that out of turn promotions have been granted to the private respondents on the ex cadre posts of Inspectors in pursuance to the Government Order dated 03.02.1994 for showing exemplary courage and gallantry by them. It is not in dispute that the Government Order dated 03.02.1994 has been issued by the State Government in exercise of power available to it under Section 2 of the Act, 1861. This Government Order dated 03.02.1994 contemplated that the promotions would be made on ex cadre posts, which were to be sanctioned by the State Government for the said purpose every year, however, no such post were ever created and the out of turn promotions were made on cadre posts of Inspectors and Head Constables, respectively. Subsequently, the State Government on 01.05.1999 issued another statutory order referable to Section 2 of the Act, 1861, which laid down that out of turn promotions would be against the vacancies existing in the cadre, however, promotion would be treated ex cadre and its benefit will not be available for the purpose of determination of seniority.

(72) It is not in dispute that at the time of issuance of the aforesaid statutory orders i.e. 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999, there were no service rules framed by the State Government under sub-section 2 (c) of Section 46 of the Police Act, 1861. Thus, all the out of turn promotions were promoted on cadre posts and the said promotions were made by the State Government in accordance with the Government Orders, which were issued in exercise of the statutory powers available to it under the provisions of Police Act, 1861. In these backdrops of the matter, is appears that promotion of the appellants were made in accordance with the procedure then prevailing in law and were made on cadre posts.

(73) A bare reading of Rule 3 (i), 3 (l) and 3 (m) of Rules, 2008 and on considering the fact that out of turn promotees were appointed on cadre posts as per the then existing procedure issued by the State Government under the provisions of Police Act, 1861, it transpires that such out of turn promotees were member of the Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service having been substantively appointed on a cadre post prior to the issuance of the Rules, 2008 and after the advent of the Rules, 2008, they continued in the said capacity.

(74) On 07.06.2014, the State Government issued an order under Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, by which the mechanism of out of turn promotion was rescinded and in its place, other arrangements, namely, cash reward and grant of medals was brought into force. Hence, prior to 07.06.2014, the Government Orders dated 03.02.1994 and 01.05.1999 were being applied for granting out of turn promotion on cadre posts of personnel who had shown exemplary courage, while carrying out their duties. It appears that once the State Government on 07.06.2014 took a decision of rescinding its policy of granting out of turn promotion and replacing the same with the other arrangement, the State Government in order to rectify the anomaly created vide order dated 01.05.1999, which provided that although promotions would be made on cadre post, the same would be treated ex cadre and the same would not confer any benefit for determination of seniority, issued the order dated 23.07.2015 rectifying the said anomaly by which earlier order dated 01.05.1999 was rescinded with immediate effect and it was provided that 990 Non-Gazetted Police Officers/employees who had been granted out of turn promotion w.e.f. 1994 till 2014, their probation shall be counted with effect from their date of out of turn promotion. This Government Order dated 23.07.2015 were challenged by the writ petitioners/private respondents before the learned Single Judge.

(75) It transpires from the impugned judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 that the learned Single Judge, while considering Rules, 2008, has not taken into consideration the meaning of term "members of service', which has been defined in Rule 3 (i) of the Rules, 2008. Further, the learned Single Judge, though considered Rule 3 (m) of the Rules, 2008 but part which was conjuncted after the word "and' i.e. "and if there were no rules, in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by executive instructions issued by the Government' has not been taken into account and the part which has highlighted in the bold in para-7 of the impugned judgment i.e. "on a post in the cadre of the service' has only been considered. It also transpires that proviso to sub-rule 2 of Rule 19 of the Rules, 2008 has also not been taken into consideration, which specifically provided that any person appointed to a post in the service prior to commencement of the Rules, 2008 and was working on the post shall be deemed to be substantively appointed under the said Rules. The learned Single Judge has also lost sight of the sub-rule (4) of Rule 30, which categorically provided that notwithstanding such recission, the benefit of selection, promotion, training, appointment, determination of seniority and confirmation etc. granted before 02.12.2018 (the date on which Rules, 2008 came into force) under the prevalent rules, Government Orders or Administrative instructions shall not be withdrawn. The learned Single Judge has also not considered the policy decision as contemplated under Government Order dated 07.06.2014.

(76) It reveals from perusal of Rule 3 (i) and 3 (n) of the Rules, 2015 that it provides for the term of members of the service and substantive appointment, whereas Rule 18 (2) of the Rules, 2015 provides that if more than one order of appointment are issued in respect of any one selection under Rule-17, then a combined order shall also be issued, mentioning the names of the persons in order of seniority as determined in the selection or, as the case may be, as it stood in the cadre from which they are promoted. Proviso to sub-rule 2 of Rule 18 provides that any person appointed before the commencement of these rules to a post under the service and working on that post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these rules.

(77) In the instant case, there are two classes i.e. (1) out of turn promotee cadre; (2) direct recruitee cadre. These two classes were subsequently merged into one class of cadre. However, a dispute arose. Direct recruitee/private respondents have claimed that they are senior to the out of turn promotee cadre, whereas out of turn promotee cadre/appellants claims that as they are being working since the date of giving out of turn promotion on the strength of the statutory orders which have been issued in terms of Section 2 of the Police Act, 1861, therefore, the policy decision taken by the State Government vide order dated 23.07.2015 and the consequential orders are perfectly justifiable.

(78) At this juncture, it is relevant to add that the issue of merger of cadres has been examined by the Apex Court repeatedly and it has been laid down as a principle of law that merger of cadre and the matter of creation of post is a prerogative of the State policy. It is always open to the State Government to create post or merge the cadres. No employee has the right to object to the merger/integration of the cadre of different departments on the ground that it will adversely affect the prospects of promotion or cover other service benefits. The Apex Court in Shivprasad Pipal Vs. Union of India and others : (1998) 4 SCC 598, after re-emphasising that merger of cadre was essentially a matter of policy went on to lay down certain guidelines, which had to be observed before any decision to merge the cadres can be said to be a valid merger. Paragraphs 4 and 5 of the aforesaid report is reproduced as under :-

"4.However, when different cadres are merged certain principles have to be borne in mind. These principles were enunciated in the case of State of Maharashtra and Anr. V. Chandrakant Anant Kulkarni & Ors. (1982 1 SCR 665 at page 678) while considering the question of integration of government servants allotted to the services of the new States when the different States of India were reorganised. This Court cited with approval the principles which had been formulated for effecting integration of services of different States. These principles are: In the matter of equation of posts, (1) where there were regularly constituted similar cadres in the different integrating units the cadres will ordinarily be integrated on that basis but (2) where there were no such similar cadres, the following factors will be taken into consideration in determining the equation of posts:-

(a) Nature and duties of a post;

(b) Powers exercised by the officers holding a post the extent of territorial or other charge held or responsibilities discharged;

(c) The minimum qualifications, if any, prescribed for recruitment to the post and;

(d) the salary of the post.

5. This court further observed that it is not open to the court to consider whether the equation of posts made by the central Government is right or wrong. This was a matter exclusively within the province of the Central Government. Perhaps the only question the Court can enquire into is whether the four principles cited above had been properly taken into account. This is the narrow and limited field within which the supervisory jurisdiction of the Court can operate."

(79) Keeping in mind the aforesaid dictum of the Apex Court, we find herein that before and after the merger of two cadres into one cadre, nature and duties of the post in question are more or less identical. Furthermore, the qualifications prescribed for appointment on the post in question on the date the private respondents and appellants were appointed, were the same. The appellant's date of substantive appointment on the post in question is admittedly prior in the point of time to that of the private respondents.

(80) Now, the issue is as to what place is to be assigned to the officers, who are earlier ex cadre and have been subsequently merged with another cadre in the facts of the case in the cadre posts covered by Rules, 2008 and Rules 2015.

(81) In the case of S. Sivaguru Vs. State of Tamil Nadu : (2013) 7 SCC 335the Apex Court in paragraphs 60, 72, 72.7 & 72.9 has held as follows :

"60. Upon merger of the two posts, it was no longer permissible to treat the re-designated Health Inspector Grade IA differently from Health Inspector Grade IB. Since 1997, all incumbents on the posts of Health Inspector Grade IA and Health Inspector Grade IB were performing the same duties. There was intermixing of the duties performed by the two categories of the Health Inspector Grade IA and IB. Both the posts had lost their original identity since 27th June, 1997, and formed one homogenous cadre. Further, having relaxed the qualifications on the basis of their length of service and experience, they were at par with the Health Inspector Grade IA. Thereafter, the State was not justified in denying to the erstwhile Health Inspector Grade IB, the same treatment as was given to Health Inspector Grade IA. Therefore, the Respondents could not have been denied the benefit of service on the post of Health Inspector Grade I from the date of the initial integration. It would be appropriate to notice the ratio of law laid down in the case of Sub-Inspector Rooplal (supra), wherein it was inter-alia held that the previous service of the transferred officials who are absorbed in an equivalent cadre in the transferred post is permitted to be counted for the purpose of determination of seniority. It would be appropriate to notice here that Leprosy Inspectors re-designated as Health Inspector Grade IB have not been granted the benefit of seniority in their cadre from the date of their initial appointment. They have been deprived of their service on the post of Leprosy Inspector upto 27th June, 1997 when they were integrated and re-designated as Health Inspector Grade IB. However, upon merger w.e.f. 27th June, 1997, there was no distinction in the services rendered by Health Inspector Grade IA and Health Inspector Grade IB. Therefore, in our opinion, the provision in G.O. (MS) No. 382 of 2007 not to grant the Health Inspectors Grade IB/erstwhile Leprosy Inspectors the benefit of the service from 1997 for determination of their seniority for promotion to the post of Block Health Supervisor was completely unjustified.

72. At this stage, we may summarise the conclusions recorded by us in the following manner:

72.7 The denial of seniority to the redesignated Health Inspectors Grade IB i.e. Erstwhile Leprosy Inspectors on the post of Health Inspector Grade I w.e.f. 1-8-1997 to 12-10-2007 violated Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. The Division Bench of the High Court has correctly concluded that the integrated Leprosy Inspectors, redesignated as Health Inspector Grade IB are to be redesignated as Health Inspector Grade I and to be given seniority as well as consequential reliefs such as seniority and further promotions.

72.9 The continuance of the existing promotion channels as Non-Medical Supervisor and Health Educator to the redesignated Health Inspector Grade I (erstwhile Leprosy Inspectors) did not amount to bestowing a double benefit upon this category. Therefore, the High Court did not enforce negative equality. The High Court has correctly observed that upon integration and merger into one cadre, the pre-existing length of service of the Leprosy Inspectors redesignated as Health Inspector Grade IB had to have been correctly placed at the bottom of the seniority list of the already existing Health Inspectors Grade I w.e.f. 27-6-1997. Therefore, it cannot be said that benefit has been given to the Leprosy Inspectors/Health Inspector Grade IB/Health Inspector Grade I with retrospective effect."

(82) Considering the aforesaid dictum of the Apex Court and the facts that the appellants are members of the service and substantively appointed out of turn on the strength of the statutory Government Orders, we are of the view that the policy of the State Government issued vide order dated 23.07.2015 was legally justified and the learned Single Judge erred in quashing the Government Order dated 23.07.2015 and the seniority list

(83) There is one another aspect also, of the issue. As stated hereinabove, the learned Single Judge, while passing the impugned order, has failed to appreciate the object of the Government Order dated 03.02.1994, its source, its nature etc. and also failed to appreciate the nature of the appointment of the appellants. Furthermore, the learned Single Judge has not considered Rule 3 (i) and part of Rule 3 (m) of the Rules, 2008, which was conjuncted after the word "and'. Even the Governments Orders dated 05.11.1965, 29.08.1983 and 24.07.2003, which are the statutory orders as held by the Apex Court in Chandra Prakash Tiwari Vs. Shakuntala Shukla : AIR 2002 SC 2322 and by the Full Bench of this Court in State of U.P. and others Vs. Rajendra Singh and another : 2015 (4) ADJ 575 (LB) (FB), has not been appreciated.

(84) It is settled law that when a judgment is rendered by ignoring the provisions of the governing statute and earlier larger Bench decision on the point such decisions are rendered per incuriam. This concept of per incurium has been explained in many decisions of the Apex Court, viz. Government of A.P. and another Vs. B. Satyanarayan : 2000 (4) SCC 262, Nirmaljeet Kaur Vs. State of M.P. and another : 2004 (7) SCC 558, Tuples Educational Society and another Vs. State of U.P. and another : 2008 (3) AWC 2499 (FB).

(85) For the reasons aforesaid, the special appeals are allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 20.02.2019 is hereby set-aside. Consequently, writ petition Nos. 5677 of 2016 (S/S) : Mahanth Yadav and 6 others Vs. State of U.P., 13625 of 2016 (S/S) : Kamal Singh Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and others and writ petition No. 10759 of 2016 (S/S) : Prabhakar Tripathi and 6 others Vs. State of U.P. and others, are hereby dismissed.

Counsel for the Petitioner:

A. Service Law – Right to seek voluntary retirement - U.P. Fundamental Rule 56(c) and (d) of the Financial Hand Book Vol. II (Parts II to IV) - The exercise of option to retire voluntarily is subject to the Government/employer's scrutiny and its acceptance on the anvil of public interest. It is not an absolute right of the employee that fructifies on the expiry of three months' notice period u/Rule 56(c) of the Rules. Therefore, the Nigam had authority and jurisdiction to decline the petitioner's application/notice to retire voluntarily. (Para 19, 20)

The Explanation in the Rules in question has to be applied to both the situations as contemplated in Rule 56(c) and is applicable to both the exigencies not only when the Government decides to retire an employee, but also applicable where voluntary retirement is sought by an employee. It cannot be said that no further restriction by Explanation has been added in a case where an employee has decided to obtain voluntary retirement. The public interest is the prime consideration on which authority has to decide such a prayer as per the rules applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh. (Para 19)

U/Rule 56 as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, notice of voluntary retirement does not come into effect automatically on the expiry of the three months' period. Under the Rule in question, the appointing authority has to accept the notice for voluntary retirement or it can be refused on permissible grounds. (Para 19)

B. Public interest, is no cloak to shield the Administrator's arbitrary and whimsical decision, based on whims and caprice. It has to be a decision by the primary decision maker, that is to say, the Administrator taken bona fide to qualify for a valid decision. It has to be one that is free from the vice of arbitrariness and taken in public interest. The assessment and conclusion from the relevant and objective material to judge public interest is the Administrator's determination. That would not be re-assessed and trampled upon by the Court to step into the Administrator's role as the primary decision maker, unless the Administrator's conclusion be perverse. (Para 21)

Nigam is in a precarious financial position. At the same time, the Nigam is a public body charged with the duty of managing water supply and sewerage all over the State. The petitioner is a Senior Engineer and experienced in the particular nature of work, that is involved in the operations of the Nigam. If the Nigam say that there has been a reduction in the work force of their Class-A Officers (which implies Engineers), it would certainly and pre-eminently be the Nigam's decision to judge whether public interest would suffer if the petitioner is allowed to retire voluntarily and abandon post. The petitioner is not an entry- level Engineer or a fresh recruit, who can be replaced with another like him at short notice and before his scheduled retirement. Therefore, the discretion exercised by the Nigam to refuse voluntary retirement, cannot be said to be arbitrary, whimsical, capricious or perverse. It is in public interest, which does not warrant interference by this Court. (Para 23)

Present petition challenges orders dated 03.11.2020 and 24.02.2021, passed by Uttar Pradesh Jal Nigam.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against orders dated 03.11.2020 and 24.02.2021 passed by the Uttar Pradesh Jal Nigam, refusing the petitioner's notice to voluntarily retire from service.

2. The petitioner is an Executive Officer in the employ of the Uttar Pradesh Jal Nigam, Lucknow. He is currently posted at the Construction Division of the Nigam at Baghpat. The petitioner completed the age of 59 years on December the 13th, 2020, rendering by that time more than 36 years of service. He was appointed as a Junior Engineer on 22.09.1984 and in course of time, was promoted to the post of an Assistant Engineer. He was further promoted to the post of an Executive Engineer, which he current holds. The petitioner submitted a request to the Managing Director of the Uttar Pradesh

Jal Nigam (for short, 'the Nigam') through an application dated 01.10.2020, seeking to voluntarily retire from service, in exercise of his right under the U.P. Fundamental Rule 56(c) of the Financial Hand Book Vol. II (Parts II to IV). The aforesaid Rules shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the Rules'.

3. It was indicated in the application dated 01.10.2020 that the request may be regarded as three months' notice to voluntarily retire from service. The petitioner's notice to voluntarily retire was rejected by the Nigam in terms of an order of November the 3rd, 2020 passed by the Secretary (Administration) to the Nigam. It was said in the order that the petitioner's request was considered, but was not acceded to in public interest.

4. On 11th November, 2020, the petitioner addressed another memo to the Managing Director of the Nigam and requested a review of the order dated 03.11.2020. It was said in the memo/ representation dated 11.11.2020 that the petitioner was finding himself unable to serve the Nigam any further on account of his family and personal circumstances and, therefore, the employers may reconsider his request, seeking voluntary retirement, sympathetically. The memo dated 11.11.2020 remained unresponded to.

5. The petitioner then made another application dated 02.12.2020, also addressed to the Managing Director of the Nigam. Here, the relevant provisions of Rule 56 of the Rules were quoted and the Nigam were informed that the petitioner had a right to retire voluntarily at the end of three months' notice period under Rule 56(c). It was said in this application that the three months' notice period would expire on 31.12.2020 and the petitioner would treat himself retired from the Nigam's service w.e.f. 31.12.2020. The Managing Director was requested to arrange transfer of charge by nominating an Officer for the purpose. The Superintending Engineer, First Division, U.P. Jal Nigam, Meerut addressed a memo dated 29.12.2020 to the Chief Engineer (Rural Area), U.P. Jal Nigam, Ghaziabad, apprising him of the petitioner's request. It was also requested by the Superintending Engineer that the Chief Engineer may ensure acceptance of the petitioner's request for voluntary retirement and make arrangement for transfer of charge.

6. It is the petitioner's case that no Officer was deputed to relieve him on 31.12.2020 by the Nigam and he could not relinquish charge on the said date. On the 24th of February, 2021, the Secretary (Administration) to the Nigam passed a further order, notifying the decision to reject the petitioner's request for a review of the earlier order dated 03.11.2020, declining the petitioner's notice seeking voluntary retirement. The order dated 24th February, 2021 indicated that the petitioner's request has been refused in public interest. The public interest was disclosed to be the fact that in comparison to the month of November, 2020, Officers working in the Class-A Cadre of the Nigam had witnessed a drastic reduction in strength. It was mentioned that in these circumstances, it was not possible to accede to the petitioner's request for a voluntary retirement from service.

7. Aggrieved by the orders dated 03.11.2020 and 24.02.2021 passed by the Nigam, the petitioner has instituted the present writ petition. He prays that both these orders be quashed and the respondents ordered to relieve him from service forthwith attended with a direction to pay his full retirement benefits due in accordance with the Rules.

8. This petition was instituted on 08.06.2021 and came up before the Court on 10.06.2021. The Court passed an order directing the respondents to file a counter affidavit. The petition was ordered to come up again on 12.07.2021. Between 12.07.2021 to 29.10.2021, it drifted across six dates. During this period of time, pending admission, the parties exchanged affidavits. On 29.10.2021, this petition was formally admitted to hearing. It was heard in part on that day and adjourned to 01.11.2021. It was heard further for remainder of the submissions on 10.11.2021, when judgment was reserved.

9. Heard Mr. Pradip Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Rishabh Kapoor, learned Counsel appearing for the respondents.

10. The thrust of Mr. Pradip Kumar Srivastava's submission is that under Rule 56(c) of the Rules, an employee is entitled to retire as a matter of right at any time after attaining the age of 45 years or after he has completed the qualifying service of 20 years. He submits that the petitioner is entitled to voluntary retirement on both parameters. He was about two months shy of his 59th birthday when he served the notice of voluntary retirement dated 01.10.2020 and had put in, by that time, more than 36 years of service. It is emphasized by Mr. Srivastava that the only contingency under which a notice of voluntary retirement may be refused is that envisaged under the second proviso to Rule 56(d), which stipulates that a Government servant, against whom disciplinary proceedings are pending or contemplated, would have his notice of voluntary retirement effective only if it is accepted by the Appointing Authority. The proviso further says that in case of contemplated disciplinary proceedings against a Government servant, who has served a notice of voluntary retirement, shall be informed about the refusal of his notice before expiry of the notice period.

11. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has drawn the Court's attention to the provisions of Rule 56 of the Rules and submitted that the employers have no choice in the matter once a notice of voluntary retirement is served and the period of notice expires. It is emphasized that it is not the Nigam's case that there are any disciplinary proceedings pending or contemplated against the petitioner. Thus, the action of the Nigam in refusing to accept the petitioner's notice of voluntary retirement is without jurisdiction. The petitioner must be deemed to have retired on the expiry of the period of three months of service of the notice seeking voluntary retirement. In support of his contention, Mr. Srivastava has relied upon the decision of a Division Bench of this Court in Radha Saran v. The General Manager, Central Railways, Bombay and another, 1987 LAB. I. C. 716. In Radha Saran, it was held:

"8. From the facts discussed above it is apparent that the authorities adopted a negative approach in considering the application of petitioner seeking voluntary retirement after having rendered 27 years of service. Why was this request opposed in absence of any circumstance is indeed beyond comprehension. The unreasonable attitude adopted by the authorities which was not warranted in the circumstances has resulted in inordinate delay in granting pension and other benefits to petitioner. The petitioner had to approach this Court for relief and remedy which could have been easily granted to him without any delay."

12. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that in the present case too, assuming that the Authorities have power to decline a notice of voluntary retirement, there is no justification to do so. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has hastened to add that this submission is not in derogation of his stand that the Nigam have no authority under Rule 56(c) of the Rules to decline a notice of voluntary retirement. He adds, continuing on the second line of his submission, that if the Nigam are held to possess jurisdiction or authority to refuse the petitioner's notice of voluntary retirement, the decision in the absence of a cogent reason is arbitrary.

13. It is argued by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that 'public interest' is a word of well acknowledged connotation, but with an equally acknowledged reputation for its misuse and abuse. He submits that the Nigam's financial circumstances, that are not in dispute, show them to be in dire financial straits, where they are embarrassed with inability to regularly pay salary and pension to their employees and ex-employees. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has drawn this Court's attention to assertions in paragraph no.14 to the above effect, which have not been denied by the Nigam. He has also invited the Court's attention to a memo dated 27.03.2021 from the State Government to the Nigam sanctioning an interest free loan in the sum of Rs.72 crores to enable the Nigam to disburse their employees' salaries and pensions. It has been most persuasively urged by Mr. Srivastava that the Nigam, placed in the circumstances that they are, could hardly tout a case of 'public interest' in support of their refusal to accept an employee's request for voluntary retirement.

14. Mr. Rishabh Kapoor, learned Counsel for the Nigam, on the other hand, has refuted the submissions of Mr. Srivastava with utmost vehemence. He submits that the Nigam may not be in the pink of financial health, but they are a public undertaking charged with the duty of the preparation, execution, promotion and financing the schemes for the supply of water and for sewerage and sewage disposal, amongst others, in rural and urban areas. Supply of water in an ordered and sustained manner is a concomitant of the fundamental right to life guaranteed to all citizens. The Nigam is engaged in the discharge of duties corresponding to that fundamental right of the citizens. It is submitted, therefore, that the decision to retain a particular employee in service or a class of their employees, so that the Nigam can discharge its duties, has to be their decision taken in public interest. It is submitted that the Nigam, therefore, have to take a decision on a case-to-case basis about the class of employees or individuals, who are to be retained in service in order to enable the Nigam to discharge its functions.

15. About the jurisdiction of the Nigam to refuse a notice of voluntary retirement, it is submitted by Mr. Rishabh Kapoor that the Nigam have an unfettered right to refuse the notice of voluntary retirement so long as it is in public interest. Mr. Kapoor urges that there has to be some material to support the public interest, on which the Nigam seek to base their decision. The decision ultimately is one of the Nigam's and they are the primary decision makers about the public interest involved. The scope for judicial review is very limited. It is argued by the learned Counsel for the Nigam that in reading the provisions of Rule 56(c), the way the learned Counsel for petitioner urges this Court to do, the Explanation to Rule 56(c) has been ignored. That Explanation, according to Mr. Rishabh Kapoor, empowers the Nigam to refuse a notice of voluntary retirement in 'public interest'.

16. The Court has carefully considered the rival submissions advanced and perused the record. In order to assess the worth of the petitioner's case that the Nigam have no jurisdiction or authority under Rule 56(c) of the Rules to refuse a notice of voluntary retirement, it would be gainful to refer to the provisions of Rule 56 of the Rules. The relevant part of Rule 56 reads:

Financial Hand Book Vol. II (Parts II to IV)

"CHAPTER IX-COMPULSORY RETIREMENT

56. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this Rule, every Government servant other than a Government servant in inferior service shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of fifty eight years. He may be retained in service after the date of compulsory retirement with the sanction of the Government on public grounds which must be recorded in writing, but he must not be retained after the age of 60 years except in very special circumstances.

(b) A Government servant in inferior service shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of sixty years. He must not be retained in service after that date, except in very special circumstances and with sanction of the Government.

(c) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (a) or clause (b), the appointing authority may, at any time by notice to any Government servant (whether permanent or temporary), without assigning any reason, require him to retire after he attains the age of fifty years or such Government servant may by notice to the appointing authority voluntarily retire at any time after attaining the age of forty-five years or after he has completed qualifying service of twenty years.

(d) The period of such notice shall be three months:

Provided that-

(i) any such Government servant may by order of the appointing authority, without such notice or by a shorter notice, be retired forthwith at any time after attaining the age of fifty years, and on such retirement the Government servant shall be entitled to claim a sum equivalent to the amount of his pay plus allowances, if any, for the period of the notice, or as the case may be, for the period by which such notice falls short of three months, at the same rates at which he was drawing immediately before his retirement;

(ii) it shall be open to the appointing authority to allow a Government servant to retire without any notice or by a shorter notice without requiring the Government servant to pay any penalty in lieu of notice:

Provided further that such notice given by the Government servant against whom a disciplinary proceeding is pending or contemplated, shall be effective only if it is accepted by the appointing authority, provided that in the case of a contemplated disciplinary proceeding the Government servant shall be informed before the expiry of his notice that it has not been accepted:

Provided also that the notice once given by a Government servant under clause (c) seeking voluntary retirement shall not be withdrawn by him except with the permission of the appointing authority.

(e) A retiring pension shall be payable and other retirement benefits, if any, shall be available in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the relevant Rules to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this rule.

Provided that where a Government servant who voluntarily retires or is allowed voluntarily to retire under this rule the appointing authority may allow him, for the purposes of pension and gratuity, if any, the benefit of additional service of five years or of such period as he would have served if he had continued till the ordinary date of his superannuation, whichever be less;

Explanation.-(1) The decision of the appointing authority under clause (c) to require the Government servant to retire as specified therein shall be taken if it appears to the said authority to be in the public interest, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to require any recital, in the order, of such decision having been taken in the public interest.

(2) In order to be satisfied whether it will be in the public interest to require a Government servant to retire under clause (c) the appointing authority may take into consideration any material relating to the Government servant and nothing herein contained shall be construed to exclude from consideration-

(a) any entries relating to any period before such Government servant was allowed to cross any efficiency bar or before he was promoted to any post in an officiating or substantive capacity or on an ad hoc basis; or

(b) any entry against which a representation is pending, provided that the representation is also taken into consideration along with the entry; or

(c) any report of the Vigilance Establishment constituted under the Uttar Pradesh Vigilance Establishment Act, 1965.

(2-A) Every such decision shall be deemed to have been taken in the public interest.

(3) The expression "appointing authority' means the authority which for the time being has the power to make substantive appointments to the post or service from which the Government servant is required or wants to retire; and the expression "qualifying service' shall have the same meaning as in the relevant Rules relating to retiring pension.

(4) Every order of the appointing authority requiring a Government servant to retire forthwith under the first proviso to clause (d) of this rule shall have effect from the afternoon of the date of its issue, provided that if after the date of its issue, the Government servant concerned, bona fide and in ignorance of that order, performs the duties of his office his acts shall be deemed to be valid notwithstanding the fact of his having earlier retired."

17. If one were not to read beyond the second proviso to Rule 56(c) & (d) of the Rules, the contention of Mr. Srivastava could be accepted. The provisions of Rule 56(c) together with its three provisos, including the two sub-clauses of the first, make out a clear distinction between a case of compulsory retirement by the Government, which here would mean the Nigam, on the one hand and a case of voluntary retirement sought by an employee on the other. The provision about the Government taking a decision to compulsorily retire a Government servant after he attains the age of 50 years, does not envisage assignment of reason. It is a well acknowledged principle that this power to compulsorily retire a Government servant under Rule 56(c) after he attains the age of 50 years, is to be exercised by the Government or any other employer, to whom the Rules are applicable in public interest. However, the right of the Government servant/ employee to seek voluntary retirement at any time after attaining the age of 45 years or after he has completed the qualifying service of 20 years, appears to be a right, at the first blush, that can be exercised unilaterally by the employee, with no right of refusal with the Government/ employer. The only ground that appears, if one were not to read beyond the three provisos to Rule 56(d), is the pendency or contemplation of disciplinary proceedings against the Government servant. If that be the case, there seems to be little quarrel that a notice of voluntary retirement cannot be declined.

18. The second part of the second proviso, which says that in a case of contemplated disciplinary proceedings, the Government servant shall be informed before the expiry of his notice that it has not been accepted, seems to reinforce the submission that the right to retire voluntarily at the expiry of three months' notice, is unqualified and unilateral, except in the case of pendency or contemplation of disciplinary proceedings. But, reading the provisions of Rule 56(c) this way, portrays half the picture. Explanation (1) added to Rule 56(c) says that the decision of the Appointing Authority under clause (c) to require the Government servant to retire, as specified therein, shall be taken if it appears to the Authority that it is in public interest so to do. Now, clause (c) of Rule 56 speaks both about compulsory retirement and voluntary retirement. If one were to go by the strict phraseology of the Explanation, the words

"require the Government servant to retire" would seem to refer to the contingency of compulsory retirement alone, and not voluntary retirement. The petitioner seems to have thought that this may not be said of voluntary retirement, and perhaps, has led him to believe it to be so, because "requiring' the Government servant to retire may possibly bear no reference to a case of voluntary retirement, where the Government servant opts to retire; and not "required' to retire. This construction placed upon the Explanation, however, does not appear to be sound, because the Explanation bears reference to clause (c) of Rule 56 of the Rules as a whole. If there were some avenue of doubt about it, the legal position stands concluded in favour of the view that the Explanation applies to cases both of compulsory retirement as well as voluntary retirement, as held by the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Achal Singh, (2018) 17 SCC 578. The precise question that fell for consideration of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Achal Singh (supra) may be best described by referring to paragraph no.2 of the report:

"2. The main question for consideration before us is as to whether under Rule 56 of the Uttar Pradesh Fundamental Rules (hereinafter referred to as "the Fundamental Rules") as amended, an employee has unfettered right to seek voluntary retirement by serving a notice of three months to the State Government or whether the State Government under the Explanation attached to Rule 56 of the Fundamental Rules, is authorised to decline the prayer for voluntary retirement in the public interest under clause (c) of Rule 56 of the Fundamental Rules as applicable to the State of Uttar Pradesh."

19. The controversy in State of U.P. v. Achal Singh arose in the context of a notice of voluntary retirement served by the Doctors of the Provincial Medical Services, under Rule 56 of the Rules. The Doctors served notices on various dates, seeking to voluntary retire from service. Their applications remained pending much beyond the period of three months, with no orders passed. They then approached the High Court, saying that their voluntary retirement has become effective at the expiration of three months of service of notice under Rule 56(c), which this Court accepted on the construction of Rule 56(c) and its provisos, the way the petitioner wants this Court to do. The State of Uttar Pradesh challenged the judgment and order of the Division Bench of this Court dated 27.11.2017 by Special Leave, that was granted. Allowing the Appeal of the State of Uttar Pradesh, in State of U.P. v. Achal Singh, it was held:

"11. The Explanation attached to Rule 56 makes it clear that the decision of the appointing authority under clause (c) of Rule 56 to retire a government servant shall be taken if it appears to be in public interest. The Explanation is applicable to both the exigencies viz. when the Government retires an employee or when an employee seeks voluntary retirement, not only when Government desires to retire an employee in public interest. The Explanation attached to Rule 56 as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh is clear and precise.

14. It was submitted that despite the absence of any identical language, the rule involved in Dinesh Chandra Sangma [Dinesh Chandra Sangma v. State of Assam, (1977) 4 SCC 441 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 7] is comparable with the Uttar Pradesh Fundamental Rules and therefore, the judgment is binding. The submission based upon the same cannot be accepted and Rules 56(b) and (c) came up for consideration was somewhat different and there was no such Explanation to Rule 56.

15. In Dinesh Chandra Sangma [Dinesh Chandra Sangma v. State of Assam, (1977) 4 SCC 441 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 7] he was the District and Sessions Judge at Dibrugarh in the State of Assam. On account of domestic troubles, he did not want to continue after attainment of the age of 50 years. He served a notice under Rule 56(c) as amended by the Governor of Assam under Article 309 of the Constitution by the Notification dated 22-7-1975. The formal notice was served upon by him. The Government allowed him to retire from the State Government service and then there were certain developments in the Government and the Government sought to retrace its steps and passed an Order on 28-7-1976, countermanding its earlier order allowing him to retire from service. The High Court dismissed the writ application filed by him. The Fundamental Rule as applicable in the State of Assam came up for consideration. In our opinion, it was quite different. It is provided in Fundamental Rule 56(b) as applicable in the State of Assam that public interest was germane when a government servant retires. Under Rule 56(c), a government servant may retire by giving notice of not less than three months. Hence, it was observed that there was no question of acceptance of the request for voluntary retirement by the Government when the government servant exercises his right under Rule 56(c). Not only the Rule was different it was passed on the concession also, however, the Explanation given to Rule 56 in the State of Uttar Pradesh makes it completely different and the provisions in F.R. 56(c) are also quite different. The rules as applicable in Assam for the purpose of retirement by the Government are contained in F.R. 56(b) which require retirement in public interest whereas no such rider exists in F.R. 56(c) when an employee seeks voluntary retirement, whereas rule in the State of Uttar Pradesh both provisions are conjointly read, not only the language is different and the Explanation makes out the whole difference.

16. The Explanation attached to Rule 56 as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh makes it clear that when a decision is taken by the authority under clause (c) of Rule 56, the right of an employee to retire cannot be said to be absolute as in the case of resignation, voluntary retirement is with retiral benefits whereas it may not necessarily follow in case of resignation. The decision under the rules in U.P. is to be based upon considering the public interest, whether it is a case of retirement by the Government or a case of a government servant seeking voluntary retirement. The decision rendered in Dinesh Chandra Sangma [Dinesh Chandra Sangma v. State of Assam, (1977) 4 SCC 441 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 7] is distinguishable and was based on the differently couched rule. The Explanation added makes the provisions different in the State of Uttar Pradesh. The decision in Dinesh Chandra Sangma [Dinesh Chandra Sangma v. State of Assam, (1977) 4 SCC 441 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 7] cannot be said to be operative being quite distinguishable.

19. Reliance was also placed on the decision rendered by this Court in State of Bombay v. United Motors (India) Ltd. [State of Bombay v. United Motors (India) Ltd., AIR 1953 SC 252] and Bengal Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar [Bengal Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar, AIR 1955 SC 661] , in which it has been observed that Explanation can be read as proviso and it explains the scope of the main provision and the Explanation becomes part of the main section. There is no dispute with the aforesaid proposition. The Explanation in the Rules in question has to be applied to both the situations as contemplated in Rule 56(c) and is applicable to both the exigencies not only when the Government decides to retire an employee, but also applicable where voluntary retirement is sought by an employee. It cannot be said that no further restriction by Explanation has been added in a case where an employee has decided to obtain voluntary retirement. The public interest is the prime consideration on which authority has to decide such a prayer as per the rules applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh.

27. In our considered opinion, under Rule 56 as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, notice of voluntary retirement does not come into effect automatically on the expiry of the three months' period. Under the Rule in question, the appointing authority has to accept the notice for voluntary retirement or it can be refused on permissible grounds.

28. In our opinion, Rule 56(c) does not fall in the category where there is an absolute right on the employee to seek voluntary retirement. In view of the aforesaid dictum and what is held by this Court, we find that the prayer made to make a reference to a larger Bench, in case this Court does not follow the earlier decision is entirely devoid of merit as on the basis of what has been held by this Court in the earlier decisions, we have arrived at the conclusion. This Court has authoritatively laid down the law umpteen number of times.

33. There is no doubt about it that Rule 56(d) provides that where a disciplinary enquiry is pending or contemplated and in the case of contemplated disciplinary enquiry, the government servant shall be informed before the expiry of notice that it has not been accepted. The proviso to Rule 56(d) has no application where a disciplinary enquiry is not contemplated or pending. When the proviso itself is not applicable, in no case it will dilute the provisions of the Explanation with respect to exigencies mentioned in clause (c) of Rule 56.

34. The submission made upon principle of liberty and its curtailment, the law must be just, fair and reasonable can also not be accepted as the Fundamental Rules are statutory rules and have been made by the Governor under Section 241(2)(b) of the Government of India Act, 1935 and the provisions of rule in question cannot be said to be unfair, unreasonable and oppressive."

(Emphasis by Court)

20. In view of the aforesaid holding of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Achal Singh (supra), there cannot be any doubt that the exercise of option to retire voluntarily is subject to the Government/ employer's scrutiny and its acceptance on the anvil of public interest. It is not an absolute right of the employee that fructifies on the expiry of three months' notice period under Rule 56(c) of the Rules. Therefore, it has to be held that the Nigam had authority and jurisdiction to decline the petitioner's application/ notice to retire voluntarily.

21. The second limb of the submission is about the decision carried in the impugned orders being vitiated by the vice of arbitrariness. Public interest, that has been pleaded in justification of the orders impugned, it is true, is no cloak to shield the Administrator's arbitrary and whimsical decision, based on whims and caprice. It has to be a decision by the primary decision maker, that is to say, the Administrator taken bona fide to qualify for a valid decision. It has to be one that is free from the vice of arbitrariness and taken in public interest. The Administrator must act on relevant and objective material. The assessment and conclusion from that material to judge public interest is the Administrator's determination. That would not be re-assessed and trampled upon by the Court to step into the Administrator's role as the primary decision maker, unless the Administrator's conclusion be perverse. This is a principle, too well-acknowledged, to merit any further elucidation.

22. Here, the consideration on which the impugned orders are sought to be supported, appears in a few but meaningful words carried in the order dated 24.02.2021. These are recorded in Hindi and read:

"माह नवम्बर 2020 की तुलना में विभाग में समूह "क" के कार्यरत अधिकारियों की संख्या में और कमी आयी है। ऐसी स्थिति मे आपकी स्वैच्छिक सेवानिवृत्ति के अनुरोध को स्वीकार किये जाने का अवसर सक्षम प्राधिकारी द्वारा परिलक्षित नहीं पाया गया हैं। तद्नुसार आपको अवगत कराया जाता है।"

23. The parties at ad idem about the fact that the Nigam is in a precarious financial position. At the same time, the Nigam is a public body charged with the duty of managing water supply and sewerage all over the State. The petitioner is obviously a Senior Engineer and experienced in the particular nature of work, that is involved in the operations of the Nigam. If the Nigam say that there has been a reduction in the work force of their Class-A Officers (which implies Engineers), it would certainly and pre-eminently be the Nigam's decision to judge whether public interest would suffer if the petitioner is allowed to retire voluntarily and abandon post. It also cannot be ignored that the petitioner is not an entry-level Engineer or a fresh recruit, who can be replaced with another like him at short notice and before his scheduled retirement. Therefore, in the circumstances, the discretion exercised by the Nigam to refuse voluntary retirement, cannot be said to be arbitrary, whimsical, capricious or perverse. The decision is one taken in public interest, which does not warrant interference by this Court.

24. The decision in Radha Saran (supra) relied upon by the petitioner to canvass a case of unreasonableness by the respondents in declining the petitioner's notice of voluntarily retirement is clearly distinguishable, because that decision was rendered in the context of a Voluntary Retirement Scheme for servants of the Indian Railways governed by the Circulars of 1977 and 1981. The employers in that case were left option-less in the matter of declining a notice of voluntary retirement, in view of the phraseology of Clause (vii) of the 1977 Circular, where the expression used was "such acceptance may be generally given in all cases except....." as would appear from Paragraph 4 of the report in Radha Saran. The exceptions there were pending or contemplated disciplinary proceedings involving the imposition of a major penalty, or a case where prosecution was contemplated or launched in a court of law. Else, the employer was without option but to accept the notice. This is not the position under Fundamental Rule 56(c) read with the Explanation, as held by the Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Achal Singh.

25. In the result, this petition fails and is dismissed.

26. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 302 & 504 - Arms Act, 1947 - Section 25 - Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 - Sections 82 & 161 - The statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. is not a substantive piece of evidence and is inadmissible in evidence. It cannot be relied upon or used to convict the accused. The statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. can be used only to prove the contradictions and/or omissions. It may be used for the limited purpose of impeaching the credibility of a witness. (Para 26 to 30)

Section 162 Cr.P.C. bars use of statement of witnesses recorded by the police except for the limited purpose of contradiction of such witnesses as indicated there. The statements u/s 161 Cr.P.C. recorded during the investigation are not substantive pieces of evidence but can be used primarily for the limited purpose: (i) of contradicting such witness by an accused u/s 145 of the Evidence Act; (ii) the contradiction of such witness also by the prosecution but with the leave of the Court; and (iii) the re-examination of the witness if necessary. (Para 28)

In present case, prosecution has examined five witnesses of fact. During the course of trial, all of them denied their earlier statements given by them before the police i.e. to Investigating Officer u/s 161 Cr.P.C. One of them (PW-1) though supported the FIR version in his examination-in-chief but this witness is not an eye witness and his testimony is based on hearsay, therefore, his testimony given in examination-in-chief is of no help for the prosecution. (Para 24)

B. Merely narration of facts in the case diary, which do not emanate from substantive evidence cannot be taken into account - Trial court relied on a circumstance that in the ring ceremony (Sagai) function, appellant-Sanjay Sharma fired three celebratory shots, which shows appellant had used firearm on that day. This fact could not have been noticed as it does not emanate from substantive evidence. Though, it might be part of case diary. Perusal of the statement of S.I. Paan Singh (PW-9) shows that he received a C.D., from appellant's brother and noted its contents in the case diary too, but neither the C.D. was produced by the prosecution nor the contents of the C.D. noted in the case diary were proved during trial. (Para 33)

C. Merely on ground of delay in arrest, the appellant cannot be convicted. After the incident, the appellant could be arrested only after about one year and two months. Although arrest of the appellant after such a long period of time may create suspicion against him, but merely on this basis he cannot be convicted. Further, although, during investigation, the Investigating Officer moved an application u/s 82/83 Cr.P.C. against the appellant, but this application was rejected by the trial court. (Para 32)

D. In a criminal trial it is the duty of the prosecution to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts and prosecution will have to stand on its own leg. The burden in the criminal trial is upon the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused. The prosecution cannot take advantage of the weakness of the defence case. If appellant failed to produce any evidence in his defence, then also he cannot convicted. His conviction can only be recorded on the basis of substantive evidence. (Para 34)

The prosecution, in the present case, has failed to prove the guilt of the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt and the evidence produced by the prosecution is of such nature, on the basis of which, the conviction of the appellant is not possible. (Para 35, 36)

Bhagwan Das Vs State (NCT) of Delhi, (2011) 6 SCC 396 (Para 26)

Present appeal challenges judgment and order dated 08.06.2018, passed by learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, District Bulandshahar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sameer Jain, J.)

1. The present appeal has been preferred by the appellant against the judgment and order dated 8.6.2018 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.9, Bulandshahar in Sessions Trial No. 247 of 2017 (State Vs. Sanjay Sharma) arising out of Case Crime No. 69 of 2016, under Section 302 IPC and Sessions Trial No.69 of 2018 (State Vs. Sanjay Sharma), under Section 25 of Arms Act arising out of Case Crime No. 70 of 2016, by which, learned trial court convicted the appellant under Section 302 IPC and sentenced him to undergo life imprisonment with fine of Rs.25,000/- (Rs. Twenty Five Thousand) and in default of payment of fine one year additional imprisonment; and under Section 25 of Arms Act and sentenced the appellant to undergo three years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5000/- (Rs. Five Thousand) and in default thereof three months additional imprisonment.

2. The prosecution story, in nutshell, is that on 16.02.2016, Rajendra Sharma (PW-1) lodged First Information Report of the present case under Sections 302, 504 IPC at Police Station Gulawathi, District Bulandshahar against appellant-Sanjay Sharma, which was registered as Case Crime No. 69 of 2016 with the allegation that on 16.02.2016 his wife Smt. Laxmi (PW-3) and his son Ankit @ Lala (deceased) aged about 15 years along with his nephew Rakesh Sharma (PW-2) went to attend the function of ring ceremony (Sagai) of his relative, namely, Dev Dutt Sharma, and in the function of ring ceremony (Sagai), the appellant, who is son-in-law of Dev Dutt Sharma, was also present; at about 3.00 P.M. the appellant Sanjay Sharma called Ankit (deceased) on the roof and asked him to bring water for liquor; when Ankit (deceased) refused, appellant Sanjay Sharma started abusing him. On hearing the noise, PW-1's wife Smt. Laxmi and nephew Rakesh Sharma (PW-2) arrived at the roof and they witnessed that appellant-Sanjay Sharma, in a fit of anger, shot Ankit at about 3.30 P.M., as a result whereof, his son Ankit fell down and appellant-Sanjay Sharma managed to escape. It is mentioned in the FIR that information of the incident was given by informant's wife.

3. After registration of the FIR, police arrived at the house of Dev Dutt Sharma and investigation was started. During investigation, on same day i.e. on 16.02.2016, a country made pistol was recovered from the roof of the house of Dev Dutt Sharma in the presence of Rajendra Sharma (informant) P.W.-1 and Sri Nanak Chandra Sharma. The Investigating Officer prepared recovery memo of country made pistol as (Ext.Ka-11). On same day i.e. on 16.02.2016, Investigating Officer collected blood stained and plain scrape of roof from the spot and prepared recovery memo (Ext. Ka-12). Thereafter, inquest report of the dead body of Ankit was prepared on 16.02.2016 as (Ext.Ka-2) and post-mortem report of the deceased (Ankit) was prepared as (Ext.Ka-8). During post-mortem, doctor found two firearm wounds on the body of the deceased, one was entry and the other was exit. Both injuries communicating to each other. After investigation, Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet on 23.05.2017 against the appellant, under Sections 302, 504 IPC as (Ext. Ka-14) and also submitted charge-sheet against him under Section of 25 Arms Act on 30.06.2017. As the case under Arms Act was related to the present case both the cases were committed to the Court of Session. After committal of the case, on 29.07.2017, the trial court framed charges against the appellant under Sections 302 and 504 IPC. On 22.02.2018 charge was also framed under Section 25 of Arms Act. Appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. During trial, prosecution examined 13 witnesses. Out of 13 witnesses, 5 witnesses, namely, Rajendra Sharma (PW-1), Rakesh Sharma (PW-2), Smt. Laxmi (PW-3), Smt. Seema (PW-4) and Virendra (PW-5) are the witnesses of fact whereas the rest are formal witnesses.

5. After recording the statement of prosecution witnesses, learned trial court examined the appellant-Sanjay Sharma under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and convicted him on the basis of evidence available on record, under Section 302, 504 IPC and Section 25 Arms Act.

6. We have heard Sri Akhilesh Srivastava and Sri Shaksham Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant; and Ms. Sanyukta Singh, Brief holder and Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A. for the State.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant contended that PW-1, Rajendra Sharma, the informant was not an eye witness. He was not present at the spot. He arrived at the place of incident after receiving information and he did not support the FIR version during his cross examination. Smt. Laxmi (PW-3) mother of the deceased also did not support the prosecution case. Similarly, Rakesh Sharma (PW-2), the nephew of informant Rajendra Sharma (PW-1) and cousin brother of deceased Ankit, who accompanied Ankit along with his mother to attend the function of ring ceremony (Sagai) at the house of Dev Dutt Sharma also did not support the prosecution case before the trial court. Similarly, Smt. Seema (PW-4) wife of Rakesh Sharma and Virendra (PW-5) independent witnesses have also turned hostile. Learned counsel further contended that as all the witnesses of fact have turned hostile, conviction of the appellant on the basis of their testimony is unsustainable. Learned counsel further argued that as country made pistol was not recovered either from the possession of appellant or on his pointing out, therefore, his conviction under Section 25 Arms Act is also unsustainable.

8. Per contra, learned State counsel argued that the FIR of the present case was lodged promptly and Rajendra Sharma (PW-1) in his examination-in-chief supported the version of FIR though he turned hostile during his cross examination. The witnesses, who turned hostile during trial, namely, Smt. Laxmi (PW-3), Rakesh Sharma (P-2), Smt. Seema (PW-4) and Virendra (PW-5), have supported the prosecution case in their statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer, therefore, under the facts and circumstances of the present case, trial court has rightly relied on their statements recorded during investigation. Learned State counsel further argued that the testimony of a hostile witness can be believed and in the present case a young boy of 15 years was murdered on trivial issue and as the appellant was the person, who caused the death of deceased Ankit, and, immediately after the incident, the country made pistol, which was used in the commission of crime, was recovered from the roof, possession of recovered country made pistol can very well be attributed to appellant Sanjay Sharma. Learned State counsel further contended that during investigation the country made pistol and cartridges were sent for forensic examination. As per forensic report, the recovered country made pistol and empty cartridge matched with each other, therefore, conviction recorded by the trial court in respect of appellant is sustainable and present appeal filed by the appellant is liable to be dismissed.

9. We have given our thoughtful consideration on the rival submissions and perused the entire evidence on record.

10. Before analysing the evidence available on record, it is necessary to notice in brief the evidence provided by the prosecution during trial.

11. Prosecution examined Rajendra Sharma (informant of the case) as PW-1, who lodged the FIR of the present case and proved the FIR as (Ext.ka-1). In his examination-in-chief, this witness although supported the version of the FIR, but in cross examination he did not support his statement recorded during examination-in-chief. This witness in cross examination stated that Panna lal, who is scribe the FIR, is his brother-in-law and he never told him that appellant Sanjay Sharma caused firearm injury to his son Ankit. He further stated that he, under the pressure of villagers, gave his statement earlier during examination-in-chief. This witness did not support his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. This witness is not an eye witness and FIR (Ext.Ka-1) of the present case lodged by him was based on hearsay.

12. Next witness produced by the prosecution is Rakesh Sharma (PW-2). He is the nephew of Rajendra Sharma (PW-1) and he was the person, who, accompanied the deceased Ankit along with Smt. Laxmi (PW-3) to the function of ring ceremony (Sagai) arranged at the house of Dev Dutt Sharma. This witness also did not support the prosecution case and stated in his examination-in-chief that he is the cousin brother of deceased (Ankit) and on 16.02.2016 he attended the function of ring ceremony (Sagai) at the house of Dev Dutt Sharma along with his wife Smt. Seema (PW-4). He further stated that his aunt, Smt. Laxmi (PW-3), and his cousin brother Ankit also attended the function and at about 3.30 PM, he heard the sound of gun shot coming from the roof of the house of Dev Dutt Sharma during the function of ring ceremony and when he reached there, there were number of people gathered there. This witness further stated that his aunt also arrived at the spot and he did not witness the appellant causing firearm injury to Ankit because at the time of incident he was not present. This witness was also declared hostile. During his cross examination, PW-2 did not support his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

13. Next witness examined by the prosecution is Smt. Laxmi (PW-3). This witness is the mother of deceased (Ankit) and wife of PW-1 Rajendra Sharma (informant). During her examination-in-chief, this witness also did not support the prosecution case and stated that in the function of ring ceremony (Sagai), at about 3.30 PM, she heard gun shot. At that time she was attending ladies sangeet and when she reached the spot, she saw that somebody had shot his son Ankit. She further stated that she did not witness the appellant fire the shot upon his son Ankit because she was not present at the spot. Prosecution also declared her hostile. In her cross examination, this witness also did not support her earlier statement recorded by the Investigating Officer during investigation. She futher stated that she never told her husband Rajendra Sharma (PW-1) that appellant shot dead Ankit.

14. Smt. Seema was examined by the prosecution as PW-4. She is the wife of Rakesh Sharma (PW-2). She also accompanied her husband Rakesh Sharma in the function of ring ceremony (Sagai) arranged at the house of Dev Dutt Sharma along with Laxmi (PW-3) and Ankit (deceased). She, in her examination-in-chief, denied the prosecution case and stated that as soon as she reached the spot, the person who had caused firearm injury to Ankit had already managed to escape and she did not witness the appellant firing at Ankit (deceased). This witness further stated that she was also sitting along with Laxmi (PW-3) in the programme of ladies sangeet. In her cross examination, she also did not support her statement recorded by the Investigating Officer during investigation. This witness was also declared hostile by the prosecution.

15. Virendra was examined by the prosecution as PW-5. This witness is an independent witness, who was a resident of the village of Dev Dutt Sharma, where the function of ring ceremony (Sagai) was arranged. This witness also did not support the prosecution case and was declared hostile. This witness in his cross examination stated that the incident did not occur in his presence and he reached the spot after hearing the sound of gunshot and he did not witness the appellant causing gunshot injury to Ankit. In his cross examination, this witness also did not support his earlier statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. during investigation by the Investigating Officer.

16. The prosecution next examined Brijesh Kumar Yadav, S.S.I. as PW-6. This witness was the first Investigating Officer of the case. He stated in his examination-in-chief that he was posted as Station House Officer at Police Station Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar and he started investigation of the case and recorded the statement of informant Rajendra Sharma (PW-1) and arrived at the spot and made the recovery of country made pistol and cartridge. Recovery memo of the same was prepared by S.S.I. Paan Singh and inquest report of deceased (Ankit @ Lala) was prepared by S.I. Neeraj Kumar under his supervision. This witness proved the inquest report as (Ext. Ka-2). After sending the body for post mortem examination, this witness prepared site plan and proved the same as (Ext. Ka-7). PW-6 further stated that in spite of his best effort, appellant could not be arrested as he was trying to avoid his arrest, therefore, he moved an application under Section 82 Cr.P.C. against the appellant. This witness also recorded statements of Smt. Laxmi (PW-3), Rakesh Sharma (PW-2) and scribe of the FIR, Panna Lal (not examined). In his cross examination, he stated that he tried to receive finger print from the country made pistol, but he could not get the finger print.

17. The prosecution next examined Dr. Pushpendra Kumar as PW-7. He is the doctor, who conducted post mortem of the dead body of deceased. He stated that on 17.02.2016 at about 11.05 AM he started the post mortem examination of the deceased, which was completed by about 11.35 AM. He found following injuries on the body of deceased Ankit:-

"(1) A firearm wound of entry size 1.0 cm x 1.0 cm abdominal cavity deep present on right upper part of abdomen 12 cm below right nipple at 4 o' clock position blackening and tattooing present. He sealed the pistol. This witness proved recovery memo of pistol as (Ext. Ka-11). He also prepared the memo of blood stained and plain scrape of roof of the house of Dev Dutt Sharma and proved the same as (Ext. Ka-12). This witness further stated that he registered the case against the appellant

Sanjay Sharma, under Section 25 of Arms Act. This witness proved that the sealed bundle was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory. He further stated that he did not recover the country made pistol and cartridge from the possession of appellant Sanjay Sharma. He further stated that at the time of preparing the recovery memo, he did not try to take finger print from country made pistol and he did not call any expert in this regard.

20. Prosecution next examined Prabhat Kumar Sharma, S.H.O. as PW-10. This witness was second Investigating Officer of the case. He recorded statements of informant (PW-1), Smt. Laxmi (PW-2) and other witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. On 24.08.2016, he sent the recovered country made pistol and its cartridge for Forensic Examination. In his examination-in-chief, this witness further stated that on 29.10.2016, the brother of appellant Sanjay Sharma provided him a C.D., but after that he was transferred and the case was further investigated by some other Investigating Officer. He further stated in his cross examination that it is true that he did not inquire about the innocence of the appellant.

23. Last witness examined by the prosecution was Md. Shadab (PW-13). He was the person, who made G.D. entry in respect of the case registered under Section 25 Arms Act and he proved the G.D. Entry as (Ext. Ka-18).

Arguments and analysis

24. Perusal of the record of the present case reveals that prosecution has examined five witnesses of fact, namely, Rajendra Sharma (PW-1), Rakesh Sharma (PW-2), Smt. Laxmi (PW-3), Smt. Seema (PW-4) and Virendra (PW-5). During the course of trial, PW-2 to PW-5 have turned hostile. They did not support the prosecution version. During their cross examination, these witnesses denied their earlier statements given by them before the police i.e. to Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. These four witnesses (PW-2 to PW-5) did not support the prosecution version even in their examination-in-chief. As far as PW-1, Rajendra Sharma (informant) is concerned, he though supported the FIR version in his examination-in-chief, but in his cross examination he did not support his earlier version given in examination-in-chief. This witness even discredited the FIR, which was lodged by him against the appellant by stating that on Nakal Tehrir he put his signature on the instructions of the villagers. PW-1 also disapproved his earlier statement recorded by the Investigating Officer during investigation under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Nonetheless, this witness is not an eye witness and his testimony is based on hearsay, therefore, his testimony given in examination-in-chief is of no help for the prosecution.

25. Learned trial court while convicting the appellant in the present case relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhagwan Dass Vs. State (NCT) of Delhi (2011) 6 SCC 396 and accepted the testimonies of witnesses, namely, Rakesh Sharma (PW-2), Smt. Laxmi (PW-3), Smt. Seema (PW-4) and Virendra (PW-5) recorded by the Investigating Officer during investigation under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

26. The law is well settled that the statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. can only be used for the purpose of contradiction and it is not a substantive piece of evidence and such statements cannot be used against the accused persons.

27. In Ram Swaroop and others Vs. State of Rajasthan 2005 SCC (Cri) 61, the Apex Court in paragraph no.23 of the said judgment observed as follows:-

"We have also noticed that the High Court has attached undue importance to the statements made in the course of investigation and recorded under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It is well settled that a statement recorded under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure cannot be treated as evidence in the criminal trial but may be used for the limited purpose of impeaching the credibility of a witness."

28. In Tahsildar Singh and others Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh AIR 1959 SC 1012, six Judges Bench of the Apex Court observed that the statements recorded by the police officer during the course of investigation can only be used to contradict the evidence and not for other purpose. Further three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in V.K. Mishra and another Vs. State of Uttarakhand and another (2015) 9 SCC 588 after scrutinizing the scope of Section 162 Cr.P.C. observed in paragraph 16 as follows:-

"Section 162 Cr.P.C. bars use of statement of witnesses recorded by the police except for the limited purpose of contradiction of such witnesses as indicated there. The statement made by a witness before the police under Section 161(1) Cr.P.C. can be used only for the purpose of contradicting such witness on what he has stated at the trial as laid down in the proviso to Section 162(1) Cr.P.C. The statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded during the investigation are not substantive pieces of evidence but can be used primarily for the limited purpose: (i) of contradicting such witness by an accused under Section 145 of the Evidence Act; (ii) the contradiction of such witness also by the prosecution but with the leave of the Court; and (iii) the re-examination of the witness if necessary."

29. Recently in Parvat Singh and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2020) 4 SCC

33, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that "as per settled position of law, the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is inadmissible in evidence and cannot be relied upon or used to convict the accused. As per the settled position of law the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. can be used only to prove the contradictions and/or omissions".

30. Thus law with regard to use of the statement recorded by the Investigating Officer during investigation under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is well settled that on the basis of such statements, accused cannot be convicted.

31. The judgment of Bhagwan Das (supra) relied upon by the trial is distinguishable on facts. In Bhagwan Das case (supra) mother of accused turned hostile during trial and she resiled from her earlier statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. during investigation. Hon'ble Supreme Court accepted her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. only due to the fact that accused was her son and in view of the Apex Court she obviously wanted to save her son. In the present case, appellant is not even related to any of the witnesses of facts produced by prosecution including PW-1 (informant), PW-2 (mother of deceased) and PW-3, PW-4 and PW-5. Therefore, in our view, statement of prosecution witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. cannot be used against appellant in present case.

32. One more fact, which was taken into account by the learned trial court against the appellant is that after the incident, the appellant could be arrested only after about one year and two months. In this regard, our considered view is that although arrest of the appellant after such a long period of time may create suspicion against him, but merely on this basis he cannot be convicted. Further, although, during investigation, the Investigating Officer moved an application under Section 82/83 Cr.P.C. against the appellant, but the application under Section 83 Cr.P.C. moved by the Investigating Officer was rejected by the trial court, therefore, merely on ground of delay in arrest, the appellant cannot be convicted.

33. Trial court also relied on a circumstance that in the ring ceremony (Sagai) function, appellant-Sanjay Sharma fired three celebratory shots, which shows appellant had used firearm on that day. In our view, this fact could not have been noticed as this fact does not emanate from substantive evidence. Though, it might be part of case diary. Perusal of the statement of S.I. Paan Singh (PW-9) shows that he received a C.D., which was given by the brother of appellant, and he noted the contents of the C.D. in the case diary too, but neither the C.D. was produced by the prosecution nor the contents of the C.D. noted in the case diary were proved during trial. Therefore, merely on narration of these facts in the case diary, it cannot be accepted that the appellant Sanjay Sharma fired three shots by way of celebratory fire.

34. Trial court also observed that there was an opportunity to the appellant to produce evidence in his defence, but he failed to do so. This observation, in our considered view, is misconceived. In a criminal trial it is the duty of the prosecution to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts and prosecution will have to stand on its own leg. The burden in the criminal trial is upon the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused. The prosecution cannot take advantage of the weakness of the defence case and, therefore, if appellant failed to produce any evidence in his defence, then also he cannot convicted. His conviction can only be recorded on the basis of substantive evidence.

35. Trial court further noticed that during investigation eye witnesses had filed their respective affidavits before the Investigating Officer to the effect that appellant is innocent but in any of the affidavit it was not mentioned as to who caused the death of the deceased. Further, on the basis of the affidavit filed by Virendra (PW-5), trial court drew an inference that there was pressure to compromise the matter. Whereas, PW-5 stated that the affidavit was typed by the villagers with the help of a lawyer and his signature was taken without reading out the contents of the affidavit to him. Hence, the affidavit cannot be taken as evidence. Similarly, Smt. Seema (PW-4) in her statement stated about the affidavit that the affidavit was prepared by the villagers with the help of a lawyer and the contents of the affidavit were not read over to her, therefore, the affidavit filed by PW-4 could also not be used in the evidence. The finding of the learned trial court that eye witnesses only with the intention to save the appellant did not support the prosecution case and have not given true facts in their statements during trial, in our view, is uncalled for and is also not sustainable, as it is based purely on surmises and conjectures. The trial court accepted the report of Forensic Science Laboratory to connect the firearm, recovered from the roof of Dev Dutt Sharma with the empty cartridge. But, admittedly, the country made pistol was neither recovered from the possession of appellant nor at his pointing out. There is no evidence in this regard that the recovered country made pistol belongs to him, therefore, it cannot be said that appellant was the person, who used the country made pistol in the commission of crime. Thus, conviction of the appellant under Section 25 of Arms Act is also unsustainable.

36. From the discussion made above, we are of the considered view that the prosecution, in the present case, has failed to prove the guilt of the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt and the evidence produced by the prosecution is of such nature, on the basis of which, the conviction of the appellant in the present case is not possible.

37. As a result, the appeal is allowed. The judgement and order of conviction as well as sentence recorded by the trial court vide order dated 8.6.2018 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.9, Bulandshahar in Sessions Trial No. 247 of 2017 (State Vs. Sanjay Sharma) arising out of Case Crime No. 69 of 2016, under Section 302 IPC and Sessions Trial No.69 of 2018 (State Vs. Sanjay Sharma), under Section 25 of Arms Act arising out of Case Crime No. 70 of 2016 are hereby set aside. The appellant is acquitted of all the charges for which he has been tried. The appellant (Sanjay Sharma) is said to be in Jail, he be set at liberty forthwith, if not wanted in any other criminal case. The appellant (Sanjay Sharma) will fulfill the requirement of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the trial court at the earliest.

38. Let a copy of this order/judgement and the original record of the lower court be transmitted to the trial court concerned forthwith for necessary information and compliance. The office is further directed to enter the judgement in compliance register maintained for the purpose of the Court.

A. Criminal Law – Rape - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 452, 375, 376 & 506 - SC/SCT Act, 1989 - Section 3(1)(xii).

Reformative theory of punishment – 'Principle of Proportionality' - Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically. (Para 13)

Law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. The criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system. (Para 14, 23)

This Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream. (Para 15)

Appellant is in jail for more than 14 years and the age of appellant at the time of occurrence was nearly 26/27 years. He has been awarded punishment u/s 376 IPC for life imprisonment which is very harsh. Court opined that ends of justice would be met if sentence of life imprisonment awarded u/s 376, I.P.C. is reduced to the rigorous imprisonment of 15 years and fine Rs. 10,000/-. The appellant shall undergo simple imprisonment for one year in case of default of fine. Amount of fine shall be paid to the prosecutrix as compensation. Conviction and sentence awarded for the rest of the offences shall remain intact. (Para 20, 21, 24, 25)

B. Evidence of hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant part thereof, which are admissible in law, can be used by prosecution or the defence. Evidence of a hostile witnesses would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. (Para 17, 18, 19)

Appellant was held guilty by the Trial Court on the basis of medical evidence and evidence of PW-3 Jaivir, who turned hostile after supporting the prosecution case while in examination in chief evidence of hostile witnesses cannot be discarded on this ground alone, but reliance can be placed on the testimony of hostile witnesses to the extent it supports the case of prosecution or defence. (Para 16)

Occurrence of this case took place on 17.4.2004 and the FIR was lodged on 17.4.2004 at 8.45 p.m. and medical examination of the prosecutrix (aged 3 years at that time) was conducted in hospital just after three hours. In medical examination hymen was fresh torn as evident from the medical report and there was injury of the size of length of 1 c.m.. It was bleeding also. Doctor expressed the possibility of rape and clearly stated in her cross examination that such types of injuries can be sustained by falling on any blunt object which includes Lathi or Danda but cannot include wood sticks. Learned trial court has committed no error in appreciation of evidence. The appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed. (Para 20)

Present appeal challenges judgment and order dated 16.11.2007, passed by Special Judge, SC/ST. Act, District –Etah.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. By way of this appeal, the appellant-Eeda Khan has challenged the Judgment and order 16.11.2007 passed by Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Etah in Session Trial No.406 of 2004 (State v. Eeda Khan) arising out of Case Crime No.116 of 2004 under Sections 452, 376, 506 Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as, "IPC') and under Section 3(1)(xii) of SC/SCT Act, Police Station-Aliganj, District-Etah whereby the accused-appellant was convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of four years under Sections 452, 506 IPC and 3(1)(xii) SC/ST Act and life imprisonment under Section 376 IPC. All the sentences were directed to run concurently.

2. The brief facts as per written report dated 17.4.2004, submitted by complainant, father of the prosecutrix at Police Station Alignaj, District Etah are that today on 17.4.2004 at about 7.30 p.m. his daughter (prosecutrix) aged about two and half years was lying in the courtyard of his house and wife of his elder brother Anjali was cooking the food. His wife Reena had gone to the shop nearby his house. By that time accused Eeda Khan of his village entered his house and raped his daughter (prosecutrix). On listening to her cry, Anjali came out and saw that accused was raping his daughter. On her hue and cry, his wife Reena and elder brother Mahaveer came there and then accused ran away from the house. When they tried to catch him, he showed countrymade pistol and fled away by giving life threat to them. On the basis of aforesaid written report, a first information report was lodged at Police Station Aliganj, District Etah as Case Crime No.116 of 2004.

3. Investigation was taken up by C.O., Aliganj. Investigating Officer visited the spot, prepared site plan and he recorded the statements of witnesses under Section 161 of Cr.P.C.. Medical examination of prosecutrix was conducted and medical as well as supplementary report was prepared. Pathologist's reports were also made part of the case diary. After completing the investigation, charge sheet was submitted by Invesigating Officer agianst the accused-appellant. The case being exclucively triable by court of sessions was committed to Sessions Court by competent Magistrate for trial.

4. The learned trial court framed charges against the accused-appellant under Sections 452, 376, 506 IPC and Section 3(1)(xii) SC/ST Act. The accused denied the charges and claimed to be tried. The prosecution so as to bring home the charges, examined eight witnesses, who are as under:-

1. Anjali P.W.1

2.	Mahavir	P.W.2
3.	Jaivir	P.W.3
4.	Reena	P.W.4
5.	Prosecutrix	P.W.5
6.	Rajveer Singh	P.W.6
7.	Dr. Surendar Patkar	P.W.7
8.	Dr. Sunita Sagar	P.W.8

5. In support of ocular version prosecution filed following documentary evidence and get it proved by leading evidence:

1.	F.I.R.	Ext. Ka-2
2.	Written report	Ext. Ka-1
3.	Injury Report (22.4.2004)	Ext. Ka-4
4.	Injury report (18.4.2004)	Ext. Ka-5
5.	Supplementary Report	Ext. Ka-6
6.	Site Plan with Index	Ext. Ka-7

6. After completion of prosecution evidence, statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. in which he said that he was falsely implicated in this case. No witness was examined in defence.

7. Heard Shri Sukhvir Singh, learned Amicus Curie for the appellant; learned AGA for the State; and also perused the record.

8. Learned counsel for appellant first of all submitted that in this case all prosecution witnesses of fact have turned hostile and nobody has supported the prosecution version. Learned counsel submitted that as per prosecution case, Smt. Anjali wife of Mahavir, who is elder brother of complainant, said to be the eye witness of this occurrence. She has been produced by prosecution as PW-1, but she has not supported the case as alleged by the prosecution. Learned counsel has submitted that PW-1 Smt. Anjali has specifically denied the factum of rape by appellant rather she has specifically stated that prosecutrix was playing inside the house and fall on wood sticks due to which she sustained injuries on her private parts. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that rest of the witnesses of fact, namely, PW-2 Mahavir, PW-3 Jaivir and PW-4 Smt. Reena are not eye witnesses although they have also turned hostile. Hence no witness has supported the prosecution case but learned trial court has convicted the appellant on the basis of medical evidence only.

9. Learned AGA submitted that it is correct to say that prosecution witnesses of fact have turned hostile but the complainant PW-3 Jaivir is father of the prosecutrix and he has fully supported the prosecutrix case in his examination in chief. His testimony fully corroborates the medical evidence also. Learned trial court has rightly appreciated the evidence and convicted the accused appellant.

10. After some arguments, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that he is not pressing this appeal on its merit, but he prays only for reduction of the sentence as the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh. Learned counsel also submitted that appellant is languishing in jail for the last more than 14 years.

11. This case pertains to the offence of 'rape', defined under Section 375 IPC, which is quoted as under:

[375. Rape.- A man is said to commit "rape" if he-

(a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(b) inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(c) manipulates any part of the body of a woman so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of body of such woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

under the circumstances falling under any of the following seven descriptions :-

First.- Against her will.*

Secondly.- Without her consent.*

Thirdly.- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested, in fear of death or of hurt.*

Fourthly.- With her consent, when the man knows that he is not her husband and that her consent is given because she believes that he is another man to whom she is or believes herself to be lawfully married.*

Fifthly.- With her consent when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind of intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.*

Sixthly.- With or without her consent, when she is under eighteen years of age.*

Seventhly.- When she is unable to communicate consent.*

Explanation 1.- For the purposes of this section, "vagina" shall also include labia majora.*

Explnation 2.- Consent means an unequivocal voluntary agreement when the woman by words, gestures or any form of verbal or non-verbal communication, communicates willingness to participate in the specific sexual act.*

Provided that a woman who does not physically resist to the act of penetration shall not by the reason only of that fact, be regarded as consenting to the sexual activity.

Exception 1.- A medical procedure or intervention shall not constitute rape.*

Excpetion 2.- Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.]*

12. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

13. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

14. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

15. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

16. Learned trial court has made the evidence of PW-3 Jaivir and medical evidence as the basis of holding the appellant guilty. Perusal of record shows that PW-3 Jaivir has turned hostile after supporting the prosecution case while in examination in chief evidence of hostile witnesses cannot be discarded on this ground alone, but reliance can be placed on the testimony of hostile witnesses to the extent it supports the case of prosecution or defence.

17. Hon'ble Apex Court in Koli Lakhmanbhai Chandabhai vs. State of Gujarat [1999 (8) SCC 624], as held that evidence of hostile witness can be relied upon to the extent it supports the version of prosecution and it is not necessary that it should be relied upon or rejected as a whole. It is settled law that evidence of hostile witness also can be relied upon to the extent to which it supports the prosecution version. Evidence of such witness cannot be treated as washed off the record. It remains admissible in the trial and there is no legal bar to base his conviction upon his testimony if corroborated by other reliable evidence.

18. In Ramesh Harijan vs. State of U.P. [2012 (5) SCC 777], the Hon'ble Apex Court has also held that it is settled legal position that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether.

19. In State of U.P. vs. Ramesh Prasad Misra and another [1996 AIR (Supreme Court) 2766], the Hon'ble Apex Court held that evidence of a hostile witnesses would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. Thus, the law can be summarized to the effect that evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant part thereof, which are admissible in law, can be used by prosecution or the defence.

20. It is very relevant to mention that occurrence of this case took place on 17.4.2004 and the FIR was lodged on 17.4.2004 at 8.45 p.m. and medical examination of the prosecutrix was conducted in hospital just after three hours. In medical examination hymen was fresh torn as evident from the medical report Ext. Ka-5. Dr. Sunita Sagar conducted the medical examination is produced before trial court as PW-8. She has stated in her statement that at the time of internal medical examination of prosecutrix hymen was found fresh torn and there was injury of the size of length of 1 c.m.. It was bleeding also. The age of prosecutrix was found three years. PW-8, Dr. Sunita Sagar has very clearly stated in her cross examination that such types of injuries can be sustained by falling on any blunt object which includes Lathi or Danda but cannot include wood sticks. She has expressed the possibility of rape in supplementary report. After perusal of medical evidence and other supporting evidence in this case, we are of the considered view that learned trial court has committed no error in appreciation of evidence. Hence we consider that the appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed. Hence, the conviction of the appellant is upheld. But since the learned counsel for appellant has not pressed this appeal on merit, we threadbare considered the principles of proportionality regarding the imposition of sentence by learned trial court. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that appellant is in jail for more than 14 years and he has been awarded punishment under Section 376 IPC for life imprisonment which is very harsh.

21. It is also submitted by learned counsel for appellant that appellant is in jail for more than 14 years and the age of appellant at the time of occurrence was nearly 26/27 years.

22. Learned AGA also admitted the fact that appellant is in jail for more than 14 years.

23. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

24. It is admitted fact that appellant is in jail for more than 14 years. Having in view the offence committed by the appellant, life sentence seems to be very harsh. Hence keeping in view the harshness of sentence of life term awarded to the accused-appellant, we are of the considered view that it should be reduced to a fixed term sentence. Hence, we opine that ends of justice would be met if sentence of life imprisonment awarded for the offence under Section 376 of I.P.C. is reduced to the rigorous imprisonment of 15 years and fine Rs.10,000/-.

25. Hence, the sentence awarded to the appellant by the learned trial court for the offence under Section 376 IPC is reduced to 15 years rigorous imprisonment and fine Rs.10,000/-. The appellant shall undergo simple imprisonment for one year in case of default of fine. Amount of fine shall be paid to the prosecutrix as compensation. Conviction and sentence awarded for the rest of the offences shall remain intact.

26. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed with the modification of the sentence, as above.

Civil Law - Motor Accident Claim - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Section 173 - Claim petition by widow of deceased - Insurance Company did not lead any evidence - Claim petition dismissed - Tribunal answered issue about the factum of the accident involving the offending vehicle against the claimant - Tribunal rejected evidence of PW-2 eye witness on the ground he did not carry the victim to the hospital soon after accident, number of the offending vehicle not figured in FIR, witness in not chasing and apprehending the bus, makes his presence doubtful - security personnel employed by the brick kiln, the Students' Hostel or the Mahendra Tractor Agency, not being called as witnesses by the claimant to prove the factum of accident - Held - once PW-2 had testified as an eye-witness to the accident, it was imperative for the Insurance Company to have produced evidence to rebut the claimants' case - Tribunal, in the absence of any evidence led by the Insurance Company, or by the driver or the owner, has committed a manifest error of law in disbelieving the claimants' case - Matter remanded to Tribunal to try and decide claim petition afresh (Para 23, 24, 28)

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a claimants' appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

2. By the impugned judgment and award dated 18.10.2012, the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge Court No.2, Faizabad has dismissed the appellants' Claim Petition No. 28 of 2012.

3. The motor accident claim arises from an accident that occurred on 24th of November, 2011 at 5:30 in the evening. The victim was one Surendra Kumar Verma. Verma was on his way to his in-laws from Faizabad after doing his days' work. He was proceeding to Village Pure Kashinath, Haripur Jalalabad, P.S. Cantt, District Faizabad, where his in-laws lived. Verma was hit by a Tata Bus bearing Registration No. UP 42B 1968, that is said to have been driven rashly and negligently. Verma, who was on his side of the road, was hit by the bus and crushed under its wheels. He sustained grievous injuries. The passers-by took him to the District Hospital, Faizabad, but he died on way to the hospital.

4. The claimant-appellant-Phoola Devi is Verma's widow. It is asserted in the claim that Verma was aged 30 years at the time of accident and was a healthy youngman. He was gainfully self employed as a mason and was also into farming. He had an income of Rs.9,000/- per month. The claim petition was instituted by Varma's widow alone, though in the column of dependents, besides the deceased's widow, Shiv Prasad Verma, his father, Bittan Devi, his mother, Vikas Verma, Vishal Verma and Abhishek Verma, his brothers are also shown. The claim made is for a sum of Rs.47,80,000/- together with interest.

5. A written statement was filed on behalf of Deo Narain Singh, who is the owner of the offending vehicle. He has acknowledged the fact of being the registered owner of the vehicle and the further fact that opposite party no. 2 to the claim petition, Awadhesh Kumar Singh, who is the third respondent here, is the driver. It was asserted that Awadhesh Kumar Singh had a valid driving license to drive the bus and commands experience on the job. It was pleaded that no First Information Report about the incident was lodged. It is averred that the offending vehicle is registered with the Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., Faizabad, with a policy valid upto 05.01.2012 until midnight. The further stand taken is that the offending vehicle was not involved in the accident. It was asserted that in the event the Tribunal reached conclusion that the offending vehicle was indeed the one involved, liability would fasten upon the Insurance Company to indemnify.

6. The second opposite party to the claim petition, who are second respondent here, that is to say, the Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., Faizabad, represented by its Regional Manager put in their written statement. The appellants' claim was denied. It was asserted that the Insurance Company dispute the factum of accident as also the involvement of the offending vehicle insured by them. It was pleaded that unless the claimant establishes the factum of accident, the Insurance Company had no onus. It was also pleaded that the Insurance Company deny insuring the offending vehicle as well as its validity, unless the registered owner of the vehicle does not prove those facts. The Insurance Company would have onus about the aforesaid fact after the registered owner established the vehicle's insurance and its validity. It was asserted that the registered owner has to prove that the driver possessed a valid and effective driving license and that in case the driver failed to establish a valid and effective driving license on the date of accident, the Insurance Company would have no liability. A plea was also raised that the owner of the vehicle has to establish the validity of other documents, authorizing him to ply the vehicle. The compensation claimed was dubbed as excessive. It was also pleaded that the claim petition is not in the prescribed proforma and was liable to be rejected.

7. The Tribunal, on the basis of parties' pleadings, framed the following issues (translated into English from Hindi vernacular):-

(i) Whether on 24.11.2011, at about 5:30 in the evening, when Surender Kumar Verma was proceeding from Faizabad after doing his day's work to his in-laws at Village Pure Kashinath, Haripur Jalalabad, P.S. Cantt, District Faizabad, Tata Bus No. UP 42B 1968, coming on from the direction of Faizabad, that was driven rashly and negligently by its driver, hit Surendra Kumar Verma, leading him to suffer serious injuries which resulted in his death?

(ii) Whether at the time of accident the vehicle bearing Registration No. UP 42B 1968 was insured with the office of the Oriental Insurance Company?

(iii) Whether vehicle bearing Registration No. UP 42B 1968, at the time of accident, was driven by a driver possessed of a valid driving license?

(iv) To what relief the claimant is entitled?

8. In support of the claim, a photostat copy of the First Information Report, a photostat copy of photo I.D. Card issued by Election Commission of India, a certified copy of the charge-sheet filed by the Police, a certified copy of the postmortem report, a certified copy of the site plan drawn by the investigating officer in the relative criminal case, besides a photostat copy of the death certificate of the deceased and the basic labour rate list have been filed. Phoola Devi, the claimant, entered the dock and testified in support of the claim petition as CPW1. One Keshav Ram was also examined in support of the claim petition as CPW2. On behalf of the owner and the driver, a photostat copy of the driving license, a photostat copy of the registration certificate of the offending vehicle and a photostat copy of the insurance cover note have been filed. No one testified orally on behalf of the owner and the driver.

9. The Insurance Company did not lead any evidence, either documentary or oral.

10. The crucial issue, on which the event has turned in the claim petition, is issue no.(i). It is about the factum of the accident involving the offending vehicle. This issue has been answered against the claimants and in favour of the respondents/opposite parties. It must be remarked that issue nos. 2 and 3 have been answered in the affirmative, holding that the offending vehicle was insured with the Oriental Insurance Company and that the driver held a valid driving license on the date of the accident. Nevertheless, on the basis of the findings recorded on issue no.1, the claim petition has been ordered to be dismissed.

11. Aggrieved this, the present First Appeal From Order has been preferred by the claimants, who, for some reason here, include all the dependents of the deceased shown in the claim petition.

12. Heard Mr. R.P. Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants and Mr. Waquar Hasim, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. No one appears on behalf of respondent nos.1 and 3.

13. Mr. Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants, submits that the findings on issue no.1 are based on conjectures and are perfunctory. He submits that the Tribunal has rejected the evidence of PW-2- Keshav Ram Verma, who is an eye witness to the incident. by doubting his presence on the scene of accident. He submits that these conclusions have been drawn by the Tribunal by judging the witness's conduct at the time of accident and soon thereafter, which, according to Mr. Shukla, has been projected as an imaginary model about the manner in which the witness ought to have acted, had he really been present at the scene of accident. And then a comparison of the witness's conduct has been made by the Tribunal to that model to disbelieve his presence.

14. The learned counsel for the Insurance Company, on the other hand, submits that the Tribunal has carefully evaluated the evidence on record and disbelieved the factum of accident. The Tribunal has considered the conduct of PW-2- Keshav Ram Verma, who claims to be an eyewitness of accident and rightly concluded that he was a got up witness.

15. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company, Mr. Waquar Hasim, also submits that the Tribunal has rightly opined that the evidence of PW-1 is hardly relevant because she is not an eyewitness at all. Her evidence is hearsay. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company has also laid much emphasis on the fact that the accident occurred at 5:30 in the evening and by that time, it is quite dark in the month of November. The Tribunal has rightly held that the witness's motorcycle was moving ahead of the offending vehicle, when the latter caused the accident and that, therefore, it is not believable that the witness could have seen the vehicle's registration number on the back side. The evidence of PW-2 has also been castigated by the learned counsel for the Insurance Company on the same lines as done by the Tribunal, on ground that this witness has said that he knew Verma personally and yet, after witnessing him suffer a serious accident, did not carry the victim to the hospital. Instead, he went off to Verma's home to inform his relatives about the accident. It is also submitted by the learned counsel for the Insurance Company that the postmortem report has been rightly read and understood by the Tribunal to infer that the injuries sustained by the deceased could well be the result of any kind of violence or occurrence. The injuries shown in the postmortem report do not show the victim's death to have been caused by a motor accident.

16. We have carefully considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for both parties and also perused the record.

17. This Court must say at once that the various inferences drawn by the Tribunal about the veracity of PW-2- Keshav Ram are indeed conjectural. The Tribunal has recorded the presence of PW-2 as one made up, because he did not carry Verma to the hospital soon after the accident. To this end, the Tribunal has reasoned that the witness says that he knew Verma and if that were the case, the conduct of the witness in not rushing the victim to the hospital, makes his presence at the scene of the accident impossible to believe. We do not think so. The deceased had suffered an accident, where he was crushed under the wheels of a bus. The precise manner, in which a person would react in a given situation, cannot be judged by stereotypes of behavior. There could be a great variation in responses based on the personality, training, the nature of the injury sustained by the victim and the other circumstances, such as ready help of others to ferry the victim to medical aid. A man with a timid heart or one who lacks confidence or by his training is not used to handling victims of a gory incident, may not have the guts of carrying an acquaintance or a friend in a badly or fatally injured state to the hospital. The decision to do so or not to do so can also be conditioned by the presence of others, who might have volunteered to take the victim to the hospital. Here, there is evidence that the victim was indeed taken to the hospital by the passersby. In these circumstances, if the witness thought it better to inform Verma's relatives about the misshappening, the fact that he did not, in the first instance, rush Verma to hospital, cannot make the presence of PW-2 doubtful. There is no evidence that PW-2 is into a kind of a job, such as a paramedic or a member of the Armed Forces, where he is trained to handle victims of serious injuries or accidents, particularly his acquaintances. Apparently, he is a man with no special training or particular station in life, that would equip him to readily rush the victim of a major accident to the hospital. There could be many more reasons for the witness not to carry the victim to the hospital, but this Court does not want to record further findings in the matter, considering the course of action which we propose to adopt in this case.

18. The other findings of the Tribunal that in case this witness had, in fact, read or noted the number of the offending vehicle, he would have communicated it to the members of Verma's family and in that case, it would have figured in the FIR lodged by the family on the following day, are equally flawed. This again is an assumption not based on responses of men, who were in the midst of a trauma. It is not unreasonable to believe that a person, who has seen a fatal accident, informs the family about it, but omits to mention the registration number of the offending vehicle. The family, who lodged the FIR on the following day, would not be in the best serenity of mind to script the FIR in all its minutest details. It is a bit unreasonable and pedantic to assume that the FIR, in not carrying the registration number of the offending vehicle, when lodged on the following day, shows that the witness PW-2 had never noted that number. In the melee that follows a mishap of this kind, there could be many a slip contributing to omission of the registration number in the FIR or even in a later statement.

19. The matter requires to be considered more carefully. There is then this finding recorded by the Tribunal that PW-2- Keshav Ram was riding a motorcycle and his presence is not believable because he did not give the offending vehicle, a bus, a chase and force it to stop. The Tribunal has most wildly conjectured to say that it is definite that the speed of a motorcycle is far greater than that of a bus and that, therefore, the witness not chasing and apprehending the bus, makes his presence doubtful. It is not always necessary that a motorcycle may move faster than a bus. It depends on the road conditions and many other factors. It also depends on the condition of the motorcycle as well as the bus and the technical specifications. There cannot be a generalization about it in the manner done by the Tribunal also. The task of giving a chase to a large vehicle, like a bus, on a two wheeler and bringing it to a halt, is no trifling, and an untrained man may never have the nerve to do it or the necessary skill. He may even fear for his own life that the once killer bus, in order to escape liability, may turn a twice killer. These are all possibilities that may have legitimately prevented the witness in opting for the course that the Tribunal has thought to be decisive about the falsehood of this witness's testimony.

20. Again, this Court refrains from expressing any final opinion, but wishes to indicate that these are possibilities which require more objective assessment.

21. The adverse inference drawn against the presence of this witness for his inaction in reporting the matter to the Police, has also been given undue weight. In the sequence of events, once the witness thought that he should rush to the family, informing the Police could have become a secondary priority. The victim had already been rushed to the hospital by those present on the spot, and the Police, in any case, had reached the hospital. There is then another finding recorded by the Tribunal, which says that PW-2 has admitted the fact that his motorcycle's headlight was functional, but that of the bus was not. It was, therefore, unnatural for the witness to have noted down the registration number of the vehicle at 5:30 in the evening when it is dark. It is beyond understanding how the non-functional headlight of the bus would prevent the witness, who had a working headlight on his motorcycle, from noting down its registration number. This conclusion recorded by the Tribunal is perverse. It is possible for the witness to have noted down the registration number of the bus from a distance of 10-15 feet at 5:30 in the evening of 24.11.2011, despite darkness setting-in, employing that headlight on his motorcycle that would have caught the rear number plate of the bus.

22. The other findings recorded is about the security personnel employed by the brick kiln, the Students' Hostel or the Mahendra Tractor Agency, not being called as witnesses by the claimant to prove the factum of accident.

23. In our opinion, once PW-2 had testified as an eye-witness to the accident, it was imperative for the Insurance Company to have produced evidence to rebut the claimants' case. The evidence of PW-2 is sufficient to discharge the claimants' onus on principle akin to Section 101 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The Act last mentioned though not applicable to proceedings before the Tribunal proprio vigore, the principle is well established.

24. Onus probandi is the burden to lead evidence on an issue that rests at a particular point of time on the shoulders of one party or the other. It shifts during trial and is different from burden of proof, which is the overall burden to be discharged on an issue. Here, the Insurance Company, as already said, has not led any evidence. The Tribunal, in the absence of any evidence led by the Insurance Company, or for that matter, by the driver or the owner, has committed a manifest error of law in disbelieving the claimants' case. There is too much of conjuncture running through every limb of the findings on issue no.1, recorded by the Tribunal.

25. Nevertheless, this Court does not wish to express a final opinion in the matter, inasmuch as we think that the case should go back to the Tribunal, who should try and re-determine it, affording further opportunity to both parties to lead such evidence, as may be advised.

26. This Court also notices the fact that the findings on issue nos.2 and 3, have been recorded rather cursorily, because the approach of the Tribunal was one under the shadow of its finding on issue no.1. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company says that those findings are also required to be gone into afresh, with opportunity to them to produce evidence in support of the pleas raised in their written statement. Learned counsel for the appellants also submits that the Tribunal has not framed any issue about the quantum of compensation claimed, which ought to have been framed. It is true that if the claim succeeds, as a result of return on other findings, which the Tribunal shall now do afresh, the quantum would have to be worked out. As such, the Tribunal ought to frame an issue about the quantum of compensation payable, about which too, parties would be at liberty to lead evidence.

27. Before parting with the matter, it is made clear that apart from the guidance about the approach of the Tribunal while judging issue no.1, this judgment shall not be regarded as an expression of opinion on the merits of the appellants' claim or against it. The Tribunal shall be free, bearing in mind what has been indicated hereinabove, to try and decide the matter afresh in accordance with law. It is also made clear that the evidence already on record shall be taken into consideration, together with any further evidence that the parties may now be advised to lead.

28. In the circumstances, this appeal partly succeeds and is allowed in part. The impugned judgment and award dated 18.10.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Additional District Judge, Court No.2, Faizabad in Claim Petition No.28 of 2012, Phoola Devi vs. Deo Narain and Others, is hereby set aside, with a remit of the matter to the Tribunal to try and decide the claim petition afresh, in accordance with the guidance in this judgment. It is also ordered that the Tribunal shall endeavor to decide the claim petition within a period of six months of the date of receipt a copy of this judgment.

29. Costs easy.

2. Sundar Bhai Ambalal Desai Vs St.of Guj. 2003(1), J.I.C.615, SC

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Rakesh Srivastava and Shri Madnesh Prasad Singh, learned AGAs for the State.

2. This petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs:

"(i) Issue a order or direction to set-aside the impugned order dated 03.03.2021 passed by the learned Court of Judicial Magistrate, Court No.11, Deoria, passed in Misc. No. 58/21 State vs. Krishna Kumar and others AND the order dated 13-08-2021 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Deoria in Criminal Revision No. 45/2021 C.N.R. No.- UPDEO1001041 2021 Ram Ashish Yadav vs. State of U.P. (Annexure No. 1 and 2 to this writ petition).

(ii) Issue a order or direction commanding and directing the learned Court of Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 11, Deoria, to act in accordance with law and release 4,00,300/- Rs., related with Case Crime No. 32/20 registered under section 60, 63, 72 of the Excise Act, P.S. Bankata, District Deoria, in favour of the petitioner forthwith."

3. The brief facts of the case are that on the basis of the FIR lodged by the opposite party No.2 at Police Station Bankata, District Deoria, F.I.R. No.0032 of 2020 was registered against the petitioner under Section 60, 63, 72 of the Excise Act. During the alleged raid of the house of the petitioner the police recovered Rs. 4,00,300/- which was said to have been obtained by the petitioner after the sale of liquor etc.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the allegations levelled against the petitioner regarding possession of liquor etc. is totally false and no such item has been recovered from the possession of the petitioner or from his house as has been alleged. Further submission is that the police has illegally entered in the house of the petitioner and taken away cash of Rs.4,00,300/- kept for expanses to be incurred in marriage of the petitioner's daughter. It is also contended that arbitrary and illegal act of seizure of personal rupees of the petitioner by the police is high handed, callous & capricious in nature and hence was challenged before both the learned courts below were under legal obligation to release the seized amount in favour of the petitioner but illegally the same has been negatived hence the impugned orders dated 03.03.2021 and 13.08.2021 are not sustainable in the eye of law and are liable to be quashed.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the prayer for releasing the currency notes recovered from the possession of the accused could not be withheld by the court till conclusion of the trial.

6. Further, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in case of Manjit Singh Vs. State LAWS(DLH)-2014-9-311 in which it has been held as under :-

"53. In Nidhi Kaushik v. Union of India, LPA No.736/2013, decided on 26th May, 2014, the Division Bench of this Court, in which I was a member, examined the aforesaid judgments and summarized the law as under:

"Consequences of refusing to follow well settled law If an authority does not follow the well settled law, it shall create confusion in the administration of justice and undermine the law laid down by the constitutional Courts. The consequence of an authority not following the well settled law amounts to contempt of Court as held by the Supreme Court in East India Commercial Co. Ltd. (supra), Makhan Lal (supra), Baradakanta Mishra (supra), M.P. Dwivedi (supra), T.N. Godavarman Thirumulpad (supra), Maninderjit Singh Bitta (supra), Priya Gupta (supra) and various High Courts in Hasmukhlal C. Shah (supra), Secretary, Labour Social Welfare and Tribunal Development Deptt. Sachivalaya (supra), C.T. Subbarayappa (supra), Parmal Singh (supra), Ex-CT Nardev (supra) and Head of Department, Air Force Station Amla."

Summary of principles of law The following principles emerge from the above judgments:

54. The properties seized by the police during investigation or trial have to be produced before the competent Court within one week of the seizure and the Court has to expeditiously pass an order for its custody in terms of the directions of the Supreme Court in Basavva Kom Dyamangouda Patil v. State of Mysore (supra), Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai v. State of Gujarat (supra 1), Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai v.

State of Gujarat (supra 2) and General Insurance Council v. State of A.P. (supra).

55. The Court has to ensure that the property seized by the police should not be retained in the custody of the Court or of the police for any time longer than what is absolutely necessary and in any case, for not more than one month.

56. If the property is subject to speedy and natural decay or if it is otherwise expedient to do so, the Court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of.

57. The expeditious and judicious disposal of a case property would ensure that the owner of the article would not suffer because of its remaining unused or by its misappropriation; Court or the police would not be required to keep the article in safe custody; and onerous cost to the public exchequer towards the cost of storage and custody of the property would be saved.

Time limit for release

58. Whenever a property is seized by the police, it is the duty of the seizing officer/SHO to produce it before the concerned Magistrate within one week of the seizure and the Court, after due notice to the concerned parties, is required to pass an appropriate order for its disposal within a period of one month. Valuable articles

59. The valuable articles seized by the police may be released to the person, who, in the opinion of the Court, is lawfully entitled to claim such as the complainant at whose house theft, robbery or dacoity has taken place, after preparing detailed panchnama of such articles; taking photographs of such articles and a security bond.

60. The photographs of such articles should be attested or countersigned by the complainant, accused as well as by the person to whom the custody is handed over. Wherever necessary, the Court may get the jewellery articles valued from a government approved valuer.

61. The actual production of the valuable articles during the trial should not be insisted upon and the photographs along with the panchnama should suffice for the purposes of evidence.

62. Where such articles are not handed over either to the complainant or to the person from whom such articles were seized or to its claimant, then the Court may direct that such articles be kept in a locker.

63. If required, the Court may direct that such articles be handed back to the Investigating Officer for further investigation and identification. However, in no circumstance, the Investigating Officer should keep such articles in custody for a longer period for the purposes of investigation and identification.

64. If articles are required to be kept in police custody, the SHO shall, after preparing proper panchnama, keep such articles in a locker.

Currency notes

65. The currency notes seized by the police may be released to the person who, in the opinion of the Court, is lawfully entitled to claim after preparing detailed panchnama of the currency notes with their numbers or denomination; taking photographs of the currency notes; and taking a security bond.

66. The photographs of such currency notes should be attested or countersigned by the complainant, accused as well as by the person to whom the custody is handed over and memo of the proceedings be prepared which must be signed by the parties and witnesses.

67. The production of the currency notes during the course of the trial should not be insisted upon and the releasee should be permitted to use the currency."

7. He further submitted that since there is no dispute about the fact that the currency notes belong to the petitioner, he is entitled for custody of the same in view of the provisions of Section 457 Cr.P.C.

8. He lastly submitted that the reason given by the learned Magistrate in the impugned order for rejecting the petitioner's prayer for releasing the currency notes of Rs.4,00,300/- in his favour is contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Sundar Bhai Ambalal Desai Vs State of Gujrat 2003(1), J.I.C.615, SC and hence the impugned order can not be sustained and is liable to be quashed.

9. Per contra learned AGAs made their submissions in support of the impugned order.

10. I have heard learned counsel for the parties present, perused the impugned order as well as other materials brought on record and the case law cited on the subject by the learned counsel for the petitioner. In view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Sundar Bhai Ambalal Desai (Supra) as well as this Court in the case of Manjit Singh (supra), the currency notes and ornaments etc. which are case property can not be withheld by the court till disposal of the trial only on the ground that such properties are case properties. The valuable articles like ornaments domestic articles and currency notes etc. which case property can be returned to the person entitled to the possession thereof. Section 457 of the Code lays down the provision for releasing the property seized by the police which is not produced before the Court during inquiry or trial. The provision under Section 457 of the Code is being extracted below:

"457. Procedure by police upon seizure of property-(1)Whenever the seizure of property by any police officer is reported to a Magistrate under the provisions of this Code, and such property is not produced before a Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial , the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof or if such person can not be ascertained respecting the custody and production of such property.

(2)If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit and if such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall , in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto, to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation"

11. As per requirement of the provisions under Section 457 of the Code the property which has been seized by the police under the provision of the Code and has not been produced before the criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof. In this case, what was required of the learned Magistrate was that he should have ascertained as to who was entitled to the custody of currency notes. After ascertaining the person entitled to the custody of currency notes he should have passed order for custody of currency notes in view of the provisions under Section 457 of the Code. The learned Magistrate rejected the application only on the ground that the currency notes were case property which were required to be produced during the trial but the custody of currency notes could not have been denied to the petitioner by the learned Magistrate, rather the property should have been disposed of by him in accordance with the provision under Section 457 of the Code . Thus the impugned order is bad in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside and the matter deserves to be remanded back to the learned Magistrate for his fresh decision in the matter in accordance with the provisions of Section 457 of the Code.

12. The impugned order dated 03.03.2021 passed by the learned Court of Judicial Magistrate, Court No.11, Deoria, passed in Misc. No. 58/21 State vs. Krishna Kumar and others AND the order dated 13-08-2021 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Deoria in Criminal Revision No. 45/2021 C.N.R. No.-UPDEO1001041 2021 Ram Ashish Yadav vs. State of U.P. are hereby quashed and the matter is remitted back to the learned Magistrate with a direction to him to dispose of the application moved by the complainant-petitioner afresh keeping in view of the Provisions of 457 of the Code within a period of three months from the date of production of certified/ computerized copy of this order before him.

Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Section 378 - Appeal against acquittal - Powers of appellate Court - while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court - in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasoning, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. (9, 14)

Accused charged for commission of offences under Sections 363, 366, 376 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 & also under Section 3/4 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - Special Judge (POSCO Act) acquitted the accused - incident occurred on 11.11.2019 and the F.I.R. was lodged on 25.12.2019 - there is no explanation for delay of one and half month in lodging the F.I.R. - Evidence of the prosecutrix in favour of the accused-respondent - She called the accused to her home and at 10.00 p.m. they went away - They got themselves married in the temple - both stayed in Mumbai and only after the complaint was lodged and F.I.R. was noted, prosecutrix came back - She conceived - She was taken to Mahila Police Station - Her medical test was performed - mother of the prosecutrix mentioned the age of the prosecutrix to be 20 years - Even in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the prosecutrix has mentioned that her age is 20 Years - All these facts go to show that she was not a minor - there was no forcible sex as per Section 375 of IPC - father of the prosecutrix only with a view to pressurize the accused and his family members lodged the F.I.R. - prosecturix has not supported the prosecution version - judgment of acquittal passed by the Trial Court confirmed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. The State has felt aggrieved as accused-respondent, Mankeshwar son of Ram Murat alias Bawali who was charged for commission of offences under Sections 363, 366, 376 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in brevity 'IPC') and also under Section 3/4 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (in brevity 'POSCO Act') in Sessions Trial No.91 of 2020 has been acquitted by the Special Judge (POSCO Act), Azamgarh vide order dated 5.8.2021.

3. The prosecution story as it unfurls from the record is that prosecutrix, the daughter of the complainant, when she was studying in class 11, the accused enticed her away. The incident occurred on 11.11.2019 when the prosecutrix/victim had gone to school. The accused even threatened them with dire consequences, but unperturbed by the dire consequence, the complainant lodged First Information Report on 25.12.2019 for commission of the aforesaid offences. The accused, having been committed to the Court of Sessions, denied the prosecution allegation and claimed to be tried. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined prosecutrix (P.W.1), Brijbhan, complaiant, (P.W.2), Shiv Prashad Mishra (P.W.3), Chandra Shekhar Yadav (P.W.4), Radhika Yadav (P.W.5), Dr. Roshan Ara (P.W.6) and Dr. Dharmendra Kumar Singh (P.W.7). The prosecution also filed documentary evidence so as to bring home the charges levelled against the accused-respondent.

4. Learned A.G.A. has taken us through the record and has submitted that the version of defence has been given more importance rather than sifting the evidence on record. The acquittal has resulted into perversity of the judgment and even on the contours for hearing the appeal against the acquittal, this is a clear case where the accused should be punished as done in the decision of the Apex Court in Guru Dutt

Pathak Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, LAWS (SC) 2021 (5) 5.

5. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that the version of the medical evidence has been given less importance to come to the conclusion that the prosecutrix was not a minor. It is further submitted that the learned Trial Judge has given undue importance to the fact that there was delay in filing of the F.I.R. though the delay has been properly explained. The incident occurred on 11.11.2019 and the F.I.R. was lodged on 25.12.2019. On this basis, it is submitted that the judgment of acquittal be reversed and the accused be convicted.

6. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in criminal appeals where accused has been held to be not guilty would require to be discussed.

7. The principles which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court, against an order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of "M.S. NARAYANA MENON @ MANI VS. STATE OF KERALA & ANR", (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

8. Further, in the case of "CHANDRAPPA Vs. STATE OF KARNATAKA", reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

9. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

10. In the case titled "STATE OF GOA Vs. SANJAY THAKRAN & ANR.", reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in appeals against acquital. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

11. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases titled "STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH VS. RAM VEER SINGH & ORS.", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in "GIRJA PRASAD (DEAD) BY L.R.s VS. STATE OF MP", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

12. In the case of "LUNA RAM VS. BHUPAT SINGH AND ORS.", reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

13. In a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case titled "MOOKKIAH AND ANR. VS. STATE, REP. BY THE INSPECTOR OF POLICE, TAMIL NADU", reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

14. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of "STATE OF KARNATAKA VS. HEMAREDDY", AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

"...This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

15. The Apex Court in "SHIVASHARANAPPA & ORS. VS. STATE OF KARNATAKA", JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

16. Further, in the case of "STATE OF PUNJAB VS. MADAN MOHAN LAL VERMA", (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

17. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10.It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

18. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption stands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

19. Provisions of sections 363, 366 & 376 read as follows :

"363. Punishment for kidnapping.--Whoever kidnaps any person from 1[India] or from lawful guardianship, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc.--Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; 1[and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall be punishable as aforesaid].*

[375. Rape.--A man is said to commit "rape" who, except in the case hereinafter excepted, has sexual intercourse with a woman under circumstances falling under any of the six following descriptions:--

(First) -- Against her will.

(Secondly) --Without her consent.

(Thirdly) -- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested in fear of death or of hurt.

(Fifthly) -- With her consent, when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

(Sixthly) -- With or without her consent, when she is under sixteen years of age. Explanation.--Penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape.

(Exception) --Sexual intercourse by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.] STATE AMENDMENT

(Manipur) --(a) in clause sixthly, for the word "sixteen" substitute the word "fourteen"; and

(b) in the Exception, for the word "fifteen" substitute the word "thirteen". [Vide Act 30 of 1950, sec. 3 (w.e.f. 16-4-1950) (made earlier than Act 43 of 1983)].

COMMENTS Absence of injury on male organ of accused Where a prosecutrix is a minor girl suffering from pain due to ruptured* hymen and bleeding vagina depicts same, minor contradictions in her statements they are not of much value, also absence of any injury on male organ of accused is no valid ground for innocence of accused, conviction under section 375 I.P.C. proper; Mohd. State of Gujarat, 1999 Cr LJ 3419 (Guj). Penetration Mere absence of spermatozoa cannot cast a doubt on the correctness of the prosecution case; Prithi Chand v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (1989) Cr LJ 841: AIR 1989 SC 702."

20. The learned Trial Judge has heavily relied on the decisions on which we also place reliance and come to the conclusion that there is no explanation for delay of one and half month in lodging the F.I.R. It is no doubt true that the decision of 1996 in the case of State of Punjab Vs. Gurmeet Singh and others, AIR 1996 SC 1393 has been also looked into by the learned Special Judge. Learned Special Judge while recording its finding as to the offence under POSCO Act has given cogent reasons and has relied on the oral testimony of Dr. Dharmendra Kumar Singh, Principal, Patel Inter College, and has come to the conclusion that the prosecutrix was major and has relied on the judgment of this Court in Sahnawaj Vs. State of U.P., 2011 (1) J.I.C. 02 Ald. The mother of the prosecutrix has also mentioned the age of the prosecutrix to be 20 years. Even in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the prosecutrix has mentioned that her age is 20 years. Thus, it can be said that offences under Section 363 & 366 are not made out.

21. We now turn to offence alleged to have committed under Section 376 of IPC. The evidence of the prosecutrix namely P.W.1 is also in favour of the accused-respondent. She had called the accused to her home and at 10.00 p.m. they went away. They got themselves married in the temple on 20.11.2019. They both stayed in Mumbai and only after the complaint was lodged and F.I.R. was noted, the prosecutrix came back. She had conceived and on 23.5.2020, she gave her statement that the police official read over what she had mentioned. She was taken to Mahila Police Station. Her medical test was performed. All these facts go to show that she was not a minor, there was no forcible sex as per Section 375 of IPC. We are convinced that the father of the prosecutrix only with a view to pressurize the accused and his family members has lodged the F.I.R.. The prosecturix has not supported the prosecution version.

22. After considering the facts and circumstances of the present case and appreciation of the evidence available on record, we are satisfied that it is not a case where the appeal can be allowed and the acquittal can be converted into conviction of the accused. Judgment in Guru Dutt Pathak (Supra) would not apply to the facts of this case.

23. In view of the above, judgment of acquittal passed by the Trial Court is hereby confirmed and the instant appeal on behalf of the State is dismissed with no order as to costs. Record and proceedings be sent back to to Court below forthwith. Bail and bail bonds are cancelled.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
&
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

(Oral Judgment by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 378 (3) of Criminal Procedure Code (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 6.7.2012.2017, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Mainpuri, in Session Trial No.299 of 2003 (State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Avaneesh Kumar) arising out of Case Crime No.67 of 2001 under Sections 363, 366 & 376 IPC and in Session Trial No.204 of 2004 (State of UP vs. Smt.Girja Devi, Viresh Kumar, Arvind Kumar and Rajveer) under Sections 363 & 366, Police Station-Bhongaon, District-Mainpuri, whereby the learned trial-court acquitted the accused-respondents.

2. The brief facts of this case are that on 24.2.2001, written report has been lodged by the complainant-Surendra Kumar alleging therein that at about 12:00 (afternoon) on 20.2.2001, when he and Rajesh (brother) were taking lunch at his house, the wife of the owner of his house along with her brother Avaneesh and Viresh Kumar reached there and told the complainat that some relatives had arrived at their house, therefore, she is taking his daughter, prosecutrix to help her in cooking the food. Since, those persons had terms to visit his house occasionally, therefore, he did not object to it, and, as such, those persons took his daughter with them. When the prosecutrix did not come back even in the evening, he reached at the house of Jang Bahadur in Village-Milika, but no one met him there. Thereafter, the complainant made efforts to trace out his daughter with above noted persons. During the course of search, Pradeep Kumar and Shanker Lal r/o Village-Alipur Khera, told him that they have seen the prosecutrix in the company of above persons at the Bhongaon road crossing at about 4:00 pm. The complainant made his best efforts to trace out his daughter, but in vain.

3. On the basis of this written report, a case was registered against the wife of Jang Bahadur, Viresh Kumar and Avaneesh. After registration of the case, the investigation followed. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the complainant and other witnesses, visited the site and prepared the site-plan. The prosecutrix was recovered on 8.11.2001 from the custody of accused Avaneesh Kumar during the course of investigation. After investigation, the Investigating Officer of the case submitted charge-sheet against the accused, namely, Arvind Kumar, Rajveer, Smt.Girja Devi and Viresh Kumar.

4. Accused-Avaneesh Kumar was charged under Sections 363, 366 & 376 IPC whereas Smt.Girja Devi, Viresh Kumar, Arvind Kumar and Rajveer under Sections 363 & 366 IPC. The case being exclusively triable by court of session was committed for trial to the court of session by competent Magistrate. Accused persons denied charges and claimed to be tried.

6. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced following witnesses, namely:

1.	Surendra Singh (Complainant)	PW1
2.	Rajesh Kumar	PW2
3.	Prosecutrix	PW3
4.	Dr.R.D. Yadav	PW4
5.	Constable Chandan Singh	PW5
6.	Dr.Smt.Sunita Sharma	PW6
7.	SI-D.C.Yadav	PW7
8.	Brijesh Bhadauria	PW8
9.	Retd.SI Ved Prakash	PW9

7. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	Written Report	Ex.ka1
2.	Pathological Report	Ex.ka2
3.	Chik Report	Ex.ka3
4.	Copy of GD Entry	Ex.ka4
5.	Medical Examination Report	Ex.ka5
6.	Supplementary Medical Report	Ex.ka6

8. After prosecution evidence, the accused persons were examined under Section 313

Cr.P.C. in which they told that false evidence has been led against them. They did not examine any witness in defence.

9. We have heard Shri Janardan Prakash, learned AGA for the State-appellant and perused the record. None appears for the acquitted accused-respondents.

10. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

11. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Narayana Menon @ Mani vs. State of Kerala and another, (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

12. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

13. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

14. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

15. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

16. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

17. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mookkiah and another vs. State Representatives by the Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu, reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

18. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

19. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

20. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

21. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

22. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

23. In the case in hand, the prosecutrix was above 18 years and the court-marriage of the prosecutrix was performed with the consent of the prosecutrix, therefore, it cannot be said that the accused committed rape upon the prosecutrix without her consent. The prosecutrix has nowhere stated that the accused committed rape upon her prior to the court-marriage. Hence, the remaining other ingredients of rape are also not attracted in the present case. PW3, namely, the prosecutrix has admitted in her deposition that her court-marriage was performed at Delhi and she lived with accused Avaneesh at Delhi for eight months as husband and wife and she used to put Sindoor at Delhi during that period. Dr.Sunita Sharma (PW6), who has medically examined the prosecutrix, did not find any injury on the person of the prosecutrix at the time of medical examination. Hence, the charge of rape is also not proved in the facts and circumstances of the present case.

24. Learned trial-court rightly appreciated the evidence on record. The evidence produced by prosecution does not inspire confidence at all as already held by learned trial Judge.

25. In view of above, we are of the considered opinion that no two views are possible and we cannot take different view from that taken by the learned trial-court. We also do not find any infirmity in the impugned judgment and order, therefore, we have no other option, but to concur with the findings recorded by the learned trial Judge.

26. The appeal sans merit and is dismissed, accordingly.

27. The record and proceedings be sent back to the court-below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Hon'bleVikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 378 (3) of Criminal Procedure Code (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 21.8.2001, passed by learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Banda, in Criminal Session Trial No.520 of 1995 arising out of Case Crime No.135 of 1992 under Sections 364/34, 323/34, 336/34 and 376 of Indian Penal Code (in short 'IPC'), Police Kotwali Dehat, District-Banda, whereby the learned trial-court acquitted the accused-respondents.

2. The brief facts of this case are that prosecutrix W/o Sadla Yadav R/o village Chhehraon, under precincts of P.S. Kotwali Dehat, district Banda was sleeping in her house on 30.7.92 in the night. All the accused persons came to her house at about 11 P.M. Accused Subedar Singh jumped into the house of prosecurtrix woke up, the accused entered in her room in the mean time, the house was locked from outside. The accused Subedar Singh caught hold of prosecutrix and dragged her in the courtyard. He was armed with gun (country made). Prosecutrix started crying and became much frightened. The accused asked her to hand over the keys. She was thrown away outside the house when she refused to handover the key. Accused Jageshwar, Munna and Rajju were present outside the house. These persons tied up prosecutrix and accused Subedar Singh also came out of the house. The accused persons had ligated the rope around the neck of prosecutrix and dragged her upto the bank of river Jamuna. Thereafter accused Subedar Singh, Munna Singh and Rajju committed rape upon her at the bank of Jamuna. Accused Jageshwar had assisted the accused persons at the house of prosecutrix but had not come to the bank of Jamuna while the rape was committed by the aforesaid three accused. All the accused were under the influence of liquor and committed rape one by one. Thereafter accused Subedar Singh hit prosecutrix at the point of left eye with butt of the gun. Thereafter she was stripped, by stripping her petticoat and sari. The petticoat was torn away and thrown. The sari was torn into pieces and her hands and legs were tied up with pieces of Sari and she was put in a boat. The boat was rowed in the middle of the river by the accused persons and the tied body of prosecutrix was thrown into the river. She was drowned and she started suffocating and thereafter she succeeded in releasing her hands and legs from the tying position and was pushed to the bank of river by heavy flow of water at the distance of 1 km. from the place she was thrown. Her left eye was not working due to injury. She remained sit at the bank of river the whole night and a person came there at about 4A.M. and made inquiry from her when prosecutrix narrated her story, the gentlemen provided her a lungi which she put on her body. She was brought to Kotwali Dehat on 31.7.92 and was medically examined. It is noteworthy that the matter of her kidnapping was reported by the Chaukidar of the village on 31.7.1992 at about 2.30 P.M. on the basis of which an unnamed F.I.R. was lodged U/s 364 I.P.C. and the police has already came into action after the registration of the F.I.R. prosecutrix was brought to District Hospital, Banda where she was medically examined.

3. On the basis of this report, Case Crime bearing No.135 of 1992 was registered against all the accused-respondents under Sections under Sections 364/34, 323/34, 336/34 and 376 of Indian Penal Code (in short 'IPC'), Police Kotwali Dehat, District-Banda,

4. Investigation started by SI-M.P. Pal, who recorded statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C., visited the spot, prepared site-plan and after completing the investigation, submitted charge-sheet against all the respondents. The case being exclusively triable by court of session was committed for trial to the court of session by competent Magistrate.

5. Accused Raju the main culprit died during the trial. Therefore, proceedings against him were abated. Learned trial-court framed charges against the accused Dharmendra and Subedar Singh, Munna Singh and Jagewshwar Singh under Sections 364/34,323/34, 376 and 336/34 IPC. Accused denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

6. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced following witnesses, namely:

1.	Prosecutrix	PW1
2.	Shiv Narain	PW2
3.	Maiyadeen	PW3
4.	Dr. P.M. Kalani	PW4
5.	S.I. M.P. Pal (IO)	PW5

7. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	Statement u/S 164 Cr.P.C	Ex.ka1
2.	F.I.R.	Ex.ka2
3.	Injury Report	Ex.ka4
4.	Injury Report	Ex.ka5
5.	Pathology Report	Ex.ka6
6.	Site-plan	Ex.ka7
7.	Recovery memo	Ex.ka8

8. We have heard Shri Ashwani Prakash Tripathi, learned AGA for the State-appellant.

9. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

10. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Narayana Menon @ Mani vs. State of Kerala and another, (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

11. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

12. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

13. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

14. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

15. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

16. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mookkiah and another vs. State Representatives by the Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu, reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

17. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

18. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

19. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

20. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. 21. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. 22. On the contours of the decisions referred herein above, the judgment of the trial court will have to be looked into. It is an admitted position of fact that the prosecutrix had old enmity and, therefore, it was alleged that the accused were roped in the aforesaid crime. The independent witness Devraj son of Jageshwar has opined against the statement of the prosecutrix.

23. The main accused Raju, who is alleged to have committed the rape, has passed away. The statement given by prosecutrix under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was also full of flaws. Contradictions in the statement of the prosecutrix are such that it has led to infirmity. Sattu who happened to be the husband of the prosecutrix has been examined in defence.

24. Findings recorded by the learned Sessions Judge in exonerating the accused, who had no role to play in the aforesaid crime, are reproduced herein below in verbatim :

"The defence witness D.W.1 Sadlu who happened to be the husband of the proscutrix has been examined in defence. He has stated that his wife prosecutrix disappeared from the house on 30.7.92 and did not turn back and came back the next day. When he made an inquiry she had told that some outsiders had dragged her but has not revealed the complicity of the accused persons. He has further stated that his wife is a lady of dubious character and she had been made a tool of certain influential persons of the village for falsely implicating the accused persons. He has further stated that she had illicit relations with one Mangal Singh of Village Pathri and, therefore, she has been acting at their behest. Though I do not find the defence story as gospel truth but in such confusing circumstances as unfolded against the accused persons might have been falsely implicated due to local rivalry.

25. It is evident from the record that there was oral rivalry and enmity and the prosecution story was not plausible story even as per the medical evidence, though there were multiple injuries found on her body, they were simple in nature. There was no injury on her private parts and therefore also we cannot differ with the view taken by the learned Judge.

26. Hence, in view of the matter & on the contours of the judgments of the Apex Court, we have no other option but to concur with the learned Sessions Judge.

27. The appeal lacks merit and is dismissed, accordingly.

28. The record and proceedings be sent back to the court-below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.

(Oral Judgment by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal, under Section 378 (3) Cr.P.C. at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 13.7.1987, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge-VIII, Agra, in Session Trial No.193 of 1986 (State vs. Anil Kumar and another) arising out of Case Crime No.96 of 1985 under Sections 366, 376, 376/114 and 201 IPC, Police Station-Jagdishpura, District-Agra, whereby learned trial Judge acquitted both the accused persons of all the charges.

2. Brief facts of this case are that a written-report dated 26.5.1985 was submitted by complainant, namely, Raj Narayan Sharma (father of the prosecutrix) stating that on 25.5.1985 at about 6:00-6:30 pm, his daughter, namely, the prosecutrix aged about 14 years, was coming to home after fetching a bucket of water from the well. At that time, Smt.Raj Kumari w/o Om Prakash Sharma was standing on balcony of her house. She called his daughter to her house. His daughter went to the house of Raj Kumari after giving bucket to him. After some time, his daughter came back crying. Her clothes were having blood. On hearing the hue and cry, Munna Lal, Bhagwati Prasad, Deena Nath, etc. gathered there. In front of all, his daughter told the entire story that Anil Kumar was already in the house of Raj Kumari and he forcibly caught her and tried to commit rape. She called Raj Kumari to save her, but Raj Kumari pushed her inside the room. Then Anil Kumar committed rape with her. Subsequently, Anil and Raj Kumari cleaned the blood from the floor of the room and Raj Kumari gave safe escape to Anil Kumar from backdoor of her house.

3. On the basis of above written-report, a first information report was lodged as Case Crime No.96 of 1985. Investigation was taken up by SI Bacchu Lal Verma. Investigating Officer visited the spot, prepared site-plan and statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were also recorded. During the course of investigation, medical examination of the victim was conducted and medical report as well as supplementary report were prepared. After completing the investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against the accused persons, namely, Anil Kumar and Raj Kumari. The case being triable exclusively by court of session was committed to the court of session for trial by competent Magistrate. The learned trial court framed charges against accused Anil Kumar under Sections 376 and 201 IPC and against Raj Kumari under Section 376/114 and 201 of IPC. Accused persons denied charges and claimed to be tried.

4. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced the following witnesses, namely:-

1.	Prosecutrix	PW1
2.	Raj Narayan Sharma	PW2
3.	Dr. Sudha Rani Agrawal	PW3
4.	Constable Parushuram	PW4
5.	S.I. Bacchoo Lal Verma	PW5

5. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documentary evidence was produced and contents were proved by leading the evidence :-

1.	Written Report	Ex.ka1
2.	FIR	Ex.ka4
3.	Medico Legal Examination	Ex.ka2
4.	Supplementary Report	Ex.ka3
5.	Report of FSL	Ex.ka13
6.	Copy of G.D.	Ex.ka9
7.	Site-plan	Ex.ka10

6. After completion of prosecution evidence, statements of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they denied the evidence and said that false evidence has been led against them. No evidence was examined in defence.

7. We have heard Shri Ashwini Prakash Tripathi, learned AGA for the State of UP as well as Shri Arvind Kumar, learned counsel for the accused respondents and perused the record.

8. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

9. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Narayana Menon @ Mani vs. State of Kerala and another, (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

10. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

11. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

12. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

13. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

14. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable.

Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

15. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mookkiah and another vs. State Representatives by the Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu, reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

16. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

17. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

18. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

19. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

20. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

21. Learned AGA submitted that prosecutrix and his father, both, have supported the prosecution version in their respective statements, but now the main accused Anil Kumar has passed away. Hence, now respondent accused-Raj Kumari is left, against which appeal remains to be decided. Learned AGA submitted that he was not submitting the factual and legal arguments against main accused Anil Kumar, since he is no more now. It is next submitted that role of remaining respondent, namely, Raj Kumari confines to the extent of abetment only and there is ample evidence on record to show that Raj Kumari called the prosecutrix to her house where Anil Kumar was already present. Raj Kumari also facilitated the commission of crime, i.e., rape by Anil Kumar. It is also in evidence that after the commission of rape, Raj Kumari gave the safe passage to Anil Kumar from backdoor of her house. Therefore, Raj Kumari should have been held guilty for abetment of commission of the crime, but the court below did not appreciate the evidence in this regard at all and acquitted respondent-Raj Kumari also.

22. Perusal of record shows that FIR of this case is delayed by a day. It is explained by prosecution that keeping in view social reputation, Raj Nath Sharma resisted the complainant to lodge FIR on the date of occurrence, but it is no where explained as to under what circumstances, the FIR was lodged on the very next day by the complainant. We have perused the oral testimony. PW1 prosecutrix narrated story in her statement as mentioned in FIR, but she did not tell that story to Investigating Officer in her statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C., which was recorded after 15-20 days of the occurrence. Prosecutrix has clearly stated whatever is asked by defence counsel in cross-examination was told to investigation officer, but this is not mentioned in her statement because accused-Anil etc. had greased the palm of Investigating Officer, but in our opinion, there is no iota of evidence in this regard, rather it is clear that narration of story as told in cross-examination by the prosecutrix was not told to Investigating Officer. Analysis of the evidence of prosecutrix (PW1) does not inspire confidence, mainly in the light of medical evidence. Prosecutrix was medically examined by Dr.Sudha Rani Agrawal, who was produced before the trial court as PW3. She has clearly stated in her statement that at the time of internal examination of prosecutrix, she did not find any mark of injury on her private-parts. Hymen was old torn and healed. It is also stated that there was no bleeding at all. Vaginal-smear was taken by doctor for chemical examination and supplementary report on record shows that no spermatozoa was found. In this way, the medical evidence does not support the version of prosecutrix at all.

23. In view of above, we are of the considered opinion that learned trial court rightly appreciated the evidence on record, the evidence produced by the prosecution does not inspire confidence as held by learned trial Judge. We cannot take a different view from that of taken by learned trial Judge. We also do not find any infirmity in the impugned judgment and order regarding the role of accused-Raj Kumari.

24. It is made clear that no argument is submitted by learned AGA regarding the role of respondent Anil Kumar, since he has passed away during the pendency of this appeal.

25. Therefore, in view of above discussion, facts and circumstances of the case, we have no other option, but to concur with the findings recorded by learned trial court. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

26. Hence, the appeal sans merit and is dismissed.

27. We are thankful to Shri Ashwini Prakash Tripathi, learned AGA for the State of UP and Shri Arvind Kumar, learned counsel for the accused respondents for ably assisting the Court.

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Shri Yogesh Kesarwani, learned counsel for revisionist, Mohd. Shakeel, learned counsel for respondents no. 2 to 6 and Shri Q.H. Rizvi, learned counsel for respondent no. 1.

2. This is a revision under Section 83(9) of the Waqf Act, 1995 by the Mutwalli of the Waqf challenging an order dated 20.06.2018 passed by the U.P. Waqf Tribunal, Lucknow in Execution Case No. 04 of 2001; Khawaja Raziuddin Vs. U.P. Sunni Central Waqf Board by which it has returned the records of the said execution case to the Civil Court for execution.

3. A Suit for specific performance of contract bearing R.S. No. 4 of 1981 was filed by the respondent in the civil court which was decreeed by the civil on 20.01.2001. Execution Case No. 4 of 2001 was filed for executing the aforesaid decree. As informed by Mohd. Shakeel, learned counsel the Board had challenged the said decree in Appeal which was rejected. Shri Yogesh Kesarwani, learned counsel for revisionist says that the revisionist-Mutwalli had challenged the judgment and decree in First Appeal which was dismissed on the ground of limiation. Thereafter, the matter was not taken any further either by the Board or by the revisionist- Mutwalli.

4. It is not out of place to mention that by an order dated 17.02.2018 the Court of Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. 2, Lucknow had transferred the records of the Execution Case No. 04 of 2001 referred hereinabove to the U.P. Waqf Tribunal Lucknow on the ground that in view of the Administrative Order of the High Court issued through the Registrar General dated 13.04.2016 and thereafter an order dated 23.02.2017 issued by the District Judge on the Administrative side all matters pertaining to the Waqf are to be transferred to the Tribunal. However, while doing so the civil court did not notice not consider the provisions of the Waqf Act, 1995.

5. It is not out of place to mention that the respondents no. 2 to 6 or their predecessor in interest opposed the transfer of the records of the Execution Case No. 4 of 2001 from the civil court to the Waqf Tribunal as is recorded in the order dated 17.02.2018 and subsequently, another application was filed before the Waqf Tribunal that it does not have the power to execute the said decree, which has been allowed.

6. Now, the revisionist- Mutwalli, who was the defendant in the Suit and whose objections under Section 47 CPC filed before the Civil Court in Execution Case No. 04 of 2001, prior to its transfer to the Waqf Tribunal, have been rejected on 07.11.2008 against which a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is pending before the High Court as informed by Sri Yogesh Kesarwani, learned counsel for revisionist and in which there is an interim order allegedly to the effect that any order in the execution proceedings shall abide by final decision in those proceedings under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has challenged the aforesaid subsequent order of the Tribunal dated 20.06.2018 sending back the records to the civil court for execution.

7. On a perusal of the order impugned before this Court which is dated 20.06.2018 it is revealed that the Tribunal was persuaded to return back the records for execution by the civil court in view of the provisions of Section 38 CPC as also Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995.

8. Now, the question before this Court is as to whether the Judgement and Decree dated 20.01.2001 passed in Regular Suit No. 4 of 1981 is executable by the civil court or by the Waqf Tribunal. In this context it may be pointed out that the Suit was for specific performance of contract. It was alleged that the Central Sunni

Waqf Board entered into a contract with the respondents no. 2 to 6 for sale of a property which was part of the Waqf in question, for various reasons, and as the Board did not perform its part of the contract, therefore, the Suit was filed for specific performance, which, as already stated, was decreed on 20.01.2001.

9. The Suit for specific performance was instituted by the predecessor in interest of respondents no. 2 to 6 in 1981. It is an admitted factual position that the objections of the revisionist- Mutwalli under Section 47 CPC before the civil court in Execution Case No. 04 of 2001 have already been rejected as noticed hereinabove subject of course to the proceedings under Article 277 of the Constitution of India which are said to be pending, if it is so.

10. According to Section 38 CPC a decree may be executed either by the Court which passed it, or by the Court to which it is sent for execution. The Court also notices the provisions of Section 37 CPC explains the expression- 'Court which passed a decree' it reads as under:-

"37. Definition of Court which passed a decree. - The expression "Court which passed a decree," or words to that effect, shall, in relation to the execution of decrees, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context, be deemed to include,-

(a) where the decree to be executed has been passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction, the Court of first instance, and

(b) where the Court of first instance has ceased to exist or to have jurisdiction to execute it, the Court which, if the suit wherein the decree was passed was instituted at the time of making the application for the execution of the decree, would have jurisdiction to try such suit.

Explanation.-- The Court of first instance does not cease to have jurisdiction to execute a decree merely on the ground that after the institution of the suit wherein the decree was passed or after the passing of the decree, any area has been transferred from the jurisdiction of that Court to the jurisdiction of any other Court; but, in every such case, such other Court shall also have jurisdiction to execute the decree, if at the time of making the application for execution of the decree it would have jurisdiction to try the said suit."

11. Now, the provisions of the Waqf Act, 1995 need to be considered. Judicial proceedings at the Tribunal are referred in Chapter VIII of the Waqf Act, 1995. Section 83 reads as under:-

"83. Constitution of Tribunals, etc.-- (1) The State Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute as many Tribunals as it may think fit, for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to a waqf or waqf property, eviction of a tenant or determination of rights and obligations of the lessor and lessee of such property, under this Act and define the local limits and jurisdiction of such Tribunals.

(2) Any mutawalli or person interested in a waqf or any other person aggrieved by an order made under this Act, or rules made thereunder, may make an application within the time specified in this Act or where no such time has been specified, within such time as may be prescribed, to the Tribunal for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to the waqf.

(3) Where any application made under sub-section (1) relates to any waqf property which falls within the territorial limits of the jurisdiction of two or more Tribunals, such application may be made to the Tribunal within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the mutawalli or any one of the mutawallis of the waqf actually and voluntarily resides, carries on business or personally works for gain, and, where any such application is made to the Tribunal aforesaid, the other Tribunal or

Tribunals having jurisdiction shall not entertain any application for the determination of such dispute, question or other matter:

Provided that the State Government may, if it is of opinion that it is expedient in the interest of the waqf or any other person interested in the waqf or the waqf property to transfer such application to any other Tribunal having jurisdiction for the determination of the dispute, question or other matter relating to such waqf or waqf property, transfer such application to any other Tribunal having jurisdiction, and, on such transfer, the Tribunal to which the application is so transferred shall deal with the application from the stage which was reached before the Tribunal from which the application has been so transferred, except where the Tribunal is of opinion that it is necessary in the interests of justice to deal with the application afresh.

(4) Every Tribunal shall consist of -

(a) one person, who shall be a member of the State Judicial Service holding a rank, not below that of a District, Sessions or Civil Judge, Class I, who shall be the Chairman;

(b) one person, who shall be an Officer from the State Civil Services equivalent in rank to that of the Additional District Magistrate, Member;

(c) one person having knowledge of Muslim law and jurisprudence, Member, and the appointment of every such person shall be made either by name or by designation.

(4)(A) The terms and conditions of appointment including the salaries and allowances payable to the Chairman and other Members other than persons appointed as ex officio members shall be such as may be prescribed.

(5) The Tribunal shall be deemed to be a civil court and shall have the same powers as may be exercised by a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), while trying a suit, or executing a decree or order.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), the Tribunal shall follow such procedure as may be prescribed.

(7) The decision of the Tribunal shall be final and binding upon the parties to the application and it shall have the force of a decree made by a civil court.

(8) The execution of any decision of the Tribunal shall be made by the civil court to which such decision is sent for execution in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908).

(9) No appeal shall lie against any decision or order whether interim or otherwise, given or made by the Tribunal:

Provided that a High Court may, on its own motion or on the application of the Board or any person aggrieved, call for and examine the records relating to any dispute, question or other matter which has been determined by the Tribunal for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of such determination and may confirm, reverse or modify such determination or pass such other order as it may think fit."

12. Sub-section (5) of Section 83 of Waqf Act, 1995 says that the Tribunal shall be deemed to be a civil court and shall have the same powers as may be exercised by a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, while trying a suit, or executing a decree or order. The nature and scope of this provision is with regard to conferring the status of a deemed civil court upon the Tribunal for certain purposes i.e. for trial of a suit or executing of a decree or order and essential and substantially it is a provision deeming it to be a civil court for certain purposes. As regards execution of the decisions of the Tribunal a separate provision is contained in Sub-section (8) of Section 83 of the Act, 1995 which says that the execution of any decision of the Tribunal shall be made by the civil court to which such decision is sent for execution in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Sub-section 8 of Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995 leaves no doubt that the Tribunal does not itself have any power to execute any decision taken by it and is required to send the same for execution in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure to the civil court. If Sub-section 5 of Section 83 of the Act, 1995 is read, understood and applied as conferring powers upon the Tribunal to executive any decree or order passed by it, then, it would render Sub-section (8) superfluous and otiose. On the other hand if Sub-section (8) of Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995 is read and understood as it is on a simple and bare reading of it, then, it will not render Sub-section (5) of Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995 otiose for the reason, as already stated that, Sub-section (5) essentially deals with the issue of Tribunal being treated as deemed civil court for certain purposes and it can not be understood and applied as a provision vesting powers of execution upon the Tribunal unless it is provided elsewhere in the Act. Therefore, what Sub-section (5) of Section 83 means is that if the Tribunal otherwise has powers to execute a decree or order, then, it will be deemed to be a civil court for the said purpose also. However, if it does not have the power to execute its decision, which is to be treated as a decree under Sub-section (7) of Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995, then, Sub-section (5) of Section 83 of the Act, 1995 can not be pressed into the service to confer such power of execution upon the Tribunal.

13. Rules known as the U.P. Waqf Tribunal Rules, 2017 have been framed under Section 109 of the Waqf Act, 1995, but, the said Rules do not help the casue of the revisionist, as, they only provide for payment of Court fee on an application for exectuion as prescribed by the Court Fees Act, 1870 which obvisouly has to be sent to the civil court for execution as already discussed.

14. As regards the provisions of Section 37 and the explanation of the term 'Court which passed a decree' as contained in Clause- (b) thereof which says that where the Court of first instance has ceased to exist or to have jurisdiction to execute it, the Court which, if the suit wherein the decree was passed was instituted at the time of making the application for the execution of the decree, would have jurisdiction to try such suit, as, the Waqf Tribunal does not have the jurisdiction in the first place to execute such decree or decision, therefore, this provision does not make any difference to the legal or factual position in this case. If the Tribunal had the jurisdiction to execute the decree, then, of course this provisions would have relevance.

15. Shri Yogesh Kesarwani, learned counsel for revisionist could not point out any such provision under which the Waqf Tribunal had the power to execute a decree passed by the civil court.

16. Based on a conjoint and harmonious reading and interpretation of the aforesaid provisions, this Court concludes that the Tribunal does not have the power to execute its decisions and has to send the same to the civil court for execution in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

17. Now, having said so, this Court is of the opinion that the order passed by the civil court on 17.02.2018 transferring the records of the execution case no. 04 of 2001 to the U.P. Waqf Tribunal merely on the basis of the orders of the Registrar General and the District Judge on the Administrative side which were general orders and not specifically with regard to execution of any decree without any application of judicial mind, was incorrect and unsustainable. Generally speaking no doubt after coming into force of the Waqf Act, 1995 all matters where there is a dispute relating to Waqf have to be transferred to the Waqf Tribunal for adjudication, but, in a case where the decree has been passed and execution is going on before the civil court, the question to be considered was as to whether the Tribunal has power to execute such decree which as stated hereinabove it does not have, but, this aspect of the matter was not considered. No doubt the order dated 17.02.2018 was not challenged by the respondents herein but then the question involved herein is one of the jurisdiction and merely because it was not, it can not confer jurisdiction upon the Tribunal to execute the decree dated 20.01.2001. In this view of the matter we hold that the Tribunal was justified and correct in transferring the records of Execution Case No. 4 of 1981 back to the civil court for execution by its order dated 20.06.2018, which does not suffer from any error.

18. Whether the civil court had jurisdiction to pass the decree dated 20.01.2001 or not was raised an objection by the revisionist-Mutawalli under Section 47 CPC before the civil court when the decree was being executed by it and the same has already been rejected, against which a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is pending, therefore, subject to whatever orders have been passed in those proceedings under Article 227 of the Constitution of India or which may be passed hereinafter, this Court is of the opinion that there is no jurisdictional error whatsoever in the order dated 20.06.2018 passed by the Waqf Tribunal, as, it is the civil court which passed the decree which has the jurisdiction to execute it.

19. The Court asked the learned counsel as to what is the practice for the parties in the Waqf Tribunal whether the decisions taken by it are executed by it or sent to the civil court learned counsel very fairly informed the Court that they are sent to the civil court for execution but also sated that the civil court does not execute the same for some reason. The Court has now cleared the legal position, therefore, hopefully this will be adhered.

20. Seciton 37 will not come in the way of exectuion of decisons taken by the Waqf Tribunal which has the force of decree of a civil court under Sub-section (7) of Section 83 in view of the specific stipulation contained in Section 83(8) of the Act, 1995 which has been discussed hereinabove and the civil court will be obliged to execute such decisions of the Waqf Tribunal, if they are sent for execution.

21. The revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

6. Raju Pillai & ors. Vs P. Paramasivan & ors., AIR 1995 MAD 253

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. In this case, Mr. H.M.B. Sinha, learned Counsel for the respondents has raised a preliminary objection in opposition to the motion to admit this revision to hearing. He says that this revision is not maintainable. Mr. Sinha submits that the order impugned is an order granting leave under Section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short, "CPC'), which is revisable. According to him, it is almost an administrative order and a matter between the applicant for leave and the Court. Therefore, the revisionists, who are opposite parties nos.4 and 5 to the Application under Section 92 CPC, are not entitled to maintain this revision. They can contest the suit, that comes into existence upon grant of leave by the order impugned.

2. Reliance has been placed by the learned Counsel for the respondents upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Ghat Talab Kaulan Wala v. Baba Gopal Dass Chela Surti Dass (Dead) by LR Ram Niwas, (2020) 13 SCC 50 and particularly upon the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in B.S. Adityan and others v. B. Ramachandran Adityan and others, (2004) 9 SCC 720.

3. Learned Counsel has also drawn the attention of this Court to a decision of our Court in Ambrish Kumar Singh vs. Raja Abhushan Bran Bramhshah and others, AIR 1989 All 194. Also, relied upon by the learned Counsel for the respondents, to say that this revision is not maintainable is the decision of the Madras High Court in G.R. Govindarajulu and Sons Charities, Coimbatore and 2 others v. R. Sethurao and 12 others, 1998 SCC OnLine Mad 292.

4. On the other hand, learned Counsel for the revisionists, Mr. Dharm Vir Jaiswal, has submitted that the objection as to maintainability is ill-founded. He submits that the general principle that an order granting leave under Section 92 CPC is not revisable may be true, but not in a case, where the grant of leave would amount to an abuse of process of Court. He particularly submits that relating to this trust an earlier suit being Original Suit no.8 of 1995, under Section 92 CPC was instituted by the revisionist, seeking to frame a scheme for the management of the trust and to appoint him a trustee. He has been appointed as the Chief Trustee by virtue of the decree dated 24.12.2001 passed in O.S. no.8 of 1995, which too is a class action with a judgment that binds all persons holding an interest in the instant public religious trust. The decree there has appointed the revisionist as the Chief Trustee and the Sarvarakar, besides Brahmadatt Mishra, Gyan Prakash, Vimal Chandra Awasthi and B.L. Narang as the other trustees.

5. In this background, if fresh leave under Section 92 CPC were granted, it would amount to a parallel invocation of the Court's jurisdiction under Section 92 CPC, where it has already been invoked and a scheme for the management of the trust is in force. If the respondents, who have applied for leave feel that the revisionists or the other trustees are abusing their office or mismanaging the affairs of the trust, they can apply to the Court that passed the decree dated 24.12.2001 in O.S. no.8 of 1995 to remove them and appoint other trustees, or may be for a modification of the scheme to manage the trust. In no case, however, leave could be granted afresh under Section 92 CPC in respect of same trust, where the said jurisdiction has been once exercised by the Court. The exercise of powers, therefore, is an utter abuse of process of Court and the impugned order deserves to be set aside.

6. I have considered the rival submissions. It is true that the power under Section 92 CPC in respect of the same trust is exerciseable once and is not to be invoked by a fresh suit over and over again. A decree under Section 92 is the result of a class action, where those who apply for leave and become plaintiffs represent a class of persons, all of whom are bound by the outcome. Once the Court frames a scheme or appoints a Board of Trustees, it is always open to one of the represented community or class to come forward and apply to the same Court to remove the trustees, about whom it can be shown that they are abusing their position or misusing the office or mismanaging the affairs of the trust. A modification of the scheme can also be made by the Court that has once exercised jurisdiction; and, depending on the circumstances obtaining a new scheme may also be framed. But, the question is whether a Revision again an order granting leave, even in the background of an existing decree relating to the same trust passed by the Court under Section 92 CPC, is maintainable. It is true that an order passed on an application under Section 92 CPC is not required to be an speaking order though it should disclose application of mind.

7. This Court in Mahant Sita Ram Das and another vs. Ram Chandra Arora and others, 1988 ALL. L.J. 259, held:

"4. It has now to be seen as to whether the District Judge while granting leave under section 92 C.P.C. has to pass a detailed speaking order. It is true that the order granting leave by the District Judge is a judicial order and should indicate that the District Judge applied his mind before granting leave. However, as rights of the parties are not affected, it is not necessary to pass detailed order but it would suffice if the order indicates that it has been passed by the District Judge after due application of mind."

8. Of particular relevance to the issue are the remarks of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in B.S. Adityan and others (supra), where it is said:

"9. ..... Although as a rule of caution, court should normally give notice to the defendants before granting leave under the said section to institute a suit, the court is not bound to do so. If a suit is instituted on the basis of such leave, granted without notice to the defendants, the suit would not thereby be rendered bad in law or non-maintainable. Grant of leave cannot be regarded as defeating or even seriously prejudicing any right of the proposed defendants because it is always open to them to file an application for revocation of the leave which can be considered on merits and according to law or even in the course of suit which may be established that the suit does not fall within the scope of Section 92 CPC. In that view of the matter, we do not think, there is any reason for us to interfere with the order made by the High Court."

9. In Ambrish Kumar Singh (supra), it was held by this Court, thus:

"11. So far as Section 92, Civil Procedure Code is concerned it does not contemplate of giving any notice to the proposed defendants before granting leave. However, it has been held by the decision of this Court reported in 1987 All LJ 369, Mahanth Gurmukh Das v. Bhupal Singh, that the proceedings under S.92, C.P.C. are judicial proceedings and the order of the District Judge is a judicial order. The Court should pass the order after hearing the defendants. It is not necessary to pass a detailed order. It is sufficient if the order indicates that it is the result of the due application of mind of the Judge. May be that he has not written very elaborate order which in my opinion it was actually not needed. There is application of mind. Moreover, I see no jurisdictional error or illegal exercise of jurisdiction."

10. The Madras High Court in Raju Pillai and others v. V. P. Paramasivan and others, AIR 1995 MAD 253 after an extensive review of authorities about the maintainability of a revision against an order granting leave under Section 92 CPC held:

"25. Taking into consideration the law enunciated by the Apex Court and various High Courts, it is clear that while refusing to grant sanction to institute a suit or otherwise, the Court is not deciding the rights of parties, and that the function which was being done by the Advocate-General till 1976 is being vested with the Court now. The effect is, though it is an Order of the Court, it is not discharging a judicial or quasi judicial function. It only authorises a party to institute a suit in the place of the Advocate-General. The effect is, whether the Advocate-General instituted the suit, or the authorised persons institute the suit, the rights of the proposed defendants are not affected the rights of the parties are also not determined. If no rights of the parties are affected, and there is no decision rendered by the Court, it follows that it is not a case decided, and hence a revision under S. 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure is not maintainable."

11. Yet again, in the case of G.R. Govindarajulu and Sons Charities (supra), it has been held by the Madras High Court that a revision against an order granting leave is not maintainable. In the aforesaid decision, it has been held:

"15. In a recent decision of our High Court in Tirupattur Nagarathu Vysiyargal Sangam v. Tirupattur Periyakulam Nandavanam Inam Land tenants Association (1998 1 M.L.J. 303) Their Lordships held that the leave granted even without hearing the proposed defendant is not justifiable under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

16. I also had an occasion to consider a similar question in Raju Pillai and 4 others v. V.P. Paramasivam and 7 others (1995 1 L.W. 518) wherein I have held that a revision under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure or a revision under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable.

17. In this connection, it is worthwhile to note that in all these decisions cited supra reference is made to the decision of Supreme Court in R.M. Narayana Chettiar v. N. Lakshmana Chettiar (A.I.R. 1991 S.C. 221 = 1990 2 L.W. 468) Their Lordships, in para 17 of the judgment have held that the grant of leave is a condition precedent against a public trust. Their Lordships further said that merely because notices were not given to the proposed defendents before the grant of leave, the leave granted will not become invalid or void. Likewise if no rreason in the order is given, that will not make the leave invalid and there is remedy in such cases. Their Lordships also held that grant of leave cannot be regarded as defeating or even seriously prejudicing any right of the proposed defendents because it is always open to them to file an application for revocation of the leave which can be considered on merits and according to law.

18. Considering the case law, it cannot be doubted that this revision is not maintainable. The petitioners submitted that they have already filed an objection before Court and contested the application that the same should not be granted. Learned counsel apprehended that if there is already an order against them, it would prevent them from filing an application for revoking the leave.

19. "I do not think that such a submission is in any way correct. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is invoking the principle of res judicata in the case. Once it is declared by the Supreme Court as well as by this Court that the order is administrative in character and same does not affect the rights of the parties, nor there is prejudice to the proposed defendant, there is no scope for application of res judicata in such cases". If any specific decision is required in that regard I would only refer to the decision in Simon v. Advocate General (1975 K.L.T 78) corresponding to A.I.R. 1975 Kerala - 38 which is followed in Kannan Adiyta's case cited supra.

27. In view of the declaration of law by this Court and the Supreme Court, leave alone is granted. After granting of leave, a suit is instituted. Thereafter the Court functions as a Court of law. At that time, the petitioners or any persons, who are also likely to be impleaded can very well bring to the notice of the Court that the leave was granted without taking into consideration the relevantt materials or that the principles settled for granting leave were not followed etc. and can apply to have the leave revoked. That power is given to the Court of law."

12. No doubt, the case here presents a background where this Court thinks that the decree passed in the earlier suit ought to be taken into account to judge, whether a subsequent suit also under Section 92 CPC relating to the same trust is at all maintainable, but that would not render the order granting leave under Section 92 CPC amenable to our revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 CPC. The reason is far too obvious. The impugned order does not decide any rights of parties and is made at the stage before the suit comes into being. Of course, it is open to the revisionist to apply for revocation of leave to the Court that has made the order impugned and if that application is made, the Trial Court would be bound to dispose of that application on merits before proceeding with the suit. So far as this revision goes, it is held to be not maintainable and liable to be dismissed as such.

13. This revision is, accordingly, dismissed as not maintainable. There shall be no order as to costs.

"31. —:अवधार्य बिन्दु सं0 4 का निस्तारण:—

4— क्या याचीगण किसी प्रकार का प्रतिकर प्राप्त करने के अधिकारी हैं? यदि हां, तो कितनी धनराशि और किस विपक्षी से?

32. उपरोक्त समस्त परिचर्चा के आधार पर यह स्पष्ट हो चुका है कि दिनांक 24.12.2012 को शाम 04:20 पर रेहरा बाबागंज रोड पर भुतहा ताल के पास केराडीह गांव के पास मोटरसाईकिल पंजीयन सं0 यू0पी0 43एन0 4694 चालक वाहन को तीव्रगति व लापरवाही से चलाकर अनिल कुमार की मोटरसाईकिल में टक्कर मार दिया, जिससके अनिल कुमार को गम्भीर व प्राण—घातक चोटें आयी, जिसके फलस्वरूप अनिल कुमार की मृत्यु हो गयी। तदनुसार याचीगण प्रतिकर पाने के अधिकारी हैं। याचीगण के पक्ष में निकले गये निष्कर्ष एवं उपलब्ध साक्ष्य के आधार पर याचीगण प्रतिकर मय ब्याज प्राप्त करने के अधिकारी हैं।

33. कथित दुर्घटना के समय मोटरसाईकिल पंजीयन सं. यू0पी0 43एन0 4694 इफको टोकिया जनरल इन्श्योरेन्स क0लि0 से बीमित थी और वाहन का परिचालन विपक्षी सं0 1 महेन्द्र कुमार द्वारा बीमा की शर्तो के अनुपालन में किया जा रहा था इसलिए समस्त प्रतिकर अदा करने की जिम्मेदारी विपक्षी सं0 2 इफको टोकिया जनरल इन्श्योरेन्स क0लि0 की होगी।

34. प्रतिकर की धनराशि कितनी होगी इस बिन्दु का निस्तारण करने से पूर्व न्यायाधिकरण द्वारा दुर्घटना के समय मृतक अनिल की आयु, मासिक और वार्षिक आय का अंकलन किया जाना न्यायोचित होगा।

35. —:मृतक की आयु का निर्धारण:—

याचीगण ने याचिका में मृतक की आयु 27 वर्ष होना अंकित की है, परन्तु मृतक की आयु के सम्बन्ध में शैक्षिक प्रपत्र पत्रावली में दाखिल नहीं किया है। याची द्वारा दाखिल पोस्ट मार्टम रिपोर्ट में मृतक अनिल कुमार की आयु 29 वर्ष अंकित है और मृतक अनिल चन्द्रिका वर्मा पुत्र चन्द्रिका हितई

वर्मा का आयकर विभाग द्वारा जारी पेनकार्ड नं0 AKHPV1686L में मृतक अनिल वर्मा की जन्मतिथि 12.09.1989 अंकित है। यही जन्मतिथि महाराष्ट्र राज्य मोटर ड्राइविंग लाईसेंस द्वारा अनिल वर्मा के पक्ष में जारी चालन अनुज्ञप्ति–पत्र में अंकित है। ऐसी स्थिति में याचिका एवं पोस्टमार्टम आख्या में मृतक की आयु क्रमश 27 एव 29 वर्ष गलत साबित होती है, क्योंकि घटना दिनांक 24.12.2012 को पेनकार्ड व डी0एल0 में अंकित जन्मतिथि के आधार पर मृतक की आयु दुर्घटना के समय लगभग 23 वर्ष 03 माह 13 दिन होना साबित होती है। याचिका में दाखिल प्रपत्रों के आधार पर न्यायाधिकरण की राय में मृतक अनिल कुमार की आयु दुर्घटना के समय 23 वर्ष अवधारित किया जाना न्यायोचित प्रतीत होता है।

36. –ःमासिक आयः–

याचिका में याचीगण ने मृतक को 25000/– रूपये प्रति माह की औसत आय पी0ओ0पी0 के कारोबार से कमाना कहा है और उसकी मासिक आय मु0 25000/– रूपये प्रति माह याचिका में अंकित की है। याचिका में मृतक को पी0ओ0पी0 का बेहतरीन कारीगर व ठेका लेकर लेबर से कार्य करवाना कहा है। मृतक ठेकेदार था और वह ठेका लेकर लेबर से कार्य करवाता था इस सम्बन्ध में मृतक का ठेकेदारी का पंजीकृत लाईसेंस पत्रावली पर दाखिल नहीं किया गया है। मृतक द्वारा सरकार/प्राईवेट काम का ठेका लेने के सम्बन्ध में अनुबन्ध–पत्र पत्रावली में दाखिल नहीं किया गया है, जिससे यह स्पष्ट हो सके कि मृतक ठेका लेकर निर्धारित धनराशि प्राप्त करके स्वयं अथवा लेबर के माध्यम से विभिन्न स्थानों पर पी0ओ0पी0 का कार्य ठेके पर करवाता था। याची ने मराठी भाषा में अपने एवं श्री द्वारिका प्रसाद माला राम वर्मा के मध्य नोटरी द्वारा प्रमाणित इकरारनामा दाखिल किया है, जिससे मृतक की आय निर्धारित किये जाने में कोई सहायता नहीं मिलती है। याचीगण ने स्टेट बैंक आफ इण्डिया में विभिन्न तिथियों पर अनिल वर्मा के खाता सं0 20112343726 एवं पजांब नेशनल बैंक के खाता सं. 4518000100023321 मु0 99,000/–, 99,000/–, 29,700/–, 1,98,000/– जमा करने की रसीदों की छाया प्रतियां दाखिल की है, परन्तु उन खाता संख्याओं की पासबुक दाखिल नहीं की है और उनमें जमा तथा निकाली गयी धनराशि का कोई विवरण याचिका में दाखिल नहीं किया है। केवल वर्ष 2012–13 का टी0डी0एस0 विवरण पत्र दाखिल किया है। वित्तीय वर्ष 2012–13 का आई0टी0आर0 दाखिल किया है, जिसमें कुल आय 1,78,890/– रूपये प्रदर्शित किया है, परन्तु उक्त आई0टी0आर0 के समर्थन में पूरे वर्ष का आय–व्यय विवरण, समस्त बचत, बैकों/एफ0डी0आर0 आदि की पासबुक पत्रावली में दाखिल नहीं की है। वर्ष 2012–13 के अतिरिक्त अन्य किसी वर्ष्ज्ञ का इन्कम टैक्स रिटर्न पत्रावली में दाखिल नहीं किया है। ऐसी स्थिति में याची की वार्षिक आय केवल एक वर्ष के आयकर विवरण के आधार पर निर्धारित नहीं की जा सकती है। याचीगण द्वारा मृतक अनिल कुमार की मासिक आय मु0 25,000/– रूपये निर्धारण करने के लिए अन्य कोई साक्ष्य नहीं दी गयी है और न ही कोई साक्षी आय निर्धारण के सम्बन्ध में परीक्षित कराया गया है। ऐसी स्थिति में मृतक की मासिक आय माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा निर्णीत लक्ष्मी देवी व अन्य बनाम मोहम्मद तव्वर व अन्य 2008 (2) टी.ए.सी. 394 (एस.सी.) में यह अवधारित किया गया है कि वर्तमान समय में एक स्वस्थ अशिक्षित एवं अप्रशिक्षित मजदूर भी न्यूनतम 100/– रोजाना अथवा 3000/– रू0 माहवार अथवा 36000/– रू0 वार्षिक कमा लेता है। अतः ऐसी परिस्थितियों में उक्त दुर्घटना के समय मृतक अनिल कुमार की मासिक आय माानीय उच्चतम न्यायालय की उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्था मे प्रतिपादित सिद्वान्तों के अनुसार 3000/– रू. प्रतिमाह अथवा 36,000/– रू0 प्रतिवर्ष अवधारित कर दिया जाये तो इससे न्याय की मंशा पूरी हो जायेगी। तदनुसार दुर्घटना के समय मृतक की मासिक आय 3000/– रू0 अवधारित की जाती है।

–भावी प्रत्याशाओं में वृद्वि–

37. विद्वान अधिवक्ता याचीगण द्वारा अपनी बहस के दौरान मेरे समक्ष यह तर्क प्रस्तुत किया गया कि यदि मृतक जीवित रहता तो वह अपनी आय में बढ़ोत्तरी करता। ऐसी स्थिति में उसकी मासिक आय में 50: की बढ़ोत्तरी/भावी प्रत्याशा को जोड़ते हुए याचीगण को हुई आश्रिता का नुकसान निर्धारित करने के लिए जोड़ा जाना चाहिए।

38. इस सम्बन्ध में मैंने माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय की नजीर श्रीमती सरला वर्मा व अन्य बनाम दिल्ली परिवहन निगम एवं एक अन्य 2009 (2) द0 मु0 द 161 (सु0 को0) का सम्यक् अवलोकन किया। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा उक्त नजीर के पैरा 10, 11 में मुआवजे की परिगणना को आरम्भ करने के लिये आयकर को कम कर मृतक की वास्तविक आय निर्धारित किये जाने हेतु भावी प्रत्याशाओं का उल्लेख कर कोई धनराशि जोड़ी जानी चाहिए अथवा नहीं, इस प्रश्न पर माननीय न्यायालय ने विचार किया है तथा यह अवधारित किया है कि मृतक की वास्तविक आय को निर्धारित किये जाने हेतु भावी प्रत्याशाओ को जीवनवृत्त ब

40. उ0प्र0 मोटर यान (ग्यारवां संशोधन) नियमावली–2011 के नियम 220–क एवं विधि व्यवस्था त्रिलोक चन्द्र ¼UPSRTC Vs. TRILOK CHANDRA, 1996 Vol 4 SCC 362)– में कहा गया है कि यदि मृतक विवाहित हो तो उसकी व्यक्तिगत और जीवन के खर्चे 1/4 होगें जहां पारिवारिक सदस्यों की संख्या 4 से 6 हैं। प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में मृतक की वार्षिक आय में से मृतक के स्वयं के खर्चे के लिए एक चौथाई धनराशि की कटौती मानना उचित होगा। इसलिए यदि मृतक जीवित रहता तो वह अपने ऊपर मासिक आय 4,200/– का 1/4 भाग यानि 1050/– रूपये स्वयं पर खर्च करता तथा शेष 3,150/– रूपये मासिक आय अर्थात् 3ए150

ग 12 त्र 37ए800ध् रूपये वार्षिक आय पर याचीगण आश्रित होते।

–गुणांक एवं प्रतिकर निर्धारण–

41. अब हमें यह देखना है कि इस मामले में कौन–सा गुणांक लागू होगा। पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध अभिलेखों के अनुसार मृतक की आयु दुर्घटना के समय 23 वर्ष आयी है। सरला वर्मा व अन्य बनाम दिल्ली ट्रांसपोर्ट कॉर्पोरेशन व अन्य ए0आई0आर0 2009 सुप्रीम कोर्ट पेज–3104 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने पैरा–21 में यह अभिनिर्धारित किया है कि:–

"42. We therefore hold that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in Column (4) of the table above (prepared by applying Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335] , Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] and Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657]), which starts with an operative multiplier of 18 (for the age groups of 15 to 20 and 21 to 25 years), reduced by one unit for every five years, that is M-17 for 26 to 30 years, M-16 for 31 to 35 years, M-15 for 36 to 40 years, M-14 for 41 to 45 years, and M-13 for 46 to 50 years, then reduced by two units for every five years, that is, M-11 for 51 to 55 years, M-9 for 56 to 60 years, M-7 for 61 to 65 years and M-5 for 66 to 70 years."

42. अतः माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा अभिनिर्धारित सिद्धान्तों के आधार पर 23 वर्ष की आयु के लिए 18 का गुणांक लगाया जाना उचित होगा। इस धनराशि 37,800/– रू0 में 18 के गुणांक का गुणा करने पर यह धनराशि 6,80,400/–रू0 (छः लाख अस्सी हजार चार सौ) रूपये होती है। इस प्रकार मृतक अनिल कुमार की मृत्यु के कारण याचीगण को कुल आर्थिक क्षति मु0 6,80,400/–रूपये की हुई। उत्तर प्रदेश मोटर यान (ग्यारहवां संशोधन) नियमावली–2011 के नियम 220 क (4) (तीन) के अनुसार याचीगण द्वारा मृतक अनिल कुमार को इलाज हेतु रेहरा बाजार से गोण्डा, गोण्डा से लखनऊ मेडिकल कालेज लखनऊ आवागमन में हुआ व्यय मु0 5,000/–रूपया, कियाकर्म में हुआ व्यय मु0 5,000/– रूपया, मानसिक कष्ट/पीड़ा एवं पति सुख से वंचित होने हेतु मु0 10,000/– रूपये दिलाते हुए याचीगण कुल धनराशि मु0 6ए80ए400 . 5ए000 . 5ए000 . 10ए000त्र 7ए00ए400 /– (सात लाख चार सौ) रूपये प्रतिकर प्राप्त करने के अधिकारी हैं। मृतक के दवा इलाज के सम्बन्ध में कोई दवा पर्चा/ बिल दाखिल नहीं किया गया है इसलिए इलाज के सम्बन्ध में कोई प्रतिकर नहीं दिया जा रहा है।

43. प्रस्तुत याचिका दिनांक 28.01.2014 को दाखिल की गयी और पत्रावली में याची ने अपनी साक्ष्य दिनांक 03.03.2017 को अत्यंत विलम्ब से प्रस्तुत की है। ऐसी स्थिति में याचीगण इस प्रतिकर की धनराशि पर याचिका में साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत करने की तिथि 03.03.2017 से छः प्रतिशत वार्षिक साधारण बयाज भी ता अदायगी प्राप्त करने के अधिकारी हैं।

44. पूर्व विवेचन से यह स्पष्ट हो चुका है कि दुर्घटना की तिथि व समय पर दुर्घटना कारक मोटरसाईकिल पंजीयन सं0 यू0पी0 43 एन0 4694 विपक्षी सं0 2 इफको टोकियो जनरल इन्श्योरेन्स कम्पनी लिमिटेड के यहां बीमित थी। अतः याचीगण को प्राप्त होने वाली समस्त प्रतिकर की धनराशि मय ब्याज अदा करने की जिम्मेदारी विपक्षी सं0 2 इफको टोकियो जनरल इन्श्योरेन्स कम्पनी लिमिटेड की होगी।

45. याची सं0 6 मुकेश कुमार नाबालिग श्री चन्द्रिका प्रसाद वर्मा का पुत्र है। वह मृतक पर किस प्रकार आश्रित है यह याचीगण ने अपनी साक्ष्य से साबित नहीं किया है, जबकि उसके प्राकृतिक माता–पिता जीवित हैं। मुकेश कुमार के खानपान व रहन–सहन की समस्त जिम्मेदारी उसके पिता की है, न कि उसके बड़े भाई मृतक अनिल कुमार की। साक्ष्य के अभाव में याची सं0 6 मुकेश कुमार प्रस्तुत याचिका के माध्यम से कोई प्रतिकर प्राप्त करने का अधिकारी नही है।

46. इस प्रकार याचीगण श्रीमती अनीता, हर्षवर्धन वर्मा, कु0 प्रतिमा, श्रीमती गीता देवी, चन्द्रिका प्रसाद वर्मा की प्रतिकर याचिका मु0 7,00,400/– (सात लाख चार सौ) रूपये प्रतिकर एवं उसमें साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत करने के दिनांक 03.03.2017 से छः प्रतिशत वार्षिक साधारण ब्याज की अदायगी हेतु विपक्षी सं0 2 के विरूद्ध स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य है।

आदेश

47. याचीगण द्वारा प्रस्तुत प्रतिकर याचिका आंशिक रूप से स्वीकार की जाती है तथा याचीगण के पक्ष में एवं विपक्षी सं0 2 इफको टोकियो जनरल इन्श्योरेन्स कम्पनी लिमिटेड के विरूद्व, अंकन मु0 7,00,400/–(सात लाख चार सौ) रूपये का अवार्ड/अधिनिर्णय पारित करते हुए विपक्षी सं0 2 इफको टोकियो जनरल इन्श्योरेन्स कम्पनी लिमिटेड को आदेशित किया जाता है कि वह उक्त धनराशि को इस आदेश की तिथि से एक माह के अन्दर याचीगण को अदा करे अन्यथा याचीगण को अधिकार होगा कि वह प्रतिकर की उक्त धनराशि विपक्षी सं0 2 से विधि अनसुार न्यायालय के माध्यम से वसूल कर लें। याचीगण याचिका में साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत करने की दिनांक 03.03.2017 से वास्तविक भुगतान होने की तिथि तक सम्पूर्ण प्रतिकर की धनराशि पर छः प्रतिशत वार्षिक साधारण ब्याज प्राप्त करने के अधिकारी होंगे।

48. उपरोक्त प्रतिकर धनराशि में से याचिनी सं0 1 श्रीमती अनीता जो मृतक की पत्नी है उसको मिलने वाली

धनराशि अंकन 2,00,400/—रू0 (दो लाख चार सौ) रूपये में से मु0 1,00,000/— रूपये एकाउन्टपेयी चेक के माध्यम से प्राप्त करेगी तथा शेष धनराशि मु0 1,00,400/— रूपये तीन वर्ष की अवधि तक के लिए किसी राष्ट्रीयकृत बैंक में सावधि जमा योजना के तहत निक्षेपित की जायेगी। नाबालिगान याचिनी सं0–2 हर्षवर्धन वर्मा एवं याची सं0 3 कु0 प्रतिमा जो मृतक के पुत्र एवं पुत्री हैं उनमें से प्रत्येक को मिलने वाली धनराशि अंकन 1,50,000/— (एक लाख पचास हजार) रूपये प्रत्येक के बालिग होने तक की अवधि के लिए नियमानुसार किसी राष्ट्रीयकृत बैंक की सावधि जमा योजना के तहत निक्षेपित की जायेगी। याची सं0 4 श्रीमती गीता देवी जो मृतक की माता है उसको मिलने वाली धनराशि अंकन 1,00,000/— रू0 (एक लाख) रूपये में से मु0 50,000/— रूपये एकाउन्टपेयी चेक के माध्यम से प्राप्त करेगी तथा शेष धनराशि मु0 50,000/— रूपये तीन वर्ष की अवधि तक के लिए किसी राष्टीयकृत बैंक में सावधि जमा योजना के तहत निक्षेपित की जायेगी। याची सं0 5 चन्द्रिका प्रसाद वर्मा जो मृतक के पिता हैं उसको मिलने वाली धनराशि अंकन 1,00,000/— रू0 (एक लाख) रूपये में से मु0 50,000/— रूपये एकाउन्टपेयी चेक के माध्यम से प्राप्त करेगें तथा शेष धनराशि मु0 50,000 रूपये तीन वर्ष की अवधि तक के लिए किसी राष्ट्रीयकृत बैंक में सावधि जमा योजना के तहत निक्षेपित की जायेगी।

49. उपरोक्त एफ0डी0आर0 पर न्यायालय की अनुमति के वगैर कोई ऋण स्वीकार अथवा भुगतान नहीं किया जायेगा जो केन्द्रीय नाजिर, जिला जजी, बलरामपुर के पास सुरक्षित रखी जायेगी और वे उन्हे नियमानुसार नवीनीकृत कराते रहेंगे।a"

7. While pressing the present appeal for enhancement of amount of compensation, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that before the Tribunal, it was specifically pleaded that the deceased was earning Rs. 25,000/- per month by performing POP work and on this aspect, evidence was also placed before the Tribunal i.e. a document showing income tax return of the financial year 2012-13, however, the Tribunal ignored the documentary evidence placed before it so as the oral evidence and considered it appropriate to grant amount of compensation taking note of notional income of Rs. 3,000/- per month, as such, the amount of compensation is liable to be enhanced.

8. Opposing the prayer of the learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Govind Chaturvedi, learned counsel appearing for the Iffco Tokio General Insurance Co. Ltd. (in short "Company") submitted that the finding of the Tribunal on the aforesaid issue is not liable to be interfered with by this Court as the appellants, claimants before the Tribunal, filed their income tax returns only of one year i.e. financial year 2012-13. There are several Authorities in this regard, as such, the finding on this issue is just and proper.

9. In response to above, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that justice would suffice, if this Court after taking note of pronouncements on the issue of notional income, enhances the compensation awarded by the Tribunal.

10. Elaborating his arguments, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that in the case of Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Nanu Ram and Others; reported in 2018 SCC Online SC 1546, wherein, the accident took place in the year 2013, the Hon'ble Apex Court affirmed the notional income at Rs. 6,000/- per month and enhanced the compensation in relation to other heads.

11. He further submitted that in the case of Chameli Devi and Others vs. Jivrail Mian and Others; reported in 2019 (4) TAC 724 (S.C.), wherein, the accident took place on 02.01.2001, the Hon'ble Apex Court considered the notional income at Rs. 200/- per day, meaning thereby that the Hon'ble Apex Court while considering the case of Chameli Devi (supra) considered it appropriate to grant compensation after taking note of notional income at Rs. 200/- per day i.e. Rs. 6,000/- per month. The relevant paras on reproduction read as under:-

that carpenter may not get per work every day, hence, we access the income at Rs.5000/- per month. Adding 40% for future prospects Rs.2,000/-, the total income works out to Rs.7,000/-. Deducting 1/5 for personal expenses, keeping in view a large number of dependents, the datum figure comes out to Rs.5,600/- per month or Rs.67,200/- per year. Applying multiplier of 16, the compensation works out to Rs.10,75,200/-. Rs.70,000/- is added towards other non-conventional heads as laid down in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi & Ors. (2017) 16 SCC 680 : 2017 (4) T.A.C. 673. The total compensation comes out to Rs.11,45,200/-."

12. On the issue of notional income, further reliance has also been placed on the judgment dated 10.12.2014 passed in F.A.F.O. (D) No. 748 of 2011 (Smt. Sheela Pandey W/O Late Surendra Kumar Pandey & 4 Others. vs. The New India Insurance Co. Ltd. Bena Ghabar Branch & 2 Others). In this case, this Court, for granting compensation, assessed the notional income of the deceased, who was doing business of selling milk/ diary business, at Rs. 6,500/- per month.

13. He further submitted that in the judgment passed in the case of Syed Sadiq And Others vs. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company Limited; reported in (2014) 2 SCC 735, the deceased was Vegetable Vendor and the Hon'ble Apex Court, for the purposes of granting of compensation, after considering the state of economy and rising prices in agricultural products observed that a vegetable vendor is reasonably capable of earning Rs. 6,500/- per month. Para 9 of the same is as under:-

"9. There is no reason in the instant case for the Tribunal and the High Court to ask for evidence of monthly income of the appellant claimant. On the other hand, going by the present state of economy and the rising prices in agricultural products, we are inclined to believe that a vegetable vendor is reasonably capable of earning Rs 6500 per month.".

14. On the issue of notional income at Rs. 6,000/-, learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that in the case of New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Resha Devi and Others; reported in 2017 (4) T.A.C. 288 (All.), this Court, in para 8, observed that "there can be no exact uniform rule for measuring the value of the human life and the measure of damages cannot be arrived at by precise mathematical calculations. Obviously award of damages would depend upon the particular facts and circumstances of the case but the element of fairness in the amount of compensation so determined is the ultimate guiding factor. In such view of the matter, presumption of Rs. 100/- per day as notional income even for a unskilled labour in the year 2014 appears to us to be frugal and by no stretch of imagination to be just even the minimum wages fixed by the State Government is much higher than that looking to the rise in cost index. We are of the considered upon that notional income of an unskilled labour could not be less than Rs. 200/- per day."

15. In continuation, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that in the instant case, the deceased was earning Rs. 25,000/- by carrying out POP work at Mumbai, as such, considering the inflation & devaluation of rupee and increase in cost of living, particularly at Mumbai, the compensation be enhanced considering the notional income of deceased at Rs. 6,000/- per month.

16. Learned counsel for the Company vehemently opposed the issue of notional income raised by the learned counsel for the appellants, however, he could not place any judgment, wherein, anything otherwise has been held.

17. Considering the date of accident i.e. 24.12.2012 and the fact that the deceased was earning Rs. 25,000/- per month by performing POP work was not proved by placing required documentary evidence as also the law settled on the issue of notional income, this Court is of the view that the notional income of the deceased, in the instant case, for the purposes of computing the compensation is liable to be considered at Rs. 6,000/- per month.

18. Learned counsel for the appellants also stated that the claimants are also entitled to amount(s) under other heads including the conventional heads i.e. funeral expenses, loss of estate and loss of consortium, as held by the Apex Court in the case of National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others; reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680: 2017 ACJ 2700 and New India Assurance Company Limited vs. Smt. Somwati and Others; (2020) 9 SCC 644.

19. Relevant paragraph 59 of the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) reads as under:-

59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:

59.1. The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 167] should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma[Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] , a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.

59.2. As Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari [Reshma Kumari v. Madan Mohan, (2013) 9 SCC 65 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 191 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 826] , which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] is not a binding precedent.

59.3. While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

59.4. In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

59.5. For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paras 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121

: (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

59.6. The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma [Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002] read with para 42 of that judgment.

59.7. The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

59.8. Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years."

20. At this stage, considering para 59 of the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), this Court feel that it would be appropriate to refer the relevant paras of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121 : (2009) 2 SCC (Civ) 770 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1002 : 2009 SCC OnLine SC 797, which are as under:-

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] , the general practice is to apply standardised deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six.

31. Where the deceased was a bachelor and the claimants are the parents, the deduction follows a different principle. In regard to bachelors, normally, 50% is deducted as personal and living expenses, because it is assumed that a bachelor would tend to spend more on himself. Even otherwise, there is also the possibility of his getting married in a short time, in which event the contribution to the parent(s) and siblings is likely to be cut drastically. Further, subject to evidence to the contrary, the father is likely to have his own income and will not be considered as a dependant and the mother alone will be considered as a dependant. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, brothers and sisters will not be considered as dependants, because they will either be independent and earning, or married, or be dependent on the father.

` 32. Thus even if the deceased is survived by parents and siblings, only the mother would be considered to be a dependant, and 50% would be treated as the personal and living expenses of the bachelor and 50% as the contribution to the family. However, where the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, as in a case where he has a widowed mother and large number of younger non-earning sisters or brothers, his personal and living expenses may be restricted to one-third and contribution to the family will be taken as two-third.

42. We therefore hold that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in Column (4) of the table above (prepared by applying Susamma Thomas [(1994) 2 SCC 176 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 335] , Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362] and Charlie [(2005) 10 SCC 720 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1657]), which starts with an operative multiplier of 18 (for the age groups of 15 to 20 and 21 to 25 years), reduced by one unit for every five years, that is M-17 for 26 to 30 years, M-16 for 31 to 35 years, M-15 for 36 to 40 years, M-14 for 41 to 45 years, and M-13 for 46 to 50 years, then reduced by two units for every five years, that is, M-11 for 51 to 55 years, M-9 for 56 to 60 years, M-7 for 61 to 65 years and M-5 for 66 to 70 years."

21. In the case of Smt. Somwati (supra), relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellants, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

"30. The next judgment which needs to be noted is Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] , the concept of consortium was explained in paras 21, 22 and 23, which are as follows : (SCC pp. 136-37)

"21. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] dealt with the various heads under which compensation is to be awarded in a death case. One of these heads is loss of consortium. In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium", and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse. [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149]

21.2. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training.'

21.3. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love, affection, companionship and their role in the family unit.

22. Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. Modern jurisdictions world over have recognised that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions, therefore, permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is a compensation for loss of the love, affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

23. The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of filial consortium. Parental consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act. A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count [Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram v. Sohi Ram, 2017 SCC OnLine Raj 3848 : (2017) 4 RLW 3368; Uttarakhand High Court in Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar, 2013 SCC OnLine Utt 2435 : (2014) 3 UC 1687; Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, 1996 SCC OnLine Kar 74 : (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570] . However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of filial consortium."

31. A two-Judge Bench in Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] awarded the amount of Rs 40,000 to father and sister of the deceased. Para 24 is as follows : (SCC p. 137)

"24. The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "loss of consortium" as laid down in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] . In the present case, we deem it appropriate to award the father and the sister of the deceased, an amount of Rs 40,000 each for loss of filial consortium."

32. A three-Judge Bench in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] , had reaffirmed the view of the two-Judge Bench in Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] The three-Judge Bench from paras 53 to 65, dealt with three conventional heads. The entire discussion on three conventional heads of the three-Judge Bench is as follows:

"53.InPranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] , the Constitution Bench held that in death cases, compensation would be awarded only under three conventional heads viz. "loss of estate", "loss of consortium" and "funeral expenses".

54. The Court held that the conventional and traditional heads, cannot be determined on percentage basis, because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified, which has to be based on a reasonable foundation. It was observed that factors such as price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates, are aspects which have to be taken into consideration. The Court held that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, "loss of estate", "loss of consortium" and "funeral expenses" should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The Court was of the view that the amounts to be awarded under these conventional heads should be enhanced by 10% every three years, which will bring consistency in respect of these heads.

(a) Loss of estate -- Rs 15,000 to be awarded

(b) "Loss of consortium"

55. Loss of consortium, in legal parlance, was historically given a narrow meaning to be awarded only to the spouse i.e. the right of the spouse to the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, society, solace, affection and sexual relations with his or her mate. The loss of companionship, love, care and protection, etc., the spouse is entitled to get, has to be compensated appropriately. The concept of non-pecuniary damage for loss of consortium is one of the major heads for awarding compensation in various jurisdictions such as the United States of America, Australia, etc. English courts have recognised the right of a spouse to get compensation even during the period of temporary disablement.

56.InMagma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] , this Court interpreted "consortium" to be a compendious term, which encompasses spousal consortium, parental consortium, as well as filial consortium. The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse.

57. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training.

58. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love and affection, and their role in the family unit.

59. Modern jurisdictions world over have recognised that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is the compensation for loss of love and affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

60. The Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 is a beneficial legislation which has been framed with the object of providing relief to the victims, or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of filial consortium.

61. Parental consortium is awarded to the children who lose the care and protection of their parents in motor vehicle accidents.

62. The amount to be awarded for loss of consortium will be as per the amount fixed in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] .

63. At this stage, we consider it necessary to provide uniformity with respect to the grant of consortium, and loss of love and affection. Several Tribunals and High Courts have been awarding compensation for both loss of consortium and loss of love and affection. The Constitution Bench inPranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2

SCC (Cri) 205] , has recognised only three conventional heads under which compensation can be awarded viz. "loss of estate", "loss of consortium" and "funeral expenses".

64.InMagma General [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] , this Court gave a comprehensive interpretation to consortium to include spousal consortium, parental consortium, as well as filial consortium. loss of love and affection is comprehended in loss of consortium.

65. The Tribunals and High Courts are directed to award compensation for loss of consortium, which is a legitimate conventional head. There is no justification to award compensation towards loss of love and affection as a separate head.

(c) Funeral expenses -- Rs 15,000 to be awarded."

(emphasis supplied)

33. The three-Judge Bench in the above case approved the comprehensive interpretation given to the expression "consortium" to include spousal consortium, parental consortium as well as filial consortium. The three-Judge Bench, however, further laid down that "loss of love and affection" is comprehended in "loss of consortium", hence, there is no justification to award compensation towards "loss of love and affection" as a separate head.

34. The Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] has also not, under conventional head, included any compensation towards "loss of love and affection" which have been now further reiterated by the three-Judge Bench in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] . It is thus now authoritatively well settled that no compensation can be awarded under the head "loss of love and affection".

35. The word "consortium" has been defined in Black's Law Dictionary, 10th Edn. The Black's Law Dictionary also, simultaneously, notices the filial consortium, parental consortium and spousal consortium in the following manner:

"Consortium1. The benefits that one person, esp. A spouse, is entitled to receive from another, including companionship, cooperation, affection, aid, financial support, and (between spouses) sexual relations a claim for loss of consortium.

- Filial consortium A child's society, affection, and companionship given to a parent.

- Parental consortium A parent's society, affection and companionship given to a child.

- Spousal consortium A spouse's society, affection and companionship given to the other spouse."

36. In Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] as well as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] , the three-Judge Bench laid down that the consortium is not limited to spousal consortium and it also includes parental consortium as well as filial consortium. In para 87 of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020

SCC OnLine SC 410] , "consortium" to all the three claimants was thus awarded. Para 87 is quoted below:

"87. Insofar as the conventional heads are concerned, the deceased Satpal Singh left behind a widow and three children as his dependants. On the basis of the judgments in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] and Magma General [Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nanu Ram, (2018) 18 SCC 130 : (2019) 3 SCC (Civ) 146 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 153] , the following amounts are awarded under the conventional heads:

(i) Loss of estate : Rs 15,000

(ii) Loss of consortium:

(a) Spousal consortium : Rs 40,000

(b) Parental consortium : 40,000 × 3 = Rs 1,20,000

(iii) Funeral expenses : Rs 15,000"

37. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] has only referred to spousal consortium and no other consortium was referred to in the judgment of Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] , hence, there is no justification for allowing the parental consortium and filial consortium. The Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] has referred to amount of Rs 40,000 to the "loss of consortium" but the Constitution Bench had not addressed the issue as to whether consortium of Rs 40,000 is only payable as spousal consortium. The judgment of Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] cannot be read to mean that it lays down the proposition that the consortium is payable only to the wife.

38. The three-Judge Bench in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] has categorically laid down that apart from spousal consortium, parental and filial consortium is payable. We feel ourselves bound by the above judgment of the three-Judge Bench. We, thus, cannot accept the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the amount of consortium awarded to each of the claimants is not sustainable.

39. We, thus, found the impugned judgments [Somwati v. Dharmendra Kumar, 2019 SCC OnLine All 3897] , [Sangita Devi v. New India Assurance Ltd., 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10877] , [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Azmati Khatoon, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10530] , [Cholamandalam MS General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Umarani, 2019 SCC OnLine Mad 29630] , [Pinki v. Rajeev, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 11882] , [Nanak Chand v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd., 2020 SCC OnLine Del 62] , [Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rinku Devi, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10493] of the High Court awarding consortium to each of the claimants in accordance with law which does not warrant any interference in this appeal. We, however, accept the submissions of the learned counsel for the appellant that there is no justification for award of compensation under separate head "loss of love and affection". The appeal filed by the appellant deserves to be allowed insofar as the award of compensation under the head "loss of love and affection".

40. We may also notice the three-Judge Bench judgment of this Court relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant i.e. Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. [Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 327 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 254 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 905] The counsel for the appellant submits that this Court has granted only Rs 40,000 towards "loss of consortium" which is an indication that "consortium" cannot be granted to children. In the above case, Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal has awarded Rs 20,000 to the widow towards loss of consortium and Rs 10,000 to the minor daughter towards "loss of love and affection". The High Court has reduced [Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. v. Sangita Arya, 2016 SCC OnLine Utt 970] the amount of consortium from Rs 20,000 to Rs 10,000. Para 16 of the judgment is to the following effect : (Sangita Arya case [Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 327 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 254 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 905] , SCC p. 330, para 10)

"10. The consortium payable to the widow was reduced [Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. v. Sangita Arya, 2016 SCC OnLine Utt 970] by the High Court from Rs 20,000 (as awarded by MACT) to Rs 10,000; the amount awarded towards loss of love and affection to the minor daughters was reduced from Rs 10,000 to Rs 5000. However, the amount of Rs 5000 awarded by MACT towards funeral expenses was maintained."

41. This Court in the above case confined its consideration towards the income of the deceased and there was neither any claim nor any consideration that the consortium should have been paid to other legal heirs also. There being no claim for payment of consortium to other legal heirs, this Court awarded Rs 40,000 towards consortium. No such ratio can be deciphered from the above judgment that this Court held that consortium is only payable as a spousal consortium and consortium is not payable to children and parents.

42. It is relevant to notice the judgment of this Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur, (2021) 11 SCC 780 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410] which was delivered shortly after the above three-Judge Bench judgment of Sangeeta Arya [Sangita Arya v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 5 SCC 327 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 254 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 905] specifically laid down that both spousal and parental consortium are payable which judgment we have already noticed above.

43. We may also notice one more three-Judge Bench judgment of this Court in M.H. Uma Maheshwari v. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. [M.H. Uma Maheshwari v. United India Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 6 SCC 400 : (2020) 3 SCC (Cri) 274 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 744] decided on 12-6-2020. In the above case, the Tribunal had granted the amount of rupees one lakh towards loss of consortium to the wife and rupees three lakhs for all the appellants towards loss of love and affection. The High Court in the above case had reduced the amount of compensation in the appeal filed by the insurance company. The High Court held [United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. M.H. Uma Maheshwari, 2017 SCC OnLine Kar 6258] that by awarding the amount of rupees one lakh towards loss of consortium to the wife, the Tribunal had committed error while awarding rupees one lakh to the first appellant towards the head of "loss of love and affection". Allowing the appeal filed by the claimant, this Court maintained the order of MACT.

44. In the above judgment although rendered by the three-Judge Bench, there was no challenge to award of compensation of rupees one lakh towards the consortium and rupees three lakhs towards the loss of love and affection. The appeal was filed only by the claimants and not by the insurance company. The Court did not pronounce on the correctness of the amount awarded under the head "loss of love and affection".

45. We may also notice the additional submission advanced in Civil Appeal No. 3099 of 2020 [arising out of SLP (C) No. 8250 of 2020], Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rinku Devi & Others. As noted above, we have taken the view that the order [Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rinku Devi, 2019 SCC OnLine Del 10493] of the High Court awarding compensation towards "loss of love and affection" @ Rs 50,000 to each of the claimants is unjustified which is being set aside in this appeal. We, further, in the above appeal also set aside the directions of the High Court in para 9 by which statutory amount along with interest accrued thereon was directed to be deposited in Aasra fund.

46. In result, all the appeals are partly allowed. The award of compensation under the conventional head "loss of love and affection" is set aside. Motor Accidents Claims Tribunals shall recompute the amount payable and take further steps in accordance with law.

47. All the appeals are partly allowed accordingly. No costs."

22. On the issue of compensation under other heads including the conventional heads, learned counsel for the Company submitted that the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Pranay Sethi (supra) was pronounced on 31.10.2017 and subsequent to the same, the judgment was pronounced in the case of Smt. Somwati (supra), however, the present case relates to the accident which took place on 24.12.2012, as such, the law settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard would not apply in the present case. The submission of learned counsel for the appellants is fallacious because all the judgments operate retrospectively except provided otherwise, as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a catena of judgments.

23. After the above, it is submitted that under different heads including the conventional heads, compensation has been awarded after considering the Rule 220-A of U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998 (in short "Rules of 1998") and as such, the appellants are not entitled to any enhancement.

24. On the aforesaid aspects, it would be appropriate to refer the judgment passed by the Apex Court in the case of New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Urmila Shukla and Others; 2021 SCC Online 822, wherein, the Hon'ble Apex Court after considering the judgment passed by it in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) and Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998, observed as under:-

"8. It is submitted by Mr. Rao that the judgment in Pranay Sethi does not show that the attention of the Court was invited to the specific rules such as Rule 3(iii) which contemplates addition of 20% of the salary as against 15% which was stated as a measure in Pranay Sethi. In his submission, since the statutory instrument has been put in place which affords more advantageous treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi ought not to be considered to limit the application of such statutory Rule.

9. It is to be noted that the validity of the Rules was not, in any way, questioned in the instant matter and thus the only question that we are called upon to consider is whether in its application, sub-Rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A of the Rules must be given restricted scope or it must be allowed to operate fully.

10. The discussion on the point in Pranay Sethi was from the standpoint of arriving at "just compensation" in terms of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

11. If an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision specially when the validity of the Rules was not put under any challenge. The prescription of 15% in cases where the deceased was in the age bracket of 50-60 years as stated in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken as maxima. In the absence of any governing principle available in the statutory regime, it was only in the form of an indication. If a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid.

12. We, therefore, reject the submission advanced on behalf of the appellant and affirm the view taken by the Tribunal as well as the High Court and dismiss this appeal without any order as to costs."

25. From the above quoted paras of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court, it appears to this Court that if a "formula" or "provision" in a statute provides "better or greater benefit" then in that event, such "formula" or "provision" of a statute must be allowed to operate.

26. The Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998, being relevant, as has been pressed upon by the learned counsel for the respondents, is quoted below for ready reference:-

"220-A. Determination of compensation--(1) The multiplier for determination of loss of income payable as compensation in all the claim cases shall be applied as per Second Schedule provided in the Act.

(2) Deduction for personal and living expenses of a deceased, shall be as follows--

(i) The deduction towards personal expenses of a deceased unmarried shall be 50% where the family of a bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, the deduction shall be 1/3 (33.33%).

(ii) The deduction towards personal and living expenses of a married person deceased shall be 1/3rd where dependent family members are 2 to 3 in number, 1/4th where dependent family members are 4 to 6 in number and 1/5th where dependent family members are more than 6 in number.

(iii) For the purpose of calculation of number of family members in Clause (ii), a minor dependent will be counted as half.

(3) The future prospects of a deceased, shall be added in the actual salary or minimum wages of the deceased as under--

(i) Below 40 years of age : 50% of the salary.

(ii) Between 40-50 years of age : 30% of the salary.

(iii) More than 50 years of age : 20% of the salary.

(iv) When wages not sufficiently Proved : 50% towards inflation and price index.

(4) The non-pecuniary damages shall also be payable in the compensation as follows--

(i) Compensation for loss of estate : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 10,000

(ii) Compensation for loss of consortium : Rs. 5,000 to 10,000

(iii) Compensation for loss of love and affection : Rs. 5,000 to 15,000

(iv) Funeral expenses, costs of transportation of body : Rs. 5,000 or actual expenses whichever is less

(v) Medical expenses : actual expenses proved to the satisfaction of the Claims Tribunal.

(5) For determination of compensation in case of injuries, partial or permanent disability provisions of second schedule of the Act shall apply:

Provided that the Claims Tribunal may also award compensation for future prospects according to sub-rule (3) in case of permanent disability depending upon the nature, extent and its effect on the future of disabled claimants.

(6) The rate of interest shall be 7% pendente lite and future till the actual payment."

27. From the Rules of 1998, it is evident that the Rule 220-A was inserted in the Rules of 1998 vide U.P. Motor Vehicles (Eleventh Amendment) Rules 2011 published in U.P. Gazette Extraordinary dated 26.09.2011 and this Rule has not been amended till date though more than 10 years have elapsed.

28. Considering the date i.e. 26.09.2011 of insertion of Rule 220-A in the Rules of 1998 as also that the same has not been amended till date and inflation, devaluation of rupee, increase in cost of living and increase in cost of expenses towards funeral etc. and the law propounded/ declared by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgments passed in the cases of Pranay Sethi (supra) and Smt. Somwati (supra), in the matter of determination of amount of compensation under the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 (in short "Act of 1988"), provides "better benefits" and also keeping in mind the observation of the Apex Court in the judgment passed in the case of Urmila Shukla (supra), this Court is of the opinion that the provisions of Rule 220-A should be allowed to operate only upto the extent that it provides "better benefits" to the claimant(s) under the Act of 1988, which is a beneficial legislation on the aspect of grant of compensation.

29. Thus, for the above reasons, in the opinion of this Court, for the purposes of awarding compensation in each head, the judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court in which principles have been settled on the issue of providing/awarding compensation and the Rules of 1998, both should be considered and whichever provides "better benefits" should be applied.

30. At this juncture, it would be appropriate to refer a judgment delivered in the case of Kirti & Another vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited reported in (2021) 2 SCC 166, wherein three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court after relying upon the observation made in earlier judgment passed in the case of Hem Raj vs. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. reported in (2018) 15 SCC 654, observed as under:-

"13. Given how both deceased were below 40 years and how they have not been established to be permanent employees, future prospects to the tune of 40% must be paid. The argument that no such future prospects ought to be allowed for those with notional income, is both incorrect in law [Sunita Tokas v. New India Insurance Co. Ltd., (2019) 20 SCC 688 : (2020) 4 SCC (Cri) 436] and without merit considering the constant inflation-induced increase in wages. It would be sufficient to quote the observations of this Court in Hem Raj v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. [Hem Raj v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2018) 15 SCC 654 : (2019) 1 SCC (Civ) 293 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 864], as it puts at rest any argument concerning non-payment of future prospects to the deceased in the present case: (Hem Raj case [Hem Raj v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2018) 15 SCC 654 : (2019) 1 SCC (Civ) 293 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 864] , SCC p. 656, para 7)

"7. We are of the view that there cannot be distinction where there is positive evidence of income and where minimum income is determined on guesswork in the facts and circumstances of a case. Both the situations stand at the same footing. Accordingly, in the present case, addition of 40% to the income assessed by the Tribunal is required to be made."

31. From the aforesaid, it is evident that in a case of notional income also, the compensation should be calculated/ awarded after considering the "future prospects".

32. On the issue of awarding the compensation towards future prospects as also under conventional heads, this Court considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties, the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), which was delivered after considering the various pronouncements on the issue of granting compensation under the Act of 1988 and other judgments on the issue referred above as also the Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998 and upon due consideration of aforesaid, this Court is of the opinion that the claimants-appellants are entitled to compensation under these heads.

33. From the judgment and award dated 18.12.2018, relevant portion of which is quoted above, this Court finds that under the head(s) i.e. medical expenses and funeral expenses, the Tribunal has awarded Rs. 5,000/- under each head and Rs. 10,000/- towards consortium and towards future prospects no amount has been awarded.

34. Considering the aforesaid facts as also the reasons recorded hereinabove, the award of the Tribunal dated 18.12.2018, so far it relates to grant of compensation towards future prospects and under conventional heads, such as, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses etc. is concerned, in view of this Court, is not in consonance with the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Pranay Sethi (supra) and Smt. Somwati (supra) as also Rule 220-A of the Rules of 1998 as also the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment passed in the case of Kirti & Another vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited reported in (2021) 2 SCC 166. Accordingly, this Court holds that the claimants-appellants are entitled to compensation towards future prospects and enhancement under conventional heads, such as, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses etc.

35. In regard to rate of interest, for the reasons recorded by the Tribunal, this Court is not inclined to interfere in the rate of interest awarded by the Tribunal i.e. 6% per annum.

36. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the view that appellants are entitled to an amount to the tune of Rs. 16,10,800/- as detailed hereinunder, with interest @ 6%, as awarded by the Tribunal, from the date of filing of claim petition till realization.

37. It is made clear that this Court has modified the judgment and award dated 18.12.2018, under appeal, passed by the Tribunal, in above terms only. The Tribunal in its judgment and award dated 18.12.2018 has apportioned the amount awarded by it and this Court also deems it appropriate that the enhanced amount awarded by this Court in this judgment shall also be disbursed in the same manner by the Tribunal. Ordered accordingly. The Tribunal while providing the amount in terms of this judgment shall adjust the amount, if any, already paid/ provided to the appellants.

38. The appeal is allowed in above terms.

39. Let records, if any, be returned to the Court concerned along with the copy of this judgment for necessary compliance.

A. Preventive detention - National Security Act, 1980, Sections 3 (3) & 3 (4) - Constitution of India Art.22 - Preventive Detention order passed by the detaining authority/ D.M. under sub-section (3) of Section 3 can remain in force for twelve days from the date of the order unless approved by the State Government - S. 10 mandates that the appropriate Government shall place the detention order, grounds on which the order has been made and the representation made by the affected person alongwith the report of the officer before the Advisory Board, within three weeks from the date of detention of a person - In case, the deadline prescribed under the Act at any stage of the decision making process has not been met, it is for the authority concerned to explain the delay, which in turn resulted in delay in disposing of the representation - delay, however, short it may be, requires explanation of the authority concerned - deadlines have to be strictly obeyed - delay caused on account of any indifference, slackness or callous attitude of the authority/Government at any stage of the decision making process, if remained unexplained, cannot be condoned (Para 21)

On 3.9.2020, orders for detention of the petitioners were passed by the District Magistrate - On 14.9.2020,petitioners made representations - D.M. sent the representations of the petitioners to the State Government on 24.9.2020 which were received by the State Government on 28.9.2020 - Order dated 3.9.2020 could have remained in force only for twelve days i.e. upto 15.9.2020 - delay of nine days caused by the detaining authority / District Magistrate in forwarding the representations of the petitioners on 24.9.2020 to the State Government has not been explained - representations moved by the petitioners on 14.9.2020 were sent to the State Advisory Board on 28.9.2020 when the period of three weeks from the date of detention order (3.9.2020) had already expired on 24.9.2020 - unexplained delay at the ends of the District Magistrate has resulted in placing the matter before the State Advisory Board beyond the period of three weeks - delay caused in placing the matter before the Advisory Board cannot be condoned for the reason that the Advisory Board had submitted its report within the prescribed period of seven days - non-compliance of the mandatory provision of Section 10 of the NSA renders the detention orders illegal (Para 19, 22)

B. Preventive detention - National Security Act, 1980, S. 3 (2), S. 3 (3) - Detention order - that there must be a reasonable basis for the detention order and there must be material to support the same - subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority must be based upon some pertinent/relevant material and any non-existent or misconceived or irrelevant consideration, if forms basis of detention order, the order of detention would be invalid - though the detaining authority is not obliged to record his subjective satisfaction in the detention order but it cannot record its subjective satisfaction on the irrelevant grounds - it is the duty of the sponsoring authority to collect all the relevant material and place it before the detaining authority upon which the detaining authority has to apply its independent mind to arrive at its subjective satisfaction on the material before it - Court is entitled to scrutinize the material relied upon by the authority in coming to its conclusion, and accordingly determine, if there was an objective basis for the subjective satisfaction - relevancy or irrelevancy of the material before the detaining authority can be seen so as to ascertain as to whether the subjective satisfaction has been recorded on relevant grounds or irrelevant material formed the basis of such a decision (Para 23, 28)

Material which formed basis of passing the detention orders by the District Magistrate, Mau, i.e. for recording his satisfaction is the report of the Incharge Inspector - said report in each case is dated 27/28.8.2020 and verbatim the same - a Beat information dated 27/28.8.2020 in each case had been noted to state that it was reported that the detenues who were lodged in jail had been telling their friends and relatives, who went to meet them in jail that after release from jail, they would repeat the same crime again and the incident this time would be bigger than the last one - Held - there is no denial to the fact that the petitioner therein did not meet any of his friends or relatives or talk to them during COVID period - detaining authority had proceeded to record his satisfaction without verification of the statement made in the reports of the Incharge Inspector - satisfaction recorded by the detaining authority was not based on the objective criteria by application of its independent mind - Detention order invalid (Para 35)

1. Since the issues raised in all the connected Habeas Corpus petitions are one and the same and hence they have been heard together and are being decided by this common judgment.

Heard Sri Nazrul Islam Jafri learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Sharique Ahmed, Sri Ali Zamal Khan and Sri Sadaful Islam Jafri learned Advocates for the petitioners, Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and Sri Shashi Dhar Sahai learned Standing Counsel for the Union of India.

2. The petitioners herein have been detained under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980 (herein after referred to as "NSA").

The prayer in the writ petitions is to quash the order dated 3.9.2020 passed by the District Magistrate, Mau invoking powers under Section 3(2) of the NSA as also the order dated 23.10.2020 passed by the State Government extending the period of detention for three months under Section 12(1) of the NSA.

Certain dates of the proceedings undertaken against the petitioners are relevant to be noted at the outset.

3. In an incident occurred on 16.12.2019 at about 6:30 PM, a first information report was lodged against 85 named persons and 600 unnamed on 17.12.2019, by the informant namely S.H.O. Nihar Nandan Kumar at the Police Station Dakshin Tola, District Mau. The report of the sponsoring authority namely S.H.O., Police Station Dakshin Tola, District Mau addressed to the Superintendent of Police, District Mau was submitted on 27/28.8.2020. Pursuant thereto, by the letter dated 31.8.2020, the Superintendent of Police, District Mau had requested the District Magistrate, Mau to detain the petitioners by invoking powers under Section 3(2) of the NSA. On 3.9.2020, separate orders for detention of the petitioners were passed by the District Magistrate, Mau recording his satisfaction that the detention of the petitioner(s) was necessary in order to prevent them from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order. At the time of the passing of the detention order, the petitioners herein were already in custody in the District Jail, Mau.

4. The grounds of detention were communicated to the petitioners on 3.9.2020 itself. On 14.9.2020, the petitioners made representations (separately) for presentation of the same before the State Advisory Board. The said representations were forwarded by the Superintendent, District Jail, Mau to the office of the District Magistrate, Mau on 15.9.2020. The District Magistrate, Mau had sent the representations of the petitioners to the State Government on 24.9.2020. On 11.9.2020, the detention orders passed by the District Magistrate, Mau were approved by the State Government exercising powers under Section 3(4) of the National Security Act.

Soon after the receipt of the representations, the District Magistrate had rejected them on the ground that the detention orders were already approved by the State Government before the representations were received in his office. On 6.10.2020, the representations of the petitioners were rejected by the State Government and the orders were communicated on 7.10.2020. On 13.10.2020, the petitioners were produced before the State Advisory Board through Video Conferencing. The State Advisory Board had submitted its report on 19.10.2020 in accordance with Section 11(1) of the NSA through the Registrar, State Advisory Board. On the basis of the said report, the State Government had confirmed the order of detention under Section 12(1) of the National Security Act on 23.10.2020 and extended the period of detention for further three months.

In the meantime, the Union of India had also rejected the representations of the petitioners and information was given to the petitioners by wireless messages. On 24.11.2020 and 24.2.2021 and lastly on 31.5.2021, the detention orders were extended for three months (each time), making total period of detention being 12 months from 3.9.2020, the date of detention.

5. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State/respondent no. 2, it is stated that the copy of the representations of the petitioners alongwith parawise comments were received in the concerned section of the department of the State Government on 28.9.2020 alongwith the letter of the District Magistrate, Mau dated 24.9.2020. The State Government, thereafter, sent the representations and parawise comments thereon to the Central Government, New Delhi and to the Advisory Board (Detentions) vide separate letters dated 28.9.2020.

6. The argument of learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioners are two folds:- firstly the delay of nine days caused by the District Magistrate in forwarding the representations of the petitioners to the State Government has not been explained and secondly that the satisfaction recorded by the District Magistrate, the detaining authority was not based on any cogent material. It is contended that as per Section 10 of the NSA, the grounds of detention in every case where the detention order has been made under the Act as also the representations, made by the affected person alongwith the report of the officer concerned under Section 3(3) and (4), have to be placed before the State Advisory Board with three weeks from the date of detention of the said person. As per own admission of the State/respondent no. 2, the representations moved by the petitioners on 14.9.2020 were sent to the State Advisory Board on 28.9.2020. The period of three weeks from the date of detention order (3.9.2020) had expired on 24.9.2020. The delay in sending the representations of the petitioners to the State Advisory Board had occurred at the ends of the detaining authority, i.e. the District Magistrate who admittedly had forwarded the representations only on 24.9.2020, the date when the period of three weeks prescribed under Section 10 of the Act was expiring. No explanation is forthcoming as to why the delay of nine days had occurred in forwarding the representations to the State Government. As per the requirement of the Act, the representations submitted by the detenues were to be forwarded to the State Government in such a manner that the entire report submitted by the District Magistrate under sub-sections (3) and (4) of Section 3 of the NSA alongwith the representations of the detenue, if made, are placed before the State Advisory Board by the State Government within the prescribed period under Section 10 of the Act. The unexplained delay at the ends of the District Magistrate has resulted in placing the matter before the State Advisory Board beyond the period of three weeks.

The contention is that the failure on the part of the detaining authority to strictly comply with the provisions of the National Security Act (NSA) has rendered the detention of the petitioners illegal. However, during the pendency of the present petition, the total period of detention (of twelve months) has expired and hence no effective relief can be granted to the petitioners herein. However, as the right of the petitioners guaranteed under Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India has been seriously infringed for the action of the detaining authority, the detention order dated 3.9.2020 is liable to be quashed noticing that the detaining authority has acted in an irresponsible and negligent manner.

7. Reliance is placed on the decisions of the Apex Court in Rajammal vs. State of Tamil Nadu1, Devendra Kumar Goel alias Babua vs. State of U.P.2, Surya Prakash Sharma vs. State of U.P. and others3, Pebam Ningol Mikoi Devi and State of Manipur and others4 and of this Court in Afsar vs. State of U.P. and 4 others5 and Aftab Alam alias Noor Alam alias Hitler vs. Union of India6 on various points dealing with the validity of the detention order. The detail discussion with regard to the decisions placed by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners would be made at the appropriate stage in the judgment.

8. Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and Sri Shashi Dhar Sahai learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Union of India have defended the action of the sponsoring authority, detaining authority, the State and the Central Government.

The counter affidavits on behalf of the respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3 have been placed before the Court to substantiate the stand of the respondents to assert that there was no irregularity much less illegality in the entire decision making process and the detention order having been passed after recording satisfaction of the detaining authority may not be interfered with.

9. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and perused the record, we may, at the outset, note the stand of the respondents in the affidavits filed on their behalf.

The respondent no. 3 namely the District Magistrate, Mau in his affidavit dated 5.2.2021 has submitted that the petitioners/detenues alongwith other accused persons have participated in the violent demonstration against the N.R.C./C.A.A., which was imposed by the Government and in order to restore the peace and to maintain public order, the provisions of the National Security Act (NSA) were imposed.

The Circle Officer, City, Mau, after perusal of the report of the Incharge Inspector, Police Station Dakshin Tola, District Mau where the first information report of the incident dated 16.12.2019 was lodged, recommended for forwarding the said report to the Higher Authority by the communication dated 29.8.2020 addressed to the Additional Superintendent of Police, Mau. The said report was, then forwarded to the District Magistrate, Mau by the Superintendent of Police with his recommendation for taking action under the NSA. The District Magistrate, Mau after considering the entire material and recording his subjective satisfaction had passed the detention orders dated 3.9.2020 invoking power under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act. The grounds of detention alongwith other relevant material were served upon the petitioners/detenues on 3.9.2020 through the Superintendent, District Jail, Mau. The representations of the petitioners/detenues dated 14.9.2020 was received in the office of the District Magistrate on 15.9.2020 and the parawise comments in respect of the representations alongwith the representations were sent to the concerned authority on 24.9.2020.

The contention, thus, is that at the time of hearing, complete record including the parawise comments in respect of the representations of the petitioners were before the State Advisory Board which had granted personal hearing to the petitioners/detenues on 13.10.2020 through Video Conferencing.

It is contended that the petitioners/detenues were making efforts to get bail in the criminal cases lodged against them under the Gangster Act by moving bail applications in the High Court at Allahabad and noticing the material on record and the reports, it was found that the petitioners/detenues had incited the mob to create violence and their action had led to violent demonstration against N.R.C./C.A.A. The act of the detenues was found prejudicial to maintenance of the public order. The provisions of the National Security Act were invoked on being satisfied on the relevant material before the District Magistrate, Mau. In addition to the first information report, the reports of the sponsoring authority also referred to the L.I.U. report wherein serious apprehension were raised regarding possibility of repetition of such type of activity by the detenues, in case, they were released on bail. The detention orders, therefore, cannot be said to be illegal.

10. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State, it is submitted that the State Government had approved the detention orders on 11.9.2020 and the approval order was communicated to the detenues/petitioners within the period of twelve days specified in Section 3(4) of the NSA. The copy of the detention orders, grounds of detention and all other relevant documents received from the District Magistrate, Mau were sent to the Central Government within the period of seven days from the date of approval, i.e. 11.9.2020, as required under Section 3(5) of the NSA. The copy of the representations dated 14.9.2020 alongwith parawise comments of the detaining authority were received in the concerned section of the department of the State Government on 28.9.2020 alongwith the letter of the District Magistrate, Mau dated 24.9.2020. It was then forwarded to the Central Government and the State Advisory Board vide separate letters dated 28.9.2020 itself.

Thereafter, the representations of the petitioners were considered at the ends of the State Government and final order rejecting the same was passed on 6.10.2020. It was immediately communicated to the petitioners on 7.10.2020 thorough radiogram. The State Advisory Board vide letter dated 6.10.2020 had informed the State Government that the case of the petitioners would be taken up for hearing on 13.10.2020 and directed that the petitioners be informed that if they desired, they can appear personally through their next friend. The said information was given to the petitioners on 9.10.2020. Personal hearing was accorded to the petitioners and the State Advisory Board having found sufficient grounds for preventive detention of the petitioners under the NSA had submitted its report on 19.10.2020, which was received in the office of the State Government on 20.10.2020. The report of the State Advisory Board was, thus, submitted within the prescribed period of seven weeks from the date of the detention of the petitioners, as per Section 11(1) of the NSA. Accordingly, the decision was taken by the State Government to confirm the detention orders as per the report of the State Advisory Board on 23.10.2020 in accordance with Section 12(1) of the NSA. It is then contended that in view of the report/recommendation received from the District Magistrate, Mau and after consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case, the State Government, was satisfied that there was requirement of extension of the detention order and hence the extension orders were passed from time to time.

11. The respondent no. 1/Union of India in its affidavit in reply to the averments in the writ petition stated that the representations dated 14.9.2020 of the detenues were forwarded by the Under Secretary, Government of U.P. to the Central Government through the Ministry of Home Affairs on 28.9.2020 and was received in the concerned section in the Ministry of Home Affairs on 7.10.2020. The same was processed on 8.12.2010 and after consideration of the material on record, the representations of the detenues was rejected by the Central Government and information in this regard was forwarded through wireless message dated 19.10.2020.

12. Having perused the stand of the respondents in the affidavits filed by them, it would be pertinent, at this stage, to go through the relevant provisions of the Act namely the National Security Act and the Constitution of India.

Article 22(5) provides that when any person is detained in pursuance of an order made under any law providing for preventive detention, the authority making the order shall, as soon as may be, communicate to such person the grounds on which the order has been made and shall afford him the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order.

Article 22(5) has two facets:- (i) communication of the grounds on which the order of detention has been made; (ii) opportunity of making a representation against the order of detention.

Section 3(2) of the NSA confers power on the District Magistrate to pass detention order under sub-section (2), under authorization of the State Government by an order in writing. Sub-section (4) of Section 3 states that when an order is made under sub-section (3), the officer concerned shall forthwith report the fact to the State Government alongwith the grounds on which the detention order has been made and such other particulars which have a bearing on the matter. The order passed by the officer under sub-section (3) of Section 3 can remain in force for twelve days from the date of the order unless approved by the State Government. The period of 12 days, however, can be extended upto fifteen days if the circumstance as per proviso to sub-section (4) of Section 3 exist. A reading of sub-section (2) of Section 3 shows that the detention order can be passed on satisfaction to be recorded in writing that it is necessary to detain a person with a view to prevent him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order.

The requirement of Section 3, thus, is that:-

(i) The detaining authority shall record its satisfaction to pass preventive detention order; (ii) the detaining authority, if is an officer mentioned in sub-section (3) of Section 4, i.e. the District Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police authorized by the State Government, the detention order would not remain in existence beyond the period of twelve days [fifteen days as per the proviso to sub-section (4)], unless it has been approved by the State Government. (iii) Sub-section (5) of Section 3 states that the order approved by the State Government shall be reported to the Central Government within a period of seven days from the date of approval.

The grounds of order of detention are required to be disclosed to the affected person, as soon as possible, but not later that five days ordinarily and not later than ten days from the date of detention, in exceptional circumstances. On receipt of the communication of the order of detention, the affected person is at liberty to make representation against the detention order to the appropriate Government. The Advisory Board constituted under Section 9 of the NSA is empowered to make a scrutiny of the detention order made under the NSA as also the representation of the affected person.

Section 10 mandates the appropriate Government to place detention order alongwith the representation of the affected person as also the grounds on which the detention order has been made and the comments of the detaining authority to the Advisory Board constituted under Section 9 of the Act within three weeks from the date of detention of the person concerned.

Sections 11 and 12 relates to the report of the Advisory Board and the action taken by the State Government on the said report.

13. Under the scheme of the National Security Act, a deadline has been provided for each stage of the action. The Act mandates that the decision taken at each stage shall be communicated to the higher authority within the time bound period so that there is no delay in the final decision taken by the State Government on the report of the State Advisory Board under Section 12 of the Act. Section 12(2) provides that the appropriate Government shall revoke the detention order and release the person concerned, in case, where the Advisory Board has reported that there is, in its opinion, no sufficient cause for the detention of a person. The appropriate Government, thus, is bound by the report of the Advisory Board constituted under Section 9 of the Act. The reference to the Advisory Board after every decision of the appropriate Government for preventive detention of a person, in each case, within the time prescribed under Section 10 of the NSA, is mandatory. Further the mandatory period within which the detention order alongwith the representation of the affected person has to be placed before the Advisory Board is three weeks from the date of detention of a person.

14. In the instant case, though it could be demonstrated by the appropriate Government (State Government) that the report of the Advisory Board was submitted to the State Government within seven weeks form the date of the detention of the petitioners and action on the said report under Section 12(1) had been taken within the shortest possible time, i.e. three days of the receipt of the report, but the delay in sending the matter to the Advisory Board, i.e. beyond three weeks as against the mandate of Section 10 of the Act has not been explained.

15. From the analysis of the pleadings of the parties, it is evident that the representations of the petitioners/detenues were forwarded by the District Magistrate, Mau alongwith his parawise comments thereon to the State Government on 24.9.2020 and it was then forwarded to the Advisory Board by the State Government on 28.9.2020. By 24.9.2020, three weeks from the date of detention under the orders of the District Magistrate, Mau had expired. Section 10 mandates that the appropriate Government shall place the detention order, the grounds on which the order has been made and the representation, if any, made by the affected person alongwith the report of the officer under sub-section (4) of Section 3 before the Advisory Board, within three weeks from the date of detention of a person. Article 22(5) of the Constitution cast obligation upon the authority making the detention order to afford the earliest opportunity of making representation against the order of detention. The authority under the NSA to consider the representation of the affected person is the Advisory Board constituted under Section 9 of the Act. The preventive detention curtails personal liberty of a person guaranteed under the Constitution of India. It is a constitutional obligation of the Government to consider the representation forwarded by the detenue without any delay.

16. The constitution Bench of the Apex Court in K.M. Abdulla Kunhi and B.L. Abdul Khader vs. Union of India and others State of Karnataka and others7 has held that it is a constitutional mandate commanding the concerned authority to whom the detenue submits his representation to consider the representation and dispose of the same as expeditiously as possible. Though no period is prescribed by Article 22 of the Constitution for the decision to be taken on the representation but the words "as soon as may be" occurring in Clause 5 of Article 22 convey the message that the representation should be considered and disposed of at the earliest.

The observations of the Constitution Bench are to be noted as under:-

"12. xxxxxxxxxxxxxx The words "as soon as may be" occuring in clause (5) of Article 22 reflects the concern of the Framers that the representation should be expeditiously considered and disposed of with a sense of urgency without an avoidable delay. However, there can be no hard and fast rule in this regard it depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case. There is no period prescribed either under the Constitution or under the concerned detention law, within which the representation should be dealt with. The requirement however, is that there should not be supine indifference slackness or callous attitude in considering the representation. Any unexplained delay in the disposal of representation would be a breach of the constitutional imperative and it would render the continued detention impermissible and illegal xxxxxxx."

Relying upon the aforesaid decision, the Apex Court in Rajammal1 has held that the legal position is that if delay was caused on account of any indifference or lapse in considering the representation such delay will adversely affect further detention of the person. It is observed in paragraph '9' of the said decision that it is for the authority concerned to explain the delay in disposing the representation. It is not enough to say that the delay was very short. Even longer delay can as well be explained. So the test is not the duration or range of delay, but how it is explained by the authority concerned.

17. It has been argued before us by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners that taking consideration of the above decisions, in similar situation, the Division Bench of this Court in the above noted decision had held the detention order illegal.

In Afsar5, the delay of nineteen days in deciding the representation was found without explanation. Whereas in Aftab Alam6, the detention order was held illegal on the ground that the representation of the petitioners therein was not placed before the Advisory Board within three weeks as required under Section 10 of the NSA.

In Devendra Kumar Goel alias Babua2, the detention order was held illegal as the representation was placed by the State Government before the Advisory Board after expiry of the period stipulated under Section 10 of the NSA.

18. Further, in State of Rajasthan vs. Talib Khan8, the Apex Court observed that:

"8. ....what is material and mandatory is the communication of the grounds of detention to the detenu together with documents in support of subjective satisfaction reached by the detaining authority."
(emphasis supplied)

In a recent decision in Pebam Ningol Mikoi Devi and State of Manipur and others4, it was considered that Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India mandates in preventive detention matters that the detenue should be afforded the earliest possible opportunity to make a representation against the order. With regard to the importance of delay in preventive detention matters under the National Security Act, the decision of the Apex Court in Union of India vs. Laishram Lincola Singh9 has been noted, wherein following observations had been made:-

"34.....xxxxxxx.... 6. There can be no hard and fast rule as to the measure of reasonable time and each case has to be considered from the facts of the case and if there is no negligence or callous inaction or avoidable red-tapism on the facts of a case, the Court would not interfere. It needs no reiteration that it is the duty of the Court to see that the efficacy of the limited, yet crucial, safeguards provided in the law of preventive detention is not lost in mechanical routine, dull casualness and chill indifference, on the part of the authorities entrusted with their application. When there is remissness, indifference or avoidable delay on the part of the authority, the detention becomes vulnerable.

In paragraph '35' of the said judgment, it was noted that:-

"35. On the specific ground of delay in forwarding the representation under the National Security Act, it has been observed by this Court in Haji Mohammad Akhlaq vs. District Magistrate, Meerut, 1988 Supp (1) SCC 538, that:

"3. ...There can be no doubt whatever that there was unexplained delay on the part of the State Government in forwarding the representation to the Central Government with the result that the said representation was not considered by the Central Government till October 16, 1987 i.e. for a period of more than two months. Section 14(1) of the Act confers upon the Central Government the power to revoke an order of detention even if it is made by the State Government or its officer. That power, in order to be real and effective, must imply a right in a detenu to make representation to the Central Government against the order of detention. Thus, the failure of the State Government to comply with the request of the detenu for the onward transmission of the representation to the Central Government has deprived the detenu of his valuable right to have his detention revoked by that Government."
(emphasis supplied)".

In the said case, unexplained delay of seven days in forwarding of the representation had been found fatal.

19. From the above decisions, it is settled that under Article 22(5), the detenue has two rights; (i) to be informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds on which his detention is based; and

(ii) to be afforded the earliest opportunity of making representation against his detention.

Having considered the mandate of Article 22(5) readwith Section 10 of the National Security Act, we find in the facts of the instant case that the deadline for placing all papers, i.e. the ground of detention, the representation and the report of the detaining authority before the Advisory Board had not been adhered to by the State Government. The non-compliance of the mandatory provision of Section 10 of the NSA renders the detention orders illegal.

20. It is evident that the detaining authority could not explain the delay in forwarding the representations of the petitioners/detenues before the State Government. The explanation of the State Government that report was submitted by the Advisory Board within the prescribed period of seven weeks from the date of detention of the petitioners and thus, Section 11(1) of the Act has been complied with, cannot be treated sufficient explanation to the delay in placing representations before the Advisory Board, after expiry of the period stipulated in Section 10. The maximum period prescribed under Section 11(1) to submit the report by the Advisory Board to the appropriate Government cannot be taken to condone the delay on the part of the State Government, in placing the matter before the Board which in turn had occurred on account of the delay caused at the ends of the District Magistrate, Mau/the detaining authority. The deadline for the action of every authority at every stage of the decision making process has been fixed under the Act in order to meet the constitutional obligation under Article 22(5) of the concerned authority/Government.

21. The stringent provisions of the National Security Act resulting in curtailment of personal liberty of a person guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India have to be strictly complied with. The deadlines have to be strictly obeyed. The delay caused on account of any indifference, slackness or callous attitude of the authority/Government at any stage of the decision making process, if remained unexplained, cannot be condoned. The representation of the detenues in any case, has to be considered at the earliest, as soon as may be, without any delay. In case, the deadline prescribed under the Act at any stage of the decision making process has not been met, it is for the authority concerned to explain the delay, which in turn resulted in delay in disposing of the representation. The delay, however, short it may be requires explanation of the authority concerned. Mere explanation of the State Government, as in this case, that final decision was taken within the time prescribed under the Act is not a justifiable explanation when the liberty of a person guaranteed under Article 22 of the Constitution is involved. The outer limit of seven weeks from the date of detention to submit its report prescribed under Section 11(1) of the Act is for the Advisory Board. But the State Government is mandated under Section 10 of the Act to submit the detention order alongwith the report of the Officer concerned and the representation of the affected person within three weeks from the date of detention. The delay caused in placing the matter before the Advisory Board cannot be condoned for the reason that the Advisory Board had submitted its report within the prescribed period of seven days.

The contention of the respondent no. 2/State Government cannot be accepted as an explanation of the delay caused on the part of the District Magistrate, Mau/respondent no. 3, when no explanation is found in his affidavit.

22. For the aforesaid, on the first ground of challenge itself, the detention orders dated 3.9.2020 are found illegal. However, we would also like to add that while analyzing the second ground of challenge, within the scope of judicial review, considering the orders passed by the detaining authority i.e. the District Magistrate, Mau, we find that the subjective satisfaction recorded by the District Magistrate to arrive at the conclusion of detaining the petitioners is not based on any relevant material which would form an objective criteria to reach at the decision.

23. As per the settled law, though the detaining authority is not obliged to record his subjective satisfaction in the detention order but it cannot record its subjective satisfaction on the irrelevant grounds. The application of mind in a mechanical manner cannot be permitted to be termed as a subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority. It is the duty of the sponsoring authority to collect all the relevant material and place it before the detaining authority upon which the detaining authority has to apply its independent mind to arrive at its subjective satisfaction on the material before it. Sufficiency or insufficiency of the material before the detaining authority cannot be examined by the Court in exercise of the power of judicial review. However, relevancy or irrelevancy of the material before the detaining authority can be seen so as to ascertain as to whether the subjective satisfaction has been recorded on relevant grounds or irrelevant material formed the basis of such a decision.

24. It is also settled that the Court in exercise of judicial review can only examine the correctness of the decision making process and not the decision itself. Judicial review, it may be noted, is not an appeal from a decision but review of the manner in which the decision was made. The purpose of review is to ensure that the individual receives a fair treatment.

25. The question as to whether and in what circumstance an order of preventive detention can be passed against a person who is already in custody had been considered for the first time by the Constitution bench in Rameshwar Shaw vs. District Magistrate, Burdwan & another10.

Considering the said decision in Dharmendra Suganchand Chelawat and another vs. Union of India and others11, it was observed as under:-

"19. The decisions referred to above lead to the conclusion that an order for detention can be validly passed against a person in custody and for that purpose it is necessary that the grounds of detention must show that (i) the detaining authority was aware of the fact that the detenu is already in detention; and (ii) there were compelling reasons justifying such detention despite the fact that the detenu is already in detention. The expression "compelling reasons" in the context of making an order for detention of a person already in custody implies that there must be cogent material before the detaining authority on the basis of which it may be satisfied that (a) the detenu is likely to be released from custody in the near future, and (b) taking into account the nature of the antecedent activities of the detenu, it is likely that after his release from custody he would indulge in prejudicial activities and it is necessary to detain him in order to prevent him from engaging in such activities."

26. In Surya Prakash Sharma3 decided on 9th August, 1994, the Apex Court having considered the above principles had observed in the facts of that case that the grounds of detention therein indicated the detaining authority's awareness of the fact that the detenu was in judicial custody at the time of making the order of detention. However, the detaining authority had not brought on record any cogent material nor furnished any cogent ground in support of the averment that if the detenue therein was released on bail, he might again indulge in serious offences causing threat to public order. The satisfaction of the detaining authority that the detenu might indulge in serious offences causing threat to public order, was not found proper and justifiable.

27. In a recent decision in Pebam Ningol Mikoi Devi4 , it was observed by the Apex Court that the individual liberty is a cherished right, one of the most valuable fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution to the citizens of this country. The observations in paragraphs '3' and '4' of the said decision are relevant to noted hereunder:-

"3. Individual liberty is a cherished right, one of the most valuable fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution to the citizens of this Country. On "liberty", William Shakespeare, the great play writer, has observed that "a man is master of his liberty". Benjamin Franklin goes even further and says that "any society that would give up a little liberty to gain a little security will deserve neither and lose both". The importance of protecting liberty and freedom is explained by the famous lawyer Clarence Darrow as "you can protect your liberties in this world only by protecting the other man's freedom; you can be free only if I am free." In India, the utmost importance is given to life and personal liberty of an individual, since we believe personal liberty is the paramount essential to human dignity and human happiness.

4. The Constitution of India protects the liberty of an individual. Article 21 provides that no person shall be deprived of his life and personal liberty except according to procedure established by law. In matters of preventive detention such as this, as there is deprivation of liberty without trial, and subsequent safeguards are provided in Article 22 of the Constitution. They are, when any person is detained pursuant to an order made under any law providing for preventive detention, the authority making the order is required to communicate the grounds on the basis of which, the order has been made and give him an opportunity to make a representation against the order as soon as possible. It thus, cannot be doubted that the Constitutional framework envisages protection of liberty as essential, and makes the circumstances under which it can be deprived."

On the scope of judicial scrutiny to the decision of preventive detention under the National Security Act, it was observed that there must be a reasonable basis for the detention order, and there must be material to support the same. The Court is entitled to scrutinize the material relied upon by the authority in coming to its conclusion, and accordingly determine, if there was an objective basis for the subjective satisfaction. The subjective satisfaction as observed therein must be two folds:-

(i) The detaining authority must be satisfied that the person to be detained is likely to act in any manner prejudicial to the security of the State or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order.

(ii) The authority must be further satisfied that it is necessary to detain the said person in order to prevent from so acting, i.e. from repealing his action.

The previous decisions of the Apex Court in Fazal Ghosi vs. State of U.P.12 and Shafiq Ahmed vs. District Magistrate, Meerut13 have been considered therein in the following manner:-

"22. Some of the decisions of this Court may be of relevance in determining in what manner such subjective satisfaction of the Authority must be arrived at, in particular on Section 3(2) of the National Security Act. In Fazal Ghosi v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (1987) 3 SCC 502, this Court observed that:

"3..... The District Magistrate, it is true, has stated that the detention of the detenus was effected because he was satisfied that it was necessary to prevent them from acting prejudicially to the maintenance of the public order, but there is no reference to any material in support of that satisfaction. We are aware that the satisfaction of the District Magistrate is subjective in nature, but even subjective satisfaction must be based upon some pertinent material. We are concerned here not with the sufficiency of that material but with the existence of any relevant material at all."

(emphasis supplied)

23. In Shafiq Ahmed v. District Magistrate, Meerut (1989) 4 SCC 556, this Court opined :-

"5.....Preventive detention is a serious inroad into the freedom of individuals. Reasons, purposes and the manner of such detention must, therefore, be subject to closest scrutiny and examination by the courts." (emphasis supplied)

This Court further added:

"5.....there must be conduct relevant to the formation of the satisfaction having reasonable nexus with the action of the petitioner which are prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order. Existence of materials relevant to the formation of the satisfaction and having rational nexus to the formation of the satisfaction that because of certain conduct "it is necessary" to make an order "detaining" such person, are subject to judicial review." (emphasis supplied)

Further the observations of the Apex Court in State of Punjab vs. Sukhpal Singh14 has also been noted in paragraphs '24' quoted as under:-

"24. In State of Punjab v. Sukhpal Singh, (1990) 1 SCC 35, this Court held:

"9. .....the grounds supplied operate as an objective test for determining the question whether a nexus reasonably exists between grounds of detention and the detention order or whether some infirmities had crept in."

(emphasis supplied)

28. It is, thus, settled that the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority has to be based on objective material and any non-existent or misconceived or irrelevant consideration, if forms basis of detention order, the order of detention would be invalid. The inclusion of an irrelevant or non-existent ground among other relevant ground is an infringement of the first right of the detenue guaranteed under the Constitution, to be informed of the grounds on which his detention is based. If the actual allegations are vague and irrelevant, detention would be rendered invalid.

29. In Ramesh Yadav vs. District Magistrate, Etah15, it was observed by the Apex Court that though there is no bar in passing a detention order against a person in custody, however, such an order should not be passed merely to pre-empt or circumvent enlargement on bail in cases which are essentially criminal in nature. There must be "compelling reason" justifying such detention to record satisfaction by the detaining authority that taking into account the nature of the antecedent activities of the detenue, it is likely that after his release from custody he would indulge in prejudicial activities and it is necessary to detain him in order to prevent him from engaging in such activities.

30. In the light of the above legal position, we have perused the grounds of detention and the material relied on by the detaining authority while passing the order of detention. The material which formed basis of passing the detention orders dated 3.9.2020 by the District Magistrate, Mau, i.e. for recording his satisfaction is the report of the Incharge Inspector, Police Station Dakshin Tola, Mau. In the said report, the Incharge Inspector had narrated the incident which occurred on 16.12.2019 from the first information report lodged against 85 named persons including the petitioners herein. The said report in each case is dated 27/28.8.2020 and verbatim the same. While narrating the incident occurred on 16.12.2019, the report of L.I.U. has also been noted to submit that the public order and peace in District Mau had been completely disturbed on account of the said incident. Thereafter, a Beat information dated 27/28.8.2020 in each case had been noted to state that it was reported that the detenues who were lodged in jail had been telling their friends and relatives, who went to meet them in jail that after release from jail, they would repeat the same crime again and the incident this time would be bigger than the last one. It was reported that the veracity of the beat information was verified by the Senior Inspector and it was found correct. A report in this regard had also been noted in the General Diary. This statement of the said report is verbatim the same in the report of each of the petitioners herein.

31. In one of the Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 40 of 2021 (Shaharyar vs. Union of India and 3 others), specific ground has been taken to assail the contents of the Beat information. It has been categorically stated in paragraph '31' of the said writ petition that the averments in the Beat information were totally false and baseless, inasmuch as, during COVID times, no visitors were allowed in the District Jail, Mau. No person in jail was permitted to meet his friends and relatives. It is categorically stated therein that it can be verified that the petitioner therein did not meet any outsider in jail nor any friend and relative of him had visited the jail either on the date mentioned in the beat information or any other date during the COVID period.

32. In reply to this specific averment of the petitioner in the said petition, affidavit of the Deputy Jailer, District Jail, Mau dated 2.2.2021 has been filed.

The reply to paragraph '31' of the writ petition is as under:-

"31. That it is important to mention that in paragraph 12 of the detention order dated 8.10.2020 it is mentioned that the petitioner had stated to his friends and relatives that after the release from jail, he would repeat the alleged crime again, when they have visited District Jail Mau on 2.10.2020. In this regard it is submitted that it is totally false and baseless as firstly during Covid period no visitors were allowed to visit the District Jail Mau to meet with any person in jail nor the friend and relatives of the petitioner had visited to District Jail either on 2.10.2020 or any other date during the Covid period."

A vague assertion has, thus, been made by the deponent of the said affidavit that the facility of telephonic conversation had been provided to the petitioner and his friends and relatives could talk through telephone. However, there is no denial to the fact that the petitioner therein did not meet any of his friends or relatives or talk to them during COVID period.

33. All the petitioners herein were lodged in the District Jail, Mau, so the above facts highlighted in one of the petitions would be relevant for all the detenues. It can be safely inferred that all of the petitioners were not allowed to meet their relatives and friends in Jail due to COVID and the vague assertion of the Deputy Jailer of providing telephone facilities to the prisoners is irrelevant.

34. From the statement of the Deputy Jailer, Mau in the affidavit filed in Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 40 of 2021, at least, it is evident that the incorporation of one of the grounds in the reports of the Incharge Inspector, Police Station Dakshin Tola, Mau based on the Beat information was not on the correct facts. It is evident that the said ground had been added on incorrect facts in the reports so as to influence the detaining authority to record his satisfaction to the effect that the likelihood of the detenues in indulging in prejudicial activities after their release from jail was imminent.

35. We may further note that the above facts make it evident that the detaining authority had proceeded to record his satisfaction without verification of the statement made in the reports of the Incharge Inspector, Police Station Dakshin Tola, District Mau.

It is, thus, clear that the satisfaction recorded by the detaining authority was not based on the objective criteria by application of its independent mind. The incorporation of non-existent and misconceived ground in the material placed before the detaining authority to influence its decision to pass the order of detention, would make the detention order invalid. The flaw in the decision making process in recording satisfaction by the detaining authority without verification of the information supplied to it makes the whole process illegal.

36. Thus, on both the above counts, the detention orders dated 3.9.2020 of the District Magistrate, Mau in respect of all other petitioners herein as also the detention order dated 8.10.2020 to detain the petitioner namely Shaharyar in one of the connected writ petition, passed under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980 are liable to be quashed.

All the writ petitions are allowed.

However, as the detention orders have outlived their life for the fact that the writ petitions could be heard only after the expiry of the maximum period of twelve months as prescribed in Section 13 of the National Security Act, 1980, no other direction has to be issued.

However, it is clarified that the petitioners could not be kept under detention pursuant to the detention orders passed under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980 by the District Magistrate, Mau.

1. By way of this appeal, the appellant has challenged the Judgment and order 29.08.2006 passed by court of Additional District and Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No. 2, Firozabad in Sessions Trial No.211 of 2005, arising out of Case Crime No. 305 of 2004, under Section 376 I.P.C., Police Station Ramgarh, District Firozabad whereby the accused-appellant was sentenced under Section 376 I.P.C. with a sentence of life imprisonment and fine of Rs.2000/- and in event of default of payment of fine, to undergo six months' further imprisonment.

2. The brief facts as per prosecution case are that on 31.12.2004 at about 3:00 p.m., the accused-Nadeem came to the house of complainant and started playing with her five months old daughter and when his wife was busy with her household work he took her daughter to his house. After sometime when his wife did not find her daughter in the house, she went to the house of accused-Nadeem and saw that accused-Nadeem was with her daughter and the daughter was screaming. On the wife's scream the complainant also rushed to Nadeem house. The complainant was one of his neighbours and saw that accused-Nadeem fled away from the spot and while running he was seen by other villagers also.

3. On F.I.R being lodged, the investigating Officer, Nawab Ali tookup the investigation visited the spot, prepared site plan, recorded statements of the witnesses and after completing investigation submitted charge sheet against the accused.

4. The accused being charge sheeted for offence triable by court of session, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the court of session. The court of session summoned the accused who pleaded not guilty to the charges framed and wanted to be tried.

5. The prosecution so as to bring home the charges examined five witnesses, who are as under:-

1.	Kamil	P.W.1
2.	Smt. Razia	P.W.2
3.	Dr. S.P.Rawat	P.W.3
4.	Head Moharir Kuldeep Singh	P.W.4
5.	I.O Nawab Ali	P.W.5

6. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1	F.I.R.	Ex. Ka-4
2.	Written report	Ex. Ka-1
3.	Injury Report	Ex. Ka-2
8.	Charge Sheet Mool	Ex. Ka-6
9.	Site Plan with Index	Ex. Ka-5

7. Heard learned counsel for the appellant, learned AGA for the State and also perused the record.

8. The learned counsel for the applicant has taken us to the record and has submitted that the learned Sessions Judge has misread the testimony of the witnesses and has come to a wrong conclusion. The evidence of the witnesses who were examined by the accused have not been believed. The learned Judge has considered the case with a tainted eyes and has committed gross error of facts. The learned Judge has committed an error of law and fact where by he has not considered the medical evidence being such which shows that a child could not have been subjected to intercourse. It has been submitted that the finding of facts is perverse and requires to be upturned.

9. We would now be shifting to the evidence on record. The provisions of Section 375 read with Section 376 I.P.C reads as follows:-

[375. Rape.- A man is said to commit "rape" if he-

(a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person;

Exception 1.- A medical procedure or intervention shall not constitute rape.

Excpetion 2.- Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.]

"376. Punishment for rape.--

(1)Whoever, except in the cases provided for by sub-section (2), commits rape shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may be for life or for a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine unless the women raped is his own wife and is not under twelve years of age, in which cases, he shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years or with fine or with both: Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment for a term of less than seven years.

(2) Whoever,--

(a) being a police officer commits rape--

(i) within the limits of the police station to which he is appointed; or

(g) commits gang rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may be for life and shall also be liable to fine: Provided that the Court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment of either description for a term of less than ten years."

10. The child was of four months even if we consider the medical evidence it is with the accused. The accused was in good relation with the complainant and his family. The child was 4.5 kg in weight, Dr. S.P.Rawat has conveyed that except the internal parts there was no injuriey.

11. The learned Judge has opined that there was injuries on the private part of the minor. Dr. S.P. Rawat has categorically conveyed that it is not because of sexual intercourse, however these injuries would atleast bring to force that that accused is guilty of commission of a lessor offence.

12. Thus when blood was oozing from the private parts, the facts are very clear on the basis of the injuries which have been found on the private parts of the minor and the fact that findings are corroborated by P.W.-3. We also concur with the same, however looking to the factual scenario and in Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries.". 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low, In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

13. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

14. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system and in the recent and latest judgement of the Apex Court in Manoj Mishra @ Chhotkau Vs. State of U.P. Decided on 08.10.2021 will permit us to punish him for a period of 17 years with all remissions and fine enhanced to Rs. 10,000/- looking to condition of the accused which should be paid to the parents of the prosecutrix who by now must have become major.

15. In view of the above, this criminal appeal is partly allowed.

16. Record and proceedings be sent back to the trial court.

17. If the accused is not want in any litigation, he may be set free forthwith.

18. We are thankful to learned counsel for appellant and learned AGA for the State who have ably assisted the Court.

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302 & 201 - Arms Act,1878 - Section 25 - Murder - Circumstantial evidence - Delayed F.I.R. & discrepancy regarding date of recovery of dead body & number of accused – As per F.I.R. dead body of deceased was found on 20.03.2002 7 thereafter F.I.R. was lodged on 21.03.2002 at about 12.45 P.M. in the noon but P.W.-1 (first informant) stated that the deceased was searched on 20.03.2002 & dead body was found on 21.03.2002 then F.I.R. was lodged - this discrepancy regarding recovery of dead body not explained by the prosecution – Non examination llast seen witness effect - According to prosecution, deceased was taken away from the house by accused & last seen by witnesses, Krishnapal and Sardar Singh - however relevant witnesses Krishnapal and Sardar Singh were not examined by prosecution & no explanation was given for their non-examination which creates doubt upon prosecution story - alleged eye witnesses P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 considered to be unreliable as their names were not mentioned in F.I.R nor their names were told by last seen witness Krishnapal and Sardar Singh to informant - recovery of fire-arm from accused after about 14 days of incident from an open space in absence of any public witness of recovery, is highly doubtful - possibility of murder of deceased by unidentified culprits and false implication of appellants in belated FIR due to enmity - prosecution failed to prove charges by any reliable, cogent and independent evidence to the hilt beyond reasonable doubt - accused entitled to the benefit of doubt. 18. P.W.-11, S.I. Suresh Chandra Gupta was witness of recovery of country-made pistol from accused Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra.

19. D.W.-1, Nahar Singh in his statement has stated in his statement-in-chief that on 19.3.2002 at 7.30 P.M., he was with Mam Chand and Om Prakash and he has not seen any incident at that time, he is a labour, he is resident of the village of the accused person.

20. Heard Sri Desh Ratan Chaudhary and Sri Birendra Singh Khokher, learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

21. Learned Counsel for the appellants contended that appellants have been falsely implicated for murder of Rajendra Kumar @ Raju and further submitted that prosecution case is very weak and is wholly unreliable. Counsel for the appellants submitted that F.I.R. is delayed & there is discrepancy regarding date of recovery of dead body. According to F.I.R. version dead body of deceased was found in the field on 20.03.2002 however F.I.R. was lodged on 21.03.2002 at about 12.45 P.M. in the noon & there is no explanation for this delay. In his deposition P.W.-1 (first information) had improved his case by stating that the deceased was searched on 20.03.2002 & dead body was found on 21.03.2002 then F.I.R. was lodged, this discrepancy regarding recovery of dead body has not been explained by the prosecution. Learned counsels for the appellants further submitted that there is discrepancy regarding number of accused in the F.I.R. the first informant had stated that deceased Rajendra Kumar @ Raju was taken away from his house by Pawan, Sokendra and he was last seen by Krishnapal and Sardar Singh in the Hotel along with Pawan, Sokendra and two other persons, while in his examination-in-chief he had stated only two persons namely Pawan and Sokenda came to his house and taken the deceased with them. In his cross-examination he had stated that he was informed by Krishnapal that Rajendra Kumar @ Raju (deceased) came to hotel alongwith accused Pawan, Sokendra and with their two friends however, P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 alleged eye-witnesses had stated that deceased was at Hotel along with three accused Pawan, Sokendra and Pappu @ Jitendra @ @ Bijendra. P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 had not stated about any other fourth person.

22. The next submission made by Counsels for appellants is that most important and relevant witnesses Krishnapal and Sardar Singh, who are cousin and real brother of first informant and are witnesses of last seen have not been examined by prosecution and no explanation has been given for non-examination of Krishnapal and Sardar Singh.

23. The counsels for appellants further submitted that alleged eye witnesses P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 are unreliable as their names are not mentioned in F.I.R. Krishnapal and Sardar Singh, who were present at Hotel had not stated about the presence of P.W.-2 and P.W.3 in the Hotel. The alleged eye-witnesses PW.-2 and P.W.-3 are resident of same village and their houses are at distance of 200 yards & 400 yards from the house of first informant but they had not disclosed to anyone in the village that they had seen the incident rather they had disclosed about the incident after 4-5 days, the alleged eye witness account is in conflict with medical evidence and there is no explanation of two incised/punctured wounds and postmortem burn injuries of the deceased, the alleged eye witnesses P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 are having grudge with the accused persons on account of election gram Pradhan and they had admitted this fact in their cross-examination counsel for the appellants further submitted that prosecution has failed to prove motive of the incident and further submission was made that Nahar Singh/D.W.-1, who was named as witness in the statement of P.W's- 2 & 3, had stated that he was not there along with mam Chand and Om Prakash, counsel for the appellants further submitted that from the pointing out of Sokendra, a container for keeping petrol was recovered while from the ash which was sent for forensic examination, Kerosene oil was found and not the petrol which proves that prosecution had tried to concoct evidence of alleged statement and with respect to the recovery of country made pistol and live cartridges from the possession of Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra there is no public witness of the alleged recovery and arrest. Counsel for the appellants further submitted that statement of P.W.-6, Dr. Gyanendra Kumar is unreliable as he had mentioned two incised wound on the person of deceased and wound appears to be cavity deep as the second rib below this injury and right lung were found cut in his statement he said that these injuries can be caused by stone having one sharp edge this shows that the medical evidence is in conflict with prosecution evidence.

24. Learned AGA for the State on the other hand supported the impugned judgments and order of conviction by contending that no inordinate delay has been caused in lodging the FIR, recovery memo and recovery of country-made pistol from accused Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra fully make out the case against accused / appellants. Prosecution case is fully proved from statement of P.W.'s- 2 & 3, the appeal has been filed with false and baseless allegations and is liable to be dismissed.

25. Upon hearing learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, we find that 1st informant do not claim himself to be eye witness of occurrence, FIR states that deceased Rajendra Kumar @ Raju along with Pawan, Sokendra along with 2 others was last seen by Hotel owner

Krishnapal and Sardar Singh (younger brother of 1st informant) at the hotel in drunken stage but Krishna Pal and Sardar Singh had not been examined, P.W.'s-2 & 3, Om Prakash and Mam Chand have not been mentioned in the FIR, there is no whisper in FIR about providing of any information to 1st informant by P.W.'s- 2 & 3. According to FIR version, the dead body of deceased was found after search on 20.3.2002 but in his deposition, the 1st informant improved his case by stating that the deceased was searched on 20.3.2002 and dead body of deceased was found on 21.3.2002, this discrepancy has not been explained by prosecution. According to prosecution, deceased was taken away from the house by accused Pawan and Sokendra and in the last seen at Hotel by witnesses, Krishnapal and Sardar Singh, the deceased was seen along with Pawan, Sokendra and two unknown person.

In the cross-examination, P.W.-1 again stated that he was informed by Krishnapal that deceased Rajendra Kumar @ Raju came to his hotel along with Pawan, Sokendra and their two friends while P.W.'s- 2 & 3 had stated that deceased was at hotel along with accused Pawan, Sokendra and Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra but they have not stated about 4th one. It shows that allegations about date of recovery of dead body and number of accused are totally imaginary part of prosecution story in FIR which may not be relied upon in absence of any evidence.

26. Prosecution witnesses Om Prakash - P.W.-2 and Mam Chand- P.W.-3, the alleged eye witnesses of the incident have not been mentioned in the FIR, the witnesses mentioned in the FIR Krishna Pal (cousin of 1st informant) and Sardar Singh (younger brother of 1st informant) have not mentioned about the presence of P.W.'-2 & 3 in the hotel to the 1st informant. It is further material that P.W.'s- 2 & 3 are resident of same village - Gejha and their houses are situated at the distance of 200 - 400 yards from the house of deceased even then P.W.'s- 2 & 3, the alleged eye-witnesses had not told about the incident to any of the villagers including 1st informant rather had told about the incident after 4-5 days. It is further material to state that the statements of P.W.'s- 2 & 3 are in conflict to medical report / evidence as two incised / punctured wounds and burn injuries were found on the body of deceased but in chief as well as in cross-examination of P.W's- 2 & 3, they had stated about fire only. It is further material to state that P.W.-2 in his cross-examination admitted that in the panchayat election, his brother contested for Pradhan against Bijendra, in the same manner, P.W.-3, in the cross-examination stated about accused Pawan, these facts prove that P.W.'s- 2 & 3 had enmity against accused person. From the aforementioned fact, it is fully established that testimony of P.W.'s- 2 & 3, alleged eye-witnesses cannot be relied upon.

27. Another argument of learned counsel for the appellants is that most important and relevant witness of the incident, namely, Krishnapal who is cousin of 1st informant and Sardar Singh, younger brother of 1st informant, witnesses of the last seen and not been examined by prosecution, is very much relevant. It is material to state that non-examination of Krishnapal and Sardar Singh by prosecution is very crucial as they were witnesses of the last seen as such it creates doubt upon prosecution story.

28. In view of the facts and circumstances stated above, we are of the considered view that the prosecution case is based on testimony of alleged eye-witnesses P.W.'s-2 & 3 which is not found reliable in absence of the testimony of witnesses of last seen, Krishna Pal & Sardar Singh whose names were mentioned in FIR but the names of P.W.'s- 2 & 3 were not mentioned in FIR nor their names were told by Krishnapal and Sardar Singh to P.W.-1 as such the prosecution case is doubtful.

29. It is also pertinent to state that with respect to motive of the incident in the FIR, it is alleged that about 15-20 years before, there was quarrel between the family of 1st informant and family of Nauraj & Shauraj (father of accused) in which younger brother of 1st informant received serious injury, due to that enmity the son of 1st informant, has been murdered, however, in the cross-examination, P.W.-1 admitted that dispute of 20 year before was compromised, this admission part is on page-29 of the paper book. P.W.-2 / Om Prakash in his cross-examination had denied about enmity / criminal litigation between the family of the deceased and family of accused Pawan and Sokendra, the relevant part of cross-examination of P.W.-2 is on page no. 33 of the paper book. P.W.'s-2 & 3 in their examination-in-chief had stated that accused Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra was saying just before the incident that you have insulted my sister and abused her also so I will take revenge today. Relevant portion is on page nos. 33 & 35 of the paper book, P.W.-2 & P.W.-3 had introduced another motive rather than set up by P.W.-1in the FIR. Accordingly, motive of the incident had also not been proved by the prosecution.

30. With respect to recovery, it is relevant to mention here that Ext. Ka-7, recovery of plastic jerry can (page nos. 14 to 16 of the paper book) says ½ ltr. of petrol in the jerry can at the pointing out of accused Sokendra while the ash sent for forensic examination says for kerosine oil (page no. 26 of the paper book), this further proves that prosecution concocted the evidence of statement and recovery. The recovery memo of country-made pistol and live cartridges, Ext. Ka-9 (page no. 17 of the paper book) from the accused Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra and his arrest, reveal that there is no public witness of the recovery and arrest, accordingly, recovery of fire-arm from accused pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra after about 14 days of incident from an open space in absence of any public witness of recovery, is highly doubtful and may not be relied upon. Learned counsel for the appellants placed reliance upon paragraph no. 19 of the judgement of the Hon'ble Apex Court, delivered on 8.11.2021 in Criminal Appeal No.2438 of 2010, Bijender @ Mandar vs. State of Haryana.

19. Unmindful of these age old parameters, we find that the Prosecution in the present case has miserably failed to bring home the guilt of the Appellant and Courts below have been unwittingly swayed by irrelevant considerations, such as the rise in the incidents of dacoity. In its desire to hold a heavy hand over such derelictions, the Trial Court and the High Court have hastened to shift the burden on the Appellant to elucidate how he bechanced to be in possession of the incriminating articles, without primarily scrutinizing the credibility and admissibility of the recovery as well as its linkage to the misconduct. We say so for the following reasons:

Firstly, the High Court and the Trial Court failed to take into consideration that the testimony of ASI Rajinder Kumar (PW14) exhibited no substantial effort made by the police for conducting the search of the residence of the Appellant in the presence of local witnesses. The only independent witness to the recovery was Raldu (PW8) who was admittedly a companion of the Complainant.

Secondly, the Complainant (PW4) as well as Raldu (PW8), have unambiguously refuted that neither the passbook, nor the 'red cloth' was recovered from the possession of the Appellant, as claimed in his disclosure statement.

Thirdly, while the Complainant (PW4) negated his signatures on the recovery memo (EX. PD/2), on the other hand, Raldu (PW8) also neither enumerated the recovery memo (Ex. PD/2) in the catalogue of exhibited documents, nor did that he affirm to having his endorsement.

Fourthly, the recovered articles are common place objects such as money which can be easily transferred from one hand to another and the 'red cloth' with 'Kamla' embossed on it, as has been acceded by the Investigating Officer, Rajinder Kumar (PW14), can also be easily available in market.

Fifthly, the recovery took place nearly a month after the commission of the alleged offence. We find it incredulous, that the Appellant during the entire time period kept both the red cloth and the passbook in his custody, along with the money he allegedly robbed off the Complainant.

Sixthly and finally, there is no other evidence on record which even remotely points towards the iniquity of the Appellant.

31. The argument raised on behalf of the appellants with respect to statement of P.W.-6 / Dr. Gyanendra Kumar, Senior Radiologist that the same is not reliable, appears to be correct as P.W.-6 had mentioned injury nos. 3 & 4 in his postmortem report as follows:-

No.3- Incised wound 3x1.5 cm x bone deep right side front upper part of chest II rib cut.

No.4- Incised wound 3x1.5 cm x muscle deep front of chest, 1 cm below sternal notch.

In the internal examination, right lung was also found cut but P.W.-6 has stated that injury nos. 3 & 4 can be caused by one sharp edged stone.

It is material to state that evidence of P.W.-6 is in conflict of prosecution evidence as such the same cannot be relied upon.

31. In view of the discussions made above, we have come to the conclusion that prosecution has failed to prove charges levelled against accused persons under Sections 302/34, 201 IPC and Section 25 of the Arms Act by any reliable, cogent and independent evidence to the hilt beyond reasonable doubt. For the reasons mentioned in preceding para, considering the possibility of murder of deceased by unidentified culprits and false implication of appellants in belated FIR due to enmity and suspicion, it will not be safe to base conviction of appellant on uncorroborated testimony of P.W.'- 2 & 3 and accused appellants are entitled to the benefit of doubt. The learned trial court has acted wrongly and illegally in not considering above mentioned material aspect and believing unreliable and uncorroborated testimony of P.W's-2 , 3 & 6 in holding the appellants guilty. The impugned judgment and order of conviction of appellants and sentence is liable to be set aside and appeal is liable to be allowed.

32. The appeals are allowed and impugned judgment and orders of conviction and sentence are set aside. The accused appellants Sokendra and Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra in Criminal Appeal No.6075/2006 and accused - appellant Pawan in Criminal Appeal No.5482/2006 are acquitted of the charges under Section 302 and 201 IPC and accused-appellant no. 2 Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra in Criminal Appeal No.6075/2006 is also acquitted of the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act.

33. The accused-appellant no. 1 Sokendra in Criminal Appeal No. 6075 of 2006 and accused - appellant Pawan in Criminal Appeal No.5482 of 2006 are in jail. They shall be released from jail forthwith. Accused -appellant no. 2 Pappu @ Jitendra @ Bijendra is on bail and need not to surrender. His bail bond is cancelled.

34. Let copy of this order along with the record be sent to the court below for compliance.
